FORMER MEMPHIS MAN KILLED IN ACCIDENT

FILE CHARGE OF AGGRAVATED ASSAULT

Against John Lowery
In Alleged Attack
On Wife

Charges of aggravated assault were filed in county court here yesterday afternoon against John Lowery, about 35, in connection with an alleged attack upon his wife at their home Friday afternoon in the northwest section of Memphis.

The charges were filed by Deputy Sheriff Fee Posey.

Lowery is being held in the county jail pending a hearing before County Judge Jim Vallance, which may be held today.

Mrs. Lowery was reported "doing nicely" today after receiving medical attention Friday afternoon following the affray. She was able to appear before County Attorney C. Land yesterday morning, with a sister, to whose home she was taken late Friday.

According to the county attorney, no weapons were used in the assault upon Mrs. Lowery, who was reported in a critical condition Friday, suffering from a heart ailment following the clash.

The sheriff's department and a physician were notified of the affray Friday by neighbors, and Lowery was apprehended at his home and carried to the county jail.

CHARACTERS FOR MINSTREL CHOSEN

Work Progressing in Junior
C of C Production; Definite Date Not Set

More than 35 characters have been selected for blackface comedian parts in a home talent negro minstrel to be presented by the Memphis Junior Chamber of Commerce in the near future, according to Russell Clark, director. Selection of the cast was completed Thursday night and final plans made for the production. Definite dates for presentation of the comedy have not been announced.

The minstrel will be presented in two acts, and will be chuck full of comedy, musical talent and puns that are sure to keep the audience well entertained, according to those who have seen the first practices during the past week. The cast is practicing four nights each week.

Costumes will be designed and made this week and everything put in readiness for the presentation some three weeks hence. Costumes selected will consist of red frock-tail coats, black trousers, black shoes and vests.

The production was written by Mr. Clark, who is doing the directing. He is being assisted by Mrs. C. L. Sloan, Jr., who has charge of the musical portion of the program.

31 FLORISTS AT SCHOOL OF DESIGN

Vote To Hold Next
Annual School
At Lubbock

Thirty-one florists and their wives and visitors from 13 West Texas cities convened at the Memphis Hotel yesterday for an all-day school of floral design. The school was held for members of the Florists Telegraph Delivery Association in Unit B, District Nine, which includes Northwest Texas and eastern New Mexico.

The convention voted to hold its next annual school of design at Lubbock.

The welcoming address to visiting florists was made by William Russell Clark, secretary of the Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce, at 9:30 o'clock.

The informal school was held throughout the day, during which many floral designs for all occasions were illustrated by everyone present. O. B. Ribble of Lubbock was chairman of the school.

During the afternoon and following the school, all designs made during the day were placed on exhibition at The Democrat office. The display attracted much attention from many Saturday afternoon shoppers.

According to W. T. Hightower, local member of the organization, the florists had "an interesting meeting, everyone was highly pleased and the school was very successful."

Thiele dropped unconscious on the field while play was in progress. His skull was fractured, physicians said. He was rushed to a hospital here, but he died without regaining consciousness.

Chevrolet To Be Given Away November 14th By Memphis Merchants

A 1934 Chevrolet standard coach, fully equipped and "ready to roll" will be presented to some fortunate person by the merchants of Memphis on November 14 as a reward for trading in Memphis. The car has been purchased from Potts Chevrolet Co.

The fall trading campaign begins Wednesday, October 3. Numbered tickets will be given to patrons of designated Memphis stores for the following six weeks, at the end of which time a public drawing will decide the owner of the Chevrolet. No tickets will be given to colored people.

Memphis—the trading and entertainment center of the Upper Red River valley—today is officially entering its fall buying season.

At this time every year, with stores stocked with complete lines of all types of merchandise, with better bargains and extra quality offered, the people of the Memphis Area begin the purchase of necessities and luxuries that carry them throughout most of the year. The let down does not come until after the first of the year.

Diversified Interests
Naturally, they flock to Memphis by the hundreds. This is the center of one of the finest areas in the entire southwest. It has diversified farming interests, large cattle and hog raising sections and does not depend entirely upon one crop to "put it over."

The Memphis Area has come through the ravishes of depression and drought—it is not entirely back to normal, one must admit, for, at normalcy, the territory would be flourishing as in its usual "time of plenty" as the fall rush season starts, a proverbial land of milk and honey. But it is not too far from normalcy. For the merchants and business men who know how to attract business, it offers plenty of opportunity for progress.

Memphis In Center
Memphis is in the heart of this "empire," and most of her merchants know how to attract customers into their places of business—they know the secret of quality goods at the best prices and most convenient locations and

To Be 'Surprise' in Trial of Hauptmann

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A mystery woman witness entered the Lindbergh kidnaping investigation tonight with the disclosure by District Attorney Samuel Foley that she had given him "very important" information in the case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, accused of extorting $50,000 ransom from the famous flyer.

Foley said he had questioned the woman privately, and that she had not appeared before the grand jury. "She came and went as quickly as Lindbergh and no one knew anything about it," Foley said.

The prosecutor admitted he was withholding the woman's information to use as a surprise at Hauptmann's trial.

No New 'Leads'

Foley said: "At present, the only man against whom we have sufficient evidence to act in indictments is Hauptmann. We have no new leads. We have no information that might tend to identify anyone as accomplice."

He also stated that a special jury panel to try Hauptmann will be asked in Bronx county court next Wednesday. "About a week (Continued on page 4)

POSSES SEEKING NEGRO SUSPECT

25-Year-Old Negro Believed To Be Murderer of Aged
Henderson Couple

ATHENS, Sept. 29.—A county wide search was underway tonight for a 25-year-old negro suspected of having slain and burned Mr. and Mrs. W. T. German, aged Henderson couple, in their farm house at Stockard.

The German's lost their lives apparently as they sat in the living room of their home.

Suspicion was pinned to the negro when he jumped from an automobile while officers were comparing footprints near his premises with those found about the razed house.

A knife found in the car was identified as one belonging to German.

Posses scoured this section of the country in a search for the negro.

Passengers escaped serious injury, although they were badly shaken.

Nine persons were in the automobile when it was struck by the locomotive.

Five cars left the rails, plowed up the right-of-way several hundred feet and crushed into the station.

Four Persons Are Killed, One Hurt As Autos Collide

HOUSTON, Sept. 29.—Four persons were killed and another injured badly when two automobiles collided five miles from Houston on the San Antonio highway early today.

Three were identified as G. L. Mounce and Miss Martha Caroline Wyatt, both of Houston, and J. W. Clayton of Richmond. The other victim, a man, was unidentified.

Mounce owned one car. The other bore a license issued to H. B. Wilburn of Chambers county. The injured man was George Barnes of Austin.

Barnes was Miss Wyatt's escort to a night club. They were returning with Mounce when the accident occurred.

Fire That Burned Fires' Bed Is Burning Fires

Arson Charge May Be Filed Against Attorneys

Blind Justice is searching vainly for her spectacles!

And District Judge A. J. Fires will assist in her fruitless search, even if it is necessary to incriminate local members of the bar, he said last week.

The white-haired magistrate is making diligent, personal investigations this week into matters that he hopes will bring charges of arson against three Memphis attorneys. He didn't mention any names, but said the latter part of last week that their initials were Dave Fitzgerald, Allen Grundy and one other party whose initials he refused to give.

It all came up over Judge Fires' day bed—or rather his "day couch." Somebody set fire to it one day last week, and the Judge is hot on the trail of the arch-criminals responsible for the undue and inconsiderate interruption of the Court's daily siesta.

