County Budget Is Adopted, Rate Set

Hall County's 1936 budget was adopted and the tax rate was set during the monthly meeting of the Hall County Commissioners yesterday.

The tax rate, said Judge Vallance, is practically the same for next year as it is this year.

The rates agreed on by the court for the separate districts are Consolidated District No. 1—$2.10; Rural District No. 3—$1.55 and Rural District No. 4—$1.40. These rates are set on the scale of $100 valuation. The standard rate set by the state on these districts is 62 cents.

MEMPHIS WILL HAVE LOUD SPEAKER

Plans Being Made for Purchase of Portable Machine

Memphians do not seem to be very well informed. Democrat reporters attempting to ascertain what local business men thought of the seven proposed amendments were met with the fact that everyone they contacted either didn't know what the amendments were, had not considered them or did not have definite enough opinions to be quoted.

Since they wouldn't talk, The Democrat, then, is going to take advantage of the situation to explain the amendments so that those who desire may form an opinion about them.

JEWS BARRED FROM PARKS

Berlin, Aug. 20.—Jews in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, international resort and center of next year's winter Olympic Games, found themselves barred from public parks today. The municipal council issued an order barring all non-Aryans from the public recreation center.

Further weeding out of Jews from public life was reported from Hanover. A Nazi press service announced, "The district south of Hanover-Brunswick is free from Jewish-owned movie theatres."

Four theatres owned by Jews were locked up by police because the proprietors "grossly offended the Reich fifth law," the service said.

JACK BOONE IN ADDRESS ON FREIGHTING

Two CCC Officials Also Talk Before Rotarians

Jack Boone today made a classification talk on motor transportation before the Memphis Rotary Club. He was followed by two representatives of CCC camp work, who were visitors of the club.

Mr. Boone started with the statement that Texas ranks third in the number of motor trucks, with about 200,000. New York is first and California second.

Thousands Wait To Pay Rogers Tribute As Plane Speeds on With Body of Post

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—In the darkened cabin of a huge transport plane, the body of Wiley Post began its last aerial voyage today, while thousand waiters to pay final homage to Will Rogers, who met death with the aviator in an Alaskan air crash.

Rogers' body lay in a Glendale mortuary awaiting public and private funeral services Thursday, as the huge plane sped toward Oklahoma City where services for Post will be held.

'Snatcher' Faces Charge of Theft

Charges of theft were filed against Joe Tarlton, alleged snatcher, who was apprehended last Saturday after two women saw a man pilfering a parked car.

It was not determined if he had an accomplice working with him.

The stolen goods have been found and are waiting for the owner to call for them at the sheriff's office.

Hopson Admits Large Profits

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Threatened with contempt proceedings if he didn't answer questions, Howard C. Hopson agreed today that he and his family had drawn profits of $3,187,000 from the Associated Gas and Electric System from 1929 to 1933, inclusive.

Hopson acknowledged that during half the time covered, the utility system under him wasn't paying dividends on its stock.

ELMO WHALEY ILL

Elmo Whaley, of the First National Bank, underwent an emergency operation last night at the Odum Sanitarium. He became ill early yesterday morning. The attending physician said shortly after noon today that he was "doing all right."

PURCHASES GARDEN

The purchase of the New Deal Beer Garden by Wayne Kelly of Floydada was announced this morning. Mr. Kelly was with the New Deal when it first opened here. He takes immediate charge.

Threatens Life of Hoover

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Edgar Hoover, chief of the department of justice agents, has threatened to write a letter to Hoover from a month ago. Hoover, dependent on federal agents since 1900 kidnaping of Edmer in St. Paul last year, was last seen when he escaped Atlantic City trap last year.

Government by Saturday Seen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Byrnes assured President Roosevelt today of the adoption of Congress by Saturday reviewing the progress of the bill.

He said it is certain that a agreement will be reached on amendments to the Tenth Amendment, but he predicted the utilities holding regulation bill as doing things up there one thing in mind, "it is to adjourn."

Crowd Growing at Church of Christ

John G. Bills, who is conducting a revival at the Church of Christ announced this morning that crowds at the services were growing daily.

"We are delighted with the splendid crowds and also for the most excellent behavior and attention that has been shown on the part of all those attending," he said.

