FAIR CARAVAN LEAVES CITY TOMORROW

Sixteen Busses Will Carry Delegation To Fair

Tomorrow morning a caravan of 14 to 16 school busses, loaded to the guards with county school children, their sponsors, and the Memphis Gold Medal Band, will leave this city at 7:00 o'clock, bound for the Amarillo Tri-State Fair, to show the folks up there that Hall County is very much on the map.

Busses with school children will rendezvous at the High School Building, while the band bus will gather its load at the band building at Carnegie Library Park.

It is very important that all who make the trip be ready in ample time for the caravan to leave this city at 7:00 o'clock promptly, as it is desired to reach Amarillo not later than 10:00 o'clock, where the busses carrying the children from Turkey will be met.

The Turkey busses are going by way of Tulsa, to take full advantage of the paved roads.

W. C. Milam, trip and band director, urges that all Memphis and Hall County people who are at the Tri-State Fair tomorrow, whether they go up with the caravan or not, be sure to register. An effort is being made to make the Hall County delegation the largest to attend the exposition, and this means that every Hall Countian there register at the fairground registration booth.

Following the arrival of the caravan in Amarillo, a parade will be staged in the business district before going to the fair grounds.

The band will play a number of concerts at the fair grounds and will broadcast during the afternoon from the Amarillo radio station.

The return trip will be started about 9:00 p. m.

Long Hands In His Resignation

By Associated Press
HYDE PARK, Sept. 20—The President today announced the resignation of Joseph P. Long, chairman of the Securities Exchange Commission. Kennedy is retiring Monday to return to private practice. His successor has not yet been indicated.

BASEBALL GAME

Sunday afternoon a baseball game will be played at Childress between the Altus team of the eastern division and an all-star team composed of Childress and Memphis league team players. Local fans are extended an invitation to attend the game.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE GROUP WANTS TO CULL POULTRY FLOCKS

Both groups of the vocational agriculture boys of the Memphis High School have been making hurried preparations on the latest methods of poultry culling. Next week the classes are going out to poultry dealers who want culling work done. After considerable practice, both groups will offer their services to cull flocks of chickens without charge. They want the experience and at the same time render a community service, said Riley W. Carlton, vocational agriculture instructor.

Any poultry owner who is interested in securing the services of this group and the instructor should contact any member of the class.

Flocks should be culled at least twice a year on the average farm or town flocks. While the fall weather is ideal and before the rush of other fall work, poultry owners should check over their requirements such as culling, house repairs, sanitation and planning a balanced laying ration, Mr. Carlton said.

The agricultural classes are now asking themselves the question as to where and how they are to do farm shop work this

Nazi Parade New German Flag

Two Seriously Injured in Car Accident Last Night

Take Injured Man To Dallas Hospital

One local man in a Memphis hospital, while another, more seriously injured, is on his way to a Dallas hospital, as the result of an automobile accident which occurred last night as the men were enroute home from the football game at Paducah. The injured: COY JARVIS, of Lakeview, broken back and painful cuts and bruises. F. R. HAMILTON, of Memphis, probable crushed vertebrae and cuts and bruises. Jarvis and Hamilton had been to Paducah to witness the Memphis Paducah football game and were enroute home when the accident occurred.

Hugh Crawford and party, also returning from the game, picked up the injured men and took them to Childress, to the Jeter-Townsend Hospital, where they were given medical attention.

Advertise Band

So important does the Tri-State Fair Association consider tomorrow's visit of the Memphis Gold Medal Band and its accompanying Hall County delegation, that in its display advertising in today's Amarillo papers, they gave the fact a prominent place.

ARREST THREE ESTELLINE THEFT

Deputy Sheriff Herb Williams and Constable John Rollins, of Estelline, brought three men from that city to Memphis last night, charged with the theft of chickens. The arrested men were Lonnie Campbell, Perry Campbell and J. C. Longbine, all of Estelline, who are charged with stealing seventeen chickens, which were recovered when the men were arrested.

MEDICAL MEET IN THE CITY TONIGHT

Four County Medical Society's Monthly Session Here

The 4-County Medical Society will meet in its regular monthly session tonight at 7 o'clock in the Memphis Hotel, and a scientific program has been arranged.