The only evidence the Judge has in the case is the fact that just prior to the discovery of the blaze, the afore said attorney's "came out of the Judge's office smoking cigarettes, cigars, pipes or other varieties of cabbage leaf or vegetation." It is also alleged that they were seen by a number of witnesses "lounging, wallowing and otherwise making improper use" of the Judge's day bed.

Just what the investigation will reveal or the exact amount of evidence Judge Fires will be able to gather in the case, is unknown at this time. In case charges are filed, Judge Fires expressed sincere hope that the culprits would waive jury and be tried before the court. "Sweet revenge will be mine, if given this opportunity" he said Friday.

KILLERS SHOOT WAY OUT OF CITY JAIL

Wound Three in Dash
For Liberty at Richmond

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 29.—Walter Legenza and Robert Mais, members of a notorious gang under death sentence for murder, escaped from the Richmond city jail today after critically wounding Guard W. A. Toots and two other jail attaches.

Legenza and Mais were convicted for the slaying of E. M. Hubbard, federal reserve bank mail truck driver, last March, by a gang which ambushed the truck at the station and escaped with bags of worthless checks.

The criminals drew pistols on the guards, ran firing to the street, and commandeered a mail truck, in which they escaped.

DALLAS GROUPS WORKING FOR CENTENNIAL

Perfecting Organizations and Plans For Celebration

Special to The Democrat
DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 29.—Civil leaders here are working at top speed in perfecting their organization and plans to direct activities for the Texas Centennial in 1936. Aware of Dallas' responsibility to create an exposition worthy of the concurrent celebrations to be staged in San Antonio, Houston, Goliad, Brenham, Nacogdoches, Huntsville and other points of historic glamor in the state, those citizens directly responsible for the city's participation in the Centennial's observance rapidly have whipped into shape an executive set-up bringing into active service leaders in every line of civic enterprise in Dallas.

Machinery to finance enlargements and improvements at the State Fair Park, which is to be the nucleus of the proposed exposition grounds, that will make that plan a fit home for the main exposition in Dallas has been set in motion.

Mayor Charles E. Turner announces that an election soon will be held in which $3,000,000 worth of city bonds for Centennial purposes will be voted. Money raised by this means will be utilized to purchase ninety-six acres of ground adjoining the present Fair Park and to construct suitable approaches to the exposition ground, and beautification and improvement of the grounds. After the city bond issue has been assured, the Dallas City Centennial Commission will turn its attention to raising an additional $2,000,000 from private business interests of the city, as promised in the city's bid for the location of the exposition in Dallas, to be expended for similar purposes.

Already authorized in a previous election are bonds to the amount of $569,600 for the construction of an art gallery at the fair park, work on which should be inaugurated in the near future.

A permanent program of beautification, including landscaping and construction of gardens and lagoons, is to constitute a part of the improvement program, blue prints for the enlarged Fair Park already having been prepared. City officials have indicated that they may be expected to expend as much as $750,000 in an ambitious street improvement program, involving widening of thoroughfares leading to the grounds in order that the flow of traffic in that direction from other sections of the city will not be impeded, even when the anticipated crowds of visitors from every state in the nation are at their peak.

Inside—24—Rotary Day—wib
DALLAS, Sept. 29.—Rotarians from all sections of Texas will make Dallas their Mecca Friday, October 19, which has been designated as Rotary Day at the State Fair.

The Dallas Rotary Club has made plans for a big celebration on this day and a special entertainment committee for visiting Rotarians is headed by Frank E. Sheup of the local organization.

Misses Nell Walker, Cora Fox Yonge, Helen Kinslow, Edwin Thompson, Jr., and C. W. Crawford, Jr., left this morning for Lubbock where they will enroll at Texas Technological college.

Six of these companies will be brought from other states for the winter and seven already in the state will be moved to new locations.

Ruth Listens for Wedding March

This charmingly lonesome pose—deucedly attractive, too, as they might say in Boston, her home town—soon will be a thing of the past for Ruth Channing, film actress. She'll doff the single blessedness role on Sept. 29 in Santa Barbara, Calif., when she marches down the aisle to wedding music with Hamilton MacFadden, movie director, also once of Boston.

Within the state, the company at Cleburne will be moved to Hillsboro and the one at Dublin will go to Brenham about October 15. Between October 1 and 15 the company at Stephenville will be moved to a new location at Mother Neff, near McGregor; the one at Lake Abilene will be moved to Brownwood; and the one at Austin will go to Groveton.

The company at Meridian is scheduled to move to Huntsville between November 1 and 15 and the company at Denison in the Oklahoma district will be moved to Caddo Lake October 15. Three companies will be moved from Colorado and three from Oklahoma into the Texas district. Colorado companies will go to Cleveland, Jasper and Crockett, the movements being scheduled for October 1, October 15 and November 15, respectively.

On October 15 two Oklahoma companies will be moved to Lindale and Zavalla and on November 1 another company will go to a point near Willis in Walker county.

LARGER DEMAND FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS

Several Reasons Are Given for Increase in Positions

AUSTIN, Sept. 29.—Demand for teachers in the public schools of Texas has increased by almost a third this year as compared with last, indicating a turn-over which may be attributable to a number of causes, according to Miss Miriam Dozier, secretary of the University of Texas Teachers' Appointment committee. With this increased demand, Miss Dozier has had the opportunity to place a much larger number of University ex-students and others who sought positions than in several years.

The unusually large number of requests for teachers, numbering close to one thousand since February 1 of this year, is due in part to the fact that some employed teachers have gone into various phases of government work, and in part to the strengthened requirements for members of the teaching profession, it is believed.

Enactment of a new state law requiring all teachers in the public school systems of the state to hold degrees from some recognized college or university or, if already employed, to continue to work toward a degree, has perhaps influenced some teachers to obtain leaves of absence to do further study, and has motivated some schools to adopt rulings against the employment of teachers without degrees. Again, in many school systems of the state, regulations have been enacted prohibiting married women from serving as teachers. These and many other contributing factors have entered into making the 1934 school year almost a banner one in the turn-over of teachers.

This Nazi youth, along with thousands of others in Germany, is receiving valuable training to fit him for a part in the future operation of the Reich's naval vessels. Under expert government supervision, German boys now are building exact models of their country's battleships and liners, capable of moving under their own steam. The model shown here is that of the new cruiser Koenigsberg, demonstrated at the recent Nazi congress in Nuremberg.

Unused portions of certificates should be placed in safe keeping, until they are called for by the manager of the government cotton pool. ### 'The Scarlet Empress' Taken From Diary

"The Scarlet Empress," Josef von Sternberg's Paramount production starring Marlene Dietrich opening today at the Ritz Theatre, is based on a diary of Catherine II of Russia, known as Catherine the Great and regarded by historians, in spite of certain aspects of her private life, as one of the most remarkable rulers of all time.

Catherine the Great was born at Stettin, Germany, on May 2, 1729, the daughter of Christian Augustus, Prince of Anhalt-Zerbst and his wife, Princess Johanna Elisabeth of Holstein - Gottorp. Her baptismal name was Sophia Augusta Frederica.

In 1744 she was taken to Russia to be affianced to the Grand Duke Peter, the nephew of Empress Elizabeth. On June 28 of that year she was taken into the Orthodox Church and was renamed Catherine Alexeyevna in compliance with the wishes of the Empress.

Married August 21, 1745, her wedded life turned out to be thoroughly wretched. Peter was subnormal and Catherine despised him from the beginning. His sympathies were directed openly toward the Germans, and she, strangely enough, constantly became more Russian in her attitude. She was beautiful, shrewd and ambitious. She was determined, too, that nothing should stand in the way of her progress. Thus she accepted the circumstances of her marriage because it was a means to power.

