Interest Lacking In January Term Of County Court

The January term of county court opened here Monday morning with the lightest civil and criminal docket up for action in many months.

With County Judge M. O. Goodpasture presiding, county court convened Monday; one criminal case was set for trial and five civil cases were set. Court adjourned Tuesday afternoon until next week.

The only criminal case set was that of the state versus J. L. Sims, which was set for Tuesday of the second week. Sims is charged with the possession of untaxed whiskey.

The civil docket set: W. L. Hortonman versus Hollis Boren, a suit for damage, passed to Monday of the second week; The Chicago Portrait Company versus Leo E. FARM LOAN ASSOCIATION HERE LENDS $2,000,000 SINCE 1933

The annual meeting of the Memphis National Farm Loan Association, which was held at Memphis, Texas, Tuesday, January 12, was one of the best meetings in the history of the association, according to M. E. McNally, who was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer of the association for 1937.

Features of the meeting were a report by the secretary-treasurer on the condition of the association, election of directors, general discussion of the advantages of federal loans to farmers and stockmen, and a radio address by A. J. Williams, president of the

WATER GROUP ASKS AID OF LEGISLATURE

Plans Forwarded for Conserving Water In Panhandle

The Panhandle Conservation Association decided last week at a meeting of the board of directors in Amarillo to seek governmental aid in the program to build surface lakes and otherwise conserve water in this section.

The association will seek an initial appropriation by the Texas legislature from the state of $25,000.

Plans for work in the Texas legislature were outlined as 22 counties in the association reported they had raised their first quarterly payment on the organization's $10,000. Most of them handed checks to Carl Hinton, secretary. Hall County is expected to make provision for its share of the amount shortly. County Judge M. O. Goodpasture and County Commissioner Butler Morrison represented Hall County at the parley.

Poll Tax Payment Light For County

Hall County citizens have until January 31 to pay their poll taxes and avail themselves of the opportunity of helping decide city, county, and state policies during the year 1937. The poll tax is $1.75.

Only 242 Hall Countians had paid their poll taxes up until the first of this week, and the county tax collector-assessor does not anticipate more than a total of 1,000 by the January 31 deadline, as stated. There were almost 3,200 poll taxes paid in the county last year.

It was pointed out that there will be a mayor and two councilmen elected this year, and various school trustees over the county will be named. There is also a strong possibility that several state amendments will be voted upon, one of which will probably be on the liquor problem, it is stated.

NOTED MINISTERS SPEAK

Large crowds attended the religious services at the First Methodist Church and the First Baptist Church here last Sunday to hear Bishop H. A. Boaz of Fort Worth and Dr. T. C. Gardner of Dallas speak. A number of churches of this vicinity dismissed services in order that their members might hear the noted speakers.

SHOULD THE SCHOOLS CLOSE?

Why talk about the future of Memphis' commercial and industrial life unless we are going to maintain the institutions that are vital to a progressive city?

Memphis had a great pride in her schools when she built them. Now let's exemplify the same fine spirit by keeping them operating. The financial situation is growing more acute every year. Fewer people are paying their taxes while at the same time the number of pupils are increasing and consequently more teachers are needed. The cost of equipment is steadily going up and more repair work must be done.

The public schools of this city are a cooperative enterprise. Each tax payer is a stockholder in this program. Are we going to close the doors of our schools and place our children out in the streets?

If each tax payer will just do his bit Memphis Public Schools will continue to be the pride of this city. If you cannot pay all of your taxes—pay what you can and have a share in keeping the doors of our schools open.

LAKEVIEW MAN HURT IN AUTO WRECK FRIDAY

Coffman Youth Dies; A. R. Mitchell Is In Hospital

A. R. Mitchell, 41, Lakeview truck driver, was seriously injured in an automobile accident near Fort Worth last Friday night at 11:30 o'clock and a 19-year-old Cottondale youth, Shirley Coffman, was killed outright.