He announced that five responses were received yesterday.

The services are being conducted at 10 a. m. and 8:15 p. m.

Committee Reaches Tax Bill Agreement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Senate and House conference committee members today reached a final agreement on the $250,000,000 tax bill, leaving out the new inheritance levies proposed by President Roosevelt instead of inheritance taxes.

The bill agreed upon would increase estate and gift tax rates.

SUN-TAN

BY NARD JONES

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 JO DARIEN breaks her engagement to BRET PAUL, college athletic star, because he objects to her taking a job as hostess at Crest Lake Inn, fashionable summer resort owned by wealthy DOUGLAS MARSH. Jo goes to Crest Lake and later Bret arrives as a life guard.

Douglas Marsh's eccentric mother dislikes Jo. PETER FRAGONET, film actor, pays Jo marked attentions and asks her to marry him as soon as he can get a divorce. Jo becomes friendly with LOLA MONTEZ, film actress.

Prompted by his mother, Marsh asks Jo to leave Crest Lake. She decides to go to Hollywood to look for a job and Fragonet persuades her to go with him by plane. There Jo begins to doubt Fragonet. She moves from her hotel to a rooming house, begins a fruitless search for work. Lola Montez sends for Jo and she goes to the actress' home. Lola confides to Jo that she (Lola) was Fragonet's first wife.

Jo sees SILAS DRANN, the director, and he asks her to come to the studio for a screen test. Jo goes.

CHAPTER XXXIX

The ensuing half hour was the worst Jo Darien had ever experienced in her life, and she felt certain that never again would she go through anything at all comparable. Before her were three pairs of eyes, veiled behind cigarette smoke yet boring like gimlets. Before her was the camera with its staring lenses—and the microphone to record even her nervous breathing. Several times Jo felt sure she was going to faint, yet somehow she finished the ordeal. When she and Drann emerged at last into the comforting sunlight she was perspiring at every pore and felt so utterly weak that she could hardly stand.

"How do you think it went?" she asked Drann.

"Arrives. We have no more than a personal opinion, but we cannot help believing that Mussolini is not nearly so anxious to fight as he would have the world believe."

WAR TALK

THE three-power conference seeking to avert an Italo-Ethiopian war collapsed Sunday and was followed yesterday by "an outburst of general criminations."

A high French official said Europe "faces a crisis like that of 1914," very plainly indicating that Europe has not learned and may never learn to let the other fellow take care of himself. France, and apparently the other powers of Europe, feels that any war is bound to affect her. If Italy and Ethiopia go to battle—and it seems they should be able to work out their own salvation—then France seems to think that she necessarily must be included.

"France must resign herself to losing Italy's friendship." The official who made that statement may have, without realizing it, signed the death warrant of thousands of Frenchmen. By those words France may be indirectly declaring war upon Italy.

England stands beside France. That seems to be sufficient in Europe to suppose that the lion will roar when the fighting starts.

It is hard to predict what Germany will do, but there is a possibility that Hitler will stand by and be more intelligent than we generally suppose.

Alarmists have cried that war is inevitable. But not yet! Mussolini, despite his stubborn refusal to accept any terms of peace, surely can look behind the scenes. He certainly realizes that he cannot hope to fight little Ethiopia alone; that he cannot keep the other powers neutral. If he could, we have little doubt that he would hesitate a moment, but it is not so simple as all that. Unless Mussolini is fool enough to combat such nations as France and England or unless something happens to set off the flame and send raving, maniacal men to their deaths without thought of consequence, the situation may not be so bad as it seems.

If the League of Nations can handle the matter in such a way as to let Mussolini out without losing his face, he is fairly apt to accede when the time for a showdown

Fragonet's astonishment was comical. "After all," Jo laughed, "why not?"

But Fragonet was serious. "No reason why not. Except that you should watch out for Drann, that's all."

"Don't tell me I'm just one of these poor little girls who have to watch out for the big bad director! Do you—even you—believe stories like that, too?"

"Look here, Jo," Fragonet insisted. "There's an awful lot of untruth written about Hollywood, and that director and poor-little-girl gag is one of the legends. But you have to remember this—that in every walk of life, in every business in the world, you may run into a . . . Silas Drann."