An address, "Appraisal of the Ovary While Operating in the Pelvis," will be given by Dr. H. H. Latson of Amarillo. "Clinical Considerations in the Laboratory Diagnosis of Syphilis" will be the title of an address to be given by Dr. T. P. Churchill, also of Amarillo.

The 4-County Medical Society is composed of medical doctors in Hall, Donley, Collingsworth and Childress counties.

RETURNS FROM ABROAD

Miss Lena Melear arrived in Memphis last night from an extended trip to the foreign countries. She sailed from New York the first of July, returning there Sept. 6. The different countries visited on the trip included England, Scotland, Ireland, Holland, Germany, Switzerland and France. They visited the battlefields during their tour in France. The tour in the different countries was conducted by the American Express Co. Miss Melear visited Mrs. Ben Kimbrough in Dallas and Miss Bernice Lee Collins in Fort Worth en route home.

WINDOW DISPLAY

An attractive display of Waples Plaiter product was arranged in the window of the Democrat office yesterday by Manager Orrie Jones of the local Waples Plaiter branch, in connection with their advertising campaign which begins in today's issue.

Attend Field Day Meeting at Spur

Supt. G. C. Hull and his technical force of CCC men and County Agent James A. Jackson, together with about 25 Hall County Farmers, are attending an All-West Texas Field Day meeting at Spur today.

The meeting today promises to be one of the most outstanding agricultural events ever held in the western part of the state. Delegations headed by county agricultural agents and vocational agricultural teachers from over 40 counties are to be in attendance.

MEMPHIS HIGH CYCLONE DEFEATS PADUCAH SQUAD LAST NIGHT 7-0

Led by Captain Bud McAbee, a fighting Memphis Cyclone went to Paducah last night and downed that team in the first grid go of the season to the tune of 7-0. The only touchdown of the game came in the second quarter as the result of a deceptive end run by Norman Deason, flashy little Memphis full-back, and a straight plunge by Raymond Powers, quarter.

A Memphis delegation numbering almost 300, in addition to the 85-girl pep squad and the Memphis Gold Medal band, accompanied the local team to Paducah. A demonstration was held before the game on the business section of Paducah by the four bus-loads of yelling Cyclone backers.

The Cyclone warriors started the game off well when on the second play Deason took the ball, cut through his own left tackle and fought his way 40 yards to the Paducah 25 yard line before being pulled down. Three stabs at the line by Powers and Deason netted a first down on Paducah's 15 yard line and gave Memphis her first scoring chance. Powers picked up six yards but Memphis was penalized for off-sides.

On straight line plays, Deason and Powers carried it to the 10 yard line. With five to go on the fourth down, Powers backed up, shook off three tacklers and passed over the goal for a touchdown. Paducah picked up eight yards on two plays and pushed to the Memphis 40 yard line, where a technicality gave the ball to Paducah. The rest of the quarter was played in the middle of the field with Paducah in possession of the ball at the quarter on Memphis' 42 yard stripe. A punt gave Memphis the ball on her own 22. Three tries at the line failed to net a first down, and on fourth down with two feet to go, Quarterback Powers failed to call a punt. Deason tried the line but was smothered, the ball going over.

Memphis recovered a Paducah fumble on Paducah's 40. After the punt, Memphis again recovered a fumble, this time on the Paducah 22 yard line. Powers was thrown for a two yard loss. Adcock took it to the 20. Deason faked to Adcock and skirted his own left end for 15 yards where he was tackled on the Dragons' five yard line.

Deason smacked center for three yards, and Powers knifed through right guard for the touchdown. Sanders kicked a "perfect goal to add the extra point.

Sanders' kick was returned to the Dragons' 34. Adcock, stellar defensive back, shot through and nailed Marcum for a two yard loss. Scott and Grimes broke through and blocked a Paducah punt, but the Dragons recovered. The half ended 7-0 in favor of the Cyclone.

Paducah carried Sanders' kick to their seven yards. Damron carried it to his 44 and next made a first down on his 46. Damron was smothered in an attempted end run. Marcum lateralled to Damron for a four yard gain.

