ERSKINE SIX ATTRACTION AT AUTO SHOW IN PARIS

Paris, Oct. 8.—Twenty-first annual automobile salon opened with 1,200 exhibitors, including 150 makes produced in France, Germany, United States, Italy and Great Britain. American-made cars were given much prominence. A gold Erskine Six chassis displayed at the Studebaker booth attracted interest comparable only to the acclaim this car received last year when it made world premiere at Paris show. The Erskine Six chassis was entirely plated with twenty-four karat gold and valued at $20,000.

Exhibits of European cars showed a very noticeable trend toward six cylinder propulsion. Italian Fiat and French Peugeot are introducing small sixes. Representative producers are inclined toward conservatism of design rather than freak innovations which, while numerous, were mostly the creation of small makers. Representatives of many American manufacturers are present for salon.

"I suffered with severe bilious attacks which came on me two or three times every month," says Mr. Ollie Miller, of Murray, Ky.

"I would become dizzy. My head would ache terribly, feeling as if it would almost burst. It felt exactly like a tight band was being drawn closer and closer around my temples.

"My stomach would be so upset I could not retain any kind of nourishment for hours. I would have to quit work and go to bed.

"My color was awful. I was yellow and my skin was drawn and dry. I did not have any energy—no ambition to work. I was just about half sick most of the time because of these spells.

Cooking Chats with Famous Cooks

DESSERTS FROM NEW ENGLAND

belong in the daily quota. And what more than that they be as desserts? Almost every lunch and dinner is better when topped off with dessert. But never serve a heavy, rich dessert with a hearty meal. Light, easily digested desserts—fluffs or custards are the rightful companions of such meals.

Lucy G. Allen, principal of the Boston School of Cookery, and author of several cook-books, gives tested recipes for five pleasing des-

Pineapple Fluff

To one-half cup of jules from canned pineapple add one well-beaten egg, one dessert spoon of sugar mixed with one-half table-spoon of cornstarch. Cook till thick in a double boiler, or in a saucepan over hot water, stirring constantly. When thickened, remove from stove and add one cupful of pineapple cubes cut from slices of canned pineapple. When cool enough, fold in gently one-third cup of heavy cream beaten stiff with an egg-beater and flavored with one-eighth teaspoon of vanilla. Place in sherbet glasses or in large glass dish, if preferred, and chill. This amount will serve six persons.

For a Lighter Meal

Baked Indian pudding makes a filling addition to light salad-and-soup meals. Mix six tablespoonfuls of corn meal with three tablespoonfuls of flour and dilute with one-half cup of milk. Add this to one pint of scalded milk and cook until thickened. In a bowl break one egg and beat slightly, add one-half cup of sugar and one-third cup of molasses, one-half teaspoon of salt and one cup of cold milk.

Add this mixture to the hot mixture, add another cup of cold milk and pour into pudding dish. Dot surface with tiny lumps of butter and bake in a slow oven for three hours or more. Sweet apples or pears sliced and added last, using two or three of either, make a pleasing addition. Serve with cream or with butter.

A woman can always use shelves in the kitchen. One up-to-date oil stove has a handy base shelf which can be used to hold utensils.

Cracker Plum Pudding

Just about as hearty as the baked Indian pudding is cracker plum pudding. Roll quite fine eight cooking crackers, add five cups of milk, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, two-thirds cup of sugar and four eggs slightly beaten. Add three-fourths cup of seeded raisins, flavor with a few gratings of nutmeg. Place in buttered pudding dish; over the top scatter two tablespoonfuls of butter in small pieces, and bake in a moderate oven about two hours. Serve with or without sauce.

Delightful Bread Pudding

No one will ever object to eating chocolate bread pudding. It just touches the spot when one's sweet tooth is aching. And, better yet, from the cook's point of view, it uses up stale bread. Sauté one pint of milk, add one cup of stale bread crumbs which have been rubbed through a sieve, and set aside to cool slightly. Beat one egg slightly, add one-third cup of sugar, one-eighth teaspoon of salt and add to scalded milk.

Melt over hot water one square (one ounce) of cooking chocolate, stir to a smooth paste with three tablespoonfuls of boiling water and add to mixture. Pour into a buttered pudding dish, set dish in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven. It will take about one hour. Serve with either cream or a hard sauce.

