They Put Their Houses in Order

The bonus battle, neutrality problems, deficits, taxes, expenses—decisions involving billions of dollars and the political fortunes of hundreds of national figures. Spectres though they be, they cause the presiding officers of the two houses of the Congress no apprehension. The smile lighting the face of Speaker Joseph Byrns (left) of the House of Representatives bespeaks optimism as he confers with Vice President John N. Garner about the legislative program that confronts their colleagues in the Seventy-Fourth Congress.

MERCHANTS TO COOPERATE IN SELLING EVENT

City Wide Clearance Sale Sponsored Merchants of City

Plans have been launched for a city-wide January Clearance Sale in which all merchants of Memphis will likely cooperate in a blanket retail selling event.

This sale of city-wide proportions will be known as the Carnival of Values, and neighboring towns and communities will be invited to join Memphians in the bargain-day celebration.

New merchandise is coming in, and crisp, fashion-right merchandise will be combined with the (Continued on Page 8)

ECW TERRACING IS UNDER WAY

Tree Planting to Be Begun by ECW Near Future, It Is Said

Terrace lines are being run on farms of Hall and Donley counties by the Memphis Emergency Conservation Work laborers as rapidly as the workmen can get around. E. McBride, camp superintendent, stated.

Terracing work is being held up a little because of the limited amount of equipment, but additional terracing arrangements (Continued on Page 8)

BAD MONEY IS REPORTED HERE

Officers Are Unable to Locate Alleged Passers of Queer

Officers of the Sheriff's department report that a local citizen reported yesterday that he had seen some parties who had some of the counterfeit $20 bills which have recently been flooding the state, but that no trace of the men or the bad money could be found.

The description of the men was so hazy and unsatisfactory that there were no clues to work on as to their identity, and a canvass of local business firms failed to locate any of the counterfeit bills which had been passed, so the officers are inclined to believe the man who gave them the information was mistaken.

The Weather

WEST TEXAS Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday, warmer tonight.

Locally the coldest weather of the winter prevailed last night and this morning, the thermometer dropping to a minimum of 10 degrees last night, rising to 36 at noon today. Overhead today is thin overcast, with sun coming through occasionally. Snowfall yesterday was two inches, with none falling during the night.

Snow Blanket Covers County

TWO INCH FALL IS REGISTERED

Coldest Weather of Year Accompanies Snow in County

Accompanying the coldest weather of the winter, the entire Panhandle was covered with a blanket of white, as snow fell over entire North Texas, assuring a splendid winter season, declared to be the best since 1931.

In this city and vicinity, two inches of snow was registered yesterday, as the flakes fell almost continuously during the day.

Accompanying the snow was a cold wave which last night sent the thermometer down to a minimum of 10 degrees, which by 8:00 this morning had risen to 20 degrees.

Icy sidewalks and pavements made traffic conditions bad, but no serious accidents have been (Continued on Page 8)

LOCAL BASTILE HAD GOOD YEAR

Over Five Hundred in County Jail During the Past Year

Five hundred and seven persons "served time" in the county jail here during the year of 1935, a check of the jail records by John R. Turlington, deputy, showed.

December was the biggest month at the local jail. Eighty were incarcerated here during the one month, most of the prisoners being jailed for drunkenness.

Ordinarily the number in jail here runs about six or eight, as the prisoners in on minor offenses are required to pay a fine, make (Continued on Page 8)

Community Heads in Meeting Today at County Courtroom

Presidents, vice-presidents and secretaries of the various community agricultural associations of the county are meeting this afternoon in the county courtroom to discuss extension work programs for the coming year. R. E. L. Pattillo, county agent, is in charge of the meeting.

Two offices in the basement at the courthouse that have been operated by County Agent Pattillo in connection with the cotton control program in Hall county were closed this morning, following government orders issued (Continued on Page 8)

INGVOLDSTAD SPEAKS IN CITY

Will Deliver Address Tonight at County Court House

Dr. Fred W. Ingvoldstad, former pastor of the First Methodist Church of Oklahoma City, will deliver an address tonight at the courthouse on current topics which the public is cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Ingvoldstad is well known as an orator, and his talk here will no doubt be an interesting one. He is a member of the Rotarian, Kiwanis and Lions clubs of Oklahoma City, and until recently was a trustee of the Oklahoma City University and the (Continued on Page 8.)