President of a Western University Announces a Surplus of Janitor and Dining Room Jobs. The College Evidently Has No Football Team.

HOME BUILDING GAIN IS VERY ENCOURAGING

Public Confidence Begins to Return

BABSON PARK, Mass., Sept. 20.—People are building homes again. This means only one thing—public confidence is beginning to return and industry all over the nation is stepping up. Building is usually the last industry to revive in a period of recovery. This has been true in every depression. Hence, the fact that residential building contracts are now more than double those of a year ago, convinces me that we have come a long way on the back-to-recovery road.

Heavy Industries Getting into Step

In my New Year Outlook Letter (I told readers that business in the early part of 1935 would be about five per cent above the same months of 1934. So far this prediction has worked out fairly well. Figures show that business up to date in 1935 is five and one-half per cent above a year ago. In that Outlook Letter I went on to say that if the heavy goods industries—particularly private building—showed a substantial improvement in early 1935, then the second half of the year would be distinctly better than the second half of 1934. The heavy goods industry did pick up very sharply and as a result business is much better than last fall—the Babson chart, it is twelve per cent above September, 1934.

I am continually asked the question: "Why is it that with business forty-two per cent above the lows of 1933, unemployment is still so high?" Although unemployment has decreased to some extent, the number of jobs has not dropped in the proportion as business has picked up. The exact gain in business is the biggest gain in production has been made in the consumer industries where labor variation in good times or bad is much less than in the heavy industries. With the latter now swinging into line, I think that the number of jobs will follow more closely the improvement in general business.

Would Solve Unemployment Problem.

A break-down of relief figures shows that one-fifth of the jobs would normally be directly employed in building work. In addition each person actually engaged in the construction industry creates work for one to two other laborers employed in allied industries. Every house that is constructed contributes to activity in twenty-six separate industries: out of every dollar spent on building seventy-five cents ultimately goes to labor. Hence, I say that the low level of activity in the building field accounts for over half the total unemployed. This explains why I am so encouraged by the striking gains in home building.

It is interesting to look into the reasons for the improvement in building. They can be summarized into three main groups: The first reason is the rise in rents. A mid-year survey of real estate conditions in 251 cities shows a shortage of single family houses in sixty-nine per cent of the cities against fifty-three per cent at the close of 1934. Such factors as the increase in marriages, rise in population, and scrambling of families, as well as

Key to Prosperity

The third major reason for the marked revival in home building is the gradual return of confidence. Very few today deny that business is showing some improvement. Wages have been gradually increasing. Employment is at least holding its own. Millions of bad real estate situations have been cleared up and the amount of distress property now coming on the market is growing smaller day by day. While for three or four years it has been much cheaper to buy than to build, the trend is slowly swinging around so that it soon will be cheaper to build than to buy. The combination of these factors, plus the possibility of rising building costs, are wiping out the uncertainties which haunted fire, depreciation and an almost complete shut-down in home building since 1931 have brought about a shortage of probably a million homes. As a result of this supply-demand situation, average rents have already advanced ten per cent from the lows.

Plenty of Mortgage Money

The second reason for the improvement in building is easier financing conditions. Two years ago it was very difficult to obtain a loan on even very well secured property. Since then the government, through its various agencies, has strengthened real estate markets and has helped to loosen up mortgage money. Its sponsorship of the popular "fifty-year installment plan" mortgage has been particularly helpful. Most important of all, interest rates have fallen to the lowest level in history. The banker, who two years ago would not have even considered making a six per cent real estate loan, is now happy to lend his money at five per cent to good risks. Insurance companies encouraged by low returns on ill-secured securities, and mainly entering the real estate field.

On the other side of the fence is the man whose rent is being boosted while at the same time the interest rate on his savings deposits has dropped to three or home builders from 1928 to 1933. Readers may gain the impression from the above that a building boom is in progress at the present time. Let me emphasize that although more than twice as many homes are being put up as a year ago, building is still only twenty-five per cent of normal. Imagine the effect on business and employment if the building industry should reach normal! This would mean boosting the present volume more than 300 per cent. Hence, let me repeat what I have said on numerous occasions during the past two years: Watch home building figures for the cue to future business prospects. They are the key to the coming American boom!

