MEMPHIS, HALL COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY AFTERNOON, JUNE 17, 1943 FIVE CENTS NUMBER 1

Memphis Oil Mill Destroyed By Fire Rain, Hail, Wind Destroy Crops

Hail, wind and heavy rainfall damaged thousands of acres of crops in Hall County and adjoining counties from Brice east into Collingsworth County Monday night. The damaged territory was from ten to twenty miles wide, taking in the north part of Hall County and the Southern part of Donkey County reaching into Collingsworth.

Six inches of rain fell in the Brice and Lesley Communities and north of Lakeview, Monday night accompanied by big hailstones and strong wind. Many terraces were completely flattened out and most of the crops in the area were ruined. The wind did considerable damage to out-buildings. Additional rain fell early Wednesday morning in the Lesley area.

Many farmers in the stricken area have planted as many as five times this spring. Heavy rains and blowing sand have damaged the crops several times this year. It is reported that many farmers will not replant cotton, but will put their acreage in feeds.

Funeral Services For S. W. Fowler At Newlin Sunday

Resident of Hall County For 15 Years Had Been in Ill Health Several Years

Funeral services were conducted from the Baptist Church in Newlin at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 13, for S. W. Fowler, Rev. Frank Chism officiated assisted by Richard Robbins.

Mr. Fowler had been in ill health for several years, and passed away at his home here Friday evening at 6:45. He had been a resident of Hall County for 15 years, living in the Newlin community until recently when he moved to Memphis.

Sessa Wallace Fowler was born April 7, 1899 in Little River County, Arkansas. He was married to Miss Hortense Brewer on May 14, 1932. He had been a member of the Church of Christ for eighteen years.

One of the most disastrous fires in Memphis in several years occurred Wednesday evening when the main building of the Memphis Cotton Oil Mill was completely destroyed.

The fire was discovered in the first cut linter room about 7 o'clock. The full crew was still on duty but they were unable to handle the situation due to the strong wind and the local fire department was called.

The main building and machinery were completely destroyed and the estimated loss is $175,000, with a $10,000 stock. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

During the last few weeks, much work has been done on the machinery getting it ready for the busy season. The mill was in A-1 condition, according to Lowery Johnson, superintendent.

"We intend to build the mill back as soon as we possibly can, but it is doubtful that we can get the machinery in time to start very soon. We have priorities on every thing we need, since the mill is considered essential to the war effort, but it is hard to find the machinery. In ordinary times, we could have everything in running order again in three or four months, but now, I do not know just when we can run again," stated F. N. Foxhall, owner.

The fire was under control late Wednesday night but was still smoldering Thursday morning. Workmen were busy getting the water connections ready so that if the wind gets up the other buildings will not be likely to catch fire.

The burning of the Oil Mill is a distinct loss to the town and county, since it serves a wide territory. About twenty years ago, the Mill burned in the same way.

Sgt. Paul Frisbie Of U. S. Marines Visiting Parents

Sgt. Frisbie Has Four Stars Showing His Participation In Four Major Battles

Sgt. Paul Frisbie of the U. S. Marines, is here on a month's leave visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Frisbie. Sgt. Frisbie has been in four major battles with the Japanese, those of the Coral Sea, Midway, Santa Cruz and Pearl Harbor.

Sgt. Frisbie does not talk very much about the battles, but he says that Pearl Harbor was the worst because it was unexpected. He has been on board ship all the time, and entered the Marines in July, 1941.

He is an expert marksman and has four stars showing his action in the four battles. He was trying to man his gun when his ship was sunk.

In speaking of the strikes and what the men in uniform think of Lewis, Frisbie said "We don't like it. In the boys' opinions, Lewis is doing more toward harming the war effort than all the saboteurs."

"The Japanese believe that if they are killed in battle, they will go to Heaven, so we are trying to send as many as we can to Heaven," continued Frisbie.