Several citizens doing acrobatics on the ice covered streets and sidewalks yesterday. We didn't see anyone fall, but we did see some fancy steps performed, to keep from it.

Ed Smith sporting a new pair of glasses. He says, however, that he can't see very far as yet; that when he's sitting in class at school he can't read the writing on the blackboard. "But that's partly the teacher's fault," he added.

Coach "Super-Chesty" Walker telling the folks about his new girl yesterday. The "Super" is since the blessed event took place. He says he's afraid she won't make much of a football player, but he'll bet she makes a wow of a yell leader.

Two small lads trudging through the snow yesterday afternoon with their feet wrapped in gunny sacks and duck cloth.

High School students crowded around a bulletin board at the schoolhouse, announcing mid-semester examinations.

Temple Deaver at a soda fountain, drinking hot coffee through a straw. Now that's the height of something or other, but we don't know just what.

Dorothy Garner and Mary Bess Cole acting their tender ages by snowballing passing automobiles yesterday afternoon.

Leonard Doss speaking a few parables when a passing automobile skidded and smashed a fender on his parked car.

The We Saw editor trying to "cover up" yesterday afternoon when four or five kid girls set onto him with snowballs. Later some of them came by and invited us out to help build a snowman in front of the office, but we declined with thanks. Those kids have no consideration at all for age and dignity.

WPA workers crowding the courthouse corridors the past couple of days for their pay checks.

Victor Walsh acting as official "door closer" at Meacham's Pharmacy yesterday.

J. W. Slover, Jr., leading a dog down the street on a leash. The dog may have pure blood, but he looked like a pure mutt to us.

A Memphis society matron telling "Uncle Jimmie" Powell that if she wasn't any larger than he, she wouldn't mind staying out in the cold.

Reba Garner hiking to town yesterday afternoon at a pace of about eight miles per hour. She said she was keeping her weight down.

Fingernail polish even redder than that worn by Raymond Powers and other football players on the fingernails of Lois McCullough. At first glance, we thought she'd been skinning rabbits.

Dr. Hicks stop Barney Wattenbarger in the cold this morning, right in front of the Democrat office and in full view of the We Saw editor, and tell him one of his famous stories.

Three local high school boys expectorating on the floor at one of the theatres yesterday afternoon. Knowing the boys, we wonder if they spit on the floor at home?

We're on the lookout for a fish story for this column. Local expert fish liars are urged to turn in a good one for us.

A. A. A. FOLLOWS THE BLUE EAGLE

ALTHOUGH almost inured to reverses at the hands of the Supreme Court, the New Deal received a body blow Monday, in the decision on the constitutionality of the A. A. A., which may prove the final blow to the hopes of the administration along this line.

All the elaborate structure which the President and his aides had built up for the protection and advancement of the farming interests of the nation fell at one swoop with the decision of the court, which was not at all unexpected by the administration.

Along with the A.A.A. are almost certain to go the Bankhead cotton act, the Kerr-Smith tobacco act and the potato control law.

In fact, the Supreme Court seems to be out gunning in earnest for any and all legislation bearing the stamp of the New Deal.

Of the many New Deal measures which they have passed upon, they have declared constitutional and approved but one—the abrogation of gold payment promises in private contracts.

Into the discard have gone the A.A.A., the N.R.A., recovery act regulation of "hot oil" shipments, and other New Deal measures on which the court has been asked to pass.

Just what will be the outcome of the abandonment of the A.A.A. not even the administration apparently knows yet, though we have a sneaking suspicion that the President was not caught napping by any means. There is little doubt that he has had in mind for some time just what should be done in case the court nullified the A.A.A., and the people, if he has, won't be long in learning what it is.

