MEMPHIS MEETS CLARENDON AT HEDLEY FRIDAY

Winner of Tomorrow's Tilt Will Play Pampa For District Championship. Much Interest.

According to an official report received late this afternoon, the Memphis-Clarendon game will be played at Hedley tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. This decision was reached when Coach Bolton and Supt. Miles met in conference with Coach Nelson, of the Clarendon High School, at Hedley this afternoon. Due to the fact that the opposing teams are ancient grid rivals much hubbub has resulted in the attempt to set a place for the game to be played. Supt. Miles and Coach Bolton have been in almost continuous communication with both the Intercollegiate League officials and the Clarendon mentors for the past few days, but until this afternoon no progress toward a conclusion had been made.

Both coaches, realizing the importance of the outcome, are very sensitive in regard to the coming game and are each anxious that no odds be made against his team.

At the present time there are only two contenders in the field for the championship of this district, these being Memphis, Clarendon and Pampa. The result of tomorrow's battle will determine which team will play Pampa the deciding game.

The Clarendon team proved to be a very tough rival when it defeated the Memphis team last Friday, and it is, doubt, still in the same prime condition. It is reported that a pep band, numbering over two hundred members, urged their team on to victory last Friday, and that equally many will be at Hedley tomorrow.

The coming game has aroused much enthusiasm among Memphis fans, as has never been shown in previous years. The band, and probably 500 fans, will accompany the team tomorrow.

Young Methodist Men To Organize Athletic Club

The Methodist Young Men's Sunday School Class, instructed by Dr. H. H. Hicks, is attempting to organize an Athletic Club. Plans have been discussed a number of times and sufficient interest has not been shown to warrant organization. The club if organized, will afford a modern club-room with a fully equipped gymnasium.

The final attempt to organize will be made at the class meeting next Sunday.

Ladies of the Methodist Church spent the entire day, November 24, at the church in study and prayer. The object this year will be their mission work in the coal fields of West Virginia, and the Methodist College at Parral, Mexico. It is urged to be present.

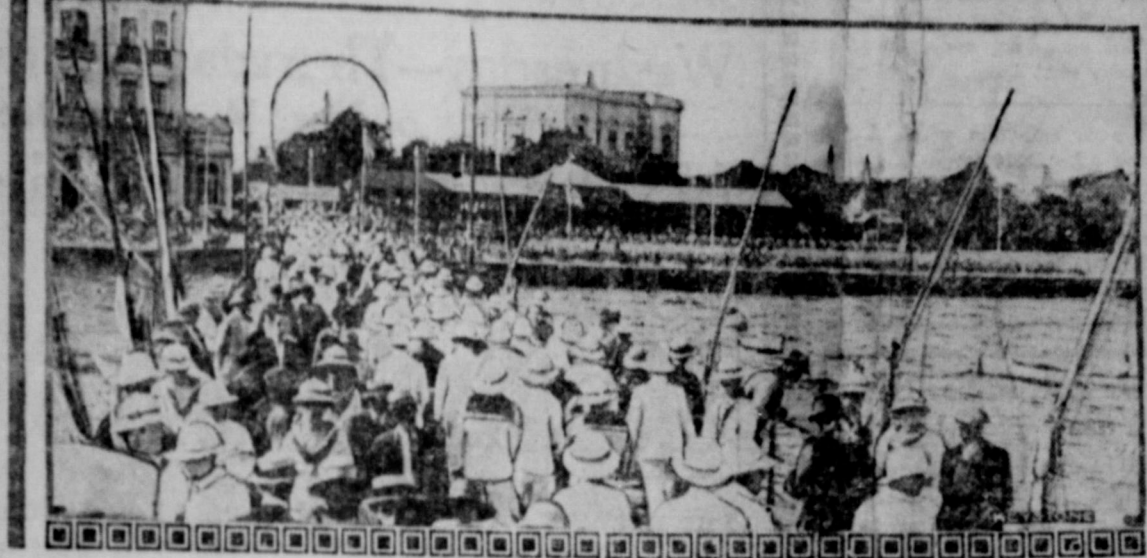

M.B.L. HONORS WINNING CYCLONE FOOTBALL SQUAD WITH BANQUET WEDNESDAY

Banquet, arranged by the Young Business League of Memphis, honoring the Cyclone football squad of the Memphis High School, was held at the White Rose Cafe Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock. Free tickets were served to the line-up and coaches, twenty-two in number, and their girl friends, a majority of whom were members of the pep squad and the pep squad leaders.

Mrs. S. C. Miles, Principal of the H. W. Kuhn, Coach and Coach Bolton, Rev. and Mrs. T. Whaley, and Mr. and Mrs. Quigley were guests of honor, and Mr. Quigley presided on the program.

The primary purpose of the banquet was to show the appreciation of the Y. M. B. L. and the town as

CYCLONE TAKES CHILDRESS TILT FRIDAY; LOCAL FANS ATTEND

Ancient Grid Rivals Make First Score Against Cyclone During Interscholastic Season.

Storming their opponents' line for their only available gains and exposing a stonewall defense, the Cyclone outfit stepped up another rung on the District Championship ladder Friday, when they took the Childress-Memphis tilt by a score of 28 to 7, on the Childress grid. More than 300 local fans journeyed to Childress to see the fray, and the lusty voices of the Memphis boosters, along the sidelines, all but equalled those of the Childress pep squad.

The local squad starting with a rush, was abruptly stopped and seemingly dazed by the strong Childress opposition during the first few downs, but when a Memphis half blocked a punt, seized the ball and raced across the goal line for the first marker of the game, the entire Memphis forces rallied for the terrific onslaught which followed. Failing in every attempt at fake formations, the Cyclone resorted to straight foot-ball, crushing the Childress defense for repeated gains. Hammond, I. Bryan, Dennis and Cohen took the ball across for the four touchdowns, with every man on the team assisting by formidable fighting.

The plucky Childress eleven, fighting valiantly and being urged on by their loyal supporters, kept up courage throughout the entire game, and were awarded for their efforts by a lone touchdown during the last quarter, when Newberry luckily recovered a fumble and raced 77 yards and crossed the Memphis goal line for the first score to be made against the Interscholastic season.

