

Flooded Areas of Hall County are Busy Rebuilding, Cleaning-up Havoc Wrought

Lakeview and the Brice-Bitter Lake communities of Hall County were this week in the midst of a reconstruction and clean-up era following the floods and windstorms which inundated and did considerable property damage last week. Mud, trash and debris were being cleared from homes and out-houses in the Lakeview sector while highway workmen were rebuilding the Oaks Creek bridge, washed away by the high waters Friday night of last week.

Several feet in some of the flooded residences during the flood which swept vacant shacks and barns along the creek's banks. Water and mud damaged homes, furniture and automobiles and drowned livestock and poultry to account for the greatest extent of damage. Water stood several feet in some homes to damage waters inundated her home and did untold damage. Her loss included a large number of chickens, it was reported.

Among others who reported heavy losses from damages to their homes were John Ioor and Mrs. R. A. Bowerman.

The highway from Memphis to Lakeview was closed after the bridge on Oaks Creek, which runs through the Hall County town, was washed out. Work of repairing and replacing the bridge was being pushed this week while traffic was being directed across a bed of the new dry stream.

phone lines, out during the were repaired early last week.

Bitter Lake Flooded
H. Crews reports that his whole farm was covered with water from the heavy flood that went down Bitter Creek last week. He also said the farms all the way down the creek were inundated and most of the crops ruined. Bitter Lake was filled to overflowing for the first time in many years.

Crews reported that the Lakeview, Plaska, Lesley and Brice communities suffered heavy loss to crops, and much livestock and property loss from rain, hail and wind. The loss to crops in that sector was almost 100 per cent. Also north and west of Memphis the damage was great, while southeast toward Newlin the crop loss is estimated at less than 25 per cent.

Mrs. C. Milam Will Have Care of Library
During the next several weeks Mrs. Cicero Milam, assisted by Miss Fairy Dell Parmley and Miss Alveretta Boswell, will have charge of the Memphis Carnegie library, while Miss Bird Presler, librarian, is on vacation, it has been announced.

Several extra hours put on the schedule at the library a few weeks ago as an experiment will remain in effect all summer, it was stated. Library hours are now as follows: Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays, 3 to 6; Wednesdays, 9 to 12 and 3 to 6; Fridays, 3 to 8; and Saturdays, 2 to 6.

Colored Ventriloquist Predicted Louis' Win
George Woods, colored evangelist and ventriloquist, of Elevation, Tex., was in Memphis several days this week and last, conducting a Baptist revival in the Morningstar Addition and helping the inhabitants of that quarter observe June Tenth.

George entertained a number of boys and girls at a downtown fishbowl by making their talk, a la Junior Nebb, and acted on several animated comedians with his mythical Charlie.

In an interview with a Democrat reporter he predicted that Joe Louis would knock out Max Schmeling in the eighth round. He was correct, except that his prediction was about seven and one-third rounds too late.

Pigs Take Ride; Mother Sow Swims And Guides Craft

Clarence Elliott, living on the Tim Paulsel farm south of Brice, lost considerable property in the storm and flood last week. Out-buildings, fences and feed were washed away, and two calves, four pigs and 75 chickens were drowned.

A sow and the pigs about a day old were swept down on the crest of the flood, and were found high and dry on land a mile or more away. Seven pigs were in a tub before the storm and it is presumed the tub floated downstream with its cargo of young pork and was followed and guided by the mother sow.

Whatever happened, the sow and three of the pigs were saved.

These regional meetings are held several times each year as a means of instruction. Representatives attended from Childress, Wellington, Clarendon, Turkey, Tulia, Canyon, Borger, Amarillo and Memphis.

Mrs. Ellis Rogers, Mrs. Walter White, Misses Lura and Beulah Black, Mrs. H. K. Moore, and daughter Jeannene, and H. A. Whitefield were among those who attended the services from Memphis.

