Huey Returns To N. Orleans From Capital

Bodyguard Knocks Down Photographer As Picture Snapped Of Long

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Huey Long arrived in New Orleans Friday from Washington surrounded by bodyguards whose first act was to beat up Leon Trice, Associated Press news photographer, and smash his camera.

As Trice snapped a picture of Long stepping from the train, Joe Messina, the senator's chief bodyguard, struck him in the mouth.

Long shouted: "Give it to him Joe; do anything you want with him."

Messina then struck the photographer with a blackjack, knocking him down.

'Baby Bonds' Are Expected On March 1

WASHINGTON By George Dunno

Veto—The bonus boys are well on the way to beating themselves to death. With a procedure in each state, the Roosevelt administration has been surreptitiously slipping one faction a shillelagh one minute and tossing a truncheon to the other side immediately thereafter.

It is amazing how the lads are smashing away at each other's conks—and incidentally the prospect of any bonus legislation this session.

Some observers at this stage are inclined to doubt that the question of immediate cash payment will get to a final vote in the light of recent developments on Capitol Hill.

Others think the handwriting on the wall finally will get large enough for both sides to read and that after a bonus bill of all kinds.

It should the latter school of thought be correct, affairs have reached a stage now where a Presidential veto looks like a highbrow fence to a low hunder.

Kilkenny—The American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars are at odds over whether the Vinson bill or the Patman bill should be reported out in the House. Legion Commander Frank Belgrano, supporting the Vinson measure, is being attacked by Patman, who has the solid backing of the VFW.

There are a lot of undercurrents in the squabble between the two organizations upon which the brunt of the fight for cash payment must fall. VFW always has been for a cash bonus. The Legion has blown hot and cold on the subject—mostly cold until last fall's convention.

Being a smaller organization, VFW did not want to see the Legion grab credit for steering any bonus bill through Congress.

A special press agent was hired to din home the fact that VFW had been carrying the ball from the start. Furthermore many members of this organization looked suspiciously at the Legion's new life he had been connected with the Giannini bank interests in California. They didn't get it out of their heads that all bankers were supposed to be opposed to the bonus.

Seek To Prove Bruno Did Not Write Notes

Chief Defense Counsel Says Not Here To Prove Who Wrote Notes

FLEMINGTON, (AP)—Justice Thomas W. Trenchard announced Thursday there would be no court Saturday in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

FLEMINGTON, N. J. (AP)—John M. Trendley, handwriting expert, of East St. Louis, Illinois, defense witness, Friday disputed the opinion of eight state experts that Bruno Richard Hauptmann wrote the Lindbergh ransom notes.

The defense formally disclaimed any contention that the dead Isador Fisch might have written them.

A Christmas card was handed Trendley with a query if possible similarities existed between handwriting thereon and handwriting in the fourteen ransom notes which followed the kidnaping and slaying of the Lindbergh baby, of which Hauptmann is accused.

The state objected. The card was not immediately identified, although discussion following indicated it was from Fisch.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel argued: "We are not here to prove who wrote the ransom notes, but to prove that Hauptmann didn't write them."

Trendley testified the first ransom note, known as the nursery note, was written in a disguised hand, adding his opinion that the left hand may have been used some times.

New Addition For Wacker's Open Tonight

Public Invited To Attend Formal Opening—Souvenirs For All

Formal opening of the new and commodious quarters of G. F. Wacker Stores, at 210-212 Main street, will be held this evening from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock. Bill Edwards, manager of this concern, made the following statement Friday morning:

"Every one in the Big Spring territory cordially invited to our formal opening Friday evening 7:30 to 8:30. Nothing will be sold. We will give souvenirs to all. We wish to thank our many customers and other friends whose business and good will have made possible the opening of a store just twice as large as we used to operate. We want you to know that you always are welcome at our store, whether you wish to make a purchase or not. We want you to visit us every time you are in town."

The G. F. Wacker store, one of thirty-three stores operated in three states—Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico—was established in Big Spring in June, 1929. During this period the local store has enjoyed a steady growth, until larger quarters became necessary. The new quarters afford a space of 20,100 feet, with a basement of the same dimension, making the store approximately twice as large as before.

Workmen have been busily engaged for the past several weeks remodeling and renovating the new quarters, and this evening at 7:30 the new store will be thrown open to the public for inspection.

Kirby Russell To Be Buried In Big Spring

Kirby Russell, who was killed in an airplane crash on the Mexican west coast near San Ignacio Thursday, according to dispatches out of Mazatlan, will be brought here for burial.

He is the son of Mrs. E. H. Russell and a brother of Mrs. Willard Read and Mrs. Mignonne Crunk of Big Spring.

Dispatches out of Mexico, D. F. said that Russell was engaged in carrying supplies to a mining camp when his plane crashed.

Friday afternoon Eberly Funeral Home had been unable to get messages to the remote San Ignacio with instructions to ship Russell's body. It was estimated that it would be at least a week or ten days before he would be interred here.

Word of his death first reached here in a message from Mrs. Kirby Russell in California.

C. E. Anderson Gets Fifteen Years For Murder Of Grocer

DECATUR (AP)—C. E. Anderson, Friday was convicted of slaying U. E. Byers, grocer at Bridgeport, Lake, and sentenced to fifteen years in the state prison.

Approval of the city street paving project submitted Jan. 21 by Big Spring as a relief-work project has been given by the state administration.

Type of pavement will depend upon the traffic record of the streets. In strictly residential districts a two-course asphalt topping on a gravel or caliche base will be laid. Where traffic is heavier, a three course topping will be laid. Cost to the property owners will be approximately 50c per foot. Thus, a person with a fifty foot front would be required to pay only $25 for the paving.

Width of the streets will be 22 feet. In addition to this concrete buttments will be laid to prevent the asphalt topping from raveling. When the actual topping program starts, the city will advance a price per square foot for which it will connect drive ways with the street. Inexpensive paving to curbs is being considered.

"Among the streets to be paved will be the city park road and the road to the cemetery, if cooperation is had from interested parties, it was said.

First phase of the paving project will be rock crushing. While this is going on, the city will be preparing grade and other data. Laying and rolling of base will come next. Finally, the topping will take place.

It is anticipated that work of crushing rock will start as soon as the relief administration has readjusted itself to new arrangements set for Friday.

Total labor cost for the project will amount to $36,410, of which amount $26,952 will go for unskilled labor.

Continuation of the project, even after its present scope has been filled, is predicted since the city has equipment and much material needed for the program.