Crude Fort Which May Be Cradle of Great War

This crude fort, the round mud huts of the garrison resembling mushrooms as seen from the air, may be the Sarajevo to touch off another great war. It is the Ethiopian fort at Wai-wai, near the Italian Somaliland boundary, scene of a clash on Dec. 1, 1934, that brought to a head the long-standing differences between the two nations. Rome reported 110 Ethiopian casualties and an Italian loss of 30. Italy demanded heavy indemnity and honor to her colors, and Ethiopia appealed to the League of Nations.

Stars of Oklahoma Fair's Musical Show

Above are some of the stars in "Soaring of a Moving Man", a highlight of the new musical extravaganza to be staged in front of the grandstand six nights, beginning September 22, at the Oklahoma Fair in Oklahoma City. The show is the brainchild of Lolita Bertling, prima donna. She is one of the best known singers and appeared frequently in many other cities. Bertling is the Briants, English comedians as they appear in their laughable sketch, "A Dream of a Moving Man", a highlight of the show. Their act is all pantomime but their actions piece together a hilarious story.

THE CAPITOL ONLOOKER

By CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Sept. 20.—Fears that the current special session of the legislature would be rousing were given foundation by Governor Allred in a personal appearance to deliver his first message.

"I hope we all may speak thoughtfully, considerately and softly at all times," he said in what was considered an overture to the legislature to work in cordial harmony as between the houses and the executive office.

Prohibition will provide much of the fireworks but the greatest tension is expected to develop over taxation to provide revenue for old age pensions.

Tax bills, wherein the pocket-books of individuals or corporations are hit are always the hardest fought. Legislative representatives of corporations strongly assert they are unable to pay additional burdens and seek to shift the tax base. Many favor a sales tax but the house of representatives consistently has refused to entertain such a plan.

When the old age pension reaches floor consideration the scramble will start. Riders proposing almost all forms of taxation have been prepared for presentation as amendments, including an increase in the sulphur production levy and raises in the taxes on oil and gas production.

Governor Allred did not mince words in his message on the liquor question frankly stating the people expected the legislature to enact a law that would be easily enforceable and bring in a maximum of revenues. The question of revenues was expected to play an all-important part in deciding provisions of the liquor control law. The more revenue raised from liquor taxes the lighter the burden on other sources.

With estimates from the liquor tax ranging from $3,000,000 to $10,000,000 it is conceivable that this will be the only tax passed. That is, unless an insistent movement is inaugurated to liquidate the rapidly increasing deficit in the general revenue fund.

The governor's message carried a frank warning to the legislature to avoid subterfuge in defining an "open saloon."

"I know that the vast majority of the people, irrespective of how they voted on repeal, are agreed upon one proposition," he said. "They do not want, indeed they will not abide, a return of the old saloon. The people want no subterfuge definition or camouflaged saloon."

Removal of the brass rail bar would not, in the governor's judgement, be sufficient to lift a liquor dispensary from the saloon category.

A Brand New Bunch of ANAGRAMS

HANDY ENTRY BLANK

In the blank space below I have rearranged the letters in the anagrams to spell the names of the words which I think to be the solution of today's game. The ones checked with a cross mark thus X are advertised in today's Democrat.

- | ANAGRAM | SOLUTION | |
|--------------|----------|--------------------------|
| 1. YACLUFT | ----- | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 2. HAPTOOPHR | ----- | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 3. KAGCAPE | ----- | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 4. DAREER | ----- | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 5. ROUTSECY | ----- | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 6. ATABGURA | ----- | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 7. NEDCYTEN | ----- | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 8. REFFOSC | ----- | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 9. ILUTHAB | ----- | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 10. DARTE | ----- | <input type="checkbox"/> |

I have used all of today's anagram solutions in the following sentence of not more than 30 words:

My Name _____

I buy my groceries at _____

If awarded a prize, I want my order drawn on the store checked below:

(Place cross mark after name of store you want your order drawn on).

