BILL LOSES, 54 TO 36

WASHNIGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)-The senate defeated, 54 to 36, today a proposed amendment to the neutrality bill which would have forbidden the sale to foreign na-tions of poison gas, flame throwers and other materials used in chemical warfare.

Flag Proposal Approved Offered by Senators Danaher (R-Conn) and Vandenberg (R-Mich), the amendment was opposed by Democratic Leader Barkley and Senators Tydings (D-Md) and Connally (D-Tex). The latter three argued that a belligerent nation would hesitate to use poison gas if it knew that supplies from the United States were available to its

The amendment was rejected af-ter the senate had approved a pro-posal to prohibit vessels of foreign nations from flying the American

Arguing for the anti-poison gas proposal, Danaher told the senate:
"Abroad at the present moment, people are walking about the streets earing gas masks.

"Certainly we don't want to be a party to the gassing of innocent women and children."

The senate inserted the flag pro vision after being told that British during the World war to escape German submarine attack.

The flag issue came up as the senate sped along toward a final vote on the neutrality act tomor

Meanwhile, house leaders appar ently reached a tentative agreement to send the senate version of the neutrality bill to a joint senate house conference committee for romise rather than risk letting the house amend the bill directly.

This was made known after Ma-

The democratic leaders let it be known they hoped to dispose of the neutrality bill finally by the end of next week and adjourn the spe-cial session immediately.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Brings Happy Relief

Many suffecers relieve nagging backsche quickly, once they discover that the red cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poissonous matter to remain in your blood, it may exame nagging backsche, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting upights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dissiness. Frequent or seasity passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is acmething wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes floah out poissonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Enjoy Better Light Tonight

 Yes, you can enjoy tonight the benefits of Better Light in your home. Here are three easy and inexpensive ways to improve your lighting, to make seeing easier and to make your home more attractives

1. Select a supply of lamp bulbs of sufficient size at your neighborhood store and put them in reading lamps and in other fixtures. You'll be agreeably surprised by the change a little more light will make,

2. Visit local stores which sell lamps and select a few of the inempensive plastic lighting unies which screw into light sockets. They provide a diffused, semi-indirect Blumination that h easy on the eyes. 3. Mace two or three portable fipor and table himpe in the living soom for comfortable reading and two planed-up wall hamps in the bedroom and other rooms to provide increased illumination and plug to make sooms more attractive. Use any or all of these suggestions on liow to improve the appearance of your home. A few minutes time and a few dollars are all that is required to Enjoy Better Light Tonight.

He was scared to death to talk for fear we'd find varnish on her finger nails, and out something. And I'll just bet surprised Michael, too; he wouldn't have asked Higgins anything in front of me if he'd expected him to know anything. And that boy-sicking his dog on my cat just in time to keep Higgins from saying something. "From saying what?"

"I don't know. Something. Something about the Murchisons. And then he tells us all this stuff about burglars just because he wants us to go away—and Miss Lissey doesn't want us here - and Michael's father does want us here, Bunny-and you know what an old fox he is. I tell you, Bunny we're living in a mystery."

Bunny dropped down on the porch steps and surveyed Tuck's ushed face and shining eyes with interest. "I begin almost to see giimmerings of sense in what ou're saving. "He did? Really?"

Bunny nodded.
"There," said Tuck. "That just goes to show. I knew ne had some thing up his sleeve. He didn't want me to be here alone, even in the daytime. He's a nice thing even if is? A murder? Do you suppose ..." she shuddered.

"Don't be silly, Tuck. If it were a murder the boy and the gardener wouldn't be mixed up in it."

"And Miss Lissey—they're terribly queer, Bunny. But Michael makes me so cross! He let me sit here on the steps and tell him everything I know about Duncan Murchison and Miss Lissey and everything, and he didn't tell me a thing! It isn't fair, Bunny, And now he's gone over there with Gordon tent indeed!" she sniffed. "He's gone over there with Gordon just o ask him questions. Questions!

Where Is The Farmer To Go?

California resents and wants to refute John Steinbeck's representations of conditions there in his sensational book, "The Grapes of Wrath," in which dispossessed farmers of the southwestern dust bowl flock to the west coast expecting to find a horn of plenty, only to realize utter disappointment and to suffer incredible hardships.