"I'll be careful, Peter." She held out her hand. "But I really think it's all right, because Lolita Montez arranged it."

"Montez?"

"Yes . . . I called on her yesterday. She was grand—and she has the sweetest little girl."

Fragonet did not reveal himself by the flicker of an eyelash. Plainly he had schooled himself well where Lolita was concerned, and he hadn't the slightest suspicion that his first wife had revealed his secret to Jo Darien.

"She's quite a youngster, all right," Fragonet said evenly. "I'm surprised Lolita showed her off. Nothing's ever said about the kid, you know."

Jo nodded. "I know."

"It might hurt Lolita very much if it got around generally." He paused, his glance wavering from Jo's direct blue gaze. "Confound it, I'm due on Stage Four, or I'd see you home . . . And look here, Jo, I want to know where I can reach you."

"Not now, Peter . . ." She turned toward the gate. "Good-bye."

He seemed about to walk along with her, and then, with a hurried glance at his strap-watch, he rushed on along the cement walk.

When Jo reached the little stucco bungalow she found her landlady seated on the porch steps, sunning herself. As Jo approached, the woman rose and stood stolidly as though she were guarding the doorway.

"I want to talk to you about the rent, Miss Darien. What you said me ran out two days ago. I don't mind waiting if you have prospects—but I notice you've been fooling around with the movie crowd. I guess you figure on getting into pictures."

"Why—why, I took a screen test," Jo admitted under the withering gaze.

The woman nodded. "I've seen you young girls do that before. I'd feel much safer about my rent if you were just looking for an ordinary job."

Flushing, Jo opened her purse. "I can give you half a week's rent now. If I give you any more I won't have enough to—"

"Half a week's rent is better than none," remarked her landlady philosophically. "And you take my advice and don't monkey too long with picture outfits. Only a few make good—and honest work is the lot of the rest of us."

Jo nodded, handing her the money. "I agree with you absolutely. But I thought I'd take this one chance."

"I had a perfectly hectic day at the studio," the actress explained. "And besides, I had decided it would be better if you could get something outside the lot. I've a friend who owns a sandwich shop on Hollywood boulevard. Would you draw the line at that?"

"Why, no," Jo told her, puzzled, "but I thought you sent Drann to see me."

"I'd as soon let loose phantoms at you. When's that idea?"

"He—he was here evening, and he gave me test this morning." Jo's face

Lolita swore neatly into Jo's ear. "I'll go rotten, Jo. I swear I will."

"I think I'll be that your prayers," Jo laughed. "I can't understand you'd would intimate you'd me when I asked him if don't understand you. Take my advice, Jo, a friend of mine in the shop even if your good." Lolita paused, then went on: "And I have anything more to Drann will you let me how much the rest of executives know about you?"

The Life Story of Will Rogers :

HORSE-SENSE PHILOSOPHY AND HUMOR

Will Rogers' skill with the rope and on horseback was no bluff. He really knew the cow-punching game on the range as well as on the stage. He is here twirling a lariat on the "Old Spanish Days" fiesta at Santa Barbara, Calif., a few years ago.

is the second of four revealing those homely Will Rogers which gave him a unique position as First among equals to the American people.