Following is a report of the game play by play:

First Quarter
Memphis received at South goal. Childress kicked off 43 yards to Dennis who returned 15. Dennis hit line for 5. Cohen ripped off 15 over tackle. Memphis was penalized for holding. Dennis made 2 at line, Cohen 1. Dennis 3 yards then punted 34, no

Ginning Average For Week Tops 250 Bales Daily

An average run of 259 bales a day was made by Memphis gins during the past week, the run for the week totaling 2,152 bales. Reports show that a total of 5,354 bales have been turned out here this season.

According to the weigher's report 8,552 bales had been brought to the yard at noon today.

The Farm Bureau has shipped 506 bales, a rather small per cent of the amount weighed.

Weather conditions during the past week have been ideal for cotton gathering as is evidenced by the large run made. The weather today is rather warm with a high wind which is favorable to opening cotton.

Cotton pickers are still in great demand, some farmers having as forty bales of unpicked cotton in their fields.

Dennis hit 9 on end run. Cohen made 9 and 6 in two plunges. Dennis punted 50 yards to Childress man who was downed in tracks. Childress made only 6 yards in three plays and attempted to punt, a Childress man blocked the kick and Cohen recovered and took the ball to three yard line. Dennis plunged for first touchdown also kicked goal. Childress kicked off 32 yards to Stanford who returned 2. Bryan made 1 yard and Cohen 3 as quarter ended. Memphis ball on their own 25 yard line.

Score: Memphis 7; Childress 0.

Bennett in for Stribling. Childress failed to gain on third down and punt was blocked. Memphis ball on Childress 17 yard line. Rogers and Sisk were put out of game for roughing. Bill Bryan went in for Sisk at L. G. Dennis made 7, Bryan 1 Cohen 3 and first down. Bryan 5, Cohen 1 and then touchdown. Dennis kicked goal. Childress kicked off 35 to Hammond who ran back 30 yards in a brilliant dash. Dennis made 25 yards on an end run. Bryan failed at the line, Cohen made 16 and Memphis penalized 15 for roughing. Dennis made 2, Cohen 3, Dennis kick wide on a place kick. Childress ball on their 20-yard line. Childress made 4 but fumbled and Walker recovered for Memphis. PROPOSED RAIL LINE DISCUSSED AT MEETING HERE

Directors of Roswell, Lubbock & Memphis Short Line Railway Co., Visit Memphis.

Messrs. Clifford Grunewald and Carey Shaw, of Houston, members of the board of directors of the Roswell, Lubbock & Memphis Short Line Railway Company, recently organized at Houston, met in a conference with a representative body of local business men Wednesday, for the purpose of discussing the proposed route.

This company was organized with headquarters at Houston for the purpose of constructing a railway line from Wellington, through the counties of Collingsworth, Hall, Briscoe, Floyd, Hale, Lubbock, Hockley and Cochran counties, via Memphis and Lubbock, to a point on the Texas-New Mexico line, between the north and south line of Cochran County. It has secured the charter of the old Altus, Roswell & El Paso Railway Company, organized several years ago, but is making some changes in the course of the line, turning it farther toward the South Plains.

Messrs. Grunewald and Shaw are going over the proposed route in an effort to secure the co-operation of the people along the line. They received plenty of encouragement in Memphis, receiving the hearty co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce. Stops are being made at every town along the proposed route. The directors, accompanied by Judge J. M. Elliott, of Memphis, went West Wednesday, after the meeting here, making stops at Lakeview and Turkey in Hall County.

It is understood that the primary object of this first visit over the route is to learn the attitude of landholders with regard to giving a right-of-way. The board of directors has suggested that a title to the land required for a right-of-way be drawn up by each individual landholder and placed in escrow until the construction of the line is begun.

The proposed road will extend 228 miles, traversing one of the most rapid developing agricultural sections of Texas. The company was organized with a capital stock of $250,000.00.

Gabe Garrett's Comedians Are Coming Next Week

Doc Wilson, assistant manager of Gabe Garrett's Comedians, is in Memphis this week, making arrangements for the company's appearance here, under the auspices of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce Band, next week. Gabe Garrett needs no introduction in Memphis, having played here a number of times, always carrying a high class show. This season, he has surrounded himself with thirty players of the highest type, according to Mr. Wilson.

The mammoth tent will be located at the Fair Grounds, where ample parking space has been provided. Ladies will be admitted free on Monday night, when "A Modern Cyndelilla" will be presented.

DENVER RAILWAY OFFICIALS GUESTS AT BANQUET CELEBRATING FORMAL STATION OPENING

Railroad Men Respond to Invitation and Were Present For Good-Will Meeting Tuesday Evening. Welcomed By Band.

An elaborate banquet, occasioned by a celebration of the formal opening of the new Denver Station at Memphis, and arranged by the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, was given Tuesday evening in the parlor rooms of the Presbyterian Church, an expression of appreciation from the people of Memphis to the Denver Railway officials, who were here in person as honor guests, for the erection of the new modern depot.

Dennis Car Overturns On Return From Childress

The occupants of a Ford touring car, driven by Mrs. John Dennis were the subjects of a spill last Friday night on their return from the football game at Childress.

Luckily no one was seriously injured, Miss Estelle Dennis being the only one of the party to sustain lacerations.

The accident occurred about two miles south of Carey, when the car ran off a twelve foot embankment as a result of hitting a rough chug-hole. The car turned completely over in the fall and was badly wrecked. A number of Memphis people, who were in cars immediately behind and in front saw the car plunge into the ditch and rushed to their assistance. The occupants were helped from the wreckage and were brought to town by others from the game.

Harold Walker Now Simmons Football Star

Harold Walker, former Memphis High School student and son of E. E. Walker, of this city, who is attending Simmons College at Abilene, is making an enviable record for himself in football.

