Trade Pact Of Record Scope To Be Completed By Signatures Today

U.S., England And Canada In Accord

Reciprocal Agreements Involve Tremendous Volume

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The greatest commercial accord in recent history, embracing a total American trade of $1,500,000,000 a year, was ready today for signature by high officials of the United States, Great Britain and Canada.

Formal ceremonies for concluding the reciprocal agreements, apex of Secretary Hull's commercial program, were arranged for 3 p. m. in the famous east room of the White House.

Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada, Sir Ronald Lindsay, the towering British ambassador, and Secretary Hull were designated to sign the bulky documents for their governments.

During a two-day visit here, Mackenzie King also is expected to confer with President Roosevelt on the latter's plans for mutual defense of the western hemisphere.

With relations between the United States and Germany strained over Nazi violence against the Jews, the Anglo-American trade agreement appeared destined to bring the United States and Britain closer together.

Germany, now on the United States' economic blacklist because of her discriminations against American trade, is not eligible for the same tariff reductions granted Britain under the new agreement. Some officials believed the treaty might act as a restraining force on Germany, perhaps inducing Adolf Hitler not only to quell anti-Semitic outbreaks but also to seek a similar trade agreement with the United States.

Secretary Hull was visibly

Dies Inquiry Draws Jeers From CIO

Texan Tells Convention State 'Ashamed' Of Congressman

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17 (AP)—The C. I. O. convention today jeered the name of Martin Dies, chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, when a delegate read a resolution calling for an "investigation of the un-American activities of the Dies committee."

J. E. Crossland, of the industrial union council of Texas, Dies home state, offered the resolution and said of Dies:

"He looked young and bright and they thought he would be another Huey Long and not another Hitler. x x x"

The jeers and boos started when Crossland first mentioned the name "Dies" and continued as he declared it was impossible to get "rid" of the congressman at the last election because "some people still believe he may do some good." Jeers were loudest as the speaker added Texans were "ashamed of him."

Then, Crossland said: "We are apologizing for him. But he don't want this convention to go on record as condemning him but we want to read into the record our sentiments."

The convention took no action upon Crossland's resolution, but adopted a civil rights bureau resolution advocating creation of a permanent independent bureau in

JEFFERSON NICKELS DISTRIBUTED HERE

New nickels brightened the money marts here Thursday, but they were scarce and only small numbers of the coins were passed out to customers.

Supplies at the two banks amounted to comparatively few dollars in the shining new five cent coin.

Resembling a quarter in many respects, exclusive of size and purchasing power, the coin bears the head of Thomas Jefferson on one side and his home, Monticello, on the other. Jefferson is the third person to have his likeness appear on a regular U. S. coin. Washington and Lincoln coins have been circulated for years.

STATE PAYMENT TO SCHOOLS RECEIVED

'Tough Going' For Red Cross

Workers Urged To Complete Canvass, Make Reports

Shine Phillips, chapter chairman for the Red Cross, borrowed a line from General Grant Thursday morning after checking results of the roll call to date.

"We are going to fight it out along this line if it takes all winter," he observed. "We are going to keep going until we reach our 2,500 membership goal."

According to figures at Thursday noon, the going may be prolonged for only about one-fourth of the needed memberships have been reported. The total membership at noon stood at 653, a gain of 133 over the preceding day. Funds received in the roll call netted $928.27. For the 24-hour period ending Thursday noon, 117 memberships and $131.62 were reported by workers whereas 16 memberships and $46 came in unsolicited.

Mrs. Mary Delbridge, who organized the residential campaign, urged all workers to clear their territories and report before and not later than Saturday if at all possible.

Firms reporting 100 per cent memberships included Carl Strom, Mellinger's, Hollywood, Omar Pittman Jewelry, Vogue, Lone Star Chevrolet, Al's Sandwich Shop, Waits Jewelry, First National Bank, Morrison and Morrison, Dora Roberts' Interests, Thomas and Thomas.

Bankers Avoid Reference To Future Bills

Mild Resolution Approved On Chartering, Taxation

HOUSTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The American Bankers association today adopted a resolution urging limited chartering of banks, elimination of overlapping taxation by state and federal governments and reaffirmed its stand on the dual system of banking, branch banking and the autonomy of the laws of separate states with respect to banking.

The resolution, presented to the convention by A. L. Lathrop of Los Angeles, chairman of the resolutions committee, was adopted unanimously.

The mild resolution failed to mention specifically any of the impending bills in the next congress—a subject many observers had expected to be discussed at the closing general session of the convention.