T. SGT. MONROE WRITES LETTER OF RUINS OF OLD ROMAN CITY, 1500 BC

T. Sgt. Joyce L. Monroe is the son of Mrs. D. F. Monroe of Newlin and has been overseas in the combat zone since July 1942, and is somewhere in Africa. Sgt. Monroe is an air plane mechanic and bomber chief. His letter follows:—

May 17, 1943

Dear Mother and All,

Having just arrived from a long journey, I could use a little rest and sleep, otherwise I am ok and am feeling fine in every way. It was impossible to write last night, my usual time to write. You see, I have a habit and I think it "quayess" (Arabic for "very good") of writing you each Sunday night. But one day off schedule isn't too bad, is it?

I hope you are well and did you receive the greetings I sent for Mother's Day?

News of our success in the North African campaign is good news to all of you back there, I know. It certainly is a morale builder for us. More victories will come faster now I'm sure. Just a few more and the whole thing will be done up in a nut shell.

Since the campaign here is finished, I do not know where I will go—but you will probably know, roughly, my whereabouts, after some time.

In my last letter I told you I would tell you something of my visit to the ruins of an old Roman city dating back as far as 1500 B. C.

As yet, excavation which began in 1922, has not been completed. Due to the war, excavations have been stopped entirely, however, caretakers protect those things which have been uncovered already.

Situated on the Mediterranean, the city depended much on commerce for its existence. Many old and corroded anchors in their many queer shapes still remain on the shores of that centuries old city.

The population of the city was somewhat that of a modern football bleacher. Stone, of which much is marble, go to make up the structure. Figures of many gods and goddesses are carved in the marble base of the immense stage of the theatre. Of course, that of Venus in her graceful form is found there!

Near the ruins stands a museum which houses many things of interest taken from the old city. Many forms of pottery with various designs are included in the collection. Tear cups shaped somewhat like a very small vase were used by mourners at funerals in which to save the tears shed—an old Roman custom. Chunks of coins, stuck together by corrosion, are seen there. These had been found where they had been placed in a container believed to have been 30,000. An amphitheatre (open air theatre) has been preserved better than any of the structures. Built to accommodate 5000 people, the seating arrangement resembles of some sort and due to time and corrosion had adhered to form one mass of metal; however, the coins on the outside can be distinguished very clearly. Many corroded surgical instruments and other small hand tools can be seen.

Many statues of gods and goddesses are found in the museum, while some are seen on the beautiful grounds in front of the museum.

Remains of churches, their huge columns still standing and beautiful mosaics adorning the marble floors are found. Large stone containers for water where babies were baptized then placed on the altar to be prayed over still remain.

The cemetery was visited which is about a quarter of a mile from the theatre. Entering a tunnel some six feet in diameter, we groped our way by aid of flashlights, several yards beyond the mouth of the caves. Graves lined either side of the tunnel wall, with here and there, where the seal had been broken, the whole skeleton of bodies could be seen! With them could be seen the remains of a pitcher which was used to contain water for the deceased. Along with the pitcher water, a quantity of food was also placed as it was believed that the dead required food and water soon after death! Graves were made by cutting holes to accommodate the body in the side of the tunnel. After placing the body there, the grave was then sealed.

So much for the ruins of the old Roman city! One can get a glimpse into the past of how those people of centuries ago lived and struggled in a world without our modern inventions.

Mother, I will write again soon but must close for tonight.

I have visited many places while here in this particular theatre of war. I have seen Tripoli many times, the city the Marines made famous in the early 19th century. The Mareth Line where the Germans tried vainly to stop the 8th Army has also been seen. The bomb shattered towns as Sfax and Gabes, which have seen much bitter fighting, have passed before my eyes.

I would love to be home tonight with all you—but will look forward to that some time later.

Lots of love to all,

Joyce

"A" Gasoline Books To be Renewed by Mail States OPA

Designated Service Stations Will Have Applications for New Books on June 22

West Texas farmers and others living at a distance from their local War Price and Rationing Boards may renew their "A" gasoline coupon books by mail, the District OPA office pointed out today, in an effort to save gasoline and prevent loss of hours from work. This plan will go into effect on June 22 and after that time, both motorists and bicyclists should begin picking up their application forms. Local Boards will publicize the names of filling stations at which the forms can be secured, the OPA said.