Last Saturday at the Canyon-Simmons game he was rated as a star back, and displayed brilliant football tactics on several occasions, making long gains consistently on end runs and hitting the line hard when called through. This is Walker's first term in College and it is very unusual for a man to make the Varsity during his first year, however, as Harold was one of the Cyclones most dependable men, having played on that squad for three years previous to entering Simmons, he is by no means a novice on the grid.

He has only played in a few games this year, but since his excellent showing Saturday, it has been whispered that he has about paved his way for a permanent berth on the Cow Boys' squad.

Harold stopped off to spend the week end with his parents before returning to Simmons.

Mrs. Jess Rankin and daughter, of Amarillo, visited Mrs. Rankin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Brown, a few days the past week.

The visiting delegation of railroad men, arriving in a special car on the 6:05 train, were met at the station by the Chamber of Commerce Band and given a hearty welcome, after which they were immediately conveyed to the festive halls.

Upwards of seventy-five business men, together with their guests, took their places around the banquet tables and after the invocation by Rev. A. D. Rogers, all were seated but the visitors, who were introduced by G. A. Sager, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, in the following order: S. A. Covington, General Superintendent, Wichita Falls, Texas; J. W. Mode, Asst. Supt., Amarillo; W. T. Sterley, General Freight and Passenger Agent, Fort Worth; D. A. Davis, Asst. Freight and Passenger Agent; Fort Worth; W. B. Kellett, Freight Claim Adjustor, Fort Worth; M. A. Stainer, Chief Engineer, Fort Worth; Judge McCoy, Tax and Right-of-way; Fort Worth; R. Wright Armstrong, Travelling Ticket Agent, Fort Worth; W. A. Land, General Agent, Amarillo; Mr. Smith, Sec., to Gen. Supt., Wichita Falls; M. B. Oates, Agricultural Agent, Wichita Falls.

J. J. McKicks, Local Agent; R. E. Stroupe, Local Ticket Agent and Operator and Joe Doss, Local Shipping Clerk, were in attendance. Letters were read from R. G. Fitzpatrick, Supt., Childress, and D. E. Clariety, Vice-President of Fort Worth, expressing their regrets at not being able to attend.

After the first courses of the tasty feast had been served by the Presbyterian Ladies Guild, the first speaker, Mr. Covington, was introduced by J. H. Read, who acted as toastmaster for the occasion. He expressed his appreciation for the co-operation received from the Memphis people in the construction of the new depot, and assured his support in any way he might assist them in the future.

Mr. Sterley, one of the oldest officials, from the standpoint of service, in the employ of the Fort Worth and Denver Co., was very complimentary in his reference to Memphis and stated that this was the third depot for Memphis since he had been with the Denver Road, and that he hoped our needs would deem a fourth.

Judge McCoy brought the house to riotous laughter with his burlesque, imitating Andy Gump in a flowery address.

Each of the officials had a word of appreciation and a compliment for Memphis and her hospitality.

MISSPELLED WORD CONTEST CLOSURES WITH MRS. THORNTON WINNER OF LAST PRIZE

In announcing Mrs. Lee Thornton, of Memphis, with a list of forty-five words, as winner of the $5.00 cash prize, which has been offered weekly in the Democrat Misspelled Word Contest, and Miss Ila Bass and Mrs. W. D. Orr, of Memphis, and Edwin Owens, of the Indian Creek community, as runner ups with 44 words each, announcement is also being made that the contest is being closed for an indefinite period of time, no offer being made this week.

Since the contest is at the present failing to create the desired interest among the readers, and since it is not stimulating the advertisers for the desired results, the editor has seen fit to discontinue it.

The Democrat feels that the contest during the period it has run has been quite a success, and regrets that lagging interest advises to close it at this time.

This novel scheme has given The Democrat quite a bit of publicity; it has brought the paper and reader on closer relationship; it has offered educational entertainment as a contest and has introduced the advertiser to the public. Man compliments have been received on the idea which encouraged the editor. Since the contest opened more than half a thousand letters have been received from people from various sections of the country. Each week the $5.00 prize has been awarded to the winner with apparent satisfaction to all contenders.

True and False Tests Introduced By Mr. Finch

Principal H. A. Finch has more times than one shown his progressiveness and keen interest in the Memphis Schools by being the first member of the Faculty to exploit some new idea. His latest experiment is the use of the True and False and Completion Tests, which have been introduced into the educational system recently.

Mr. Finch, while working on his M. A. Degree in the University of Colorado, at Boulder, the past summer, studied these tests and decided that he would try them out in his classes.

Thursday he gave two tests, one to the History I Class and one to the Civics II Class. The tests consisted of one fifty statements each. These statements covered consistently and thoroughly every important point discussed by the class during the term of six weeks. Some of the statements were true and some false. They were stated in such a way that the students had a hard time guessing of some fifty statements each. Those if they didn't really know the material. Sometimes the same thought was given twice, once in a true statement and once in a false statement. Guesses count heavily against a student. These fifty or more questions were mimeographed and issued to the students at the beginning of the period. The students were instructed to place a capital "F" in the margin by the side of the false statements, and a capital "T" in the margin by the side of the true statements. By means of these tests, so much writing by the students is eliminated, and more time is given for concentrated thought.

The last part of the test, known as a Completion Test, consisted of a number of incomplete sentences with blank spaces to be filled out by the student with painted thoughts, important names and dates.

Mr. Finch says the students were highly pleased with the tests and he personally is well pleased with the results. Even though there is a considerable expense in getting the work arranged, and though it takes some extra time, he thinks it pays.

Mr. Finch is an especially "live-wire" in school work. He is re-entering the profession to stay and is certainly showing marked ability and success. We are exceedingly proud to call him a member of our faculty.

A Tribute to Teachers

The obligation which we all owe to those devoted men and women who have given of their lives to the education of the youth of our country that they might have freedom through coming into a knowledge of the truth is one which can never be discharged. They are entitled not only to adequate rewards for their service but to the veneration and honor of a grateful people.—From President Coolidge's N. E. A. Convention Address.

Mr. Finch: "I am going to prune those apple trees."
Mrs. Finch: "But Howard, don't you know I don't care for prunes?"

