Memphis Golfer Scores Ace In Clarendon Meet

Frank Foxhall, twice past-champion of the Greenbelt Golf Association, past Memphis Country Club champion, and one of Memphis' top-ranking linksmen, scored his first hole-in-one Sunday morning on the Clarendon Hillcroft Links in the Hillcroft Club's Seventh Annual Invitation Tournament.

After years of golf, which included countless thousands of games, both match and practice, Foxhall Sunday morning got the thrill of his life during his opening round when his tee shot on number 4 rolled squarely into the cup for an ace.

Foxhall could not see the green and thought at first that he had made a bad shot.

The morning round was taken easily by the Memphis golfer, but his game suffered a setback in the afternoon; and he was eliminated from match play by Paul Greene, ace Clarendon golfer.

Although he failed to go very far in the tourney Sunday, Foxhall declared that his hole-in-one was well worth the trip to Clarendon.

FUNERAL HELD FOR MRS. W. M. MILAM FRIDAY

Prominent Memphis
Woman Had Lived
Here 47 Years

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Charity Milam, who died at her home, 203 North Tenth street, Thursday morning, August 13, were conducted from the First Baptist Church Friday morning, August 14, at 10 o'clock, with Hayes O. Luna, pastor of the Memphis First Christian Church, officiating, and Rev. Orion W. Carter, pastor of the Memphis First Methodist Church, assisting.

Music was furnished by members of the choirs of the churches of Memphis. Mrs. Lattie Hightower and Mrs. Sam Sloan sang
"The Little Log Cabin Home," a song requested by the deceased to be sung at this time. "The King's Business" was sung by the choir. This was a favorite song of both Mr. and Mrs. Milam.

Interment was in the Fairview Cemetery here, with the King's Mortuary in charge. Pallbearers were Dick Watson, C. R. Gowan, L. M. Thornton, Temple Deaver,

FARM HOME IS DESTROYED BY FIRE MONDAY

Family Arrives Home
Monday To Find
House in Ashes

Household furniture of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Roden, and a frame farm residence belonging to J. N.
Cudd of Corpus Christi were completely destroyed in a fire which broke out at the Roden farm home about a mile and a half southeast of Memphis shortly before noon Monday of this week.

Damage from the fire was estimated at several hundred dollars.
The Memphis Fire Department answered a call to the farm shortly after 12 o'clock, but the building was in ashes by the time they arrived at the scene.

Origin of the blaze was a matter of speculation, as the family was in Childress at the time of the fire. They had gone there early in the morning to consult a physician, as Mrs. Roden has been receiving medical treatment for some time.

They returned about 1 o'clock to find their home a smoldering heap of ashes. Nothing of value had been salvaged, as the fire was not noticed until it was well under way.

The fire Monday was the biggest that has broken out in or near Memphis in the past several months.

first bale of Hall County cotton afternoon for ginning.

A premium of approximately $100 was made up by Memphis merchants and business men and presented to Mr. Byrd.

The bale when ginned weighed 530 pounds, and it was ginned from 2,000 pounds of "snap" cotton. The grade was strict middling, and the price paid was 12 cents per pound.

The cotton was ginned at the Producers' Co-Op Gin, and was bought by T. T. Harrison.

160-acre farm two miles north of

Voters Cast Ballots In Second Primary Election Saturday

The second Democratic primary election of 1936 will be held tomorrow, August 22, and a heavy vote in Memphis and Hall County is anticipated as voters of the county mark ballots for their choice for precinct, county, district, and state officials.

Approximately 125 absentee votes were cast here in the second primary, which compares with an approximate 100 votes cast in the first primary two years ago, and 200 votes cast in the first primary of this year.

Voting strength in the county is about 3,400, which includes the 3,031 paid poll taxes and the "overs" and "unders." Over 3,250 votes were cast in the first primary in July.

Considerable interest has been shown in all of the precinct, county, and district races, despite the fact that the ballot is short.

