Poles Claim Nazi Area Penetrated

Germans Concentrate At Points In Tatra And Silesia

WARSAW, Sept. 4 (AP)—A communique from the Polish general staff today announced withdrawal of Polish forces from Czesochowa, a town of 120,000 in southwest Poland, after a strong offensive by greatly superior German forces using tanks and heavy artillery.

During the struggle for the town, 20 miles from the border, there was a sharp conflict between Polish planes and a German armored unit, official reports said. The planes bombed and machinegunned the troops, dispersing two columns and inflicting heavy casualties. The Poles admitted loss of four planes.

The resurgence of popular courage, inspired by the entry of Britain and France into the war as allies of Poland, was spurred anew by the claim of official sources that Polish troops had penetrated German territory for the first time.

The official reports said fast-acting Polish cavalry Saturday recaptured Leszno and Rawicz, Pomerania province towns occupied by Nazi forces in their initial attack, and drove the invaders back across the border. The Polish vanguard, it was said, has advanced into German Pomerania, north of Breslau.

News of the war declarations in Paris and London was greeted by spontaneous celebrations throughout Poland. In Warsaw, singing and cheering throngs trooped through the streets, defied air raid dangers. Despite repeated radio warnings, the streets were jammed for hours. In one raid during the day, a German plane dived over the villa of United States Ambassador Anthony Joseph Drexley Biddle, Jr., in a Warsaw suburb and dumped six bombs. One of them wrecked a villa next to Biddle's and shattered windows in his home, but the ambassador and his household escaped harm.

TEXANS ABOARD ILL-FATED LINER ENROUTE TO CANADA

DALLAS, Sept. 4 (AP)—Don Stewart, Dallas, whose daughter, Betty Jane, was among passengers of the sunken Athenais, said today he had been informed the rescued passengers were en route to Montreal in three rescue ships, conveyed by British naval vessels.

Stewart, manager of a hotel here, said he could not reveal the source of his information, but he added it was "completely reliable."

A short wave broadcast from Nova Scotia, picked up by a resident of the hotel, gave the same report sometime after he first received it, Stewart said.

Toddie Lee Wynn of Dallas, an attorney whose daughter, Jerry Jane, was also aboard the boat, said he had received no word as to what disposition was being made of the rescued passengers.

MANILA, Sept. 5 (Tuesday)—(AP)—Reports in the Chinese community here that the British steamer Anking had been torpedoed between Manila and Shanghai were discounted by agents of the line early today who said the ship was immediately north of Manila Bay, close to the United States Olongapo naval base.

They said the Anking sailed at 1 p. m. Monday and could not have reached the area where she was reported to have been torpedoed. The ship was carrying more than 300 passengers.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4 (AP)—A Japanese dispatch from Amoy tonight said it was reported in Amoy the 3,472-ton British steamer Anking had been torpedoed between Manila and Hongkong.

Butterfield and Swire, operators of the ship, said they had no information on the reported attack. The Anking has been used in a service between Amoy, south China port, and Manila.

SIGN PEACE PACT

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—American actors and stagehands were at peace today.

Their "war," which had threatened to paralyze the theatrical and motion picture industries, ended within a few hours of a deadline set for a national actors' strike.

Frank Gillmore, president of the Associated Actors and Artistes of America, parent of American Federation of Labor actor unions, announced the signing of a peace pact here last night.

France Moves To Relieve Polish Ally

Battle Begun In Belfort Region, Attack Nazi West Wall

PARIS, Sept. 4 (AP)—France opened land, sea and air operations today against Germany.

The war ministry announced the nation's full forces went into action in a campaign to relieve German pressure on France's eastern ally, Poland.

Attack At Belfort
On the western front, it was reported in corridors of the chamber of deputies, a French land offensive was concentrated in the Belfort region where the Burgundy gate cuts across the Rhine into the Reich, just north of the three-cornered border between France, Switzerland and Germany.

The Burgundy gate is a valley running northwest between the Vosges mountains and the Alps into Germany's Black Forest.

Details of any planned attack to crack Germany's famed "west wall" fortifications across from France's Maginot line were withheld.

The air force was understood to be cooperating with ground forces, while the fleet held battle positions in the western Mediterranean.

Authorities started emptying Paris hospitals for military use. The first night of France's state of war with Germany passed without word on the firing of a shot.

The communique came as the first indication France's 8,000,000-man military machine had gone into action.

Shortly before 11 a. m., French heavy bombers flew low over the capital, heading eastward toward the German frontier.

Reports from eastern France said the French forces were getting set with disposition of covering troops in and around the Maginot line facing Germany.

Anti-aircraft batteries were said to have been thoroughly camouflaged to meet the "lightning war" on wings expected from the east of the Rhine.

France's obligation to help Poland came into force technically at 5 p. m. (10 a. m. CST) yesterday at the previously specified time Germany had not given a "satisfactory answer" to the French ultimatum German troops be withdrawn from Poland.

Later, Premier Daladier made a three-minute radio speech, characterizing the German invasion of Poland "one of the most brutal and cynical aggressions" and declaring, "the cause of France is the cause of justice."

France, he would, would triumph.

The German charge d'affaires and 130 other members of the German embassy and consulate staffs departed at 11:08 p. m. (4:08 p. m. CST), their homeward journey protected by mobile guardmen.

They were headed toward the home post at Fort Francis E. Warren resumed.

The infantry, traveling in 189 motorized units, rolled into the city park shortly after 3 p. m. and set up camp at the community center where they camped a month ago.

ITALY TO REMAIN NEUTRAL? INDICATIONS POINT THAT WAY

ROME, Sept. 4 (AP)—Added indication of Italy's intention to remain neutral in the European war was provided today in the announcement Italian passenger lines would resume their sailings in a few days.

The announcement was made even as predictions were heard freely Italy's neutrality would be short-lived.

Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano said liners which had been held in their home ports for the past week intended to depart within two or three days.

This was considered a sign Italy not only intended to stay out of hostilities but expected France and Great Britain would continue to maintain normal relations with her in spite of her military alliance with Germany.

Meanwhile, Premier Mussolini kept to himself the position he has chosen, and the British and French governments were expected to ask within a few days for a precise statement of Italy's intentions.

Although many observers thought Italy might try to remain neutral because of what they considered the reluctance of Italian soldiers to fight for Germany, Premier

Roosevelt Voices A Plea For "True Neutrality"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt wrestled today with the weighty problems of American neutrality after making a solemn pledge to try to prevent a "breakout of peace in the United States."