New Assembly Program Plan Proving Very Successful

On Tuesday, October 14, we had a very interesting program over the radio with Miss Porter as sponsor, a few readings and a piano number were enjoyed by all.

Wednesday, October 15, we were very much disappointed as our city speaker was detained and did not arrive. But Supt. Miles gave us a very interesting talk on school matters.

Thursday, the eighth grade, with Mr. Finch as sponsor, entertained us with a musical program, which consisted of songs and piano numbers.

Friday was our first school day, and Mr. Kuhn made a short talk followed by some songs.

Monday, October 20, 11B with Mr. Davidson as sponsor, gave us a debate on, "Resolved, that a High School credit should be given for extra activities in school work." Both sides were well represented and the debate was won by the affirmative the decision being made by the individual.

Tuesday, Miss Rogers sponsored a musical program given by the 9th grade. It consisted of a violin solo by Shirley Greene and a reading by Vernadine Jones.

Wednesday, Dr. Odom, our first city speaker, gave us a talk on "Ring the Joy Bells of Life," which everyone enjoyed. He had a good topic and presented it well.

The 7th grade presented a scene from "The Court of Virginia" on Thursday. Also Buddy Brewer entertained us with two whistling numbers. We got a good laugh and some real enjoyment out of this program. Friday was a Pep meeting. Everyone was excited over the game with Childress, and had the pep.

Juniors Meet and Select Class Pins

The subject discussed in the Junior Class the past week has been that of the pins.

A committee was selected to look at the display of class pins brought here by the salesman of the Hershey-Jones Company. The committee, composed of H. B. Bryan, Jr., Paul James, Jr., Bonny Cohen, and Fay McElroy, and Carolyn McNeely had a difficult task of selecting three pins from this beautiful assortment to present to the class, but soon the task was quite successfully accomplished.

At noon of the same day, Friday, October 17, a class meeting was called and the three pins presented to the class. After general discussions were had, the selection was made. The pin selected is a very up-to-date, stunning, and moderately priced one. It was agreed upon by most of the pupils that a guard and numeral by the pin. If you don't think the Junior Class Pins will be good looking, just come around and see them when they arrive.

They had just become engaged. He had kissed her long and incessantly, and when he stopped the tears came into her eyes and she said: "Oh, dearest, you don't love me any more."
"Yes, I do," he declared. "I've just stopped to get my breath."

Opal Adams to Head Frosh; Miss Blanche Temple is Sponsor

A meeting was held October 21, by the Freshmen. Mr. Finch, acting as chairman, called the meeting to order and nominations were begun. Opal Adams was elected president by an overwhelming majority, after which she made a short speech but did not take the chair. Other officers elected were: Hugh McKelvey, vice president; Fred Gerlach, Secretary and Treasurer; Miss Blanche Temple, who is a favorite among the pupils, is sponsor of the class.

How Little It Costs.

How little it costs, if we give it a thought,
To make happy some heart each day;
Just one kind word, or a tender smile
As we go on our daily way.
Perchance a look will suffice to clear
The cloud from a neighbor's face;
And the press of a hand in sympathy
A sorrowful tear efface.
One walks in sunlight, another goes
All wearily in the shade;
One treads a path that is fair and smooth,
Another must pray for aid.
O'er ways that are rough with stumbling stones,
Where trembling feet go slow;
One sees with eyes that are glad and bright,
Another's with tears o'erflow.
It costs so little, I wonder why
We give it so little thought?
A smile, kind words, a glance, a touch,
What magic with them is wrought.

Mrs. Officer (admiring Mr. Miles' little son): "And just think some day he may become president of the United States."

Mr. Miles: "Really, now, Mrs. Officer, it is very kind of you to say that, but he's such a frail child that I'm afraid his health will not permit it."

Mr. Paton had each student draw something to illustrate what he would like to be when he finished school. Ida Alexander presented a blank page.

"Don't you know what you would like to be?" asked Mr. Paton.
"Oh, yes sir," replied Ida, I want to be married but I don't know how to draw it."

Clifford (Sug) Lemons is a salesman at the Cross Dry Goods Co., and still loyal to his Alma Mater.

John Forkner, who was Editor-in-Chief of the "Breeze" last year is a dependable member of the Democrat staff.

Budge Harle is attending the Southern Branch of the University of California in Los Angeles. His home is now in Long Beach, which place according to his definition, is a "Heaven on Earth."

Donald Lindsey is attending the North Texas State Teachers College at Denton. Memphis High misses his "spice."

Alvin (Sorghum) Baldwin is living in Waco an attending Baylor U.

George Broome and Eldon Thompson, two of our '24 seniors, chose S. M. U. as their college.

Charlie Dameron is attending the Abilene Christian College at Abilene.

Chauncey Thompson is at Leland Stanford University, in California. His sentiments concerning California are a duplicate of Budge's feelings.

Roy Dunn had been looking over the cards of greeting on the counter for some time when the saleslady suggested:

"Here's a lovely statement: 'To the only girl I ever loved.'
"That's fine!" said Roy. "I'll take five—no, six, of those, please."

Mrs. Kuhn: "Hear that burglar in the kitchen?"

Mr. Kuhn: "Nonsense, that's just the cat."
"Well go in there and be sure."
Not on your life, I'm not that sure."

Coach Bolton: "How in thunder did you get the signals mixed on that play?"

Issac: "Well, you see, I have been playing golf all summer, so when I saw the ball passed I yelled, 'Fore!'"

Rev. Chas. T. Whaley, who was attending his first football game at Childress Friday afternoon was heard

Paul Leslie is still in Memphis busily occupied in the painter's trade.

Ila Joe Leslie is taking the Commercial Course in the High School. She plans to teach later in the year.

Cleo Hendricks had intended to attend college, but due to her health was unable to go and is now at home.

Autie Anthony, who attended Abilene Christian College after her graduation, and taught at Friendship the past term, is now principal of the Lodge High School this year. She is proving her ability in many ways.

