AN ANALYSIS OF THE WAR DEVELOPMENTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
This being one of the two Thanksgiving days for which we have to be grateful, it seems to be an appropriate time to take a look at Europe to see what, if anything, folks over there have salvaged out of the wreckage to be thankful for. Really it's surprising how much good one can discover if he sets out to look for it seriously—and optimistically. "Good," I suppose, is a relative term which has to be measured against its surroundings. Thus while we here in America are thankful we are out of the war, our friends across the big pond are even more happy because the war they are in is no worse.

better and he can get into the house of commons again.
More seriously, he undoubtedly is thankful because on the whole the war-fates have been kind to the Allies—at least up to the present scourge of German sea-mines in shipping lanes. He returns thanks, too, because thus far Germany hasn't unleashed its great fleet of airships in massed raids against England.
Mussolini: He's undoubtedly pleased because Herr Hitler hasn't forced a show-down on the stability of the Berlin-Rome axis, by demanding military aid. And one assumes he must be further delighted because he appears to be slipping gradually out of his Nazi association.
Hitler: Perhaps his greatest cause for thanks is that he has on hand sufficient foodstuffs and war supplies to stand off strangulation by the British blockade for a while.

French Premier Daladier: He can be glad that this war hasn't produced the invasion and devastation of French territory which the World conflict saw.
Joseph Stalin of Moscow: Pleased without end at having put across one of the shrewdest horse-deals of the century with Herr Hitler. The Soviet chief assisted the Nazi Fuehrer into the war, and then proceeded to pull territorial and political plums out of the eastern European pie.
King Carol of Rumania: His majesty can't help but be grateful that with Russia, Germany, Hungary and Bulgaria still looking with envious eyes on Rumanian territory, he has thus far been able to stand off trouble.
The census of 1930 showed 1025 men to every 100 women in the United States.
World production of coal is about one billion tons annually.

TAKE OUR WORD FOR IT—There are three horses in this picture, though you may have trouble believing what you can't exactly see. Just back of J. C. Brady's Bold Stroke (No. 1), clearing a water jump at Belmont Park, N. Y., is an unidentified horse, Parma (No. 9), about to clear the hedge, is owned by L. W. Robinson. Bold Stroke finished second.

Delegates Named To Methodists' Gen'l. Conference

A list of delegates to the Methodist General Conference, at Atlantic City, N. J., next April, has been received here, appointments having been made at the recent North Texas conference meeting at Lubbock.
The delegates include:
O. P. Clark, district superintendent, Lubbock district, leader; J. O. Haynes, Big Spring, secretary; W. M. Pierce, Pampa; E. E. White, Plainview district.
Delegates to the jurisdictional conference, Oklahoma City, in May, 1940: W. C. House, Amarillo district; C. A. Bickley, Abilene district; L. N. Lipscomb, Lubbock First church; Cal C. Wright, Vernon district.
Alternates: C. C. Grimes, Polk street, Amarillo; C. A. Long, St. Paul's Abilene; E. B. Bowen, Sweetwater district; T. S. Barcus, Perryton district; Sam Young, Sweetwater.
The delegates to the general conference are also delegates to the jurisdictional conference. This city is in the Southwest jurisdiction. According to the plan of union the general conference meets every four years, and is followed by the meeting of the six jurisdictional conferences in the United States. There is one lay delegate for each clerical delegate.

AUTO DEALERS URGED TO BAND TOGETHER IN RESTORATION OF FADING 'PROFIT OPPORTUNITY'

The "profit opportunity" for automobile retailers is disappearing from causes over which they apparently have no control, but restoration of prosperity is their own task, through cooperative enterprise.
This was the general theme of a stirring message delivered to dealers and sales managers of West Texas Wednesday night by Wayne Hearne, a specialist in automotive problems who has been exploring the industry's status for 30 years. Hearne, a Chicago resident who has been a "trouble-shooter" in almost every automotive field, came here under sponsorship of the Pacific Finance company, whose officials were hosts at a dinner session at the Settles hotel. Ninety-five were present, with dealers representing towns from Monahans and Hobbs to Abilene, and from Lubbock to San Angelo and Ballinger.
Pacific has sponsored Hearne's talks in eight western states, and the lecture here was the concluding one—No. 76—of the tour. The finance company sponsored the talks simply as a cooperative gesture to dealers, enabling them to hear firsthand a "through discussion of the problems they face today. Pacific officials here for the affair, which included a cocktail party and a sumptuous feast, were R. S. McCune, Los Angeles, vice president; Tom Rau, regional manager for Texas; Ray Shorb of Fort Worth, branch manager; Sterling P. Clark, Jr., district representative for the Big Spring area; Lance McPadden and Charley Latham. Hearne talked for two hours and a half, and kept his audience interested throughout with a vigorous, stimulating talk calling upon dealers to work together in solving their common problems. With salty phrases and amusing anecdotes he recited ills of the dealer field, and painted a none-too-rosy future for auto dealers unless they do unite forces.
The year 1939 has been an unusual one for the dealers, Hearne pointed out, reciting a 39 percent increase in registrations, while business in general for the nation gained 17 percent. At the same time the "mortality rate" of automobile dealers has climbed until it is the highest of any line of business. Citing the business increase, Hearne said, "either the auto business has been behind or we are borrowing business from future time."
Several Factors
Disappearance of the profit opportunity is due to several factors, the specialist said. The dealer is denied the freedom of other merchants, he pointed out, because he has a fixed place for purchase, must purchase at a fixed price, and must pay cash. The race for volume has created a pressure for business without profit, until the public has the upper hand in trade-in deals. Hearne called the policy of making excessive allowances for used cars "subsidizing the public," and said this forced dealers to depend upon service and by-products for an existence.
"The motor makers are increasing their profits," he said, "but we can't blame them. It's the system, and retailers can't look for help—any more than they already receive—there. They can't look for help from the public, because the public would take an immediate cash loss which it doesn't want to give us—and you can't blame the public. Your salesman won't help, because they have their own living to make, and you can't blame them. The government won't help, because it will need more and more taxes, not less. It is up to the dealers themselves."