House Partially Destroyed by Fire On Tuesday Night

30 to 40 Per Cent Loss on House Owned by T. Kittinger Was Covered by Insurance

Fire, the origin of which was unknown, late Tuesday night destroyed the frame residence at 411 N. 15th street, occupied by Wesley Hamilton and family and owned by T. Kittinger. The Memphis Volunteer Fire Department received a call to the blaze at 10 o'clock.

Only one room, a hall, and closet were completely burned, it was reported, the remainder of the structure receiving damage from smoke and water. Local fire officials estimate the loss to have been from 30 to 40 per cent on house and contents.

Insurance amounting to $1,000 was carried on the house, but none on the furniture, it was learned. The fire alarm sounded here Monday night was only for drill practice.

120 Baptists At Local Conference

One hundred and twenty from over Hall and Donley counties attended the Panhandle Association of Workers' Conference held at the First Baptist Church here Tuesday evening from 6 until 10 o'clock.

Ira M. Powell, educational adviser of the First Baptist Church in Borger, gave a talk on "How the B. T. U. Develops the Individual." He and Mrs. Powell also sang several numbers.

E. V. Tanner of the Memphis CCC Camp played "The Herd Girl's Dream" as a violin solo, and Miss Gertrude Rasco gave "There Is a Fountain" and "Near the Cross" on the xylophone.

Other talks were made by J. J. Cobb and M. D. Bentley of McLean. Supper was served in the church basement at 7 o'clock.

The Memphis CCC Camp members have been aiding in the search since last Thursday.

First Carload of '38 Wheat Shipped From Here Tuesday

1,455 Bushels Have Average Test of 59; 1938 Yield Far Below 30 Carloads in 1937

The first carload of 1938 Hall County wheat to leave Memphis was shipped Tuesday of this week by the Farmers Union Supply Co., it was announced by Roy Coleman, manager.

There were 1,455 bushels in the car, the average test per bushel being 59. This is considered a fair average for a non-wheat area.

About 30 cars of the grain were shipped from the county last year, but this year's yield is far below that, it was reported.

Jarrell McDaniel of Parnell has brought in the best test wheat of the year, according to Coleman. Although he has only a small acreage, his wheat tested 60 strong. Last year McDaniel's average yield, 32 bushels per acre, was perhaps the highest in the county.

Farmers Union and the Bishop Grain Co. are expecting to ship several more cars of wheat this week.

Will Take Part in Stamford Reunion
Mrs. Murray Dodson will be Miss Memphis at the Texas Cowboy Reunion in Stamford July 4, 5, and 6. She will represent Memphis and will be dressed in typical cowboy regalia for the rodeo and will take part in the riding contests.

Murray Dodson and Bob Corley will leave Memphis Friday of next week to assist in the arrangements. Mr. Corley assists in putting on the rodeo each year. Mrs. Dodson will leave for Stamford July 3.

94 Per Cent Farm Checks Received
Approximately 94 per cent of Hall County's 1937 farm conservation checks have been received, a little over 100 checks yet being expected.

Up to Thursday morning 1,875 checks totaling $356,813.90 had been paid to Hall farmers. Eighty checks representing $10,311.16 were received during the past week.

Interest Rate Is Cut On Land Bank Loans
The reduced interest rates on Federal land bank and Commissioner loans have been extended by Federal legislation for a period of two years, according to word received today from the Federal Land Bank by M. E. McNally, secretary-treasurer of the Memphis National Farm Loan Association.

On Federal land bank loans through national farm loan associations the temporarily reduced rate of 3-1-2 per cent per annum will be continued for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940.

The temporarily reduced rate of 4 per cent on Land Bank Commissioner loans is also continued until July 1, 1940, Mr. McNally said.

Since this reduction affects 420 borrowers through the Memphis Association having loans in the amount of $1,377,930, it means a substantial saving to borrowers in addition to the saving on commissioner's loans numbering 290 loans for an amount of approximately $500,000, Mr. McNally stated.