Lucille Read, after a teacher's course in W. T. S. T. C. for two terms, is now employed in the Lodge Public Schools, and according to all report she is very successful.

Katherine Read, also attended W. T. S. T. C. for two terms, she is going to have the Principalship of the Leach School this term. We think this is a big honor for Katherine.

Helen Madden, who finished her High School course in W. T. S. T. C. is now beginning her college work there.

to remark: "I'll tell you, gentlemen, if I understood anything about the technicalities and principles of this boisterous affray, it seems that co-operation, sacrificing individuality for the success of the entire group, causes the players to win."

Sheriff Merrick, who was close by, replied: "Yes, preacher, that may be so; but it's teamwork that counts 'n football."

The new manager of the fashionable jazz-club had been warned by the proprietor not to permit any unseemly dancing and he intended to obey orders. Seeing some people at various tables craning their necks to see what was going on, he hurried over and looked for himself. He gaped and rushed up to the couple.

"Here," he exclaimed gruffly, "Where do you think you are? You can't dance like that in this place."

"Who's dancing?" snapped the man. My wife's just fainted and I'm carrying her out."

Senior Girls Organize New Secret Club

It has been the custom in the Memphis High School for the last few years for the Senior Girls to organize a secret club. Usually the name is given in initials of words that are significant. The Senior Girls of '25, true to tradition, met in a secret session last Wednesday. A committee consisting of the president, Mildred Beckum, Marcelle Brewer and Helen Baird, was formed and they will make further plans for initiating the girls who are not already members. It was decided that the initiation ceremony will be held in the "Gym" and then the regular meetings will be held at the homes of the members, taken in alphabetical order.

To the Senior Class

"Dear Seniors '25, of M. H. S.:—
"Am writing to let you know I think of you often and miss your faces and the days we spent together. I am sure you are having a most successful year; one that will stand out prominently among those of past records.

"I wish that I could have been with the class again this year, because there is a feeling for the class that words cannot express. The fact that I am called to another field, however, does not crowd you from my memory. Instead, it only makes the memory more vivid. I remember, also, the pleasant days I have spent in your midst, as well as for your being my class-mates and fellow-students in Memphis High School.

"I was very well pleased with your selection of officers. I think they will be very efficient and willing to do all they possibly can for the welfare of the class. We gain happiness by serving others, and I am sure the members of the class will become greatly devoted to each other, and in after years, when they become separated by many miles, they will think of these days with fond and lingering remembrances of the days of outstanding freedom and happiness.

"There is a vast difference between High School and College life. The freedom and content does not exist as it does in the High School, but one does not realize this until it is too late to enjoy these High School conditions. There are many more responsibilities thrown upon a person after he undertakes more difficult tasks.

"I sincerely hope that the class will think of me often as one of its members, and I would be glad to hear from all those who care to write me. Devotedly,"

HELEN MADDEN

Faye: "How did Paul take it when you told him you didn't love him?"
Carolyn: "Simply wonderfully! He carried on like a wild man."

Milliner (eager to sell the hat): "Oh, madame, so chic."
Jimmie Cooper: "Shiek, huh? Take it away. I don't want any of last year's stuff."

Justice of Peace Gillis: "Yer accused of speedin', guilty or not?"

Alma Pace: "Not Guilty"
J. P.: "Now be careful young feller, Do I understand you to be callin' Joe Merrick a liar?"

"Hey, Ollie, why wasn't you at school yesterday? Was you sick?"

"Course I was sick."
"Sick abed?"
"Naw, sick aschool."

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1924

YES, WE HAVE NO BANDSTAND

Memphis has the champion, prize winning band of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and a band that all North Texas is proud of, one which has given Memphis much publicity throughout the entire state. But it seems as though Memphis, the home and producer of this wonderful organization, does not appreciate it as they should. If she did a suitable band stand would be erected for our boys so that they could render real programs in a pleasing manner. As it is the band attempts to give concerts in front of the picture show, which is about the only place where there is sufficient light for them to read their music. At this time of year with our streets so crowded, on Saturdays nights, it is next to impossible for the band to assemble, much less play on the sidewalk, and such a throng of shifting pedestrians. Last Saturday, on several occasions, passers-by knocked over the musicians music racks, thereby greatly disturbing several members of the band and generally affecting the entire body.

The people are not to be blamed for being in town, nor for trying to pass, as most of them are shoppers endeavoring to get their trading done in time to get home before mid-night. Neither is it the fault of the band as they would gladly play in any place agreeable to the public.

The Commissioner's Court has given its consent to the erection of a bandstand on the Court-house lawn. This, indeed, seems to be a suitable location, and we can not see why anyone would object to this plan. But there seems to be lacking the initiative, since no one has taken the lead in launching this enterprise.

This would be a commendable piece of work for some of our civic organizations to sponsor.

ANOTHER HICK TOWN HABIT

The following taken from the Childress Index of October 28th, expresses, exactly, our opinion of using the sidewalks for bill boards. However, we further believe that it portrays also, a cheapness on the part of the advertiser who resorts to such methods of free advertising.

"It may be out of place for a newspaper to call attention to this one matter, as it might be justly or unjustly, accused of self-interest, but the writing of advertisements on the sidewalks and curbs of the city should be stopped. It does not look good, and it is doubtful if it pays the advertiser. Especially is it a nuisance to the business man who does not do such work, to have his neighbor appropriate his sidewalk for advertising purposes. In the larger cities and towns this plan of advertising is prohibited, and rightly so. Possibly the council of Childress might pass a similar ordinance.

Dispatches from Detroit do not say whether there was room on the special train of the Prince of Wales to stow that flivver which was presented to him.

More clothes will be worn, according to a fashion magazine, which is probably because they must have a change and it would be illegal to wear any less.

AN ENJOYABLE VISIT

Editor Forkner and the force of the Memphis Democrat were down Friday afternoon to see the football game. All of them made a friendly visit to the Index force, going over the shop and giving much praise for the equipment and the paper as published. It is a pleasure to entertain members of the press gang and the latch string is always on the outside.—Childress Index.