The youth was killed when his automobile and a cattle truck driven by Mr. Mitchell collided on the Northwest Highway two miles northwest of Azle, in Parker County. Mr. Mitchell was on his way to the stockyards in Fort Worth with a load of cattle.

Mr. Mitchell suffered a crushed chest and possible internal injuries and was carried to the Harris Hospital. Two girls with the dead man were also confined to the hospital with head cuts and bruises, unaware Saturday of the death of their companion. One of the girls, a Miss Emma Lowe, was reported to be engaged to Coffman, who was killed.

LOCAL GIRLS ARE HURT IN CAR MISHAP

June Seago and Mary Bess Cole Sustain Cuts About Face

June Seago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Seago, and Mary Bess Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Cole, both students of Memphis High School, received severe artificial flesh wounds in an automobile collision near the Cyclone Football Stadium on the north Memphis highway Wednesday afternoon shortly before 1 o'clock.

The girls were injured when the light coupe driven by Miss Seago and a light sedan driven by P. H. Moore, Wichita Falls bond salesman, collided.

The Moore car was traveling at a high rate of speed and hit the Seago car as the local girl prepared to pull across the highway, a diagram of the wreck as drawn by Sheriff Lindsey Hill, showed.

Both Miss Seago and Miss Cole received deep gashes about the face which required several stitches. They were taken to the Memphis Hospital but were released later in the afternoon. The bond salesman was uninjured, save for being knocked almost senseless by the impact.

Both automobiles were damaged considerably.

Cooperators May Get $350,000 In Grants For Compliance

Hall County cotton producers who cooperated with the 1936 governmental farm program may expect their money from the government not earlier than February 20th, members of the Hall County Agriculture Committee stated yesterday.

Members of the county committee have been steadily at work on the applications for federal grants by cooperators from this county for the past three weeks. A number of alterations must be made before the petitions can be sent in.

It is thought that all details will have been worked out by Saturday or Monday. Assistant Agent A. J. Walker will then take the applications to College Station, and the state farm board will then make the grants. The grants will be mailed to Memphis and farmers will be called in to sign them. Then the forms will be sent back to the state office and checks will be mailed out.

This Section

Swarms of large black crows continue to flock to this section from the north and east, farmers over the county report, and considerable damage has been done by the greedy birds.

So damaging have the crows become that a number of farmers of the Pleasant Valley community stand guard over their stack lots, beating the crows off of the feed with sticks, it is reported.

This year marks the first inroad of the crows to this section. Some have advanced the theory that the crows have drifted into this section from Oklahoma, where they became so bothersome that communities dynamited the crow roosts at night to kill the pests.

Two or three farmers of the county have reported that they had a part of their feed crops in the field when the crows arrived a week or so ago and that the crows ate the feed before it could be harvested.

STILL TENANT AFTER 30 YEARS

(The following article, written by John H. Cauffman of the Resettlement Administration, is timely in that the tenant situation today as it relates to the farm conditions of the South is taking up considerable thought among the nation's legislators. Senator Tom Connally and Congressman Marvin Jones of Texas are pushing a farm tenancy bill in Congress to aid the tenant farmer's problem—Editor's Note.)

Thirty years ago Ed Slayden went as a tenant with his wife and first baby to the Ellis County farm upon which they are still living and are still tenants. During those thirty years, Slayden has paid $21,000 rent. The farm sold recently to the Federal Government for less than half that amount. The Government will sell the farm to Slayden on forty years' time, and he will pay less for it than the rental he has paid during his thirty-year tenancy.

If Congressman Marvin Jones and Senator Tom Connally of Texas and Senator Bankhead of Alabama, backed by the national administration, get their farm tenancy bill through this session of Congress, thousands of tenant farmers in the United States will be offered opportunities similar to Slayden's, as rapidly as the machinery of a land buying and land selling governmental enterprise can lumber into action.

