Seek Full Ban On Sending Of Arms To Spain

France Furthers Program To Enforce Neutrality And Tighten Embargo

LONDON, Aug. 27. (AP)—Great Britain and France today sent a joint appeal to all European powers which have not placed embargoes on arms shipments to Spain to do so immediately.

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 27. (AP)—Pope Pius XI was so weakened from worry over the Spanish situation that he was hardly able to rise from the throne at the close of his day.

France was planning to form a committee of all interested powers to coordinate the embargo measures and deal with any further neutrality proposals. Portugal, Germany, Russia and Italy have already joined in the move.

Says Spain Deserted By Those Who Should Help

(By the Associated Press) Indalecio Prieto, leader of the Spanish parliamentary socialist party, denounced France and Great Britain today saying that Spain had been deserted by the very countries which should be her allies in the fight against the spread of European fascism.

He said the neutrality pact would hurt socialist Spain because Germany, Italy and Portugal would sign and then go on supplying arms to the fascist rebels.

Fighting went on in Spain, loyalists announcing a victorious counter-offensive in the Bay of Biscay, moving in on the rebel city of Oviedo. The rebels claimed they were about to capture the important Southern seaport of Malaga.

The United States warned she will insist on freedom of the seas for American shipping, saying Spain has the right to bar merchant vessels unless an effective blockade is applied.

More Than 40 Ships Listed In Air Derby

Names Of Entries Received For Flight Which Includes Stop Here

At least 40 planes will roar into Big Spring around noon Tuesday when the Chatterton air derby makes a refueling stop here, it appeared today.

Only one Texan, Dr. L. O. Wilkerson of Bryan, was listed among the participants. Most of the entries hail from California.

Among those who will compete in the flight are Peggy Salaman, noted English aviatrix, Cecile Hamilton, Hollywood, Calif., flier who stopped here Tuesday enroute to Cleveland, and Katherine S. F. Chung, 25-year old Chinese flier who resides in Los Angeles. She was forced down at Texon two weeks ago while flying to Cleveland.

Miss Ruth Chatterton, movie actress and aviatrix who is posting a $2,000 prize to winners in the derby, passed over Big Spring Wednesday but did not land. With her were Bob Blair, co-pilot, and H. W. Hayward, flight director.

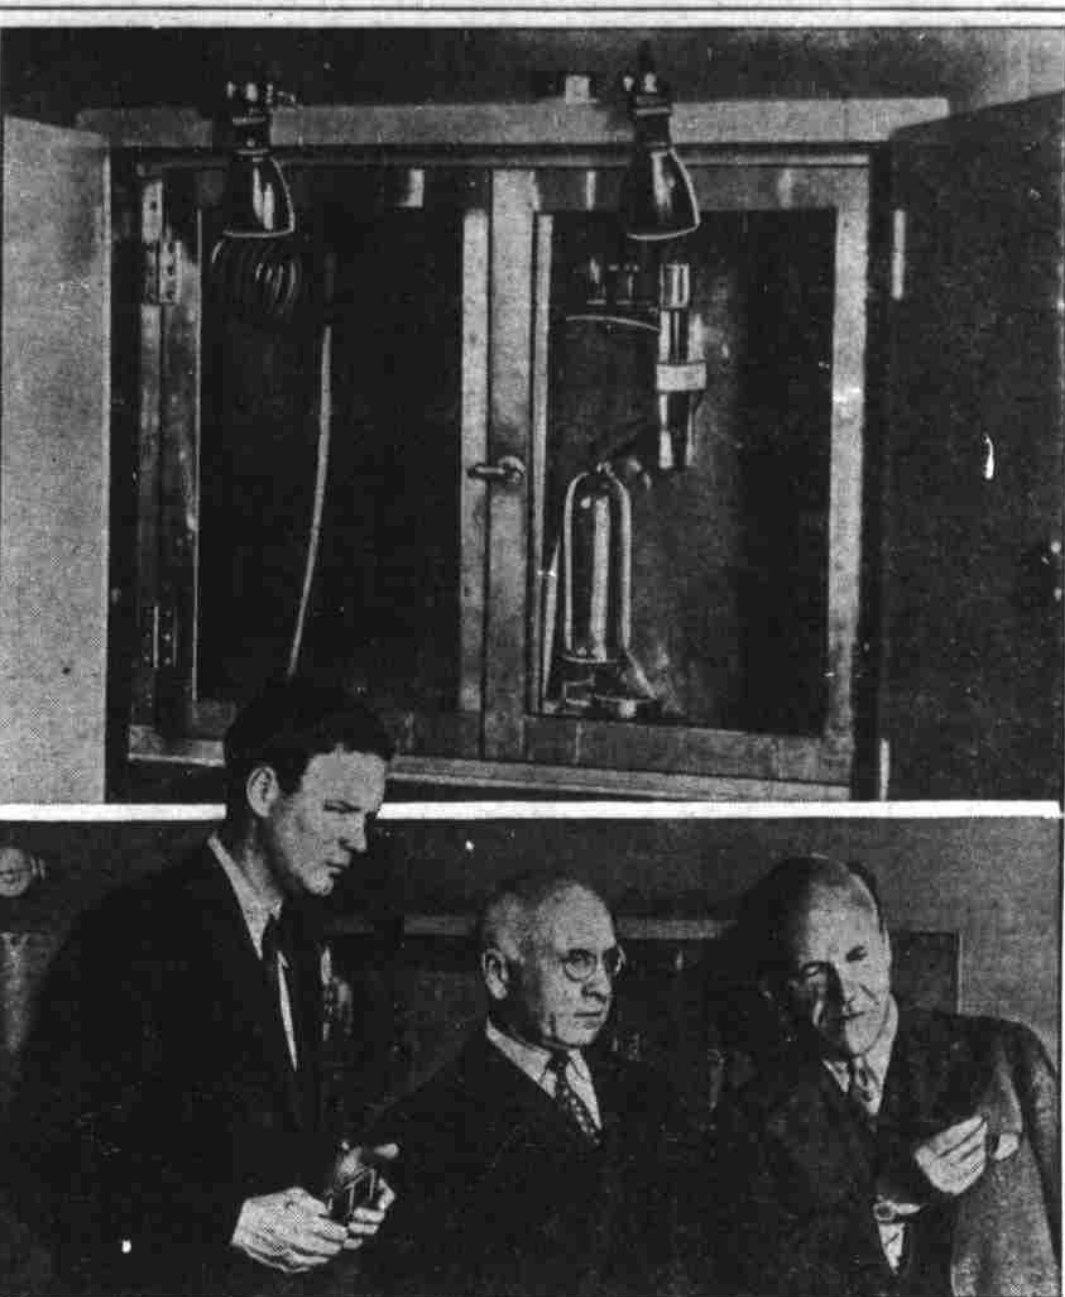

Meanwhile, preparations for entertaining the derby contestants when they stop here Tuesday were being pushed forward. Arrangements for a barbecue were completed and tickets for the affair placed on sale at all drug stores.