Local Loopers Hold Wide Edge
 The Big Spring Steers and Colorado Wolves, traditional basketball rivals, will resume hostilities tonight on the local hardwood at 7:45.
 Although the Steers topped the Colorado tournament several weeks ago they did not meet the Wolves last Tuesday. Brown took his proteges to the Wolf lair and scored an easy 29 to 13 victory. The present Colorado team is considerably weaker than clubs of the past few years, but has been improving rapidly, and Coach Reese expects to have a fairly strong contender for district honors.
 The probable starting line-up for the Wolves will be: forwards—Cooper and Cox; center—Rankin; guards—Foster and Hughes.
 Coach Brown, hampered by lack of suitable reserve material, continues to rely mainly upon Sam and Bob Flowers, forwards; Cor-dill, center, and Wilson and Fitzgerald at guard positions. Heavy drilling the past few days got rid of a great amount of sluggishness that marred the Steers' performance in several games.
 Admission for tonight's fray will be ten and twenty-five cents.

WHERE ARE WE HEADED?
 (By A. G. (Pat) Mayo)
 Publisher Paris Evening News

Let us not forget that we live in the richest and most resourceful nation on the face of the earth. Americans can and will pay the staggering debt occasioned by the gigantic depression from which we are now steadily and surely emerging. It will be a simple matter to pay those who gradually become able to pay. The trouble has been that the major portion of the income of the nation has gone to the "forgotten man" who has constituted a larger audience than we have generally thought of. Call it what you will, but we are headed from a lot of things toward which many favored faces have been turned for years past and we are headed in a direction that will enable many to make an about-face and march with brighter countenance and lighter heart, toward greater security and happiness and opportunities they have never known before.

We are headed away from the day when mighty men of finance can gather in a room in Wall Street and make millions by a few simple agreements and manipulations on watered stocks and bonds. We are headed toward the day when those who help to create the wealth shall share more fairly that wealth than they have in the past. We are headed toward the day when rural America will be relieved of some of the drudgery suffered since men first scratched the soil to create the greatest source of wealth known to the nation. We are headed toward the goal of modern convenience in rural homes, when the wives of American farmers, who are relieved of some of the burdens they bear when the sons and daughters of our farmers may be more nearly on a par with the children of those who reside in the cities—when higher educational advantages will be as open to the boy and girl out on the farm as in the city—when the farmer may have at least some reasonable assurance that his product will not be the dice and caprice of gamblers, but will be a commodity he can and will produce at a fair and reasonable profit to himself. We are headed for the day when electric lights will shine in the farm homes and with power rates he can afford to pay—and not only for light but for his machinery, his refrigeration and other conveniences now found in the cities.

We may be headed for, more or less, "government in business," but it will be only to the extent necessary to insure some of the comforts now denied the masses and which they have reason to expect. An example of some of the remedial steps being taken is seen in the Tennessee Valley Authority through which the Federal Government is

Radford Grocers Climb Loop Ladder

The Radford Grocers had plenty of trouble with White's Cowhands Thursday night but clicked off a 31-23 victory. The latest conquest of the Grocers enabled them to better their chances at the league championship and trophy which will be awarded to the top ranking team at the end of the season. The Radford victory showed them into a tie for the top slot along with the Dixie Bakers, who defeated the Flowermen five on Wednesday night to take the loop lead.

"Grandfather Spike" Henninger, sportman and man-about-town, showed surprising activity for a man who has seen so many winters. Henninger took high honors for the Cowhands with six points. The Oiler, manager was also rough on the opposition, two personal fouls being marked against him. Marshall tallied 12 points to lead the victors while Neel took runner up honors with seven. B. Wilson, Cowhand pivot man, fouled out late in the game and left the jumping duties to Davenport.

Jennings and Crow Looking Over West Texas Athletes

Morley Jennings, Baylor U. football coach, and Jim Crow, freshman mentor, spent Thursday afternoon in Big Spring with friends. The two are making a swing through West Texas looking over the athlete crop of this section. From here they went to Lamesa and on to Amarillo.
 The Baylor schedule does not include an inter-sectional game for next year because Morley does not think his material good enough to advance out of his own circuit. It could only cause this section a loss in prestige, he thinks. However, he has a prominent eastern university on the spring for 1936 in Dallas and for the following year in New York. Consequently he is anxious to build up with good material.

Bear Outlook Dim
 Jennings doesn't have any hopes of doing wonders next year. His crop is no better than last year but the freshman crop was some better. In the mind of Jennings, easily four of the seven teams in the conference last year could have won the title if they had hit upon the right year. "The team we had last year could have won easily three or four of its conference games in 1931," he said, "but last year the conference was the strongest I believe it has ever been."

Morley had plenty of praise for the Rice team. He said it had everything needed for a team including plenty of power and lots of speed. In some other year he thinks Ray Morrison's Mustangs could have taken the crown without trouble. And, to his way of thinking, Texas could have done the same, and with a few breaks the Frogs and Hogs might have slipped into the promised land.
 Jim Crow shares the view of a

San Angelo school officials, have informed George Gentry, chairman of the district 3 committee, that they are opposed to having Lubbock in this circuit.

 It remains for Big Spring to decide the issue, and local officials have intimated that they favor the addition of another team to this trip. However, the matter will probably be decided at a committee meeting.

TODAY and TOMORROW By WALTER LIPPMANN

A New Deal in Japanese-American Relations

Among events that are supposed to be in the long run inevitable it has been the fashion to place a war between Japan and the United States high up on the list. The feeling that such a war is predestined has existed for a generation. It comes in the acknowledged fact that Japan is a young empire in the sense of expansion and it has been supposed that at some point Japan's advance there would be checked and a war of annihilation like that between Rome and Carthage in ancient times, between England and Spain in the sixteenth century, between Britain and Germany in the great war.

Always and everywhere it has been assumed that historic destiny had cast the United States for the part of the leading opponent of the Japanese advance, and the foreign policies of all the governments concerned with the Pacific, including our own, have been based on this supposedly self-evident idea. Thus, it was President Wilson who stood out against the "Twenty-One Demands." It was Secretary Hughes who undertook to fix the ratio for the Japanese navy. It was Secretary Stimson who led the opposition to the conquest of Manchuria. It was Secretary Hull who found himself protesting against the Japanese oil monopoly in Manchuria. And in the early phase of the recent naval negotiations in London it was the Americans who held the center of the stage as the supposedly lone opponents of an equal navy for Japan.