A resolution regarding the national budget, stated simply: "We reiterate the position of this association that a return to a balanced budget should be the prime objective of a sound public fiscal policy. This applies to national, state and municipal governments."

On the subject of taxation, the resolution said it is of vital importance that taxes shall not be punitive, discriminatory or confiscatory and urged that they be devised and administered "that they may be taken out of the national income with the smallest possible injury to the sources of that income."

"Therefore, we reiterate the recommendation that overlapping and duplicate taxation by local, state and federal governments be eliminated, and that the administration of the several taxing laws be so standardized that taxpayers may know their tax liabilities with a reasonable degree of certainty."

Would Merge US Quota For Three Years

This Nation Asked To Accept 81,000 Immediately

BERLIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Prominent Jews today suggested that the United States "mortgage" the German immigration quota for the next three years and accept 81,000 Jews immediately.

Fear More Violence
Frantically trying to arrange refuge from the Nazi laws against them, they pleaded that America, England and France and Germany permit the German Jewish population to emigrate without passports.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Suggestions of prominent Jews in Berlin that Germany's immigration quotas to the United States be "mortgaged" for the next three years would require an act of congress to carry out.

If adopted, the scheme would take at least three or four months to put into operation.

and visas "because of the acute need."
The Jews kept away from population centers today, afraid that the funeral at Duesseeldorf of Ernst Von Rath, slain Nazi diplomat, might lead to more violence.

Jewish estimates today were that 56,000 of their number had been arrested.

The first reaction to President Roosevelt's press conference statement of plans for an air force that could defend both North and South America came in an editorial published by Voelkischer Beobachter, Chancellor Hitler's newspaper.

It said the president pictured an "unfathomable menace" to America and that "suspicions were cast on other powers in the interest of United States armaments."

There still was no indication of what feeling may have been aroused by the president's statement against Nazi treatment of the Jews.

The Berlin group which proposed the emigration plan said there now are 500,000 Jews in Germany, not including Austria and Sudentland.

They suggested:
Of these, 50,000 could be accepted by Palestine.

Another 100,000 over 60 years of age, would remain in Germany.

Worthy relatives in foreign countries could take and support 25,000.

If the United States would open its immigration quota for 1939, 1940 and 1941, 81,000 could leave Germany. The annual American quota for German immigration is 27,000.

The 244,000 remaining would be taken by countries with colonies, principally France and England.

If the 31 countries represented by the Evian-Les-Bains International refugee committee could agree to such a scheme for old Germany, the Jewish group said a similar one could be devised for the recently annexed regions.

Jews with a knowledge of Jewish finance took exception to official statements that their wealth amounted to 7,000,000,000 to 8,000,000,000 marks (about $2,800,000,000 to $3,200,000,000).

They thought about half that would be nearer right, and asserted the billion mark fine ($400,000,000) for the shooting of Von Rath would take 50 per cent of liquid property.

Slain Envoy Given A Martyr's Funeral By Nazi Officialdom

DUESSELDORF, Germany, Nov. 17 (AP)—With a challenge to the world, the Nazi gave a martyr's funeral today to the assassinated diplomat Ernst Von Rath.

Adolf Hitler, many other high officials and the whole nation—by radio—heard Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop close a funeral oration with an ominous repetition of the words the reichsfuehrer himself used on a like occasion in 1936:

"We understand the challenge, and accept it."
Von Rath was killed by a young Jew in the German embassy in Paris last week. The death touched off a wave of anti-semitic violence in Germany.

Today's impressive ceremonies in the swastika-draped Rhineland hall recalled the funeral, at which Hitler spoke, of Wilhelm Gustloff, Nazi organizer in Switzerland who was killed Feb. 4, 1936, by a young Yugoslav student. That event precipitated intensified anti-semitism. German Jews expected new actions and restrictive measures to follow the burial today.

Von Ribbentrop and Ernst Wilhelm Bohle, state secretary and head of the organization for Germans living abroad, extolled the young embassy secretary as a blood witness to the Nazi cause.

They vowed the fight against international Jewry would be unrelenting.

Bohle referred to Von Rath as "the eighth victim abroad of the Jewish-bolshevist lust for murder" and asserted: "The shots fired at Davos (Switzerland, where Gustloff was killed), Barcelona and Paris had but one aim—Germany, the third reich."

Hitler did not speak.
Von Ribbentrop declared that "lies and calumnies, persecution and murder are the means employed by international Jewry and other destructive powers which would like to block Germany's road into the future."