Brookhollow Lake Is Completely Full
Brookhollow Club Lake is completely full of water for the first time. Water ran over the spillway last week following the heavy rains.

The water is in a few feet of the top of the dam, and has spread out to cover much more territory, making it one of the finest looking lakes in the country.

EFFICIENT RAIL AND MAIL SERVICE

REGULAR SCHEDULES of train and U. S. Mail service have for many years been accepted as matter-of-fact by Memphians. They are so much a part of their every-day life that few persons ever fully appreciate the convenience of the services rendered.

It is true that both the postal employees and railroad's crews are paid to render these services, but it is also true that many times they sacrifice beyond all expectations and these acts are seldom observed by the demanding public. A perfect example was the uninterrupted mail service in Memphis throughout the flood days of last week. Another example was the early resumption of train service after several hundred yards of roadbed had been washed away.

Postmaster J. H. Read and his entire force at the Memphis office went to both effort and expense to keep the mails coming. They met every northbound and southbound train at Estelline to not only bring Memphis mail but Giles, Hedley, Jordan, Lelia Lake, Clarendon, Wellington and Quail mail to this city. From here it was trucked or sent by Star Routes to the post offices named. They had no instructions, or orders, to render such services but did it of their own free will as an attempt to carry on the same efficient service to which Memphis is accustomed.

The first Fort Worth and Denver train, following the flood of Wednesday night, pulled into Memphis Friday afternoon, fully twenty-four hours before it was expected. Efficient organization and workmanship on the part of the repair crews made this possible.

It takes such interruptions as those experienced last week for the average person to fully appreciate the efficient rail and mail service with which Memphis is blessed.

THE EASTERN PANHANDLE FLOOD

LAST WEEK'S FLOOD at Lelia Lake, Lakeview, and near Wellington resulted in the following editorial in the Wichita Daily Times. It is so pointed and expressive of The Democrat's viewpoint that it is presented here.

"The past week's story of flood damage in the eastern Panhandle was one that had been told before. The streams in that region do not often become troublesome. On the occasions when they do, the result is grievous damage to railroads and highways, attended sometimes by loss of life.

"One of Texas' many flood control projects involves the streams in that region. It is still in the preliminary stages. Last week's story may serve to speed up consideration of it and to emphasize the need of it. Like most flood control programs, that one calls for heavy expenditures; but the cost of it probably would not be much greater than that of the damage recently wrought.

"Texas does not have to put up with the recurring danger and destruction of its rampaging streams. The flood control job should be kept before it, in wet seasons and dry ones, until the program is completed."

COUNTY'S UNEMPLOYMENT RECORD GOOD

THE FINAL REPORT on the unemployment census, taken throughout the Nation in November was issued last week. It showed that only 261 able-bodied persons in Hall County, between 15 and 75 years of age, inclusive, were totally unemployed and wanting work.

Compared with the state as a whole, according to the report, Hall County showed not quite 2 per cent of its 16,966 inhabitants were totally unemployed whereas almost 4 per cent of Texas' population were entirely without work.

These figures speak well for Hall County, especially when it is recalled that many of those reported unemployed were adult persons living on the farm yet yearning to find city employment. Some of the number were from the ranks of the colored population. Others were those who never had a job any time and never wanted one.

After all, those totally unemployed and truly desirous of a job are comparatively few in this county.

Superstition evidently has no place in politics. Not one of the thirteen candidates for Governor has lost hope yet.

With thirteen dams planned for the Brazos River and a number along the Red River, Texas will soon be working alive with Dam Engineers.

CLAUDE'S Comments

J. C. W.

Upon returning to Memphis last Friday after a 10-day vacation, and a trip of 2,400 miles, I found that two mighty fine issues of The Democrat had been published in my absence, and I didn't know whether the office force would let me go back to work. They consented to put up with me as it was about time for the salary checks to be written. I find the best way to hold onto a job is to keep control of the check book. I also find the best way to get out a good paper is to leave town and the office force will do the job right.