The flight is based upon accuracy and safety rather than speed. Pilots compete under safety rules and against time schedules fixed by themselves.

Among those entered and the type plane they fly are: Jeanette Lempeke, Bay City, Mich., Da-

Robber Flees Southward In Stolen Auto

Assistant Cashier Forced To Put Currency In Grocery Bag

SUDAN, Aug. 27. (AP)—A lone bandit robbed the First National bank of Sudan of $2,200 today and escaped, fleeing southward in an automobile.

The robber forced L. L. Anthony, assistant cashier, to put the money in a bag.

Unmasked and clean shaven, the bandit first asked for the bank's president, P. E. Roosen. Informed that Roosen was not in, the bandit waited about a minute and drew a small caliber revolver on Anthony.

Anthony and Mrs. Mozelle Sparks and C. M. Furneaux, teller, raised their hands.

"Be quiet and don't move, and it will be all right," he said.

Shoving a small grocery bag into Anthony's hands, he instructed the assistant cashier, "Well, go up there and scoop it in."

Anthony complied. He said he put in about $1,200 in $20 bills, $500 in $5 bills, $350 in $10 bills, and about 50 one-dollar bills. No silver was taken.

Backing out of the bank, the gun in his right hand and the money in his left hand, the gunman locked the bank door.

Flees Toward Morton He fled southward in a 1934 tudor sedan with yellow wheels. His route was toward Morton, Cochran county.

Twelve miles south of here he could have turned westward to Portales, N. M., east toward Lubbock or could have continued southward.

Advice from Corsicana revealed Thursday afternoon that the car in which the bandit was fleeing was a Ford V-8 stolen there Wednesday.

Complications From Long Illness Fatal To War Secretary

George H. Dern Dies In Washington Hospital

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (UP)—George Henry Dern, 64, secretary of war, died today from heart and other complications resulting from past influenza attacks.

Dern's death came at 11:55 a. m., with six members of his family present.

Orders went to army posts over the country to lower flags to half mast, and to fire mourning guns every half hour after reveille tomorrow.

Burial In Utah The body will be taken to Utah, where four years ago the cabinet member occupied the governor's chair, for burial. Plans for the funeral were not complete.

Secretary Dern's death followed a general physical breakdown originating in a severe attack of influenza five years ago. Since that time he has been subject to recurrent attacks which gradually weakened him. He has been in a hospital here for some time before his death.

President Roosevelt visited the cabinet member at the hospital shortly before departing on his mid-August inspection trip through the New York and Pennsylvania flood areas. Since then the chief executive has received frequent reports on Dern's condition.

Dern started his political career in Utah. He served as governor of that state for two terms before President Roosevelt in 1933 called him to head the war department.

ADVANCE CONTINUES ALONG THE WEST TEXAS FRONTIER

Latest Pioneering In This Section Has Been Quest For Oil

(This is another of a series of features on the background of West Texas' development through the year, based on information compiled in the WFA writers project. The last article of the series will appear in Friday's Herald.)

Just now there is much ado about the "last frontier," as a Centennial attraction. This frontier, presumably, was the advance of heavy pioneer stock upon this then desolate section. It has, fittingly enough, been preserved as history for generations to come.

Still the advance on West Texas frontiers goes relentlessly forward. There are hundreds of these frontiers, but few of them important enough to record an indelible imprint on the order of things. In other words, few of them are of sufficient importance to change the course of events for the section.

The latest frontier, by measure of outstanding contribution to the region, is that of oil development. It is difficult to appreciate properly the part it has played in the expansion of the section because time has not provided an adequate perspective.

Scarcely more than 15 years ago first exploration for oil in this area, since proven as one of the most fertile oil reservoirs in the world, was meeting with success. Even then the wildest dreamer could have fancied nothing of such magnitude which has taken place.

Pay streaks in Mitchell county 2,300 and 2,900 foot levels yielded steady 25-barrel producers in October of 1920 and precipitated a spurge of development in that immediate area.

This, to be sure, was not the first indication of oil in this section of West Texas. A light seepage in 100 foot water wells at Toyah in Reeves county had been observed for a long time. Oddly enough, oil in commercial quantities has never been found in that vicinity.

If ever one man focused attention on general so securely upon a single section, it was S. E. J. Cox. Promoter and schemer though he was, Cox pioneered this latest frontier with all the color and vision of his predecessors who accomplished their work on the range. Long since a forgotten man, Cox must, in ultimate histories of the section, be recognized as playing a great role in the unfolding of the section's possibilities.

His General Oil company, which did most of its work near Big Spring, actually located a small oil supply. The test was promising beyond its possibilities and a result eventually landed Cox in a

Local Court Sets Record

329 Cases Disposed Of In Year, Report Of Clerk Shows

Docket of the 70th district court in Howard county was riddled of 329 cases during 1935, District Clerk Hugh Dубberly will show in his report to the civil-judiciary council.

The report will indicate the largest number of cases ever disposed of in a single year in Howard county district court history.

Responsible for the large total in a great degree is 131 dismissals, 64 of them civil cases and 67 of them criminal cases. Most of these, especially in the criminal division, were perpetual carry-over cases. Of the 36 criminal cases dismissed after having been continued for several years, many many dated as far back as 1900.

Dубberly's report revealed that only six civil cases required a trial by jury during 1935 while 14 criminal cases were heard by a jury.

Of the 135 civil cases disposed of without a jury, 81 were divorce suits. Forty-three criminal cases were tried before the court.

Only a half dozen appeals were made from the court during the year. Four of these were on civil suits and two on criminal trials.

NINETEEN GRIDDERS START TRAINING

Candidates Go Through Light Drill With Gusto

Steer Backfield To Be Light, Line Middle-weight; Brown Schedules Light Workouts In Mornings

It's football time in Big Spring again. Coach George Brown and his Steers of Big Spring high school drew the curtain back yesterday and presented a brief preview of the practice season.

The Steers reported, nineteen strong, and passed and went through a few shifts in a driving dust storm. It wasn't a hard workout by any means, but nineteen tired bovines were glad when it was all over, at least as anxious to return for more.

The grid candidates went through the light workout with vigor and gusto, spirit and enthusiasm, and Coach Brown was far from down-hearted when the day's work was over.

They're nice looking prospects, the Steers, although far from favored to come through with district championship. But on paper and scales the '36 edition appears to be a pretty snappy outfit, and may shade Steer teams of the past few seasons.

Brown does not expect to have more than thirty boys on the squad. Following a class room session, in which he gave instructions for the practice season, Brown sent his charges out to the field for a workout.

For the rest of the week, workouts will be held in the mornings, including Saturday.

Equipment was issued yesterday to the following players: Nelson Henninger, T. G. Henry, Donald Gibson, LeRoy Wood, Weldon Bigony, Robert Hildreth, Jack Wilson, Ray McCullough, Ross Callahan, Gerald Anderson, Chock Smith, Douglas Raiborn, Melvin ing to George Brown. But Brown said Schmidt's basketball instructions were fine.