All of which leads us to reiterate that we believe the recently suggested plan for dividing the nation into a number of administrative districts, whereby the peculiar requirements of each district could be looked after and not interfered with by other districts whose wants were of an entirely different character.

Just as sure as two times two makes four, the day is coming when there must be a radical change in our present plan of government, and this is but one suggestion which has been made to accomplish that result.

The south and west is becoming tired of the north and east dictating what shall be done for our people.

This winter, the boy who adored the game of checkers, is making an exhibition tour of the Pacific Coast, playing the champion checker players in each city visited—and winning. The boy, now a man, is Earl C. Wright, and the dream has come true. Wright, who lived most of his life at Estelline, a few years ago went to Los Angeles, California, and he took with him his love for checkers and his determination to become a master of the game. Soon after arriving in the California city, he affiliated with the Los Angeles Chess and Checker Club, where he met Newell W. Banks, for 20 years, American Checker Champion, and W. L. Davis, present Pacific Coast Champion. These two men have been his mentors, and under their tutelage he has grown into one of the best known checker players on the coast, and is now on an exhibition tour of the coast. The accompanying picture show Mr. Wright with Mr. Banks, left and Mr. Davis, right, in front of the Los Angeles Chess and Checker Club, where he learned the really fine points of the game.

Mrs. E. S. Foust Is Honoree, Shower at Bill Hart Home

Complimenting Mrs. E. S. Foust, Mrs. Bill D. Hart, Mrs. H. B. Bass and Mrs. J. C. McClure entertained with a miscellaneous shower yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hart, 517 South Sixth street.

The rooms were decorated in potted plants. In the dining room a lace cloth covered the table centered with a beautiful blooming cyclamen. Tall green tapers in crystal holders burned on the buffet.

The guests registered in a beautiful bride's book. After the guests had assembled the honored guests, the last to arrive, were entertained with two readings appropriate for the occasion. Mrs. Carl Gerlach read, "A Chinese Love Poem," and Billy Gene Morris read, "Forestalled." Then Billie Gene Morris, who in taking orders delivered the first to Mrs. Foust, which was followed by many lovely gifts.

Assisted by Mrs. Jack Breland the honoree unwrapped the gifts and passed them to the guests for inspection.

Dainty refreshments were served and gifts were received from Mrs. E. E. Cudd, Mrs. Bill Gerlach, Mrs. Zeb Moore, Miss Gladys Hammond, Mrs. Ira Neeley, Mrs. W. T. Hightower, Mrs. Frank Garrett, Mrs. E. T. Prater, Mrs. Mae Cochran, Miss Winnifred Prater, Mrs. Claud Johnson, Miss Evelyn Elmer Prater went to Aspermont yesterday where he has a road contract.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

HOW did prunes ever fall into disrepute, anyway? Could it have been that some rival fruit started the propaganda? Because, really if you eat them at their best, you'll like them—for instance, as a cocktail at dinner or stuffed in salad.

Prune bavarian cream is a nourishing dessert that will be a fitting end for dinner that is lacking in protein calories. When meat is used principally for flavor such a dessert brings the meal up to the necessary standard of balance.

Prune Bavarian Cream

One tablespoon granulated gelatin, 4 tablespoons cold water, 4 tablespoons scalded milk, 1-2 cup sugar, whites 2 eggs, 1 pint whipping cream, 1 cup cooked and chopped prunes, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Add scalded milk and dissolve. Add sugar and stir over ice water until mixture begins to thicken. Add whites of eggs beaten until stiff, cream whipped until firm, salt, vanilla and prunes. Mix lightly and turn into a mold which has been garnished with perfect halves of cooked prunes. Let stand on ice until chilled and firm. Unmold and serve with custard sauce.

Custard Sauce

One and one-half cups milk, 2 egg yolks, 4 tablespoons sugar, few grains salt, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat yolks with sugar and salt. Scald milk and slowly pour over

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Chilled tomato juice, cereal, cream, broiled liver sausage, corn-bread, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Baked macaroni and cheese, hearts of celery, canned strawberries, milk, tea.