The Commenter and better half left here Tuesday afternoon, June 7, for Port Arthur to attend the Texas Press Association convention June 9-10-11.

Port Arthur is a great convention city, since it is headquarters for several major oil companies and they don't mind spending money for entertainment. It is a city of more than 50,000 population, made up principally of employees of the oil companies. Three luncheons and a 25-mile boat trip up the Neches river to view the $2,750,000 Port Arthur-Orange bridge, were the feature entertainments by the companies, while the Port Arthur and Beaumont newspapers and the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce furnished a dinner-dance. We partook of the dinner and let the younger and more nimble editors dance.

I took along some fishing tackle, but found the big pond known as the Gulf of Mexico was all stirred up about something and fishermen were warned to stay on the shore, so the tackle stayed in the car. From then on there were plenty of lakes and rivers on the route that were said to be good fishin' holes, but the scenery was too beautiful for one to spend any time fishing.

Leaving Port Arthur Saturday afternoon immediately after the convention closed we started east, ferried across the Neches river, since the great bridge was not yet opened to traffic, went to Orange on the Texas side near the Louisiana line. This is the home of the famous Lutzer Stark who spends plenty of money on Boy Scout and other deserving organizations.

Then to Lake Charles, a fine city on the shore of a mirror-like lake said to be full of game fish and was dotted with motor and sail boats as we passed. It was in the vicinity of Lake Charles that we saw our first rice growing. The green stalks stick up out of the water and grow until ripening time, then the water is drained off and the crop harvested.

Jennings, Crowley, Eunice and Opelousas were given inspection in rapid succession, and the forests and swamps attracted more than passing attention until the Father of Waters, the Mississippi River, was reached and a ferry took us to the other shore where Hoey Long of recent fame ruled in Baton Rouge, the capital of Louisiana. Several hours were spent in this city. We saw the majestic capitol building which was erected to replace a great edifice which Long didn't consider good enough. At the foot of the capitol lawn lies the remains of the once domineering Huey. This shrine is daily visited by thousands of admirers, and shunned by thousands of other citizens who despised him.