It was generally expected he would hold a formal invocation of the neutrality act at least "until" after the cabinet has held a special meeting at 1 p. m. CST.

The president made his neutrality plea to the nation in a radio address on the same Sunday Great Britain and France joined Poland in war against Germany.

His brief talk was heard by millions of persons, both in this and other countries, who have been eagerly seeking light on the question.

Can the United States keep out of a conflict in which four European powers already have become embroiled?

Pausing between words for emphasis, Mr. Roosevelt said: "I hope the United States will keep out of this war, I believe that it will and I give you assurance and reassurance that every effort of your government will be directed toward that end.

"As long as it remains within my power to prevent, there will be no blackout of peace in the United States."

Less than two hours after he had concluded, however, administration concern over the European situation was heightened by the torpedoing of the British liner Athenais, carrying Canadians and some Americans from England to Canada.

One Killed In Race Crackup

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4 (AP)—Seven of the nation's most daring pilots were ready for today's 300-mile Thompson trophy race feature of the national air races, holding the memory of yesterday's death-marked 200-mile Greve trophy race which was won by Art Chester, 39, of Los Angeles, at a record average speed of 253.390 miles an hour.

Lee Williams, 31, of Redondo Beach, Calif., crashed to his death at the start of the Greve when his plane went into a spin and smashed into the ground, nose on, about 300 feet outside Cleveland airport as a crowd of 60,000 looked on.

The seven pilots expected to start in the $35,000 Thompson race at 3 p. m. (CST). They included:

Col. Roscoe Turner, Chicago, two-time Thompson victor, who qualified at closed course world record speed of 297.767 miles an hour.

Earl Ortman, Canadian Colonial Airways flier of Newark, N. J., Tony Levier, Los Angeles.

Explosives Dropped By Low-Flying German Plane

WARSAW, Sept. 4 (AP)—The United States ambassador to Poland reported to the state department in Washington today he believed the bombing of his villa in a Warsaw suburb yesterday was deliberate.

The ambassador, Anthony Joseph Drexley Biddle Jr., said the German plane which dumped six bombs on his and adjoining villas, looted its cargo at a low altitude, just before it came out of a power dive.

One of the bombs wrecked a nearby villa. Windows in the Biddle house were shattered but members of the household escaped unhurt. Biddle said incendiary bombs fell on the villa grounds but failed to explode.

The ambassador had leased the villa, at Konstancin, 10 miles west of Warsaw, when war appeared imminent, to enable his family and

Large Crowd At Reunion

Greeting old friends and making new ones was the principal feature of the fifth annual reunion of former Franklin county residents held Sunday at the city park with approximately 400 present.

Travelling from as far as Plant City, Florida, as did Mrs. Oma Day, a former resident of Mount Vernon, and flocking from Big Spring and surrounding towns, members of the association met for a basket lunch and barbecue and a brief business meeting.

L. H. White of Stanton, president of the group, was in charge of a business session that closed with the re-election of all officers.

Others to be re-elected were Finley Moore of Seminole, secretary; and the finance committee composed of T. J. A. Robinson, L. H.

QUEEN MARY REACHES NEW YORK AFTER SAFE CROSSING

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—The $25,000,000 British liner Queen Mary reached New York safely today with a record list of 2,331 passengers after a swift voyage through north Atlantic waters made perilous by prowling sea raiders.

The giant ship was at sea when war was declared.

On board were J. P. Morgan and hundreds of other American war refugees, happy to escape the fate of their fellow countrymen on the British ship Athenais, sunk off Scotland.

Stored in the Queen Mary's hold were 810 boxes of gold, valued at $44,550,000.

As in the World War, however, sudden death lurked on the surface and below to endanger thousands of other Americans speeding to their homeland sanctuary, many on vessels flying foreign flags.

Postmaster-General James A. Farley and Norma Sisener were in mid-ocean aboard the crowded Manhattan of the U. S. lines, due here Thursday.

Fears for the safety of American passengers being carried by British and French vessels were increased by sinking of the Athenais, apparently portending renewal of the submarine warfare during which Germany sent 5,308 allied and neutral vessels to the bottom during the World War.

Churchill Says That Ship Was Torpedoed

All But Few Killed In Explosion Are Reported Saved

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP)—A rescue fleet, guarded by guns of British destroyers, was officially reported today to have saved all but the few persons killed by the explosion which sank the Donaldson liner Athenais, which British officials said was torpedoed by a German submarine in the open North Atlantic.

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP) (Via Radio)—A German news agency release given out here by Baron von Helldorf of the German diplomatic staff vigorously denied Germany was responsible for the sinking of the liner Athenais.

The release of the German news agency included this statement: "We can only say that in accordance with the definite instructions of the Fuehrer, the German armed forces are doing nothing contrary to international law and treaties signed by the Reich. The way in which the report of the sinking has been circulated can only be regarded as an attempt to influence American public opinion in favor of those who want a further widening of the conflict."

number of dead. The main basis for hope was the announcement which the Athenais' master, Captain James Cook, wirelessly said: "Passengers and crew except those killed by explosion took to boats and were picked up by various ships."

This announcement was made by the ship's line (Donaldson Atlantic) and was confirmed by the admiralty.

Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, declared in the House of Commons today the Athenais "was torpedoed without the slightest warning."

Giving official particulars of the disaster in the north Atlantic, Churchill said the vessel with about 1,400 persons aboard, including more than 300 Americans, was torpedoed at 8:59 p. m. (1:59 p. m. CST) "about 200 miles northwest of Ireland."

"It certainly was torpedoed without the slightest warning," Churchill said, "and in circumstances which the opinion of the world after the late war—and in which Germany concurred—had stigmatized as inhuman."

"According to my present information, the ship was not armed as an auxiliary cruiser."

Churchill said the Athenais sailed before war was declared and orders had been given for convoys on one ship route Sunday. He said a general convoy system was being pressed into operation as quickly as possible.

Officials did not announce from See CHURCHILL, Page 5, Col. 6

Court Charges Grand Jury

Grand jurors, sworn in for the September term of 70th district court as it convened Monday morning, were charged by District Judge Cecil C. Collings to adhere strictly to their oath.

SIEGFRIED LINE RELIED ON TO HOLD BRITAIN-FRANCE

BERLIN, Sept. 4 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, relying on the Siegfried Line of fortifications in the west to "shield and defend" Germany against Britain and France, joined his troops on the eastern front today to direct the drive to conquer Poland and thus "burst open the ring laid around Germany."