The polls open at 8 o'clock Saturday morning and close at 7 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

All voters in the county have been appealed to to go to the polls tomorrow and cast their sentiments, in order that a representative vote might be cast in the county for the remaining important public offices.

1138 PIONEERS REGISTER HERE FOR BARBECUE

Day-Long Program Is

Talks and Music

An estimated crowd of 7,000 met in Memphis Wednesday of this week to honor Texas' 100 years of independence, Hall County's 46th birthday, and the dauntless spirit of the pioneers who made this a habitable region.

Old-timers were here by the scores from Donley, Collingsworth, Childress, and Hall counties, and registrations in lesser numbers were made by long-time residents from counties scattered over the entire state. Visitors were in Memphis for the four-county celebration from California, Colorado, and Oklahoma, and from Texas cities including

CELEBRATION SIDELIGHTS

(Editor's Note: The following incidents were gleaned by a Democrat reporter as he sauntered about the gigantic Pioneer Celebration here Wednesday. Countless hundreds of other such paragraphs could be added, picked up as scores and scores of "old-timers" converged in Memphis, enjoyed the splendid entertainment provided for them, and recounted occurrences of the "old days."
The following is typical of the conversation and happenings at the celebration Wednesday, and lend an idea as to the colorful atmosphere that prevailed.)

Among the outstanding "old-timers" noted at the affair Wednesday were Cleve Rothwell of Paducah, who came to this section in 1886. Other pioneers at the picnic and the years in which they came to this section: L. B.

NEAR TRAGEDY OF PIONEER DAYS IS TOLD BY EARLY-DAY SETTLER

By E. M. EWEN
When we were moving from Floyd County to Hall County, I had an experience that came near being a tragedy.

I hired a neighbor to haul a load for me; he was hauling wheat to Quana to be converted into flour. He borrowed a wagon with which to haul the wheat, and his father, who was old and partially paralyzed, was to drive the extra team. When we got to the Cap Rock I drove my team down and went back to drive the old gentleman's team down. He was afraid to ride the wagon down and got off and walked.

Just as I was making the descent, I put the brake on and took my hand off the brake in order to have both hands free to guide the team. When I took my hand off the brake and took hold of the lines, the brake flew back, thus throwing the weight of the load—some 3,000 pounds—onto the necks of the horses. There was no breaching on the harness. The road had been blasted out of solid rock, and the rock thus loosened had been thrown to the side of the road to form a barrier to keep vehicles from falling down the mountain side, which was on an angle of about 90 degrees.

As the weight hit the necks of the horses, the wagon ran onto this barrier and stood balanced for a few seconds before going rolling over, down the mountain side. I couldn't jump to the "up" side of the wagon as it was too steep, so I had to take the risk of jumping to the "down" side and outrunning the overturning wagon. I made it by running some 75 yards, expecting to be overtaken at any moment by the wagon and team.

Finally, after turning completely over and landing on its wheels, the wagon stopped. Although hard to believe, the only damage done to the wagon was that all of the bows were broken—the wagon had bows on it so the sheet could be put up in case of rain.

After a few minutes we had all the damage repaired and were on our way again. I imagine the time was just about as stressing to my wife and neighbors who saw it all but were unable to offer assistance as it was to me. We came on down the mountain and stayed all night with a settler, but didn't sleep much as he had some 15 or 20 hogs that slept under the house, and every time that one of them wanted to turn over—which was every few minutes—they all had to turn over.

I suffered no ill effects from my race, except a sprained ankle which took four and a half months to get well. Such incidents as the above are the reason the pioneer had to be an all-around man. He had to be always on the alert to get by accidents, the weather, and, in earlier years, the Indians and buffalo herds. But these experiences, when viewed from a distance of 40 or 50 years, are pleasant memories; and I would like to live them over. But the frontier is gone and the pioneer is going and will soon be another memory in the book of life.