BASKET OF GROCERIES

And 10 Tickets to the Ritz To See

John Boles — Jean Muir in

"ORCHIDS TO YOU"

RULES:

- The letters in each of the accompanying ten anagrams when arranged properly will spell the names of ten words. Two of the words each week will be grocery items. You are invited to solve the anagrams, then arrange them in a sentence of not more than 30 words (you may use less if you wish), and try for one of the ten prizes.
 - To the persons who send in the best entries in accordance with these rules, The Democrat will give a free basket of groceries and ten tickets to the Ritz Theatre. The basket of groceries will be offered as first prize, two tickets to the Ritz as second prize, and one ticket each to the next eight contestants.
 - This offer is open to all except employees of The Democrat and their families. You pay nothing.
 - Awards will be made on the basis of the most nearly correct list of anagrams and the cleverest sentence. Simply rearrange the letters in each anagram to spell a word in common usage. Then check the food and grocery ads in today's Democrat and place a cross mark in the square if you find either of the two grocery items advertised. If the item is NOT advertised make NO mark.
 - Then arrange the ten words into a sentence of not more than thirty (30) words. You may use less if you wish.
 - All entries will be considered by a committee appointed by the Democrat. Contestants agree to accept the decisions of the committee as final. Judgment will be based upon suitability of words inserted, accuracy in checking, cleverness in arranging the sentence, and neatness. No special consideration will be given elaborate entries. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded to tying contestants.
 - All entries must be received at the Democrat office by four o'clock Saturday afternoon.
- You need not purchase The Democrat to compete. You may use the handy blank submitted here, or you may submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. Winners will be announced in Sunday's Democrat.

CANADA OFFERS U. S. TRADE FAVORS

Seeks An Outlet For Natural Products In New York

By United Press
OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 20.—The Canadian government is ready to offer the United States its intermediate tariff and possibly most favored nation treatment in return for a more favorable access of Canadian natural products to the United States market, it is learned.

The Canadian offer is the latest development in the long negotiations between the two countries for a reciprocal trade pact, and is now virtually the basis of the negotiations.

The obstacles which are preventing the two governments from reaching an agreement, it is said, are all on the United States' side. Canada would like to obtain access to the American market for such natural products as cattle, lumber, fish and dairy produce, but American producers in the same line are resisting the threat of competition from Canada.

Objection Has Lessened

What the Canadian government is prepared to grant does not encounter the same degree of objection here, although some industries are inclined to view the proposals unfavorably. The intermediate tariff is more favorable than the general tariff, but the difference is not so marked as it once was. Under the present government, it has been narrowed. Many items, for instance, upon which the British preferential tariff would be 25 per cent, have 33 per cent as the intermediate and 40 per cent as the general tariff.

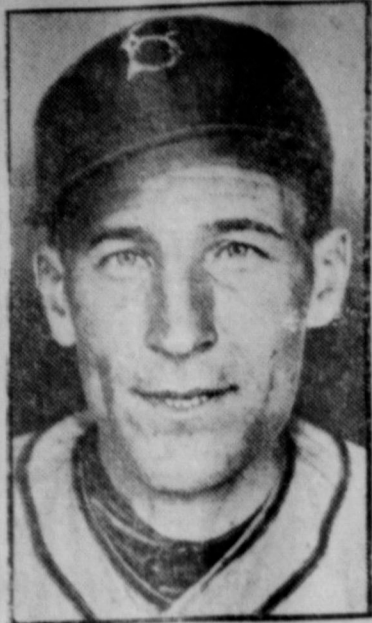

It is understood in view of this that American negotiators want favored nation treatment, which would mean tariff treatment as good as any other country receives, and better than the intermediate duty on more than 200 different commodities. Both sides have volumes of data regarding the imports and exports of the commodities mentioned and the tariff rating.

Broad Policy Outlined

In their present state, the negotiations are indefinite. At Washington recently the representatives of the two governments met and had initial exchanges indicating in a general way what they were prepared to do. Where differences arose they were noted and the two parties are now giving consideration to the question of bridging these difficulties by further concessions.