This basic assumption, that the Far East question is predominantly a conflict between Japan and America, has become so thoroughly accepted that no one is supposed to examine it. The result has been to concentrate upon the relations between Tokyo and Washington all the suspicion and fear which are produced by Japan's expansion. Within the last few months, however, there has become noticeable in American official policy a disposition to re-examine this idea, and then to challenge it. It marks a development of the very highest importance.

To appreciate it one must look below the surface of the recent naval negotiations carried on by Mr. Norman H. Davis. The outward facts are that the Japanese asked for naval equality based upon the abolition of naval ships with offensive power at long range. This demand was refused and the Japanese have recently denounced the proposed naval armaments limitation has not brought them any nearer to naval equality. The United States and Great Britain are richer than Japan and can always outbuild Japan. If a treaty we can therefore afford a five-to-three ratio anyway and we could, if we wished, increase our relative strength. Japan, without a treaty, can not be sure that she can have a fleet which is relatively as large as the one she has now. For a treaty of limitation limits the stronger power and strengthens the weaker. The Japanese naval authorities will gradually learn to appreciate the truth that it was not Japan but the United States which surrendered potential naval strength by accepting the treaty. Japan is undoubtedly a stronger naval power today than she would have been without the Washington treaty. For she has built up near to the limits of her resources and we have not. To give Japan a better ratio by treaty would have been to make Japan stronger by agreement than should could hope to become without an agreement.

Up to this point the whole thing has the look of being just another chapter in American resistance to the creation of a Japanese empire in Asia and the western Pacific. But along with a firm refusal to strengthen Japan, Mr. Davis took a line in London, which is something quite new in American Far Eastern diplomacy. In effect, he served notice that we do not intend to play the part of Japan's leading and solitary opponent in Asia because it is not in our national interest to play that part. This is the most momentous event that has happened in our Far Eastern relations since the time of John Hay.

The new American position is based upon a prosaic and candid reconsideration of the facts. They are, in brief, as follows: Our interests in the Far East are about one-sixth as great as those of Britain; among all the foreign nations interested in China we have about one-sixteenth of the total investments. The American attitude toward the defense of economic interests in Asiatic waters may be measured by the decision to withdraw from the Philippines and our willingness to have undefended our line of communications to the Far East. Among the Chinese areas threatened by Japan there is, first, Manchuria, where American investments are relatively unimportant. Then there is Shanghai, where the British interest is more than seven times as great as ours. Then there is the rest of China, including Hongkong, where the British interest is more than four times as great as ours. Outside of China, the territories which are, in the long run, most threatened by Japanese expansion, because they contain so many resources necessary to Japanese imperialism, are the Dutch East Indies, and they are primarily the concern of the Netherlands, and in the last analysis of Great Britain.

Good News for FEBRUARY SHOPPERS

Menus Of The Day

The daring young man on the flying trapeze whose ease of motion had all the world singing about him, has nothing on the cooks who do their cooking without cooking. Which, to the reader who "ships" will sound like a misprint but it really is a very good trick if you can do it!

Like your bargain sweater, the secret is unraveled on the uncooked dainties, which require no tending, no watching, no stove!

In Water, Too

Past mistresses have conquered the art for summer time use and let their refrigerators do the work. We should do the same in the winter time, only let the sun help us, too, by supplying us with dried fruits which have already been "cooked" by its heat. Apricots, dried peaches, figs, and raisins belong to this family, but the most versatile and most delicious dried fruit is the golden date, which will serve from breakfast through dinner in hundreds of ways. Once on a time we considered dates a luxury and ate them only during the holidays but now their new low price makes them always available and we recognize them as necessary to the regular menu for the vitamins and minerals they contain. Besides, they taste so good!

Of course, in addition to the sun-dried fruits, the canned fruits and juices are always with us, and, to help get with the main course there are a variety of pre-cooked meats.

Date Marshmallow Whip
2-3 cup pasteurized dates (sliced).
1-3 cup nutmasts
2-3 cup marshmallows
1-4 teaspoon vanilla
8 lady fingers or strips of sponge cake.

Cut the dates and marshmallows in quarters with wet scissors; chop the nuts coarsely. Whip the cream; fold in the flavoring, dates, marshmallows and nuts (which have been chopped). Chill thoroughly. Line stemmed glass, serving dishes with 2-3 fingers split in half or with sponge cake. Heap the cream mixture into the glasses. Top with a small piece of date or nut meat. 4 servings.

Cranberry Snow
2 eggs white
1 cup cranberry sauce.

You will find it most economical to buy the 17-oz. can of strained cranberry sauce. Beat a cup of the sauce with a fork until smooth; beat the egg whites until stiff; add the cranberry sauce gradually, beating after each addition. Pile the whip in tall stemmed glasses. Chill thoroughly. Serve with whipped cream. 6 servings.

Gingerale Fruit Cup
Arrange orange sections, slices of canned pear, diced canned pineapple and sliced pasteurized dates in a bowl in the refrigerator for 1-2 hours, to allow flavors to mix thoroughly. When ready to serve, arrange in glass fruit cups, pour gingerale in each cup and garnish with bits of preserved ginger.

Rice Dainty
2 cups boiled rice
1-2 cup cubed canned pineapple
1-2 cup apricot pulp
1 cup whipping cream
24 marshmallows
1-2 cup chopped nutmasts.
Shredded coconut.

Mix rice, fruit, marshmallows and sugar together and chill thoroughly. Add nuts and fold in whipped cream just before serving. Garnish with coconut and candied cherry or bit of pineapple, or nutmeat.

Green Gage Cream Sherbet
12 canned green gage plums
1-4 cup powdered sugar
1-2 cup plum juice
1-2 cup white karo
Few grains salt
1 cup heavy cream
Drain plums and reserve 1-2 cup of the juice. Rub stoned plums through coarse strainer. Add powdered sugar and stir until dissolved. Combine the plum juice, karo and salt. Blend well, add to plum and sugar mixture and allow to stand for a few minutes. Add unbeaten cream in thin stream, stirring into refrigerator tray and freeze gently all the time. Pour at once quickly. 1 quart.

Frozen Fruit Salad
1 No. 1 can grapefruit
1 No. 2 can mixed fruit.
1 cup diced celery
1 cup sliced pasteurized dates
1 cup chopped almonds
1 cup mayonnaise
1-2 cups heavy cream, whipped
Drain the canned fruits thoroughly, cut in small pieces, then combine the fruits, celery and almonds. Add whipped cream to the mayonnaise. Add the cream and mayonnaise to the fruits. Pack in the trays of mechanical refrigerator, or in a tightly sealed mold in a mixture of ice and salt, until frozen. Unmold. Serve on a lettuce leaf and garnish with a small amount of cream mayonnaise. 12-14 servings.