Declaring "Germany will never again capitulate," the Fuehrer left behind him an assurance the task of subjugating Poland will take "only a few weeks," if the western army does its duty in holding off Poland's two allies.

"Then," he added, in a special message to the army facing France, "the strength of our entire ninety millions stands behind you."

Hitler took claim of the news of the joint declaration of war by Britain and France.

New war-time measures were put into effect immediately. All railway connections with France were broken off.

The army command said the rail center of Czesochowa, on the Warta river in Polish Silesia, had been captured, as well as the town of Newark. The German official news agency, DNB, reported seven Polish planes and one balloon destroyed in an air raid on Warsaw.

The army command also said German air losses for Friday and Saturday were 21 planes, compared with 130 for the Poles. The communique did not list any casualties.

Hitler emphasized several times in his message yesterday that Germany now is stronger than it was at the outbreak of the World war in 1918.

The nonaggression pact with Russia also was emphasized.

After a sharp fight, marked by bitter partisanship among individuals on both sides, the senate bill authorizing an eight-million-dollar addition to the 1940 census for a tabulation of housing and living conditions passed the house in the closing days of the session. This was the bill which was characterized as an invasion of privacy rights, a "snooping expedition" for propaganda purposes, the bill which "women would just hate."

There are some who resent many activities of the federal government as an invasion of their rights, and many are the instances in which government information has been turned for propaganda purposes. But the housing census will serve another purpose than providing arguments for those who hold that one-third or more of the nation is ill-housed, or for those who doubt it. Its function is not the aid of partisanship, but the advancement of the national welfare.

The 1940 census, with its questions on various economic and sociological conditions, will furnish the first complete portrait of America's other half. For the first time many matters of national welfare will be presented in definite figures. In many fields it will give a final answer to questions which have been answered heretofore, by compilations from antagonistic or interested sources. In others, it will provide a complete count where only cross-sectional estimates have been possible before. Many of the questions which the nation is asking, and which the census will endeavor to answer, have become matters of common dispute only in recent years. But other administrations have been handicapped by a lack of definite figures, and valuable pieces of legislation, in the past, have been lost or mutilated by confusion of fact.

Eight million dollars spent to learn definitely the way in which our nation lives will furnish a useful basis for future national planning.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—This may seem a little uncalculated for, but I am getting tired of books whose heroines wear leather jackets and who march in parade and advocate violence on street corners under the logic that anyone has the right to live his own life without regard for other people.

More and more books of this character are left by publishers on my desk—for review purposes I suppose, and for friendly comment. Three such novels, all with ink under, came this week, and I weren't so lazy I'd wrap them up and send them all back, with a request that my name be dropped from such lists in the future.

It may be that my increasing annoyance can be traced to pure senility, but then all my life I have hated authors who go out of their way to defeminize their heroines, and if there is anything feminine in a shrew shrieking politics under the gas lights in vacant lots, then I read the wrong fairy tales when I was a boy.

I have always hated James Fenimore Cooper because he invariably referred to his heroines as "healthy young females." Instead of saying that the ladies waited for the gentlemen on the veranda, he would say, "The females waited for the males on the porch." Without this I could forgive Cooper his thousand other sins, even his invariable crime of dullness, but to be slapped in the face with a stocky phrase every time you expected a dimple—that cured me at a very early age.

cannot say that I care particularly for the fictional women of John Steinbeck, although when you skim off the slop you find that "Grapes of Wrath" is an extraordinary book. It is extraordinary in the sense that it has slapped the country in the face with a very ugly allegation, and when people become sufficiently uncomfortable about an intolerable situation they usually try to do something about it. But I think Steinbeck weakens his own hand by painting all his people with the same brush. I mean I think his argument would carry more drive if he would write at least one book on a varying theme, because a lot of people then would accept him as a versatile artist rather than as an able but perhaps slightly fanatical crusader. After all, it is easier to be impressed by the views of a man who knows both sides of a question than by a man who sees only one.

But now I see that I have mentioned James Fenimore Cooper in the same breath with John Steinbeck, and I ought to apologize. To Mr. Steinbeck, I mean, Mr. Steinbeck's women are pretty horrible at times, but at least they are womanly and not just "females" who have nothing to recommend them except that they are healthy and young.

The Timid Soul

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

By Marie Blizard

Chapter 29
'A LOT OF TELLING'
 "Where is Philip?"
 "In jail, ma'am."

"I beg your pardon?" Locke mocked.
 "Say, you even got me mixed up." The sheriff roared at his joke.
 "Olivia said, 'Mr. Callen isn't Mr. Callen,' as though that explained it."

"He's a long-wanted jewel thief member of an international ring," Dr. MacDonald said.
 "Cecily said, 'And I'm the Queen of the May, I suppose. Or, am I delirious?'"
 "Gloria said, 'If you'll all keep quiet I'll try to make it plain. Cecily, Philip Callen is really Sicel Rawlins. Only he's really...'"

Gloria broke down, laughing. She reached across Cecily's cot and clutched Locke's good hand. "This is Philip Callen, you little liar! Your fiancé!"
 Cecily sat up.
 "No, she isn't a liar, Miss Watta. She is my fiancée, aren't you, darling?"

"In that case," Olivia pronounced, wrapping her quilt about her. "I suggest that we go and have a look at the remnants of my house and allow Cecily's fiancée to tell her the story herself."
 "Don't forget your jewels, Mother," Gloria said, picking up the leather case that had been lying on the table. You ought to have learned a lesson tonight."
 Cecily's eyes avoided Locke's—only he wasn't Locke any more—as the others went out.

Then she said, "I wish I could crawl under this cot."
 He said, "Shut up!"
 "Oh, Locke... I mean..."
 "Locke's my name," he said. "I told you it was, Philip Locke Callen."

You told it to me once before and I didn't believe you. Oh, darling, how can you ever forget the way I've treated you! The things I thought about you! Only I didn't down in my heart."
 I know more about your heart than you do, young lady, and I'm going to spend the rest of my life telling you about it."
 You'll have a lot of telling to do! And you might start now. I'm completely in the dark. You seem to be everybody's darling as well as mine. Of course, that's not unexpected except that they don't know you as well as I do. You see that's the surprising thing about it. I didn't know that they knew you."

"They didn't, Cecily. I never noticed before that your nose turns up. I thought you were oily turning it up at me."
 "I'll do worse than that if you don't go on."
 "Well, then, not only was I unknown here but I am also practically unknown everywhere and that's the way it all began."
 "Fairy Writer?"