Let's have more of these experiences from real life. If we don't tell them while life is left, they will never be known, and I am sure our children and our neighbors' children will be glad to read them in the years to come; and it is a hope of mine that some day these incidents will be published in a history of Old Hall County. Come on, friends and fellow pioneers, and help. We lost seven members in 1934 and 17 in 1935. The ranks are already thinning rapidly, and soon we'll be like the old Confederate soldier—only a memory.

Most Economical HAULING Ever Experienced
May 27th, 1936

Fayne County Motor Co., Stillwater, Oklahoma.

Gentlemen:
We are now operating in connection with our lumber business, our concrete plant and our limestone quarries, six Ford trucks and one additional mixer truck, this year.

We use these trucks on work that is trying, and are well pleased with their performance. Repairs have been kept to a minimum and our gas mileage is consistent with the loads that we haul.

We are now getting the cheapest and most economical form of transportation, compared to others that we have had experience with.

The mixer truck makes an average of ten loads daily over city streets and has made as many as thirty-three. We feel that we must have a dependable truck in this business and have no reason to regret our choice.

Very truly yours,

FINISH REPAIRS ON M. E. CHURCH

Outside Appearance Enhanced, Acoustics Improved, And Auditorium Decorated

General repair work at the First Methodist Church was finished this week, with the large church building having taken on the appearance, both inside and out, of a new structure.

Perhaps the most striking improvements seen at the church are the new columns which have been erected. Light fixtures have been put in, the main auditorium has been re-decorated, the art glass windows have received attention, and the church has been painted both inside and out.

The acoustics of the building have been greatly improved by an arrangement of drapes, and better lighting has resulted from the new light fixtures.

The repair work was made possible by Frank Phelan, who donated a large portion of the expense money and helped in the superintending of the work, and a committee from the Board of Stewards of the church. Cost of the work was approximately $1,800.

County Baseball League Results

Salisbury's and Parnell's baseball teams will meet in an extra game Sunday afternoon in Estelline to determine which of the two teams will enter the Shaughnessy playoff series to determine the championship of the Hall County Baseball League.

Cross Roads, Lesley and Turkey have definitely fought their way into the playoff by landing in the first three positions in the race. The championship games will begin Sunday, August 31.

Under the Shaughnessy plan of determining the pennant winner, team number 4 plays team number 1 on the latter's home field, and team number 3 visits team number 2. Then, the winners of the two preliminary games engage in a three-game series.

This means that Lesley will be host to Turkey in the opening playoff game, and that either Salisbury or Parnell will play at Cross Roads.

Results of last Sunday's games: Parnell defeated Salisbury, 7 to 4, in 14 innings; Lesley defeated the Memphis CCC, 9 to 6, forfeit; Turkey defeated Eli, 14 to 4, and Cross Roads won on a forfeit over Fairview, 9 to 0.

The standings:

Memphis CCC Camp Is Devoid of Flies; Sanitary Officer of Company Objects

Memphis Civilian Conservation Corps No. 1821 claims another unique record—or something.

Doctor W. W. Woody, the general camp surgeon, who, in addition to his duties of caring for the sick and wounded, is also sanitary officer, first aid instructor, horticulturist, floriculturist, and rope specialist, decided to do a little handicraft work in his spare time.

His object was to construct a "pig." This ingenious little device is made from a large hollowed-out pecan with matches for legs and tooth picks for the other appendages.

Mr. L. L. Doss and son Jerry and Mrs. Irvin Johnson went to Amarillo Friday to take Mrs. Doss' mother, Mrs. Cera Davis, who left from Amarillo for Palo Alto, Calif., to make her home, after a visit here with Mrs. Doss.

A small boy who was interested in the project took pity on the doctor, went to the other side of town, and caught two horse flies for him.

1138 Pioneers—

thousands of persons throughout the day, as the day-long program progressed. The Memphis public address system was used, and large tanks of ice water were accessible to the large crowds.