Apple Pan Doudy

Inexpensive and quickly made, these are two of the virtues of old-fashioned apple pan doudy. Pare five or six large apples, cut in eighths and put into an aluminum saucepan. Add three tablespoonfuls of water, one quarter cup of sugar, one teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, or one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon if preferred. Cover and cook about five minutes. Mix thoroughly 3/4 cup bread flour, three teaspoonfuls baking powder and one-half teaspoonful salt. Cut in with knife two teaspoonfuls butter, then add one-half cup of milk, stirring with knife. Handle as little as possible and spread the dough over the apples. Cover closely, place on an asbestos mat over the flame and cook until done without lifting cover, for about one-half hour. Invert pudding upon serving dish and serve with sugar and cream or the following sauce:

Foamy Sauce: Beat very stiff the white of one egg and then beat in 1/4 cup of powdered sugar; transfer egg beater to yolk of one egg and beat until thick and light-colored; then beat in 1/4 cup of powdered sugar. Cut out and fold mixture together, beat in two tablespoonfuls hot cream or top milk and flavor with vanilla.

ONLY GOOD SEED SHOULD BE USED

Now is the time for the cotton farmer to check up on the results of his year's work by getting squarely down to brass tacks on certain phases of his production, J. S. Mogford, of the agronomy department, A. & M. College, points out.

Among the questions that the cotton grower should ask himself, Mr. Mogford said, are the following: Was the planting seed used this year a good one, one that would be preferred for next year? Did the seed germinate ninety per cent, or better? Were they clean, pure seed, large, free from disease, and did they produce strong, healthy plants? How long was it from planting to flowering and from flowering to the first open bolls? Were the plants close jointed, strong, healthy and well fruited? Were the bolls large? Were the bolls of plants alike? How many bolls were there to the pound? Just exactly what was the acre yield?

Was the harvest 250 pounds of lint to the acre or was the cotton production carried on at a loss?

"Cotton is grown chiefly for the lint it produces and therefore the grower should be sure that the variety grown produces a good, strong fiber that will meet the demands of the market," Mr. Mogford said. "If the farmer is unable to determine himself whether the staple is at least one inch long, if it is hard and strong, if all the fibers are of approximately the same length, if there is a heavy body of fibers on the seed, he may by sending his sample of lint to the Textile Department of the A. & M. College, get such information. If your cotton does not come up to the requirements of a good variety, don't start next year's crop with poor seed. Get pure seed, of a good variety, from a State certified seed breeder."

Clean heat

No black kettles to scour!

How much pleasanter cooking is, when there are no black pots and pans to scour afterward! Every woman who cooks with a Perfection Oil Stove is spared that horrid nuisance.

There is never a speck of soot. For in the long chimneys, every drop of oil is completely burned before the heat reaches the cooking.

Soot, as you know, is half-burned kerosene - just wasted heat. With Perfection you have real fuel economy, as all the oil is changed into cooking heat. They burn only kerosene, the safe household fuel.

Miss Allen says—

"Utensil bottoms are free from soot when cooking is done on the Perfection Stove."
Miss Lucy G. Allen, Principal, Boston School of Cookery.

Perfection flames stay at the height you set them, so you need never fear they will "creep up" and make the kitchen sooty.

With Perfection you will have wonderful cooking results, and your utensils will stay shiny as new. See the newest Perfections at any dealer's - 1 to 5 burner sizes. Priced from $7.25 to $130.

BOY WHO CUT THROAT DIES OF INJURIES

Wellington, Texas.—Blewford Marshall, the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Marshall who live fifteen miles north of Wellington in the Lutie community, died at the Baptist Hospital in Wellington at 3 o'clock Saturday morning following an attempt to cut his throat on the preceding Tuesday afternoon.

Blewford slashed his throat with his father's razor as an act of youthful retaliation by inflicting punishment upon himself following a dispute with members of his family over the emptying of some cotton sacks into a truck. He left the field and was later found near the house with his father's razor nearby. He was brought to Wellington for medical attention at the local hospital, and attending physicians were of the opinion Thursday morning that the boy would recover.

It is not thought that the boy intended to commit suicide, as he told his nurse, Mrs. Jake Tarter, at the hospital that he did not intend to kill himself when he slashed his throat.