PULLMAN COMPANY FIGHTS STATE'S CONDUCTOR RULE

AUSTIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—A hearing Tuesday in Waco was set by the federal court here today on an order sought by the Pullman company of Chicago and Texas railroads which would restrain the Texas railroad commission and Attorney General Gerald C. Mann from enforcing a rule requiring Pullman cars to be manned at all times by Pullman conductors.
In a petition filed yesterday, the railroads and Pullman company contended the commission's order of Aug. 8 would require an additional expenditure of at least $33,000 a year and employment of 15 more Pullman conductors.
The Pullman company, in the petition, claimed it would be required to operate its cars at a loss or discontinue the service on certain lines.
The company, among other things asserted it was not a common carrier and therefore not subject to regulation by the commission.

Everybody's Problem

Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, said at the organization's 73rd annual convention in Peoria, Ill. last week that "we have not yet solved our farm problem, and it remains with us as one of the great unanswered steps toward recovery." Just how far the problem is from solution is emphasized by two points brought out by Mr. Taber...

It isn't a new problem, at all. It is as old as the tariff system—a system devised to give the manufacturers all the breaks at the expense of the producing and consuming population. Only in recent years has the problem been attacked from the front.

George Tucker Man About Manhattan NEW YORK—The election of young Al Smith, Jr., to the city council added a sentimental interest to the aftermath of the recent elections.

As for Young Al—he never had to work in a Fulton street fish factory. He never had to get out and scarp for his ham and eggs, as his Old Man did.

One of the really live wires around New York is Walter O'Keefe, who used to room with Knute Rockne when he went to Notre Dame and who now is some stuck in the radio field.

Thank you, Mr. Rockne, Broun said, "I sure like the way you coach that Yale basketball team, too." That was when O'Keefe blinked. He hasn't figured out yet just who was kidding who.

WASHINGTON—Such a queer turn has the cotton market taken that in spite of a record world surplus of American cotton, the price may be jacked up a half cent or a cent a pound in the domestic market in the next few months because of a technical shortage.

Under the cotton loan program, which was originally designed to put a floor under prices but now can be used to push them up, the department of agriculture has 11,000,000 bales of surplus tied up by loans or outright ownership.

Wallace protests The bureau of the budget got wind of this situation and told Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that of course he wouldn't need any money this year to lend on the current cotton crop since the growers were assured of a price above the probable amount of the government loan.

Illinois May Take Action On Oil Control

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 28 (AP)—Illinois appeared today to be pointing toward state control of crude oil production. Governor Horner disclosed an oil conservation bill was being drafted and he may sponsor it in the special session of the Illinois legislature.

Production in Illinois, which peaked in a few months over the 300,000 barrels-a-day mark, has been unable to hold its own in most recent weeks. Discovery of production in two new production zones, the Devonian lime and the St. Louis lime, in the prolific Salem field, may result in deepening some wells which have declined from top production in the three other pays in the district.

Wallace protests The bureau of the budget got wind of this situation and told Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that of course he wouldn't need any money this year to lend on the current cotton crop since the growers were assured of a price above the probable amount of the government loan.

We are confident our efforts will be successful."

MINES SET ADRIFT?

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—A navy announcement that 39 drifting mines have been sighted in the North sea in the last two days deepened the convictions of some maritime experts today that they had been set adrift to make British waters a no-man's area for all shipping.

Stormy weather often has wrecked mines from their moorings, but seldom in such clusters as indicated by the incomplete reports broadcast by the navy's hydrographic office. Most of the reports came from the U.S.S. Trenton. Treaties prescribe automatic devices to assure that mines accidentally set adrift will be rendered harmless within an hour, but these efforts in the North sea have accounted for most of the 16 ships sunk or damaged in the last five days.