Quickly she became adept at intrigue. In her determination to go forward she was ruthless, yet she herself was ruled by romantic impulses. There were many suitors for her love. The chronicle of her private life was the commonplace of all Europe.

Drouth? There's None in Capital

The drouth and its effects may be an ever-present worry in government circles, but Washington pedestrians and motorists would have been glad to have a little of it after the recent three-inch downpour in the capital. ### Well Selected Cast Appears In 'Smarty'

A talented and nicely balanced cast was selected for the principal roles in the Warner Bros. picture, "Smarty," which opens at the Palace Theatre today, with Joan Blondell and Warren William in the featured leads.

Miss Blondell, who has been on the receiving end of many of Jimmy Cagney's screen punches, has the role of a young wife who years to be beaten up, in her current production, and eventually is, with rough house methods that outdo Cagney. She will be remembered in such recent productions as "I've Got Your Number," "Convention City," and "Footlight Parade."

Warren William, who recently appeared in "Upper World," and "Beside," does much of the beating, although he is aided and abetted by Edward Everett Horton, both of whom are at one time or another screen husbands of the flirtatious Joan. Mr. Horton will be recalled for his splendid work in "Easy to Love," "Alice in Wonderland" and other pictures.

Frank McHugh, who furnished much of the fun in "Merry Wives of Reno," "Fashions of 1934" and "Son of a Sailor," again adds to the hilarious comedy of the picture. Claire Dodd, the vamp of "Gambling Lady," "Journal of Crime," and many other pictures, runs true to form as a flirtatious divorcee in "Smarty."

Joan Wheeler, the young Broadway stage favorite, who made such a hit in "Growing Pains," has an important role as do also Virginia Sale and Leonard Carey.

The picture is a hilarious comedy of marital tangles based on the play by F. Hugh Herbert.

Texas Violators Of Oil Code Are To Be Prosecuted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. — The department of justice announced today that producers of oil in Texas who violated the state quota will not be prosecuted by the federal government for such violations committed prior to last Tuesday.

It added, however, that should producers produce in excess of quotas after September 25, the government would prosecute them under the National Industrial Recovery act on the grounds that excess production would then be in violation of the petroleum code.

What goes on in the capital is of no great importance, one way or the other. Laws do not save a country. We are too strong and resourceful a people to be hampered by much legislation. —Henry Ford.

Remember when your child was this age?

REMEMBER how carefully you watched him—how you took care of every little thing that you didn't think quite right?

As he grew older you might have become a little less attentive, because as the years went on he became more able to care for himself. But there's one thing that you should never stop watching—your child's eyes. Eye health is essential to mental growth, and his future happiness is entirely dependent upon his ability to see perfectly. A guess as to whether his eyes are right is not sufficient—only a thorough examination will tell their true condition.

Have your child's eyes examined now.

Cyclone Falls Before Powerful Childress Cats 32-0

Andrews Leads Victory; Local Club Fights Up Good Battle

...ing linemen, working in front of hard-charging, fleet Childress Bobcats to a 32 to 0 victory over the Memphis Childress Fair Park field Friday night before a crowd of 2,500 fans, many of whom were from...

Cyclone could not repeat, however, and Norman punted to the Childress 20.

80-Yard Dash
On the first play, Andrews, who had re-entered the game, broke completely lose and raced 80 yards to the Cats' third counter. The first half ended during the dash, and the try for point after the quarter was over sailed through the crossbars. Score: Memphis 0, Childress 19.

Andrews Romps Again
Out of four passes, Norman completed two to Grimes for 16 yards, but the Cyclone failed to gather two successive first downs and the ball went over on Childress' 33.

Regulars Stop Drive
This was followed by Memphis' only concentrated drive. Norman passed to Grimes for 12 yards and then hit center for five, and added another first down. Springer, on an end-around, trotted 13 yards to the Childress 30, and 10 first string Bobcats trotted back upon the field. They stopped the Cyclone cold, and Andrews intercepted a desperate pass on his 10 yard line. Somers kicked to mid-field, with Deason returning the ball 10 yards as the game ended.

Norman Outstanding
As Champion was outstanding on defense, so was Norman, the other co-captain, the leader of the offense. He did not have a fair chance on more than three or four of his 19 passes, nor on most of his eight punts, and he carried the ball more than half the time on the few plays that did gain yards.

Commendable Work
Deason and Grimes played commendable football, as did, for that matter, Sanders, Alexander, Bourland, McAbee, Crump, Cecil Grimes, Walker Swift and Eudy—the entire squad that saw service.

Babe Patt, a sophomore from Altoona, Pa., will play quarterback for Carnegie Tech this fall. The Police Gazette now has a page of women's fashions. Oregon State's most perplexing problem is developing a pair of tackles to replace Tar Schwammel and Harry Field. The annual United North and South Open golf championship tournament has been set for Pinehurst on March 27, 28 and 29; with the amateur play to run from April 1 to 6, inclusive. Baby Arizmendi was welcomed by 5000 of his countrymen from New York, following his taking a decision from Mike Belloise. Allender, Pooler, and Neal will punt for Iowa State College this season.

Mrs. G. A. Bumgarner and Mrs. W. F. Welch arrived yesterday from Mineral Wells for a visit in the home of their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bumgarner. Mr. Bumgarner met them in Wichita Falls yesterday afternoon.

HARRY GRAYSON

Bob McAndrews, assistant faculty manager of Saint Mary's College, informs me that the institution has committed the heresy of heresies this season in not engaging a pigskin public relations counsel.

"The slogan for 1934 at Saint Mary's is 'Back to Normalcy,'" says McAndrews. "Having lost exactly 25 of last fall's flock, eight of them first-string men, we naturally cannot prophesy a world-beating team.

"This we did a year ago, and the result was that the heads of some of the 'giant-killers' grew almost as large as their newspaper weights, with four defeats as one of the effects. So pre-season ballyhoo has been soft-pedaled this fall."

But you can't keep a good Californian down—not for any length of time, at least—and it shortly is revealed that Saint Mary's hasn't MUCH.

"However, even though we're silent on championship pretenses, our silence is more that of the bashful good man modestly disclaiming, 'Oh, I'm not so much,'" goes on McAndrews. "Privately we feel that this year's aggregation of potentially great youngsters can be brought to the heights of our sophomore squad of 1931, which defeated Southern California and California in a row.

"We do boast a few things worthy of mention. One of them is the speediest set of halfbacks in America—Al Nichelina, the fastest big man, and Ed Hallman, the most rapidly moving little fellow.

"Hallman ran the 100-yard dash in 9:7 and Nichelini in 9:9 in the Fresno Relays last spring." Poor Saint Mary's!

Salvaging the Wreckage

"One of the flossiest forward pass combinations in football will be that of 'Harry the Horse' Mattocks at right halfback and Eddie Erdelatz at end," continues McAndrews. "New York fans who saw these two for a few minutes last season need no other reminder. Chinto Controtto, sophomore fullback, is said to be the closest approach yet to the famed Dark Angel Brovelli.

"Malcolm Fiese, a ranking quarterback who has been out of the spotlight for two campaigns due to a bad knee, is expected to do plenty of tricks in the realm of long distance punting.

"Two of the line stalwarts who 'held the bridge' when Fordham was on the one-inch line last fall (Californians are good at measuring, too), will be on the structure when the Galloping (Continued on page 8)

BROTHER ACT AT OLD MIZZOU

Coach Frank Carideo gives his kid brother, Angelo, a lesson in defense on the University of Missouri practice field, providing himself as a tackling dummy. The younger Carideo, 163-pound sophomore, is the standout Tiger candidate for quarterback, a position at which his elder brother gained All-America fame at Notre Dame.

