THE POOR RICH GUY.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

by CARLETON KENDRAKE

CHARLES MORDEN, reporter for The Blade, telephones his newspaper an exclusive story about FRANK B. CATHAY of Riverview, wealthy and prominent, brought to police headquarters on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and accompanied by a pretty young woman who calls herself MARY BRIGGS, hitch-hiker.

Next day it is learned that the man was an impostor. The real Cathay demands damages and a retraction. DAN BLEEKER, junior publisher of The Blade, convinced that "something is fishy", sends Morden to Riverview to learn all he can about Cathay.

MRS CATHY calls on Bleeker and asks him to come to the Palace hotel for a conference with her husband's lawyer, CHARLES FISHER. Bleeker goes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

There was no answer from Bleeker, publisher of The Blade, but an abrupt, negative nod of the head. Kenney, the city editor, pressed the receiver support down into place, then raised it again.

"Miss West," he went on, "this is Dick Kenney. Will you get me Bill Osborne on the line right away? Yes, I'll hold the line... hello, Bill, this is Kenney. Nixon has just telephoned in from headquarters. He's picked up a radio call. The police have found a body out on the outskirts of town. Sanborne and 192d streets. It's a subdivision that's gone sour. There are only a few houses out there. The police think the body is that of Charles Morden.

"Take Sam Lane with you. Go down to headquarters and get on the job. Contact the homicide squad. Tell them that Morden was working on an important matter and that we're going to move heaven and earth to get the thing cleared up. You can pass the word around that The Blade is going to expect results. You find out all the facts and then report back and I'll give you a line on the stuff Morden was working on. You pick up Fred Nixon and the three of you drop everything else to get this thing cleared up. Understand?"

He nodded his head and dropped the receiver back into place, turned a set, grim face toward Bleeker.

"Poor devil," he said.

Bleeker made a fist, pounded it slowly on the desk.

"I," he said slowly, "sent that boy to his death. I didn't know it, and he didn't know it, but that's what it amounted to. Poor devil! Just a newspaper man working on a case. He found out something and they rubbed him out."

"Can we get any clues from what he was working on?" Kenney asked. "The body was found 20 minutes ago. He'd been dead 24 hours. The back of his head was smashed. He'd been taken out there and dumped."

"He telephoned yesterday," Bleeker said, "that he was working on a live lead. He had to play around with some woman to cultivate it. He didn't mention names. You go ahead and handle this thing, Kenney. Put as many men on the job as are necessary. Morden was one of our boys. He was bumped off. We're going to avenge his murder. More than that, it's an insult to the paper. We're going to clean this thing up, if we have to move heaven and earth. I'm going to see Sidney Griff, the criminologist."

Kenney whistled.

"There's more to this case," Bleeker went on "than appears on the surface."

"Of course there is," Kenney said. "You know what it is and so do I. Morden was getting doped on Frank Cathay."

"But," Bleeker pointed out, "we made our peace with Cathay. The libel suit was called off."

"That doesn't mean that Morden had to forget what he'd found out, does it?" Kenney asked impatiently. "Morden found out something; Cathay killed him to keep it quiet."

Bleeker shook his head slowly. "Men are killed, Kenney," he said, "for gain, for vengeance, for fear, for jealousy. We can't figure where there was any revenge, gain or jealousy. Therefore, we jump at the conclusion it's fear and immediately figure Cathay was mixed up on it. But Cathay is a prominent citizen. If there are any skeletons in his closet they'd be buried so deeply a casual investigation wouldn't have disclosed them in three days."

"Well," Kenney remarked, "Griff can tell us more about it. He's good—the best criminologist in the country today. When you're talking with him, try and get some information out of him about a man by the name of Thomas Decker. Decker was a witness to the murder of Edward Shillingby, a private detective. Philip Lampson—the gangster they call 'Cincinnati Red'—is held under arrest. The story goes that Decker was frightened because he was a witness. He went to Griff and Griff has buried him somewhere. He says he'll produce Decker at the time of trial, but that's all he'll say. There's a story in it if we could get Griff to talk."

"He won't," Bleeker said. "There's no harm in trying," Kenney insisted. "If you work on this Morden case with him you'll get chummy with him. Remember to ask him about Decker. In the meantime I'm going to work and dig out some more facts." He left the room with quick, impatient strides.

Dan Bleeker, seated at his desk, got Ethel West on the telephone and said, "Get me Sidney Griff, the criminologist. Tell him that I want to see him upon a matter of major importance. I probably won't have all the facts necessary to make a presentation of the case until after dinner tonight. I'd like to see him this evening."

