MUSSOLINI FOR DISARMAMENT ETHIOPIA

Italy Would Dictate Terms of Peace in Conflict

By Associated Press
With the Italian armies in Ethiopia ready for a big drive on Harrar from both the north and south, Mussolini today pressed Paris and London for action on his peace terms.

The Italian Premier's terms include the disarmament of Ethiopia, and Italian protectorate over the eastern half of the country, and an international protectorate over the west central region of the empire.

It is the belief in diplomatic circles in both France and England that the terms suggested would not be accepted by either country.

In the meantime, Italian officials have sought a delay in the enforcement of the League of Nations boycott.

Officials at Addis Ababa have heard rumors of a great battle raging near Webbe, in the Shibeli river sector, but this was denied by the governor of Harrar province, who said that heavy rains were preventing the Italian advance.

COLD SPELL HOLDS ON PREDICTED FROST DID NOT COME; FREEZE NOT FEARED

Although it did not come near freezing last night, this section was well in the grip of winter yesterday and today, and a drizzle of rain has been falling most of the day.

The killing frost which was predicted for last night in the Panhandle did not materialize, much to the delight of cotton farmers, but some fears were expressed that it might freeze.

Weather predictions for today and tomorrow, however, are for warmer weather, so it is hoped that the danger of a freeze is past for this spell.

California Fire Raging

By Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24.—A treacherous wind this morning shifted the direction of the million dollar brush fire for the second time in 12 hours, and drove it racing toward the now deserted Malibu Beach, exclusive motion picture colony, with its scores of beach cottages, threatening its complete destruction.

Scores have been injured in the fire, which has been raging for two days, and the property damage will run into more than a million dollars.

HISTORIC WOOD FROM COUNTY WANTED

To Be Incorporated In An Inlay Map of State

Do you know of a small bit of wood from an historic tree or structure of any kind in the county.

If you do, the instructor of woodworking in the Reagan Senior High School at Houston, would like to have it, for incorporation in an inlay table he is making for exhibition at the Texas Centennial.

The table top is to contain an inlay map of the state, showing each county, and the counties are to be inset with pieces of historic wood from each county represented.

The piece of wood must be not less than an inch and a half square and not less than a quarter of an inch thick, and must be accompanied with a short history of the piece of wood, giving particulars as to what it is or where it came from, etc.

If you have or can secure a piece of this kind from some old structure connected with the early days of Hall County, bring it to the Democrat office and we will see that it reaches its destination.

OLD SETTLERS PLANNING FOR A BIG CELEBRATION IN 1936

WARNING GIVEN AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

Fines to be Imposed On All Violators Traffic Rules

Those who persist in flagrant traffic violations in Memphis will have only themselves to blame when they are hauled before city court authorities to answer for their acts, Bill Huddleston, city chief of police, stated yesterday.

One of the traffic offenses that we are trying to curb at present is that of double-parking, the chief said. For the past few weeks, and especially on Saturdays when traffic here is so heavy that one can scarcely get around the square, the local city officers have been adhering to a policy of warning offenders.

Now, however, those who violate traffic regulations will be given tickets, and they will have to visit the city Mayor to get the matter straightened out.

Double-parking, Chief Huddleston pointed out also includes cases where the driver remains in the car while double parked.

BOYS INSPECT TRENCH SILOS

Students Visit Ewen Farm For Silo Inspection

Ninety members of the vocational agriculture courses of the Memphis High School were conducted by Riley W. Carlton, instructor, to the trench silo demonstration yesterday on the John Ewen farm two miles northwest of Estelline.

About 50 farmers and business men from Estelline and Memphis and some 45 vocational agriculture students from Estelline High School, accompanied by Walter Labay, instructor, were also present at the activities, despite the unfavorable weather conditions.

The trip to the Ewen farm, considered the best balanced farm in all of Hall County, was said to be well worthwhile. Information gained at the demonstration will prove valuable to the future farmers as well as to the present, County Agent James A. Jackson, who attended the gathering, said.