THE SWEETWATER Mustangs will probably be one of the toughest teams in the district late in the season. San Angelo griders made such an early start they may "burn out" before the race is over.

MIDLAND is adding 1,200 seats at Lackey Field, according to typewriter pounder Jess Rodgers of the Midland Exporter-Telegram. Rodgers also reports that Midland school officials have finally decided to build a press box, and the coop will be modeled after the one here, with maybe a few improvements.

STEER COACHES are up against the old problem of finding a suitable practice field.

'New Giants' Making Mark This Season

'Memphis' Bill Terry Fills John McGraw's Place On Bench

By HARRY GRAYSON NEW YORK, Aug. 27—John McGraw is dead and the Giants of the old days—Matty and Merkle and Bresnahan and Doyle—have passed from the Polo Grounds picture.

But another McGraw team is down there on the dusty diamond fighting in the old McGraw way, fuming and snarling, snatching at every break, overcoming leads, double-playing, stealing, surging swiftly from fifth place to the top in four wild weeks.

It's For Blood, Men! The spirit of the Little Napoleon would not be ashamed to sit scowling now, on the edge of the dugout, barking at the umpires, bossing this team of battling ball players. This is his team that has turned the pennant struggle into a battle for blood that will be waged this year to the last ditch. This would be right down Mac's alley.

But McGraw in the flesh has gone, and in his place is Bill Terry. To say that Memphis Bill fills McGraw's place on the bench quite comfortably may be going a bit too far, but the dark-browed first baseman's friends (and several critics) must give the guy credit. He's learning.

Patience Is Virtue He is learning what McGraw found out many years ago, that patience is more than a virtue, it's a downright baseball necessity, and that you can't make a great pitcher perfect or a fine infielder superior by calling him a quitter.

I shall always remember what McGraw said after Fred Merkle had booted away a championship with a mental blunder in a tight pennant race with the Cubs. The manager of the Giants was asked if he intended to get rid of the unfortunate first baseman.

Even in one of his bitterest moments (McGraw had to lose too) he had not forgotten his first baseman's heroic lull.

The Giants won a pennant in 1933, in Terry's first year of management and went on to win a world's series. Bill's path seemed strewn with roses. But in 1934 the club folded like a lily when the sun set.

The forward wall will be about the usual weight, 165 pounds, with the secondary one of the lightest in Steer history.

Cosden Wins Doubleheader At Colorado

Jake Morgan, Smith Rap Out Homers In 1st Game

By HANK HART COLORADO, Aug. 27—Snuffing out a rally that had given Col-Tex seven runs in the ninth frame, the Cosden Oilers of Big Spring won a free-hitting opening game from the Colorado All-Stars, 15-11, on the Colorado high school field Wednesday night and swept the twin bill by pounding out 15 base hits to take the final, 12-6. The latter game went five innings.

Adapting themselves to the playing conditions of the diamond was difficult, but the Big Springers' crashing base hits told the story in the end. No less than 22 solid base hits careened off the Oiler bats in the first affair, and after find-

Leading the Big Spring assault in the two-game affair was "Rat" Ramsey, diminutive harness man, who came up eight times during the night and rattled out five singles and a two-base blow. Jake Morgan and Jack Smith garnered home runs in the first game, while Horace Wallin had three singles.

A five-run uprising in the opening inning of the second game did the trick for the locals. They added two more in the second, a brace in the third, and capped the scoring parade by counting three in the fourth.

lousy. He'd trade 'em all down the river. Giants Changed It is hard to put a finger on what changed the Giants this year. But it's a fact that the whole team's confidence and ambition have returned. And there has been a marked change in Terry. I'm not going to say he suddenly has become a Florence Nightingale, going among the men, soothing their hurts, counseling, sympathizing. He's still a hard loser, still intolerant of mistakes. I would say that he has learned, however, that ball players can't be vamped up like robots. Ball players get sore arms, their legs crumple. They get head-a-ches, indigestion, hay fever, even as you and I. Terry may have learned something about that through his own infirmity, a torn knee that has forced him to spend much of his time on the bench this year. He is human, subject to the ills that flesh is heir to, just like the rest of the boys. Now, the Giants are fighting with him, not against him, and have recovered the fire that burned down the other teams in the league three years ago. Pitching and Double Plays As a victory after victory goes in to the column, the pitching is improving, and the defense has tightened. That infield of Sam Leslie at first, Burgess Whitehead at second, Dick Bartell at short and Travis Jackson at third is clicking like a clock. The answer is in the double plays in the summaries of nearly every game. Castleman has come up from a slump to pitch shutout ball. Al Smith and Carl Hubbell are showing the others the way as stinging and finishing pitchers. Schumacher has returned to winning stride. Gabler and Fitzsimmons seem to have caught the spirit of the other fingers and are turning in fine games. Seem Headed Fingers The outfield is clouting. Ott has swung his way up among the leaders. Left Fielder Joe Moore is justifying the fans' hope that he would become one of the best in the league some day. Offensively, Jim Rippie, who is doing much of the center-fielding, has been used with news to opposing pitchers, driving in runs when they counted most. Mechanically the team is okay, and with a heady catcher like Gus Mancuso to steady the pitchers, is playing the kind of game McGraw liked on defense as well as at bat. The Giants seem to have found out what it's all about.

BRISTOW AND DOUG JONES IN LUBBOCK GOLF TOURNAMENT

QUAILS ONE OVER PAR AT 9 HOLES

LUBBOCK, Aug. 27. (Sp.)—Oble Bristow, hard-hitting Big Spring golfer, and young Douglass Jones, another Howard county ace, were here this morning ready to qualify for the annual Lubbock country club invitation golf tournament. The grass greens were in good condition, and tourney officials anticipated a fast field of at least one hundred linksmen. Bristow and Jones played practice rounds yesterday afternoon. Billy Bob Coffey, Fort Worth city champion, was also registered, as was Donald Lehman, Abilene hot-shot. Charlie Quails, one of West Texas' veteran golfers, and twice winner of the Big Spring invitation tournament, started his qualifying round early and was one over regulation figures at nine holes. Par is 71.

After Alabama Pitts started a series of professional baseball, he continued in football and basketball.