His family was optimistic about his condition Thursday as he seemed to be improving, but his condition changed for the worse during the night Saturday and he sank rapidly.—Wellington Leader.

old and one of the most popular students of the Clarendon high school. He was a member of the Junior class, and quite prominent in all academic as well as athletic activities. He served as sophomore editor of the high school annual last year, and was business and advertising manager of "The Clarendon," the school publication this year. He lettered in basketball at Clarendon last year and was one of the Bronchos' most valuable men in football this year. He was loyal to his school in each of his endeavors, and it was in carrying out his love for his alma mater that his fatal injuries were received.

The funeral was held in Clarendon at 10 o'clock Monday morning, with interment in the Clarendon cemetery.

Practically the entire Skyrocket squad attended the funeral, and several other Wellington citizens were present.

The entire township, and most especially the local football team, extend their sympathy to the members of the bereaved family at his untimely end. His valor was genuine; his heroism sincere.—Wellington Leader.

FEDERATED MISSIONARY SOCIETIES HAVE LUNCHEON

The luncheon prepared by the executive board and the committees of the Federated Missionary Societies, which met Monday at 12:30 at the home of Mrs. Henderson Smith, proved most enjoyable affair. At 1 o'clock about thirty ladies gathered around the festal board when they were told to help themselves. After partaking of this most delightful repast the committees were called together by the chairman to formulate plans to be submitted to the Federation, after which the president, Mrs. Smith, promptly called the meeting to order. Mrs. Mallard conducted the devotional making an intensely interesting talk on the lesson, the 19th chapter of First Kings. Mrs. Shelley led the song service with Mrs. Smith at the piano. The song, "Win Them One by One" written by Mrs. Carter Wright of Alabama, was adopted for the Federation song.

Encouraging reports came from all the committees. After discussing the reports of the various committees, the program, "The Civic Legislative Interracial," the meeting adjourned.

The Federation extends a cordial invitation to all Missionary societies to join forces and all pull together, for good is bound to come from these meetings, as we discuss the problems of equal interest to all. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Kinslow.

EYEBROWS INDICATE CHARACTER

Character is greatly a matter of eyebrows, according to Nicolas Sousanni, who plays the role of the sinister "Swiss Jules" in Fox Films' version of "One Increasing Purpose."

"Few people realize just how much the slightest change in the line of the brows can alter the expression of the face, or how truly indicative they are of the social status of the man.

"Take, for example, the villain; he is either bush-browed or else he has a diabolically thin brow slanting abruptly towards his hair.

The man of an even disposition usually has well-shaped, clean-cut brows—the working man of the lower classes unkempt brows.

"Eyebrows also vary according to race. The Oriental has slanting brows or brows whose ends turn upwards. Those of the Aryan races extend straight across the forehead."

In "One Increasing Purpose," which will show at the Gem Theatre, next Thursday and Friday, Sousanni's eyebrows take a turn towards his scalp, giving him a diabolical appearance.

Mrs. James Norman, class president, called the house to order about 4 o'clock and many items of business were transacted, the most interesting of which was the viewing and accepting of the box of clothing to be sent to the little orphan boy that the class is supporting. Means of raising funds to help furnish the ladies' parlor were discussed.

TEXAS & TEXANS

By WILL H. MAYES

They Like the Feature
Two editors who use "Texas and Texans" regularly, prompted perhaps by a recent paragraph headed "Make Them Feel Good," wrote me this week to say that they and their readers like the column and that it is doing much to keep Texas people appreciative of our great State and its wonderful resources, or words to that effect. Two citizens of Austin stopped me on the street and said they were regular readers of the articles and liked them. One said he saw them in the Jasper News-Boy and the other was a reader of the Hereford Brand, widely separated publications. The most encouraging statement made to me in a long while came from a Brazos county citizen who wrote that if half the newspapers in Texas would run the articles regularly they would do Texas more good than any publicity that could be bought, whatever the price. Words like these make a fellow want to do his level best at whatever he is doing. Editors need such encouragement, too. Help, then along.