Due to the fact that "A" rations expire on July 21, applications should start coming in immediately after June 22 in order that the boards will have time to process them and mail them back before expiration date. This mail renewal plan also includes renewal of the basic "D" motorcycle rations and eliminates the school-house registration that was necessary when basic rations were issued, the OPA said.

Steps pointed out in the procedure to follow include (1) on June 22 pick up application forms from designated service stations; (2) fill out forms according to instructions and mail them back immediately to the boards. Accompanying these forms should be (a) the back cover of the present "A" or "D" book (properly filled out), and (b) the current tire inspection record, showing that proper inspections have been made. New applications should show serial number of tires now on a car and if there has been any change since the last tire inspection, a note of explanation and evidence of purchase should accompany the application form.

WINNING ESSAY ON "ADVANTAGES OF COW, HOG, HEN TYPE OF FARMING"

The writer of this essay is Colbert Chappell, winner of a gilt. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Chappell of Plaska. His essay follows.

All farmers should raise all of the cattle, swine and poultry each year that they can possibly handle. In this way, they will save. If cattle go down in price, then swine usually go up. Poultry usually hold their own, no matter what happens. Even if the prices go down, they go on contributing food that human beings have to have.

Among the products to be received from such animals and fowls are such articles of food that supply human needs for meat, eggs and milk. Therefore greatly reducing the cost of buying food.

Most of the smaller portion of crops can be fed to animals and more meat will be consumed directly by humans. This change must come with the increased demand for human food, since even the highest producing animals can convert only a part of their food into forms edible for man. However, until the World War caused a temporary increase in the number of beef cattle and swine in this country, due to the pressing need for more animal products for export, the number of cattle and sheep had actually been decreasing, and the number of swine had increased but little. This means that the animals products cannot hold their present, very important, place in our diet unless the American Farmer begins to learn the principles and methods that are essential to its success.

Through recent years, the farmers have been selling their crops for cash instead of putting a part of it into raising livestock. They are too careless about their land and forget that it takes eight to ten dollars worth of fertilizer out of every ton of feed sold. This will gradually wear out the fields, that must forever after be fed

Women Work

By INEZ BAKER

For some time we have wanted to tell you about the Junior Red Cross in Hall County, which has been functioning for about two years. First under the direction of Miss Vera Gilreath and since May 1942 under Mrs. T. M. Harrison. All schools of the county are enrolled with the exception of two. To be so enrolled each grammar school room is required to pay fifty cents, each high school group, one dollar. The enrollment fee, of $24.50, has been paid this year and there is now $142.80 in reserve.

Mrs. Harrison has worked diligently to enroll all schools, instill a knowledge in every junior heart of what the Red Cross stands for and create a desire for service. She feels now that much may be accomplished and looking forward to this she has resigned as county chairman and will devote her time to furthering production in Memphis. Miss Mary Foreman has been appointed county chairman and has formed a Junior Council.

The Juniors have been producing through the senior Red Cross, making sweaters, afghans, and lap covers and have donated cash. Here after, if plans work out as expected, they too will have a quota and all activities will be reported and credited to the Junior Red Cross. In this way it is believed that much more will be accomplished and they will feel that the work and responsibility is really all their own.

Every teacher in the county has cooperated wonderfully in the great work. They are helping to train Red Cross workers for the future.

Since permission has been given for teen age girls to help with surgical dressings the girls have certainly been doing their part and more. Some one said they looked like angels, when they donned their white caps. They are, angels of mercy.

Estelle Penry, Field Representative of the Red Cross, stopped in Memphis a few hours one day last week and conferred with Mrs. B. Webster and Mrs. T. M. Harrison. She made the statement that the Red Cross in Hall County was working "Smooth as silk" and needed no instruction from her.

In response to many requests the surgical dressings room will be open hereafter each afternoon, Monday through Saturday. Arrangements have been made to seat about forty workers at time, so do not feel the rooms will be too crowded. Monday afternoon would be a good time for church societies to donate to the Red Cross.

Memphis has gone through some changes since I was there. I came to Hall County in 1914 and it seems like home to me, but I find good people here.

There were 21 churches here when I first came but the war decreased the number some. We have six schools, the finest high school building in the Panhandle. 99 graduate this year.