Budge, Perry May Meet At Forest Hills

Perry Wants To Be First Foreigner To Win US Crown Three Times

By GARDNER SOULE
NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP)—If you didn't know already, you will be interested to learn that the national singles tournament at the West Side Tennis club, Forest Hills, Long Island, starting Thursday probably will be decided in a final round battle between Fred Perry of Great Britain and Donald Budge of Oakland, Calif. It's just that simple. Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, who won the 1935 title and the national No. 1 ranking along with it, is out. Last year Perry, the favorite then as now, suffered a back injury in the U. S. national tournament in a match he subsequently lost to Allison. This year Allison went abroad and returned with a back injury that will keep him out of singles play. Perry, the world's No. 1 racketeer, wants to be the first foreigner ever to win the U. S. national singles crown three times. He romped off with the title in 1933 and '34. Jean Rene Luoste of France won twice, too—in 1928-27. But, as the bounding Briton said when he reached this country on the Queen Mary: "I'm not going to last forever. I might be licked by Don Budge any time." French Players No Threat Perry is just about the only foreigner threat to the American men. France sent over four players but all were unimpressive in the Newport casino invitation tournament. Bernard Destremean is considered the standout among the French. At Newport, he extended Frankie Parker, who might go places in the national himself, but Parker came out of a slump to win. The veteran Jacques Brugnon, one of France's smartest players, lost to Joe Hunt, the 17-year-old Los Angeles star, by a lopsided score. Hunt is aided by Davis cup officials as a worthy compatriot of Don Budge. The blond boy from the west coast announced his presence in no uncertain way in July, when he beat Gregory Mangin, sixth ranking U. S. star, in the Seabright tournament. Hunt immediately was called the finest young prospect in the United States. Mangin insisted the boy had everything, from a bewildering service that curves like a boomerang to a forceful volleying attack. Then hunt proceeded to get himself trimmed in the Seabright finals by John McDiarmid, the Princeton professor from Texas, who had stunned the galleries by eliminating Sidney B. Wood of New York City, the nation's fifth-ranking star. All of this just goes to prove that there are upsets in tennis, just like there are in any other sport. Any man mentioned above (except Allison, who hasn't entered) may come through in the national singles. So, for that matter, might John van Ryn, who pairs with Allison in the U. S. top doubles ranking, or Clifford Sutter, the intercollegiate champion from New Orleans. So might any of the country's ranking players: Bryan M. (Bitty) Grant, Jr., the Atlanta giant-killer, who is third; J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., eighth; Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C., ninth; or C. Gene Mako of Los Angeles, Budge's doubles partner, who ranks eleventh. Art Hendrix or Henry Culey or Bob Harmon or somebody else may surprise, too, but it looks impossible. There is just one more to mention—Bobby Riggs, Joey Hunt's mortal enemy from California. Riggs, like Hunt, is a Davis cup hopeful. He lost to McDiarmid in an early round at Seabright. He's 18, national claycourt champion, and owns a smashing victory over Bitty Grant, earned in the eastern grass court tournament. It's all a hodge-podge. The American stars—those who played on this side of the Atlantic—have been beating each other all summer. Budge and Perry, who have been in Europe, have lost, too, but Perry has shown an amazing inclination to win when it counts, as witness his Davis cup and Wimbledon showings.

Arrange Game With Indians For Oct. 30

Class B Comanche Teams To Fill Steer Football Calendar

George Gentry, high school principal, yesterday announced that he had made tentative arrangements for a game here October 30 with the Class "B" Comanche Indians. That would complete the Steer grid calendar, with five home games carded. Comanche, one of the strongest Class "B" football contingents in the state, plays Brownwood, Breckinridge, and a number of other Class "A" teams in the Oil Belt.

Sturdiant Signs For New Orleans Try-Out

The Permian Basin baseball league, one of the fastest semi-pro leagues in the state, is producing a number of major league prospects. George Sturdiant of Laueasa, first baseman of the Wink team, has been signed by George "Pop" Jackson, scout for the Cleveland Indians and New Orleans of the Southern Association. Sturdiant will report to New Orleans next spring. Joiner and Sorelle of Texon may sign for try-outs. Princeton university looks for its best freshman football team since the class of 1935 first enrolled.

Westmoorland, Sul Ross Play At Marfa On Oct. 10

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 27—The Highland fair at Marfa, official Texas Centennial celebration of the Big Bend country, has been chosen the site of the football game to be played October 10 between Coach George A. Harris' Westmoorland Broncos and Sul Ross State Teachers college.

Harris, who disclosed this information today, is somewhat afraid of the mile-high altitude at Marfa, but thinks his boys will give the teachers a run for their money. The Marfa game should be excellent conditioning for the local Broncos for their tentative contest with the National University of Mexico in Mexico City on November 28.

The only other game ever played between Sul Ross and Westmoorland was a 14-14 deadlock in 1934. The complete Bronco schedule is as follows:

Sept. 25—Southwestern university, Georgetown.
Oct. 2—Victoria Junior college, Victoria.
Oct. 10—Sul Ross, Marfa.
Oct. 17—McMurry college, San Antonio.
Oct. 24—A. & L. Kingsville.
Oct. 31—Schreiner Institute, undecided.
Nov. 14—Randolph Field (tentative), San Antonio.
Nov. 20—Trinity university, undecided.
Nov. 28—National University of Mexico (tentative), Mexico City.
Bill Sweeney, manager of the Portland Ducks, missed the international league batting title last year by failing to hit on his last time at the plate.

Cardinals Win Initial Game

Junior League Softball Playoff Starts; Second Game Today

Playing with only nine men, the Cardinals won the first game of the Jr. league softball playoff Wednesday afternoon by defeating the Hornets, 8-7. The Cards were out-hit, 6-10, by the dangerous Hornet crew, but clouting for extra bases told the story.

Eddie Ball Names Winner

Sightless Negro Good At Guessing Scores In Washington Park

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—The American league statistician never has heard of blind Eddie Ball—but for that matter Eddie Ball never has heard of the American league statistician.

Despite this lack of introductions the sightless negro recently set what he believes is an all-time baseball record—completing 22 years of selling scorecards and guessing scores for the customers at Griffith's stadium.

"In all these years," he draws, "I ain't never made a slip-up in giving the folks their change."

"What about the slip-ups in guessing the score?"

"Only the Lord," he says, "can guess the score right every time."

He Never Moves

Eddie Ball is a Washington baseball institution. The team may be in the collar or atop the park but he is always at the same spot before the game—the main gangway selling cards and predicting the score.

After the first inning the sightless negro retires to the park and witnesses the game through the eyes of others. He never leaves until the last out, and his philosophy is that the home team will win if you think about victory hard enough.

"How can you say before the game that the Senators will win by 4-2?"

The smiles on his kindly face twist into frowns.

"I has a way. It comes to me out of the air."

Calls Newsom's Win

His guesses are wrong, of course, most of the time, but the chances of predicting the winning and losing scores are about equal to drawing 13 cards of the same suit in a bridge game.

He has three great triumphs. He guessed Buck Newsom would beat the Yankees 1-0 on opening day this year.

He predicted Bobby Burke would pitch a no-hit game.

He called the score in the last game of the 1924 World Series with the Giants.

Oddly Eddie Ball has never seen a baseball game. He lost his sight during infancy.

Japanese Football To Be Played On W. Coast

TOKYO, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Japanese brand of football, American intercollegiate style, will be played on the Pacific coast of the United States this winter. The Tokyo Intercollegiate football league announces that an all-star squad chosen from the five universities composing the league will sail for San Francisco after the conclusion of the regular schedule.