Big Basket Plant
I saw a statement recently that Pittsburg, in Camp county, a place that has never tried especially to extol itself, has a factory that has been manufacturing baskets, crates and hampers for 25 years and that it is this year turning them out at the rate of three million a year. Most of its product is fruit and berry crates, potato crates and no small part of them are sold in Texas. Pittsburg uses vegetable baskets and sweet potato baskets and the Rio Grande valley draws heavily on the output. The plant employs nearly 160 workmen. It is easy to see that Pittsburg is steadily prosperous.

Junction's Attractiveness
Some pictures of the town and surrounding country have made me want to see Junction, the prosperous and beautiful county site of Kimble county. The pictures tell me just why so many Texans now go to the Junction country for rest and recreation instead of off to Colorado and other far away places. There are beauties in Texas which Texans have not yet learned. The pictures also partly account for the prosperity of the Junction Eagle, one of the best small town weekly papers in Texas. Such a country furnishes the inspiration that makes a fellow want to do his best in whatever he is doing.

Uvalde Builds Parks
The small cities of Texas—at least some of them, are taking the right steps to insure the future attractiveness as well as the comforts necessary to growing places. Uvalde is among the number that has a park commission with which the citizenship is closely cooperating. The city park is to be improved by a memorial arch in suitable honor of the young men who served in the World War. Another park has been secured in the outskirts of the city, and that is also to be improved. The city that neglects to provide and care for parks shows that it is not interested in its appearance and this at once becomes obvious to all visitors.

Zapata's Court Record
If you have been thinking of the border counties of Texas as sections where crime runs rampant, you have "another thought coming." For the second time in 20 years the district court of the county has had a felony case on its docket and such a thing was so unusual that on the invitation of the district judge, the public school children attended court in a body as an object in civil government. Can you beat it?

College Spreading Out
The West Texas State Teachers College has acquired 200 acres of land adjoining the present campus to be used for farm and stock demonstration purposes and otherwise to relieve the congested campus. The constant spreading out of the grounds of Texas schools is in keeping with the increase in interest in education throughout the State. When the Canyon school was established, there were some pessimists who argued that it would never have any students 'way up yonder on the edge of nowhar.'

County Hospitals
Scurry county, of which Snyder is the county site, is to hold an election soon to determine whether the county shall vote an $80,000 bond issue to build a county sanitarium. Indications as they should be, are that the bonds will be voted by a large majority. Every county owes it to its people to provide adequate hospital facilities at a reasonable charge. In our enthusiasm for enthusiasm for providing schools and roads we are too much inclined to overlook the needs of the sick.

Hill Country Roads
Real county, in the Texas Hill country, has started a movement for better roads. Edwards county, which adjoins Real, is also feeling its isolation because of the lack of roads. That part of Texas is one of the most beautiful sections of the State, but thousands of tourists avoid it every year because of the bad roads, which are at times almost impassable. However, attractive a country may be, automobilists will pass it up for the less desirable spots that have good roads. This is as true of the hilly sections of West Texas as of the sandy lands of East Texas.

Brownsville Irrigation Project
A bond issue of $600,000 has been voted by a district in Cameron county for irrigation. The people who own the irrigable lands along the lower valleys of Texas streams are learning that if they would have irrigation they must provide the means, as those along the upper streams are coming more to appreciate the necessity for conserving the water. The time is close when water will be regarded as a section's most valuable asset.

Falfurrias Gardens
More than 1500 acres will be planted to vegetables close around Falfurrias, the growers having gotten together for co-operative planting and marketing. Those who produce from the soil are gradually learning the advantages of co-operative effort.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to return our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for their kindness extended to us during the death of our baby. May God in his infinite wisdom bless and reward each of you, in our prayer.
Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Srygley

CHEVROLET MOTOR USED IN NOVEL SNOW VEHICLE

Newberry, Mich., Sept. 22.—Faced with the necessity of making long trips through a territory frequently covered with snow drifts twenty feet deep and where temperatures hover around 38 degrees below zero, Charles Surrall, of the firm of M. Surrall & Son, Chevrolet dealers at Newberry, Michigan, has constructed a novel Chevrolet "snowmobile" utilizing a Chevrolet motor and chassis.

The front end of the queer looking vehicle, which attracts attention wherever it appears in the snow-covered upper peninsula, is fitted at the front end with wooden skis, attached to the regulation Chevrolet axle and steering knuckles. The car is easily handled despite the heavy snow drifts and the average depth of 30 inches of snow encountered in his daily travels, Mr. Surrall says. The rear end of the car is fitted with two sets of Chevrolet wheels, set tandem style, over which an endless tractor belt equipped with flanges operates.

