Hall County Reaches Bond Quota, Report From Leaders Show

Final reports on the bond sales for Hall County for the months of April and May show that the quotas were reached. The quota for the Second War Loan Drive during April was $275,000 and May $46,000.

Hall County lacked $12,675 reaching the quota during April according to local figures, but when the final tabulation for May was counted, this county was given credit for $102,000. That shows there was a carry-over of several thousand dollars from the month of April. In other words, for the two months of April and May, Hall County bond sales amounted to $364,324.72 and the combined quota for these two months was $321,000. This shows $43,324 in excess of the quota.

The quota for the month of June is $48,400 and that must be sold in Series E only. Heretofore, all types of bonds have been counted in the quota, but this month, only Series E will be counted.

"That doesn't mean that we don't want the people who will buy other series of bonds, not to buy at all. It simply means that for all those who do purchase the series E type credit will be given on the quota. Those of you who want other types of bonds, go ahead and buy them, because, after all, buying any bond is the most important thing," stated C. T. Johnson, county chairman of Bonds and Stamps.

Misuse of Ration Stamps One of Black Markets

Misuse of ration stamps from War Ration Book I and II and from gasoline coupon books is due either to ignorance or a complete disregard for regulations. OPA officials over the Lubbock district have found. There is no excuse for ignorance, they pointed out, since a daily calendar run in most newspapers may be clipped before a consumer goes to a store for his purchase.

"The worst offenders are persons who have a complete disregard for regulations, punishable by law," OPA officials declared. A "gift" of unused ration stamps to a friend or retailer is a serious black market offense that jeopardizes the rationing program and our war effort.

"Some people seem still unaware that we cannot afford to waste food or give people more than their fair share. They do not seem to realize that vast quantities of foods must go to the armed forces at home and abroad, smaller amounts to our Lend-Lease allies, and some to the liberated people of the occupied regions," it was pointed out.

FRIENDS OF SERGEANT PILOT PAT NOEL VISIT IN MEMPHIS

Letters and telegrams are appreciated and tell part of the story but last week when the two closest friends of Sergeant Pilot Pat Noel visited here with his father and sister, Noel, it was first hand information they received concerning Pat, his work and his death.

Lt. Tommie Martin of Beaumont and Lt. Jack McNicholas of Mannington, West Virginia, were guests of Mr. Noel last week. They were en route to Colorado Springs to join the forces to go to Africa as Aerial Photographers.

Lt. Martin and Sergeant Pilot Noel were schoolmates at A & M in 1941. They enlisted in the RCAF and went to Canada together. There, they met Lt. McNicholas and the three of them time in Windsor, Ontario, Canada, and were sent to England together. They were separated there due to their duties. Pat was a bomber pilot and the other two were on night patrol duty flying P-38's. Knowing that Pat's work was more dangerous than their own, these two young men kept in close contact with Pat.

On the night of July 28, 1942, 1500 planes were called out—a storm was coming up and all but 508 planes were contacted to return to their bases. Only ten planes reached their destination—Hamburg, Germany—and Pat was pilot of one of these. The

Chief Adams Passes Away In Naval Hospital After Several Months Sea Duty

Suggestions On Fast Cotton Picking Given

With cotton-picking time just around the corner, the cotton grower is going into a huddle with officials over the method that will speed up the cotton harvest. Everyone knows that the picking of cotton by hand is a slow, tiresome, grueling task. It takes a good deal of time and much labor, and labor is a scarce article around the farm these global war days.

By way of suggestion, H. P. Smith, chief of the division of agricultural engineering of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, thinks we might take a cue from the war training system. He points out that some individuals can pick cotton faster than others. Why not, he asks, get some outstanding pickers to train the slower pickers in the method they use?

There is a humble science in good cotton picking. One should pick as much cotton with the left hand as with the right. Before a ball is finished the good picker looks ahead and has the next one lined up. Mr. Smith points out that there is also an art in getting the proper wrist movement so that the cotton is slipped out of the boll without breaking it off from the plant, and then having to stop and remove the cotton from the bur.

Farmers of Northwest Texas and Western Oklahoma speed up their cotton harvest by "snapping" both the cotton and the bur from the plant, Mr. Smith said. A good man can snap 700 or 800 pounds, gross weight, per day, but the average will range between 400 and 500 pounds. About a fourth to a third of the total weight of snapped cotton is burs and trash. The crop, however, is harvested more than twice as rapidly as when picked.