Bleeker sat perfectly motionless. His body seemed relaxed. His attitude might have been mistaken for one of calm meditation upon some peaceful subject.

The telephone rang. Bleeker snapped the receiver from its rest and heard Ethel West say, "Mr. Griff will see you at 8:30 tonight if that is convenient."

"Quite," Bleeker said. "Now get me the editor of The Riverview Chronicle, in Riverview. Rush the call."

He dropped the receiver back into position but held his hand on it and when, within a matter of a minute and a half, the telephone rang, he snapped the receiver to his ear with a quick motion.

"Hello," he said, "is this Beckley of The Riverview Chronicle? This is Dan Bleeker of The Blade. We sent a man up to look over your clippings on Frank B. Cathay. A chap named Morden. Did you give him any information?"

Bleeker listened for a short time, then nodded his head.

"Now," he said, "I want you to do something for me. There may be a big story in it. I want you to find out for me where Frank B. Cathay was yesterday afternoon. In the morning if possible, but in the afternoon for certain. I want to know every move he made. You can go to any necessary expense and send the bill to me. He's what...? Are you certain...? Check that, will you? Find out about the doctor. See if you can approach the nurse. They probably have two or three. Get all the information you can and telephone it in just as quickly as you can. That may be a matter of major importance. I'm calling on you because I know where you stand on the city election. I'm just asking you to extend me a courtesy which we have extended you in times past.

"You call me back just as soon as you find out. If I'm not here you can leave any information with Ethel West, my secretary."

WEAVER CLUB HONORS WITH 'GENTLEMEN'S EVENING'

Gentlemen's Evening was observed by members of the Mystic Weaver club Friday evening with the social committee, Mrs. G. D. Beard, Mrs. R. H. Wherry, Mrs. J. W. Stokes and Mrs. C. R. Webster, joint hostesses, at the home of Mrs. Wherry, 914 West Cleveland street.

The entertaining rooms at the Wherry home were prettily decorated with roses and other cut flowers.

At seven o'clock a delicious three course dinner was served at small tables attractively laid, with fall flowers forming the centerpiece.

Places were marked for Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. DeBerry, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Draper, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McMurry, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Foxhall, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Finck, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hattenbach, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Foxhall, Mrs. T. R. Garrott, Mrs. T. T. Harrison, Mrs. T. J. Dunbar, Mrs. R. S. Greene, Mrs. R. C. Walker, Mrs. Mrs. C. W. Kinslow and J. W. Stokes, G. D. Beard, C. R. Webster and R. H. Wherry.

After dinner the ever popular game of "42" was played.

H. A. Jackson Talks to West Ward P.-T. A.

"How To Win For Christ" and "How To Win For P.-T. A.," were subjects discussed by Supt. H. A. Jackson in the devotional Thursday afternoon, Oct. 11, at the regular meeting of the West Ward P.-T. A. Mr. Jackson read the first Psalm as his scripture lesson and closed his talk with prayer.

The mother singers, under the direction of Mrs. Glenn Truax, sang, "Sweet and Low." Mrs. Truax urged all mothers who sing to come early on the regular meeting day and practice with the group.

Mrs. I. M. Hicks discussed, "Children and Their Parents," and Mrs. Joe DeBerry led in prayer.

During the business session the president, Mrs. W. J. Bragg, reminded the members that this month is the 25th anniversary of P. T. A. in Texas, and a free-will birthday offering was taken.

Mrs. Roy Guthrie explained the adult educational classes now being organized. She urged all who wish to take a subject to sign up at once.

It was decided that the West Ward P.-T. A. will sponsor a Halloween Carnival on the night of Oct. 27, Saturday night before Halloween.

A number of new members were enrolled.

Attend 77th Birthday Fete

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Crawford and Mrs. G. E. Hollis of the Plaska community went to Gainesville last week to attend the 77th birthday celebration of their mother, Mrs. W. L. Farr.

The occasion was given at the home of the honoree's daughter, Mrs. J. B. Clodfeiter, nine miles Southeast of Gainesville and was the first time in 17 years that all of Mrs. Farr's ten children had been together.