"Are you really going to talk sense?" she pleaded.
 "If I don't look at you I may be able to. Remember my mind wanders. All right... all right, look out for that bad arm. Now then—I'm a pulp writer, which means that nobody ever heard of me because I use a string of pen names. I did have one book to which I lavishly attached my real name. And that one book didn't make me famous. As far as I know, no one had ever heard of Philip Callen."

He struggled to get at a cigarette with his left hand. Cecily managed it for him.
 "I'm going to be a help to you," she said.

"You are, my love. I got this," he indicated his helpless hand, "slugging a guy right on the knicker."
 "What's a knicker?"
 He demonstrated.

"We'll probably have to spend the winter here if I'm to hear the rest of this story," she said patiently.
 "Imagine my surprise one bright morning to discover why the New York Chronicle that I—Philip Callen, no less—prominent author was the house-guest of the distinguished Madame Darrell."
 "I saw that clipping. In fact I sent it to Jean Tullip of the Chronicle myself."
 "Providence moves in a strange way... Well, sir, I say to myself I'd better take myself for a little trip and find out what poor block has to use my name. Then, on that fortuitous night when I fell into your clutches..." Cecily made a face at him and got kissed for her trouble.

"Where was I? Oh, yes that first night... I discovered that you seemed startled when I told you my real name. I see, Philip! This lady knows that bird and may be we can find out something! But I never expected to find out that you were engaged to him. Now I'm an honorable young man and I don't believe that a fellow should use another fellow's name when he asks a girl to marry him."

He paused to get her approval.
 "I'm glad I can count on you," she replied obligingly. "But I told you I really wasn't engaged to him, didn't I?"

"Yes, ma'am, and right then I got thinking. I looked that fellow over and I thought: what would he want to stick around a place like Darrel's all summer for? It didn't look right. It was fishy enough to make me stick around and watch."
 "Then Lady Whosis told a valuable pin and Pushface was on the party. I thought I'd have a look at the records and see if he had any portraits hanging around the detective bureau. He had, Cecily. Front and side views and five thousand dollars reward from a syndicate of insurance companies."
 "Why didn't you nab him then?" Cecily demanded, unconscious that she was falling into Locke's vocabulary.

"It's been tried before, dear child. He's slick. The idea was to get the goods on him. You and Laura almost forced my hand. Then the night that the brute slugged her from behind..."
 "Oh, my darling, is that what happened?"

"That's what happened. How it did, I don't know, but I picked her up in the road, unconscious, and she says no one knew that she was coming to my place."
 "Heaven!"
 "Wait a minute, Locke... I'm remembering something! That night I called Laura on the telephone and said that I wanted to see you. I called from the house and Philip must have overheard me and been suspicious that I was suspicious. Go on."
 "Then he probably slugged her thinking she was you. Next step was easy. Everybody knew about the concert, knew that it was a dressed-up affair, that this opera gang would be bringing a fortune in jewels. Any child would know that this was the night when a thief would pull his big coup..."

 "But Mrs. Goodale's necklace?"
 "He didn't intend to do that. He just got itchy fingers and couldn't resist the temptation. Discretion got the better part of valor and he slipped it into your pocket."
 "But what were you doing at the Yacht Club?"

"Having what's known as a look-see. I'd been away looking up so many records and thought I'd find out if he was still around when I got back. I knew you'd start asking me questions, as usual, so I ducked..."
 Cecily's cheeks were pink with excitement. "Go on, dear, this is more exciting than any of it. What about tonight?"

"For awhile I was afraid I'd miss tonight and I got in a stew. Had to go to New York to finish a movie sale. By the way, we'll have ten thousand dollars to start married life on. Five for the sale of the book and five for the reward."
 "Money! You talk of money when I'm expiring with curiosity!"
 "Honey, I've been hanging around these grounds all evening waiting for you all to go to bed. Then I settled down cozily to a little meditation outside of Madame Darrell's room, knowing the jewel Rawlins would make for there."

"What I didn't count on was that he was going to start a fire to cover up and grab the loot—in the excitement I thought he'd just grab and run. He gave the alarm himself and the fire was well under way when he gave it. Madame Darrell rushed out of her room. He rushed in! So did I! Well..." He shrugged his shoulders.

"I know the rest," she said sweetly.
 "You knocked him out and got him... well, I know that they've got him. Then you came looking for me, didn't you?"
 "Well, I went looking for you. I thought it was time I put you in your place."
 "Fit on some stone steps?"
 "Oh, sweet! I'm sorry... but I've got two arms and they both belong to you."

"You've got a black eye! And I suppose that belongs to me, too?"
 "That's what they call a nose, Cecily. And you're right, it belongs to you. Having only one eye, I'll have to see through yours."
 Cecily swayed toward him.
 "Philip Callen, no mere man could bear the brightness of the thing I'm seeing through them now."
 "Close them," he said, "and tell me what you see now." He kissed them gently and Cecily said, "Heaven!"

The End.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—Maybe our own observations are limited but it is dawn upon us that we are not often finding Gideon Bibles in hotel rooms any more.
 People who live about in hotels and chance to take a moment to look in the upper right hand bureau drawer will tell you that once upon a time you could bank on finding a Bible there, printed in large type so it could be read by a light swaying to the blast of an electric fan.

Out West we used to cruise about and scarcely ever did we find a Bible. It became sort of a rite with us, first to turn on all the lights and then to hunt for it.
 We have found the Bible in the Colonial hotel in Denver, the Bonneville hotel in Idaho Falls, and the Sir Francis Drake hotel in San Francisco. That sort of proved the geographic distribution so far as the West was concerned.

EAST IN A BAD WAY
 Our recent cruises have been mostly confined to the East, and our luck in finding Bibles has been increasingly poor.
 You must understand that we do not keep the Bibles when we find them. The Gideon society distributes them as a philanthropic enterprise to provide traveling salesmen and an occasional newspaper man with something elevating to do.

There is a stern warning against taking the Bibles, a warning we have always felt obliged to heed. We have some special feeling that it is an extraordinarily evil thing to steal a Bible, even from a hotel room.
 Our first discovery of the absence of Gideon Bibles was in Washington. At that time we lightly attributed it to the chance that hotels and the Gideon people had limited faith in politicians. In Washington they see all kinds, and likely enough are most impressed by the worst.