Thanking you for the paper and best luck to you all at Memphis.

THOSE ZEPHYRS ARE CERTAINLY DOING A JOB THESE DAYS, TOM.

YEP, THEY'RE GIVING US SPEED WHERE IT REALLY COUNTS

Bill—Take those two Zephyrs right there, for example. Both of them make a trip of 835 miles every day.

Tom—That's between Dallas, Fort Worth and Denver isn't it?

Bill—Yep. They make that trip every day, and that means more than 25,000 miles a month for each one of them.

Tom—That really means something when Uncle Sam's got so many men to keep moving.

Bill—Means a lot in handling important civilian travel, too.

Tom—I understand the Burlington's got a lot of Zephyrs running around the country. I'll bet they're all plenty busy, these days.

YOU'RE RIGHT, TOM—every one of our 14 diesel-powered Zephyrs is dedicated to one objective—to handle as MUCH vital traffic as possible, as FAST as possible. That goes for Burlington Lines' entire fleet of steam-powered trains, too—both passenger and freight. More than 35,000 Burlington workers are dedicated to the same cause.

County Men in the Armed Forces

Following letter is from Lt. L. E. Jenkins Jr. to his mother, Mrs. L. E. Jenkins. He is stationed at the Hawaiian Islands.

Dear Mother: All: I received your letter this morning. Was really surprised to hear from you. I am making it O. K. and everything is the same at home. I am really sorry to hear about the sandstorms and rain. I am glad to hear the farmers are planting their cotton. I hope the crops are going well this year. I am glad to hear the school is just fine. I have been busy the last few days. But looks like this is a good sign for everyone. I hope to see you soon and expect a long letter. Love, L. E.

Mrs. J. A. Kutch received the following letter from her son, Pvt. W. Kutch, who is some- where in North Africa with the Red Cross. I had several passes into the beautiful city of Algiers and was able to see quite a bit of that city but will tell you all about when I come back home. While on the pass into Oran, I met a girl in the Red Cross that used to go with Paul Greene and she asked me my name and said that she would write Paul and tell him she saw me and that he might write you all that I was in there at that time. Well, that just about ends the amount of information that I can give you as to where I've been.

and possibly I can tell you where I am now later on. Until there is an APO set up near us, we won't be able to write but two letters per week so just rest assured that I am just fine and we were all plenty glad when the Germans were defeated here in N. Kidneys Must Work Well

For You To Feel Well 24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging back-ache, headache, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Keep the Victory Garden Producing Conscientious Victory gardeners, especially those living in areas having suitable moisture, plant and harvest throughout the growing season. But J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist for the A. and M. College Extension Service, cautions against planting any but heat resisting varieties in summer. English peas, head lettuce, mustard greens, bush beans and radishes are not suited to a hot weather garden.

After the white potatoes are dug plant blackeyed or cream peas in the same rows, Rosborough suggests. When early mustard greens go to seed, follow with okra, green pepper plants, or even Swiss chard. Incidentally, Swiss chard has more vitamin A than any of the other greens. Leaf lettuce, which is tolerant of warm weather, is an excellent successor to early radishes, but gardeners should be careful not to confuse the leaf variety with head lettuce. Grand Rapids or Black Seeded Simpson are recommended for good summer growth.

Explant does well in hot weather, with Florida Highbush or Purple Beauty well suited to Texas growing conditions. Allow three feet of space between plants but watch out for potato bugs. When this pest gets a start on potatoes it will move to eggplants and eat them up in a few days. On the first appearance of the bugs dust the plants with calcium arsenate and they will give no further trouble. A second planting of sweet corn may be made now in order to provide roasting ears over a long period. When it is up 10 to 12 inches thin the stand to two feet apart. All hot weather vegetables need more room for moisture and plant food than the early ones.

The horticulturist warns against digging potatoes in the morning and allowing them to lie in the sun all day. Dig in the evening and place them in a cool, shady spot immediately to dry for a day or two. Then spread them out on poles or straw in a cool, dark place where air circulates freely. Never have the potatoes more than two layers deep and, if there is room, a single layer is even better. Remove all bruised potatoes before storing them.