To Beat. Use an up-and-down motion which will enclose air in food and make it "light."

To Chop Nuts. Break small quantities in fingers; use wooden bowl and chopping knife for larger quantities.

To Oil Pans. Dip soft-bristled brush in mazelin and brush bottom and sides of pans. (Boil brush frequently in soapuds to keep clean.)

To "Chop" Dates. Cut dates with wet scissors. (Marshmallows also are chopped this way.) Don't wash dates; buy the clean pasteurized fruit.

To Mince Onions. Cut an end slice from peeled onion, and cut exposed surface into thin squares to any desired depth; then cut crosswise in thin slices.

To Dredge with Flour. Sprinkle flour from shaker-top can or from sifter over food to be coated.

To "Fluff" Rice. Turn cooked rice into colander and run hot water through to wash off extra starch; then cover colander with cloth and set over deep pan of boiling water to steam and dry out or "fluff."

To Toast Coconut. Spread shredded fresh-keeping coconut in thin layer in shallow pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until golden brown. Stir frequently to prevent scorching.

To Pit Dates. Hold pasteurized date between thumb and forefinger of left hand. Make slit with small vegetable knife; insert left thumb and roll out pit.

To Make "Refrigerator" Desserts. Substitute white karo for half the sugar called for, to make "smooth" parfaits, mousses and ice creams.

ture and flavor with two tablespoons finely chopped preserved ginger. Freeze to consistency of sherbet in automatic refrigerator.

INTERNATIONALISM
In Sweden it's "smorgasbord" its "hors d'oeuvres" and over here they are "appetizers" or "relishes" which prove the first course tidbits are popular everywhere. New this season are the boxes of assorted pastes and spreads, featuring those made from bloaters, sardines, anchovy and ham, and also new to accompany the dish of "spread," are dainty toasted wafers known as muffin crumps, which are crisp and crunchy and, if your first course features a "borscht," too, are found to be the ideal accompaniment to any cup that cheers.

GINGERBREAD BETTY IS NEW
Apply Betty, Brown Betty, Cherry Betty — and now comes Gingerbread Betty to join the ranks. Easy to manage, this modest little newcomer is perfect for cold-dish menus. To have her, save a cup of crumbs from your gingerbread. Dissolve a package of orange gelatin in a cup of boiling water. Add 1-2 cup cold water, 1-4 cup sweetened applesauce, 1-4 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Chill. When it begins to thicken add gingerbread crumbs, then mold and chill until firm. To make your gingerbread in the first place, simply use a package of the Washington recipe gingerbread mix and prepare by adding a cup of water to the contents of the package before baking.

Tips For The Person Who Lunches Alone

"Half-hearted nibbling," as indulged in by half the housewives of the land at luncheon time, is the latest habit to win the frowns of the nutritionist. All too often the woman who will spare neither time nor trouble in preparing toothsome meals for her family, who will hand out quantities of advice to those who have luncheon in restaurants, and will spend hours in getting ready the children's noontime repast, will grab for herself just "any old thing" for her own luncheon. The nutritionists don't like it, and if the truth were out, neither do the women who persist in doing it!

Psychology, No Less!
Lunch time should be a time of relaxation and comfort, a little time apart for one's own self. The psychologists insist that this is important, that it will reward you with a new calm and happiness. The dietitians claim it will help you to be healthier and to finish up the day with less fatigue. To test these promises, prepare yourself an attractive tray of good food, carry it to the living room and enjoy yourself at ease, the while you have your lunch.

No Extra Work
Utilize the "dibs" and leftovers by all means, but serve them in palatable form. Just by the simple process of cooking "one extra" you can have a delicious "lone lunch." For instance, when you bake potatoes for the family, save one for yourself. When ready, cut one in half, scoop out the pulp, add butter and seasoning, moisten with milk, add a little cheese if you like and reheat in the oven. Combine the left-over vegetables with scrambled eggs; use the extra half-grapefruit from the sandwich. Dates, combined with milk, made a delicious addition to a bowl of cereal and milk for luncheon.

Hints for "Cooking Extra"
1. Save a little batter from your breakfast waffles. Add a half-cup of cooked rice to the batter and bake on a hot waffle iron. Serve with sauce.

2. If you have a tomato in the refrigerator, drop it in boiling water for a minute, then plunge into cold water. This will enable you to remove skin easily. Then dip in a beaten egg, roll in bread crumbs and fry in mazelin until brown. Or broil in oven with grated cheese on top. This is especially good with a slice of cold meat.

3. Make your dinner dessert early and use part of it for your lunch. Especially adaptable for this purpose is a "Cake Sandwich." Prepare coffee kumeral for dinner, using a half-cup of left-over breakfast coffee in place of half the milk called for in directions. Reserve a little for yourself, and put it between ladyfingers, nabiscos or a split slice of sponge cake.

4. When you do your morning baking make your luncheon dessert by wrapping a strip of left-over pastry around a pasteurized date which has been stuffed with a nutmeat or bit of canned pineapple. Pinch edges together and bake in a hot oven for 10 to 15 minutes. These are also excellent for the lunch box.

NEW PROPOSED BILL WILL BOOST MOTORING COSTS

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Passage of a bill now before Congress will increase motoring costs $720,000,000 annually, the Keystone Automobile Club charges.

The measure, if passed will boost major fuel prices an average of five cents per gallon and call for a 36 per cent blend of alcohol with the gasoline. The blend will cut the mileage yield four per cent. Bureau of Standards tests show, and necessitate consumption of more gas.

The bill was introduced as an agency of farm relief.

The Idaho department of agriculture has planted a sapling from the first apple tree which grew in the state 97 years ago and will preserve it for posterity.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrects Constipation*

An enthusiastic and voluntary letter: "We have a daughter who has been troubled all her life with constipation." About three months ago, we discovered ALL-BRAN. From that day to now we have not given her any form of laxative.

We have become "ALL-BRAN" users, and now it is a part of our daily diet. We have told many of our friends and they, too, are getting results. — Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Pope, 562 Maple Ave., Elmira, N.Y.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this food much pleasanter and safer than risking patent medicines? Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

EPISCOPALIANS TO INSTALL NEW RECTOR IN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES SUNDAY MORN.

Bishop Seaman Of Amarillo To Be On Hand To Take Charge; History Of Church Related

At eleven o'clock Sunday morning the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Mary's, the Virgin, Big Spring, will become a full-fledged self-supporting parish church, instead of the mission chapel it has been for the last fifty years.