When it undertakes to help Ed Slayden buy a farm, the Government is starting at the easy end of a long, hard line. Slayden has been living on one farm thirty years, but more than half the tenant farmers in this state have been living on their present location only one year or less. Only one in fifteen has "stayed put" for the past four years.

These tenants of the South are reproducing the original American stock faster than any other group in the Nation, and yet lack the stabilized home that we think of as the foundation of Americanism. Eighty per cent of convictions for crime in some counties of the South are among tenant farmers.

These are the sons and grandsons of men who pushed across the Appalachians and the Mississippi, and engraved their message of heroism on the walls of the Alamo. They are pushing on today to California in search of a permanent home and, failing there, are turning back again upon Texas and Oklahoma. Eighty-five per cent of transients in California relief camps are from Oklahoma. Along the Old Spanish Trail they are leaving their mark from San Antonio to the San Joaquin Valley. As they go West, their campfires are marked by empty tin cans. As they come back East, their fires are marked by rabbit skins.

Why is it that Slayden has not bought land, as Slayden's father did? And, equally important, if he had bought would he still own it today?

When Ed Slayden had the money to make a down payment on a farm and chose instead to send his oldest boy to Trinity University, Ed's uncle made an opposite choice. He paid $165 an acre for a farm adjoining that which Slayden rented. He kept it ten years and then had to sell it for $40 an acre, one fourth of what it cost. Across the road from Slayden, another neighbor owned a farm with no debt against it. When cotton was 40 cents a pound, the neighbor mortgaged his debt-free farm to buy another farm next to it. He lost both of them. Slayden's neighbor and his uncle bought at the wrong time. "Hindsight" now makes that clear. But it is also clear that they bought at the only time the average farmer has had enough money to buy since before the great war.

Ed Slayden doesn't have the down payment to make on a farm, as he had in 1920, when he spent it for his son's education. Lack of that will keep him from buying under the usual terms of private agencies. He would have to pay 8 per cent interest for a private loan, which would amount to one half of his cotton crop. The deal payment of 15 per cent, he will enter into a sales contract to pay out both principal and interest at a total of not more than 4.3 per cent annually.

Most of Slayden's neighbors would welcome opportunity of buying a farm under these conditions. Most of them think they could make good. But resettlement has only 1,000 such farms to offer this year, all of these in the South. Only 105 have been bought so far in Texas. Less than one tenth of 1 per cent of tenant families in the South will be chosen—the top one tenth of 1 per cent.

This "demonstrational project" is seeking merely to probe the tenancy wound and find a practical channel through which Federal funds might be invested, for the Nation as a whole, in an effort at cure.

It has taken the resettlement administration a year to get this 1,000-farm demonstration started. How long will it take to establish upon their own land any large percentage of the Nation's 2,860,000 tenants, nearly 3,000 times the number that the resettlement administration has started in a year's time?

In the meanwhile the resettlement administration has been charged with the task of stabilizing farmers who, for the near future, at least, must continue as tenants. Longer leases are being negotiated. Live-at-home farming is being encouraged, along with guidance in "taking what you have and making what you need." To tie a family in one spot, the plan is, help them to improve the place which they had accepted to call home for only a few months. They are more loath to leave the shack where they have chinked the cracks and planted flowers.

Chevrolet Workers Mass To Protest Against Enforced Idleness Caused by Strike

More than 9,000 men, virtually the entire personnel of the Chevrolet Gear and Axle Division of General Motors Corporation, staged a demonstration last week against the strikes which have shut down General Motors plants and thrown out of work nearly 135,000 workers. The demonstration shown above occurred at the main plant of the Division's four units in Detroit. The employees assembled after this demonstration to receive their pay checks, their last pay until the resumption of operations. The employees' committee voted to publicize their opposition to the strike through personal telegrams to Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan and to President Roosevelt. The mass demonstration of protest was held under banners carrying these legends: "We don't want a strike," "We want our jobs back," "We object to minority rule," and "No labor dictators for us." In order to alleviate distress, the Corporation proposes to resume operations on a reduced basis in plants not shut down as a result of these strikes. General Motors product dealers in Memphis and throughout this section are feeling the effects of the strike.

of February, or maybe a little later, before any money is received here," a county committee member stated.