Injuries Play Havoc at Louisiana State; Southeastern Already Upset

By HARRY MEHRE (Coach, University of Georgia)

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 29.—"Rock" Reed is attempting to fill an extra large pair of shoes at Louisiana State University. Reed, a 165-pound sophomore wingback, has replaced the injured Jess Fatheree.

It was Fatheree who led the Tiger carriers last season with the splendid average gain of eight yards per try. He also was one of the finest defensive backs in the country. Fatheree has been on the injured list since practice started, and is not expected to get into action until the Southern Methodist game at Baton Rouge on Oct. 6, if then.

L. S. U. also lost one of its best kickers last week when Bill Crass, of Amarillo, Tex., suffered a fractured arm. The injury will keep the 195-pound sophomore halfback on the sidelines until late October.

The first-string Louisiana State squad is composed of Jeff Barrett, 165, and Specks Moore, 170, ends; Justin Rukas, 193, and Shelby Calhoun, 205, tackles; Buck Brown, 185, and Butch Helveston, 187, guards; Lloyd Stovall, 170, center; Bert Yates, 195, and Reed, halfbacks; Ernest Seago, 182, quarter, and Abe Mickal, 180, full.

L. S. U. enjoyed an unbeaten season last fall, and, although prospects again are bright, Capt. Biff Jones steadfastly refuses to comment on another undefeated record.

The loss of Crass did not leave the Old Lou squad without a kicker. It has three others, Mickal, Yates, and Pat Coffee. Mickal is the No. 1 man.

An example of what safety men faced when they opposed Mickal and Yates, another good booter, can be found in the 1933 battle with Rice Institute, which the Tigers won, 13-0. Although L. S. U. was called upon to kick 10 times during the contest, only one kick was returned by a safety man, and that for only one yard.

Yates has done a lot of kicking during two years of varsity play and is accurate.

Pat Coffee, a sophomore, may develop into the finest punter of the quartet, although outkicking Mickal would be quite a feat.

Louisiana State has inexperienced quarterbacks this fall, and kickers like these should be a big help.

Already there has been a mild upset in the Southeastern Conference, the members of which are to engage in many toss-up battles this season. When Birmingham Southern trimmed Alabama Poly, 7-0, it was the third time that school had treated a new coach of the Plainsmen thusly. Jack Meagher suffered the same fate as Chet Wynne and his predecessor, George Bohler.

Generally speaking, southern teams are making a cautious beginning to a season that is expected to furnish more live competition and brilliant football than in many years.

82-Year-Old Pioneer Awarded Prize As Panhandle's Oldest Old Settler

By Associated Press
 AMARILLO, Sept. 29.—T. A. (Dot) Babb, who as a child was an Indian captive three years, has been awarded a prize by the Panhandle Old Settlers association for having lived longer in this region than any other person.

The 82-year-old pioneer, one of the sturdy men who threw up the first bulwarks of civilization in the "Wild West" when warring red men dealt terror on every hand, settled in the Panhandle in 1867. That was immediately after he had been ransomed from an Indian tribe that had killed his mother and held him captive three years.

Years on the Plains country cow trails have not erased from his mind vivid memory of the day when Indians rode down on his defenseless home, brutally murdered his mother and took him and his sister from her as she died. Mr. Babb remembers, too, many days, many moons, spent around the campfires of a Comanche tribe that finally adopted him as a good hunter and a brave warrior.

Mr. Babb's father, the late John S. Babb, moved his family from Wisconsin to Wise county, Texas, shortly before the Civil War. At that time Indians outnumbered white men in that section.

In September, 1865, when the father and eldest son were on a trip to Arkansas with a herd of cattle, 40 hostile Comanche Indians bore down on the Babb home, killed the mother and made captives of Mrs. Sarah Luster, T. A. Babb, then 13, and his small sister, Bianca.

"My mother was trying to soften or make friends by shaking hands with them," Mr. Babb related. "But against these overtures they were as obdurate and unmoved as ever these ruthless slayers have been painted.

"The first thing in their performances was to plunder the house. Then they had Mrs. Luster come down from her hiding place and she was bound and taken outside. The remainder of the Indians in the house seized my older sister and started off with her. My mother interfered and clung to my sister in an effort to prevent her being taken. As she did, one of the Indians stabbed mother four times with a butcher knife.

"Seeing my mother brutally and fatally stabbed, I assisted her to the bed just as two of the Indians came back. Not finding my mother dead, one of them shot her in the side with an arrow. I pulled the arrow out and sat upon the bed by her. The same Indian drew his bow and pointed a deadly arrow at me and commanded me to go.

"Then mother said, 'Go on and be a good boy.'

"An Indian grabbed me by the arm and jerked me off the bed and another pounded me with a squirt. A baby sister had not been molested because she was ill, and I had to leave my dying mother with the sister clasped in her arms."

On a long ride that took the three captives to a point near Fort Huachuca, New Mexico, Babb managed to help Mrs. Luster escape.

For this he was sentenced to burn at the stake. But bravery displayed when brush was piled around him won favor with the Indians and he was made one of the tribe, but was separated from his sister.

Several months later the sister was ransomed, but T. A. Babb remained with the tribe. Then, after three years a captive, Babb was ransomed through negotiations between his father and Chief Horseback, head of the tribe.

Mr. Babb remained in the West. He married Miss Pattie Graham in 1874. Since then he has lived in Wichita Falls, Clarendon and Amarillo—and one year in the Indian Territory where he moved at the insistence of his Indian friends who still claimed him as a member of their tribe.

From 1906 until his recent retirement, Mr. Babb was prominently identified in the cattle business.

He smiled when he was given the title of "The Texas Panhandle's Oldest Citizen."

7,600 CCC Men To Be Enrolled Soon

Opening of Highway Celebrated at Ralls

By Associated Press
 RALLS, Sept. 28.—With band music and speeches, 600 persons representing Crosby and nearby counties were on hand yesterday to formally open to travel the newly paved section of State Highway 24, running from Fort Worth to Lubbock.

The highway planned eventually to connect the Tarrant County seat with Roswell, N. M., and points west, is the Plains' newest and shortest connection with the centers of population in North Texas. Only unpaved stretch left on its 303 miles is a 45-mile gap over the east side of Dickens and across the whole of King counties.

 GALVESTON, Sept. 29.—The battleship Wyoming has been invited to visit Galveston on Navy Day, Oct. 27.

F. Leslie Body said he had been informed various units of the fleet would make brief visits to Texas gulf ports late this month, after which they will be recalled to Cuban waters for maneuvers before moving on to the Pacific coast.

Body learned that the Wyoming would be the only vessel available for a visit here on Navy Day. Congressman Clark W. Thompson, in Washington, was asked to extend the invitation to sailing through the bay.

FORDS GET THE FEVER; GO OUT TO ROOT FOR TIGERS

Henry Ford has caught the baseball fever that has delirious Detroit in its grip, with the Tigers pennant bonus, and here the motor magnate sits, intent on the battle raging on the diamond at Navin Field. Keenly enjoying the game with him are his son Edsel, left, two of Edsel's children, William and Josephine, and Mrs. Edsel Ford, right. For the first time in history, broadcasting rights on the world's series have been sold—and Ford has bought them for $100,000.

Starts October 3

The tickets will be given away beginning Wednesday, Oct. 3.

With the prices better and selections more varied in Memphis, the automobile will truly be a gift to the lucky person, and thereby to the entire territory because of the equal opportunity to all. Tickets, because of the outstanding prizes offered by the merchants are indeed free of all charge.

