F. F. A. - HOME EC. CONVENTION IN CITY

STRIKE OPENLY DEFIED BY TWO PEKIN PLANTS

Stores at Illinois
 City Are Closed
 But May Reopen

By Associated Press
 PEKIN, Ill., Feb. 6.—The three day general strike of 2,000 men here ended today. Jack Kinsella, business agent for building trades union, indicated the order calling off the strike would be effective immediately.

PEKIN, Ill., Feb. 6.—The plans of the general strike committee to paralyze completely all business activities in this city are meeting with open defiance from some quarters.

Two companies, Fleishmann's Yeast and Quaker Oats, worked men and women at their usual tasks. A third company has also been operating, but planned to cease operations at ten o'clock tonight, in accordance with yesterday's strike vote.

Stores and shops in the city are still tightly closed. Chamber of Commerce officials, however, said that local business men resented the interference of the strikers and that some planned to reopen their places of business soon.

SING-SONG HELD AT WEATHERLY

Approximately 150 primary, junior and senior students and a large number of teachers attended the "sing-song" Pre-Centennial services held at the Weatherly school house last night.

Schools represented were Memphis, Turkey, Pleasant Valley, Alaska, Buffalo Flat, Wolf Flat, Bridle Bit, Tampico, Weatherly and Leach.

Because of widespread illness of the Newlin, Estelline and Parnell pupils, delegations did not attend from those towns.

Miss Vera (Tops) Gilreath, county school superintendent, was chairman of the affair, which was held for the purpose of teaching the children songs that will be sung at the Texas Centennial in Dallas June 13.

Those in charge of the singing exercises were Mrs. J. M. Parsons, Weatherly, Miss Georgia Lee, Lake of Turkey, and Alvis Yarborough of Pleasant Valley. Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Smyers of Memphis attended the sing-song.

Phillips Test Nears 8,000 Foot Depth

Memphis men interested in the developments in Hall County report this morning after a trip to the Knorpp and Hughes locations yesterday afternoon, that the Phillips Company oil test is progressing at full speed, with the bit working in the neighborhood of 7,500 feet.

The Phillips test, the Hughes No. 1, located in section four, H. Stevens survey, is being drilled this week in hard limestone formation; and depth is going forward at a slow pace.

Operations at the Knorpp No. 1 oil test is slated to resume drill-

All Aboard! Quinmobile Is Ready to Take Off!

Being a quintuplet is itself a strange adventure, but it has brought other strange things to the Dionne babies. Here's the "Petite Dionne 5," latest model "Quinmobile," contrived by a San Francisco admirer of the babies and sent to their nursery. Annette grasps the wheel quite fearlessly, while Marie, Yvonne, Cecile, and Emilie hold fast for the ride. Don't worry, it goes nowhere except around the nursery floor. But even that's great fun, as you can see.

COUNTY SCHOOL MEN AT AUSTIN

Attend Meeting of School Heads of the Entire State

Supt. W. C. Davis of Memphis, Supt. H. B. O'Neal of Lakeview, Supt. Lee Vardy of Turkey, and Supt. J. T. Duncan of Estelline returned this morning from Austin, where they attended a meeting of all city school superintendents of the state Monday and Tuesday.

Superintendent of Public Instruction L. A. Woods was in charge of the meeting, and instructors from all over Texas were present and discussed school problems, such as transportation, tuition, credits and affiliations.

Supt. Davis states that one of the most profitable features of the meeting was the co-ordination of the state school program, and also said that the Hall County (Continued on Page 8)

Sues on Tax

Processors throughout the United States who expect to get back more than $150,000,000 in AAA taxes, may be balked by a suit filed by Alfred Eades, Evansville, Ind., baker, above. Eades claims that the processing taxes were passed on to bakers by the millers and hence the bakers, and not the processors, are entitled to recover.

MEXICAN YOUTH KILLS AUTHOR

Magazine Writer Is Murdered in New Mexico by Youth

By Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, Feb. 6.—Modesto Trujillo, sixteen year old Mexican youth, this morning confessed, according to Sheriff Ross Salazar, that he killed Carl Taylor, vagabond magazine writer, in a lonely mountain cabin near here last night. The boy, who last night led officers to the body, saying that Taylor had been shot by two masked assailants, this morning admitted that he fired the fatal shot and then robbed the dying author.