Some delay has been experienced here because of the fact that a large number of farmers made errors when turning in their acreage measurements. The large number of petitions for grants, almost 1,400, has consumed much time.

It was stated that 1,300 or more of those in the county who applied for the money will be eligible. This is a larger percentage of eligibles than most any other county in this area will have.

Estimates have been made that Hall County this year will receive approximately $350,000 for cooperation with the government's soil conservation farm program.

ON WITH THE DANCE

SEVERAL MILLION Americans will join with the President and his family in a happy celebration of his fifty-fifth birthday on January 30. At the same time they will give perhaps as much as a million dollars toward the alleviation of suffering and the attack of science on infantile paralysis. This year Colonel Henry L. Doherty, chairman of the national committee for the President's Birthday Ball for the fourth time, estimates that not fewer than five thousand parties will be given throughout the nation.

Americans in tail coats, Sunday suits, wind-breakers, pierrot costumes, sweaters and overalls; bearded boys, men in the prime of life, war veterans, be-whiskered granddads, the high school basketball team; Fifth Avenue sophisticate and mid-western farm hand alike will twirl the ladies in a waltz, entrance them with a rumba or stomp their way elegantly through a Virginia reel.

American women, dowagers, sub-debs, school teachers, the girls from the five and ten cent store where you meet the million dollar princesses, the Junior Leaguers, artists' models, the ladies of the Browning Club and the girls from across the railway tracks, they will be "among those present" at the President's Parties. Whatever their costumes whether Chanel's dernier cri or a "take me home for $10.95," they will be in themselves sufficient reason for a celebration.

But this year when the industrialist and the cotton picker agree times are better, things are going ahead, this year when there is once again a chance for everyone to earn a good living and look forward to a future for himself and his own people, there is the more cause for festivity. It is time for thanksgiving and a time for further strengthening and consolidating the national well-being. That is why the national committee is not surprised at the early and enthusiastic response for the 1937 parties.

Thirty percent of the funds obtained will be used to forward the work of the men of science who are courageously and persistently seeking methods to strike at the heart of poliomyelitis, to stamp out this enemy of children, and to help those who have been its victims. But seventy cents out of every dollar collected, will be spent locally for the relief of infantile paralysis sufferers. The celebrations will thus represent the spirit of the good neighbor and good American, first benefiting friends and acquaintances and afterward contributing toward the general good.

The President's Birthday Ball this January, as in past years, will be an American gesture, national in scope, altruistic in purpose and gay with the spirit of a young and generous people.

Resettlement Administration School

School days are happy days for children on the Resettlement Administration's Bosque Community Farms Near Albuquerque, New Mexico. The above photo shows the community's civic center and school, recently completed for use by the 42 farm families on the project. In addition to the school rooms, the building has a large auditorium. The Bosque Farms, an irrigation project, is practically complete and the farmers are now making plans for spring planting. This is one of the two Resettlement Community type projects in Region Twelve, the other being located at Ropesville, near Lubbock.

ECONOMIC SITUATION OF THE SOUTH

As It Relates To The Cotton Industry

(Dean W. R. Woolrich, who at the beginning of the current session of the University of Texas became a member of the staff of that institution as head of the College of Engineering, has made a study of the South especially as it relates to cotton, its principal product. In a series of five articles, of which this is the last, Dean Woolrich has analyzed the situation which confronts the people of Texas and other cotton producing states and points out the obstacles to their development and progress.)

Fundamentally, every area of America—whether it is our own backyard, our county, state or Nation—must learn the principles of balancing their income against their outgo. The very moment our income is less than our outgo, our purchasing power is threatened. In our rural counties of America we cannot continue indefinitely expending our principal in the form of soil fertility, of forests, and of mineral resources, and expect to have a suitable area to pass on to posterity.