The trench silo on the Ewen farm is one of the largest in this section, being 10 feet wide, eight feet deep and 130 feet in length. The silo is being filled with 140 tons of fresh higer and kaffir.

Reunion Will be Held During the State Centennial

A meeting of the board of directors of the Hall County Old Settlers Association will be held the latter part of this week, to set a date for and plan the details of the Hall County Old Settlers Reunion for 1936.

The reason for the early start on getting things rolling for the next year's reunion, is so that the celebration can be tied in with the Texas Centennial Celebration at Dallas.

The Centennial Association is issuing a directory of Texas celebration to be held next year, during the Centennial, and these will be distributed throughout the nation, in connection with the publicity for the big Dallas exhibition.

By affiliating with the main celebration and getting the benefit of this publicity ex-Hall Countians living all over the country who expect to visit Texas during the Centennial, can arrange their plans so as to stop in this city for the local celebration either on their way to Dallas or on the return trip.

Tentative plans for the 1936 reunion here call for the most elaborate celebration ever held by the old settlers association, with features for the entertainment of the public at large as well as the old timers, and there is a possibility that the occasion may be made one of two days or more duration, with perhaps several interesting features added to the reunion proper.

DISCONTINUE COTTON POOL

Sale of Certificates From Special Pool Is Discontinued

Information was received here this morning by County Agricultural Agent James A. Jackson that sale of certificates out of the special tax exemption certificate Federal pool was discontinued Monday, October 21, and the liquidation of the special pool began on that date.

All certificates pooled from Hall County were placed in the special pool. Certificates from this county listed in the pool some 7,824,511 pounds of cotton, or 18,649 bales, including both the leftover certificates for 1934 and the 1935 certificates.

All the tax forms that have been sold out of the special pool have been sold at five cents per pound, and the unsold portion of the certificates will be returned to producers as soon as possible, County Agent Jackson said this morning.

The wire from C. A. Cobb, director division of cotton, stated in part: "The special pool must be liquidated promptly. Therefore we should know by the first of November just how many certificates have been sold."

This is the point that Hall County cotton producers are most vitally interested in.

Sales out of the regular 1935 surplus tax exemption certificate pool will begin immediately, but the price will be four cents per pound instead of five cents.

A SUGGESTION

WE'RE getting rather tired of these traffic editorials ourselves, but one of our readers suggests a plan for curbing traffic violations, without altering the present fine, which we believe a good one and worth passing on.

He suggests that while the present fine possible under the plan by which the city operates is too large for a first or second offender, that it is by no means too big for third offense or in the case of any chronic offender against the traffic regulations.

He believes that a plan should be worked out by the city, whereby a traffic law violator should be notified on his first and second offense that his or her name should be published as an offender.

Such names would be published in the paper under a proper heading, the city to pay for such space used, which expense would be light.

On the third offense, the violator would be given the fine approved for such cases.

He suggests that a campaign should be preceded by a couple of weeks of publicity, giving the public notice as to just what was planned, and that then sufficient men should be placed on duty to apprehend the traffic violators.

It has been our observation that there is no greater punishment than humiliation, and this plan might do the trick. We believe it is worth trying, anyway.

And, as we have said numerous times before, some such plan is going to have to be put in effect to stop the universal disregard of traffic rules in this city.

The GOLDEN FEATHER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JEAN DUNN, secretary to DONALD MONTAGUE, lawyer, delays her answer when BOBBY WALLACE, young automobile salesman, asks Jean to marry him.

At The Golden Feather night club Jean meets SANDY HARKINS, whose business connection is vague. She also meets LARRY GLENN, federal agent. Larry is trying to locate WINGY LEWIS. Bobby arranges to sell some bonds for Lewis. He sells them to Jean's employer.

A few days later Sandy learns police are looking for him in connection with a robbery. He confides this to Jean and she goes with him to police headquarters to establish an alibi for him at the time of the holdup.

Sandy asks Jean to marry him. She agrees to give him an answer after she returns from a vacation in her home town.