WILLIS THORNTON Staff Correspondent Rogers was much more than a cheap jokemith. There is nothing whatever to do with his humor that starts with a "joke." In fact Rogers perceived that kind of joke, seldom caught punning. That Rogers took his humor seriously is more than to be said. He really was very lugubrious at heart. They are serious when they are thinking of work it is to be funny. He was not bothered about that. He was serious because he was what might be the effect of a joke. Rogers a simple joke for the sake of like corn-cob without milk—pretty-dry. Once said, "A joke has its foundation in the fact of going to enjoy the getting over to the comedy With a Grin of what he must have in this one, pulled during the convention of 15 men voted against six to be a lot of pretty practical philosophy in that Long, take notice. himself always thought the best of his cracks was never lost a war—and won a conference. But he got a louder laugh rambling stuff as "Yeh, I'm one of them movie stars in Hollywood. But I'm not a movie actor, I been 20 years and I still got my life I started out with." the secret of Will Rogers is millions of plain Americans in the story of a Yarker who took a relative to see Rogers in the city man laughed throughout Rogers' performance the countryman quietly chuckling. show, the host asked, "matter, didn't you say?" "Sure did," replied from the crossroads, near that sort of thing out our way." His Humor Clean just that kinship between folks—along every in the country that hold. They felt they Will. His prejudices, his own, his homely going to the White House from the few who had recognized that it really wasn't Calvin speaking. but Will, the cowboy comic wrote an apology. Coolidge replied in his own handwriting that he hadn't minded a bit. Even so slight a trespass onto satiric grounds distressed Rogers deeply. He was a gentle man, and he didn't want to hurt anybody. Because he liked people. Once he said that of the thousands of people he had met he didn't recall one whom he really disliked. That was at once his strength and his weakness. Malice and hatred were not in him. Yet he didn't hesitate to stick a wicked barb into general things sometimes. Witness this, from a comment on the presidential candidacy of John W. Davis: "Some claimed he worked for Morgan & Co. My Lord, that's what we all do, work for Morgan, only he was smart enough to get paid for it—and we pay Morgan." Will's Niche Among Humorists Much speculation attaches as to whether Rogers will go down as one of the line of American humorists. Bill Nye, Artemus Ward, "Mr. Dooley," and Mark Twain. It will take time to tell, of course, but no one can deny that Will Rogers had qualities in common with them all. In his personal style of address, of making every reader feel that Will was talking to them alone in the homely, every-day quality of his philosophy, he was akin to them. Not so bitter nor so deep as Dunne and Twain, Rogers certainly is talking to them in their own language today. When he said "All I know is what I read in the papers," he was speaking almost the literal truth. But that is far from being the confession of benighted ignorance it sounds. Rogers did read the papers, carefully and continually, and had always a pretty clear idea of what was going on in the world. And it was in the rambling comments he improvised on those events that he was at his very best. This idea of varying his "patter" at each performance as the news kaleidoscope turned 'round developed during his Follies days and grew to be his greatest asset as a humorist. Love of Country Strong He put it this way one night:

at the Follies: "I'd sure be hard up if you folks didn't read the papers. Last summer when I was playin' on the roof I had an awful time. The audience was all composed of bootleggers, and they never read. I'm sure glad to get down with the consumers again." Then, too, he loved America as so many millions of people still love it. Returning from a trip around the world only about a year ago, he said "Even if the Republicans were in it would still be the best place in the world."

Next: Laying aside the jester, Will Rogers was "the Patron Saint of Aviation," and the No. 1 passenger and booster for the thing that finally took his life.

Guffey Bill Is Sent to Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The House this afternoon passed the Guffey bill to establish a "little NRA" for the bituminous coal industry. The New Deal leadership sighed with relief, once the count was certain to send the disputed measure to the Senate. The vote was 195 ayes and 168 nays and two voting present. "But the Senate will do with the measure is considered problematical. It may have rough sledding. The measure would set up a national bituminous coal commission to administer wages, hours and trade practice and a price-fixing code for the soft coal industry. There are 450 persons to the square mile in Puerto Rico. In the United States, the average is 41 persons to the square mile. Native Italians are fined 75 cents, payable on the spot, for kissing in public except for farewells at railway stations. The bear and raccoon come down a tree backwards. A squirrel and most other three climbers run down and up alike. who had been listening intently from the doorway. "I guess maybe you were right," Jo smiled. The woman nodded. "I built this bungalow when they were making pictures in horse barns. I'd like to have a quarter for every girl I've seen go back home wiser." (To Be Continued)

Texas Station Exemplifies the Best in Service

The day was when anyone, whether they knew one end of an automobile from another, could throw up a shack on any highway, rent a pump from an oil company, and go into the service station business . . . and get by. But those days have gone forever. Nowadays, to attract the motorist, a service station must be attractive and convenient, with modern equipment for servicing cars, a complete stock of things the motorist is likely to need, and must stand or fall on the quality of its goods and service. In the old days, you drove up in front of a station and honked your horn three or four times, until finally a slouchy, dirty individual in grease covered overalls came out and waited on you. Now, you are no sooner in the driveway, until one or more attendants are at your service, clad in neat and clean uniforms. While one is filling your fuel tank, another is checking your oil and a third is filling your radiator. In days gone by, you got just what you paid for at a service station, and sometimes not even that. Now, the free services you receive are often more than those you pay for. Exemplifying the modern idea in filling stations in this city, the Texas Service Station at Tenth and Main stands head and shoulders above most of them. At the Texas Station will be found the automotive products which have made "Texico" a household word the world around. Here will also be found one of the most popular tires made—Firestone—in sizes for all cars and trucks. Every attendant at the Texas Service Station has attended a special school conducted by the Texas Company, to assure the motorists that they can and will service your car intelligently. Next time you need service on your car—whether a tank of gas, oil, a grease job or a wash—drive in at the Texas Service Station. You'll be a regular patron after one trial.