But we missed the Bibles again in Cleveland and at the last republican national convention. We stayed that time at the Cleveland hotel, a very top-flight hostelry. To be strictly non-partisan, we will add that we did not find any Bibles in the Ritz-Carlton nor the Bellevue-Stratford hotels in Philadelphia at the time of the democratic convention.

BAD PRESS RELATIONS
 It is possible the Bibles were whisked out in advance of the conventions. After all, they were designed to be saved for more or less constant travelers, like salesmen, and not for random politicians.
 Last year we found such Bibles in one or two hotels in which we stayed in Boston, but don't ask which. We can't remember the name of either.
 New York has left us with a zero. Not a Gideon Bible have we found.

But one friend, who says that once upon a time he did find a Gideon Bible on a dull evening, convinced himself that even Jesus at times had troubles with His press relations.
 Jesus cured a dumb man at Sideon and urged that news of the miracle not be published, "but the more He urged, the wider published it was."

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—It's a little snow-white bungalow with baby-blue window shutters and you'd expect Shirley Temple to live there.
 You know who does live there? Bela Lugosi, Bela, the bogeyman, and Mrs. Bela, his young American wife, and Bela Jr., who is 15 months old now. A delicious suggestion of an aroma insinuates itself into the atmosphere from the kitchen. There's a Hungarian cook in there, and what a cook! Bela is just up—he reads until 4 a. m. daily and is having his unghoulish breakfast of cantaloupe, peaches, gooseberries, milk—but our lunch is a dream of fragrance and delight. Stuffed cabbage, ah-h-h! A meal in itself, and such a meal! Then coffee, and a dessert—palacinta. That's a Hungarian pancake, folded over guava and papaya jelly.

Then talk. Movie villains, especially the horror men, are charming people. That goes for Karloff, for Peter Lorre, for Lugosi. They do not always tend their flowers personally, but almost invariably they love their children and dogs.

The living room is not elaborate. The house is small, not like the mansion the Lugosis had once upon a time. The furniture is heavy, leather-upholstered. The enormous grand piano fills one-third of the room.
 Bela has just done what every actor wants to do. He has worked with Garbo. A small role in "Ninotchka." Small, but important to him. This, he says, may be the role that will restore him to his lost past. He shares the scenes alone with Garbo. He plays a straight character, not a bogeyman. Producers, directors, will see the Garbo picture because they will see Garbo. Lugosi hopes also they will see Lugosi, playing straight.

His is not a new story to Hollywood. For 20 years he was on the Hungarian stage, went to New York a success. Because he played there the horror role of "Dracula" and was brought to Hollywood to make the picture, he became "Dracula" to movie-makers. This was well—he had a mansion then—until the censors clamped down on horror pictures.

"For two years," he says, "I did not work. I sat by the telephone, hypnotized it by sitting looking at it, waiting for a call. None came. I lost my home, my car, my furniture, almost everything. I borrowed money to live. I almost went crazy."
 "Then, a little theatre in town tried an experiment. A full bill of horror films. 'Frankenstein' and 'Dracula' together. Lines waited outside to get in, night after night. The horror vogue swept the country. Universal promptly called Karloff and Lugosi for 'The Son of Frankenstein.' Lugosi's small role was expanded as the film developed, expanded to equal Karloff's. After that, Lugosi had 'come back,' was in demand again.

"The baby came," says Bela, "just before that picture. There is a Hungarian proverb which applies: 'When the Lord gives a lamb, he provides a pasture for it.'"
 Today, thanks to that picture, to "The Shadow Creeps," to "Ninotchka" and others, Lugosi has reclaimed his car, his furniture, paid all his debts.

Barons And Midland Collide In Pair Of Games Today

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

Tony Rego's Big Spring baseball club has hardly played like a first division team during the past week. The string of reversals have shoved them dangerously near the second division and today their chances of winding up in the Shaughnessy playoff depended only on their ability to win at least one game from the Midland Cowboys.

True to baseball tradition, they cannot expect Sammy Hale and his bunch of boys to "give" them anything. If they want the win, they must go out and fight for it. The Cowhand pitchers will be trying for their victories just as they did the first game of the season. The Midland hitters will be just as serious in bidding for their base hits.

Players throughout the circuit have expressed dissatisfaction at participating in the playoff. Many say their pay will not justify the effort that will be put forth in the prolonged series.

However, Jimmy Morris' Berger club doesn't seem to be taking it that way. They're keeping in the scrap all the way and have left it entirely up to the Barons. League history will certainly be written today. It's the closest finish for a first division slot that the league has ever experienced.

Harry Faulkner, business manager of the Lubbock club, asked permission of the other teams which will participate in the playoff to use Emmett Fullenwider, Lamesa outfielder. That request was promptly refused. The Hubbers have been weakened by the loss of Malcolm Stevens, who was recently subjected to an operation.

Pup Thomas, Lubbock fight promoter, was in town Saturday afternoon with Babe Ritchie, one of the principals in the Sept. 18 scrap at Lubbock.

Ritchie is enroute to Abilene where he will set up temporary training quarters. Thomas said Max Baer, Ritchie's opponent, will arrive in Texas Wednesday to begin final drills for Ritchie.

Ritchie said he was in great shape and expected to hold his own with the former world's champion. Tickets for the scrap, now on sale at Cunningham and Phillips No. One drug store will be offered to local fans only through Saturday night, Thomas said.

Texas League Positions Are Yet In Doubt

By the Associated Press

Texas league teams dug in for the last five days remaining in the regular race, with the prospect for the complete list of four qualifiers for the Shaughnessy playoff would not be settled before the final game. The playoff starts Sunday.

Houston has first place and the league's $1,200 bonus for the full season clinched. Games Sunday left San Antonio in second place, Dallas and Fort Worth were tied for third just above Shreveport.

Fort Worth beat Dallas 4-2, Tulsa won 3-0 from Oklahoma City, then dropped the second game of a doubleheader 9-0, and San Antonio beat Beaumont 6-1.

Both Games Go Extra Innings; Berger Is Near

By HANK HART

With their very backs to the wall, the Big Spring Barons moved to their own theater of war today for a pair of games with the Midland Cowboys that will decide their final standings in the WT-NM league.

The afternoon game, to which all women were to be admitted free, was to get underway around 3:30 o'clock. The two teams will return to action at 8:30 this evening.

The Barons faced the prospect of needing victory in today's encounter. By winning one of the two trays they can finish the campaign in fourth place in league standings. If they drop a pair and Berger is successful in its two games with Clovis they will drop into the second division.