Many cotton growers are showing tremendous interest in mechanical apparatus for harvesting their cotton crops. Machine strippers with revolving stripper rolls will harvest from 80 to 95 per cent of the crop, Smith claimed. They are effective and profitable when used on suitable types of cotton. Cotton picking machines will also harvest a good percentage of the cotton crop. Such machines when used as tractor attachments, Smith said, will speed up the cotton harvest several times over the hand picking and hand snapping methods.

Fred Kelsay, Jr. Killed in Truck Accident Sunday

Son of Contractor is Pinned Beneath Gravel Truck as It Hits Bridge and Turns Over

Fred Thomas Kelsay, Jr., 15, was killed Sunday about 12:30 when a truck he was driving turned over. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Kelsay, contractor on the farm-to-market road just east of Memphis.

Fred was driving the gravel truck and as it came down a hill, he turned to miss one pile of gravel in the road and hit another, then the truck hit the bridge and turned over. It is thought that the boy jumped out of the truck and it turned over on him. He was pinned beneath it and the truck had to be prized off him. The other occupant escaped with minor injuries.

King's Mortuary took the body to Denton Sunday night and funeral services were held there Tuesday.

World's First Cotton Ginned in Willacy County

Percy Bones, former News Editor of the Democrat, now of the Edinburg Valley News, sent the following article that was in that paper concerning the world's first cotton for this year. (Editor's Note: We are wondering if Percy helped pick this bale.)

Edinburg Valley News—The world's first bale of cotton for the 1943 season left the Valley yesterday for Corpus Christi for compressing and will be sent to Houston for sale at the Cotton exchange.

The bale was picked by Herman Wilde of the Rio Farms, near Lasara, Willacy County, from two tracts of 20 and 30 acres. It was ginned by the Lasara Cooperative gin, with a lint turnout of 587 pounds from 1,778 pounds of seed cotton.

This was the second straight year that the Lasara community won first bale honors, as Ed Waltershire produced the first bale last year on July 1.

Commercial Motor Vehicles to Have New "TT" Coupons

In an effort to eliminate all waste commercial mileage and strike a blow at the Black Market, new gasoline coupons carrying a "TT" instead of a single "T" will become effective for commercial motor vehicles on July 1, Howard Gholson, district OPA director, said today.

New stamps are being mailed to operators according to mileage allotment on each operator's certificate of war necessity issued by ODT and the old type of stamps will become void on July 1, the OPA directory said.

WINNING ESSAY ON "ADVANTAGES OF COW, HOG, HEN TYPE OF FARMING"

This essay is written by Robert Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ellis of the Friendship Community. He is a winner of a gift in the contest.

The advantages of cow, hog and hen type of farming over other types of farming are as simple and prominent as the advantages of a Modern Ford over a Model T.

It is admitted, however, that other types of farming have few advantages, but they are so outweighed by advantages of livestock farming that it is impractical to consider them.

The most outstanding advantage of livestock farming is the even distribution of the farm income throughout the year. Other types of farming cannot equal this advantage since income is realized from them approximately three months of the year.

Another advantage almost as important as the one mentioned above is the fact that livestock farming helps build up the fertility of the soil, while crop farming depletes it. Every crop takes an alarming amount of certain minerals from the soil. These minerals can only be replaced by commercial fertilizer or livestock manure. Why buy commercial fertilizer when you can raise livestock and build up your soil, and at the same time be building up your income?

Another prime advantage is that livestock farming offers the farmer the choice meat, and eggs, as well as surplus since meat and eggs are in more demand than most farm crops.

Livestock on the farm offers an ideal outlet for your saleable feeds at a higher price than if you sent the feed direct to the market. Let it be stated again, as it is very important, that when feeds are sold direct to the market and not through livestock, you are

CLAUDE'S COMMENTS

By J. C. W.

June 23—Mrs. E. B. Palmer of Pampa, 92 years of age.
June 24—James E. King.
June 25—Billie Francis Bell.
June 26—Mrs. Sam Brown, June Meredith.
June 27—M. W. Paschal.

A Memphis young lady who is a WAAC in training in one of the eastern camps, writes an interesting letter concerning the work. One paragraph of her letter is really soul-stirring and worth reprinting and reading:

"The war is so much closer here. I just wish all those complacent citizens at home could just see this camp. The boys hear the guns all day long, and all night long. Talk to them, and see what a mess war is in ruining the dreams of all the younger generation—they'd roll up their sleeves and pitch into work as they have never worked before. We've got to get this war over with as quickly as possible—no matter what the cost. This generation and many to come are going to pay for it—mentally—physically—as well as monetarily."