This involves consultation with

Killed in Mad Fight in Plane

In a mad attack on his guest in a chartered plane careening through the air at a speed of 100 miles an hour, a pilot, Leu Koencke, above, outflung just released by the Brooklyn Dodgers, was killed with a fire extinguisher by Aviator W. J. Mulqueeny. The pilot, who landed the plane safely, said it was "one life or three" when he struck to halt Koencke's attack on Parachute Jumper Irwin Davis.

Feeding Circus Is Big Problem

Imagine a town of five hundred to fifteen hundred people, the stores, machine shops, lawyers, doctors and all branches of business it requires to supply them with the daily necessities of life. Picture a city or town of that size traveling through the entire world, all people in a gathering and body, and always intact. Then visualize the tremendous problem of feeding a traveling city.

Each day in a different location. Each day a kitchen is set up in another place from 25 to 250 miles away. Then try to comprehend the organization back of it, that has all meals at regular hours. Never missing the hour in which the meal is called. After you have pictured the problem, picture the terrific task ahead of you if you were required to supervise this labor. It would seem impossible to you. Yet it is exactly what Schell Bros. Circus, like all large circuses in America, accomplishes each day. Buying food for the stock and ra-the Government. It is expected that the Canadian negotiators, who returned home several weeks ago, will return to Washington, and definite developments are expected shortly.

The science of medicine would be seriously hampered in its attack upon disease without the aid of stimulants. In like manner, the science of religion would be utterly baffled in its efforts without the aid of "The Stimulus of Jesus"—our sermon theme for Sunday's 11 o'clock service. There will be special musical features. "Christianity and Today's World" will be discussed in the evening sermon. Is Christianity necessary for today's world? Well, what's your opinion on that question?

for the people of the tented city is indeed one of the largest tasks, and daily finds an organization, working like well-oiled machinery, accomplishing their bit, quietly, easily, and without confusion, for men of highly trained ability are secured to handle each department of the circus.

Schell Bros. Circus shows in Memphis, Wednesday, September 25th. Reduced prices for this day only, adults 40c, children 25c.

Waples Platter House Enjoyed Splendid Growth

Branch Is Twenty Years Old

Twenty years ago, simply as a store with no local manager, the house of the Waples-Crocer Company has become one of the most important branches, serving a territory in building and railroads, and employing full-time men on possibilities of this city, the Waples Platter House after the establishment of the first small storage building, rented a 25-foot building on the south side of the city, and increased their stock of goods. At that time, J. Roger Wilson was made to sell their goods to other merchants.

of the local trade, the company to the manager in charge of the surrounding territory. This was John Montgomery working for the Amarillo.

manager was J. Wilson, who was again put in charge of the local house, and moved to the building, the Kelly company and, this being a doubling, the stock was doubled.

Wilson was put in charge of the Amarillo branch and here by E. W. Denwater, who later was D. Story as local manager. Mr. Story was in 1921, when Otis present manager, was in charge of the Memphis

Waples Platter Factories Busy

Another indication that business conditions are much better in the Southwest is the picture above, which shows the Fort Worth plants of the Waples Platter Company running full tilt to supply the demand for the company's products in the "White Swan Food Parade" Campaign which has just started. In these factories are packed White Swan Beans, Soups, Salad Dressing, Chile, Spaghetti, Tea, Rice, Coconut, and the other foods bearing the half-century-old White Swan label. Not in the picture are the White Swan Coffee roasting plants which are located in Dallas and Denison.

"The White Swan Food Parade is off to a grand start," said G. R. McKinney, vice-president and general manager of the Waples Platter Company, on his return this week from sales meetings which were most enthusiastic about business prospects for this fall. "Our men, the retail grocers and consumers all over the Southwest are quite interested in the White Swan Parade of finer foods. Initial orders for White Swan Coffee and other featured items lead us to believe that this will be the greatest fall which Waples Platter has experienced in years."

Harrell Chapel Club Meeting

Gen. John J. Pershing, at 75, is active in the work closest to his heart, clear-eyed, as square of shoulder and as firm of jaw as when he led U. S. troops to World War victory. The general is devoting most of his time to his work as chairman of the American Battle Monuments Commission, overseeing landscaping in French military cemeteries where 39,885 American soldiers are buried and maintenance of 21 battle monuments erected where American soldiers fell. The general is shown above in sketch and four recent poses.