Electricity for Dehydration Has Many Advantages

Electricity offers certain definite advantages as a source of heat for home drying of fruits and vegetables, says Winifred Jones, specialist in food preservation for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

She explains that electricity is clean and does not give off objectionable fumes. When this method is followed, the products are dried inside a cabinet where they are protected from dust, flies, and contamination. An electrical dehydrator is convenient, requiring a minimum labor and attention, and does not heat up a room appreciably.

Use of an electric drier leaves the kitchen stove free for the normal preparation of food, the specialist adds. It is easily portable and can be used at any time regardless of the weather.

There are two general types of small electric dehydrators now in use, the "forced air" type and the type which depends on "gravity" for the natural circulation of the air. A small fan is necessary for operation of the first type, speeding up circulation of the air. The second type depends upon the rise of heated air through the cabinet for the drying process.

Material on the construction and operation of electric fruit and vegetable dehydrators for home use has been prepared by P. T. Montfort, research associate of the A. and M. department of agricultural engineering; M. R. engineer, and Miss Jones. This information and a leaflet on "Home Drying of Fruits and Vegetables" are available from county agents.

Berry Crop Saved In Medina County

Quick action on the part of the Medina County War Price and Rationing Board and cooperative home demonstration club women recently saved the berry crop in the irrigated district of the county.

Recently when the berries were ripe and the Pearson and O. M. K. & T. home demonstration clubs sent a committee to the board asking for sugar to use in canning the fruit. At that time the board had received no regulations on the issue of sugar for berry canning. But members took matters in their own hands, allowing five pounds of sugar per person for canning, and restricting the amount to 20 pounds of canning sugar per family.

Home demonstration club women were authorized to handle this phase of the rationing program. Velma Hambleton, Medina County home demonstration agent, says sufficient sugar to can 5,517 quarts of berries was issued. This emergency ruling applied only in the irrigated district where many berries are grown and otherwise would have gone to waste.

Handling of the sugar rationing by the club women saved not only fruit, but tires, gasoline, oil and rubber, Miss Hambleton says, for the office of the rationing board is 35 miles from the county's irrigated district.

Childress County Sow Deserves E Pennant Says Owner

A Chester White sow belonging to D. L. Brummett and his mother, Mrs. B. P. Brummett, of the Community Center community in Childress County has farrowed 50 pigs in 11 months and six days, and Mrs. Brummett believes she is entitled to an E pennant from the War Production Board. The sow, appropriately, is named Victory.

Victory's first litter of 11 males and six females was farrowed on June 6, 1942; the second of 10 males and four females on November 14, 1942; and the third litter of 11 females and 8 males on May 12. Bottle feeding some of the pigs, Mr. Brummett raised 23 hogs from the first two litters, and 18 of the last litter of 19 are living. The third litter weighed 45 pounds at birth.

The two-year-old sow was purchased for $4 when she was two months old, and she has proved to be a good investment. Mr. Brummett received $175 for the pigs at weaning time, and he saved back one female which farrowed 10 pigs May 14, as well as a meat hog which weighed 275 pounds at seven months of age. He considers the $175 clear profit since the meat hog and the bred gilt are worth their investment in feed.

Victory's 10 "grandchildren" now are thriving.

Grubs Retard Gain Of Cattle Weight

A recent demonstration in pest control revealed how infestation of cattle grubs may retard an animal's gain in weight until the owner loses money on his feed investment.

John O. Stovall, Hemphill County agricultural agent, and Marvin J. Simms, former Roberts County agent, assisted with a demonstration conducted by J. O. Wells, Roberts County rancher. Wells bought 27 bulls which were received at his ranch 15 miles Northwest of Miami on November 15. On that date they averaged 965 pounds in weight. Daily the bulls were fed four pounds of cake, all the bundles they could eat, and they were kept on grass.

The bulls were weighed a second time on February 17 and they were found to average 1,010 pounds, so the average gain was 45 pounds. On that date Stovall and Simms demonstrated the control methods to John Parker, foreman on the Wells ranch. No vat was available, but the animals were treated with a power spray. Stovall described the grub infestation as "moderate".