So powerful is the special tractor equipment when powered with the standard Chevrolet motor that Mr. Surrall has often been called upon to tow heavy cars out of snow drifts where they have become hopelessly stalled. The extensive alterations required to transform the Chevrolet into a snowmobile were all made in the service station of M. Surrall & Son. The Chevrolet motor had already put in four years of active service on a Chevrolet touring car before it was utilized for special winter service, Mr. Surrall says.

Joe Witt of Estelline was transacting business in Memphis Tuesday.

SUDAN GRASS SEED CROP MUCH LARGER THAN LAST YEAR

More favorable weather conditions, particularly in the Texas Panhandle and northwestern Kansas, made possible a much greater production of Sudan grass seed than last year, when the crop was reduced by a prolonged drought. The U. S. Bureau of Agriculture Economics estimates the crop at about 50 per cent greater than last year. Much acreage was abandoned or cut for hay last year, while this year acreage was increased in nearly all principal producing districts, and furthermore the yield per acre was greater.

Production in Texas is estimated at about 50 per cent greater than last year and possibly a record crop for the Panhandle district. Greater production is due principally to increased acreage. The crop was about two weeks later than last year and matured somewhat unevenly. Some fields were harvested and threshed while others were still standing. Like-wise yield per acre showed considerable variation ranging from 200 to 100 pounds, and averaged as reported by growers about the same as last year or 550 pounds, compared with 480 pounds two years ago and 470 three years ago. Shippers, whose 1926 shipments amounted in the aggregate to more than half the total production of Sudan grass seed in the United States, expected their 1927 shipments to be about 45 per cent greater than those of 1926. Prices to growers on October 4 were mostly $2 to $2.25 per 100 pounds, basic clean seed, compared with $2.50 to $2.75 last year, and $3 to $3.50 two years ago.

"How best can I trade in my present car for a new car?"

WHEN you are ready to trade in your present car for a new car, you naturally want full value for your present car. But most of all you want full new car value.

It will therefore pay you to consider varying trade-in allowance offers in the light of these basic facts:

- 1 Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: i.e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 2 Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 3 The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
- 4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 5 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.
- 6 Remember that you are making a purchase—not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply using your present car as a credit against the new car's purchase price.

WE publish this message, believing that the public is entitled to have all the facts. And we invite you to send for the facts about General Motors products by using the coupon below.

PLANT VALUE OF COTTON STALKS

While the burning over of fields is not practiced as much as was formerly the case, there is still too much of this being done and every year millions of dollars worth of valuable plant food goes up in smoke, to say nothing of the value of the organic matter destroyed. E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Extension Service, A. & M. College, said in a recent discussion over Station WTAW of the value of organic matter.

"The average plant food value of the stalks and leaves of cotton plants is $8.50 an acre, corn stalks $6.50 an acre, wheat straw $3.75 an acre and oat straw $3.50 an acre," Mr. Miller said. "Other crops are in proportion but in addition to the actual plant food, there is always the big value of the organic matter."

"Many farmers underestimate the value of organic matter in the soil and as a result the soil fertility has been decreasing. It should be remembered that soil fertility is the basis of profitable agriculture and that without a certain amount of organic matter there can be no really fertile soil. There are three necessary conditions for a fertile soil, as follows: The soil must be in good physical condition, it must have plenty of available plant food and it must have good water holding capacity. One of these conditions will always be the limiting factor and the yield will be determined by which ever is lacking. All three of these soil conditions may be obtained usually by providing sufficient organic matter. Organic matter may be provided by plowing under manure, cotton stalks, corn stalks, weeds, grass, cover crops, green manure crops, including legumes, etc."

The fine art of lying is cultivated in Gascony, in southwest France, and such has its reputation become that for hundreds of years a whooper from any source was called in France a "gasconade."

A BLEND THAT HAS HELPED TO MAKE New Orleans world-famous FOR ITS COFFEE

TRAVELERS, who have sailed the seven seas, have for generations praised the good things they have found to eat and drink in New Orleans—seafoods, pastries and all of the fascinating creations of noted French chefs.