RAISING DOUBLE-PAWED CATS BECOMES HOBBY

By Associated Press

VERNON, Sept. 29.—Raising double pawed cats is Marvin R. Taylor's hobby.

He has a Persian, known as "Prissy", which has produced two litters of unusual freaks.

Each of the latest litters of three kittens has double front paws and an extra toe on each back paw. The mother cat has identical characteristics.

The father of the litter was a Maltese.

"Prissy's" first litter numbered four, but only two of them had double-paws.

Time Tables and Trip

Photographers slipped in and snapped the young savages while those pressing the de-emphasis movement were not looking, and a delayed and abbreviated press notice tells us of the Saint Mary's team's fourth annual pilgrimage to the Atlantic seaboard.

"Nearly 10,000 miles will be traveled," it reads.

"Our aim is to give our boys and their friends, who accompany us, an educational tour, as well as a geographic, artistic, and historic conception of our continent," declares Coach Madigan.

"Highlights of this year's trip, which will take the team through the southern states going east and through Canada and the northwest in returning, include a day at the World's Fair in Chicago and in Washington, five days in New York, visits in Montreal and Quebec, a motor trip through the Canadian Rockies with an overnight stop at Lake Louise, and visits in Vancouver, Seattle, and Portland.

"In the last few years, Saint Mary's teams have visited the Grand Canyon, Carlsbad Caverns, Boulder Dam, the World's Fair, Notre Dame, Washington, and Niagara Falls. Turnout and Sample Are Very Important This Season

Early this year, we repaired our four modern gin plants—two in Memphis and one at Plaska—expecting a large crop of cotton. The result is now in tip-top shape in every particular.

After careful examination of the seed in this year's cotton, we find a considerable number of small or faulty seed. In going over these seed, our gins have taken the lint off these small seed as closely as off the ones. This is due to the expert way we have of filing our saws, light of the saws and loose roll system, which accounts for our large turnout and better sample.

This year, with cotton prices up considerably, turnout is going to count. Catch some of the seed we gin; look them over closely; see how they are ginned. You can easily and readily see the reason for our large turnout.

Our sample cannot be beaten. You will not find any cotton left in the gin. The thing you want is CLEAN CUT SEED, CLEAN BURR-PILE and a SAMPLE with prices on seed and cotton as good as you can get anywhere. We believe you will leave our gins with a little more money.

We are now in position to make Government loans on your cotton.

Our gins are conveniently located. A trial at either of our plants will show you that it pays big dividends to patronize a Farmers' Union Gin.

May we have the pleasure of serving you this season?

This was followed by a general reception in the Church parlor.

Little Theatre To Open Season Soon With Three Outstanding Productions

All members of the Little Theatre are at work on the presentation of the three one act plays to be given in the near future. Committees have been appointed, and extensive preparation is being made to make this the Little Theatre's biggest success. "All for Glory," is a comedy of mountaineer life, written expressly for the Little Theatre by Mrs. R. S. Greene. The Little Theatre considers it a privilege to present the work of a talented and enthusiastic member. Mrs. Green has written some splendid plays, that have been presented in Memphis at various clubs, but this is her first play to be presented publicly. "All for Glory" is also under the personal direction of Mrs. Greene. The cast: Betty Lancaster, Obbie Crabtree; Mrs. Mayhank, Jewell Stanford; Mattie May Mayhank, Genevieve Crabb; Amos Brown, Mrs. R. S. Greene; Cynthia Brown, Mrs. T. M. Harrison; Glory Brown, Madge Sisk, and Jean Normand, Beth Lemons. "My Dreams" is a fantasy directed by Mrs. T. M. Harrison. It is a play, beautiful and artistic, with an appeal that can not fail to reach an audience. The cast: The Lady, Shirley Greene; her maid, Ruth Harrison; Little Old Women, Grayce Rymer; The Other Woman, Mary Harrison, and two adorable children, Winifred Jane and Don Q. Tarver. "Cul-De-Sac" is a tragedy directed by Mrs. Pete Clower. This play was given two years ago at a regular monthly meeting of the Little Theatre and proved to be such an outstanding piece of work that the members desire to present it publicly. "Cul-De-Sac" is a performance that is par excellence. The cast: Dr. Eleanor Barry, Mrs. Joe DeBerry; J. P. Watson, Cennable was a large crys-

Porter-Wright Marriage Is Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Vivian Porter to Eugene Wright was solemnized Sunday morning at 8 o'clock in a beautiful ring ceremony at the First Baptist church in Wellington with the pastor, Rev. T. M. Johnson, officiating. The ceremony was read before an altar banked with roses and ferns. Miss Mollie Harris of this city played the wedding march. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Porter of Wellington and lived in Memphis a number of years before moving to Wellington. She attended school in Wellington most of her school years and graduated from the Wellington High school in 1933. She is a very popular member of the younger set. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Wright of Wellington. He attended the Wellington High school and graduated with the class of 1932. The bride was dressed in a navy blue suit and matching accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds. Following the ceremony the couple left for a short honeymoon trip. After the wedding a reception was held at the Porter home, where the wedding cake was cut and served. Mr. and Mrs. Wright will make Wellington their home. Mrs. O. A. Lock arrived in Memphis Friday to spend until today with her sister, Mrs. Jessie Jones. She is en route to her home in Mangum, Okla., after a two-month visit with her daughter, Mrs. G. E. Mose, at Long Beach, Calif.

Estimate Loss to Texas if Bankhead Bill Is Discontinued in 1935 at 17 Millions

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 29.—That 160 Texas counties have received their tax exemption certificates under the Bankhead act was announced by the Cotton Allotment board after a meeting held at the end of the week. A total of 333,430 applications have been received from 216 counties. Among the counties which have already received their certificates, totaling 489,818 are all the larger cotton producing counties in the State, members of the Board said.

While the Board was in session a request came from one of the news wire services to estimate the probable loss to Texas if the Bankhead act is discontinued in 1935. In reply the Board pointed out that the Texas 1934 quota of tax exempt cotton is 3,237,000 bales; that the Bureau of Crop Estimates has placed the 1934 Texas crop at 2,383,000 bales; which leaves Texas with an excess of 854,000 bales for which there is tax exemption but no cotton. Such tax exemption certificates have a sale value of approximately $20 per bale, the board stated, and the total possible loss to the state, therefore, if the Bank head act is discontinued and holders of these certificates are not allowed to realize on them is approximately 17 million dollars.

This loss, the board estimated, will fall first of all on the cotton growers already hard hit by the drought, whose certificate in its sales value was a measure of crop insurance. It will fall next on the business interests of the State because the farmer would have spent his money for commodities. And in the third place it will fall proportionately on all tax payers because the hard hit man and his family will the sooner be on public relief.

The board commented also on the falling off of the cotton market due in part, according to cotton exchange reports in current newspapers, to the conference in Washington and the published statement by Senator Bankhead in relation to suspending the operation of the Act. The loss on a single day amounted to $7,500,000.

Navarro County Gets $8,000 in Corn-Hog Checks

CORSICANA, Sept. 29.—The crop insurance feature of the corn-hog program has been demonstrated in Navarro county this year in the $8,000 which came into the county in 114 corn-hog checks according to C. C. Morris, farm demonstration agent.

W. S. Price, chairman of the county corn-hog control board, declared that this was virtually an insurance payment to each producer because the corn crop this year was almost a failure and when the surplus hogs were disposed of during 1932-1933 the price was so low that hogs were almost given away.