Larry locates some stolen bonds and questions Sonny BOYD, gambler, about them. Boyd confesses he bought them from Donald Montague.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

When Sonny Boyd left Larry Glenn's office that afternoon he hurried back to his cigar store and pool room in the east end, sweating profusely.

Reaching the place, he let himself into his little cubbyhole of an office and sank into his chair with a low groan. He rested his arm on his desk and stared at the opposite wall, heedless of the way his fingers were trembling. Then, noticing them at last, he opened a desk drawer, took out a bottle, and drank a stiff slug. Putting the bottle away, he sat up straight and—having, apparently, come to some decision in his own mind—resolutely pressed a push button. The sallow-faced manager of the pool room came in.

"Tell Turf Arnold to come in," ordered Boyd. The manager went out, and a moment later he ushered in a rather sleepy man whose placid face and old-fashioned steel-rimmed spectacles made him look like anything but the underworld go-between he really was. He looked at Boyd with dull expectancy as the manager went out.

"Turf," said Boyd, "I want you to get word to Don Montague for me. Don't let him know you come from me, see? Don't even mention my name. Just get to him and do this: tell him that Whiskers has traced those Atlas and Iron River bonds to him. Get it?"

Turf Arnold looked at him without curiosity and repeated the message.

"Do I know anything, if he asks me any questions?" he asked.

Boyd shook his head.

"Nothing," he said. "You just got word to give 'em the tip, that's all, and if he asks where you got it you tell 'em nothing. Just that message is all: the G men know that he had those bonds, and they're going to be asking him where he got 'em."

Turf Arnold silently withdrew. Sonny Boyd stared darkly at the closed door, wiped his forehead with a colored handkerchief, took another stiff drink, and said, "Whee-eww!"

Turf Arnold was an excellent messenger. He sought out Donald Montague that evening, gave the message, played dumb at the proper points, and then went away—leaving the lawyer to walk thoughtfully up and down the floor of his library, stroking his chin and frowning meditatively.

The upshot of it all was that Larry Glenn's visit to Montague's office the next morning was not in the least unexpected, although the lawyer did not reveal this fact. He greeted Larry cordially, with just the expectant air that he would have worn if the visit had been a complete surprise, seated him in a comfortable chair, and showed a silver-mounted cigarette box across the desk toward him.

Larry came to the point promptly.

"Mr. Montague," he said, "the Division of Investigation has been working on that bank robbery down in Neola a month and a half ago. Some gunmen stuck up the National Bank down there and made off with cash and securities worth $40,000. The securities were bonds, all duly registered; among them were some $20,000 in Atlas and Iron River gold 5 per cent five hundred dollar denomination. We've been able to trace some of them, and we are informed that $14,500 of them were sold by you during the past week."

He smiled and paused briefly, adding, "Can you tell me anything about it?"

Mr. Montague looked at him with an expression of mild surprise and utter candor.

"Atlas and Iron River gold fives?" he repeated. He wrinkled one eyebrow, as if searching his brain. "I believe I remember—let me have a look at my records, will you?"

"Go ahead," said Larry. Montague went over to a wall safe, drew out some memoranda, and seemed to be studying them thoughtfully for a few moments. Then he nodded, as if to say, "Ah, yes—it's all quite clear now," and returned to his chair.

"You say those bonds were stolen from the—Neola National Bank, was it?" he asked. Larry nodded.

Montague looked at him, pained surprise registered on his face. "Why—it can't be," he said softly. He shook his head slowly, as if contemplating some unnatural and unbelievable mischance.

"I assure you there's no mistake about it," said Larry. Montague smiled.

BEHIND THE SCENE IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. Publicians and Liberty League who have staked out claims late Thomas Jefferson fight from administration Democrats, who intend to resign session of the famed Virginia.

The effort to rope and tie Jefferson as Democratic propaganda already has begun. And Mr. Jefferson has been frequently in every election campaign since the first one, plus President Roosevelt and his agents now call for giving a more conspicuous part in the affair than he has had since removed his corporeal presence from the political scene.