The officers took the youth to the cabin site near a colony of "Penitentes," a strange religious cult of which Taylor had been (Continued on Page 8)

THE CITY NEEDS THE BAND

WE understand that there is a possibility of Director Milam of the Gold Medal Band giving up his work with the organization in the near future, due to unsatisfactory financial arrangements . . . and this is something we would be sorry to see happen.

A year ago, Mr. Milam, by arrangement with the Chambers of Commerce, took over the nucleus of the present splendid organization . . . at that time just a handful of school boys who hardly knew how to blow their noses, much less play an instrument . . . and in the past year, from that small group, has built up a musical organization that is second to none in this section of the state; winning the band contest several months ago at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Plainview, over several much larger and more experienced bands.

At the time Mr. Milam took over the band, the intention was for him to put in only part time with them, in an endeavor to whip them into shape for a trip or two, and the compensation was only a nominal one. Since that time, the band business has become a permanent thing, with two rehearsals a week, numerous local concerts, and several trips, demanding more and more time from the director, and making the remuneration paid Mr. Milam very low.

Memphis has always had a band, ever since the early days when the community was merely half a dozen wooden stores and not many more houses.

Memphis has always been famous for its band . . . and the old Gold Medal Band did more to put this city in the public eye and keep it there than any one organization in the history of the community.

The new Gold Medal Band is proving a worthy successor to that famous old organization and needs only a few years more experience to take right up where the old band left off.

We feel that it would be a serious mistake to allow the band here to discontinue its activities.

We need the band. On the other hand, the band needs us and our financial support.

If the Chambers of Commerce want something worthwhile to put in their report of accomplishments, let them look to this.

Coach "Chesty" Walker feeling chestier than ever over his prospects for a good football team next fall. He has had the boys out for spring practice this week, and says that he feels they'll have a good chance with McLean and Shamrock this fall. When questioned about Estelline, he was rather reticent, but said they'd not guarantee anything there.

Dear Sir:
It is too bad you were not with me at Childress the other day. Had you been there you would have secured enough dope to fill your column for several moons.
One of the most interesting views we noted was that of the wife of one of our local courthouse attaches laying in her spring supply of ready-to-wear. I tried to believe that we did not have anyone so disloyal as that, but when you see it with your own eyes you are certain that it is true. The worst part about the story is that the merchandise purchased was not as good a quality as our local merchants are selling, for I am supposed to know the clothing business. When I think that I sacrificed to pay my taxes and my wife could not afford to buy a new dress, it hurts to see something like this going on.
Well we have an election coming on, and it may be different a year from now. It may do some good to print this in your column.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The farm organization lobbyists and the administration have produced a substitute program for the AAA—which already is undergoing repair. Once again the consumer is a conspicuous absentee.
Secretary Wallace wanted some provision for consumer protection in the new soil conservation-domestic allotment act through which it is hoped to control production and pay benefits to farmers. The administration, from both standpoints of good politics and public policy, wanted it.
But the farmer lobbyists turned them down, apparently unwilling to place any potential brake on farm prices or on processors and distributors of food.
Many farm leaders really want export subsidies for surplus crops, which the administration thinks are deadly poison—an unworkable scheme for subsidizing foreign consumers at the expense of American consumers.
Republicans and General Johnson are clamoring in ostensible sympathy. Hence the tossing overboard of the consumer, lest a fight for him spoil everything.

AT the same time, there's been appreciation within administration ranks of the fact that city consumers resent the 25 per cent increase in retail food prices since 1933 and blame it on a program which they believe has created a scarcity of food.
The AAA was a political liability in other than farm states and failure to take that fact into account in the new legislation may prove costly in the election campaign.
What Wallace wanted in the bill and what the farmer lobbyists refused to accept was a guarantee to consumers that the program would not require food supplies below normal domestic requirements.