But California is afraid that if she publicizes the denial, giving the impression that work is plentiful for fruit and cotton pickers, new hordes of "okies" Il pour in to augment the 200,000 already there.

This problem, however, pales into triviality in comparison with the one on the other end of the line -that of the Southwest's migratory labor, and of providing public assistance to farmers of Oklahoma Arkansas, Missouri, Texas and other states, who are being thrown out of their farms by violent "expulgive forces" such as mechanization, drouth, erosion and crop control measures.

The seriousness of the farmer-migrant's plight is increasing, and the riddle of helping him is getting farther from solution, according to authorities of the Works Progress administration, who have made a special study of the matter at the behest of President Roosevelt.

If California will curb the deceptive and unscrupulous methods some of its agriculturists use scrupulous methods some of its agriculturists use School-Visit in advertising for and recruiting seasonable labor. designed to bring many times more workers than of their dire need to hire them at literally starvation wages, it will go a long way toward relieving the wages, it will go a long way toward relieving the "okie" situation. But the big problem on the other end is more difficult.

WASHINGTON-Vice President Garner has ken such a firm hold of the administration's case in the neutrality fight that credit for repeal of the arms embargo likely will go to him if it goes to any

From the night of the first conference at the White Mouse at the beginning of the special session Garner has been a calming factor in the debate. I is reliably reported that he spoofed at frightene menators who said repeal of the arms embargo would be the first step of this country toward war.

His 30 years and more of experience in congre make an impressive record. His skill at unraveling legislative situations and interpreting public sentiment gives far more than average weight to his

It is all cloak-room operation. The members just naturally drift into his famous "bureau of educa tion," the vice president's private room off one corner of the senate chamber. There he talks frankly, at times bluntly, both with members of the senate and with certain news men in whom he places considerable confidence. He never is officially quoted but, on the other hand, the numerous quotations attributed to him are more often than not unofficially authorized.

IN FDR'S CAMP The debate on the neutrality bill was barely week old when it became known that Garner was advising senators against restrictions on American Senators objected that to let American ships ruise about the seas would run the risk of sinkings which would stir up American sentiment for retaliation. Again, Garner is credited with the assertion that public sentiment is so solidly against war that congress never would dare vote for any kind of participation unless sentiment changed radically.

His position on neutrality is right down the same lane with the administration's. This puts him in the Roosevelt camp almost for the first time since he led the last-minute demand for a compromise on the court bill in 1937.

So quiet is the Garner way of working-that it is almost over-looked that he has had a greater hand in the administration than almost any vice president since Jefferson. He maneuvered for the selection of Joe Byrnes as speaker of the house in the first New Deal congress. He had a guiding hand in the selection of Bankhead as speaker to succeed Byrnes on the latter's death, and in the selection of Representative Rayburn of Texas to succeed Bankhead as majority leader.

On an actual count of noses at those little "big hat" conferences at the White House, Garner might even be in the majority, with Rayburn and Bankhead as his allies and the president supported only by Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the senate majority

Plenty of fun and entertainmen was furnished by Lloyd Brooks and Carl Wevat who dressed in chef hats and aprons and prepared a cake. Ingredients were just those items that could be found handy and as the cake grew in volume, s did the gasps and laughs of the audience. After inserting the cake in the range and cooking it, by dint of black magic the two cooks pulled forth a two-tiered and iced affair

Judges of the cake contest were Mrs. French, and the hostesses, Mrs. W. J. McAdams Mrs. James T. Brooks and Mrs R. E. Blount, who announced the decision as a difficult one to make.

THE ENTIRE DEMONSTRATION IS FREE . . . Friday and Saturday . . . and, whether you are planning on purchasing new units in these lines or not, these demonstrations will be of benefit to you in the operation of your present appliances in a more economical manner. However, if your stove or heater is several seasons old it is probably costing you more to operate in wasted fuel each year than a new, efficient unit would cost. Now, during this demonstration period, would be an ideal time to trade and at ELROD'S you are always sure of the best trade-in value, most moderate prices and convenient weekly or monthly payments on any balance.