BEGIN HERE TODAY Wreck Canby's rhythm at the Windmill Club tonight. He's still laying there, isn't he?"

"Yes," answered Elaine. "But don't worry about his rhythm. He taught it to Duchin and Vallee. By the way, darling, do you mind if I tell my parents I'm spending fall vacation with you in Boston?"

"Of course not," Hortense assured her. "Are you actually going through with that Ohio trip?"

"Yes," Elaine replied, snapping shut her handbag. "Have a smooth time at West Point tomorrow— which reminds me, if I get any mail from Annapolis today or tomorrow, put it in a plain envelope and forward it special delivery, will you? You'll find envelopes and stamps in the desk."

That evening Hortense found the expected Annapolis letter in the school mail office and, being genuinely conscientious about promises, took it to Elaine's room to readdress it. She knew that Mrs. Deal was alarmed at the mere thought of having a poor young naval officer for a son-in-law. It amused Hortense to send this letter to Elaine under the officious Mrs. Deal's very nose. She hoped, too, that Elaine would end by making some such ordinary marriage as this one—it would be quite a joke after the wide swathe she'd cut as a debutante.

While rummaging for a large plain envelope to enclose the Annapolis missive, Hortense chanced on a sealed letter directed to John McNeill, 1810 Garfield Avenue, Worthville, Ohio. So Elaine had written to that Ohio chap and forgotten to stamp and mail it! Well, she'd attend to that one, too. She did. Presently the two letters were mailed.

Ruth, in love with John, resolves to stay on a while at the old house, pretending to be Elaine.

John McNeill has fallen in love with Ruth and worries about her being alone in the old house with Bertha Gibbs.

John McNeill has fallen in love with "Elaine" and finds her congenial company. One night, en route to a mountain lodge for dancing, they are arrested for speeding and Ruth, not wishing to put the name of Elaine Chalmers on police records, tells the officer her name is "Ruth Woodson." She later tells John this is her "favorite alias." She is happy in John's company, but is secretly planning to slip away and end the adventure.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX
It was Friday and Elaine Chalmers was leaving college for a week-end in New York. Her mother and stepfather were now in their Fifth avenue house, and Elaine was about to combine a dual visit home with a week-end of gaiety.

As a porter carried her bags away she paused in the doorway of her room to bid goodby to her friend Hortense Stokesbury, who was applying herself to Renaissance art on the chaise longue. "Stay as long as you like, Hortense," Elaine said. "These rooms are more comfortable than yours."

"Thanks," replied Hortense, through not graciously. It was not pleasant to be reminded that Elaine's was the choice suite of Graycastle. "I'll stay till time to dress for dinner. Then I'll lock up after me. Well, goodby. Don't Elaine, her mother and stepfather had dinner en famille that night. Elaine thought, looking from one to the other, "They're not the same, only more so." She did not see them often, since the very rich must work hard going from place to place, changing houses and clothes with the seasons and suppressing their enthusiasms. Elaine found her mother a bit more glittery and thin and acid, her beauty not so much faded as sharpened. Elaine called her "Gwyn" and did not greatly love her.

As for her stepfather, Elaine actively disliked him; a heavily handsome, nose man like the villain in a fashionable play. Elaine diverted conversation from Deauville to Worthville by asking, "Do you ever think of going back to Ohio to visit, Gwen? To your old home, I mean?"

"God forbid," said Gwen Deal. "Nothing's left but that mausoleum and old Bertha Gibbs. I do my duty by both. I keep them."

Higate Deal looked up from his plate with heavy-lidded eyes. "And you're a fool, Gwen, to do it. What does rank sentiment profit you?"

"The house is not entirely mine to sell," said the woman sharply. "You know that, Higate."

"Who else does the place belong to?" asked Elaine.

Her mother answered shortly, "To your Uncle Duncan Hunter. He's insane. Locked in an institution."

"Oh," said Elaine. She saw her mother's face grow more sharp, her stepfather's more expressionless. There was something menacing and uncomfortable in the air. Elaine made haste to talk. "I used to like to visit here when Grandmother was alive. There were some attractive kids in town, I remember. What became of the McNeills, next door?"