"We want to be sure," Wallace recently said, "that there will be the same quantity of food per capita available to the American people that there was in the twenties."
The bill as introduced leaves the extent of crop reduction and amount of food supplies to executive discretion. Such discretion is notoriously susceptible to the influence of pressure groups—and farm lobbyists have shown themselves as predatory as any other group when their chance came to force up prices.

OFFICIALLY, no one is supposed to mention the soil conservation-domestic allotment bill and the excise law which will be proposed to finance it in the same breath. Just as an attempt will be made to "fool the supreme court" into thinking that the prime purpose of the former is soil conservation instead of federal regulation of agriculture, which the court majority has held unconstitutional, a clumsy effort will be made to disguise the excise law as a general revenue bill—even though most of the money is to be collected in the same old way and from the same folks.
Everybody will be in on these secrets—except the supreme court!

TAXES on processors probably will be higher than the AAA taxes. "Soil conservation" is expected to be more expensive than "agricultural adjustment."
The Treasury scheme as now proposed may be revised before it sees the light of day. But in any event the disguised processing taxes will be an obvious form of sales tax, no longer clothed with the promise of agricultural adjustment for the general welfare. Some New Deal lawyers think that's a dangerous "opening wedge."

The STRANGE CASE of JULIA CRAIG

by Ned Jones Copyright NEA 1936

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JULIA CRAIG, pretty young secretary to GEORGE WOODFORD, lawyer, is ambitious to become a night club singer. Julia shares an apartment with AMY SANDERS.

PETER KEMP, young lawyer, is in love with Julia but they quarrel and Julia declares she never wants to see him again.

Woodford gives a party aboard his yacht and asks Julia to come to sing for his guests, including CINTRA LEE, dancer, MRS. JOSEPH, widow; HUGO NASH and ROYAL NESBITT.

On board, Julia discovers the trip is to be much longer than a week-end. The yacht lands at Evergreen Island where Woodford has a lodge. Julia meets TOM PAYSON who agrees to help her get away, but he is discovered on the yacht and accused of tampering with the radio. After an angry scene he is allowed to depart.

Back home Julia is hired to sing on TONY LATTA'S gambling ship. Tom Payson comes to the ship frequently. One night, after winning heavily, Tom is threatened. He and Julia escape in a speedboat.

Woodford telephones Julia and she goes to his office. He warns her not to tell anyone about what happened on the yacht trip.

SMITH GARLAND, night club owner, offers Julia a job, singing in a new club he is about to open.

Nod Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XIX

Later it was to seem to Julia that from the moment she had met Smith Garland her life had speeded up immeasurably. Sometimes she felt that she must look much like a character in one of those fantastic motion picture reels where everything moves at erratic top pace. But she was to learn that everyone and everything connected with the dynamic night club owner moved in the same way. Once he had obtained the idea for his White Club it was a reality to him, and he moved at once to make it a reality for the public.

Within a week after she had signed a contract with Garland she and Amy were in a larger and much more expensive apartment. That had been Garland's idea, not Julia's—but taking Amy along was Julia's idea. She had protested the move at first, but Garland was adamant.

"You're Nadine White," he told her imperturbably, "Nadine White—and you've got to have an address. I'll sweeten your salary enough so you can afford it." It was as simple as that, and the next thing Amy and Julia knew they were ensconced in a four-room apartment on the top floor of a smart tower. There was an elevator with gilt doors and an operator who wore flaming red. There was a doorman as splendid as an admiral reviewing his fleet. And their apartment was in keeping—even to the black and gold bathroom with mirrored walls.

"I don't mind smothering every time I sit in this furniture," Amy said, "and I don't mind wading up to my knees in the Chinese rug—but I'll be darned if I like to see myself taking a bath. It startles me. There's four of me in that bathroom, and everytime I take a shower I feel like I was doing it in a train station."

"Of a nudist colony," suggested Julia, laughing.

The truth was that Julia had little time to let the apartment worry her. She did find it rather silly and disturbing to come down in the gilt elevator and have the operator say, "Good morning, Miss White." But most of the time she was in Garland's rehearsal hall with the orchestra he had brought together especially for his new night club. And when she wasn't there she was trying on gowns—all of them white, for she was to wear nothing else. When she wasn't trying on gowns and shoes she was having her hair treated in a shop that Smith Garland had selected. Soon her hair was white—and yet not white, and Julia wasn't sure she liked it. But Amy thought it was more than becoming; and Tom Payson, who often appeared at rehearsals, told Julia it was nothing less than lovely.