On March 17, the bulls were weighed again and they averaged 1,072... a gain of 62 pounds in 30 days, compared with the previous gain of 45 pounds over a 90-day period. The ration was not varied during the four months.

Figuring the cost of cake at about eight cents per day and the bundles at two cents per bundle, the agents point out that it probably cost Wells about twelve cents per day to feed each animal. During the first three months, the bulls were gaining only about a half a pound a day... or, at current stock yard prices, increasing in value about five cents per day. After the treatment for grubs, the bulls put on weight at the rate of two pounds per day, increasing in value at the rate of 20 cents daily.

Farm Labor Jobs Assigned Agents

Texas' 236 county agricultural agents have been assigned the farm labor program within their counties, H. H. Williamson, director of the A. and M. College Extension Service has announced.

Recruiting, training, and placement of all farm labor within the county, and of directing labor centers and the camps for migratory workers in the state, will be among the responsibilities of the county agricultural agent. If and when war prisoners are available for farm labor in Texas this additional phase of the program also will be under the jurisdiction of the agents.

Quoting Lt. Colonel Jay L. Taylor, Panhandle rancher and business man who is the deputy administrator of the War Food Administration in charge of labor, he said that "99 per cent of the program will be carried on in the State of Texas and the counties, and one per cent in Washington." He emphasized, "There'll be no cotton chopped, pigs slopped or berries picked in Washington or College Station. The problem and the job belong to the county."

The national farm labor act assigned the administration of the farm labor program to the Extension Services of the land grant colleges in the 48 states. President T. O. Walton of A. and M., chairman of the executive committee of the Land Grant College Association, recently pointed out that the Extension groups had not sought the responsibility "like good soldiers."

While farmers will not be able to obtain the type of labor to which they are accustomed, the Extension Service will help them obtain and make best use of the available workers.

"Human Chain of Communication" Is Successful

County Agents and Leaders of Communities Cooperate In Giving Information

On its first anniversary, the "human chain system of communication" which the A. and M. College Extension Service set up to receive and transmit war-time information was serving 372,000 rural families in Texas. The links in the chain are 8,700 community and 37,000 who serve voluntarily, Bess Edwards, assistant state home demonstration agent, said in a network broadcast one year after the neighborhood leader system was established.

Miss Edwards says there is plenty of evidence that the human chain has served the cause of Victory. Community leaders in Carson County ordered the varieties of tomato seed recommended by the Southern Great Plains Experiment Station and are raising plants for use in their neighbors' Victory gardens. Neighborhood leaders have worked diligently in helping collect Red Cross funds. In Austin County, leaders recently obtained about $1,600 for the Red Cross and $44,000 in war bond pledges.

One Nolan County leader, Mrs. Herman Heine made 16 visits in one afternoon, receiving donations from each person she visited. The amounts varied from $1 to $50.

Information flows both ways through the human chain. Recently leaders in Haskell County notified their county Extension Service agents that large numbers of laying hens were being lost because of typhoid and fowl cholera. Both agents and leaders then went to work to notify all families of the necessary control measures for these diseases. The method for transmitting and receiving information with the leader. Heley, aged 11, received his country by riding back to distribute 100 Latin American Espada Mission. Buy Bonds—Buy Bombs.

Blackeyed Peas Go to Market

Farmers from 118 counties are producing blackeyed peas for Uncle Sam this year. Assured a floor price of $5.75 a bushel, the year's crop under the Freedom program if conditions are met, the price already is collected and will be used to pay farmers in making market payments before harvest.

Current information that only 40 of the 100 now have adequate cleaning facilities for peas in carload lots, conditions upon which price is contingent.

Since most producers are small acreages last year, pooling arrangements for concentration of load shipments might be encouraged in order to load local markets at the minimum rate, it is said.

Although some respect to dispose of the peas through local markets, the peas for home use and the support price is expected to be the minimum rate, it is said.

LET'S AVERT MANPOWER SHORTAGE

MANPOWER shortage is really coming home to us now as it is nearing cotton chopping time and then in a few months, it will be "boll pulling time."

Members of the County Agricultural Victory Council have made plans whereby this acute shortage in and around Hall County may be averted and not one bit of the 1943 crop will be lost.