And still the strikers threaten our war production. Congress recently passed an anti-strike law, and it remains to be seen whether it will be enforced. Congress could have passed this law a year ago or more, but didn't because of the labor vote. It seems to me that it is time for the leaders in Washington, from the President down, to forget politics and get down to the business of winning the war.

Farmers who lost crops last week by rain and hail, have been replanting since. With proper conditions the rest of the growing season these late crops will have a chance to mature. Crops that were not damaged by hail and rain are looking good and prospects very bright for a good yield.

I am still working in the mechanical department of this great newspaper, but shipped up to the front and typed this column while no one was looking.

Be sein' you later.

Women Work

Up in Amarillo they call those afghans we have been making from squares of our husbands' used trousers and crocheting them together with bright colored yarn, Thrift Afghans. And now comes your reporter's niece from Calif. who calls those 54 x 54-inch lap covers we have been making for convalescent soldiers, Knee Robes. Clever?

Mrs. Ed Lane has given a large bundle of nice white feed sacks and cash to the sewing room. These sacks, colored or white, may be used in making hospital articles, quilt linings, children's dresses and many other things for the Red Cross. Material is so scarce now we must not overlook anything that can be used. If some individual or club would like a copy of the things to be made for the soldiers' hospitals we shall be very glad to give it to you and also directions for the making.

Recently, under the supervision of Mrs. C. R. Webster, 1075 surgical dressings were made in one afternoon. And we call attention to Mrs. E. H. Stanford who has made more than 2,000 dressings. More workers can be accommodated, arrangements having been made to seat approximately fifty at one time. The opening of the rooms to include Monday and Saturday afternoons has been received very favorably.

Mrs. B. Webster plans to begin packing another shipment next week. So if you have some garment almost finished plan to send it in as soon as possible. A fine assortment of afghans, knee robes, quilts and other things in this line is ready and more in the making which will be ready for this shipment.

HEADQUARTERS
100 OCTANE
Aviation Gasoline

Research begins . . .
but in the mind of a man.

Since Phillips Petroleum Company has the world's largest proven gas reserves, it was natural that the minds of hundreds of Phillips research men should early turn to the problem of new and better things from petroleum gases as well as from petroleum.

The resulting development, in the early 1930's, of POLYMERIZATION enabled the use of light petroleum hydrocarbons (gases) which until then had been regarded as by-products of little value. Soon, several years before Pearl Harbor, they became feed stock for the production of 100 octane gasoline.

Still other Phillips pioneering processes, alkylation, HF alkylation, and cyclization permitted the production of 100-plus octane aviation gasoline, a significant contribution to extra airplane horsepower.

If these statements are perhaps too technical to be readily understood by the average motorist, you can nevertheless be certain that they are well understood by our enemies, by Nazi and Jap pilots who encounter our great bombers and fighters powered by American super-fuels.

Phillips was one of the first, and remains one of the largest manufacturers of 100-octane aviation fuels. Thus we see how peace-time study and work of Phillips scientists is of great value in our all-out war on the Axis. Similarly, when victory comes today's accelerated Phillips wartime research program should bring to the American motorist new and greater gasolines for post-war cars.

 Approximately 20,000 tons of barbed wire with extra long bars, made for military purpose, will be used to meet a shortage of barbed wire on farms, according to WFB. The action is part of the OCR program to make needed supplies available to farmers. The wire shortage was aggravated by the recent midwestern floods which washed out many miles of fence.

A B-25 Delivers Its Message

This picture reveals one reason why Rommel is no longer in Africa. The bomb on which was chalked the advice for Rommel to run, and the B-25 which delivered it, were both paid for by War Bonds. Every Bond you buy is a message of defeat for the Axis.

on the Lord every night to please fill them ditches, and the Lord did. A big cloud came up and the ditches were filled. The only trouble was Granddaddy forgot to tell the Lord what to fill 'em with, and the Lord used water.

He wasn't what you would call a pious man, but he did go to the Lord for a lot of things—so as to give Granddaddy a rest. This little poem I have today sorter has to do with women.

SHOCKS

There are shocks that come to mar And brings with them many regrets, When you're needing a smoke pretty bad, And your wife has stolen your last cigarette.

And there are times when buying a drink, You dig deep in your pocket and cuss, Then you remember the jingle you heard in the night, And thought it was a mouse making the fuss.

If you can't take it, my lad—stay single, And from wicked thoughts learn to refrain, For to married men this frequently happens, Over and over again.