Just what opposition will be arranged for the invaders has not been disclosed, but it probably will not come from the big teams of the Pacific coast. Football is still in its infancy in Japan, having first been played here in 1924, and even if the Japanese players knew all the tricks and technique of the gridiron their lack of size still would hopelessly handicap them in competition with the giants.

Tiger Scout Picks Ace In Young Pat Mullen

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Baseball bugs turn out for a good show—The St. Louis Cardinals played to 208,125 people on their third long road trip of the season—The New York Yankees performed before 212,842 on the western trip, during which they virtually clinched the American League pennant—Mickey Cochrane never heard of a player walking into a major league park and making good—The Detroit manager has an idea that he has one in Pat Mullen, however—Mullen, a 17-year-old catcher, dropped in at Navin Field from Flint, where he worked in an automobile plant and caught for an industrial league team—He made such an impression that Aloysius Egan, Tiger scout, went to Grindstone, Pa., to obtain the elder Mullen's signature—Mullen went to work with the Tigers until school reopens next month, and will report to the Beaumont farm in March—The daily double originated at the Canadian track, Connaught park—Shufflin' Phil Collins, who formerly pitched for the Phillies and Cardinals, has of the California, Washington and Oregon university eleven.

Most of the Japanese university stars average less than 100 pounds. A few of the players, California or Hawaii born, have had some high school experience on American soil, but most knew nothing of the game until a year or two ago. Nevertheless they have developed considerable skill in kicking, passing and handling the ball, and have perfected deceit on the attack.

The Tokyo league is made up of five of the biggest private universities in the capital, Waseda, Keio, Hosei, Meiji and Rikkyo. A couple of big colleges in western Japan also are playing the game. The Tokyo league this year will play a round robin schedule extending from October 24 to November 23 and ending with a game between an all-star team and an eleven made up of American residents of Tokyo and Yokohama on Thanksgiving day.

Al Maloney, long connected with football at the University of Southern California, is handling American arrangements for the proposed Japanese gridiron invasion.

The SPORTSMAN

By LARRY BAUER

There are a few men in this day of modern firearms who hunt for sport with muzzle-loading rifles. There are a few gunsmiths who can repair and do barrel work on the old-time weapons.

However, most of the old guns to be found outside museum collections are beyond redemption and are unsafe to fire with the black-powder charge for which they were made. These age-worn weapons are just as dangerous as dynamite none should be used until examined and declared safe by an expert.

There are some of the guns about which haven't been subjected to hard service. For instance, a friend whose wife is an "antique hound" accompanied her to an old farm house and, while rummaging around, picked up a fine rifle of the so-called Kentucky type with the bullet mold and powder flask. A few percussion caps were in the silver-mounted stock.

Fairly Accurate

After collecting much information on loading, powder charges, etc., and after the gun was proven safe, he began firing at targets from a rest and found the rifle surprisingly accurate up to a distance of 40 yards. The size of the ball is near .38 calibre. After this chap started corresponding he discovered there were quite a few "cap-and-ball" enthusiasts extant. One reported he had killed a wild turkey with a similar weapon.

The dove season, which opens soon in northern and central states brings out gunners who in years gone by paid scant attention to the little pigeons. The dove is beginning to rate high as a game bird because of the scarcity of other species. Last year the federal government applied the 3-shot gun rule in regulations for dove shooting and prohibited hunting. Doves Get Around

Experienced sportsmen contend if you score 80 per cent on doves when they have been stirred up and are flying high and wild you belong in the expert class. One of the birds flying fast overhead affords a difficult shot that will test your marksmanship. A light, smooth-gauge gun is best for this kind of wing-shooting because of the fast handling required. A dove can go places in a hurry, and can do a fair job of darting and zig-zagging at times.

John P. Cuono, president of a Berkeley, Calif., archery club, says white experts with the bow can outshoot Indians on the target range, but the redmen can bring down more wild game because they are quicker and have a better way of slinging arrows.

The area of the continental United States is 3,026,789 square miles.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches often blamed on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the blood. A healthy person should pass about 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, waste stays in the body and may become poisonous. It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't let it lay you up.

Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

TEXAS AIDS UNIFORM LEGISLATION

Texas long has co-operated in the program of uniform state laws affecting business and legal affairs interrelated in different states. Judge W. M. Crook of Beaumont, member of the national commission on uniform state laws, has given years of effort to this national movement.

Now, in the recent national election of officers of this commission, and in the increasing demand for uniform statutes conforming to the same federal co-operative laws, there is assurance that the uniform state law movement will be carried forward with greater impetus than ever.

As an example, the Texas statute on negotiable instruments is the law proposed by the commission on uniform state statutes, and is identical with the law in at least half the states. Business firms, concerned with the form and legality of negotiable instruments thus are given a high degree of protection and assurance in business dealings in other states.

Agricultural, social and other co-operative legislation in which state and federal efforts are merged, necessitate similar forms for the laws of each state.

Judge Crook has contributed materially on behalf Texas to the progress of the uniform state code movement.

RESERVING HONORS FOR WEALTHY

Resignation of R. B. Stanford as secretary of state of Texas, to accept a district judgeship paying more than twice the salary, is a commentary on the state's inadequate scale of compensation of its officials, and the need to adopt the constitutional amendments in November slightly remedying a few of the worst examples.

The present salary of the secretary of state is $2,000 per year. Contrasted with this, in past years justices of the peace, sheriffs, county and district attorneys in Texas have received fees and compensation running from $8,000 to $25,000 a year.

In larger counties, official salaries still run to $8,000 and $10,000 a year, and no doubt are earned.

The secretary of state is the ranking member of the president's cabinet. In Texas the secretary of state always has had precedence as the official next to the governor.

The salary of $6,000 proposed on the November ballot for elected state officers such as the treasurer, comptroller, land commissioner, and for the appointive secretary of state, is very low, compared with official salaries in other states, and with the range of compensation for men of the calibre Texas wants for important offices.

A choice Texas will make in November is whether it wants to reserve the honors of high state office to wealthy men, who can afford to pay for the privilege of receiving them. Most citizens will believe the state, which collects and spends $133,000,000 a year, can afford to pay its chief officials a living wage, and open these honors to any worthy citizen, whether wealthy or not.

Despite a presidential election year, Wall street shows signs of stirring out of its long nightmare. The financial pages, of course, indicate the reason. Trading is heavier, money is flowing.

But we'll leave that to the financial writers and look at other phases of the situation. At the depth of the depression, there was no more jittery sight than the street at noon. At Broad and Wall, the heart of the section, each day for years, the agitators and spiers have preached their loud and garbled sermons.

A year ago they attracted such crowds that the entire section was blocked off from traffic. Today they preach only to a small and amused crowd.

Artie McGovern, the able and famous trainer, has invaded the section now. For years, Artie has had a place in midtown to which the great names of sport and business have trooped.