Bishop E. Cecil Seaman of Amarillo will be on hand to conduct the colorful and impressive ceremonies that will install the first pastor of the church entitled to be called rector—the Rev. P. Walter Henckell, B.D.

Mr. Henckell arrived in Big Spring Friday morning and has taken up his residence in the rectory. He comes here from St. James' church, Dalhart which he served for 15 months.

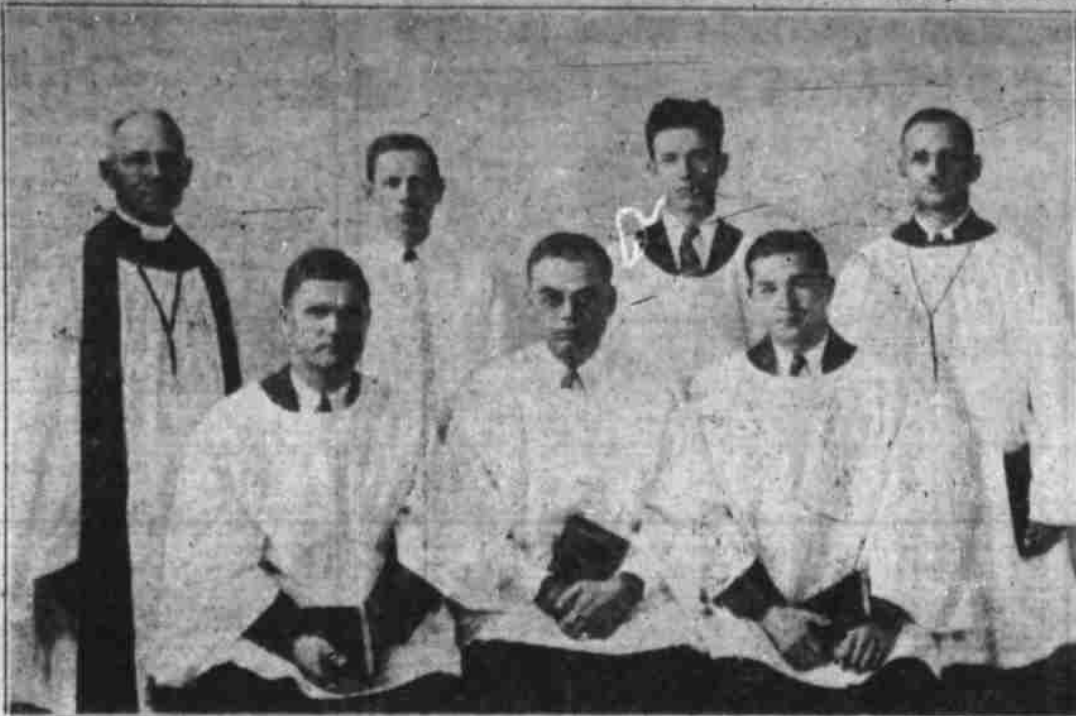

Mr. Henckell is the youngest minister ever to serve St. Mary's. He breaks the line of older men who in recent years have been dispatched to missionary work in the far-flung boundaries of this West Texas parish. He comes well-equipped educationally for his work and

He will also serve the Midland church and will have charge of the missionary work begun by the Rev. W. H. Martin.

St. Mary's History
Mr. Henckell comes to a church whose history extends back almost to the beginning of the town's history. Legend has it that the rocky hillside on which the first St. Mary's was erected was donated to the little congregation by the Earl of Aylesford, whose short colorful career is remembered by oldtimers. But the county records show that the land was bought by H. Clay Read from the T. & P. Railroad and passed through several other hands before it became church property. Oldtimers, who remember the notorious Earl of Aylesford and his English chaplain, say that the Earl did nothing whatever for the local church and his name is not connected with any donation in its history.

The late Rt. Rev. Alexander C. Garrett, the beloved pioneer bishop of West Texas was the first Episcopalian of early days to interest himself in the spiritual welfare of this town. He had a huge missionary range to cover, that active old man who died only a few years back. The 12,000 square miles that compose the present mission territory of St. Mary's, dwindles in insignificance beside all the western states from the border of Mexico to Canada, which Bishop Garrett served theoretically. He lived in Dallas and covered

LOCAL MEN WHO ACT AS LAYLEADERS AT ST. MARY'S

The corps of lay readers of St. Mary's Church. This picture was taken while Rev. Mr. Martin and his son, Wayne, were residents of Big Spring. The remaining five have carried on the services in Big Spring, Midland and Odessa, during the seven months that have intervened since Mr. Martin moved away. The lay readers are not ministers or prospective ministers, but laymen who have been licensed to read the Episcopal service. They will continue to assist the new rector on such occasions as he may need them, but their responsibility of carrying on the services is past. They are: standing, The Rev. Mr. Martin, Wayne Martin, R. C. Utley, Dr. Amos R. Woods; seated, H. S. Faw, Seth H. Parsons and Jack Hodges.

most of his territory by horseback. He was bishop also of Wyoming and Montana, but he confined his activities to Texas, Big Spring being his western limit.

Roll of Vicars
He organized the church of St. Mary the Virgin and came here to baptize, confirm and administer holy communion. Succeeding him were Revs. Tearne, Higgins and J. E. H. Galbraith, all of whom resided in Colorado.

After the rectory was built the Rev. M. E. Burch was the first Episcopal minister to reside in Big Spring. He was succeeded by the elderly Mr. Sanford and Mr. Hennessy. During Mr. Hennessy's pastorate Dr. Williams, an archbishop, visited the town for confirmation Sundays and baptisms, the only archbishop in the history of St. Mary's.

Probably best remembered of the vicars was the Rev. Mr. Weisenbach, who served the church during the stormy, unhappy war days and left a lasting memorial in the artistic stenciling he did for the chancel. The church symbols he painted still form the decorative motif for the walls. It is said that Mr. Weisenbach today is rector of an Episcopal church in Germany.

The Rev. Frank Eldson was the first minister to remain for so long a period as four years. He was succeeded by the Rev. Frank Steadman, a New Englander, who was responsible for the erection of the parish house.

The Rev. Mr. Martin who followed him, served five years and was dean of Big Spring clergymen when he left. During his stay the church building was remodeled, the choir loft enlarged and the windows arched in their present Gothic form.