LET'S BE WORTHY

THERE is a member of the U. S. Marines visiting here with his parents, who has been in four major battles with the Japanese. Every person in the United States should salute this young man and the many, many others like him.

He does not talk very much about his experiences—he certainly does not gripe about them.

We can't all be on the battle fronts—there is a Home Front that must be kept going. But, how many of us are really doing our share? How many of us are really accepting the rationing program—without a lot of fussing? How many of us are putting every penny not actually needed for living expenses into War Bonds and Stamps? How many of us are not griping about the shortage of help and the overtime we have to work?

We are all guilty of one or more of these things. We are accepting the rationing program, simply because we must. We are not doing it to give everybody his rightful share—and many of us are pulling every string we can to get more than our share. Rationing was put into effect to help every person and to insure all the fighting men of sufficient food and clothing.

We are certainly not putting every penny in War Bonds and Stamps that we can. True, living costs are higher and unless something is done, they will go higher—but on the other hand, we are getting higher salaries so it will average the same in the long run. There are so many things we can't buy now—and yet, we hunt places to spend our money instead of buying bonds. There is no safer investment than in War Bonds—if they are not worth anything when this war is over, it's a cinch our money in the bank, our homes and our land won't be worth anything.

For the members of the armed forces there is no extra pay for overtime and there are no hours to start and stop. Many young men gave up good jobs, many gave up a thriving business and they all are away from their homes and their families. We have to work a little harder and a little longer but we still have all the food we need, a house to live in and the comforts of home.

These boys are fighting for us—let's make ourselves worthy of them.

And, let's do it willingly!

SELECTED FROM THE DEMOCRAT'S EXCHANGE

Galveston is not the city some of you may have visited in times of peace. There is a dimout every night. No lights shine on the beach. Cars cannot drive with their dim lights. They must use their parking lights and the speed limit is 10 miles an hour. Military authorities are in control of most of the beaches, and no person is allowed on any beach after dark. There was plenty of fish and fowl but beef did not appear on the menu and those who asked for a second pat of butter were given a cold stare and a firm no by the waiter.—Wellington Leader.

Some people complain about the hardships of war while others die. No matter what sacrifices we are called upon to make at home, we cannot measure up in any way to those who are giving their lives on foreign soil. Then there is the suffering of the conquered peoples. Why should anyone here in America gripe about conditions when they are so much better than anywhere else in the world, and bid fair to remain so for the balance of our lives?—McLean News.

Recent visitors to Corpus Christi and other South Texas points say that it is impossible for anyone to secure meat for home consumption. A certain amount of ham can be had, but no beef. The large chain stores that were palaces of marble and glass are all in a run-down condition because of the lack of help and the stores actually smell badly. There has been complaint here about quality in some instances, but there has been few times when one could not buy more meat than they could afford points—Quannah Tribune Chief.

As he stood at the door and watched the downpour last night at the USO, a soldier remarked, "Boy, this country sure don't do things halfway, does it?" He guessed it. When it rains here it pours and when it doesn't rain it blows like -----Dalhart, Texan.

That's what I mean. There is a cry for help from the jungle of weeds in my war garden. Dad blame it if them goatheads ain't about to swamp the whole works. About all that can be done is to put a chicken fence around the garden and let the bullets manage the weed crop. At that, beans, peas, beets and other stuff is being canned from that garden most every day. The rush is on before it gets to be again the law.—Donley County Leader.

got their start. It's the American way. Do a better job—and you get better jobs to do.

It's the system of free enterprise. It's simple—but it works.

It works so well that America's big peacetime industries became great war machines overnight.

It works so well that America's electric companies, under business management, were able to supply war plants with far more electric power than any nation has ever known before in addition to normal peacetime needs.

They're doing the job without rationing—and without increased cost to you!

It works so well that we're winning the war in spite of socialistic bureaucracies. But to hasten the day of victory, the bureaucrats must concentrate on the war and desist from their plans to permanently change the system of government by which America stands to lose its freedom at home.

Road to Burma

MAKING HAVOC AMONG THE JAPANESE in Burma from February through May of this year, have been columns of British, Indian and Burmese troops led by a British brigadier. They blew up more than 100 miles of Jap railroads and bridges, killing numerous Jap soldiers. But perhaps more important was their work in building better roads into Burma and in making friends among the native people. These will be useful when it becomes possible to launch the offensive that will drive out the Japanese. This new picture of supplies carried by mules for the Allied troops in Burma shows the difficult jungle conditions in which these daring fighters operated.

