Crocheted Dress For School

263

By RUTH ORR
 Pattern No. 263

Who was it said, "In time of peace, prepare for war"? Most school children will feel that we are saying the same thing—"In time of vacation, prepare for school." Why bring that up? Well, we're offering this practical dress for the little miss, and if you start crocheting it now you are sure to have it finished by the time school opens. It is crocheted in mercerized knitting and crocheted cotton that is so very durable and inexpensive, and will she be proud when she starts off to school in it! It will ease the strain of starting the old grind again. The pattern is given complete in each of three sizes, 10, 12 and 14 years.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions, with diagrams to aid you; also what crochet hook and what material and how much you will need.

 To obtain this pattern, send for No. 263 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address: Big Spring Herald, Needlework Dept., P. O. Box 200, Station D, New York, N. Y. (Copyright, 1936, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Cocher Norton To Be Back At Work This Week

"Coach Homer Norton has been a very sick man, but the Aggies have the material and will be right in the middle of the Southwest Conference football rose this fall. That was the message brought to local A. & M. "sexes" last night by Doug Rollin, assistant Aggie athletic director. Rollin, visiting here with E. E. McQuillen, secretary of the ex-student's association, discussed the Aggie football outlook for the year and admitted that Head Football Coach Homer Norton has been ill. "Norton has been a very sick man," Rollin said. "He has not been in his office over six days since the first of the year. Doctors ordered him to take a complete rest, and I understand he'll be back at work next week."

ENGINEERS INSPECT HIGHWAY 9 WORK

W. A. French, highway department engineer of the Abilene division, and G. B. Findley, Pease division engineer, were here Friday to inspect work on highway No. 9 in Martin county. The work, although in Findley's district, is being done under the supervision of French's division staff. S. G. Dougherty, resident engineer, said that after today only a one-mile gap would remain between paving in Howard and Dawson counties on No. 9. If the asphalt supply holds out, he predicted that the road would be completed and opened by Saturday evening. Other gap in highway No. 9 south in Glasscock county was being put in shape for finishing Friday. Fields Bros. of Lubbock were at work on grading and drainage structures for the six-mile strip.

CATTLE ARE GRAZED IN SCENIC MT. PARK

Fifty head of cattle are now being grazed in the Scenic Mountain state park for a rental fee of $25 per month, it became known Friday. The money thus obtained, it was said, will be used for watering trees and shrubbery in the park. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Searcy are moving into the caretaker's cottage with the view of opening the concessions building soon, it was announced. Mitchell Reed, who has been engaged for six months as watchman for the park, will continue in charge of the park proper.

COUGHLIN ACTIVITIES NOT DISCUSSED BY POPE, BISHOP SAYS

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, July 31. (AP)—Bishop Michael Gallagher of Detroit said today that Father Charles E. Coughlin's political activity was "not brought up or discussed" during his audience with Pope Pius. Reports had been circulated since the bishop's departure from America that he would report to the Pope regarding Coughlin's part in the presidential campaign.

Transfer Gaiety To Glasses To Keep In Tune With Party Times

The right transfer design will keynote your party.

By MARGERY TAYLOR (Copyright, 1936, By McCall's Magazine for The Herald)

Of course we all know that each kind of drink has to have its own special kind of glass—but why not a special decoration on the glasses for each different kind of party? That's exactly what the smart hostesses, who pride themselves on the right details, are doing. This doesn't mean areas of cupboard space for all the necessary glasses—all it means is that we can now do our own decorating on glass and change the decoration to suit our whims. And we don't have to be artists. Whatever the place, season or occasion, we can have the appropriate design. For beach parties, we can put on nautical motifs; for the "doggy" party, there are the ever-popular dog pictures; for the evening, there are negro comedians and Julia girls. The decorations are made with our old friends of childhood, decalcomania transfers. The designs come in packages. The little squares of paper are softened in warm water for about 10 seconds and then the design is easily transferred to the glasses. Unless treated roughly, the designs will stay on for a year. But they can be taken off very easily—just soak the glasses in very hot water for about fifteen minutes and scrape off the picture with a razor blade or sharp knife. There's nothing to prevent using the same designs on furniture, especially for children's rooms.

MUST STAND TRIAL FOR ATTEMPT ON KING EDWARD'S LIFE

LONDON, July 31. (AP)—George Andrew McMahon was committed for criminal trial today after a possible court hearing in which he testified he had planned to shoot but instead tossed his revolver into the roadway where King Edward was riding as a protest against "wrongful imprisonment" in connection with a criminal libel charge. McMahon had been held after he allegedly attempted to take the life of the king two weeks ago. He was released after a rebuff was tossed into the roadway during a review in which King Edward was riding.