The Regomen faded badly in their Sunday assignments at Midland, losing two extra inning encounters. Midland won the opener, 6-5, behind the fine elbowing of Lefty Shelton then captured the nightcap, 9-8, as Bill Walker threw a monkey wrench into their offensive machine.

The Barons chased five runs across in the third inning of the initial fray but Shelton held them at bay thereafter.

The Cowboys put together hits by Conley Cox, and Jimmy Kerr, a sacrifice by Sammy Hale and a base blow by Kirby Jordan to score the winning run in the ninth inning of the opener.

In the afterpiece the Big Springers tallied twice in the first, saw the Waddies take the lead, then rallied late to deadlock the score and send the game into extra innings only to have the opposition outlast them.

Hits by Carroll Willoughby and Lynn Everson gave the Cowhands their winning run after two men had been retired in the eighth.

Jodie Marek started on the hill for the Barons but failed to survive a third inning storm and was relieved by Clarence Thantam, who was charged with the reversal.

ARRIVES IN TEXAS THIS WEEK

LUBBOCK, Sept. 4 (Sp)—Two of the most famous characters in prize fighting, Ancl Hoffman, left, and Mike Maxie Baer, right, will arrive in West Texas this week. Hoffman, manager of Baer, is ranked as one of the smartest fight managers in the business. It was Hoffman who piloted Baer from nowhere to the world's heavyweight championship. And it is Hoffman who is keeping Baer at the top as a challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight crown. Of course it is Baer who does all the fighting and it will be Baer here on Monday night, September 18, when the ex-champion goes against youthful Babe Ritchie of Lubbock in a ten round bout. Promoters Benny Woodall and Jimmy Koenig made several trips to Los Angeles and dangled ten grand before Hoffman's eyes before he would agree to let his Livermore Larruper battle Lubbock's sensational Babe Ritchie who has only been fighting professionally the last two years. Wiseacres claim that Baer will rock Ritchie into dreamland before the second round. Baer, wise in the art of ringcraft and packing the same 'deadly blows that lifted him into the world's title, should be the heavy favorite but don't think for a minute that he will have an easy time. Ritchie, fresh from three consecutive victories and in the best condition of his life, has just finished training under the guidance of Tony Herrera the old lightweight who was a past master at boxing. Herrera claims Ritchie, now smarter and hitting much harder, has a real chance to knockout Baer and step into the limelight where the big-time boys battle for real dough. Ritchie has been training in Dallas but moves his training site to Lubbock within a week. It is the consensus that twenty thousand people will witness the fight. Ticket reservations may be made at Cunningham & Phillips, No. One, drugstore.

Bosox Fans Stage Riot As Umpire Forfeits 2nd Game To New Yorkers

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

Lots of jests have been made that opponents of the world champion Yankees should forfeit their games and be done with it, but it was an ironic joke that this should actually happen to the team that can cope with the McCarthymen.

After the Boston Red Sox had won their seventh straight game from New York yesterday, 12 to 11, Umpire Cal Hubbard forfeited the second half of a doubleheader, 9-0, to discipline 27,000 fans who had littered Fenway park at Boston with straw hats, pop bottles and newspapers.

The nightcap was a nip and tuck slugfest tied at 5-5 for seven innings with Boston's 6:30 p. m. curfew drawing nigh.

The Yankees scored twice in the eighth and sought to hurry completion of the inning by getting two men purposely put out between third and home. At the same time, the Red Sox attempted some intentional passing.

All this disturbed the customers no end, and when the teams changed fields they opened a noisy bombardment which Umpire Hubbard decided would delay the game past curfew.

Joe Kraskuska, Washington's unpredictable southpaw, chucked a three-hitter to stop the Philadelphia Athletics' winning streak at four games with a 6-1 victory.

Six-hit hurling by Thornton Lee enabled the Chicago White Sox to beat the Detroit Tigers, 8-1, in the first game of a doubleheader but Freddie Hutchinson duplicated it for Detroit in the nightcap win, 7-2.

Johnnie Allen struck out 10 and spread eight hits for Cleveland to beat the St. Louis Browns, 6-2.

Paul Derringer got his 18th triumph with a 6-0 shutout on five hits against the Chicago Cubs.

Carl Hubbell stopped the Brooklyn Dodgers as the New York Giants won, 7-1. John Lanning of the Boston Bees gave only five hits to beat the Phillies, 4-3, and teammate Joe Sullivan bettered him with a four-hitter in taking the nightcap, 6-2.

The St. Louis Cardinals swarmed over the Pittsburgh Pirates for a 14-6 victory in one game, then took the second, 3-0.

RIGGS IS FAVORED TO DEFEAT QUIST IN DAVIS CUP DUEL

HAVERFORD, Pa., Sept. 4 (AP)—Chances of Australia's once-favored Davis Cup team to regain the big international tennis trophy hung by the slim thread today as they faced the United States' defenders in the final two singles matches of the challenge round.

With the Americans now leading 2 to 1, the issue seemed likely to be decided in the first match between Bobby Riggs, America's number one star, and Adrian Quist at 12 noon C.S.T. Riggs is a heavy favorite.

The second match between Frank Parker of the United States and John Bromwich appears to be a toss-up.

Their nerves obviously strained by the war in Europe, the Australians meanwhile awaited instructions from the Australian Lawn Tennis association whether to return home at once or to wait for the U. S. National singles tournament next week.

Quist and Non-Playing Captain Harry Hopman enlisted in the Australian army two months before sailing for this country last May.

The Anzac kept their hopes for the cup alive yesterday when Bromwich and Quist outsmarted youthful Jack Kramer and Joe Hunt to win the doubles test, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2.

JONES AND RODEN LOSE IN TOURNEY

Bristow Looms As Favorite To Win

The dope bucket was kicked around considerably as quarterfinal play in the ninth Big Spring Invitational Golf tournament was completed at the country club Sunday evening.

Both medalists, Doug Jones, Big Spring, and W. W. Hill of Odessa "bit the dust" along with Bill Roden Glen Rose's youthful star.

As semifinal play got underway this morning the veteran Obie Bristow, Big Spring's long hitter, looked as good or even better than any of the surviving field.

It was Bristow who fanned out Jones in a Sunday morning match, one up, and it was that same Bristow who slipped up on Roden, winning on the 20th hole.

His opponent this morning was to be E. C. Nix, Colorado City, who reached the next to last round by stopping Jodie Bihl, Lubbock, one up.