PROFESSIONAL AND BUSINESS WOMEN AT WORK ON NEW PLAY

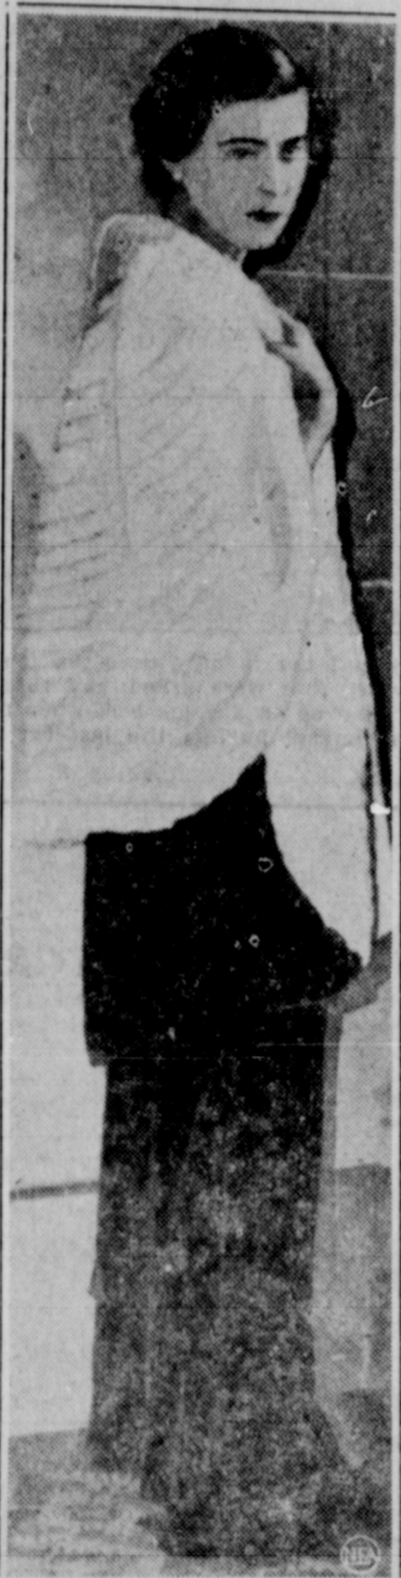

The Business and Professional Women's club is at work on its three act play, "Oh Professor," which will be presented at the high school auditorium, Thursday and Friday nights, Nov. 22-23.

This play has comedy and drama and has been presented in a number of southern states and proved such an outstanding success that the Business and Professional Women's club feel confident that all who attend the production will be amply repaid.

Between acts there will be a chorus of college boys and girls, assuring that there will not be a dull moment in the entire presentation.

The setting of "Oh Professor" takes place in a boy's fraternity house at Clinton college and

Methodist WMS Meets at Church

The Methodist Missionary society met Monday afternoon at the church in Bible study.

The session was opened by singing, "Break Thou the Bread of Life," after which Mrs. D. S. Baker conducted the Bible study, choosing for her subject, "The Origin of Sin and the Messianic Promises." This completed the Bible study program.

Members present were: Mesdames C. W. Broome, W. C. Dickey, Frank Phelan, John T. Bishop, Ira W. Neely, D. L. Johnson, N. A. Hightower, J. H. Read, D. S. Baker, H. F. Schoolfield, John Lofland, E. S. Foote and Miss Clara Steinman.

Frost-Burnside Nuptials Read

The marriage of Miss Mary M. Frost of Plaska, and Everett A. Burnside of McKinney was solemnized at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Evans in northwest Memphis.

The ceremony was read by Rev. Evans Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the presence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Frost.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for McKinney where they will make their home.

Mrs. Jack Grant returned Friday from a visit with her son, Forrest Grant, at Dalhart.

LITTLE THEATRE TO PRESENT 1-ACT PLAYS THURSDAY NIGHT

The three one-act plays to be presented by the Memphis Little Theatre on Thursday evening, Oct. 25, at 8 o'clock at the high school auditorium are reported to be in readiness. The cast of the three plays are rehearsing faithfully at the high school auditorium with the sets and properties. All of the plays have the "earmarks" of being excellent performances.

"All for Glory" is a comedy of mountaineer life, written by Mrs. R. S. Greene. The members of the Little Theatre consider it a privilege and honor to present the work of this capable member, and the public is sure to be delighted with her efforts.

The fantasy, "My Lady Dreams" by Eugene Pillot, under the direction of Mrs. T. M. Harrison, carries a charming idea. It is delightful and entertaining, with an excellent cast and costuming.

"Cul-de-Sac" is a tragedy by Essex Dane and under the direction of Mrs. Pete Clower. Although it is a tragedy, it is a story that has a heart throbbing interest. "Cul-de-Sac" has an exceptionally strong cast with Mrs. Joe DeBerry as Dr. Barry, Mrs. Carl Periman, her secretary, and Mrs. Marshall Allen as Christine Morris, a drug fiend. The scene in an up to date doctor's office. "Cul-de-Sac" is a story that can not fail to grip one from the time the curtain rises until it falls.