ITALY AGREES TO PARTICIPATE IN LOCARNO PARLEY

ROME, July 31. (AP)—Italy today accepted in principle an invitation to a two-power conference of Locarno powers. The first acceptance, reportedly signaling Italy's intention to return to European participation, followed a high-level conference between British Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax, and Italian Foreign Minister, Count Ciano. Further to the two-power invitation, Italy suggested that suitable preparation for the new conference could be made by an exchange of views through ordinary diplomatic channels.

Knox Hits At The New Deal

Pledges Self To 'Sound Government' In Acceptance Speech

CHICAGO, July 31. (AP)—Col. Frank Knox, with a pledge of personal devotion to the "principles of sound and honest government," accepted last night the republican nomination for the vice-presidency of the United States. Standing on a blue and gold rostrum, the Chicago publisher told a happy, enthusiastic crowd which filled the specially augmented seating capacity of the huge Chicago Stadium, that he regarded the honor as "the greatest opportunity for service that has ever come to me."

Speaking earnestly and emphasizing his remarks frequently with a wave of his hand, he assailed the Roosevelt administration as having "failed to meet its responsibility for the orderly, economical, and impartial administration of the affairs of the nation." Cheering and noisy as he started, the crowd was soberly attentive as he assailed the New Deal. They had, he said, "embarked on a series of hysterical experiments" from the day they took office. Cheers broke out when he declared "I charge the present administration with responsibility for the ten million still unemployed."

FERGUSON SUSPENDS PUBLICATION OF HIS WEEKLY FORUM

AUSTIN, July 31. (AP)—Former Governor James E. Ferguson, who has figured in Texas politics for more than 20 years, today announced suspension of publication of the weekly Ferguson Forum. "After 19 years of interesting and experimental discussion, I have decided that the Forum should cease from its labors and suspend publication," Ferguson said. "While I take this action with some degree of regret, I feel that I have earned a vacation and I believe the people are willing to let me have it. "It may be that at some future time I will feel that the Forum is needed in the discussion of public questions and if such a condition arises, the people can be depended upon to ask that I resume publication of the Forum."

UNIT OVERHEATED, FIREMEN CALLED

For the first time in three weeks, firemen made a run Thursday night and found only smoke. A motor on a freezing unit at the Sullivan Drug store had become overheated. Firemen notified Willard Sullivan, owner, and waited until he arrived to disconnect the machine. Mrs. L. A. Coffey and son, Louis Glenn, returned Friday from near Cisco where they have been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Hazelwood, for the past month.

Single Tax A Vote Issue In California

Land Levy Proposed As Substitute For Present
Sales Tax

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31. (UP)—Next to the Townsend plan, national interest in political projects of California origin is centering in the state's fight this year for the substitution of the single land tax for the present sales tax.

Managers of the two organizations that are waging the fight for a complete reversal of California's present system of taxation, declare requests are pouring in daily from virtually every state in the union in an effort to obtain not only explanation but forecasts on the outcome.

The fight will culminate first in the August primary and then later at the general election. At the primary voters will decide whether there shall be placed on the November ballot the question of a constitutional amendment which would abolish the present sales tax and substitute in its place a single tax on land after the theories of Henry George of 50 years ago.

Wide Interest Shown
Interest in the other states, according to groups that are waging the fight, is due principally to two causes. In the first place, California was one of the pioneer states to adopt a general sales tax, and other states are eager to know whether this is to be abandoned after three years.

In the second place, it is precisely on the income resulting from a sales tax, that the Townsend plan for old age pensions depends, and supporters are anxious to know whether the expedient in California would indicate that it might really produce the necessary revenue on a nation-wide basis for the success of the Townsend plan, or any other share-the-wealth project that is dependent on a sales tax for revenue.

California's general sales tax, which passed in 1932 and was amended in 1935, provides for a sliding scale that in its lower brackets imposes a tax of one cent on all purchases between 15 and 49 cents; 2 cents on purchases from 50 cents to 83 cents; 3 cents be-

CHAINED BOYS ESCAPE FIRE

Their terror still plainly written on their faces, Wayne and Jimmy Hamblin, 10 and 12 years old respectively, are shown after they were released from chains that held them in the basement of their home at Brighton, Colo., when their home caught fire. They escaped when a sister put out the blaze. Their father, Roy Hamblin, lodged in jail, told officers he chained the boys to keep them at home. (Associated Press Photo) tween 84 cents and $1.16 and an adjusted scale thereafter.

In its original application it never was expected to exceed more than 3 per cent as a tax. To date it has produced something like $50,000,000 annually.

However, in the event it should be abolished and the single tax substituted not only to replace it but to replace other existing taxes on property, a revenue of $77,000,000 would face readjustment.

