Those who have been defending the frameup against Mooney have a remarkable answer to the report submitted to the president and congress by John Densmore, federal agent, which throws additional light on the framing. They declare that the federal government should not interfere with state matters, evidently not even to save the lives of American citizens. Yet the same interests urge intervention in Mexico and other places, with the saving of lives of Americans as the alleged reason.

Mr. Burrell Smith and Miss Mamie Evans were quietly married Tuesday evening at 9:00 at the Baptist parsonage, Rev. D. M. Gardner officiating.

CONVINCING TESTIMONY Given by Many Memphis People

Experiences told by Memphis people— Those who have had weak kidneys— Who used Doan's Kidney Pills— Who found the remedy effective— Such statements prove merit. You must believe Memphis people. Here's Memphis proof. Verify it. Read. Investigate. Be convinced. You'll find why Memphis folks believe in Doan's Kidney Pills. J. M. Norris, farmer, S. 7th St., says: "My back and kidneys were in bad shape. My back ached continually and through the small of my back was a steady, stinging pain. I could hardly bend over to do anything and mornings when I first got up my back was so lame and so stiff I had a hard time straightening up. When I stooped over I would get so dizzy I would fall on the floor. My kidneys were in awful condition and at night I had to get up frequently to pass the kidney secretions. I used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they put me in splendid shape again."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Norris had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Howard, Textile and Culinary.

HORSE BREEDERS OFFERED $5,430.00 BY STATE FAIR

PLANS BEING MADE FOR MAGNIFICENT SHOW IN OCTOBER.

Horse breeding is being given greater impetus by the State Fair of Texas. Many magnificent thoroughbred horses will be shown. Cash premiums aggregating $5,430.00 are offered at the Victory Fair for thoroughbreds; standard bred trotters; saddle horses; saddle horses—under saddle; saddle horses—walk, trot, canter; roadsters; draft geldings, and mares; S. and land ponies; Percherons; Morgans; Suffolks; Belgians; Jacks, Jennets and Mules.

There are also special prizes in this department. The Percheron Society of America offers special silver medals, trophies and ribbons.

There are many sections of Texas where it will be necessary to use teams for driving and for many grades of farm work for many years to come, experts say.

Desiring to help produce animals with better bone and that are better bred, the State Fair of Texas offers $1,520.44 in cash premiums for Jacks, Jennets and Mules at the Victory Fair this fall.

The Standard Jack and Jennet Registry of America offers $200.00 and ribbons. The Texas Jack and Jennet Association offers a total of $200.00 for four best Jacks and Jennets shown and owned by one exhibitor. Director R. K. Gaston and Superintendent Geo. R. King promise the best Horse Show yet, at Dallas in October.

TRACTOR-ARTILLERY AND HOWITZERS AT STATE FAIR

U. S. WAR DEPARTMENT TO SEND BIG SHIPMENT OF HEAVY GUNS TO DALLAS.

After a two weeks' visit to Washington, where he went in the interest of the Victory Fair, Secretary W. H. Stratton returned to Dallas the other day, well pleased with the results of his trip.

While in Washington Secretary Stratton arranged with the War Department for an exhibition of modern war implements that will require a special train to transport it to Dallas.

This exhibition will consist of tractor-artillery, anti-aircraft guns, heavy howitzers and other of the larger and more formidable engines of warfare invented, perfected and used by Uncle Sam in his recent victorious onslaughts against the Huns.

This display will be quite different from anything of the kind previously exhibited at fairs, or on Liberty Loan trains, in this district. It will be a liberal education in modern warfare.

School Children Should Fight 'Em

The schools must help in the campaign against flies. Each of the various grades should take a particular part of the work, says a writer in the International Harvester company bulletin. Let one grade canvass the town and enlist the grocer, meat shops, restaurants and householders in a movement to clean up alleys and back yards, provide for proper disposition of garbage and for sanitary outhouses. Another grade might make fly traps and sell them to the various grocers and butchers for use at their places of business and to the city authorities for use in public places. That was done successfully in Holland, Mich., last year.

Still another grade may collect all the information which can be secured on the subject of flies. All grades may write compositions on "The Fly," "The Fly's Travels," "Confessions of a Fly," "Dangers of a Housefly," and similar subjects. Prizes may be offered for the best essay from each grade.