The opposition started, deserted Jefferson and other old American institutions following after false, un-ican gods.

Democrats feel they can Jefferson to offset such propaganda and prove that F. R. J. are brothers under the skin that the New Deal is deep in sound old American doctrine.

Ambassador Claude Bissell, champion keynote, spell and biographer, will be over from Madrid to parade Jefferson around the country keep him out of Republican hands.

Bowers is a leading expert. There's been some talk of giving him a cabinet job, he would have added prestige behind his ballyhoo for the Monticello, but that isn't cars at the moment.

Lobby investigations, often of value, are almost surface-scratching affairs. reason is that the shadow are the most carefully and another is that smart lists had no files which gators can get at.

Sitting in a club card game other night was a veteran builders' lobbyist, most feel and locally famous of his. For years committee investigations have admitted, in admit their inability to "get some on _____." He was explaining how that was.

"I've always told those (other lobbyists) not to write letters. But they always feel have to write the boss about good they are. If you're good, it will show for itself."

"Oh, I accept your word course," he said. "It just seem possible, that's all."

He continued to shake his slowly.

left the sentence unfinished and looked off out the window. He seemed to pull himself to rest. Resting his elbows on his desk, he leaned forward slightly and looked Larry in the eye.

"A rather peculiar story, suppose you hear many," he said, smiling just a little. "It is a young man in this whom I happen to know; he's a friend of my section in fact, and she's a fine woman of whom I am rather fond. It seems the young man is in love with her and to get enough of a stake, really, to be able to marry her. I learned this, by the way, and, by subjecting the young man to a friendly cross-examination—"

"More he paused. He gave up, not of hesitating to choose his words carefully of doing it as a man when he is obliged to tell a truth which will reflect upon another person in whom, heretofore, he had the utmost confidence," he explained, "at the moment of the incident which I am about to describe, I did not know this young man's secretary came to me on a mission and—without some moment."

slight embarrassment—asked me if I could arrange to see the young chap the next day. She said that he had some sort of business proposition to submit to me, and she apologized for bothering me about it. Being, as I said, fond of her—she's an admirable young woman—I consented.

"The next day the young man came in. He was full of enthusiasm, and he had a very odd proposition to make. Briefly it was this:—"

"He had come into possession—or was about to—of these bonds; and it developed that they came originally from a Chicago politician, who had received them, in turn, from a Chicago gambler whose activities were, or rather are, being investigated by the county grand jury out there. The bonds had been registered in the name of the gambler, and if they came on the open market it would reflect seriously on the politician. Therefore—"

He stopped and smiled ruefully. "It's all rather complicated and incredible, isn't it?" he asked. Then he went on:

"At that moment, it seemed, the bonds were being held by a friend of this young man; and this friend—I told you it was complicated—was a friend of the Chicago politician. Now he was hard up; needed money for something or other, and had to cash the bonds. But, being a friend of the Chicago gentleman, he was not willing to put them on the open market. He would sell them only on condition that the person to whom they went would agree to hold them for a month or more, until the furore out in Chicago had died down. Naturally, the ordinary buyer would not care to make any such pledge; therefore, this man was willing to let them go substantially below the market price, as an inducement."

"So that was how it stood. My young friend—I call him that because he seemed such a likeable young chap, and because I somehow feel that I know him quite well, now—he wanted to buy the bonds and sell them, in turn, to me. He offered them to me at $11,500—$11,500 for bonds with a face value of $14,500. Naturally, I assumed that he himself was getting them from his friend for somewhat less. Indeed, he at length admitted as much, and blurted out that the reason he was trying to put through the deal was that he wanted to marry my secretary."

He chuckled in fatherly, man-of-the-world fashion.