In the glad twenties, when Wall street closed shop around two o'clock, the financiers tramped to Artie's for a little exercise, a Turkish bath and an afternoon nap. But this was cut out when the big drop came and McGovern struggled to keep his place going.

Now he has just finished a busy half-year, and he's working on the most lavish gym in the country. The new one will be in the Wall tower.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT F. ALLEN

ABOARD LANDON CAMPAIGN
SPECIAL—Two things stand out about Gov. Alf Landon's campaign special:

- 1—The lack of noise and commotion.
- 2—The absence of women in his party.

The first is of real significance. The second is largely accidental. The republican presidential nominee is not an anti-feminist. He has women assistants in his office in Topeka.

The quiet orderly efficiency of the Landon train is the reflection of a basic characteristic of the man.

It is also, incidentally, in marked contrast to the confusion and air of tension and excitement that usually prevail on presidential campaign specials.

The governor dislikes turmoil and uproar. He likes to work in an atmosphere of calm and order.

He is not of an excitable temperament. He never gets ruffled—Landon is always poised and collected. This does not mean, however, that he is not capable of explosions. The governor can get angry in a very searing manner.

Friendly, Leisurely Person
But, basically, he is not the explosive type. He works, plays, and talks in a quiet, friendly and leisurely manner.

The scores of party leaders and other guests who accompany the train from state to state are made to feel at ease in a hospitable and homey manner.

Nobody is left alone or permitted to feel slighted. Every guest gets a chance to meet Landon personally and to talk to him for a few moments. The governor does not hold "court" in his private car. He moves through the train, chatting and extending greetings.

He does this without stopping over. Landon is not a back-slapper or baby-kisser. He has a warm, friendly, informal nature, but there is nothing artificial or jazzy about his public manner. Privately or publicly he is the same—quiet, poised, dignified, without being aloof or cold.

People take to Alf Landon instantly in personal contact. There is no "side" to the man.

The candidate is making a big hit with the hundreds of local and state leaders he is meeting on his trip. There is no question that he is giving over big with the men and women who come into personal contact with him.

In his back-platform appearances he is not as effective as he might be and obviously needs more experience at this type of campaigning. Doubtless he will show greater facility on his next trip, as he has displayed marked improvement in his delivery in his last two speeches over the radio.

Hesitant In Speaking
Landon does well in the informal part of the back-platform appearances. His attractive, boyish smile and easy, friendly manner make an excellent impression. But in his brief talks he does not seem to go over.

The governor appears hesitant and not quite sure of what he wants to say.

These talks are only a few minutes' duration and are prepared in advance. Landon does not read them, however, as he does his major addresses. He delivers them extemporaneously and apparently has difficulty remembering them, as his delivery is frequently faltering.

The internal organization of the special train is ably staffed and well managed.

Assisting Landon in greeting and contacting accompanying local leaders are three experienced and talented Kansas politicians, who are old friends of the candidate. They are Lacey Haynes, Kansas correspondent of The Kansas City, Mo., Star; Lester McCoy, Garden City, an automobile dealer and prominent party leader in the western part of the state, and John Paul Jones, publisher of The Lyons Daily, the only democratic paper in the state.

E. Ross Bartley, who was secretary to former Vice President Charles G. Dawes and who handled the publicity of the Chicago world's fair in 1933-35, is in charge of press relations and is doing an efficient and workman-like job.

Mimeographing equipment and personnel are carried on the train and the accompanying reporters are given a stenographic report of everything Landon says within a few minutes after he has finished.

To advise on congressional candidates and to contact these men during their visits on the train, Landon has Cleveland Newton, of St. Louis, assisting him. Newton is a former republican member of the house. Landon is treading a wary path to avoid getting involved in local political tangles—always a dangerous spot for a national candidate.

Avoids Local Issues
Wherever the situation permits and his group of intimate advisers recommends his doing so, Landon says a few words in behalf of a republican candidate. But where the situation is dynamite-loaded he remains silent.

This was markedly noticeable during his visit to his birthplace at West Middlesex. The little town is in the district of Rep. D. J. Driscoll, democrat, who uncovers the "fake telegrams" during last year's bitter fight over the holding company act. Driscoll is being strenuously opposed by utility interests. His republican opponent sat on the platform during Landon's speech, but the latter made no reference to him.

There is a quiet air of confidence among members of Landon's intimate group of advisers.

Privately they indulge in no extravagant claims. They do sincerely believe they have a good chance to win, but they do not belittle their opponent's strength and ability.

What Landon thinks about the possibility of his winning, not even those close to him know. "He never talks about it," they say.

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

A portion of Bander's letter follows:

"In the first place geography and economic groups should have representation as well as population. Harris county having 1,654 square miles and having more or less common economic problems now has five representatives and will get more if the present method is followed. On the other hand, Gaines, Dawson, Yorkum, Terry, Lynn, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock and Crosby counties having 8,530 square miles and quite a diversity in economic problems now have only one representative. The people of Harris county not only have the opportunity of voting for five different representatives but also have five votes in the legislature, while the people in the South Plains counties can vote for only one representative and have only one vote in the legislature. When redistricting comes surely the South Plains counties should get the increase rather than Harris county. The Moffett amendment will enable our West Texas counties to get more representation.

In Other States
"In the second place it is sound democracy to limit the concentration of power and diffuse representation to the rural districts. Over 30 of our states have already done this and have provided in the constitutions for a limitation of representation in the rural districts. The federal constitution likewise, is framed so as to curtail concentration of power in population centers. The president and vice president cannot come from the same state. All states have two senators regardless of population and some states now have more congressmen than their population quotients. The Moffett amendment will likewise make our constitution up to date in this respect and will prevent the undue concentration of power in the big cities.

"In the third place West Texas and other rural districts need more representatives at Austin. Our West Texas territory has 65 per cent of the state's total territory and pays better than 45 per cent of all the money going into the state treasury. Our representation, both appointive and elective, is nowhere near in proportion to our economic importance. We have only 35 per cent of the representatives in the legislature and only 27 per cent of the states elective and appointive officials. We secure but 28 per cent of the state's available school fund, 28 per cent of the elementary budget and around 30 per cent of the appropriation for higher education. The Moffett amendment limiting concentration of power and giving us more representation will enable us to overcome these discriminations."

Too Many Farmers
TORONTO, Ont. (UP)—Farmers have become a "drug on Canada's economic life," W. H. Moore, member of the Canadian parliament, believes. "Canada needs more plumbers, clothing manufacturers, more industrialists," he told the Kiwanis club here.

WTCC Backs Law To Limit Legislators

Says Proposed Amendment Would Give Area Fairer Representation

STAMFORD, Aug. 7.—A letter has been sent out by Manager D. A. Bander of the West Texas chamber of commerce, to all West Texas county judges, mayors, newspaper editors and local chamber of commerce secretaries, calling attention to the fact that the regional organization is supporting the proposed state constitutional amendment that limits the number of representatives from any one county to seven.