Above all, they talk about the wonderful coffee to be obtained in the restaurants of the Old French Quarter. Here they have found exquisitely-different coffee—full, rich, and satisfying; with a delicious, haunting fragrance, and a flavor that once tasted is seldom forgotten.

Today this pure coffee, blended to perfection, is being roasted and packed in air-tight vacuum cans, and sold over grocers' counters in hundreds of cities.

Lovers of good coffee who know and appreciate the best, will find Morning Joy Coffee a real treat. You can get it from your grocer.

OUR 1927 GIRLS

By Mrs. Phebe K. Warner

A few days ago I stepped into an elevator in one of our Texas cities. There was six or seven others in it. The operator was a young girl about fifteen years of age. She was neatly dressed, courteous and attended strictly to her own business. After slipping down a floor or two she stopped the elevator and opened the door to take on another passenger. The passenger made some remark to the little girl and stepped back. The little girl answered back with a snappy "What's it to you?" Gave the door a slam and down we went to the next floor where some of the passengers got off. By the time we reached the third floor all had left the elevator but the little operator and myself.

Turning to me as if seeking some one's interest and sympathy, she said: "I hate that man who stopped the elevator up there. He does that nearly every day. And if there are only one or two on he will ride up and down till everybody gets off and then he tries to get us girls."

That child's look and tone will stick in my memory a long time. And a lot of thoughts have chased through my mind since that day. A young girl in her early "teens" running an elevator, hour after hour, in a big business house, facing every kind of men and women, trying to help make a few dollars to get her own clothes, or help her mother support the family or something. There was a reason for her being there. Perhaps she had nothing to do at home and wanted to be busy. Maybe she did not have a home. No matter what the reason for her doing that work. She was doing it well. Behaving herself and treating everybody courteously.

But a big, full-grown man, two or three times her age who should have considered it his duty to protect a child like that in any public place seemed to delight in tormenting her and forcing her to be rude and discourteous.

Never before in the history of America girlhood have our girls received so much criticism as they do today. Everywhere you go some one is deploring the awful standard of our 1927 girls. "They are so rude and pert and flapperish. They are so bold and brassy and immodest. What is to become of this world?" I heard a great big prominent and intelligent man say not so long ago that he actually believed the "World would come to an end in

Whinner

Willing to forgive her husband if he "comes home with a clean slate," Mrs. Francis M. Allen of Lake Forest, Ill., wife of the commander of the 121st Infantry, Illinois National Guard, says she also is ready to drop her $100,000 alienation suit against Miss Ida Martin of Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Allen publicly horse-whipped Miss Martin in a Chicago street last January.

another ten years if something wasn't done with our girls."

All right! Granted! Just where do you think we better begin? With the girls of today, their mothers, or with a certain class of men who seem to delight in breaking down the morale of our working girls and then set up a howl about the low standard of our present generation of girls and blame the girls for all the human tragedies of life?

Personally, I believe the girls of today are the most self sufficient, the most independent, the most ambitious, the most useful and the biggest hearted girls the world has ever known. The chief thing they need is employment for their spare time that modern living conditions have set free, and wise guidance in finding their place in this new world of today and practical training to fit them for the new places and the new day into which their lives have been cast.

There is hardly a shop, factory, office or business of any kind at this time that is not depending on somebody's daughter to help carry on that business. It is just or fair or sane to expect our girls to not only carry their share of the moral responsibility of the business world but actually reform a race of men who were born a generation before them? Where does man's responsibility begin in this new business world in which we all find ourselves in this new century?

It is much easier to criticise a girl than it is to reform a man. It takes so little brains to gossip and find fault. Do you suppose the day will ever come when men will consider it their duty to make the business world a fit, safe place for girls? Every girl has a father or has had at some time in her life. What are fathers for if not to protect their children, girls as well as boys?

Our girls did not make the day in which they must live and struggle. But millions of them are trying to face it bravely and honestly. More girls are working to educate themselves and prepare themselves for the duties of life than ever before. More girls are studying home-making and child rearing than ever before. More girls are actually "Thinking" than ever before.

There is no other group in our American life that is trying harder to find themselves and adjust themselves to the changing conditions than our own girls. What are we their parents and the older generation, doing to help them? Not much. Just criticising to prove what fine standards we hold up for girls just so our standards for men are not disturbed.