It is hoped that a large crowd will attend these performances. Tickets are now on sale at the popular price of 10 and 25 cents and may be purchased from any member of the Little Theatre. Mrs. Roy Fultz is chairman of the ticket committee.

F. L. Hall has been appointed local agent of the Universal Life and Accident Insurance company. He succeeds C. R. Sargent, former agent here.

Mrs. T. W. Ioor Celebrates 72nd Birthday

Mrs. J. M. Hackworth and Mrs. Ada Smith went to Lakeview Sunday to attend the birthday dinner given for Mrs. T. W. Ioor at her home on the occasion of her 72nd birthday.

The table was centered with the beautifully decorated birthday cake in pink and white, topped with 72 lighted candles.

DEER HUNTERS RETURN WITH LIMITS

Max King and W. L. Cabiness Snare Fine Animals

Oh deer! Max King and W. L. Cabiness, and a number of their friends, are going to enjoy venison this week, what with each of the hunters finding the trip worthwhile.

They returned Thursday from a hunting trip in Colorado, where each bagged his one deer. They also found plenty of grouse and squirrels.

Freezing weather at night and a snow storm or two made conditions ideal for hunting, they reported.

Wellington Takes 20 to 6 Victory Over Chillicothe

Special to The Democrat WELLINGTON, Oct. 20.—The Wellington Skyrocks bunched their touchdown blasts in the opening quarter here Friday night to defeat the Chillicothe Eagles, 20 to 6. The Skyrocks scored three touchdowns early in the game and both teams went into rapid action during the last half but failed to score.

The Eagles were the first team to score on Wellington this season. Wellington made seven first downs and five 20-yard penetrations while Chillicothe made six firsts and one penetration. Five of the Skyrocket's first downs came in the last half.

Poteet Score Travis Williams downed the Eagle safely in his tracks on the 10-yard line after Glenn of Wellington punted four minutes after the game opened, Riley took an Eagle fumble on the Chillicothe 5-yard line and Williams and Poteet hit the line. Poteet scoring on his second punch. The kick for the point failed.

Woodrow Wood slipped through right tackle on a reverse spin shortly afterward and raced 75 yards to score with the entire Eagle eleven at his heels. Williams kicked goal. With but three minutes to play in the quarter, Wood passed 12 yards to Glenn, who ran eight yards to the Eagle 9-yard line. Poteet went over in three tries and Williams kicked goal.

Eagles Score The Eagles scored in the second quarter after turning loose a passing attack featuring Emerson to Wiginton. A Wellington substitute came on the field to get a 5-yard penalty for his team and put the ball on the 5-yard line. Emerson went over on the first try. Harkins was stonned on a plunge for the point. The last half was packed with action and aerial offensive without results.

Locals and Personals

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sides and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Sides were called here Wednesday from Kirklane on account of the serious illness of Marie Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williamson, at 816 West Cleveland street. Marie is reported better.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Clower went to Wellington this morning to spend the day with relatives. They will return by way of Childress for their sons, Bobbie and Pete, Jr., who spent the week-end there as the guests of Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Lewis.

Mrs. Carl Periman will return from Amarillo today where she has been visiting relatives for several days.

Mrs. Elmer Prater went to Pampa last night for a visit with Mrs. Curtis Huckabay.

Turkey Scores in Last Half to Stop Lakeview

Special to The Democrat TURKEY, Texas, Oct. 20.—The Turkey Turks grounded the Lakeview Eagles here Friday afternoon, 13 to 0, after a slow first half in a practice game. Neither team was able to score in the first half.

Arnold of Turkey scored first in the third quarter and Yarbrough scored as the game closed, D. Coker kicking goal. Fumbles were mainstays on the Eagle defense.

The Turks meet the Memphis Cyclone in Memphis next Friday night in a district title game.

FANS 40—LOSES

Ben Davis, above, of San Benito, Texas, fanned 40 men in a recent soft-ball game—and lost. Davis fanned 26 men in 14 innings and, after the game had been adjourned until the next day, due to darkness, he took up where he left off and whiffed 14 more before the deadlock was broken in the 23d inning, Davis' team losing, 3-2.

land, although his success has been recent. Since he assumed command at Tennessee eight years ago the Orange and White has won 68 games, tied five, and lost five, for one of the finest records in the country.

Major Neyland's 1931 team was one of the Broadway hits of that season, when, participating in a game played for the benefit of New York's unemployed, the Vols trimmed New York University, 13-0. They were led by a one-man crowd named Herman Hickman, who played so much tackle that all of the critics regretted having left him off their all-Americans.