Texas voters will vote on the amendment, along with others, in November.

Bander's letter points out that larger cities of the state would gain control of the legislature if the amendment is not adopted.

Man's Identity Is Established By Fingerprints

McALESTER, Okla., Aug. 27. (UP)—The infallibility of fingerprint identification was demonstrated anew in the case of W. L. Birchfield.

Plagued by twinges of conscience, Birchfield admitted his identity as a fugitive for 13 years from the Oklahoma penitentiary. He said he felt "greatly relieved" after confessing to prison officials that he was not Joe Lewis, operator of a bottling works at Hot Springs, N. M.

When he was arrested at El Paso, Tex., he was identified as Birchfield by means of fingerprints. He contended that in his case the fingerprints lied, and that he was not Birchfield. On the strength of the identification he was returned to the prison to complete a 10-year term for robbery.

Birchfield had been assigned to a job in the prison laundry. Warder Roy Kenny said that his violation of leave of absence forfeited his time off from sentence for good behavior.

Here's Artie's theory on his new experiment:
"In '29, those fellows would work for an hour or two a day and then go out and play golf. They don't think that's such a good idea now. They know it's just as important to keep in shape, probably more so because they have to work harder, but they don't want to be away from the office most of the day."

McGovern thinks this is a sensible trend. Men in high places in all walks of life are watching their accounts and their health more carefully. Their sense of values has changed in the last five years, he says.

A New Novel by Marian Sims

Chapter Four DEPARTURE

For almost three weeks the Torrances clung tenaciously to the hope that something would deflect Carol from her plan. And then, when nothing happened to justify their optimism, they accepted defeat with fatalistic equanimity. They saw her to the train in a body, determinedly casual, determinedly gay.

"For Pete's sake don't speak to any traveling men," Pat urged, "or you'll turn out bad."

Carol grinned. "If it's bad enough I'll take it."

They all smiled brilliantly.

Milly protested: "You children sound like a low Broadway comedy," and the description was apt enough to make them laugh.

The train pounded in and painted, anxious to be off. Through trains merely paused at Meredith.

Carol clutched her family, one by one; tried to think of something funny to say, and failed. Nobody said anything, except Pat, who grunted: "Well, keep your nose and ears clean, sugar," just as the train groaned and lurched.

They all smiled, brilliantly. Milly's eyes were drowned, but the smile wouldn't come off. Carol rushed to the nearest window and waved, and the train brushed them fussily aside.

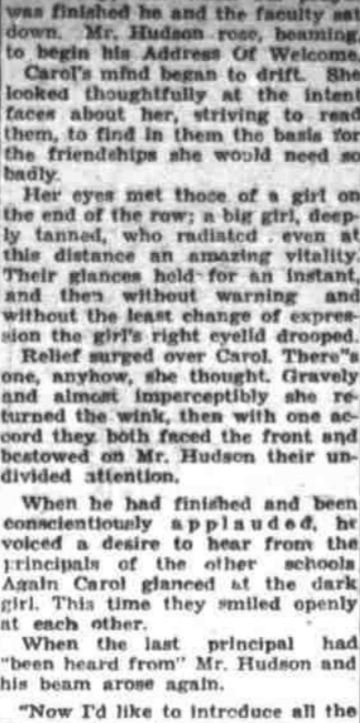

The general faculty meeting was held at ten o'clock Saturday morning in the auditorium of the Ashboro High School. Carol arrived a few minutes early and slipped into a seat on the outer aisle.

She devoted the few minutes to a survey of the battlefield, ticking off her impressions.

The smell of oiled floors, inseparable, apparently, from institutions of learning. College had smelted like this. A subdued soprano buzz like the drone of house flies, with a deeper overtone supplied by the handful of men.

Initials—J. B. S.—on the seat in front of her, carved by a skeptical youth who had no confidence in footprints on the sands of time. A red velvet curtain concealing the big stage; warm, glowing red that had in it a quality of reassurance.

GARFIELD'S HOME A MEMORIAL

This desk, used by President James A. Garfield, has been restored to its old place in the assassinated president's home at Cleveland which was opened as a memorial. Seated at the desk is Janet Garfield, 19, a descendant. Books shown were part of President Garfield's library. (Associated Press Photo)

Brother Alford prayed, lengthily, sonorously, and when his prayer was finished he and the faculty sat down. Mr. Hudson rose, beaming, to begin his Address Of Welcome. Carol's mind began to drift. She looked thoughtfully at the intent faces about her, striving to read them, to find in them the basis for the friendships she would need so badly.

Her eyes met those of a girl on the end of the row; a big girl, deeply tanned, who radiated even at this distance an amazing vitality. Their glances held for an instant, and then without warning and without the least change of expression the girl's right eyelid drooped.

Relief surged over Carol. There's one, anyhow, she thought. Gravely and almost imperceptibly she returned the wink, then with one accord they both faced the front and bestowed on Mr. Hudson their undivided attention.

When he had finished and been conscientiously applauded, he voiced a desire to hear from the principals of the other schools. Again Carol glanced at the dark girl. This time they smiled openly at each other.

When the last principal had "been heard from" Mr. Hudson and his beam arose again.

"Now I'd like to introduce all the new teachers. As your names are called I'll ask you to rise and let me meet you." He began to read from a list before him.

"Miss Mary Ellen Sands, Anderson, Ga. Physical education and English."

Of course she ought to teach physical education. She had the splendid physique and look of fitness of one who respects a healthy body as a priceless gift. She looked at the group with a vivid, friendly smile that uncovered dazzling teeth.

And then Carol realized that her own name was being called: "Miss Caroline Torrance, Meredith, Ga. History and French." She scrambled to her feet.

SEE 5,000,000 EMPLOYABLE IN NEEDED HOUSING PROJECTS

Govt. Estimates Road To Prosperity May Be Through Building Program

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (UP)—The housing industry offers the greatest potential market in history to a nation beating its way out of depression, government experts believe.

The need for more and better housing facilities, and improvement and modernization of existing dwellings, is so vast that economic leaders believe 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 men could be taken from employment rolls and kept at work for ten years in this industry alone.

Government statistics indicate that housing construction offers to the nation now the same ability to lead the way to complete recovery that the automobile industry provided during the 1927-30 decade.

Department of commerce officials estimate conservatively that America needs at least 3,000,000 new dwelling units. Without regard to the need for modernization, this represents a potential market of between $12,000,000,000 and $15,000,000,000.

Plenty of Repairs

In 1934, there were 13,000,000 homes requiring repairs or modernization jobs ranging in cost from $50 to $2,000. The federal housing administration has insured modernization of 2.74 for approximately 1,000,000 of these at an average cost per job of $700. Another 12,000,000 houses still need repairing, counting those which have entered that category since FHA began its work. If these average $200 each, a potential market of $2,400,000,000 exists in the modernization field.