Devoted Women
The real history of St. Mary's the Virgin is a history of devoted women who worked behind the scenes—with a vicar when there was one and alone in the long periods that the church has had leadership. Not until Mr. Martin's day had there been an active corps of men to act as lay readers and carry on the services during the preacher's intervals.

The best entertainment in town were the shows given by the Guild, as the organization of Episcopal women was known before it became the auxiliary. Many people still recall the stirring performances given in the old opera house. The shows were so popular that one time on a repeat performance the Episcopalian made enough money to buy the town a hearse, the first it ever owned.

The responsibility of keeping the building clean was also the women's. Among that active group many now passed on were: Meses. Steve Tamsitt, Aaron Taylor, M. I. Garrett, Will Potten, in addition to others still residing here.

The cyclone of 1894 blew down the first building, a frame Gothic structure, which the present building greatly resembles.

Memorial
The women helped the men to raise enough money to pay the building debt on the new building and have ever since been active in its interests. It is a church of memorials to active members who have died. The Altar Cross is the memorial to Miss Amelia Rix; the electric cross on the steeple was given by V. Van Gieson and Mrs. J. B. Young as a memorial to their mother, Mrs. M. I. Garrett; seven women gave the windows; they were Meses. M. I. Garrett, J. B. Young, Aaron Taylor, Will Potten, W. H. Homan, Will Vaughn now of Fort Worth and Akin.

The most recent memorial is the brass cross given by the Auxiliary in memory of the late Mrs. W. H. Martin.

The church has never lacked for musicians to play the difficult ritual melodies that are so necessary to its form of worship. The late W. R. Dawes, well-known Big Spring pianist served until his health forced him into retirement.

Mrs. O. L. Thomas succeeded him with Miss Elsie Willis also serving. Mrs. M. H. Bennett became organist when the Thomas family moved to Fort Worth. The present corps of lay readers first formed a male quartet for the church; their interest in the services grew out of their love of music. With the coming of C. A. Bulot, present choir director, the choir has been doubled in number.

Ruth Class Has Surprise Shower

Members of the Ruth Class surprised their teacher, Mrs. E. Reagan, by a handkerchief shower Thursday afternoon when they held their regular business and social meeting.

The gifts were presented in Valentine form with the inscription "To the Ruth Class Valentine." During the business session Mrs. Brigham poured coffee in the dining room which was passed with pie. The singing table was spread with lace. A fruit centerpiece added a lovely color note.

Attending the meeting were: Meses. P. E. Lee, J. E. Brigham, W. W. McCormick, Frank Welch, Joe Ciere, W. W. Pendleton, W. B. Younger, L. R. Kuykendall, M. M. Manell, Tom Cantrell, S. A. McCombs, M. L. W. Croft, manager of H. H. Herdin Lumber company, accompanied by Herbert and Hubert Johnson of the paint department of this concern, have returned from Abilene, where they attended a general sales meeting held by the Cook Paint & Varnish company, whose products the local company handles. The local company led other company yards in the state in December, showing the greatest percentage increase in paint sales, according to figures revealed at the sales meeting.

Montana Rides Again
A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

Chapter Five BRONCHO MUSTING

Down in the corral, Tombstone Joe walked backwards and looked over the mare. Now that he had snubbed her against the post, other men were blindfolding her, working on bridle and saddle. Ransome, the gray-headed ranch foreman, was in charge of this business. "What you think of her, Tombstone?" asked Ransome. "Half dynamite and half wild-cat!" said Tombstone. "She's too pretty to be good."

His eyes were on the mare. She was waiting patiently, submitting to the darkness that enveloped her eyes, muffled her thought. And yet there was danger in her patience.

The Kid knew it. He kept tasting her strength and her speed as he had tested them since the day when he started with many men on her trail. The length of that trail had caused the third post-

Tombstone turned sharply around to rebuke the speaker. Then he saw that it was the Kid, and instead of answering he rubbed his jaw slowly, as though he had been hit there on a day. The Kid did not smile. His brown, handsome face remained perfectly calm, but as he stared at the mare the blue of his eyes burned paler and brighter continually. He pushed his hat back from his forehead and showed the blue-black or streaked hair. He was so dark that he looked almost like a Mexican. Only in moments of excitement the blue of his eyes turned bright and pale. He was like the midget, big, but with sinews and proportions that made him look swift and light.

"This here streak," said Tombstone, "I'll take you far, all right; I'll take you to hell, but it might leave you there." The Kid fapped the ashes from his cigarette and made no answer.

The Kid, "Well, what you think?" "She's a sweetheart," said the Montana Kid. He eased himself down from the fence. The side of the fence he was on was the inside.

They were snubbing the mare close up to the post again. Ransome grabbed Montango's arm. "Look out," he said. "Don't you be a damn fool. Keep away from temptation." The Kid looked down at Ransome's hand. Ransome took it away. "We'll just have a look-see," said the Kid. "You been and promised Miss Ruth?" said Ransome, huskily. "Did I?" said the Kid, absently. He walked around the front of wardly. The devil was quiet in her, waiting. Some one said, from the fence, "He could handle fire, but not that fire." Another man said: "What's her name? What you gonna call her, Montana?" "You better call her before you're dead," said another. "Her name's Sally," said the Kid, gently. He smiled beautifully at the man on the fence. He included them all in the gentleness of his glance. They feared him so much that they almost hated him; but because they loved him, also, no man smiled back. "Why call her Sally?" asked Ransome, the foreman. "I knew a gal called Sally once," said the Kid. "Did she look like this mare?" asked Ransome. "She wore black silk stockings all around, like this one," said the Kid, gently. Tombstone Joe was fitting himself carefully into the saddle. Montana said, "Watch her, Joe." "Who the hell is giving me advice?" asked Tombstone. "Scolding at the ground, slithering sideways, plowing up the dust. With the last flopping turn it appeared as the body of a man. The clothes were white with dust. The face was black with it. Up on the veranda the girl screamed, but no one turned to look towards her. She had not screamed because Tombstone was on the ground, sprawling. The cry came from her when she saw Montana leave the fence as a puma leaves a hough for a hill. (To be continued)

The mimeographs have been grinding furiously. The Vinson bill presumes that Congress will provide some method of taxation to make the two billion dollar payment. Patman's measure—which passed the House last year—would perform the trick by simply printing new money to the amount needed.

Naturally, the administration wants to see the Vinson bill reported out. If it is, good-by bonus. Mr. Roosevelt will demand that noyed—is probably rather grateful for the seasonal pressure. It affords an excellent excuse for not naming R. Bane. Mr. Bane as the Commission's Executive Administrator—was supposed to have the inside track but has been derailed. Why? The grapevine says it's because he is sponsored by Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia. Considering their records on the New Deal that might be interpreted as reason enough.