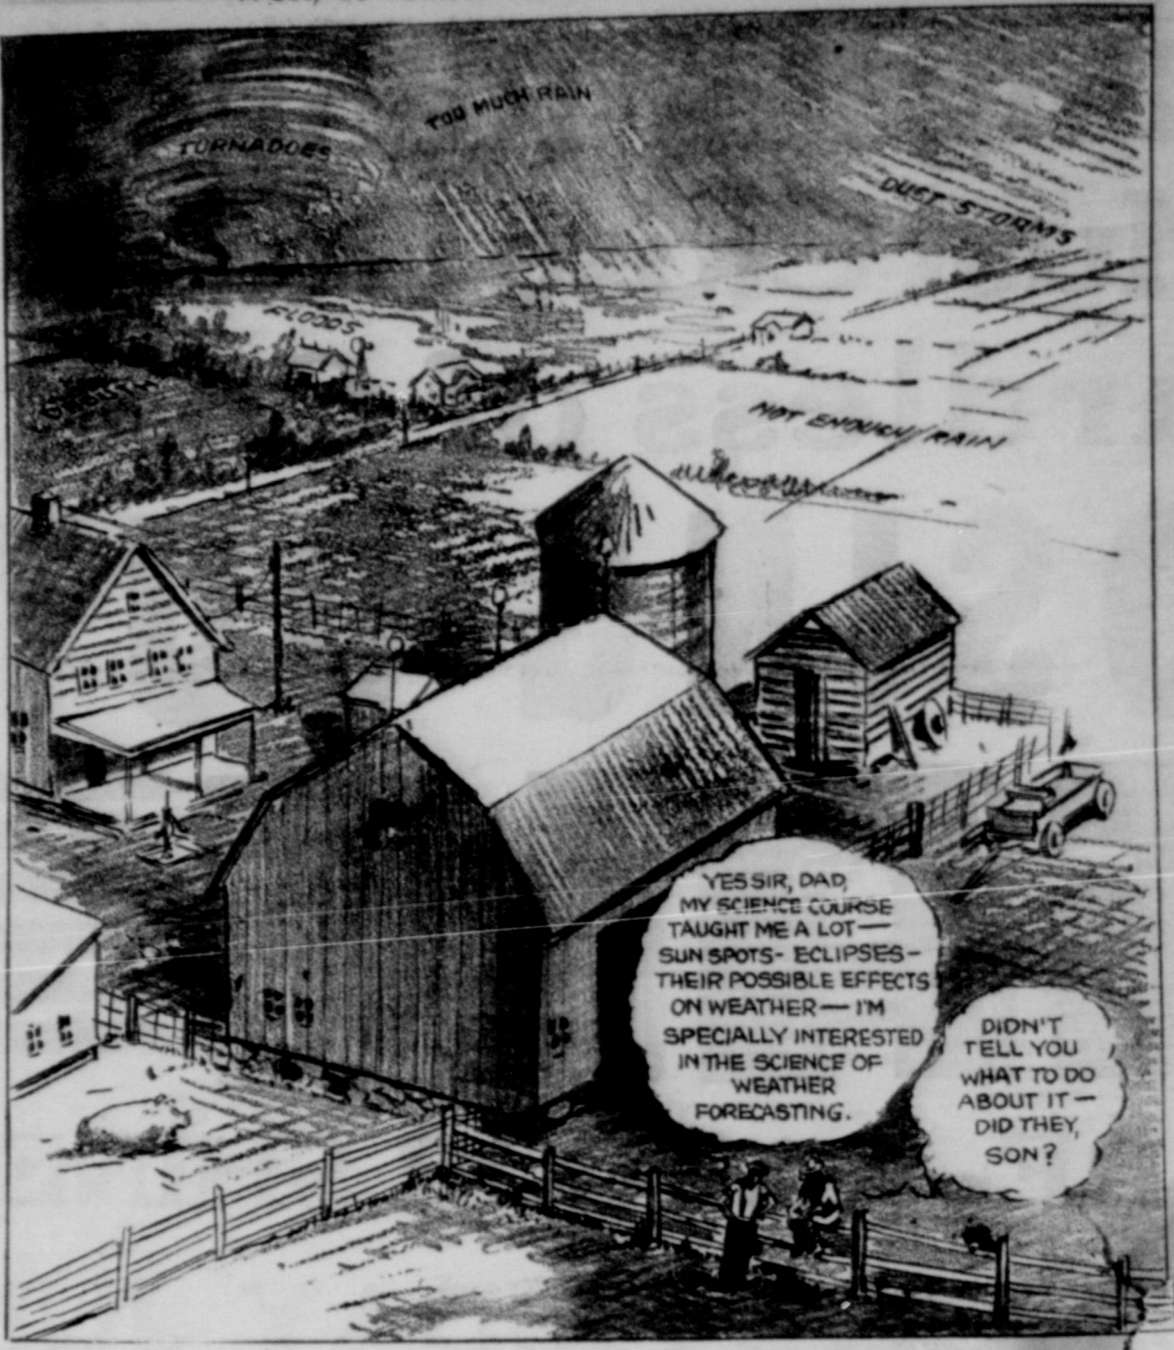

The Louisiana State University, one of the finest university plants in the South, was viewed with interest. Plenty of money was spent on this great school, and a guide said that it takes a lot to keep it going now due to politics. Other interesting places were visited in Baton Rouge and then we turned southeastward toward New Orleans.

Swamps, forests, sugarcane and soy bean fields and some cotton fields made the trip to the old French city one of more than passing pleasure.