"Their last victim was party comrade Von Rath."
"If now a new wave of hate strikes out at us in the world, if an attempt is made to desecrate the sacrifice of our deceased party comrade by new lies and calumnies, a storm of indignation rises throughout our nation."

"Its determination at all times to sacrifice everything for the Fuehrer and the reich becomes all the firmer."

May Consider Change In Immigration Acts

SECOND ENVOY IS RECALLED

BERLIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Douglas Miller, commercial attache of the United States embassy, was called to Washington today less than 24 hours after the departure of Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson. Miller was directed to report in Washington not later than January 1.

The calling home of Miller was regarded by the American colony in Berlin as a significant indication that the United States department of commerce had lost interest in Germany for the present.

(The Berlin announcement came on the same day set for the signing in Washington of broad commercial treaties among the United States, Great Britain and Canada. (Ambassador Wilson was summoned home by President Roosevelt for report and consultation on the German anti-Jewish campaign.)

No successor was named to Miller, but his assistant, Robert M. Stephenson, was authorized to carry on his duties.

Miller probably will leave with his family about the middle of December on the S. S. Manhattan.

British Govt. Ready To Give Assistance

'Kennedy Plan' Of Finding New Homes Is Accepted

LONDON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The British government was said by a high authority today to have agreed to try to operate a plan offered by United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy for removing thousands of Jews now suffering from a wave of violence and restrictive decrees in Nazi Germany.

Matter of Urgency
Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons that the matter of finding new homes for such refugees was being treated as one of urgency.

He said the problem had been taken up with governors of a number of British colonies, including the governor of Tanganyika, former German East Africa, now a British mandate.

He added that he hoped to make a statement on the whole question early next week.

The prime minister then agreed to a common debate next Monday on the treatment of racial minorities in Europe and the refugee problem.

He also announced a debate next Thursday on Palestine, the future of which the government plans to consider in an early conference with Jew and Arab leaders.

The United States ambassador was known to have laid his proposals before Chamberlain in a long conference Tuesday and the British government considered them in its meeting yesterday.

The "Kennedy plan" has been described authoritatively as calling for an effort to remove the majority of the 600,000 Jews now in Germany to North and South America and parts of the British, French and Netherlands empires.

In well-informed quarters it was emphasized that Britain was working with the United States in trying to obtain "a final solution" of the problem of the German Jews.

Details of the proposals, which are to be presented also to France, the Netherlands, Latin American republics and other states, are expected to be worked out at forthcoming meetings of the inter-governmental committee on refugees, formed last July at Evian-les-Bains.

It was estimated that it would cost about $500 a family to move Jews from Germany to new homes in other lands.

The United States' part in the plan was understood to be mainly financial.

It was understood that Britain would try to move Jewish refugees considered in immediate danger to British Guiana and other British colonies as soon as possible.

Some of the British dominions were understood to have offered to accept some refugees.

It was said, however, that Chamberlain visualized taking care of only a few thousand refugees while Kennedy contended it was necessary to think in terms of tens of thousands and to act swiftly.

Ambassador Kennedy, it was learned, plans to return to the United States after January 1, on vacation.

U. S. Denunciation Of Nazis Spreads

5,000 CARS ARE CHECKED HERE

State highway patrolmen pointed out Thursday afternoon toward completion of a four-day safety lane program and a record of possibly 5,000 cars for the period.

At noon Thursday a total of 4,416 automobiles had passed through the safety lane for inspection. Thursday morning, however, was the lightest period since the lane was set up Monday afternoon under the direction of Sgt. W. M. King.

Non-cooperating drivers, dodging the lane, reduced the number of machines inspected during the four hour period to 438.

Sergeant King lion to the "people of Big Spring and territory for their cooperation in making the lane's operation a success." He pointed out that persons who do repeated red stickers and who did not have time to be rechecked by Thursday evening could exchange them for the gold stickers by reporting to L. P. McCaslin at the highway patrol office in the old city hall building at Third and Scurry.

Protests Heard From All Quarters; Boycott On German Goods Proposed

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Protest by prominent Catholic churches was added today to a growing volume of denunciation by American civic and social organizations against Nazi treatment of racial and religious minorities.

The Catholic protest was made by former Governor Alfred E. Smith and four high church prelates last night in a nation-wide radio broadcast.

It came on the heels of an announcement by Stephen T. Early, White House secretary, that President Roosevelt's criticism of Germany's attack on Jews was also intended to apply to Nazi persecution of Catholics and other religious groups.