But, members of the Victory Council cannot do this by themselves. They must have the help and cooperation of every person, not only farmers but townspeople, the business and professional men and women.

First, farmers must be willing to teach the "new hands" the business of farming. Too many people seem to think that anyone can be a farmer, but ask any farmer and he will tell you that it takes study and work to be successful. He must know the whens, whys and hows of his crops and his livestock. And, this year, the farmer will have to be patient and show these people who are willing to help. It will not be easy on either one but since skilled help cannot be found, it will have to be done.

Second, laborers must expect to be shown the right way to do the work on a farm. He must not go to the farm thinking that he knows it all or that his way is the best way. Each farmer has his own way of doing things just as each merchant has his own way of running his business, so the person who goes to the farm must be willing and ready to learn.

In other years, people have worried about and thought of the cotton crops because in this country if the farmer fails, we all fail; this year, though, it is not just the business end of it that is being discussed. Cotton and its products are one of the most vital war crops and to win this war, not one pound of cotton can be lost.

This article mentions cotton more than any other crop since this is such a fine cotton country, but there are other crops just as important and farmers are raising more poultry and livestock than ever this year.

So, let's cooperate and there won't be any waste in this land of plenty.

If we permit inflation to happen, the resulting economic chaos will deprive us of the fruits of a military victory.

In recent floods in Arkansas, an old negro, a flood evacuee who was unmoved when Red Cross workers provided him with food and clothing, burst into tears when they gave his mule a bale of hay.

This is a people's war and the people through paying war taxes and buying War Bonds must foot the bill.

Press Paragraphs

SELECTED FROM THE DEMOCRAT'S EXCHANGE

Glory and splendor may be woven into the colorful uniforms which men in the armed services are wearing, but comfort of a cowboy riding togerly is not achieved by designers flushed with the spell of war. Recently an old rider was honorably discharged to return to his saddle and the needlegrass range. When he arrived in town his first stop was the barber shop bathroom. There beside the empty tub, they found his GI clothes, where he had stepped out of them in exchange for a loose-fitting shirt, blue Levi's, a broadbrimmed hat and a pair of remover cowboy boots.—Matador Tribune.

Seasoning
A seasoned trooper is one who has been mustered by his officer and peppered by the enemy.

(That's another $5 suggestion.)—Donley County Leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Klous recently received a picture of their son, Staff Sergeant Austin Klous, having an air medal pinned on him. Austin was grinning broadly in the picture and he explained the reason was because the officer has just asked "Where in the hell is Tulsa?"—Tulsa Herald.

People in America, when approached to buy bonds to aid in financing the war, should remember that in the enemy countries the dictators give the people no opportunity to buy bonds. They take what they want and give nothing in return.—Foard County News.

No doubt you've heard the expression "talk turkey" all of your life. The expression has lived through generations and is just as commonly used today as it was 50 years ago. With the expression goes a mental picture of a red-faced individual pounding his fist on a table.—Hereford Brand.

It takes guts to "hit the silk"

Yet a paratrooper's confidence in his equipment makes his jump easier. His chute has been checked and rechecked. His green uniform is briar-proof. His special boots are reinforced to protect his ankles from shock of landing.

This is another example of how the Army designs special uniforms for special jobs. Down to the underwear—where styles and fabrics match the climate.

You can also have good styling and easy-fitting comfort in your underwear. For, during the past 40 years, the makers of HANES Underwear have kept up to the minute in knitting and tailoring underwear for comfort and long wear.

As one example, HANES Crotch-Guard Shorts (shown at right) provide gentle athletic support. For warm-weather comfort, wear them with a HANES Undershirt. Knit to exact chest size. Its highly absorbent fabric evaporates perspiration quicker—keeps you cooler and your top-shirt fresher. P. H. Hanes Knitting Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