"What would become of them?" said Gwen Deal, with a shrug. "They're vegetables, and vegetables stay where they're planted. Ellen McNeill was Ellen Reed. Good family, plenty of brains. Her younger sister who died was my childhood friend. Ellen married into the McNeill Pump Co. She's a widow now. Has a daughter important married in Washington, and a younger son. He ought to be in his early 20's. Old Bertha used to mention the McNeills now and then in her letters, but she doesn't mention anybody lately. Her eyes are bad—"

"You ought to get rid of her," said Higate Deal clearly with a quick stab at his fish. "She'll be burning the place down if you keep her on."

Elaine thought, "So he hates old Penny. I wonder why?" Long ago, as a child, she had learned to read his almost expressionless face. She asked, "Would you mind, Gwen, if I spend the fall vacation with Hortense Stokesbury in Boston? It starts Wednesday."

Mrs. Deal said, "Why, no. That would leave me free to run down to Ashville. I seem to need the mountains in the fall. Yes, go, dear."

Later, as Elaine was putting on make-up and wraps for the theater, Gwen Deal came to her. She said, first closing the door carefully, "I'm terribly worried, Elaine. It's something I can't talk to your stepfather about. Your questions about Worthville stirred me up again."

"Whatever's the matter, Gwen? De hurry. Teddy's waiting for me."

Gwendolyn Deal said: "I won't keep you long. It's about your Uncle Duncan. He's escaped from that place. They wrote me a confidential letter several days ago. It's their policy to keep things like that quiet. They expect to catch him."

Elaine stared at her, afire with interest. "Where do they expect to catch him?"

"Trying to get to South America. He was a botanist, you know. He collected tropical plants from the Brazilian jungles. It was known he wanted to go back there."

"Then why not let him?" Elaine asked shrewdly.

"That's what I say!" exclaimed her mother. "Only your stepfather wouldn't feel that way about it. They were bitter enemies before Duncan had to be locked up."

Elaine said, "Nonsense, Gwen.

"Why was he locked up, exactly?" asked Elaine.

Gwen Deal began to weep nervously into a fragile chiffon handkerchief. "It's all a horrible scandal, Elaine! Sometimes I can't sleep at night for thinking of it. Your Uncle Duncan came back from one of his South American trips just in time to attend an important directors' meeting of the railroad. I think he must have been half out of his head with fever or something. He disagreed with your stepfather's policies and they came to blows. Higate had him out in a sanitarium. He almost killed a doctor there—the doctor Higate had engaged to treat him. After that we had him adjudged insane and locked up. It's horrible. I'm his own sister and I haven't seen him for years. And now he's escaped—wandering around, God knows where. He may come here and kill Higate out of revenge."

Elaine said, "Nonsense, Gwen.

TEXAS PRODUCTS

It is a slogan much used but true that "What Texas makes, makes Texas."

Every time you purchase a product made in the state, you are spending your money with some concern that pays taxes, builds schools, erects churches and paves roads in your state—not some other.

Every time you purchase a product made out of the state, your money goes to provide these same things for someone else's state.

There are many necessities, of course, which are not produced in Texas, and these must come in from outside our borders, and you have no choice in the matter of their purchase.

In the matter of foodstuffs, especially canned and packaged goods, there are Texas concerns which put up in Texas, products raised in Texas for the Texas trade, and every time you purchase a can or package of this kind, you are spending money which will stay in Texas.

Think it over every time you make a purchase, whether of foodstuffs or other products—"What Texas makes, makes Texas."

NEUTRALITY

WITH the Italo-Ethiopian situation on a hair-trigger, ready to blaze into an inferno of war at any moment, it will no doubt be with a great deal of satisfaction that the people of the United States read the announcement by our President that, in the event of war, this country will be definitely neutral. We financed one world war with men and money, and we, as a people, want no more of it.

WOMEN DRIVERS AMUSED

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 20.—Stock in women automobile drivers was boosted in Iowa by a "quotation" that men drivers are involved in ten times as many accidents as women. During the first six months of 1935, according to the secretary of state, men were involved in 5,566 accidents, compared to 515 women.