DINNER: Vegetable soup, Parkerhouse rolls, prune bavarian cream, milk, coffee.

egg mixture. Return to top of double boiler and cook and stir over hot water until custard coats a metal spoon. Pour immediately into a cold pitcher and let stand until cool. Flavor with vanilla just before serving.

A hearty vegetable soup with hot Parkerhouse rolls and prune bavarian cream furnishes a goodly amount of nourishment and makes an inexpensive and appetizing winter evening meal.

Hearty Vegetable Soup

Choose a soup bone with considerable meat. Put it into soup kettle and cover with cold water. Bring slowly to the boiling point and simmer three hours. An hour before serving, add vegetables, beginning with those which take the longest to cook. Season well with salt and pepper when vegetables are added. Use potatoes, tomatoes, cabbage, onions, carrots and green beans. Don't cut the potatoes and cabbage into too small pieces. This is a version of the boiled dinner although vegetables predominate and meat is used chiefly for its appetizing flavor.

CHARM IN DUPLICATE

Mary Morgan, heard weekly over a radio network as director of the Institute of Personality and Charm, dictates her large correspondence to charming twin secretaries, Virginia and Pauline Warren. Miss Morgan originally selected one of them, but included the other rather than separate the two girls.

Christian W. M. S. Meets

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Christian Church met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Norman with Mrs. J. B. Baird, co-hostess.

The meeting was opened with the hymn, "Jesus Calls Us," followed with the Lord's Prayer in union. Mrs. J. A. Whaley gave the devotional on the topic, "Finding Life in God," reading Proverbs 8-35 for her scripture lesson.

Mrs. D. J. Morgensen introduced the study on "Latin America." Mrs. E. E. Roberts gave an interesting map study from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn. Mrs. J. A. Odom discussed, "The Religion Through the Years."

During the social hour the hostess served refreshments to Mrs. Grover Kesterson, Mrs. D. J. Morgensen, Mrs. H. A. McCanne, Mrs. J. A. Odom, Mrs. E. E. Roberts, Mrs. J. P. Watson, Mrs. J. A. Whaley, Mrs. H. O. Luna, and Mrs. W. C. Milam.

Mizpah Guild Met Monday

Mrs. Gladys Power was hostess to the Mizpah Guild of the Presbyterian Church Monday evening at her home, 717 West Harrison.

Ruth Pierce gave a beautiful devotional, choosing for her subject, "These I Will Keep." Roll call was answered with New Year's poems. Estelle McCool lead the tenth lesson in the study book.

Following the Mizpah benediction a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess to Nell MacMillan, Pearl Ward, Margaret Gore, Estelle McCool, Mary Noel, Frank Noel, Ruth Pierce, Ora Denny and Marie Bell.

Mrs. G. H. Hattenbach and granddaughter, Shirley Mae Whaley, went to Amarillo yesterday for a visit with their daughter and aunt, Mrs. C. W. Fleming.

H. W. Blanks of Lakeview is in a local hospital receiving medical treatment for injuries received from a fall yesterday.

Methodist Missionary Meet

Installation of officers for the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Methodist Church was made at the regular business meeting of the Society Monday afternoon.

The meeting was opened with the group singing, "Marching to Zion," followed by the devotional conducted by Mrs. N. A. Hightower on the subject, "Let Us Go On."

The installation of new officers was conducted by Mrs. C. W. Broome in an impressive manner and the following were installed: Mrs. N. A. Hightower, president; Mrs. W. C. Dickey, vice president; Mrs. M. J. Draper recording secretary; Mrs. L. M. Hicks, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Roy R. Fultz, local treasurer; Mrs. Ira Neeley, connectional treasurer; Mrs. John Lofland, study superintendent; Mrs. S. L. Seago, christian social relational; Mrs. J. W. Slover, publicity superintendent; Mrs. B. B. McMillan, secretary of children; Mrs. Frank Phelan, superintendent of local work.