Groups Sharply Divided

Virtually the entire state is divided into hostile camps on the question now. Back of the demand that the state continue the sales tax, is the California state chamber of commerce, industry and agriculture, with large offices at San Francisco, Santa Rosa, Stockton, Fresno, Los Angeles and affiliations throughout the state. It has the support of the state board of equalization and other organizations.

The battle has narrowed down largely to one of theories of taxation rather than one of class interests.

Against the proposed constitutional amendment for abolition of the sales tax, the state chamber of commerce has mustered all of the arguments known for the past half century.

Doubt Great Expansion

It insists, first of all, that the era of colonization and agricultural expansion in this country virtually has ended and that as a consequence any tax based on the increased use and development of land never would meet America's growing tax needs.

Agriculture, it is pointed out, is suffering from the effects of over-expansion, and farm values are depressed. The effect of a single tax, opponents assert, would be to shift the burden to farm lands, especially undeveloped ones, and to force these into production in competition with existing developed lands.

The single tax, they again argue, is predicated on the theoretical assumption of steadily rising land values, where in reality land values are falling, and for years both urban and farm values in California have decreased.

Specialists Present Case

Against this array of arguments, the sales tax repeal association has an equally impressive collection of facts, figures and theories.

It insists that the sales tax is a flagrant effort to put the whole burden of taxation on the poor.

Forces of the sales tax argue that its application is a direct detriment to re-establishment of business and everything on which prosperity of the nation depends. Anywhere from $25 to $80 a year expended by a low income family each year as sales tax means just that much less that otherwise would be spent for clothing and other manufac-

Frontier Centennial Draws
Praise As A Unique
Attraction

FORT WORTH, July 31.—As New York critics, Southwestern editors and "just folks" have returned home and proclaimed to the world that the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial is the most lavish array of entertainment ever assembled in one spot, the attendance has been gaining with the velocity of a snowball rolling down a mountain-side.

This praise through the printed page and by word-of-mouth is reflected in the largest single representation was contributed by gentlemen, in whose honor three days this week were set aside. They tured articles, they contend. They insist that the man who buys a $1,000 automobile is fined $30 under the sales tax system instead of the former $20.

The sales tax, they hold, falls with a vastly different weight upon the well-off and upon those who are relatively poor. The man who has a surplus income is only affected by it usually as a small part of the excess over other ordinary living expenses. The man, however, who lives from hand to mouth, they declare, finds the weight of taxation has plunged him into new difficulties.

In the coming elections, as far as California is concerned, it will take a place almost side by side in importance with the presidential election, while the inquiries pour in from outside states indicate that the interest elsewhere is unusually high.

found that the Centennial had captured the spirit of the west, with "The Last Frontier," "The Rogers' memorial room, collections of firearms and branding iron, and Sunset Trail, the replica of a street of 50 years ago.

Critics have thanked their volumes of synonyms and antonyms to describe "Casa Manana," "Jumbo," "The Last Frontier" and the rest of the Centennial. Dumas Runyon, renowned for his sports writings, short stories and tales of the screen wrote in the New York American: "Never a similar institution ever in the world" and "an amazing conception—big towns and pioneer days." Robert Garland, in the New York World-Telegram exclaimed of the Centennial attractions as a whole: "So gargantuan, so fantastic, so incredible" and "Casa Manana," he recorded: "The greatest and most beautiful theater-laboratory these eyes have ever seen."

John Harkins of Universal Service described the Fort Worth Centennial as "Beyond the Broadway dream."

Outstanding, even among the picturesque individuals who have a part in the Centennial, is Captain Irvin O'Hay whose sonorous voice gives the rolling lines that interpret "The Last Frontier." Captain O'Hay's career—as Rough Rider at San Juan Hill, service in the Texas War, adventure in Central America, revolutions and finally in the Canadian and American forces during the World War—stirred Dumas Runyon to do a full-length article about the colorful annals of the wild and woolly showmen of Fort Worth.

thanks to our Electric Refrigerator"

PENNYWISE SAYS:

"Healthy kids have healthy appetites. Keep plenty of food on hand, in your electric refrigerator, so that they have plenty of everything they like to eat morning, noon and night."

Infant appetites are uncertain, especially in the summer time. If things don't taste just right, it's next to impossible to get little folks to eat as much as they should. Healthy babies demand a tremendous amount of food in proportion to their size. Any let-down in their eating will quickly be reflected in their physical appearance. Make it easy for them to eat plenty of the things they like by keeping their food fresh and wholesome in an electric refrigerator.

Press Telegrapher Looks Back On 48 Years Of World-Stirring News; Had Hand In Events Now History

NEW YORK, July 31 (UP)—The old-time press telegrapher is disappearing and in this day of the automatic printing machine he often sits along the sidelines, ready for any emergency.