Another coach who did a great deal toward putting Dixie football on the map is Wallace Wade, now at Duke. His Alabama teams thrice appeared against Pacific Coast champions in the Rose Bowl without a defeat. The Crimson Tide's 20-19 victory over Washington on New Year's Day, 1926, was one of the most thrilling games every played, and the outcome was heard around the football world.

Alabama came from far in the ruck to score the biggest hit recorded at Pasadena until Columbia so surprisingly upset Stanford nine months ago.

A LESSON IN PREVENTION

FIFTY people at Graham, in Young county received first injections of anti-rabies serum Thursday after a small puppy ran amuck earlier in the week and snapped at many school children and grown-ups. The dog was discovered to be suffering from rabies.

The city immediately started a frenzied roundup of every person attacked by the dog as the serum was rushed from Dallas. Posters announced the danger to the people so that those receiving bites from the dog might report for treatment.

At the same time an extensive drive was started by Graham police to either kill every dog and cat in the city or have them inoculated against rabies.

It would have been much better if the city fathers had foreseen this danger sooner and made its clean-up before one of the pets ran amuck. Much trouble and excitement would have been prevented if nothing else.

We point with pride to the fact that this danger was foreseen here several weeks ago and a similar drive was started. Unless our memory fails us, something in the neighborhood of 100 dogs were put to death—animals that were not worth the $2 inoculation fee to their owners, or that had no owners at all. These animals, running at large, presented a direct danger to the people of Memphis.

The danger was removed, and Memphis has not had such a scare as the one that hit Graham. Of course, we may not have had it anyway, but the removal of the danger gave us a feeling of security that would not have been possible otherwise.

However, that drive was made some time ago, and now dogs can again be seen wandering about the streets. They may be some that were overlooked or they may have been inoculated, but we should be sure.

Too often we are prone to overlook such apparently small things that may endanger the life of any of us. We do not have time to watch for those little things, but suddenly an illustration pops up somewhere and we realize that "it could have been prevented."

WORLD REQUIRES SAFETY OF DEMOCRACY

THIS troubled world may yet be forced to understand that it will have to make itself safe for democracy before it can carry on with the ordinary business of living.

Democracy has gone out of style since the war. That magnificent slogan that Woodrow Wilson handed out in war days has become something to laugh at—partly because the war no longer looks like the holy crusade we once thought it, and partly because democracy itself has shown more defects than we used to think it had.

But when all the shams and hypocrisies of the war are admitted and all the faults of democratic government are reviewed, it is still true that democracy does provide a safety valve which eases tensions and prevents the kind of explosions that have been tormenting Europe lately.

Historians are still arguing about what caused the World War, and the argument won't be settled for a long time to come. One thing, however, is very clear; a large part of the trouble was the ceaseless struggle of oppressed minorities to win their freedom.

This struggle centered in the old Austro-Hungarian empire, and it touched off the war. The finest thing Wilson ever did was to tell the whole world that freedom and self-determination must be the heritage of all peoples if a repetition of the holocaust was to be avoided.

The result? Violence and bloodshed. In country after country the secret police must go about smelling out plots and conspiracies. Prisons must be enlarged, executioners must be kept busy.

The dictators fear their own people and they fear one another. Riots and assassinations come in an ever-increasing crop; and each one disturbs an unstable equilibrium so dangerously that people catch their breath and wonder, "Will this start a new war?"

Maybe it's time to revive that old war slogan. A world that was safe for democracy would certainly have fewer spots than the one in which we are now living.

THE MELANCHOLY DAYS HAVE COME

HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeian, the Health Magazine

There's a rare possibility that you might be endangered by the condition called "coronary thrombosis," which is a blocking of any of the small blood vessels which supply the heart with its blood. But here is a situation that is helpful to understand, so that proper measures may be taken for recovery.

Whenever anything in the nature of a disease disturbs the coronary arteries, the effects are soon felt on the heart itself. These vessels are constantly in motion, because the heart itself is always in motion.

The coronary arteries are end vessels. Any solid substance coming loose into the circulation may get into one of them and block it. When this blocking occurs, the condition is called coronary thrombosis, because a blood clot will form promptly where the blocking takes place.

Just as soon as the blood supply to the heart is stopped, the tissues begin to die because of lack of nutrients. If the patient lives, scarring takes place. Associated with this there is intense pain and not infrequently fever.

Sometimes the blocking may be merely in the form of a spasm of the blood vessel, which means a great deal for the possibility of recovery, although at the time when the spasm occurs, the patient feels much the same as he would were there a complete blocking.

If the patient lives following blocking of the blood vessels of the heart, other small blood vessels gradually may take over the problem of supplying the blood to the heart.