Bulldog, Little Pig Become Great 'Pals'

WELLINGTON, Sept. 29.—Imagine a bulldog taking a fatherly interest in a little pig!

Buck Ogletree's bulldog, an awe-inspiring male, did that and more.

The strange relationship started when C. B. Vernon sold Ogletree a pig—just three days old. The pig, which had been fed by hand, met the bulldog the first day it was in its new home.

The pig gave the huge dog a friendly nudge, and to the surprise of all, it and the dog struck up an acquaintance. That night they bedded down together. Since then they have been inseparable buddies.

R. J. Kornfuhrer of Weesatche community still forges ahead along the land to greater and greater poultry profits.

Credit for getting "Richard" started in the right way should go to his brother-in-law, Max Weise a poultry demonstrator.

The demonstration chain seems endless; Max Weise got his start from his brother, Willie Weise, the first poultry demonstrator in the neighborhood.

Anyway, Mr. Kornfuhrer started from scratch with a few mongrel buff leghorn hens from two to eight years old which roosted in trees, lived on a diet of corn and plenty of fresh air and succeeded in laying perhaps 70 eggs per year.

Mr. Kornfuhrer now is the proud possessor of 280 pullets of this year's raising and 150 yearling hen all of the outstanding breeding.

He has consistently fed them in the proper manner since breaking away from the old regime, kept them free of body parasites and given them a dosing once or twice a year with gasoline for intestinal worms.

The next thing in order is another 20 by 30 foot house built strictly A. and M. way to supplement his first A. and M. house of the same dimensions.

Little Expense and Work Are Required To Beautify Floors

ELDORADO, Sept. 29.—"My floor has a much more even color now than it had before I refinished it," says Mrs. G. C. Crosby of Schleicher county, according to Miss Lora Farnsworth, home demonstration agent. The hardwood floor had formerly been shellacked but the shellac had been worn off and there were stains on the floor.

Mrs. Crosby removed the shellac and cleaned the floor with denatured alcohol and steel wool. The floor was then washed with clear warm water. Two coats of an oak stain were applied and when this was thoroughly dry the floor was waxed.

Livestock Shipped Greatly Increased

AUSTIN, Sept. 29.—Livestock shipments from Texas farms and ranches to Fort Worth and to interstate points during August reached the enormous total of 12,552 cars, against 3,227 cars in August last year, an increase of nearly 300 per cent, Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, said in a monthly livestock report.

"Shipments of the different classes of livestock for the respective periods were: Cattle, 10,090 cars in August, 1934, as compared to 1,648 cars in August, 1933, an increase of more than 500 per cent; calves, 1,787 cars, against 497 cars, an increase of 260 per cent; hogs, 436 cars, against 680 cars, a decrease of 36 per cent; sheep, 239 cars, against 402 cars, a decrease of 41 per cent.

RUSSIA UNABLE TO TRANSPORT COTTON

This Year's Crop Is Five Percent Less Than Last Year

There are economic, physical and social factors tending to slow up the steady increase in foreign cotton expansion which has been proceeding for more than 40 years, it is pointed out by experts in the Cotton Section of the Agricultural Adjustment administration. Some future increases may be expected but no rapid, large expansion seems probable as a result of the cotton adjustment program of the AAA. Cotton prices must go to a high level and remain there for a period of years to stimulate greatly increased production.

India and Egypt are reported to have decreased cotton acreage this year, and both countries seem fairly well restricted in future expansion by need for land and for food, and for other factors already described in this series. Russia is much discussed as a threat to the American grower, but that country, too, has its difficulties.

Russia planted 4,843,000 acres to cotton this year or about 5% less than in 1933. Price has little to do with cotton acreage in Russia because the planning is done by the government. The decline in acreage this year may be due to the desire of the Russian Government to lower their production goal in order to come nearer reaching it. It may also be due partly to slowness in getting tractor repairs.

Russia cotton production is seriously hampered because her cotton lands are 1500 to 2500 miles away from Moscow where most of her spindles are located. Her cotton program has forced the government to import foodstuffs from 1,000 miles away into the cotton country. Transportation facilities are not good. These factors will tend to limit Russian cotton production in the future.

Cotton is grown in Russia by farmers imported from other sections of the country. They are new to irrigated farming. Weather conditions have been bad this year, farmers have let weeds grow, and they have been held up by lack of tractor repairs. The estimated crop this year is smaller than last. Average yield per acre in Russia for a period of years has been 217 pounds of lint per acre.

There is some indication that Russia may even become an importer of cotton again. She has announced a plan for providing her people more clothing in the near future. Russian consumption of cotton is 5 pounds per year. The United States uses more than 24 pounds per person per year. It is reported that 3 million new cotton spindles are to be erected by the end of 1934. These could use one million or more bales of raw cotton per year. There is also a report that Russia plans to buy 600,000 bales of American cotton this year.

Future increases in Russian cotton production will probably be limited by transportation difficulties. It is possible that increased consumption of cotton in Russia may offset any future increases in

FACTS ABOUT GARDENS

Cabbage and lettuce seed should be started in a small plant bed in a protected spot. In three or four weeks the plants will be large enough for transplanting to the permanent location in the garden.

lice are often troublesome in fall gardens but they can be practically avoided by planting Swiss chard and the Shogoin or lice-proof type of turnip which is practically immune to bug damage.

Tiny worms which attack young cabbage plants can be killed by the following spray mixture thoroughly tested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture: 1/2 pound of Paris green and 1 pound potash fish oil soap to 16 gallons of water. This spray can be applied to almost all leafy vegetables that insects are feeding upon and will effect a safe control. There is not enough poison in the mixture to cause any damage to the human body, but it will kill the bugs.

Sprouting of Irish potatoes is hastened and insured by treating them with a chemical known as ethylene chlorhydrin. The seed are cut in the ordinary way about eight hours before they are to be planted and then are dipped in a solution made by mixing one pint of ethylene chlorhydrin in four gallons of water. The potatoes should remain in the water just long enough to become thoroughly wet. One quart of ethylene chlorhydrin in eight gallons of water is sufficient to treat ten bushels of Irish potatoes. As soon as the potatoes are treated, they should be planted immediately.

An average family of five needs at least a half-acre garden.

Over 117 Bushels of Corn Produced On One-Acre Plot

LA GRANGE, Sept. 29.—On a one-acre demonstration plot for his 4-H club, Edgar Walla of Fayette county has produced 117.63 bushels of corn, and on another acre he has purchased 106.94 bushels, giving an average of 112.28 bushels to the acre, according to W. H. DuPuy, farm demonstration agent.

Last year Edgar topped all boys in his county by producing 128.33 bushels to the acre. He attributes his success to good land; good seed; early, deep preparation; and side dressing with a fertilizer of high nitrogen content.

production that may develop. American prices are not influencing Russian production at the present. The American cotton farmer is not now seriously threatened from that quarter.

PURE-BRED GILT IS RETURNING DIVIDENDS

4-H Club Boy Farms Out Hampshire and Gets Returns

CHANNING, Sept. 29.—All 4-H club boys carrying on pig demonstrations have not been put out of business by the drought in Hartley county as the record of Ernest Guilloud will prove, according to E. R. Duke, farm demonstration agent.

A pure-bred Hampshire gilt was given to Ernest two years ago by the Shelton estate with the understanding that he would turn back two gilts at the age of six months to pay for the original gilt. The gilt raised six gilts and one barrow in the first litter and the Shelton estate was paid with two of the gilts.

One was farmed out with a neighbor on the same plan and three were bred. The three gilts which were retained have raised 24 pigs this year and the one which was farmed out with the neighbor raised 10 pigs. With the increasing price of pork, Ernest is looking forward to finishing the 24 pigs at a profit.