"But it doesn't change you, for me," he said. "You're still Julia." "Yes... I'm still Julia, and I'm worried."

"All this money that Smith Garland is spending—like water. Of course, if I don't pan out he can get another singer. But I keep thinking that I'm the one to open the club. If I'm not good, then the word will get around and it will give his dream a frightful setback."

Payson laughed. "Don't worry about Garland. He knows what he's doing, Julia. And as for your not being a knockout, that's nonsense."

One thing seemed certain—the opening night would be a success. Already Garland had issued his publicity and newspaper advertising, and the reservations were flooding in. Smith Garland was known as a night club owner who gave the customers something extra for their money, and his two existing clubs were popular.

Julia hardly recognized herself in the advertisements and posters. She hadn't seen proofs of the photographs for which she'd sat all of one morning. They were sent to Garland for acceptance or rejection—and he had accepted, Julia saw, only the most dashing and provocative ones.

"Nobody would even dream that was Julia Craig," she told Amy one afternoon, pointing to an advertisement which featured her picture.

"It isn't," Amy said comfortably. "It's Nadine White. And you know, I think I'd better start calling you Nadine, before I slip up in public some time."

"If you dare stop calling me Julia I'll—I'll install another mirror in the bathroom!"

On the opening night the town realized that the White Club was everything Smith Garland had promised. Illuminated by searchlights mounted on the building across the street, the new club shone resplendently with its tall white pillars and wide doors of Mediterranean blue. And the interior struck the patrons breathless when they first glimpsed its simple beauty of line.

The walls were high and white, seeming to reach a summer night sky of dark blue. The chairs, and the settees along the wall, were in white leather, and even the carpeting was white—the latter representing Garland's victory in a strenuous argument with his head janitor.

Waiters wore white jackets, and the band white evening clothes. But wherever this stunning absence of color threatened to become monotonous, Garland's decorator had inserted a touch of blue. It was indeed a triumph of setting.

But the public is critical. Those who had paid good prices for first-night tables would be quick to see where Smith Garland had misled. Garland knew this; and all he had to comfort him was the parallel knowledge that the public is quick to accept and acclaim.

In Julia's dressing room he told her this. "But I'm not saying it will be easy," he added. "They like the place, and they like the dance music. They like the food—and now they're out there wondering how they'll like you. Yours is the hardest job of all, Nadine. You have to cap the climax."

"Good grief, Smith!" Julia heard a familiar voice in the doorway and looked up to see Tom Payson striding toward her. "Don't scare the girl to death!" Payson touched her shoulder. "You'll knock 'em dead, Julia."

"Thanks, Tom," said Julia shakily.

"Just one song," Garland warned. "And an encore if they beg for it. This first night is tough on you—and if you're weak we don't want them to get onto it." Then he left the dressing room in his quick nervous stride.