"I told him I didn't want to lose her, and I gave him some fatherly advice. Then I asked him about the bonds themselves. He gave me a complete description. I rang up a brokerage house, found out what they were selling for and then, after he had left, I instituted a quiet little investigation into his past and present. Everything I could learn reassured me about him. I assumed that everything was as he had represented it—"

He smiled sadly. "I know," he said. "I was oddly uncritical and trusting. But—well, I liked the boy. I suppose I took it for granted that any intimate friend of Miss Dunn was bound to be all right. . . . At any rate, I bought the bonds, intending to keep them for a few months and then sell them. A week ago I unexpectedly became pressed for money and disposed of them. That's the story."

He paused. Then he said, "I presume you would like to know the young man's name?"

"I know it already," said Larry.

"Bobby Wallace, wasn't it?"

Back in his own office, half an hour later, Larry summoned four of the agents who served under him; Tony LaRocco, former All-America tackle at Notre Dame; Tommy Waters, war veteran; Al Peters, graduate of the New York police force, and Frank Watson, another ex-soldier. Sitting on a corner of his desk, he outlined to them the case of the stolen bonds and the suspicions he entertained relative to Evelyn Brady and her mysterious consorts.

"We can't wait any longer," he said. "We've got to strike. I'm going out to talk to this Wallace, boy and see if I can get a lead from him about the identity of these people who unloaded the bonds on him. Frank, you and Al go down to the Golden Feather, buzz the drivers at the taxi stand outside, and see if you can find out where these people live. Tony, you and Tommy are to get hold of this Art Lanning, who runs the place, put the heat on him, and find out everything he can tell you about them."

"Check in as soon as you learn anything. The moment we find their hangout, we'll raid it!"

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

WANDERING POET OF GERMANY

SECOND to the great Goethe in German literature comes Johann Christoph Friedrich von Schiller, young poetic and dramatic genius. Appointed a surgeon in the army of the Duke of Wurttemberg, in 1780, Schiller turned out his first important drama, and immediately took leave from the army to see the play enacted.

That absence without leave caused the duke to condemn the poet to writing none but medical treatises. But Schiller escaped and began the life of a wanderer. Finally permitted to settle down, he became poet of the theater at Mannheim, in 1783, and then began his production of great dramas and poems. But the wandering spirit was in him, and so on he journeyed until, stricken ill, he stopped at Jena, where he wrote "Wallenstein," considered the finest tragic work in German. Then at Weimar Schiller produced several poems and ended with his most popular drama, "Wilhelm Tell."

Germany honored this great poet and dramatist with a stamp, shown here, one of a series issued in 1926 for the leaders in German literature and music.

LET KIDNEYS FLUSH OUT 3 LBS. A DAY

Clean Out 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes

Nature put over 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters in your kidneys to strain the waste matter out of the blood. Kidneys should pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

When the passing of water is scanty, with smarting and burning, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body may take up some of these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the kidneys to flush out 3 pounds a day. Insist on Doan's Pills.

Memphis-Shamrock Football Game To Hold Sectional Interest This Week

Home-Making To Constitute Theme Of Newest Class

Memphis adult class in Home-making Problems will be organized in the very near future, according to information received from Mrs. Jack Hubbard, instructor of the class. The first meeting of the organization will probably be held next week.

A class has recently been organized in the Plaza community and the first meeting of the group will be held tonight, Thursday, October 24th, at 7:30 o'clock. Ten members have already been enrolled in the class, and a greater number than that will probably be present at the meeting.

The strict theme of the class will be Home-Making Problems, which may include the following subjects: clothing renovation, clothing construction, clothing the pre-school child, child care and development, planning and preparing economical menus, baking, canning, furniture remodeling and home beautification, and table service.

Applicants should remember that the class is free of charge to all students, and is open to all women and girls who are interested in the course.

High School Girls In Musical Play

Singing and dancing choruses for the musical play "Sky High" are composed of High school girls who will appear in the production next Monday night.

"Sky High" is to be given under the auspices of the local American Legion and is directed by Miss Peggy Mullett.

SCHOOL GROUPS JOURNEY TO SHAMROCK

Pep Squad, Band And Drum Corps Will Be at Contest

The High school will be well represented at Shamrock Friday evening when the pep squad drum corps, and band journey to that city tomorrow afternoon. The organizations are planning to afford the Cyclone a great measure of sideline support at the game when the Cyclone squad will tangle with the Irishmen.