Our American cities must learn that they have a great responsibility for the rural area in which they are located. In the new order, every city in these rural areas must recognize that they are just as dependent and responsible for the rural community life as those who accept their residence on the farms. Together, the city and rural community must jointly accept the responsibility of raising the standard of rural life. They must pool their interests and resources, adopting the fundamental principle that both city and county are responsible for its development. Together, they should mutually approve the rate schedules for utility services that can economically be carried to the rural homes in the community.

Any city's major responsibility is not in coaxing more people within the boundaries of her city limits, many of whom will eventually have to be cared for by the ever increasing Community Chest demand. That city should be very much more interested in developing her rural areas to have a type of rural home life that will make a city the center of a new type of community civilization that can better withstand the storms of financial depression and re-adjustment in our industrial order.

The South, home of one half of the rural white children of the United States, can feed herself, house herself, and clothe herself if we would coordinate our industry, our markets and our agriculture to keep these home fires burning by producing, processing and preserving instead of aimless buying ourselves into a growing poverty by purchasing from distant sources of supply and paying for it with our natural resources instead of from an earned increment.

If the business men of Texas would direct their efforts towards the conservation and preservation of Texas products and resources, they alone could effect the rise of a new philosophy of exchange to hasten the day when at least 80 per cent of the staple products on the shelves of our merchants carried the insignia that should stand for both high quality and home production—A Lone Star Insignia—Made in Texas. We whose homes and hearts are here in the Southland must recognize that the excessive drainage upon the resources of the South—both material and human—must be brought to an end; that the income remaining in the hands of the people must be increased, that the people of the South must cultivate a higher appraisal of their own trained leadership, omitting state prejudices, and project their pride of heritage into a united, coordinated, regional program of resource development.

Almost to an hour this advertisement appeared in a Seattle newspaper and the body of Charles Mattson was discovered in the woods near Everett, Wash., victim of the kidnaper who stole him from his home 15 days before. The father's words in the ad "In view of lapse of time also desire new proof my son is alive and well"—proved futile.

AAA ANNOUNCES METHODS FOR CATTLEMEN TO BENEFIT FROM SOIL CONSERVATION PROGRAM

The AAA has announced methods by which West Texas cattlemen can participate in the soil conservation program in 1937. Almost $125,000,000 was allotted for all phases of the soil conservation act in 1936 in the South.

All of the practices for which payments are offered were placed in the program at the request or suggestion of representatives of the range-livestock industry in Texas and Oklahoma, Cully Cobb, AAA Southern director, stated.

Payments to an individual ranch will be based on its range building allowance—the largest amount of money that may be earned. It is determined by multiplying the established grazing capacity, determined by county agricultural conservation committees, by $1.50. The AAA explained this capacity as the number of animals which the range will sustain on a 12-month basis without damaging forage and tree growth.

The program's practices and conditions: Re seeding by deferred grazing—for withholding one-fourth of the ranch from grazing for six months beginning May 1, 1937, payment will be 1-3 of ranch-building allowance. For less than 25 per cent, proportionate payments will be made.

Contour Listing—Channels at least eight inches wide and four inches deep, at least three and one-half feet apart, payment 70 cents an acre. Ridging Range Land—At least two per cent slopes at least six feet wide at bottom and at least 10 inches high, 10 cents per 100 linear feet.

Spreader Dams—Payment for material removed, 15 cents per cubic yard. Range fences—Thirty cents a rod.

Fire Guards—Less than four feet wide by plowing furrows or otherwise exposing mineral soil, three cents per 100 feet.