The lower bracket play was to bring together Bill Cook, Lubbock, and Elton Dozier, Midland. Cook kayoed Manson Allen, Lubbock, 2 and 1, while Dozier was outmaneuvering James Pritchett, Colorado City, 4 and 3.

Finalists were to get together for a scheduled 18-hole match this afternoon. The Bristow-Jones duel was a honey. Obie fired a 68 at the youngster and used four birdies on the last six holes to win. Jones had a respectable 69.

First round results: Bristow beat Jones, one up. Roden edged Frank Morgan, Big Spring, 4 and 3. Nix stopped Bob Hale, Lubbock, 5 and 8. Bihl slammed Theron Hicks, Big Spring, 2 and 1.

Cook ousted Hill, 2 and 4. Allen slugged Jim Brigham, Big Spring, 4 and 3. Dozier dropped Bill Parker, Big Spring, 4 and 3.

Pritchett decisioned Bob Farmer, Odessa, 4 and 3. Second round results: Bristow thumped Roden, one up 20 holes.

Nix got around Bihl, one up. Cook defeated Allen, 2 and 1. Dozier kayoed Pritchett, 4 and 3.

RECREATION NEWS

The city park officially closed its summer playground Thursday afternoon, August 31, with a doll festival and stick horse show.

Opening ceremonies began with a parade, boys riding stick horses (constructed on the playground) and girls carrying their dolls.

Awards were given to the most graceful rider and to the best dressed doll.

Horse races, a doll amateur show, stunt riding, and a doll party, games and refreshments were other features of the program. Awards were given in each division. Approximately 150 persons participated or enjoyed the gala occasion.

Two years ago, September 1, 1937, a recreation leader assumed leadership of the A.B.C. park. Activities began by clearing the ground of grass brubs, weeds, rocks, etc. for a small play area, and a jumping rope. The area was really a rough lot where attempts had been made to establish a park. Today the park and play area is a reality. Swings, slides, a wading pool, softball backstop, and various game courts, and a community center building and shade trees have been arranged for the convenience of the people of that community.

About 20 dolls and toys were donated to the Mexican Plaza playground Thursday. The little folks were very proud of their playthings.

All-Stars Have Top Defense Prepared

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

DALLAS, Sept. 4 (AP)—Two tons of football talent, the college all-stars and the Green Bay Packers, collide tonight before some 40,000 of the faithful in renewal of the same old argument—can the college boys handle the professionals?

Folks in the Southwest definitely favor the collegians.

Little David O'Brien, Bill Patterson, Kil Aldrich, et al tonight lead a beefy, 200-pound average college team against the western division titlists of the National Professional league in search of a fourth straight conquest of the salaried footballers.

Not air-c origin of the annual charity classic have the college stars had such a dangerous offensive setup, and that includes one appearance of Slingin' Sam Baugh. O'Brien and Patterson were two of the country's leading amateur passers last year.

Dick Todd of Texas A. and M., and now of the pro Washington Redskins, is the breath-taking type whose hobby is returning punts for six points and shaking tacklers on deep tackle slants.

Defensively, the collegians look terrific with a 210-pound average headed by Kil Aldrich, All-American center; Bill Dewell, Southern Methodist's giant end, and I. E. Hale, a 245-pound former Texas Christian tackle.

Matty Bell and Leo Meyer coached the collegians. Oppressive heat worried Coach Curley Lambeau of Green Bay. His big team worked in a daze through 107-degree heat yesterday.

Veteran professional performers will start for the Packers, including Clark Hinkle, Hank Bruder, Arnie and Cecil Isbell in the starting backfield—the latter two past masters at forward passing.

The game will not be broadcast.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Pegasus club of Rockleigh, N. J., is the new national 12-goal polo champion.

It was "presumed" most of the survivors would be taken to Belfast or Londonderry.

Relatives were advised by cable and otherwise that a large group of Texans, tentatively numbered at 25, were aboard the vessel, but some names had not been confirmed.

Miss Ruth Speer of Dallas, secretary to Mrs. Arthur W. Strain, who arranged the tour and chaperoned the party, said she had been advised by cable the following party had sailed from Liverpool:

Miss Betty Jane Stewart, Dallas. Miss Jerry Jane Wynne, Dallas. Miss Mary Katherine Underwood, Abilene.

Miss Bobbie Le Halbert, Sonora. Miss Catherine Mackey, Gladewater. Miss Louise Mackey, Gladewater.

Miss Barbara Hull, St. Louis (University of Texas Bluebonnet girl). Miss Anne Moore, College Station.

Miss Maxine Robison, Austin. Miss Anna Katherine Wells Ganado (Jackson County). Mrs. W. Arthur Strain, Dallas.

Miss Dorothy Doggett, Dallas. Relatives of six prominent Houston girls were believed aboard. They had advised kin they would sail from Scotland. The group included:

Flower Grove Opening Set

STANTON, Sept. 4 (Sp) - The Flower-Grove school, located on the Stanton-Lamesa highway, will dedicate a new $33,000 building when it opens on September 11.

The Flower-Grove Independent school district comprises what was formerly three common districts, Loyala, Flower Grove and Three Teague, making a district 128 square miles, with seven sections in Dawson county.

This year an agreement has been made with the Brown school whereby some 15 students will be transferred from there to Flower Grove. This addition will make the enrollment number over 200 it is expected.

The school is now a seven-teacher school, with 12 affiliated units of work. Plans are being made to acquire the other four credits to make up the 16 which are required for college entrance.

Six of the seven teachers have been selected an dare T. H. Bass, superintendent, Vestel Flores, Miss Alma Jones, teacher and girl coach, Miss Thelma Hughes, Miss Lela Montgomery, and A. L. Fain.

GARNER SCHOOL DUE ENROLLMENT OF 350 AT MONDAY OPENING

Formal opening of the John N. Garner (Knott) school will be held Monday, according to H. F. Rallsback, superintendent, when approximately 350 students are expected to enroll.

During the summer, the district has acquired a 65-passenger bus, which added to three others already in service, gives a transportation capacity of about 250 students.

Improvements include $200 repairs and additions to the gymnasium and repainting the interiors of all buildings. This year high school students from Moore, Gay Hill, Venmoor, Hartwell and Fairview will attend the Garner school.

All but one of a 13-member faculty have been given contracts, according to Rallsback, and that one teacher is to be employed by opening time.