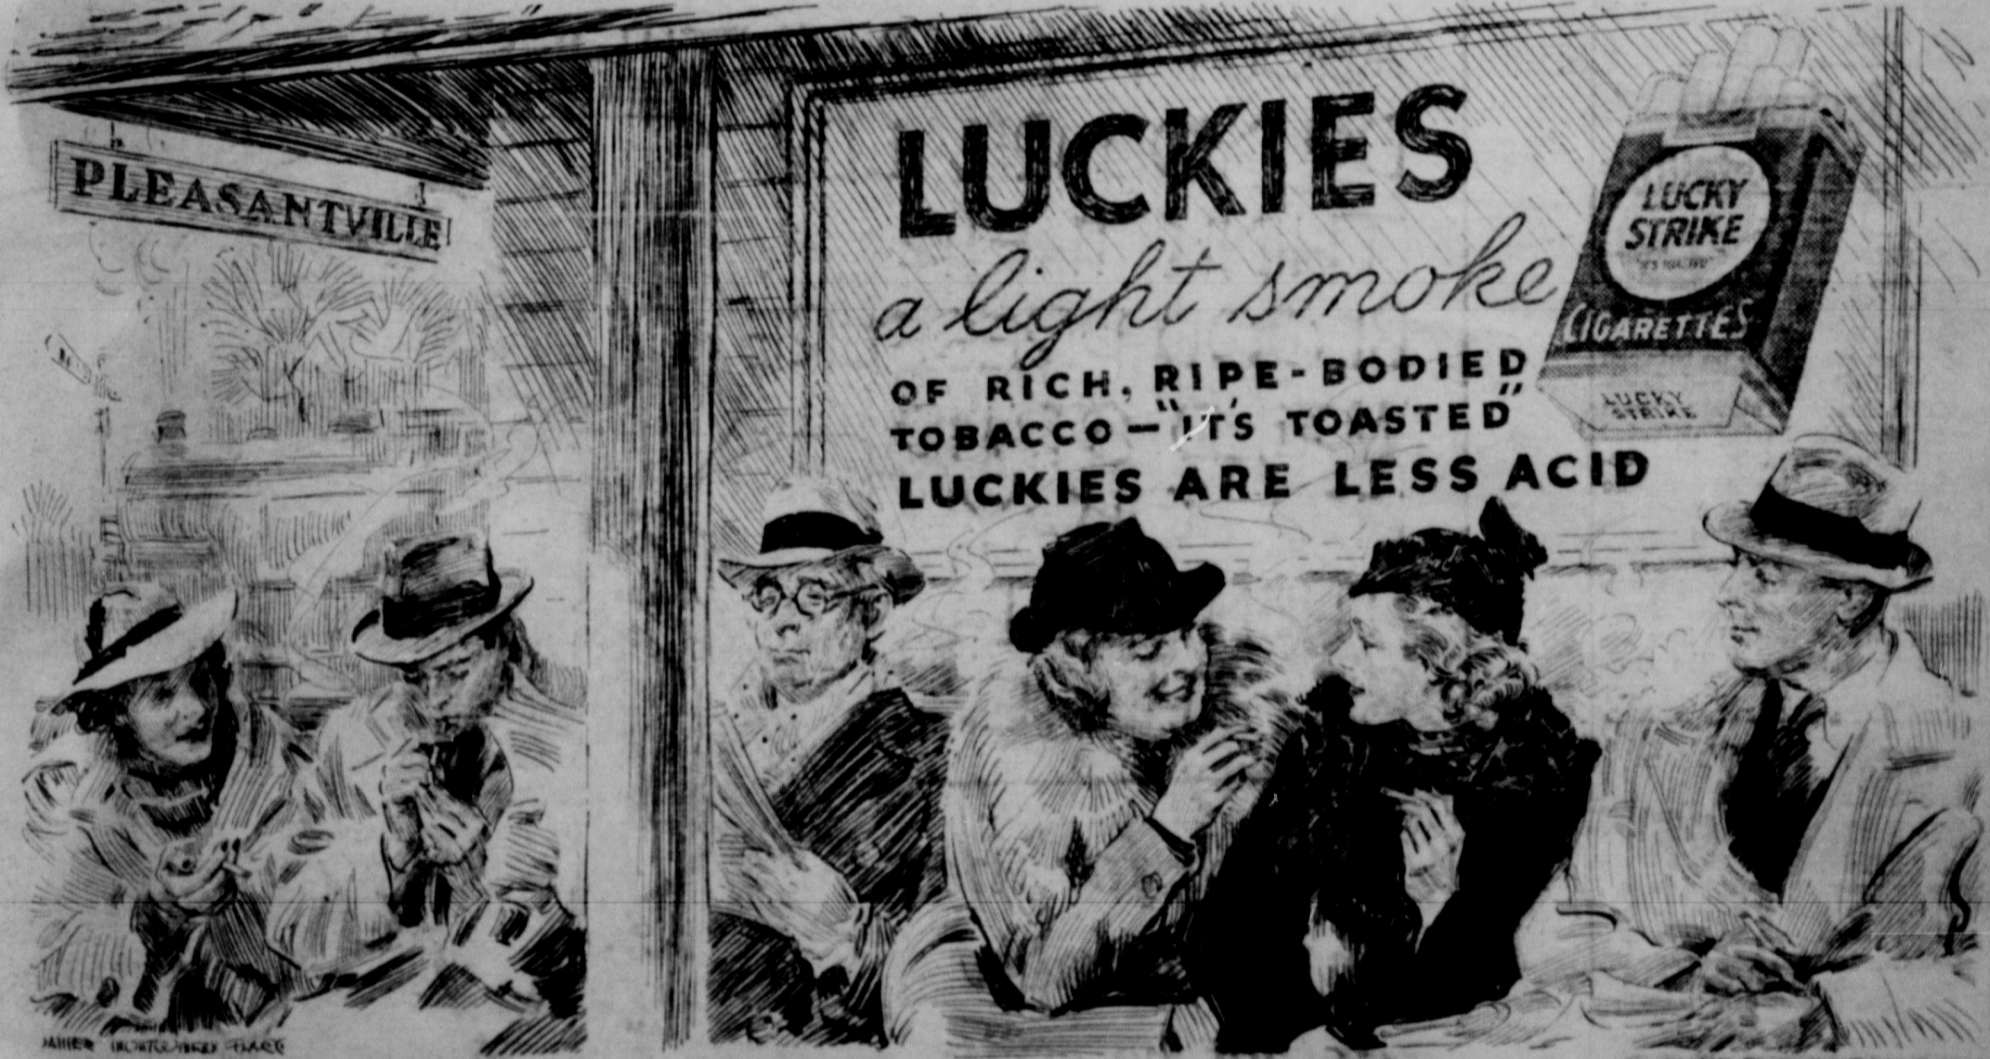

Payson laughed. "Don't mind him, Julia. He's so excited he doesn't know what he's doing."

"He's excited?" exclaimed Julia. "What do you think I—"

She stopped quickly. A tiny green light flashed on the wall. She stood up, quickly arranged (Continued on Page 6)

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

All kinds of people choose Luckies, each for reasons of his own. But everyone agrees that Luckies are A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco. It is a rather surprising fact that the leaves of the same tobacco plant may vary far more than the leaves from plants of quite different types. Chemical analysis shows that the top leaves contain excess alkalies which tend to give a harsh, alkaline taste. The bottom leaves tend to acidity in the smoke. It is only the center leaves which approach in Nature the most palatable, acid-alkaline balance. In Lucky Strike Cigarettes, the center leaves are used.

CYCLONE LOOKS GOOD IN SPRING PRACTICE TILTS

Only One Letter Man and Three Squad Men Back on Team

After a few weeks of spring football practice, hampered considerably by unfavorable weather conditions, local railbirds have been able to gain some sort of an opinion as to the calibre of next year's Memphis High Cyclone football team.