The highway led to the approach of the great twelve-million-dollar bridge over the Mississippi near New Orleans built during Huey Long's administration. We drove across and then back on this four and one-half mile long bridge just to see it, and as we went to the western side a passenger train kept at our side just a few feet away and made such a racket that neither of us could talk and be heard. Other times it was touch and go as to who could claim with the most adjectives concerning the beauties and wonders of the trip.

It would take all of the columns of this issue to detail the things to be seen in New Orleans—the city that has plenty of history for her back ground; where Lafitte and Dominique You had their headquarters while playing privateers; where Jackson and other notable Americans fought the British; where Lafayette was feted by admiring people; where the old French quarters hold so much interest for visitors to this day; where the dead are entombed in vaults above ground; where the inhabitants drink their coffee mixed with chicory; where the great Tulane University is situated; where magnolias vie with other flowering trees and shrubs in trying to outdo the yard flowers in producing a picture that artists attempt but never succeed in painting; and where trees overhang the residential streets, making a veritable Lovers Lane for miles. Thousands of the inhabitants spend their Sundays and warm evenings on the shores of Lake Pontchartrain and Gulf of Mexico. The climate is superb at this time of year, and one could spend weeks in New Orleans and see many interesting things.

of more real enjoyment, mingled with a tinge of sadness brought about by memories of bygone years and homelike relatives near and dear. The relatives who remain are keeping green the history of the future generations, and are perpetuating the glorious days of the Old South when culture and refinement, courage and generosity, kindness and neighborliness meant more than the mad hunt for the elusive rainbow, which if found, does not satisfy, but leaves a craving for that fuller and deeper feeling that comes only after a life of service and sympathetic understanding. We learned to love these fine folks, and hope to again visit them when the rush of business will not call us home so soon.

All too soon the time came to leave these dear ones, and with sadness we turned homeward, coming by way of Corinth, Miss.; Selmer and Memphis, Tenn.; Little Rock, Ark.; Texarkana and Texas, and home to find that storms and floods had played havoc with people and property in our absence. And we had told the Mississippi folks that we live in a dry country!

At the regular June meeting of the Donley County Commissioners Court, it was voted to purchase a 120-foot right-of-way for the four-mile strip of farm-to-market hard-surfaced highway authorized by the 1937 federal roads appropriation, according to the Clarendon News.

The paving project will be the first construction on the route of Highway 88 south from Clarendon to Turkey, which designation was secured at the March session of the Highway Commission.

Oxford, the home of Mississippi State University, is an interesting place; but we did not tarry here for our objective was the New Albany and Booneville section of northeast Mississippi—the former home of the writer and his parents, and the present home of many relatives.

We spent two days visiting cousins, second cousins, and others of more remote kinship. Everywhere we went we were given royal welcome and treatment by people who are real folks in every sense of the word; folks who take time to be courteous and see that one's stay is pleasant and know how to get the most out of life, and who make other folks feel at home.

The farm where the writer helped Columbus discover America was visited. I didn't remember the place very well for my parents brought me out west when I was about 18 months old, and this was my first visit back there. The old cemetery was also visited where Grandfather Joe Wells, citizen, preacher and colonel in the Confederate Army, and Grandmother lie side by side awaiting the last trumpet call. Here also are buried uncles, aunts, cousins, and others of Father's and Mother's people. Would it be considered too sentimental to say that tears were shed as the inscriptions were read on the old tombstones? Never have we spent two days

Use Fly Traps To Protect Health

Now is the time to protect our family's health, according to Mrs. Juanita G. Butler, home management supervisor of the Farm Security Administration. After having the great amount of rain, flies and mosquitoes are much worse around our homes, especially the rural home, Mrs. Butler stated.

All the farm families cooperating with the Farm Security Administration are urged to make fly traps, one for the house and one for the barn. Also they are urged to repair or put on new screens on every window and door.