Why Walk When You Can Ride For Only a Dime

Not since the days of the "jitney bus," when for a nickel you could ride a few blocks in a worn-out Model T, have transportation rates been as low as now prevail in this city. We believe Memphis leads the Southwest in cheap taxi service—ten cents anywhere in the city limits at any time, day or night. If you figure it up, it's cheaper than using your own car. As an example, you are awakened during the night and have to call somewhere in the city. You have a car, but to use it you must go out and unlock the garage, back out and often fool with the car until you get it started. Then too, when you go after it, sometimes a tire is flat, or a hundred and one things may be wrong to delay you. In contrast, you can go to the phone and call 157. In three minutes there will be a Cudd Bros. Taxi at your door, with a competent and courteous driver in charge. In a matter of just a few minutes from the time you received your first call, you are at your destination, and it has cost you just one thin dime. You can't beat that for cheap transportation. Cudd Bros. taxis are new Ford V-8 enclosed cars, and they are maintained in the very best condition. The car is always clean, inside and out. Their drivers are all experienced men who know both their cars and their city. The taxi service, as stated, is a twenty-four hour one, and prompt service can be had in daylight or the darkest hours of night. Hundreds of our citizens who are familiar with Cudd Bros. taxi service, are using it more and more daily. You, too, will find that you can use it to advantage.

30 Football Hopefuls Go Through First Drills at Cyclone Stadium

Thirty grid candidates, headed by seven lettermen, reported to Coach Chesty Walker yesterday for the initial training session of the fall season.

They trotted out to the new Cyclone Stadium to officially open it for use for the first time. But they didn't get on the fast-growing grass that covers the playing field.

Learn on Dirt
They still will have to learn on the dirty ground and possibly pick up a few grass-spurs in the process. It probably will be shortly before the opening game of the season before the boys are allowed to go onto the grass and get under the floodlights to "get acquainted" with play on a sodded field.

Yesterday's drills consisted mostly of exercises designed to give them a little wind, start the removal of surplus flesh and begin the process of shaping them for the strenuous work ahead.

The drills will be increased gradually until they are going through a full afternoon of work, but it'll be some time before the first scrimmage session is announced.

Head List
Heading the list of candidates are Butter Bourland, 139 pounder, Norman Deason, 144, Winifred Swift, 152, Fred Sanders, 195, Bud McAbee, 150, Raymond Powers, 132, and Cecil Grimes, 285—the letterman around whom Coach Walker will build his 1935 Cyclone to bid for honors in a new district and region. Deason and Powers will be the nucleus of the backfield.

The group that probably will receive first attention for the remaining positions are the following reserves of last year: Jewell Adeock, 134, Ray Childress, 122, W. C. Crump, 137, Benjy Estes, 248, Horace Malone, 135, J. D. Roden, 120, and Carl Eudy, 140.

16 Recruits
To this list have been added 16 recruits, who will contest the regulars and recruits for positions and lay the foundation for later clubs. Some of the recruits "look good," but that is as much as can be said until they have progressed farther.

Safe Milk Is Your Most Healthful Food

A neighboring Panhandle city has become sufficiently alarmed over the growing prevalence of enteric (typhoid) fever among children to warn the people against the practice of buying milk from questionable sources.

"During the past several weeks," the warning says, "a number of cases of enteric fever have developed among children here. In practically every instance bad milk was to blame. In every instance the milk came from an unsuspected source of supply."

Play safe—don't take chances. City Dairy is the only Memphis dairy supplying Grade A Pasteurized milk. It is also the only Memphis dairy capable of meeting rigid U. S. Government standards. Uncle Sam doesn't take chances with his men. Why should you, with your children?