With only one letterman and three squadmen from last year's mediocre football aggregation back as a nucleus, and two additional lettermen available after basketball season is over, Coach Harold (Chesty) Walker will produce a football eleven next season that will bear watching, despite inexperience.

Benjie Estes, pivot man, is the only experienced man now reporting for work-outs. With the advent of the 19-year age limit next year, the Cyclone mentor will have two other men from last year's team eligible. These are Dennis Walker, halfback, and Pud Malone, end.

Although it will be at least two weeks before any scrimmage sessions will be held, enough rough work was seen yesterday afternoon to get a line on the candidates. Notwithstanding the cold at yesterday's practice, the men were running and tackling hard; and Coach Walker was in a slightly optimistic mood, which in itself is reassuring.

Most of the practice periods are given over to purely fundamental instructions. A few plays have been given the boys, and they run signals to get the feel of football and to develop their wind. The team that has been running together most of the time is composed of Estes, center; A. J. Clark and Paul Dodson, guards; Denny Sanders and John Harris, tackles; James Evans and Blackie Montgomery, ends; Billy Pope Hall, Talmage Pounds, Doyle Dunn and Zeb Moore, backs.

Two Basketball Games at Estelline

ESTELLINE, Feb. 6.—There will be two basketball games played in the Estelline gymnasium Friday night, February 7.