On the Far Western hypothesis Frank C. Shaughnessy—vice president of the San Francisco Stock Exchange—is rated a leading candidate. This is also on the theory that the new appointee should have intimate knowledge of what makes exchange wheels go round. The one thing against Shaughnessy is the lively publicity campaign waged on his behalf. That may boomerang on Capitol Hill.

Shaughnessy has been coolly greeted from the Wall Street crowd in the past. He was active in getting SEC established—worked hard for the independence of smaller exchanges. But New York would a lot rather see him in there than someone like Ben Cohen.

Dilemma—
 The Securities and Exchange Commission's recommendations for revising the management setup of exchanges was a shock to the Wall Street old guard. The proposed alterations strike at the very roots of their power and prestige. Asking voluntary acceptance of such heresies is like asking Mussolini to restore democracy.

The Commission suggests that Stock Exchange officers and governors be nominated directly by the membership instead of by a special committee—also that non-members be eligible to serve on committees as officers. It so happens that these have been the two biggest planks in the platform of the anti-Whitney brokers. Could this be coincidence?

The situation boils down to a heated grapple between the present authorities and the big commission houses. The latter feel they have much more contact with the public and also a much bigger stake in revived public interest—than the local firms and should therefore have a far larger voice in determining Exchange policies.

Some insiders say the Commission wants voluntary action on its recommended changes because it doubts its authority to enforce them under the law. In any case it has put the powers-that-be on a most disastrous spot. If they refuse to act it places them in a bad light with the public. If they yield it means permanent surrender to the rebels. No definite decision has been made—but the odds favor an attitude of passive resistance.

Danger?—
 A steady flow of foreign funds has been quietly pouring into the United States in the past few months—accelerated in recent weeks. European political uncertainties plus the precarious monetary grip of the gold bloc have led frightened capital to seek a refuge here.

Some observers scent danger to our economic stability in this situation. They fear that any adverse development in this country—or even the revived threat of inflation—would send huge sums of money scurrying back across the ocean and thus plunge us into renewed financial stringency and possible disaster. But the best-informed sources raise no goose-pimples about this contingency—claiming we are firmly enough planted not to be seriously upset even by unanimous withdrawals of nervous foreign cash.

Stronger—
 The big financial boys have a jittery eye on the Congressional proposal to eliminate tax-exempt securities. This would make a whole of a difference to their income tax—and it appears to have a good chance of passage.

Impartial observers concede that tax exemption on federal issues has handicapped the government in two ways. The securities have served as storm cells for the people best able to take business risks—and therefore has served to check the natural flow of capital into industry. Also—because the tax-exempt feature appeals chiefly to large investors—it has tended to concentrate the market for federal securities in the hands of wealthy institutions, and individuals. This in turn has made the Treasury somewhat dependent on Wall Street.

The proposed change would compel the government to pay higher interest on its offerings but its income would be greater and its position stronger and more independent.

system. It looks as if the Blue Eagle will have to limp along on the same old wings for a while.

Relieved—
 As near as investment trust lawyers can figure their clients will have to pay any special taxes levied on holding companies but will probably be exempted from other special regulations. That's like the spender who feared both a fine and a jail sentence and then found he only had to pay money. He was relieved—but not hilarious.

STUTTGART, Ark. QUINCY, Mass. (UP)—District Judge Kenepth Johnson ruled with a heavy hand recently. A colored calendar with a languorous-looking girl's picture on it had been tacked to the wall of the courtroom, but remained only a short time. The judge ordered it replaced by a more conservative calendar, because the attention of too many witnesses and lawyers had been distracted by it.

Oklahomans Disillusioned
 BOSTON (UP)—It seems that Oklahomans have been disillusioned about certain historic landmarks in Boston. Searching for the Bunker Hill monument, four Oklahoma tourists discovered what they believed was it—a 15-foot shaft in Somerville Square. To make sure they were admitting the right monument they asked Henry L. White. He told them it was a World War memorial.

By GAYLE TALBOT
 (Associated Press Sports Writer)
 LONDON (UP)—England's decision to ease the rules governing amateur tennis came as no surprise to those close to the game in this country.

For weeks before the declaration that amateur stars should be permitted to appear in motion pictures, it has been evident that something was in the wind.

Members of the British association were convinced that Fred Perry, and probably Bunny Austin intended to join the professional as soon as they had defended the Davis cup in July.

It would have opened the floodgates for sure. H. Roper Barrett, chairman of the B.L.T.A., since has admitted, "There is no telling where the rush to abandon amateurism would have stopped."

Already worried about Perry, the British tennis fathers were made even more uneasy by the new edict restricting players to eight weeks on expense account each year. Perry, who has played almost continuously for two years on three continents, would find such a diet skimpy indeed.

It is not surprising, then, that they grasped the first opportunity to strike a blow for the left. Czechoslovak's sudden desire to permit his star, Roderick Menzel, to appear in the movies came as a godsend.

England has far more to lose than any other country through a general desertion of the amateur ranks. Only those who have seen the Wimbledon tournament and appreciated the tremendous investment in the big tennis plant can fully realize the stakes.

Another thing: Wimbledon is not so sure it would be able to fall back on an open tournament if the professionals really got the upper hand. It might work at Forest Hills, but Wimbledon is different.

Tennis officials are not sure the royal family would care to watch paid performers, and society follows the lead of the royal family. So does the average citizen. There would remain none but the real, obstinate tennis fan, who buys his ticket because he likes to watch tennis.

That would not be so good.

How do you CHOOSE?

EVERY time you make a purchase you make a choice. Buying a certain product may be so much a matter of habit that you don't realize you are choosing. But the fact remains that in accepting one brand of goods you are always rejecting others; and the satisfaction you get from what you buy depends on the knowledge of quality and values that guides your selection.

How do you know which bed-sheets, or which roofing material, or which rad'o will give you service you require? You can't personally test everything you buy and compare it with all the other products in its class. But there is a way to find out which brand fits your needs.

The people who are most successful in their buying—who achieve the highest percentage of satisfaction from the things they own and use—are those who consistently read the advertising columns, and buy consistently advertised goods.

Choosing isn't just "guessing" when you follow the guidance of the advertisements.