Following the installation service Mrs. Hightower, president, called for reports from the different officers. Mrs. W. E. Johnson gave the closing prayer.

WEBSTER

Several from here attended the singing at Eli Sunday afternoon. James Martin has returned home from a two weeks' stay on the Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Durham and family have moved into this community from the Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Alexander and son Gerald were Eli visitors Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. C. A. Orrell left Monday morning for Cleburne to be at the bedside of her father, who is ill.

Odell McBrayer was a Deep Lake visitor Friday.

Will McMurry was a visitor here last week-end.

R. E. L. Lewis returned yesterday from a visit with his niece, Mrs. G. F. Manney at Madge, Onla.

SOCIETY CALENDAR

Home Ec Class Entertains Kids

Monday morning the Home Ec Class entertained the children of the Kindergarten Club party in the Kindergarten room followed by a luncheon at 1 o'clock, as one of their regular work of Home Ec year girls.

"Child Development" unit they are working on includes child-play, toys and development.

The girls brought the toys to the Kindergarten room and the fun of the class observed the social of the children as they played with the toys. It was a visit to toyland for the girls. With such a lovely assembly of play things, the children until luncheon was served then they were seated.

Here again the class opportunity of making observations of the Kindergarten class of girls in the Home Ec Department under the direction of Mrs. Jack Hubbard, department.

Special study is being made of child foods and its preparation in the work as well as in the work of the toys.

The menu consisted of beans, creamed carrots, butter, lettuce sandwiches, custard and graham cracker.

Before leaving the ten Class sang a song in honor to Mrs. Hubbard's class for such a lovely party.

IN HERE TODAY

At the wishes of her sister, aristocratic MRS. RONALD CAMERON, DANA BROOK marries DR. STANLEY, struggling physician.

After her marriage, RONALD CAMERON had been in love with NANCY, Dana's half-sister RONALD, but hides himself behind a disdainful expression.

Cameron and Paula had loved Scott for years. The marriage will become aware of her infatuation for her husband after a misunderstanding goes to her grandmother. Mrs. Cameron doesn't do all she can to make the separation permanent.

Paula becomes aware of her infatuation for her husband after a misunderstanding goes to her grandmother. Mrs. Cameron doesn't do all she can to make the separation permanent. It is a comforting thought that Dana remains disbelieving Scott loves her, while she thinks of him because she was being poor.

After six months, Dana divorces Scott, believing that is what he wants.

She goes abroad, hoping to realize she loves him. Dana's indifference makes Ronnie unhappy. He accepts an invitation to go with an Englishman on his boat almost runs into another boat, and she recognizes Scott as one of the passengers.

ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIX.

It was the fact that he was not understanding, Ronnie was aggrieved by Dana's decision. It had not been flattering, at least, for Dana to accept Lancaster's invitation to go with him.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

CHRISTIAN HOMER

The world knows Dante Alighieri, the great Italian poet, as "the Divine Comedy," and hero of a love affair with Beatrice, his childhood sweetheart. But it is his soldier and political leader that he first became famous.

In 1265, in Florence, Dante Alighieri found himself in the middle of the quarrel between the Guelphs and the Ghibellines, who divided the time, and between the Whites and the Blacks of Florence. He placed him on the side of the Whites, or the more conservative and led, in 1300, to his exile, as a "prior" of Florence. The next year, however, the Ghibellines came into power and Dante was driven into exile, in poverty and this time that he is supposed to have written his greatest work, the Divine Comedy. He spent the remainder of his life in Ravenna and died there in 1321.

Dante is shown on one of three stamps issued by Italy in 1921 on the sixth centennial of his death.

When their absence lengthened past the breakfast hour Ronnie was sure he had just cause for grievance.

Gay groups eddied about him. No one was gayer than Paula, but Ronnie sensed that Paula was wearing a mask. Her high-pitched laughter held a note that was almost hysterical. For some reason Ronnie felt sorry for Paula.

As though drawn by a current of sympathy, she detached herself from the others and joined him.