The pleasure was all ours, Mr. Haskett, and it makes one feel glad, indeed, that he called when so hearty a welcome is extended, and interest shown in fellow craftsmen—furthermore, anytime we chance to be in your midst we will surely find the latchstring and hope to be able to extend to you and other members of the press, the same courtesies you so sincerely accorded us.

Either the cotton is too high or the land is too cheap. For one acre of land will usually produce from one-fourth to one-half bale of cotton annually—worth from $35 to $75. YOUNG MEMPHIS COUPLE
MARRY AT CHILDRESS

The fact that Miss Claudia Bass and Mr. Earnest, both of Memphis, were married at Childress, Friday, October 17, unknown to their many friends here, has been verified during the past week.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. M. Bass of Lankershim California, formerly of Memphis. She is at present an instructor in the East Ward School of Memphis, which position she has held for the past three years. She was raised in Memphis, is a graduate of Memphis High School, and is well known and popular among the young people of Memphis.

Mr. Lee has lived in Memphis the past three years, and is now in the employe of the Walker Bros. Grocery. He is prominent in the business and civic life of Memphis and popular with the younger set.

The wedding, a culmination of a courtship of two years, remained a rumor only, for several days, since the ceremony was reported by telephone from friends at Childress.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS MAZINE
GRADY ANNOUNCED

The most delightful social function of the month occurred Tuesday afternoon when Mesdames Ray Goodson and T. Kittenger entertained at the home of Mrs. Goodson, announcing the engagement of Miss Mazine Graddy to Mr. Ernest Tunnel.

Large pumpkins, serving as containers for gorgeous chrysanthemum bouquets, and brilliant Autumn leaves were in evidence as the decorative motif throughout the reception rooms. Fifteen tables were arranged for games of Forty-Two.

The hostesses were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Elbert Kittenger and the honoree, who was charming in a frock of old blue satin and fur.

Following games, a novel express wagon, representing Tunnell Grocery, was drawn in by Master Tommy Grundy. Little Misses Dot Dunbar and Jeanne Draper, in exquisite Cupid costumes, followed and delivered small grocery baskets from the wagon to each guest. Besides various other packages of interest, the baskets contained unique announcement cards, revealing the date of the wedding, which is November 3d.

Miss Helen McNeely added to the pleasure of the occasion with an appropriate reading and Mesdames J. D. Pierce and Mack Tarver contributed delightful vocal solos.

A delightful three course luncheon was served to seventy-five guests.

October in the Country

By Phebe K. Warner

Nature is so full of notions that she has provided a different charm for every month of the year. Most of us recognize every month as we do a person by some special feature. And we all love each different month of the year just as we love certain characters for some individual quality in them.

But of all the months of the year which do you like best? Which seems the most like an old friend to you? Which means the most to your soul? In most of our lives the answer would be "OCTOBER." Why? That is the beauty of it. None of us can express in words the reasons why. But we know it because we feel it. One big reason, we believe, is because there is VICTORY written in glittering letters on every tree top in the forest. There is success bowing modestly from every hill of milo maize. One of the most beautiful lessons of real success and the humble spirit that usually accompanies success is the manner in which those great well-filled heads of milo maize bow toward the kind earth from whence they so recently came. Sometimes men and women forget from whence they came if a little success happens to them. It is not that way with Nature. Then October is the final harvest of the year. It is the culmination of human efforts the same as Nature's year-long effort. It is time to gather in the products of our year's work and if possible get ready to rest a little while like the trees and the rose bushes and all the fields and flowers. In Nature's program there is rest for everything and everybody except our pulse throbbing hearts. They must beat on day and night, winter and summer, with never a rest for one single throb.

Then there is a difference in the harvest and the flowers of October. They represent a harder species. It takes longer and more work to produce the Autumnal crops. And there is another lesson here. They last longer. What we do through the long winter if it were not for the nuts and pop-corn and the winter apples and the big yellow pumpkins, and the corn and the maize and those wonderful products that are built by Nature to last. It takes more time to build a nut than it does a violet but it lasts longer. Each has its place and mission. And that's just like life. It takes longer to build a character that will last through all the winter months of life.

But there is another great lesson of life that comes to us all through the glories of October and that is it is time to "be prepared." Every day the leaves are falling back to earth. So are we. October represents the mature time of life. And that means that our work is growing toward an end. And it is the time to get ready for the great change. No, it is not time to be afraid. Just time to put our house and home and our life in order to be ready, like the leaves, when it is our day to drop off. Then it sets us all to thinking about the harvest of our lives. How about it? Have I done my best? Are the fruits of my life worth gathering for future use? October makes us think. We know the blighting frosts can not be far away. And right now every one of us is wondering if, and hoping that the frost will stay away until our crops will have time to mature. But that is not all. We are wondering if and also hoping that the blighting frosts of disease and death will hold off until we can finish our life work. And sometimes our work in life is like our crops. We did not get started in time to get it out of the danger line. This is why we all cling to October so. The whole month is so like life in its maturer days. And we love life. We hate to see it pass. And seldom do we realize how swiftly it is passing until the October days of life come on.

But Nature's plans are ideal. And where she has had her own way and not been held back by bad treatment on the part of man, everything in her world has matured naturally and in the right season. And that is why all Nature is so beautiful in October. And do you not believe that the October days of our lives would be just as beautiful if we had lived and obeyed the natural laws of life, and were ready and waiting, our harvest of kind words and deeds ripe for others to reap, if only we had known how to sow and when and how to cultivate our lives to produce a rich harvest. There is more to October than just the beauty and the glory of her Autumnal colors and there is more to life than just a show.

A Merchant's Talk
On Advertising

One of the big dry goods men of the South recently gave out the following interesting facts on advertising which proves what the men think of advertising who have really tried it out:

A few weeks before my fortieth birthday, which was several years ago, my wife handed me a good-sized bunch of letters being addressed and stamped, and suggested that I drop them in the mail box on my way to the office. I wore my raincoat that morning as it happened to be raining, so I slipped the letters in the pocket of the coat, and, upon arriving at the office, I placed the coat in my locker and forgot all about the letters. I did not wear that same coat again for several weeks, and that's where my trouble started.