The first game is to be between Memphis High School and Estelline High School. This is a return game, Memphis having defeated Estelline Tuesday night. The second game is to be between the Estelline All-Stars and the Phillips 66 team from Pampa.

Hugh A. Garland, state representative of the Service Mutual Insurance Co., of Waco is here today in the interest of the company.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of power and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 100 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.

Estelline Loses to Quitaque

ESTELLINE, Feb. 5.—After winning two well-deserved games from the Childress Bobcats last week, the Estelline Bear Cubs journeyed to Quitaque Monday night seeking another victory. Although the Cubs did not reach their aim, being defeated 42-21, they played a good brand of ball.

The Estelline team played without the services of the two regular forwards, Clifton and Edmondson, who were out because of illness.

Leatherwood starred for the Cubs, being high point man and playing his regular brand of ball. The Panther five displayed some fast and sure pass work, good handling and fast breaks.

The Estelline Juniors played the Quitasue Juniors and won by a score of 20 to 19. The Estelline "All-Stars" also handed the Quitaque "All-Stars" a defeat of 44 to 11.

INSPECTS CAMP

Capt. Spurlock, sub-district commander, with headquarters at Lubbock, inspected the local CCC Camp the past two days. He addressed the camp personnel last night at a Safety Meeting.

Mrs. O. V. Alexander returned from Dallas this morning where she spent three days buying new spring merchandise for the ready-to-wear department at Greene Dry Goods Store.

Lakeview Wins at Tournament

LAKEVIEW, Feb. 6.—The Lakeview High School boys' basketball team won the boys' division of the Canadian Basketball Tournament last week-end. The tournament was attended by 500 boys and girls from schools over all the Panhandle. Lakeview defeated Wellington, defending titlist, for the championship.

The all-star boys' team, picked from all teams entering the tournament, and awarded gold basketballs, was as follows:

Billings, Lakeview, and Pittman, Perryton, forwards; Patisillo, Wellington, center; McElrath, Lakeview, and Hatley, Lakeview, guards.

Your Income Tax

INCOME TAX IN A NUTSHELL

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $2,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period begins January 1 and ends March 16, 1936.

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? See instructions on forms 1040A and 1040.

WHAT? Four per cent normal tax on the amount of net income in excess of the personal exemption, credit for dependents, earned income credit, dividends of domestic corporations subject to taxation, and interest on obligations of the United States and obligations of instrumentalities of the United States. Surtax on surtax net income in excess of $4,000.

INCOME TAX DON'TS

DON'T prepare your return without first studying the instructions on the form.

DON'T procrastinate. Early assembling of data permits a careful consideration of all tax problems.

DON'T destroy the memoranda from which your return was prepared.

DON'T omit explanation when such information is essential to an intelligent audit. Attach memoranda to your return.

HOW TO AVOID COMMON ERRORS

The period for the filing of income-tax returns covering the calendar year 1935 begins January 1 and ends at midnight of March 16. March 15, the usual close of the filing period, this year falls on Sunday, allowing the taxpayers an additional day of grace, which, however, it will be to their interest to disregard. To file early is of mutual benefit to the Government and tax payer. Within this period are filed annually millions of individual income-tax returns, a large proportion of which report income subject to the tax. The latter contain a considerable percentage of errors, which if uncorrected by the audit would result to the disadvantage of the taxpayer. Many are errors of computation easily discovered on the face of the return, which usually is accompanied by a payment of more than the amount of tax due. In other returns it is readily discernible that the taxpayer has failed to take advantage of the personal exemption, credit allowed for dependents, or deductions from gross income to which he is entitled.

To avoid these and other errors, the Bureau of Internal Revenue urges careful reading of the instructions on the forms for filing the returns. Additional information, if needed, may be obtained at the office of a collector of internal revenue, deputy collector or an internal revenue agent in charge. Also, as a further aid in the preparation of a correct income-tax return for the year 1935, the Bureau has prepared a series of short newspaper articles, of which this is the first, advising the salaried man, wage earner, professional and business man—in fact, every class of individual taxpayer—of his requirements and privileges as interpreted under the latest regulations, rulings and decisions relating to the income-tax law.