Oldham County Boy Has Grand Champion

AMARILLO, Sept. 29.—Because 4-H club girls had won the pig club honors at the Tri-State Fair two years straight, boys this year had the girls barred.

Ninety pigs entered by 16 contestants this year. A practical perfect pig of the Duroc strain, owned by Jack Cotton of Oldham county, was judged grand champion.

An entry by J. T. McDaniel, Kress, was named reserve champion.

Awards Contract For 18,000 Cans Black-Eyed Peas

TAHOCA, Sept. 29.—A contract to supply A and M college with 18,000 cans of black-eyed and cream peas has recently been awarded Mrs. R. W. Fenton, member of the Tahoka Home Demonstration club in Lynn county, according to Miss Sylvia Robb, home demonstration agent.

The contract which will pay $2,592 was awarded to Mrs. Fenton after her peas were declared to be the best from a number of sample cans sent to the college from all over the state. Her products have been standardized by the home industries specialist of the Extension Service. She will begin delivery at College Station about the middle of October.

THREE-LEGGED CALF IS FEATURE AT OLDHAM FAIR

VEGA, Sept. 29.—A three-legged calf that has grown rapidly since its birth March 12 was a feature attraction at the Oldham county fair.

The calf is normal except that no front leg developed on the left side. Boots Montgomery, exhibitor of the calf, said it can run as fast as a normal calf. The calf was born on the Landerin Ranch near Vega.

TWO MISTAKES.

young man who taught economics at one of the nearby universities and frequently came up for a "binge" of dinner and the theater.

It was one of these occasions which Boots was celebrating now with a re-reading of "Jane Eyre" and a supper of bread and milk.

The bell rang shrilly in the stillness and Boots scrambled to her feet, glancing at the clock. Half past 10! Too early for Frances to return from her theatre.

She pressed the buzzer which opened the downstairs door. It might be a telegram or a special delivery letter from Frances' young man. It might be...

Running steps on the single flight of stairs leading to their apartment. A dark, smooth head appearing in the stairwell as the girl, bent double in her lounging pajamas of amber silk, hung over to see who the late caller might be.

She drew back, very pale. "Denis!" It was he. Denis in full evening kit, very handsome and debonair, a stick held in the crook of his arm.

wafer thin case of silver and she shook her head in refusal. All this was preliminary to—exact what?

"I was up this way," Denis said conversationally. "Ed told me the other day where you lived. I've been wanting to see you..."

He'd been wanting to see her! All the air was full of music now, faint and far away, and there was a leaping in her pulses as though rivers of ice had been released.

"Well, I've been around," she offered vaguely in the silence. She had resumed her place on the couch now and was curled up, a small Tanagra-like figure in amber silk.

Denis, in the wing chair, scurritized her coolly. She wasn't dreaming. It was Denis himself, critical as always, assurred, faintly mocking. She had dreamed of him often and often in some such attitude, in this very room; she had not expected the dream ever to come true.

but he said easily, "Hello! May I come in?"

The insolence of him, the unqualified impudence of the man! She had not seen him for months—two, three months, at least. No!

But politeness triumphed over pride. She said, "Of course, come in."

She was conscious of her tumbled curls, the empty bowl and the ringed tumbler on the teawood tray, conscious of the dent she had left in the deep tumbled pillows of the couch.

She sat down in the barrel chair, her back braced against its back, and looked up at him. Very deliberately he laid his hat and stick down upon the priceless walnut of Frances' old kneehole desk.

"Nice room!" he approved. Her blood rose. The impudence of the man! Into your life he strode without a by-your-leave!

"I'm glad you like it." "Cigaret?" He snapped open a ing ship in the nearby river. "Sorry I was cross," the girl said quickly. "It's nice to see you. Sit down and tell me what you've been doing."

In panic she interrupted. "Oh, but it is—honestly. Not tonight!" When she put the instrument back on its cradle Denis had his topcoat on his arm.

She nodded. Her hand, slim, long-fingered, the nails rosy as little shells lay curled on the cushion beside him.

It was only for an instant. Stars zig-zagged in their courses and then righted themselves; a gilt-haired girl in amber silk swayed to her feet, facing a tall, very pale young man in evening clothes.

"I don't—don't know what's the matter with me," she said dizzily. "I think we must both be a little mad."

"My fault," he said unsteadily. The telephone rang stridently in the pause and she flew to answer it. Edward's honest, hearty voice. "Hello, beautiful."

"Hello!" "Been a good girl while I've been away?" "Oh, terribly good." Her eyes sought Denis. He was staring at her moodily and he was frowning. "What's the matter?" Edward was concerned. "You sound as though you'd been crying or something. Didn't wake you up, did I? I thought I'd drop by for a minute if it isn't too late—"

"Tell me just this," the man pursued, sitting down beside her. "Are you going to marry Edward? He's one of the best, you know—but be sure of yourself this time. You're really such a baby. I feel sort of responsible for you..."

Her hand, slim, long-fingered, the nails rosy as little shells lay curled on the cushion beside him. Denis picked it up almost aloofly as he might have done to the hand of a child.

It was only for an instant. Stars zig-zagged in their courses and then righted themselves; a gilt-haired girl in amber silk swayed to her feet, facing a tall, very pale young man in evening clothes.

FALL BUYING IS UNDERWAY

The fall buying edition! We are delighted when the time comes each year for such an edition of The Democrat, for it marks the real opening of fall trading, expansion, good will—the bountiful months in the Upper Red River Valley.

Purchasers have been to market—Memphis stores are stocked with complete lines of everything that the people of the Memphis Area need and desire with-in reason; latest fall and winter styles are displayed in show windows; the best prices that people in this territory can obtain are offered inside—the merchandise is of the best quality with reasonable prices considered, and the best prices are offered because it is quality merchandise at home.

This applies to every line of business, of which Memphis has adequate representatives, be it wearing apparel, drugs, hardware, food radios, automobiles or entertainment.

At this time of year, just as the "rush season" opens, we look backward and forward. We find that Memphis and the territory included in the Upper Red River Valley have moved forward rapidly, that they are stepping into the future with heart light and prospects brighter. Truly, we are not so "well fixed" financially as we were in the so-called boom days of the late 1920s but we are far ahead of where we stood in the depression days of the early 1930s.

We withstood setbacks caused by uncontrollable forces (including the stock market) and although perhaps dazed a bit by the blow, the Memphis Area was quick to recover, setting a pace equalled in few places in the Southwest. And as the territory recovered, Memphis stepped forward to regain its rightful place as the center of business, social life and amusements of the Area.

The strides, which at times have faltered because of staggering punches, have never ceased. Now, the area is walking with surer steps. We are entering the time of "fall buying", and if we are prone to complain, we realize that it has been several years since we have had better prospects or since we entered the fall period in as good condition as we now find ourselves.

This is the fall buying edition—it is the forerunner of the "rush season."

SOCIETY CAN'T NEGLECT TEACHERS

The unpaid schoolma'am has become a familiar spectacle. In Chicago, after four very lean years, she has finally been given her money; but in some other cities she has not, and in a great many more she has had to take drastic reductions, or has been given only part of what is owed her.

What has been happening to her in these hard years? Does she look on the society whose youth she is instructing with the same enthusiastic eyes that beheld it in 1929?

Nobody can speak for all the teachers, of course. But once in a while a teacher speaks for herself, and what she has to say can make disturbing reading.

In the current issue of "The Nation," a Chicago teacher tells how she felt when that city finally borrowed money from the RFC and paid up.