In many instances blocking occurs in association with hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure. Some doctors, however, feel that hardening of the arteries is not an immediate cause of the condition.

Quite frequently there is severe pain in the chest and difficulty with breathing in cases of this type. It has also been suggested that occasionally the blood itself may be responsible, because blood is thicker in some people than in others and also flows more slowly

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, The Democrat's Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The new National Industrial Recovery Board was appointed without much consultation with the industries it is supposed to supervise.

You might almost think President Roosevelt had been wondering about what he would say to Congress as to the NRA and its permanency, bearing in mind the feeling in Congress that "Big Business" had the organization under its thumb.

Anyway, the NIRA is a high-grade group, even though only two of its members were taken from the ranks of business.

Early secret sessions of the board indicate that it will be dominated chiefly by a majority of four who are affiliated with neither industry nor labor.

At the end are Chairman Clay Williams, the tobacco man, and Arthur D. Whiteside of Dun & Bradstreet. They may be depended on to clash frequently with President Sidney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers at the other end—and vice versa.

Four Rated as Liberals

That leaves Secretary Leon C. Marshall, Dr. Walton Hale Hamilton, consumer representative, Director of Research and Planning Leon Henderson—all three economists—and Acting General Counsel Blackwell Smith as a bloc of four men committed toward neither industry nor labor.

It's a liberal group. Sometimes Marshall leans toward the Williams-Whiteside end of the table, but Henderson, Smith and especially Hamilton, are more likely to veer toward the Hillman end.

The setup is a daisy for the consumer, who has long been getting the dirty end of the NRA stick, while industry and labor took the honey.

Hillman, by the way, already has begun to fight. The personnel problem is up. Charges are being made.

Hillman demands the unloading of certain officials who can't think in any terms except those of industrial profits.

Price Fixing Under Fire

The biggest internal difference, in both NIRA and its Advisory Council, centers on proposed elimination of most price-fixing and production control provisions from codes.

There's a strong sentiment to hurry on the process instead of proceeding slowly. That would mean that many high cost business enterprises would have to walk the plank while more efficient and low cost businesses survived.

But it is being serious bated in NRA councils that wouldn't, after all, best thing for recovery whether NRA in the first shouldn't have refused those fellows by fixing production for their appetitors while the consum

Large Crop of Russian Thistle Going to Waste in Some Sections of County

Many farmers have a crop of Russian thistle which is being cut green and placed in a silo. The thistle is a valuable food for cattle. It contains almost as much food value pound for pound as the sorghum forages.

18 Varieties Of Vegetables In One Garden

PANHANDLE, Oct. 20.—Eighteen varieties of vegetables are being grown in the garden of Mrs. Tom Epting of Carson county. Three years ago Mrs. Epting installed subirrigation in her garden of 30 by 60 feet at a cost of $2.40 and is still finding its use beneficial. On July 22 she planted 10 rows of pinto beans which came up on July 28, and on September 11 she exhibited some of the fresh beans at the Carson county home demonstration exhibit. At that time she said she had a bountiful supply for canning and for fresh use.

CCC Turns To Soil Erosion Control

Extensive Program Is Underway in Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 20.—A total of 7,483 check dams, 2,694 of which are of concrete and 4,789 of rock masonry, have been constructed by the ten CCC camps in Texas, according to a summary compiled at the end of the third six-month period of the work by M. R. Bentley, Extension agricultural engineer and director of soil erosion control work in Texas. In making the dams 121,900 sacks of cement have been used; 34,700 tons of rock have been placed; and 28,400 cubic yards of dirt were moved by hand, with much larger amounts moved by landowners with teams.

Use One-Way Plow To Harvest Short Stalks at Canyon

CANYON, Oct. 20.—A one-way plow was used as a harvester on the ranch of J. J. Currie of Randall county by adjusting it so as to cut about one inch deep, according to W. H. Upchurch, farm demonstration agent.

The plow was used on a field of sorghum which was seeded with a wheat drill for hay but grew only a few inches in height. The stalks were so short that an ordinary rake would not pick them up. The stalks, root and all, when cut by the one-way plow were heavy enough to be picked up by a slide delivery rake. The net result was the saving of 25 or 30 tons of good sorghum hay.

CORN-HOG PAY RELEASED IN 42 STATES

Total Due in Two Instalments Is $98,000,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Approximately 1,030,000 corn-hog contracts or nearly 90 percent of the expected total have now been received for approval by the Secretary of Agriculture and about 100 million dollars or about 75 percent of the estimated total first instalment of benefit payments has been distributed to contract signers through October 2, according to a preliminary report. Payments up to September 28 were made to producers in 42 states.