Teachers will be, for grades in order named: Ollie Motley, Mrs. Nora Burnett, Mrs. Lavada Browning, Mrs. Edna Weed, Alene Salsar, Mrs. H. F. Rallsback, and John L. Simms. In the high school division Marie George will teach journalism, typing and music; N. Y. Burnett, shop; T. J. Turner, mathematics and science; Marty Mathis, English, and Rallsback, beginning his fourth year as superintendent, will teach history.

German Reply Really "Go Ahead" Signal For General Warfare

Here are pertinent excerpts from the German reply rejecting Britain's ultimatum to withdraw troops from Poland - a document which in truth was the "go ahead" signal for a general war, Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration of a state of war notwithstanding. The text, condensed as given by Max Jordan, NBC representative in Europe, and reported by the Associated Press, follows:

"The German reich government has received the ultimatum of the British government dated Sept. 3, 1939. The German government has the honor to reply as follows:

"The German government and the German people refused to accept from the British government the ultimate requests or to fulfill them.

"Since a good many months, a condition exists at our eastern borders which in effect amounts to war.

"After the Versailles Treaty had cut Germany to pieces, all German governments were refused a peaceful solution of these problems. The national socialist government, too, has made efforts after the year 1933 to bring about a revision of the worst mistakes committed under the Treaty of Versailles by peaceful means.

"Germany only wanted to have a revision brought about of those stipulations of the Treaty of Versailles which well informed statesmen of all peoples, for some time after the dictates of Versailles had been delivered, considered as unbearable for a big nation, as well as detrimental to the political and economic interests of the east of Europe, unbearable in the long run and, therefore, impossible to execute. x x x

"It is the responsibility of the policy of the British cabinet to have put obstacles in the way of such a peaceful revision.

"The British government in an unprecedented step in human history, has given plenipotentiary powers to the Polish government to undertake whatever actions Poland might want to consider. The British government gave assurances to the Polish government, no matter under what circumstances, that it could take steps of defense against no matter what provocative actions. The British government assured its military support to Poland in such a case.

"Therefore, the Polish terror against the people residing in the territories once severed from Germany and particularly against the German people there assumed proportions which could no longer be borne. x x x

"By constantly insisting on the obligations that she (Britain) come to the rescue of Poland under all circumstances, the British government has only encouraged the Polish government to continue in the criminal attitude which was endangering the peoples of Europe.

"The British government could have saved the peace of Europe, but it has refused the proposals of Mussolini, although the German reich's government had stated their willingness to consider those proposals. The British government, therefore, is responsible for all the suffering and all the unhappiness which now will come over so many nations. x x x

"After the governments of the democratic countries had sabotaged all the possibilities of revision which still could have been applied to secure the peace and tranquility and the honor of the German reich, the German government decided that Poland's attacks would have to be counter-acted by similar measures. The German government is not willing to tolerate conditions in order to make it possible for Great Britain to execute her obligations to Poland. The German government is not willing to tolerate conditions similar to those now existing in Palestine, which is a British protectorate.

"Particularly, and above all, the German people are not willing to continue to be ill-treated by the Poles.

"The German government has therefore refused all attempts to force Germany by ultimatums, that the German army, which has taken steps for the protection of the country, should be withdrawn, which would amount to restoration of conditions of helplessness and injustice as they have existed before. x x x

"If the British government has refused to consider all these (Germany's) offers, and now makes a reply consisting in overt acts of war, this is not the responsibility of the German people and its government, but exclusively of the British cabinet. Those men who for years have been preaching the destruction and eradication of the German nation are primarily to be held responsible. The German people and its government do not have the intention, as it seems Great Britain has, to rule the world, but they are determined to defend their own freedom and independence and primarily their own lives.

"The intention which has been communicated to us on behalf of the British government by Mr. King Hall - an intention to destroy the German people even more than they have been destroyed by the Versailles Treaty - this intention we hereby take notice of, and we shall therefore reply to all acts of attack coming from England, no matter under what form, with the same weapons.

"Berlin, September 3, 1939."

MISS LANCHEOUS NOTES

By Mary Whaley

Along with sliding down banisters in public places and eating my weight in chocolate ice cream - two ambitions that have always been in the offing but never accomplished - has been the ambition to pick up a hitch-hiker.

So yesterday I succumbed and picked up three but they were army boys walking to town from their camp in the park. Once they were in the car a moment's awkward silence fell as there just didn't seem to be any way to start a conversation. But with a plunge, the well-worn question, "Where are you from?" brought a chorus of "Wyo-minings," and the ice was dissolved.

With tales of the last time they stopped in Big Spring and the rain flooded them out of bed and camp, the talk didn't languish. They kept me laughing with their stories.

We even discovered that one soldier was from a small town in Oklahoma where an old friend of mine lived and that made us all practically buddies.

We talked of many things and parted friends. I decided chaffeurring the army was fun and picking up hitch-hikers was the thing to do - at least hitch-hikers from the army.

King George Makes Fervent Plea For Unified Action Of Subjects

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP via Radio) - King George VI broadcast yesterday to his vast empire an appeal to stand fast in Britain's war with Germany.

The slight young monarch, who only recently visited Canada and the United States, began thus: "In this grave hour, perhaps the most fateful in our history, I send to every household of my people both at home and overseas this message."

"For the second time in the lives of most of us we are at war. Over and over again we have tried to find a peaceful way out of the differences between ourselves and those who are now our enemies.

"We have been forced into a conflict," the king went on. "x x x we are called with our allies to meet the challenge of a principle, which if it were to prevail would be fatal to any civilized order in the world."

He went on to speak of the "selfish pursuit of power" and the "disregard of treaties."

The king's voice was low and vibrant. British freedom, he said, depended upon the defeat of the principles advocated by Germany.

"Far more than this, the peoples of the world would be kept in the bondage of fear and all hopes of settled peace and of the security of justice and liberty among nations would be ended.

"Such a principle stripped of all disguise. . . He said is that might is right.

"This is the ultimate issue that confronts us x x x.

"It is unthinkable that we should refuse to meet the challenge. It is to this high purpose that I now call my people at home and my people across the seas who will make our cause their own.

"I ask them to stand calm and firm and united in this time of trial. The task will be hard. There may be dark days ahead and war can no longer be confined to the battlefield.

"But we can only do the right as we see the right.

The king added Britain could but "reverently commit our cause to God.

"With God's help we shall prevail," he said solemnly. "May He bless and keep us all."

As the king ended his short and moving appeal, a band burst out with "God Save The King."

Mrs. Harvy Williamson spent the holiday in Artesia, N. M., visiting Mr. Williamson.