The tall gentleman in the center is the Rev. F. Walter Henckel who will serve the local Episcopal church as rector beginning with the month of February. Standing beside him in the dark robes is Bishop E. Cecil Seaman of Amarillo who conducted the ceremonies instituting Mr. Henckel into the priesthood. This photograph was taken at St. Andrew's Church, Amarillo, after the ordination services, with the choir and other participating clergymen in the background.

HUGE HOUSE KEEPS ALIVE
CAPTAIN'S TRADITIONS
NEW LONDON, Wis. (UP) - A 40-room house standing on a hill near here keeps alive the story of Capt. Enos Drummond who built the mansion in 1840, but was murdered before he carried out his plan of importing 40 slaves in order to live like a plantation gentleman.

Although the northwest ordinance prohibited slavery in Wisconsin Drummond was paid to have planned a secret system of slavery, Legends depict him as one of the roughest and toughest men Wisconsin ever, has known. He was killed just after the house was completed.

Canada Builds Long Air Route

Planning Your Window Boxes

Don't miss... off making window boxes until spring is upon you. There will be plenty of other tanks to perform during that busy period. Make your boxes now in your leisure, and next summer you will be delighted to find a window full of fragrant beauty.

Here is one form of gardening that the most crowded city dweller may enjoy, for it takes no land at all. Any window, even one that is shaded most of the day, can be used. And the expense, if you make the boxes yourself, is very small.

For an ordinary single window, a box 3-2 feet long, 8 inches deep, and 10 inches wide is a good size. If made of cypress, it will last well and cost less than a dollar to build. Where large or multiple windows demand great length, the other dimensions may be larger in proportion.

Remember that window boxes are a decoration for the house. They should harmonize with it, and improve its appearance. The boxes should usually be painted to match the dominant color of the house, or of its trim. The flowers will be of its trim. The flowers will be of its trim.

Mellinger's Department Store Undergoes Complete Remodeling

Definite changes have been made in the interior of Mellinger's Department store at the conclusion of the remodeling program which was completed this week.

The store has been completely departmentalized, offering separate groupings for the different merchandise in stock. One complete section contains the piece goods department, another holds nothing but women's shoes, while men's shoes are in another department in the men's haberdashery side.

Separate space has been designated for such articles as children's wear, boy's wear and work clothes. This new arrangement gives a much wider view and more space throughout the entire store, as well as offering more convenience to the shopper because of the organized grouping.

Following the remodeling program, there will be another change instigated, this one concerning the merchandise to be carried in the store. Throughout every department in the entire store a much better class of clothing and materials will be carried. Particularly in the men's department will these changes be outstanding as present plans are to have one of the most up-to-date and widely stocked men's departments in this section of the country.

Rollins College Library Grows

WINTER PARK, Fla. (UP) - In the 50 years of its existence, the Rollins College library has grown at an average rate of nearly 1,000 volumes a year. The college is now celebrating its semi-centennial year. Fifty years ago the library started from scratch. Its volumes numbered, two - a Bible and a dictionary. The current report of the librarian shows that the library has accumulated a total of 44,331 volumes, including government documents.

Liquor Licenses Popular
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) - Liquor dealers bought 728 federal licenses in dry Arkansas during 1934. Revenue Collector Homer M. Adkins said. Hot Springs, resort city, led the state with 74 authorized dealers. Little Rock, capital, was second with 60. The federal retailers tax is $25 per year. An excise tax of $1,000 also is applicable because Arkansas is a dry state but liquor dealers are fighting the levy in federal court.

AKRON, O. (UP) - A 250-pound piece of concrete broke loose from the flooring of a high bridge here during a noon hour and fell 100 feet into the valley below. No one happened to be underneath.

Froggies Play In Bear Camp Saturday

FORT WORTH (Sp.) - The Texas Christian University Horned Frogs will journey to Waco Saturday to meet the Baylor Bears in a basketball game in which not even the cellar championship is a stake. While a victory over the Bears would undoubtedly aid the Frogs' morale, they are so far behind that they are not even in the race.

Girl Takes Up Boxing

SAUGUS, Mass. (UP) - The boxing profession should pick up at least in this town. Emily Davis, 16-year-old high school girl has started to take boxing lessons from the ERA boxing instructor. Many of her weaker sisters plan to learn the manly art of self defense.

Very Little Skill is Required to Construct Your Own Window Box look best if they make a contrasting note, providing an accent of color.

Perhaps the finest of all window box flowers are petunias, because they blossom constantly throughout the summer, and provide so interesting a variety of color, form and habit. The balcon type petunias, which produce trailing vine-like stems, make graceful festoons which drape from the boxes.

Tall nasturtiums, particularly the new doubles, including Golden Gleam, and its hybrids, give the same effect as the balcony type petunias; and they are excellent window box subjects. Fragrant flowers such as Matthiola bicoloris, mignonette, tea-weeks stocks, and dwarf snapdragons, are doubly attractive. The list of flowers that can be grown in window boxes embraces almost the entire seed catalog.

Boxes which spend most of the day in shade offer a special problem. If the shade is that of a building, perhaps only foliage plants can be grown, such as ferns, fancy leaved caladiums, crotons, rubber plants, and other florists' subjects. If there is some sun, tuberous rooted begonias will probably do well. Impatiens, the Zanibar balsam, bearing flowers of salmon or rose on bushy plants 18 inches tall, are excellent in semi-shaded places. Violas thrive in partial shade, and the list of flowers which will do well increases as the amount of sun is enlarged.

Rich soil, of the type which florists call potting soil, should be used in window boxes, for there is so little of it to feed the flowers, it needs abundant plant food.

Correction

Through mistake The Herald announced Thursday that non-members of the Garden Club were entitled to order roses through the Garden Club. This was confused with Exchange Day at which non-members will be permitted to exchange plants with members if they attend the meeting.

The roses which the club is ordering from the Tyler rose fields through the courtesy of Mr. Ross are offered at a special low price for Garden Club members only. Roses are only one of the many plants on which the club obtains special rates. It is obvious, however, that such rates can not be extended to the public as a whole.

As long as the membership roster is open, those who desire to join may obtain flowers on this basis.

HOW TO SAVE THE COUNTRY
The United States is one of the few countries, where despite the movement in business conditions generally, little or no reduction has been made in unemployment. This failure to reduce unemployment is less surprising when it is known that the United States Government so far has passed only 5,000 new regulations for the control of business operations. I don't think there will be any appreciable diminution of unemployment in the United States until at least 10,000 new regulations have been passed. When the 10,000 mark has been reached a state of affairs is indicated wherein the regulations are so numerous that it will be wholly impossible to enforce them, and then business goes ahead amazing.