All three groups will be transported to the game in local school buses which will be driven by regular route driver. The students will be accompanied and supervised by directors and sponsors, including Mrs. Carl Periman, Miss Mary Forman, Band-director W. C. Milam, and also Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Smyers.

The drum corps, under the direction of Miss Forman, has been practicing every afternoon this week. Several new and fancy drum beats are being learned and the girls hope to give a good performance.

Mrs. Periman has met with the pep squad and worked along with leaders Bobby Clark, Jackie Boren, Mary Catherine Walker and Mary Helen Nelson each afternoon since Monday. A new formation will be given between halves at the Shamrock game, and the effectiveness of the affair will depend on the girls keeping together, and responding to orders quickly.

The school has added several improvements for the use of the pep organizations, has brought a large megaphone for the yell leader, and a new twirling baton to be used by the drum major of the drum corps.

New York Chamber of Commerce executive says "Machines don't grow on trees." On a busy highway, they sometimes appear to sprout from trees or telegraph poles.

New Agricultural Courses Are Being Organized at MHS

The local school system is making preparations and arrangements for the organization of an adult classes for those adults interested in farm problems.

The class to be taught by Riley W. Carlton, instructor of vocational agriculture in the Tigh school, will be open to men and boys interested in subjects concerning farm life.

Among the courses to be offered are classes in poultry production, culling the poultry flock, dairy herd improvement, seed selection, feeding livestock, farm management, and swine production.

The class is to be operated absolutely free of charge to those attending, and will probably be organized some night next week. All men and boys who would be interested in any subjects mentioned above may get in touch with Mr. Carlton or other members of the High school faculty.

Halloween Motif For Club Affair

The "Taste and Baste Club" and the "Future Farmers of America" organization are planning and making preparations for an entertainment to be held Halloween night at 7:00 o'clock at the High school.

The two clubs are sponsored by Mrs. Jack Hubbard, Home Economics teacher, and by Mr. Riley W. Carlton, instructor in the High school's classes in Vocational Agriculture. Both teachers will assist in making the affair a success.

A meeting of the "Taste and Baste Club" was held at noon, yesterday, at which time it was decided to decorate and arrange several class-rooms in the building to carry out the theme of the party.

Those attending the affair will be dressed in costume for the occasion, and will enjoy an interesting program. Home Economics girls will serve the refreshments.

Local Line-up To Include New

The Cyclone squad will to Shamrock this week-end it will meet the Irishmen the lights tomorrow night; will probably largely determine the local squad's ability of winning the championship this season.

The Irishmen outweight home gridsters about 15 to the man, and Coach Walker is relying on his put out a "scrapping" Shamrock boasts an aerial that has proved effective dangerous thus far this season.

Shamrock continued toward the championship section last week when over Wheeler for a 14-0. Both touchdowns were successful passing attacks. McIntire, hefty back, ace for the yardage.

The conference "doped" holds itself in favor of the Irishmen, giving the Cyclone little possibility of victory. The Shamrock eleven does the encounter Friday night. Shamrock-McLean tilt looked forward to as the battle of the district conference.

Coach Walker stated probable starting line-up for week's game would be: center; Bourland; guards; Sanders and McKles; Davis and Malone; Swift and Adcock; halfback, fullback, with Walker quarter-back position.

A spirited game is expected, and the game will arouse the interest of a number of fans than has been seen at games thus far this season. Memphis should be sent by a colorful display of sideline support, since High pep organizations, including pep squad, drum corps, and will be on hand in full strength.

Campus Hi-Lights

By M. D.

I wasn't sure just what had happened last week when I saw so many girls with quite unusual costumes and kitchen utensils around their necks. But it wasn't the circus or any such thing, but the Home Ec Club initiation. Bet they're glad that doesn't happen very often.

Heard the other day that three sophomore girls had taken a sudden, intense liking to Childress—well, well, well!