"They should have caught all the fish in the lake by this time," she said, adding, "It occurs to me that you and I are in the same boat, Ronnie."

"Oh, I guess we could have fished, too, if we hadn't been lazy," Ronnie said carelessly.

Paula's eyes narrowed. "Dana and I are a couple of fools," she said slowly. "But she is a bigger fool than I ever was. Figure it out."

Ronnie frowned. Paula was always trying to be subtle. Or was this her way of making trouble. Settling a score with Dana? If she was hinting something about Scott it was all a lot of nonsense. Dana had been divorced from Scott six months now, and it had been almost a year since she had left him. Women don't go about in these modern times eating their hearts out for men they have deliberately divorced.

Ronnie had determined that he would not let what Paula had said worry him.

But an hour later he was driving to town. He had explained that business required an hour or two of his time.

"I'll be back by lunch time," Ronnie said. "Tell Dana to save her biggest fish for me."

On the drive his resentment increased. He had dreamed of his homecoming through months of travel. The boat couldn't dock fast enough to suit him. Yet here he was, alone, ditched for a man who meant nothing at all to Dana.

He drove past the Cameron home. Nancy was coming down the walk. Ronnie stopped the car and got out. Nancy stopped and waited, her dark eyes wide.

"Well, Nancy," Ronnie teased. "I expected a big, welcoming smile and what do I get? Not even a how-de-Je."

Nancy laughed nervously. "Serve you right. Looming up in front of me, when I thought you were miles away."

She made no move to go. Which, Ronnie decided humorously, was a real compliment. Whenever Nancy saw him she always made a dash for a door.

"Where's Dana?"

"Out at the lake." "Oh," Nancy said. She added "You must have had a wonderful time abroad, Ronnie. I suppose you've seen everything there is to see. It must have been grand."

"Not so grand. It can be lonely as the deuce when you go days on end without seeing anyone you know or care about."

He thought Nancy's face clouded a little. Nancy must be rather lonely. She had so little fun. That was why she magnified such things as traveling.

On an impulse he said, "How about a spin? I'll review for you in 15 minutes what it took me six months to see."

Amazingly, Nancy agreed. She said eagerly: "I'll go if you promise not to leave out one single thing."

That was a large order. But with Nancy's intense, interested face turned toward him, Ronnie found himself growing expansive. Nancy hadn't traveled, but she was well read. Strangely enough, she was most interested in the places that had appealed to Ronnie most.

about your winter gasoline

You will not hear your starter go slower, s-l-o-w-e-r, s-l-o-w-e-r before Winter Blend Conoco Bronze starts up in this weather. Hence your car will at last have some chance of doing the thing it was intended to do—keep the battery charged with no outside help.

And we promise that you will be able to un-learn your old habit of leaving the choke out for blocks and blocks, which is unnecessary with Conoco Bronze—meaning that you won't waste this gasoline, or get your oil so thin that it needs excessive changes this winter.

Those are the things that really count in choosing your winter gasoline—regardless of all the arguments. Please make a careful note of what this says about our Winter Blend Conoco Bronze, and see if you don't say exactly the same. Continental Oil Company, Established 1875 and presently, returning, passed it again.

Ronnie remembered what Dana had said about his home the day he had first seen her, looking lovely and glowing in that old rattle-trap of a car.

"Gloomy old dump," Ronnie said now.

Nancy stared. "You don't like it?"

"Not especially. Do you?"

"Better than any place in town," Nancy said. "You see, Ronnie, I was a child when your father built it. I always thought of it as a castle. I've always thought of it that way. Besides, it's beautiful."

Ronnie laughed. But there was a tight feeling in his throat. Of all the people in the world, Nancy was the last he would have suspected of such sentiments.

Dana hadn't liked his home. She had told him so frankly. True, she had not known it was his home, but the fact remained. He hoped some day Dana would grow to like it. If she didn't, he'd have to sell it after they were married and build another.