There are comparatively few veteran "Morse men" working wires now and still fewer of those veterans whose memories are rich with world-stirring events that have been studied in school books for nearly half a century. One of the members of this vanishing clan is Francis A. Gribbon, Western Union manager at the United Press general offices in New York. His service spans the regimes of six United Press presidents and six Western Union presidents.

Gribbon was hired as a Western Union messenger July 1, 1888, at the historic old statehouse in Boston. The job was to be during a summer vacation, but it has continued through 48 years.

"My first press assignment," Gribbon recalled today, "came after I had been on the job four days when, residing in a new blue uniform, brass buttons, blue trimmings, I was detailed to a woman correspondent who was covering the G. A. R. convention which was attended by President Benjamin F. Harrison that year."

Telephone In Infancy

In those days telegraph companies did not have the elaborate wire layouts they have now. The telephone had just emerged from its experimental stage and was being introduced into business slowly and cautiously.

"The cumbersome telephone equipment," Gribbon said, "was mounted on a board about three feet long. At the bottom was a box holding batteries. The crank at the side was regarded as a curiosity."

"I broke my shell," Gribbon reminisced, "as a full-fledged 'ham' operator in 1892 and my first job was relief operator, to give the regular operator a holiday on the first Columbus day, Oct. 12, 1892, in my home town of East Boston. I well remember my pals watching me through a large window, some with admiration, and some otherwise."

"In 1896 I started on my journeyman, traveling from place to place, which in those days the majority of operators did. I had great ideas regarding fast communication service. At that time I thought I could improve many things, but gradually during 48 years I have come to the conclusion that those who were in charge at that time and even down to the present knew their job pretty well."

Missed Filibustering Cruise

"During my travels I just missed being a member of the crew of the filibustering schooner Competitor, which had been running contraband of war out of Key West, Fla., to remote points along the Cuban coast."

Later the Competitor's exploits became subject of an international controversy between the United States and Spain and were among the contributory causes of the Spanish-American war.

Continuing his story, Gribbon told of returning to Boston in 1896.

"My first big job," he said, "was covering the Spanish-American war at the Boston Globe. Then followed the Boer war, then keeping the 'death watch' on Queen Victoria at the Boston Herald."

He recalled the assassination of President William McKinley at Buffalo.

"I worked an overflow press wire running up through Vermont for 48 hours at that time," Gribbon said.

Transferred To New York

"Coming down through the years," he related, "there was the announcement by Dr. Frederick A. Cook of his discovery of the North Pole, followed a couple of months later by Admiral Robert E. Peary's disclosure that Cook had handed the world a 'gold brick.'"

"Then came the Republic-Florida steamship collision with Jack Binns, the Republic's radio operator, sending out the 'CQD' for assistance. This marked the first instance of the radio's application as a vital adjunct to safety of life at sea."

The Titanic disaster followed. More or less routine news for a few years until—

"On a dull morning in the summer of 1914 about 8:30 a. m. a 'flash' of the assassination of the Austrian Archduke at Sarajevo."

The world war. Events followed quickly, the invasion of Belgium, Great Britain's ultimatum, the world war was on.

"The United Press cable volume," Gribbon said, "became tremendous. It jumped overnight by thousands of words."

Routine At Times

"But after a year the war resolved itself into more or less of a routine, especially during the winter period when the armies dug in. We would start the war in the morning and close it up at night, to be reopened the next day."

Pickles

On account of a very short crop of cukes due to the drought in that part of the country where they really raise them, pickles have advanced all along the line and some manufacturers have withdrawn from the market, so we anticipated the situation enough to buy 100 dozen for your protection and are offering them this week end, or as long as they last for 15c each, or $1.50 per dozen. Think of buying Empson's Fancy, sour or dill pickles 25-oz. jar at this price.

Fresh Black-Eyes

Finest new and very fine for you here. No. 1 cans of fresh, green, shells and snaps, already cooked, at 3 for 25c. That's cheaper than you could cook them if you already had them ready to cook. And they are really fine. Try 3 or more cans and you will come back for more.

Woodbury's Soap

For years this famous facial soap has sold for 25c. We bought a lot of this soap that is "For the skin you love to touch" at a price that we are able to offer you, this week end, three for two bits. Just three times as much for your money as you have paid in the past. Everyone knows there is nothing better and dearer in the way of soaps for your skin than Woodbury's.

Other Specials

Here are some that you can use every day, at prices that anyone can use. One pound of Red & White coffee for 28c; lime rickey and ginger ale, large bottles 15c; Blue and White prepared spaghetti, ready to go, 3 cans for 25c; large bottle catsup at 2 for 25c; small size 3-minute oats at 9c each; and large package Rinso 25c.