Fly traps are easily made by using an apple box and screen wire. Remove the bottom, then put screen on sides where top and bottom have been removed. Place large spoons at one end for legs. Also on this same end in the center cut a hole 4 or 5 inches in diameter. Make a funnel of screen wire and place in this hole with the point inside of the trap. The point of the funnel should have a small hole left in it for the flies to go through. Place a saucer of sweetened water or syrup on the floor beneath this hole in the trap to draw the flies to the trap.

Once or twice a week the trap should be cleaned, but be sure all flies are dead before opening. One may kill them by spraying with fly spray. When the flies are poured out they should be burned.

Mrs. Butler says there is to be a fly trap at every home cooperating with the Farm Security Administration, where it is possible, is one of their health goals.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Carlos and Miss Ruby Thornton left Monday for Estes Park, Colo., for a two months' vacation.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

To Secure Highway 88 Right-of-Way

At the regular June meeting of the Donley County Commissioners Court, it was voted to purchase a 120-foot right-of-way for the four-mile strip of farm-to-market hard-surfaced highway authorized by the 1937 federal roads appropriation, according to the Clarendon News.

The paving project will be the first construction on the route of Highway 88 south from Clarendon to Turkey, which designation was secured at the March session of the Highway Commission.

Oxford, the home of Mississippi State University, is an interesting place; but we did not tarry here for our objective was the New Albany and Booneville section of northeast Mississippi—the former home of the writer and his parents, and the present home of many relatives.

HALL COUNTY LEAGUE BASEBALL

Memphis and Salisbury caused upsets in the league this week by a complete reversal of tactics. In an 11-inning game, the Salisbury team won a close but decisive 5-4 victory over Cross Roads, and the prospective Memphis league champions permitted the hitherto unchallenged Hedley nine to run over them 8-2.

Still in first place, Memphis, however is now only a margin ahead of the Parnell team, which won another 11-inning game against Childress 11-9.

The game of June 12 between Salisbury and Hedley was forfeited to Salisbury at a meeting of managers of the league, running up the Hall County team's score to three wins and also awakening her hopes of getting out of the cellar position she has held all during the current season.

Team standings:
 Memphis 8 2 .800
 Parnell 7 3 .700
 Childress 5 5 .500
 Cross Roads 4 6 .400
 Hedley 4 6 .400
 Salisbury 3 7 .300

Next Sunday's games are Salisbury at Childress, Hedley at Cross Roads, and Memphis at Parnell.

Bird-Brand Cowboys to Appear in This City, and Territory, on July 1st and 2nd

One of the Southwest's most popular fiddle bands, the Bird-Brand Cowboys and Little Corinna, have been scheduled for personal appearances in Memphis and territory by their sponsors, the manufacturers of Bird-Brand Oil and Shortening for Friday and Saturday, July 1 and 2.

Originated over Radio Station WFAA at Dallas more than four years ago, the popularity of the band has been such that for a long period it was featured over the associated stations of the Texas Quality Network, making personal appearances only on a limited schedule.

In recent months, the Bird-Brand Cowboys have maintained a traveling assignment exclusively to meet the demand of grocers and jobbers for personal appearances. The popular quartet is now covering the largest territory of its experience. In the past four years the band has played for the majority of the Southwest from the Mississippi River to the Rocky Mountains and from Kansas to the Rio Grande River.

and every purpose. When we illustrate this ad with the picture of a tramp we do not mean to imply that you are a tramp or pauper who looks like the gentleman above. We are trying to emphasize the wide range of prices to be found on the various Seiberling Tires. If the gentleman above had need for a cheap yet serviceable tire, we have a genuine Seiberling he could afford to buy.

We feature other Seiberling treads at just a little more . . . and in still another price range . . . and still others that capitalists could afford.

If we haven't yet made it clear that "there is a Seiberling Tire for every purse and purpose" we invite you to come in and let us explain it further.