Uses Painting on Magazine To Add To Home's Beauty

MASON, Oct. 20.—The "Torn Hat" painted by Thomas Sully more than 100 years ago and reproduced on the cover of a recent issue of a farm magazine has solved the picture problem for Mrs. Arch Reeves, bedroom demonstrator for the Ten Mile Home Demonstration Club of Mason county, she tells Miss Leah Cox, home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Reeves chose a gold frame that blended with the colors of the picture. By cutting out the picture and framing it herself, she has a famous painting that means something to her and to her small daughter at a cost of only 29 cents.

The value of conserved moisture was proven again by Elmer Hitt in Garza county when he outwitted the drouth by planting a cotton crop in the basin of what in ordinary year is a lake. Five acres of this are giving Mr. Hitt between three and four bales of cotton which he estimates is as much as the entire 32 other acres he planted will yield. With the help of the county agent he drained the excess water out to another portion of his farm and this caught by contoured rows was utilized to make a fairly good crop of maize.

When cut green at the silo and placed in a silo stacked and cured make roughage which is eaten by cattle. It contains almost as much food value pound for pound as the sorghum forages. Thistles may also be cut and fed to hogs. They are the same value as when fed in this way. Farmers of the county are using available stalk and roughage that may be used using old-fashioned cut stalks close to the gather feed that is too a binder to harvest; using a knife arrangement cultivator with a man to catch the cut feed it.

The stalks have grown to permit a binder to farmers are binding even though there is no a binder. Many farmers a broadcast binder conditions are such that work (that is feed short reasonably thick and the (sensibly level). Many farmers who their crop up and turn in the field so that to live for a while on the stubs of feed left. These have to have winter or winter pasture in wheat or barley or oat carry their livestock winter.

COTTON SUPPLY IS GREATLY REDUCED

Surplus Is Cut by As Much as Three Million Bales

The survey of conditions in the chief foreign cotton producing countries, completed with this article which is the last of a series based on figures of the Cotton section, Agricultural Adjustment Administration, clearly indicates that there is not enough basis in fact for assertions that AAA cotton programs have put America on the way to losing her foreign cotton markets.

The world has tried for years and years to capture these markets. Inroads were made into them for 40 years before the AAA program was started. Some future inroads may be made, but unless conditions change a great deal there is little likelihood of any sudden, serious, big-scale increase in foreign competition. As long as the South has normal cotton supplies, reasonably priced it is believed foreigners will find competition just as difficult as ever.

13 Million Surplus
The huge world carry-over of American cotton reached 13 million bales before AAA cotton adjustment programs began. This excess supply loaded on to markets already restricted by depression and high tariffs ruined cotton prices. In two cotton seasons the world-carry-over has been cut down to 10,634,000 bales, it is now estimated. While this supply was being reduced, cotton prices rose from less than six cents per pound to more than thirteen cents per pound. The Texas cotton income doubled in 1933 over that of 1932. It put Texas business on its feet and gave business its first big push toward recovery. In 1934, with the worst drouth in history afflicting the State, the crop insurance benefit payments, including sale of at least a part of the unused Bankhead Act certificates, are maintaining farm income and Texas business.

Under the AAA one million cotton farmers have cooperated to introduce temperance into cotton production. The Texas cotton income doubled in 1933 over that of 1932. It put Texas business on its feet and gave business its first big push toward recovery. In 1934, with the worst drouth in history afflicting the State, the crop insurance benefit payments, including sale of at least a part of the unused Bankhead Act certificates, are maintaining farm income and Texas business.

The camps, each working a radius of about 12 miles, are located at Farmersville, Collin county; Cleburne, Johnson county; Dublin, Erath county; Bowie, Montague county; Belton, Bell county; Taylor, Williamson county; Graham, Young county; Boyd, Wise county; Weatherford, Parker county; and Coolidge, Limestone county. The camp now located at Cleburne will be moved to Hillsboro, Hill county, about October 15, and the Dublin camp will be located at Brenham, Washington county, after that date.

New Soil Work
Seven camps were organized in June 1933 and assigned to the forest service for the purpose of carrying on soil erosion control work. They are financed by Emergency Conservation Work funds. Upon request the Extension Service added to an established program of erosion control and soil conservation the technical supervision of erosion control methods in this new work.

The CCC workers survey for terraces, but do not build terrace ridges. Their work is limited to the construction of check dams at terrace outlets and outlet ditches for throwing up terraces in the terrace systems.