After condemning the Nazi outbreaks, Smith expressed approval of President Roosevelt's stand. Demands for a boycott of German goods and for permanent recall of the American ambassador increased as indignation spread throughout the nation, bringing fresh protests from leaders in fields as diverse as sports, education, religion, politics, entertainment and literature.

They included those from Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, Temple university football coach, governors of Minnesota, Maryland and Florida; Methodist, Episcopal and Baptist church dignitaries; Professor Harold C. Urey, Columbia university Nobel prize winner in chemistry; Mayor LaGuardia, and Ed Green Welles, Broadway and radio drama producer.

ROAD PROJECT IS COMPLETED

Having mechanical failure, Howard county was due to have an additional 1.25 miles of surfaced lateral road ready for public use by sundown Thursday.

Final course of topping was being placed on the last section of the North Gregg-Gall road cut-off Thursday at noon and county officials predicted the work would be finished by the end of the working days.

The section of the road from the Benton street viaduct to the paved section of the Gall road was opened to traffic Thursday.

To complete the all-weather connection with Highway No. 4, J. Ed Brown, commissioner from Precinct No. 4, ordered an old section of what was previously Highway No. 9 repaired from North Gregg street west to the present highway.

The connection will afford farmers in the northwest part of the county a surfaced route to the eastern part of town without the necessity of going through heavy downtown traffic. It was expected that it would materially lessen congestion at the Gregg street viaduct.

City's New Oil Mill Is Slated To Start Operations Next Month

The city's prize industrial addition of the year—the Big Spring Cotton Oil company—likely will be in operation within a month.

With all buildings up and bulk of the machinery set, M. E. Allen, manager of the $100,000 plant, said Thursday it was probable that the mill would be put into operation around Dec. 10.

No small affair, the concern will be able to run 70 tons of seed daily, can turn out 600 sacks of cake and meal, 2,800 gallons of oil, 18-20 hales of lint, and 17 tons of oilseed hull, every day of operation. It is known as a four hydraulic press mill, has three seed cleaners, three hullers and separators, a cooker, former, boiler and pressure developer. Machinery is powered by electricity, the boiler turning out steam for the cooker.

When seed go up from the huge seed house and drop into the cleaners on their way through a series of processes breaking them down to five products, it will mark the realization of a dream in the minds of local leaders for three decades. Allen estimated the mill labor force. Already the Big Spring Cotton Oil company is laying in a store

A 1938-Youngster Goes For Cranberry Pie In A Big Way

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE, AP Feature Service Writer. Cranberries, with their rich red color and pungent flavor give a gay and intriguing deliciousness to our menus.

Of course, you think of cranberries as being "just made" for turkey, but do you realize this tangy fruit can be used in countless other ways with fully as great taste appeal?

Buy berries that are bright red, firm and well shaped. When preparing, discard any soft berries and thin brown stems.

Criss-Cross Cranberry Pie

1-1/2 cups granulated sugar. 2 tablespoons flour. 1-4 teaspoon salt. 3 tablespoons water. 1 tablespoon melted butter. Chop cranberries and mix with other ingredients. Fill pie plate which has been lined with pastry, and arrange strips of pie crust criss-cross over the top. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., 45 to 50 minutes.

For a delicately flavored and brightly colored salad mold cranberries in lemon gelatin in a ring design. Unmold on lettuce, and outline with pineapple strips and seeded dates. Fill center with salad dressing and white cream cheese, blended. With hot rolls, plenty of hot coffee and a light dessert you have a satisfying luncheon for your club.

Here's a juicy filling for veal or lamb steak. Select two one-half inch slices of uncooked meat. Spread thin cranberry sauce generously on one slice, place the other slice over it. Bake as usual, basting frequently. Or use this sauce as a topping for ham slices or pork chops when baked.

Cranberry sherbet is a perfect foil for a roast or fowl. Cook four (one pound) of berries with three cups of water. When the berries are very soft, strain and add two cups of granulated sugar, one-third of a cup of lemon juice and one teaspoon of grated lemon rind. Freeze by regular method or in mechanical refrigerator. Fold in beaten egg white when mixture is half frozen.

READING AND WRITING

THE CODE OF THE WOOSTERS, by F. G. Wodehouse; (Doubleday, Doran; 89).

Peiham Grenville Wodehouse's latest has been lying around the house for weeks awaiting a low day in the life of the Master. It came, and bless his heart, Peiham Grenville was the right medicine.