Flies Diminish the Milk Flow By Annoying Cows

Cows seriously annoyed by flies do not give more than 60 per cent as much milk as they would ordinarily. It is to the advantage of farmers and others who keep cows to protect them from flies this summer. It can be done quite simply. In the first place, spray each animal with a mixture composed of three parts fish oil and one part kerosene. Apply it with a small spray pump. Secondly, keep the stable and barnyard as free as possible of manure. Remove it frequently and use some simple disinfectant freely about the premises.

Fly Talk is Dirty

When people discuss the fly evil frankly and seriously they use dirty talk necessarily. It is a nasty subject, but we are bound to consider it for our own protection, and to take steps to abate the evil.

How does typhoid fever spread? Generally it is communicated when the solid and liquid food to be eaten by healthy persons is contaminated in some manner with human excrement from someone who has the disease.

"This is where the house fly gets in its filthy work. Suppose your next-door neighbor has typhoid fever. The waste matter cast from his intestinal tract is emptied into the outside toilet on his premises. Flies swarm about the toilet vault until dinner time at your house. Then some of them attend your meal. They alight on the food and poison it with germs—either from their hairy feet or by depositing a speck which also contains germs. Do not pooh-pooh this statement. Ask your doctor if it is not the gospel truth. Then get busy and help kill the flies. Thus you may keep death out of your own home.

ON SUNSET HILL

By CHRISTINE HAYES.

As she pinned on her hat Anne Waring suppressed a savage desire to tear it into shreds and instead smiled encouragingly at her reflection in the cheap square mirror.

"A good, brisk walk, and you'll be a new woman, my dear," she said.

A good, brisk walk was Anne's stock remedy for a dark blue afternoon. It had never failed, perhaps because she was seldom troubled with dark blue afternoons.

Indirectly the hat was responsible for this one—hence the brief annihilative impulse. Directly, however, a thoughtless remark was to blame, one of those chance shots that hurt by their very truth.

It was Saturday, and a half-day at the office, so after lunch she had run in to see her sister. Her twelve-year-old niece, Ruth, had greeted her with "Oh, auntie, I just love you in that hat! Don't you think small hats are so much more becoming to middle-aged people?"

Anne had gasped, thankful that Ruth was rattling on without noticing her discomfiture. She had made a hurried departure and, locking herself in her lodging house room, had striven to readjust her world. Somehow she had never thought of herself as middle-aged. And by modern standards she was not. The idea had come like a shock, and it was not welcome. She could not have told why. Certainly she had expected to be middle-aged some time.

Now, standing on her gloves, she peered into the mirror again, more closely. Yes, the lines at the corners of her mouth were deepening. Picking up her hat she walked down the stairs rather slowly. At the street door she paused a moment, feeling as though she were about to face the world in a new character.

Once outside, however, the clear, cold air brought a rose pink to her cheeks and a sparkle to her eyes, and gradually her sense of depression slipped away before the thousand-and-one interesting things Anne always managed to see on her way.

"I'll walk out to Rolf," she decided, "and just about get there in time to see the sunset from that hill. Then I can take the car back."

Out in the more open spaces of the suburbs, Anne faced her problem squarely.

"You must get used to the idea, Anne Waring," she admonished herself. "You are middle-aged—middle-aged. I don't think it's the growing old that you mind, though, as much as the growing old in office-toiling-house restaurant surroundings. And your surroundings are your own fault; but it's too late now. You were foolish enough to let a silly quarrel with Peter spoil your whole life!"

But in spite of herself, Anne's mind dwelt on Peter Lee rather wistfully. Peter and she had been engaged for almost a year when a dispute had occurred over some trivial matter. To the dismay of each of them the dispute had of its own accord, it seemed, taken on the proportions of a quarrel. Both had been obstinate and proud, and at last Peter had gone away. Anne had never heard from him since.

She was still thinking of him when she reached Sunset Hill. She had timed her walk well, for the drama of the sunset was just being staged, the pine trees black against the glory of the flaming sky. Breathlessly Anne watched its gorgeous shifting.