There are approximately 30,000,000 dwelling units in the United States. Every year one per cent of these become obsolete and unfit to be occupied. Approximately 300,000 new dwelling units are needed every year to take care of increased population. The result is that America needs 500,000 new homes a year to keep pace with housing needs.

Construction Drops

That average was maintained during the 1920-30 decade. Then came depression. For the five years 1930-34, new home construction averaged only 16 per cent of the required amount. Families doubled up, and less than 500,000 dwelling units were built during five years in which 2,500,000 were needed adequately to house the population.

In other words, 2,000,000 new homes are needed to return the nation to the 1929 housing level. At least another 1,000,000 are needed to eliminate slums, lift sharecroppers and other poor farmers out of their shacks, and take care of housing needs caused by splitting up of large families as a result of the urban movement.

Obsolescence Increases

Added to this is the fact that the rate of obsolescence, now about one per cent a year, is increasing rapidly. A great majority of the nation's homes were built during the last 40 years. Within the next decade hundreds of thousands of these will require either replacement or major remodeling.

Population trends play a part too. There are more persons 14 years old in this country than in any other age group. As these youngsters approach majority and require need for new dwellings will increase.

The federal housing administration believes that during the next ten years the new homes needed annually will approach the 700,000 mark.

Make Haste Slowly

The present problem of the federal government is to stimulate the housing industry, but gradually. Too rapid an increase in building, government officials point out, would boost prices too high; result in poor construction because of insufficiency of skilled labor.

Shipments Of L'stock Lower

Decline For July, But The Year's Total Still Ahead Of 1935

AUSTIN, Aug. 27.—Live stock shipments from Texas to the Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points during July last year were sharply below those of the like month last year, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research. Total shipments of all classes of livestock, 2,655 cars, were 32.4 per cent below the 3,928 cars shipped during July last year, the bureau reported. Aggregate shipments for the first seven months, 35,407 cars, were, however, still 3 per cent above the 33,454 cars shipped during the corresponding period last year.

Percentage changes in shipments compared with July, 1935, varied widely with the different classes of livestock. Cattle shipments, 1,592 cars, were 44 per cent under the 2,875 cars of July last year.

The hope is gradually to stimulate and increase the housing construction rate until America will be building 1,000,000 new dwelling units a year in 1946.

One housing fault which the government hopes to overcome is that construction costs are relatively too high. The need, experts believe, is to apply mass production technique to housing. The average cost of building a home rose from slightly more than $2,000 in 1909 to about $4,000 in 1934. In sharp contrast, the average cost of automobiles decreased about $1,000 to $675 during the same period by use of mass production methods.

Insurance Aid

Government efforts in the housing field have been varied. The federal housing administration was set up to stimulate credit by insuring loans for new construction or modernization. So far it has insured $500,000,000 worth of modernization loans, and at present is insuring between 25 and 30 per cent of new construction loans.

The public works administration has spent $130,000,000 in slum clearance projects designed to house thousands of families. Similar work for rural areas has been done by resettlement administration in its rehabilitation projects.

658 cars in July last year; calf shipments, 482 cars, 25.6 per cent below the 645 cars a year ago; sheep forwardings, 204 cars, 40 per cent below the 345 cars of July last year. On the other hand, hog shipments, 299 cars, were 212 per cent greater than in July last year, when only 128 cars moved.

"It is probable that the decline in Texas cattle, calf and sheep shipments was largely due to price weakness resulting from distress marketing of these classes of animals in the drought region of the Great Plains," Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the bureau, pointed out. "On the other hand, hog prices have risen sharply in recent weeks and thus stimulated marketings. Only 53 cars of hogs were brought into Texas from interstate points, against 43 cars in July last year.

"Texas cattlemen are obviously in position to hold their live stock from present glutted markets and thus reap advantages both from improvement in quality and increase in price later in the season."

Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants explains Carl Hubbell's winning streak with: "Hub's having a great year because he's more careful. Carl knows that he can't gamble the way he used to."

Federal prison. Trucks and combustion engines then were more or less unproven. At any rate they could not stand the terrific strain of going over sand beds, gullies and rough country to the General Oil No. 1 McDowell. Teams of fine horses were used for that job, and steam engines furnished power for drilling.

Contrast these methods with those of today when powerful motor trucks speed equipment over good roads to the field and have everything needed on hand within a day or two. In most tests either combustion or electric motors furnish power for boring into the earth's crust.

Still exploration continued and in 1929 the Penn field was discovered and on the heels of this event came the location of the Cowden field in North Ector county. In order came the Addis, Harper, Johnson, Goldsmith, Foster and the Dunning-Cummings areas in the same county.

In Andrews County

Although Andrews developed its first oil well in 1929, discovery of the East Texas production and the depression forestalled further work until 1934. Interest was shifted from the Deep Rock pool to a new location which became the Fuhman pool. Humble-Means turned in the largest producer for the county in that year and Andrews was definitely in the oil parade. Next counties to follow were Gaines and Yoakum counties in 1935 and 1936. Gaines, although leased to the limit, has only one well, a gasser, which may be drilled further in

"Let's Sing Again," the first motion picture with little Bobby Breen, known to radio fans through his appearances on Eddie Cantor's programs, is the feature at the Ritz Thursday. Henry Armetta and George Houston have prominent parts in the picture.

Bobby has been acclaimed as the boy wonder of the entertainment field today. Eight years old, he has displayed his talents as a singer for four years. Starting his career in a Toronto night club, he has gained fame on Cantor's radio programs.

Possessed with a remarkable tenor voice, Bobby sings melodies ranging from operatic arias to simple lullabies, and in "Let's Sing Again," he offers classical tunes, folk songs and popular melodies.

In the picture, Bobby is seen as a runaway orphan who is tutored in singing by a show handyman. The story builds with mounting suspense to a climax when the lad is reunited with his father through the medium of music.

Farley To Be In State Next Month; Will Hold Conferences

AUSTIN, Aug. 27.—With the second democratic primary concluded plans for an intensive, state-wide campaign for Roosevelt and Garner were being rapidly shaped up this week, driven for campaign fund-raising for votes, and already there has been much response. Texas realizing the people of this state must help out in the national picture even if Roosevelt is assured of carrying Texas.

James Farley, democratic national committeeman, is expected to be in Texas in September for a round of conferences and will attend the democratic convention in Fort Worth September 8. The Young Democrats will hold a national convocation or conference in Fort Worth and Dallas immediately after the convention, while O. C. Christie, heading the young democratic drive, announces that three sound trucks will be used over the state and that his organization has set out to obtain $50,000 for Roosevelt and Garner's war chest.

Roy Miller, state campaign director, is expected back from New York in a few days where he was called by Farley to take part in a conference of democratic leaders from all over the union. While in the East Miller made this laconic statement:

"Well, I reckon Texas is a doubtful state as the republicans claim. Sure, it is doubtful whether the vote will be seven to one or six to one in favor of Roosevelt."