Wonder what kind of a formation the pep squad will have at Shamrock tomorrow night? Since they are all going in the buses, there will be a crowd there, and I know that the formation will be something new and unusual.

By the way, how about the senior girl's club? That traditional secret (?) club should be getting started soon, maybe, no?

Oh yes, all of you must remember the Legion play to be given soon. Don't miss it 'cause several of our charming seniors are dancing in it. It'll be good!

There's a new photographer in town and many likenesses of well known campus personages may be seen in his gallery. Among them is a picture of none other than our esteemed editor.

Boys, let's turn those green Irishmen very, very blue tomorrow.

Did anyone ever see Dorothy Garner when she wasn't grinning? She is one happy girl, it seems!

Our drum major has a new baton. Her favorite outdoor sport now is twirling it. Suggestions have been made that everyone watch out and be ready to dodge when Jerry comes by.

Let's make our pep rally this week a rousing good one and let our boys know that we're backing them to the last inch. Everyone that possibly can, be sure to go to Shamrock and yell as loud as you can—prove to our boys that we're all for them.

In the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia on the lonesome pine—oh pardon me, I was thinking of something else, this is Texas isn't it.

Ann Craver is very well satisfied with the location of her home on north 10th street. Handy, isn't it Ann?

This cold weather is about to get some of us down, but it will be real football weather. Football doesn't seem like football without a little wind and cold.

Football Sermon To Honor Cyclone

The local First Presbyterian Church will again provide its annual "Football Night" which will be held Sunday, November 17th. The date has been accepted by Superintendent W. C. Davis and Coach Harold Walker.

Dr. John Angus MacMillan will deliver the address, which marks his fifth sermon of that type to be dedicated to local football squads during the time that he has lived in Memphis.

This year's program will bring the football team and the Black and Gold Pep Squad closer into the services, with the pep squad taking part in the singing, and members of the team appearing in the exercises. The address, as usual, will be a typical football sermon.

The affair will be open to students and all others interested. The sermon which precedes the Thanksgiving game, will be filled with figures of speech common in football language, and will be, as usual, a worthwhile service.

Lunatic Fringe Always Danger

"There is a lunatic fringe of drivers who create hazards, for themselves and everyone else, as they rush on their heedless way," said an article in the Ladies' Home Journal for July, 1935. "They are the 5 to 10 per cent of drivers who are responsible for 90 per cent of all accidents."

This "lunatic fringe" has so far shown itself to be 100 per cent deaf to the most elementary principles of reason. Its members know that excessive speed is the most prolific of all causes of serious accidents, and that a collision that would be unimportant at 20 miles an hour will probably prove fatal at sixty—yet they continue to push the throttle through the floorboards. They know that passing on hills and curves is an invitation to the corner—yet so important does time seem to them that they are perfectly willing to risk their necks and their riders to save a few unusually unimportant minutes. They know that weaving in and out of traffic, driving on the wrong side of the road and similar stupid practices, may mean sudden death in one of its most horrible forms—yet they persist in these practices. They know that many accidents, fatal and minor alike, can be attributed to cars in faulty mechanical condition—yet they continue driving many a heap" when its horn is all lights are either glaring or quate, its steering shimmy its brakes are about a stopping device, as the ator.

Result: An annual death that hovers around the mark.

Gang Warfare in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Violent gang warfare has broken out in this city, resulting in the critical wounding of Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Fliegenheimer, the killing of two henchmen, and the wounding of two others last night.

Police are hunting Albert Stern, accused of wholesale hoodlum slayings, and Charles Luciano, called "Manhattan's most powerful gangster." Stern is already wanted for the axe murder yesterday of Louis Amberg.

Schultz was shot down, with a chauffeur and two bodyguards, in a Newark, New Jersey, tavern. The bodyguards, Otto Berman and Leo Frank, died. Another aide, Martin Keempier, was shot as he left a New York barber shop.

Police think that it is possible Luciano's associates decided to massacre the Schultz gang in one sensational coup, and seize control of the New York rackets controlled by Schultz.