J. Claude Wells, Memphis newspaper man and himself an early-day Panhandle resident, presided over the day's activities as master of ceremonies.

The crack Memphis Gold Medal band opened the celebration Wednesday morning with a short concert, which was followed by the welcoming address by Rev. Orion W. Carter. Rev. Carter, although a newcomer to this section, made the old-timers and visitors "feel at home." J. C. Estlack, Clarendon newspaper publisher who has resided in this section for the past 53 years, gave the response to the address of welcome in behalf of the pioneers.

Following Mr. Estlack's talk, a silent tribute was paid to the memory of 20 pioneer members of the Hall County Old Settlers Association who have died since the last re-union.

Judge L. Gough of Amarillo, "Poet Laureate of the Panhandle," gave one of the principal addresses of the day. "The Vanished Frontier and the Vanishing Pioneer" was the theme of Judge Gough's address. He praised the qualities of the early-day cattlemen and cowboys of the Western country. He illustrated the transition of the Panhandle from rangeland to a farming empire and read his poem "The Old Mill Iron." He concluded with another of his ballads, "Reminiscing."

The "Midget Ramblers," Bill, Bobbie, and Doc Beason of Pampa, and Durwood Paine of Booker, entertained with violin and guitar music. The free barbecue was the principal attraction at noon, and more than 1,000 old-timers were fed.

The afternoon session convened with a business meeting of the Hall County Old Settlers Association. It was voted at this meeting that hereafter the annual convention of the pioneers will be held the third Wednesday in July. It was also voted to make the year 1911 the limit for membership. Officers of the association were all re-elected, which saw E. M. Ewen of Memphis returned as president, T. D. Gee of Estelline as vice president, and Mrs. W. H. Youngblood of Brice as secretary-treasurer.

The Clarendon band, brought by Homer Mulkey and directed by Mr. Robbins, entertained. It was followed by the Wills male quartet, which gave several numbers.

One of the highlights of the afternoon session was the appearance of the famous Keys Quadruplets from Hollis. They sang several numbers.

Vernon Coe, assistant Attorney-General of Texas, brought regrets from Attorney-General William C. McCraw, who was unable to attend because of a trip to Mexico City on irrigation matters. Mr. Coe made a splendid talk and was roundly applauded.

Craig Hunter, Memphis vaudeville performer, gave a number, which was followed by old-time fiddling by the "Amarillo Cowboys" and A. Howard's "Hoedowners." The break-down music caused many an old-timer to conjure up thoughts of the big dances of several decades ago.

A concert by the Memphis Gold Medal Band, under the direction of Bandmaster W. C. Milam, and a concert by the Clarendon band concluded the afternoon's program.

In the baseball games which were played at the Memphis Fairpark Field during the afternoon, Salisbury defeated Lesley in the opener by a score of 8-3. The Cross Roads team, which finished in the lead in the Hall County Baseball League, defeated Salisbury, 6 to 4, in the final game. An estimated crowd of 1,000 saw the games.

Several thousand persons were present for the elaborate floor show that was presented Wednesday night, which featured a wide array of talent.

The floor show featured the Keys Quadruplets, W. P. Knox, trick rider who traveled for a time with the famous Will Rogers, Craig Hunter and his vaudeville act, and the Wellington accordion band.

The "Midget Ramblers," who played and sang, and tap dancing by Misses Hattie Dem Ward and Martha Thompson, Miss June Power, and Mr. Blalock, formed a part of the program. Pattie Lou Sloan appeared with a waltz clog, and Helen Davis, Tommye Noel, June Power, and Hattie Dem Ward gave a military tap. Rebecca Ray Weaver gave an Irish step. The floor show terminated in an old-fashioned square dance, which lasted far into the night.

The large crowds were quiet and orderly throughout the day and expressed complete satisfaction with the affair. A light shower in the afternoon enlivened the occasion.

Ray Webster of Durmas was here to attend the Old Settlers Reunion and Centennial celebration.