These letters happened to be invitations to my fortieth birthday party. The evening of the party came, the stage was all set. The dinner was supposed to be at 6:00 p. m., but nobody showed up. We waited until seven, but my friends failed to arrive. Then, lo and behold, my wife said to me, "Do you recall a morning some few weeks ago when I gave you those letters to mail? They were the invitations to your party." Immediately the thought struck me, "By golly, those letters are in the pocket of my raincoat at the office."

That incident reminds me of an old friend of mine who was in to see me the other day. He told me about a motor trip he had taken, driving from Minneapolis up North a few hundred miles. It happened to be on a Saturday. He visited several towns on his trip, calling in at many stores, and he remarked to me, "Do you know there are about two chain stores in each town I went through and they were the only stores that were busy—the other stores did not appear to be doing anything." That caused him to investigate, just as a matter of curiosity, so I asked him the names of the towns he visited. I then wrote to the newspapers in each town and requested that they send me their papers of Thursday and Friday, two days before the Saturday when my friend called at those stores. Upon receipt of those papers I found that in four out of five papers, all the store advertising that had been done was done by the chain stores. That solved the problem.

The retail merchants in the towns where my friend visited had failed to advertise in the newspapers, inviting the public to their store that Saturday, and the public, not receiving an invitation, did not come, but the chain stores had invited them with a neat, effective ad, attractive in style, and chuck full of common sense, and naturally, that is where they went.

So the stores that failed to receive their friends were like my birthday party—the crowd didn't come.

I venture to say in all the failures of retail merchants the last three years not twenty per cent of these tising would have brought sufficient trade to prevent a great amount of their losses.—Exchange.

same merchants advertised religiously in newspapers, whereas if they had their investment in newspaper advertising.

We saw a real "dirt farmer" yesterday. He climbed out of a Ford in front of "grocery row" and shook a regular June dustcloud out of his clothes.

"PRACTICE CHILD"

Here is "Frances Pauline" a baby with a thousand mothers, who is the "practice child" in the home economics department of the University of Maine. The women students take turns caring for her as part of their course of instruction.

It was the dear old lady's first ride in a taxi, and she watched with growing alarm the driver continually putting his hand outside the car as a signal to the traffic following. At last, she became angry. "Young man," she said, "you look after the driving and watch where you are going. I'll tell you when it starts raining."

A Texas reporter was interviewing a burglar who had finally been captured after a series of depredations that had made him locally famous.

"What is the greatest risk you run in your business?" asked the reporter.

"Being mistaken for the woman's husband when I break into a house," said the burglar.

Yellowstone Park
Records Show
Buicks Popular

During the season of 1924 a total of 30,689 automobiles passed through Yellowstone Park. This is an increase over the 1923 season when 27,359 cars carried tourists through Uncle Sam's great National Park, indicating that there is an increasing desire on the part of our people to see their own America.

Yellowstone defies description, and must be seen to be appreciated and seldom does one visit the scenic wonders of this nationally protected part of our country without becoming enthusiastic boosters for this most interesting motor trip.

A careful record of the different makes of cars passing through is kept at the entrance gate of the park, and it is interesting, but not surprising to note that more Buick cars passed through the park than any other make except Ford. During the 1924 season 3223 Buicks entered, this number exceeding all other makes, the nearest being 2984.

Cars come and cars go, but the old standbys like Buick continue to hold first place. Buick's popularity is not only vouchered for by the fact that more people drove them through the park during the past several seasons than any other make of car save one, but it will be remembered that Buick for the past seven years has won first choice of space at the National Shows by reason of doing the greatest volume of business expressed in dollars and cents.

From Charley Dawes we hear a heap, but never buncomb's chatter. His head has not the Coolidge clamp, and yet there's much gray matter.

arrived at the villa. Once or twice she laughed softly to herself. It was an excursion which Gerald pondered on many times afterward. Pauline had settled down in the low bucket seat by his side and leaned back with an air of absolute content.

She had, in fact, the appearance of one enjoying a rare pleasure. As soon as Gerald slackened speed, however, with the idea of entering into conversation, she became curt and almost rudely, and his proposition that they might take the higher road and have tea at Nice she promptly negated.

When, after an absence of about an hour and a half, they drew up at the gates of the villa, she left him with the merest nod of farewell.

"You will come for another ride soon—perhaps tomorrow?" he asked anxiously.

She shook her head. "I can make no plans," she replied. "I should think it very improbable. I thank you so much for your kindness. Your car is quite wonderful."

She walked away with the air of one who has conferred a great favor. Gerald drove slowly back to the Villa d'Acacia and joined his sister on the terrace.

"Do you know anything about the two women at the next villa Mary?" he asked.

"One never knows one's neighbors here," she answered. "I saw them driving, the other day—a strange-looking old lady and a very good-looking girl. Isn't there something queer about them, or is it my fancy?" "There is something unusual," Gerald replied. "They seem curiously disposed to forming acquaintances, which is odd in a place like this. I happened to be talking to the younger and the girl who was with her.

"Do you know," she said, "that I have not seen Monsieur Gerald for three days?" "He has been busy," Christopher answered shortly. "He plays golf and tennis every day. Then his father and sister take up a good deal of his time."

"You always find time to come and see me every morning," she said. "Besides—it was not his sister with whom I saw him motoring yesterday."

Christopher braced himself for an effort. "Myrtle," he began, "you know that I am fond of you."

"You have been very kind," she answered listlessly.

"Because I want to be kind, I am going to say things that may sound harsh," he went on. "You are a very foolish girl to waste your time thinking and dreaming of Gerald. You should only let your thoughts dwell upon one man continually when there is some chance in the end that that man may become your husband."

Her listlessness passed. She settled down to the subject seriously. "But, Monsieur Christopher—"

Christopher leaned over and laid his hand upon hers. "Myrtle dear, will you listen to me?" he begged. "Look at me for a moment. I am twenty-six years old. I have lived in cities as well as in the country. In London I am what you call an avocet. I have to use my brains every day. I have to understand my fellow creatures. Will you get that into your head?"