The Strange Case—

her long white gown. "It's my number," she whispered.

"Good luck, kid. I'll be out there leading the cheering."

As she walked out into the spotlight there was no applause as there was that first night on Tony Latta's gambling ship. Suddenly Julia realized that Garland's publicity had been so extended as to arouse their skepticism. In effect, their silence meant, "We know nothing about you yet, Nadine White. We're waiting to learn if what we've read is true."

Then a queer thing happened. Out of all that crowd, the face of Peter Kemp focussed into Julia's gaze. He sat at a small table with a young, dark girl—a quiet, pretty girl whose eyes betrayed her awe for this glittering Nadine White. The sight gave Julia an odd feeling and she thought, "She is the girl he will marry, and she will always think of me as strange—and yet she is no different from me."

And the music began . . . " . . . learn to love, if you want me . . ."

learn to trust me if you'd have me . . ."

It was a dragging, plaintive tune—a tune that must have been written for Julia's appealing voice. When she reached the chorus she held her arms out toward the skeptical crowd, dropped her voice to a husky whisper, singing "Learn to love me, if you want me . . ."

There in the glitter of the spotlight with the sad, mad music drifting around her, she became Astarte—Astarte of old, in a modern gown, singing a siren song in the idiom of today.

Suddenly the crowd could not wait to tell her it was sorry it had doubted. Suddenly it had voice, breaking into the song, making Julia stop for a moment until it had finished. And when she had finished, the applause began again, louder now and more prolonged.

"I've done it," she thought, making her way unsteadily toward the exit. "I've done it!"

She passed a long table, lined with a party of guests. Someone said, "She's pretty, isn't she? I can't blame Tom." It was a woman's voice, and it was a woman's voice which answered, too, as Julia went by:

"Of course he can't be serious, even if he did back, Garland money to start this place. I'd like Tom marrying a night singer!"

Small Parks on State Highway

Austin, Texas, Feb. 6.—A Centennial year development which will pay dividends in pleasure and comfort for highway travelers for many years to come is underway throughout the state. It included the construction of approximately 200 "pocket-sized" highway parks which are being developed by workers under the National Youth Administration in the state in conjunction with the state highway department.

The small parks, several of which have been completed, will dot the main highways of the state, offering places where the tired motorist may rest, eat and drink. Each park, separated from the highway by low stone walls, will contain a stone barbecue pit, stone benches and tables. Drives will be gravelled and trees and shrubs will be set out. A few of the parks will be less than one acre in size but most of them will be from three and one-fourth to six acres in extent.

YOUNG LADY DIES

Miss Nadine Anoma Berryman, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Berryman, living near Halver, died this morning about ten o'clock at a local hospital of pneumonia. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon and the interment will be at the Halver Cemetery. The hour of the funeral has not been set, pending the arrival of out of town relatives.

Memphis Host

O. T. Ryan, professor of agriculture of Texas Technological College, Lubbock, who is supervisor of the F.F.A. organizations in this area, will attend the meeting here Saturday. The meeting, which is a bi-monthly affair, is to open at the high school Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

The program for the Future Farmers of America, Mr. Carlton stated, will be conducted largely by the students themselves; and it will be divided into a junior and a senior program. The opening and closing of the junior program is to be in accordance with the F.F.A. ritualistic ceremonies, and Howard Yarbrough, Memphis, district secretary, will assist the other officials in performing the rituals.

"We have heard from all of the 14 Vocational Agriculture Departments in this area," Mr. Carlton said, "and indications are that we will have 100 per cent representation. Delegations will be from 10 to 35 boys."

Arrangements are being made for the holding of a soil conservation demonstration Saturday afternoon. This demonstration is to be held a short distance west of town and is to be put on by J. C. Ebersole, agronomist of the Memphis Soil Conservation Service camp. A unique part of the F.F.A. program will be the dairy judging contest. This judging of dairy stock is to be held indoors at the High school, using motion pictures.

The main objective of the area meetings, the local instructor said, is training the Vocational Agriculture students for community leadership, which is the main theme of the school course itself. Mr. Carlton urged all fathers of F.F.A. boys to attend the district meet with their sons.