Eradication of prairie dogs—Seven and one-half cents an acre; Kangaroo rats, five cents an acre. Rescuing range land from prick-

Rehabilitation Takes Over Drouth Farmers Dropped from WPA Projects

Special to The Democrat. AMARILLO, Jan. 21.—The Rehabilitation Division of the Resettlement Administration in Region Twelve is now taking over all drouth farmers whose employment on WPA projects has been terminated and who are in need of subsistence aid, R. I. Kimmel, section chief, announced today.

Assuming full responsibility for direct relief to needy farmers in this region, the Resettlement Administration, through the Division of Rehabilitation, has sufficient funds on hand to make direct grants for at least another six weeks.

for such aid to farm families being reported from field supervisors," he continued, "we find a considerable number of farmers needing help who had not previously made application for financial aid."

"Last fall we made emergency seed loans to several hundred farmers. In order to round out that initial aid, these people are now being set up on standard farm plans. Moreover, owing to continued drouth a large number of standard loans, made last spring, are being revised and supplemental loans are being made to provide for the full year's farming operations."

Kimmel called attention to the fact that the Resettlement Administration is prepared to accept applications and develop new farm plans for needy farmers, advising all interested parties to immediately contact their county RA supervisors with full information.

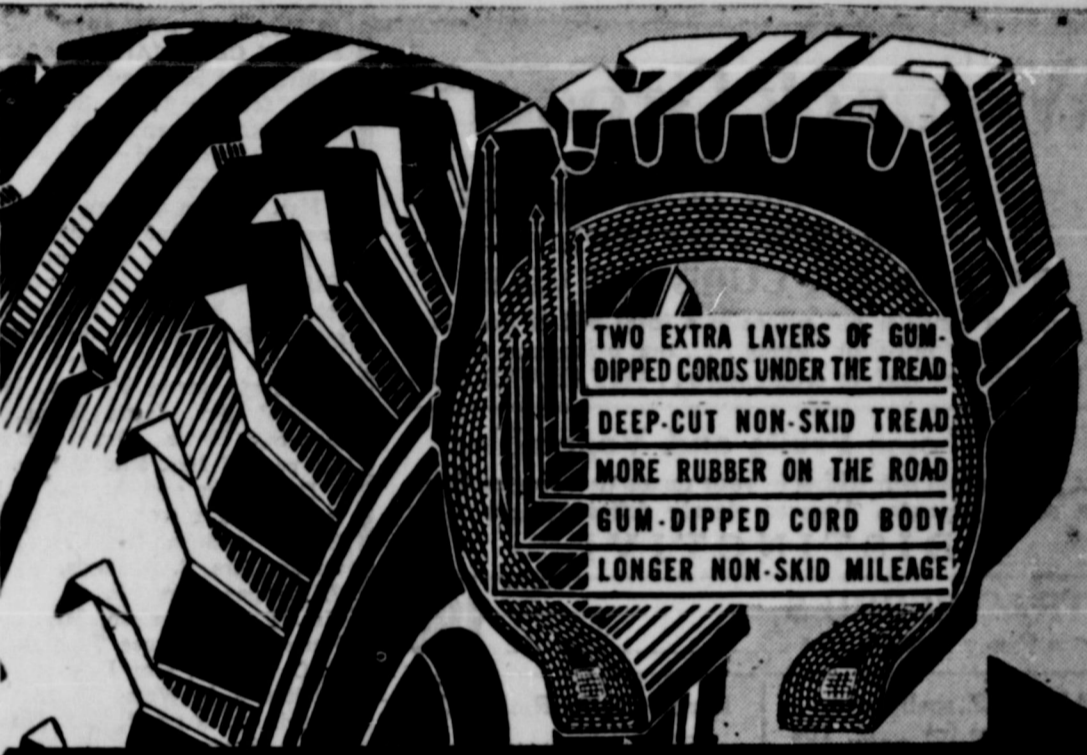

Emphasizing the desire to help clients return to a self-sustaining basis, RA officials are stressing diversified agricultural programs, suitable to the Great Plains area, and pointing toward the elimination of dependence on a one-crop project.