She got, at last, her four years pay. By the time she had settled all her debts, she had just $94 left—all that she had to show for four years' work at a supposedly good salary. As she says, she was luckier than many of her colleagues. She had not gone hungry, or lost her home, during the depression.

"I lost only my insurance, my automobile and my self-respect," she writes. "I did lose one thing more, but that is not to be regretted—my faith in the status quo. Few of us are the sweet, complacent, non-thinking 100 percenters we used to be."

And this new attitude, which the teachers got through working without pay, she says, has been passed on to her pupils.

A few days ago a pupil asked her if any big fortune had ever been made "by not stealing." Four years ago she would have answered in the traditional school book manner. But now?

"Now," she says, "I have seen the Board of Education in action. I have seen its members—coal merchants and real estate dealers—bending school policies to their own profit. I have seen the instructions of the United States Chamber of Commerce to reduce educational appropriations wherever possible.

"I have heard myself called 'red' for daring to believe I had earned my salary and was entitled to it. . . . I couldn't answer that boy honestly and patriotically at the same time."

HEALTH

By DR. MORIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Whenever you feel the slightest irritation in your mouth, and your tongue seems constantly to be seeking it out, you should suspect an inflammation that may become more serious with neglect.

Inflammations of the mouth may follow burning, by taking soup or coffee that is too hot or by eating highly spiced foods or irritants, such as mustard. Most frequently, however, infections result from improper care of the teeth, from the abuse of tobacco or snuff, or similar irritants, and occasionally from wearing of dental plates that do not fit satisfactorily. You might also contract an inflammation of the mouth from an infection in the throat.

Of course, you know that even a tiny spot of inflammation in the mouth is annoying. Any small ulcer feels three times as large as it actually is.

In addition, inflammation of the mouth results in a chronic bad taste, in an odor and in swelling. While adults are not likely to suffer much with such inflammations, children may develop fevers and be seriously sick.

Babies frequently suffer with an inflammation of the mouth, including particularly the lining membranes and the gums, due to a variety of causes. Sometimes the trouble is simple lack of cleanliness. The mouth of even a tiny infant may be cleaned with a small piece of gauze and some salt solution.

Sometimes the mouths of infants are disturbed by acute infections, such as those associated with measles, diphtheria, scarlet fever or mumps. Babies also put objects which they happen to find lying about, into their mouths and become infected from this kind of material.

Whenever the mouth is inflamed, it is first necessary to find the cause. This involves not only location of a single visible focus of infection, but also study by the dentist to determine whether infection may be concealed in the gums or around the teeth.

During the time of inflammation all irritating substances and foods that are too hot should be avoided. The foods taken should be cool and either liquid or soft.

The mouths of infants should be carefully sponged with cold water after each feeding and the material of the sponge should be small pledgets of cotton wrapped around the finger, and touched delicately to the mucous membrane.

ROCKING CHAIR ATTRIBUTED TO BENJAMIN FRANKLIN ABOUT 1760

EMPEROR OF CHINA'S FIRST TRADING SHIP SENT TO CHINA, 1784.

SILK THREAD MANUFACTURED FIRST AT MANSFIELD, CONN., 1819.

Answers to Previous Questions
ALTHOUGH 1760 has not been verified as the date of the first rocking chair, no authentic instance of a prior rocker has come to light. The "Empress of China" was a 360-ton privateer commanded by Capt. John Green. Her first voyage took six months going and less than five months returning. The Hanks Brothers, who made the first silk thread, sold it to housewives for use in sewing of better materials.

In some cases the placing of small pieces of ice in the mouth is helpful. Mouth washes will not in general cure the conditions that are responsible for the inflammations, but they do help to control the odor and to give a feeling of greater comfort. Most mouth washes contain antiseptic substances which in many instances serve also to reduce the pain.

The diets of those with chronic inflammations of the mouth should always be studied to make certain that there is a sufficient amount of vitamins and such minerals as calcium and phosphorus.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By WILLIS THORNTON
Democrat's Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The Home Owners' Loan Corporation has run into that "dead center" position which is the fate of government agencies which move into fields hitherto sacred to private business.

On one hand there is always one crowd of people demanding government efficiency and economy—"businesslike management" of the government undertaking.

On the other are the people who want government leniency, concessions, and who say "if the government acts just like a private business man, why should it function in the field at all?"

HOLC charges for investigating mortgage applications are causing the friction today. Disappointed applicants say they are being charged up to $30 to find out they can't get loans.

That is they applied. An examination of their credit was made. Title to the property was examined. There was a formal appraisal. Then the loan was refused.

Now the HOLC is asking for the cost of those services, even though the applicant got no loan.

"Why not?" it asks. "We had to pay out government cash for the appraisals, the title searching. We aim to run the HOLC on a business like basis. It's not our fault if the property proved ineligible."

But the applicant is likely to say "Huh! Why didn't they tell me in the first place I couldn't have the loan? I should pay for the privilege of finding out they can do nothing for me!"

Compromise Planned
What'll probably be done is that the HOLC will try to collect in cases where the application was voluntarily withdrawn, where misinformation was given, or where a title was found defective—in other words, where the applicant was at fault.

But in cases where everything was on the level, but where the HOLC office simply decided against the loan as a matter of policy (for instance, because the HOLC valuation put it outside the legal limits, even though other honest appraisal might allow it) the government will probably take the rap.

The HOLC is having enough trouble, anyway, getting itself decentralized, establishing branch regional offices. It's opened them now in Atlanta, New York, Boston, and San Francisco, and will soon have them in Cincinnati and Detroit.

Until then, payments on HOLC mortgages are supposed to be made to the central HOLC office in Washington. Lots of people tried to pay at their banks, which couldn't take the money.

Electric Service Is Cheap

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES COMPANY has made large investments to provide modern facilities for electric service in Memphis, even ahead of present day requirements. It is supplying over double the amount of service per customer as was supplied some few years ago. It has made six domestic rate reductions since 1927 and is now collecting less per customer than it did in the days when it was supplying near one-third the present amount of service. In addition thereto, it is shouldering for you much more of the tax burden than in previous years.

Your part is to further increase your use of the facilities provided. Electric service is one of the most valuable commodities of the household, yet it is sold at the lowest prices, takes only about 1 percent of the workman's total household expenditures.

The present domestic rate schedule in Memphis will provide 515 kilowatt-hours for what only 84 kilowatt-hours would have cost you in 1927. A simple way to figure your electric service bill in Memphis on a completely electrified home is as follows:

First 50 Kilowatt-Hours at 7½c
All Over at 3c

When water heater service is controlled so as to use investment in capacity already provided for the range, such added service costs only 1c per kilowatt-hour which makes such total service cost for the completely electrified home in Memphis even lower than any of the four largest cities in the State of Texas.

Our answer to the woman who says "I can't get what I want in Memphis."

The challenge of the women of this section to the stores of Memphis has been answered. . . . at Replin's. No longer can they say only "ordinary" or "cheap" ready-to-wear is offered in Memphis; no longer can they claim they must go elsewhere for authentic styles and correct copies of Paris and New York Creations. This fall, Replin's is showing a most unusual line of individualistic dresses, smart suits, gorgeous furred coats, clever sports coats and ravishing hats. The adjectives are not misplaced; they only conservatively describe this unusual showing. Prices on these garments may be larger than you've seen in Memphis stores for several seasons—and there's a reason. We're sincerely and without fear showing of ready-to-wear that Memphis has never known and that which we proudly display elsewhere. Choose your fall wardrobe at Replin's and you'll have the most smartly dressed woman in your set. Consult Mrs. Joe Cunningham, in charge of our ready-to-wear.