Lately Ronnie had developed a real affection for the place. Perhaps it was his long absence that had made him sentimental about it. Or it might be associations. The house was filled with memories of his father, who had loved every inch of it. The immense structure represented the fulfillment of his father's long dream of achievement. It had been a symbol of power for which his father had struggled most of the years of his life.

Ronnie turned the car. "Would you like to have a look at it inside?" he asked.

"Could we?"

"You funny girl! Could we? I have an idea we could."

Nancy smiled. "It's hard to realize it is really your home. I never associate grandeur with you, Ronnie."

"Is that one of your subtle digs? Or is it meant as a compliment?"

"Do your own thinking," Nancy retorted gaily.

They drove through the tall iron gate, along the curbing drive. At the door, Ronnie turned to ask, "Do you like your grandeur served with all the trimmings? A touch of the bell will bring one of the servants. Or we can just turn a key in the lock and enter unannounced."

"Let's have the trimmings," said Nancy, an excited note in her voice.

"Now, I know the kind of wife you're going to make some man some day. He won't be able to make money fast enough for you!"

Nevertheless Ronnie looked pleased. He pressed the bell and a servant in livery answered immediately, bowed and withdrew.

"Ordinarily," Ronnie teased, "I would say, 'How are you, Tompkins?' And he would answer, 'Very well, Mr. Ronnie. And how are you sir?' But today he senses there is something unusual in the air. He knows, intuitively, that an impression is wanted. So he springs up at the door and then disappears."

Nancy was only half listening to the bantering talk. Her eyes shone as she moved across the soft rugs, through the lofty rooms.

Splendid paintings, rare furnishings from the old world, exquisite pieces of statuary, glittering chandeliers from great French and Italian palaces, beautiful Venetian mirrors. It was all magnificent, spectacular.

An hour later Ronnie told Nancy good by at the door of her home.

"Oh, Ronnie, it's been lovely. It was almost as though I had been traveling, too."

"I've had a great time," Ronnie squeezed her hands. "Guess I'd better be on my way or I won't make it back by lunch time."

Half way down the walk, he turned. Nancy still stood in the doorway, but the glow had left her face. She wore the expression that was more familiar to him, the solemn look of a little girl who has been disillusioned about Santa Claus.

Last Night's Game Postponed

Last night's bowling league game between the High School team and the Filling Station team was postponed, when Captain Jack Poone of the Filling Station team was unable to complete the organization of his team in time for the contest.

The High School team, led by M. E. McNally, Jr., was at the alleys ready for play, but due to the fact that the schedule is just getting under way and both teams had been notified that the game probably would not be played last night, the contest was postponed instead of forfeited in favor of the school team.

Captain Boone hopes to have his team in shape to play the postponed game Friday night.

Tonight, the Merchants, led by Weldon Massey, take on the Laundry team, captained by H. H. "Red" Lindsey, and a good game is predicted.

There will be no game Thursday night, regularly scheduled league games being played on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday nights only.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic, kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical—only twenty-five cents for the package, ten cents for the package. (Adv.)

Welcome will be the keynote of the carnival, and the welcome will be expressed not only in words but also in genuine buying opportunity. Local merchants are determined to make the Carnival of Values a red letter occasion, even more attractive than any former selling event. They are asking residents of the Memphis trade area to take an inventory of their furniture, rugs, clothing, hosiery, shoes, luggage, hardware, chinaware, groceries, drugs, and other commodities for the home.

Full particulars of this city-wide sale, in which all the merchants will join, will be announced soon.

Work at present is being done mostly in Hall County, but the SCS men will move into Childress, Collingsworth and Donley counties as soon as possible.

As yet contracts have been signed in only Hall and Donley counties, putting 16,700 acres under contract. At present the SCS authorities are endeavoring to get as much cultivated land terraced as possible, as the farmers are not working their land at this time of year. Ranch lands will be worked next summer and fall.

One hundred and forty men from the local CCC camp are now in the fields working. They are engaged mostly in terracing work and the construction of stock tanks.

Work for the next three months will include considerable tree planting, preliminary work on the roadside tree planting program for counties of the local camp area having already been initiated.