"Anne Waring! What are you doing on my hill? Didn't you see my trespass signs? But the Spirit of Lost Happiness heeds no trespass signs. I, of all men might have known that."

At her name Anne had turned, to see Peter Lee.

"But—I'm not the Spirit of Lost Happiness," she protested, feeling strangely as though they had parted only yesterday.

"Well, if you're not the Spirit of Lost Happiness, perhaps—would you be the Spirit of Happiness, Anne—not lost, you know, but found? You see, you've haunted my thoughts so long that I'm bound to have you a spirit of some kind, Anne, you could forgive me—"

Anne forgave him. "Peter," she whispered a few moments later, "it—doesn't the sunset grow old gracefully!"

A Guest at His Wedding.

The beautifully engraved wedding invitation had hidden us to the wedding of a girl friend. The guests felt a certain anxiety at the girl marrying a man who was such a stranger to her and to all our townspeople. We wished she had married a man who had been her suitor for years.

When the ceremony had begun and the bride marched in to meet the bridegroom, a detective laid his hand upon the bridegroom's shoulder and asked him to watch the ceremony, then come with him. The former suitor stepped to the place and the wedding proceeded.

It seemed that the bride had discovered the bridegroom of the invitations to have committed a serious crime. Her knowledge came a few hours previous to the ceremony. Her old lover was sent for and she "showed" the culprit. — Chicago Tribune.

This company organized under a trust agreement with a capital of $250,000 which we regard as sufficient capital to give our leases a thorough test. We are preparing to drill our first well to a depth of at least 3000 feet if necessary or advisable.

The company owns the lease on 15,000 acres of land subject to one-eighth royalty to the land owner. These leases have been selected from a total acreage of about 18,000 acres and we have followed the advice of C. W. Buskirk, Eldorado, Kansas, our geologist, in the selection as regards the most likely looking leases.

When this company was formed we had no intention of offering any stock for sale or for that matter any leases. Public opinion has prevailed upon the officers of this company to such an extent that we are going to offer a small amount of stock and leases to those of you who are vitally interested in the development of the Memphis territory. Our reason for not offering any stock in the first place was because we consider this test a strictly wildcat proposition and rather than have any hard feelings should our test prove dry we much preferred to carry the entire burden of drilling this acreage ourselves.

We want it distinctly understood that when a man puts his money in a proposition of this nature that he stands considerable of a risk. Under no circumstances do we want anyone to become interested with us as a stockholder unless he can afford to lose what he puts into the deal. We believe that we have a mighty good chance to get OIL in paying quantities and have this opinion particularly upon the advice of our geologist. We have utmost faith in his ability and are ready to spend our money upon his recommendation.

It is our candid opinion that when it comes right down to brass tacks that there is only one real safeguard that a prospective stockholder can take in the purchase of stock in a company prospecting for oil, and that is to assure himself that the money he puts into the company will be expended in an honest endeavor to obtain oil or gas. If a person can afford to take the chance the purchase of stock in this company is an excellent gamble. For the reason that should we be successful in producing oil in paying quantities the stock in this company will undoubtedly pay handsome returns for the investment. If you are interested we want you to take the time to investigate the officers of this company as we know that such an investigation will prove of much satisfaction to you.

In the event you decide to become interested with us and desire any additional information we want you to feel perfectly free in communicating with the company at Kansas City or our home office at Memphis.

CONGOLEUM Gold Seal ART-RUGS

"That Seal Guarantees Congolem Quality," —says the salesman, pointing to it on the rug.

"We are glad they put the Gold Seal where you can't help seeing it, because it protects both you and us."

"We recommend Congolem Art-Rugs wherever a low-priced floor-covering is desired for there is nothing else that answers the purpose so well. First, it is sanitary and easy to keep clean. There is no burlap in a Congolem Rug, so water won't hurt it. A damp mop will keep the colors clear and bright."

"Second, a Congolem Rug is very durable. The surface is wear-resisting and absolutely sanitary. Then, too, it lies perfectly flat without any fastening."

"And remember, this Gold Seal which is on every genuine Congolem Art-Rug guarantees every good point I have told you about them."

"The most surprising thing about Congolem Art-Rugs is their low price. Let us show you the many beautiful designs in our stock."