Four county graders are at work growing with astounding success. Price of cotton has increased far beyond any effect that the devalued dollar could bring. Total cotton income has increased, just as the South has always maintained it would if production could be restricted. In addition, substantial benefit payments have helped offset the penalties imposed on the Southern farmer by tariffs, and have given 'crop insurance to the farmer.

Chance To Hold Gains
The South has the greatest opportunity in its history to hold these gains and work out a long-time farm program which will help stabilize farm prices. The AAA program does not aim at permanent cotton reduction. The plan is to constantly adjust production to effective demand so that reasonable cotton prices are reasonable. Southern prosperity may be restored and maintained. In the long-time program there probably will be a gradual shift to better use of land for all farm crops which will further help to increase farm income and more nearly keep it steady.

The South must decide for itself whether to go on in voluntary co-operation down this road with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, or to go off on another cotton drunk.

Families Get Relief From Relief Garden

Oct. 20.—Three hundred pounds of peas, radishes, greens gathered from county relief garden have provided 48 families with fresh vegetables, according to Miss Nellie Ward, demonstration agent. A total of 80 families since the garden was started.

The garden is subirrigated with water made by workers on the land under the direction of the county agent. Large and lima and pinto beans and a heavy crop now in and will soon be ready for harvest.

Sum on Good Cotton Variety

Oct. 20.—That one acre of cotton produced a scale will bring a premium worth seeking has been proved by the experience of V. J. Young, farm demonstration agent. In the past three years I have raised Acala cotton on my 1000 acres. I have been able to get from $7.50 to $10.00 per bale premium on my cotton. It does not need to be cut further on this matter, says Goss.

Checks To Replace Lost Certificates

Persons report the loss of tax exemption certificates to the office of the county agent.

There is at present no way of replacing these certificates if they are lost. Mr. Cobb has requested that the county agent issue checks which would permit the holder to receive a new certificate if the original is lost. The county agent is now issuing checks for the loss of certificates. The county agent is now issuing checks for the loss of certificates. The county agent is now issuing checks for the loss of certificates.

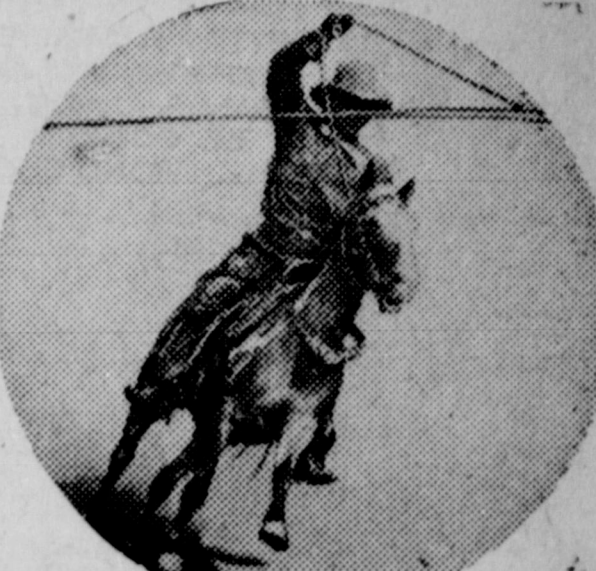

Cuts Cattle Feed Costs 30 Percent By Use of Pasture

GALVESTON, Oct. 20.—The feed cost on a herd of 40 cows has been reduced by T. C. Scruggs of Galveston county by the use of 15 acres of permanent pasture, according to J. C. Yearly, farm demonstration agent. The pasture is now in its fourth year and Mr. Scruggs says that the saving due to its use is practically 30 per cent or an average of about $20 per month.

Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. George Thompson and studied "Intercessory Prayer." No. 2 met in the home of Mrs. A. Baldwin and studied the second chapter of "Prayer and Missions." No. 3 met with Mrs. Lee Thornton and continued the study of their book, "The Plan of Salvation." No. 4 had their meeting at the home of Mrs. J. J. Wilson. Mrs. R. E. Clark taught the lesson, "The Bible and Missions."

Thirty-two women were present at the various meetings.

Treasure Hunt Is Given Here

One of the most enjoyable social affairs of the week was the fifth of a series of treasure hunts, given Tuesday evening with Miss Shirley Greene. Miss Maurine Thompson and Marcus Rosenwasser and Ingram Walker as hosts.

The guests gathered at the home of Miss Greene, and were given 12 clues that led them to different points over the entire city, making the chase in groups of four.

The winners, first to find every clue and return to the Greene home, were Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Thompson, Miss Gladys Hammond and Irvin Johnsey.

At the close of the hunt, which lasted more than two hours, the entire group went to the Broome Park where refreshments were served to 39 guests.