New Insecticide Law for Texas

Hereafter it will be unlawful to adulterate, misbrand or misrepresent agricultural insecticides and fungicides sold in Texas. The state legislature at its current session enacted a law providing for the branding or labeling of all such products placed on sale within the state. The law also requires attaching to each package a printed statement showing the minimum percentage of active ingredients, and the maximum percentage and names of inert ingredients it contains.

According to Dr. H. G. Johnston, entomologist for the A. and M. College Extension Service, the act provides for the examination and analysis of agricultural insecticides. It will be administered by the state commissioner of agriculture and analyses will be made by the household insecticides from these restrictions, and through the definition of "agricultural insecticides" also eliminates insecticides used for controlling insect parasites of domestic animals, Dr. Johnston says.

The law provides for taking samples of any agricultural insecticides offered for sale within Texas for analysis by the state chemist. Under its provisions any corporation, firm or person may be prosecuted if they offer for sale insecticides which are found to be misbranded, adulterated, or intended to deceive the consumer.

Dr. Johnston points out that all vendors of agricultural insecticides or fungicides are required to file yearly with the state commissioner of agriculture an application for registration. At the same time they are required to file a copy of each label to be attached to packaged agricultural insecticides to be sold within the state. This registration must be obtained on or before delivery to dealers of any insecticides for sale in Texas.

"... SO I TOLD JOE, WE'LL NEVER WIN THIS WAR FEELING THAT WAY "

"It burns me up! To hear some people talk, you'd think this war is something 'not for us'.

"Take Joe, for instance. 'Course, his boy Clem's too young for the service, and he doesn't have any kinfolks to keep him posted on what our boys are doing 'over there'. But when he told me he couldn't see what we, at home, could do toward winning the war, I told him exactly how I felt.

"I told him that if very many people thought as he did, this war could last months longer, and more of our boys would be killed . . . that we might even lose this war, and with defeat would go all the freedoms we love so dearly.

"Well, that seemed to start him thinking . . . so I told him a few of the ways he could help . . . how his investing in even a $25 War Bond would help some American soldier get the equipment he needs . . . how the old iron and scrap metal around his place would make a couple of machine guns . . . and how important it is to save grease and fats, and grow his own garden so more canned goods can be sent to our armies. 'We've gotta make sacrifices . . . sacrifice until it hurts,' I said, 'if we back up those men at the front who are giving up their lives for us.' Well, maybe I blew off a little steam, but that's the way I feel. And now, I'm sure Joe agrees with me."

Ads by Gas Pipe Line Co. Depict Home Front Aids

The second of a series of advertisements designed to bring about a greater understanding and appreciation of America's part in total war, is being published this month in the Democrat and more than 300 other daily and weekly newspapers in the Gulf South by United Gas Pipe Line Company and associated companies. Illustrated by a photograph showing a family scene typical in homes of thousands of war workers in the Gulf South, the advertisement points out a few of the many things soldiers of the home front can do to back up our men at the battlefronts and speed victory. The sponsoring organization is engaged in production and transportation of natural gas to meet the fuel requirements of war industries, cities and military centers throughout the Gulf South. Its oil production is going to meet military requirements in this country and at distant battlefronts. The advertisement emphasizes the need for greater sacrifices "if we back up those men at the front who are giving up their lives for us." It enumerates some of the many ways every civilian can identify himself with the war by voluntarily doing certain jobs, working in spare time, investing idle funds and part of earnings in war bonds, and cooperating in the numerous wartime activities now being conducted.

Signs of Peace and you'll want to be there!

What if Peace brings new cars promptly or not? You'll be yearning to get away from headlines—rations—hours of volunteer war work... to get around again with your weary, happy soldier boy—home at last. And with driving restricted now, your car should have plenty of miles left, just so you're not tossing them away these days, by half-ruining your engine with acid. That's no "new scare." You never yet stopped any auto engine without acid products of combustion trapped inside. But formerly, the frequent fast driving that fully heated the engine kept expelling acid. So the hazard was mild compared to what it is today, when acid works while your rationed engine rests. One great recognized precaution against this is to OIL-PLATE your engine by changing to Conoco Nth motor oil. Its special added synthetic acts "magnet-like" attach OIL-PLATING direct to precious parts. Much like body parts plated against atmospheric corrosion, the cylinders, bearings and other parts now hard to place are OIL-PLATED against internal corrosion. The close-surfaced oil-plate that combats acid while the car sits will help your essential transportation day. And may a happier tomorrow you right off quick on your well-earned Victory tour! Change to Conoco Nth now. Continental Oil Company