"It is not difficult," she assured him, with a little smile. "I think you are very clever, and you know many, many things."

"And as for you, Myrtle," Christopher went on, "when one thinks of your upbringing, it is amazing to realize how much you have read, how much you know. But listen to me. Nothing that one reads can teach one what life is like. You spent many hours wondering what was at the end of the road. You think now, because you have passed over the hill, that you are there. My dear, you are not even at the beginning of the way."

She plucked some grasses and twined them round her fingers. "Go on," she whispered.

"What you see here is not life. It is not even a very wonderful reflection of it. Mostly it is a little company of pleasure seekers, come to cast aside for a time the serious side of life and gamble with their pleasures as they do with their money."

"But some must be in earnest," Myrtle protested.

"One of them who is not in earnest is Gerald, and I tell you so, although Gerald is my friend," Christopher said. "He is here to amuse himself, and would prefer to amuse himself without giving anyone else pain. If that is impossible, however, he is sufficiently reckless not to count the cost where the other person is concerned."

She drew a little away. "That does not sound like the speech of a friend," she reminded him reproachfully.

I am looking forward to it more than to anything else in the world."

Christopher's face hardened. "You will not go to one of those supper parties, Myrtle," he insisted. "I would rather take you back to the farm."

She turned her head and looked at him. There was something in her eyes from which he shrank—something very much like hate.

She saw the pain in his face and she was suddenly remorseful. She clung to his arm again. Her cheek almost touched his.

"Christopher—dear Christopher," she pleaded, "I did not mean to hurt you. I know how good you are, but just think how wonderful it would be for me to go with Gerald, to meet other girls, to laugh and talk, to sit by his side, his guest, to dance, perhaps—oh, it would be paradise! Everybody else goes to parties, Christopher."

"I will take you to the opera," he promised. Her eyes glowed.

"It would be wonderful," she murmured, "but you must not prevent my going to the party."

"Myrtle," he pointed out, "the young women whom you would meet there are not fit for you to know."

"But what harm can they do me?" she persisted. "I know that they are not nice. But what does it matter? Gerald will take care of me."

Christopher rose to his feet. There was a certain hopelessness about his task that he was slowly beginning to realize.

"Come," he said, "it is time we went back."

She took his arm as they scrambled down into the road. "You are not cross with me, Christopher?" she ventured, a little timidly. "You look so gloomy—even a little miserable," she went on, clinging to his arm and looking up into his face. "I am a very great trouble to you, I fear. Are you not sorry that you ever brought me away?"

"I am not sorry yet, Myrtle," he answered. "I only hope that I never may be."

Her mood suddenly changed. She laughed gayly. "Oh, to, to," she cried. "If you look so gloomy I shall sing and dance to you, here in the road, as we do at festival time. Gerald says that I must have dancing lessons. He is going to send me to a woman here."

She pruned lightly on one foot, a miracle of buoyancy and grace. Then she went suddenly right, took her place by his side and clutched at his arm. An automobile whizzed past them, on its way up the hill; Gerald was leaning back in the low driving seat, the sun gleaming on his dark, closely brushed hair, his head bent toward his companion; Pauline sat a little aloof, haughty, unbending, her beautiful face cold, unrelieved by any light of sympathy or interest. Her eyes swept carelessly over Christopher and his companion as they passed. Gerald did not even see them.

"Who is she?" Myrtle whispered. "No one knows much about her," Christopher replied. "She and her aunt have the next villa to Gerald's father. She calls herself Mademoiselle de Ponsere."

Myrtle laughed quietly. She was already herself again. "Mademoiselle is a very stupid girl," she declared. "Gerald was looking at her and she looked only at the road. She does not care. Gerald will find that out."

Gerald came to the tennis courts, an hour or so later, and played several sets almost in silence. He took Christopher on one side, during one of the periods of rest, and flung his arm around his shoulder.

"Chris, old man," he confided, "I want to talk to you."

"And I have a few words I want to say to you," Christopher rejoined. "We're in this set," Gerald pointed out, rising to his feet. "Let's be alone somewhere, then—Ciro's grill at eight-thirty."

Chapter VII

Gerald ordered the dinner and the wine. Then he started the conversation with a somewhat abrupt question. "Chris," he asked, "exactly what do you think of Mademoiselle de Ponsere?"

"I don't know her," Christopher reminded him. "As a matter of fact, neither do I," Gerald declared, a little bitterly. "She permitted me to introduce myself down on the sands below the villa, and she has been for a ride with me in the car every afternoon since; yet she does this secretly, and if I meet her with her aunt I am not allowed to speak to her or to expect recognition. I am not permitted to call at the villa, I don't know even her nationality. I flatter myself that for my few but well-spent years I have seen something of the world and its snares, but I honestly cannot place these two women."

"What is mademoiselle's attitude toward you when you are alone?" Christopher asked. "Indicently reserved," Gerald answered. "I once touched her fingers and I thought she would have struck me. Humiliating though it may be, I am half inclined to believe that it is the motorist alone which attracts her in the slightest degree, and that I represent very little more to her than the man who is driving the car."

"Perhaps not," he replied. "In that case you should listen to me more patiently. I want you to leave this place and go to some friends of mine in England."

"What, alone?" "Alone," she shook her head. "Christopher," she said, suddenly slipping her arm through his, "I think you want to be kind to me. I believe that you are very good—perhaps you are better than Gerald. But so long as Gerald wants me near, I shall stay. Even if he goes about with other people, he thinks of me. He has told me so, and he has promised to take me to one of his supper parties this week."

Bargains In West Texas Land

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT—

Cotton continues to sell at a good price, but will the price of cotton be next year or the year after? Why not own farms that will make money in cotton when the price is good or wheat when cotton is low?

Good land on the Plains is changing hands rapidly now and bargains close in are getting harder to find. Still have some extra good stuff at from $15 to $35 per acre, in any size tracts and on good terms.

Have some land can sell on crop payment plan.

Let me show you some real land.