THESE HORSES HAVE JOINED THE CAVALRY! The merry-go-round has gone to war! Like the plants that made refrigerators, stoves, furniture, and many other familiar household items, a plant that made merry-go-rounds is now turning out vital equipment for our fighting forces. It was the biggest job ever performed by American industry to change over from washing machines to guns, from automobiles to planes and tanks. A job that demanded more machinery, more equipment, more men—and more electric power! That's part of the story why America clicks, of our amazing ability to get things done. Let's feel proud of our achievement... proud that we have more electric power here in America than all the rest of the world combined, and we are using it. Yes, we have built up in this country more kilowatt-hour output than all the Axis dominated countries combined. The electric power line is another line the Axis cannot hold. Lines have been extended to new factories and military training camps ahead of schedule. It was not an accident that America was power-full. Electric companies, under business management like the West Texas Utilities, had planned ahead. Knowing their business, schooled in emergencies, they saw to it that Uncle Sam had plenty of electric power—wherever and whenever needed! It's on tap for all civilian needs too—no shortages, no rationing, no increase in cost. It's an outstanding wartime example of what free men can do. Free enterprise works! We're fighting this war to hold this freedom. Government bureaucracies should place full emphasis on winning the war and desist from their political endeavors to permanently change our system of government. West Texas Utilities Company

AAA Penalty is Lifted in West

Texas farmers were given additional encouragement to plan for maximum production when the $15 per acre penalty for failure to meet 90 percent of their war crop goals was lifted this week.

The penalty will no longer apply in the majority of Texas counties, but it will remain in effect in 19 Panhandle counties where hay and pasture goals have been established.

In these counties, he continued, the $15 per acre deduction will apply only to those farms on which the county AAA committee decide that abnormal weather conditions have not interfered with achieving the farm's war crop goal.

Counties included are Dallam, Deaf Smith, Hansford, Hartley, Moore, Oldham, Sherman, Carson, and Castro, Gray, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Ochiltree, Farmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts and Wheeler.

"Since incentive payments have been withdrawn from several warcrops, many Texas farmers felt that the penalty also should be withdrawn," Vance declared. He said that in his opinion farmers still would meet the war crop goals they had pledged on individual farm plan sheets.

Czechoslovak Army in Russia

These radiophotos from Moscow to New York are the first pictures to reach the U. S. showing the Czechoslovak Army in Russia: Above, platoon commander Albert Elovich cautiously leads a machine gun crew down the street of a village from which the Germans have been repulsed. Col. Ludvik Svoboda (right), commander of the Czechoslovak units on the Soviet front, has just been given the Order of Lenin, the Soviet Union's highest award, for courage displayed on the field of battle.

Organized in July, 1941, with an agreement between the Czechoslovak and the Russian governments, and acting under the full sovereignty of their own government, these Czechoslovak units have been in action against Germans since Jan., 1943. Made up of officers, men and women auxiliaries who made their way to Russia after the Germans marched into Prague, these units trained with the Red Army, then asked to be sent to the front. A Russian communique on April 2 gave special mention to a unit under Lieut. Yarosh, which held an important village against repeated tank attacks of superior enemy forces. Recently, 87 Czechoslovaks were awarded high military honors by the Soviet Union.

For those who are making half-payments on the 1942 tax, a six per cent penalty will be added unless the second half is paid by July 1. THE DEMOCRAT STAFF POET
You know somehow I can't keep from thinking about the big rain my Grandpa told me about. He said it came up a shower one day while he was a plowing and it fell so hard it drove up all the fence post on his farm. He was a man that believed in culture and class. Why he never did marry until he found a woman that had the same blood pressure he had. He reckoned it was alright for a woman's blood to be a little thin, but he figured a man's should be thick enough so it wouldn't jell if his wife caught him puffing around. Warm weather is to blame for my poem today—

JUST WISHING
I'd like to be a big green tree, With Glossy rustling leaves, And then I'd get a cooling breeze. Every time there was a breeze.

I'd like to furnish ample shade Beneath my drooping boughs, Where loving couples stopped to rest. And watch the browsing cows.

Of course I wouldn't want to be Just a common sort of tree, But a giant oak where song birds nest And send forth melody.

FEED NOW FOR EGG PRODUCTION LATER

Pullets between 8 and 24 weeks of age are through a vitally important stage of their lives in which a rugged, vigorous and strong egg-making ability is concerned. It is during this period that must be developed—in order to hold up under the strain of later high-speed production.