Paragraphs Culled from The Democrat's Exchanges

Trail Duet

Silence plays silver flutes in the symphony of peace when a prairie wind is in the lacy mesquites and the scent of wild mint lies close to the grass along the floor of red-shouldered arroyos. But sublime tranquility enters the serenade like the sound of a distant violin in the passive call of bobwhite. A strange sang-froid is embraced in the delicate timing which separates the two bland notes; a prayer drifts through the ajar window of heaven.—Douglas Meador in Matador Tribune.

Sissy Business Now

Running for office today is a sissy business compared to the time when candidates had to declare themselves irrevocably on local, state, and federal issues, and always had to be ready to defend themselves, in private and in public.

In those days the first thing a fellow did after making up his mind to run for office, even if only for Constable, was to ride over the county or district denouncing his opponent as he went and challenging him to a joint discussion and daring him to accept it.

At every joint discussion the hecklers were present, armed with a sheaf of affidavits setting forth the candidate's ignorance, his crookedness and total incompetency.

Frequently, hecklers from all parts of the audience would be shouting such questions as: "Where were you folks during the Civil War?"

"What do you think of the initiative referendum and recall?" "Give us your views on free silver."

"How do you stand on infant baptism and the perseverance of the saints?"—J. C. Collins in Vernon Times.

We noticed this about people who wear wrist watches. Every time they look at one they ask what time it is.—The Sandhill Sage in Paducah Post.

Sheep Staging Comeback

Sheep, then cattle, then hogs, seems to be the sequence followed by live stock when they stage a comeback in price after a slump the like of which we have had the past several months.

Sheep raisers who have the knack of handling them say they are the most profitable thing they've ever used as money makers on the farm. This would suggest there are some people who never can learn how to handle sheep, which, we are told, is a fact.

To get away from programs and allotments, fine points of the agricultural law and things of that kind, sheep (or most any other kind of live stock as a major) might be worth studying.

Sheep and wool usually point the way to changes in conditions, especially favorable changes.—Floyd County Hesperian.

The interest manifested, the sympathy expressed and the help actually rendered, deserve our life-long blessing and appreciation, which we give from our burdened hearts overwhelmed by the multitude of people so sincerely sympathetic and helpful. Our God will reward each of those who helped in so many ways. With sincerest appreciation, I. V. Freeman and Family, Crosbyton, Texas.

Year's Most Unique Commencement Class Obtained Degrees in Bryan U. Cellar

DAYTON, Tenn.—Up from the cellar come six local seniors this June, their college sheepskins in hand, to test hard-earned downstairs learning against the rigors of the upstairs world.

These young people are graduates of William Jennings Bryan University, the most unusual institution of higher education in America. The cellar is all that has ever been completed of the school.

TO honor fundamentalism's most illustrious defender, the university was started in 1930 with a drive to collect $5,000,000 and raise a building on that scale. A high and slightly wooded hill near Dayton was selected as the site.

But the depression came and the $5,000,000 did not. So Bryan got used to struggling along the best it could.

Today in nine rooms, partly finished but mostly with the bare tile walls of the building foundation, about half a hundred students and nine full-time teachers are struggling to realize Bryan's vision.

New students have been housed in an octagonal wood dormitory, built largely by the students themselves; women students live in a building at the foot of the hill.

At one end of the foundation of the main building, finished windows and neat shrubbery dress up the president's office. "Prexy" is Judson A. Rudd, 35-

Scopes case, the laboratory contains the long table at which Scopes taught evolution while an instructor in a Dayton high school.

WATER, backing up behind Chickamauga Dam, soaks the hilltop. But the school carries on cheerfully and hopefully.

A ladies' sextet from the university and a young men's choir of gospel singers are touring several states this summer in a fund drive. And President Rudd reports probable construction of a new men's dormitory and hopes for an increase in enrollment soon.