This giggle-maker is entitled "The Code of the Woosters." It contains the familiar people, most especially Bertie and the iron-nerved Jeeves. It opens in a romantic manner: Bertie is in bed with a dreadful hangover, due to the proceedings at a bachelor dinner.

Well, at this point a Dutch cow-creamer enters the plot. Aunt Dahlia's husband, Uncle Tom, is a fancier of old silver. He has a limited option on a superb Dutch cow-creamer in a certain shop, and Bertie is routed out of his hangover by Aunt Dahlia to go to said shop and sneer at the cow-creamer, so that Uncle Tom may buy it cheaper.

Do you begin to see Peiham Grenville Wodehouse at his best in all this? If so rest comfortably; the sketch above is only a mere matter of 50 pages, and there are 298 in the book.

He recognizes Bertie because Bertie recently stole a policeman's helmet and was fined 5 pounds by Sir Watkyn. He has a sinister friend with him, and informs said friend that he remembers Bertie. Bertie is a bag snatcher, he declares.

At this point the friend observes that Bertie has Sir Watkyn's umbrella in his hand. And shortly after, Bertie trips over the cat while carrying the cow-creamer to the light, and appears to be stealing it.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Senator Connally (D-Tex) left last night for his home in Marlin, Tex. He said he would make several speeches in the state before returning late in December.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 17 (AP)—To Rep. Maury Maverick of Texas: If you're interested, that check for $200 you lost here is safe at the police station. A patrolman found it on the street today.

Burglars, entering the Rainbow Inn on East Third street, made away with a small amount of loot Wednesday night. Loss was estimated at about $3 in small change and a small quantity of cigarettes.

COOPERATIVE MOVE LONDON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Great Britain today welcomed the impending signing of her trade treaty with the United States as a further step on the road to active Anglo-American cooperation in a troubled world.

The government, it was understood, also hoped the agreement would serve to prepare American opinion for an eventual war debt settlement releasing Britain from the terms of the Johnson act (which forbids defaulting debtor nations floating loans in the United States).

Although officials expected the treaty to increase trade between the two countries they were represented as attaching to it symbolic rather than economic importance.

LOYALISTS LAUNCH A NEW OFFENSIVE HENDAYE, France (At The Spanish Frontier)—Nov. 17 (AP)—Spanish government forces, thrust back to the Ebro river's east bank, today stepped up a new offensive farther north in an attempt to recapture the Tremp power plants which formerly fed Barcelona.

The insurgents cleaned up the Ebro river's west bank and declared they had taken many prisoners in the Sierra de Fatarella, near the Ebro's bend. Government dispatches, however, said "either a single soldier or a single rifle remained in the enemy's power."

Under the auspices of the Lions club, the Bible animal circus will be presented this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Proceeds from the show will go to the club's fund for underprivileged children and will be used largely in the staging of the annual party sponsored by the club for Mexican children.

The small circus, directed by Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Bible, will feature a repertoire of uncanny feats by ponies, dogs, monkeys, birds and a bear.

The program will consist of drills, pedestal stunts, pony races with dog and monkey jockeys, monkey tight wire walking act, dog acrobatics, canine high dive, feats by trained canaries, many stunts by a bear, and many other tricks.

According to advance information, the circus is of particular interest to children.

OLD-FASHIONED APPETITES MIGHT CUT FARM SURPLUSES

Table with 4 columns: WHEAT, CORN, CATTLE, HOGS. Rows for 1900-1909 and 1926-1935 showing consumption per capita and head per 1,000 persons.

A comparison of two decades, showing the shrinkage in America's food consumption. Chart based on figures cited by Harry G. Davis, farm research man.

By PAUL D. SHOEMAKER AP Farm Editor CHICAGO—If people would eat as much as their forebears did, Harry G. Davis, director of research for the Farm Equipment Institute, believes farm surpluses wouldn't be such a troublesome problem.

Davis points to men motoring to work, children riding to school, housewives sweeping with electricity as examples of the modern easy life.

Less Exercise—Less Food Less food is required to generate the energy for today's life, he says. Davis cited figures showing the per capita consumption of wheat declined 11.3 per cent, from 6.2 bushels per person for the 1900-09 decade to 5.5 bushels for the 1926-35 decade, while per capita corn consumption dropped 35.4 per cent, from 30.2 bushels to 19.5.

He also reported that the average number of cattle on farms declined 29.6 per cent. "At the beginning of the century," Davis said, "workmen used more energy. They didn't have the mechanical aids. Many walked to work and carried lunch buckets almost twice as large as they do nowadays. Working hours were longer, too.

It's The Easy Life "Thousands of children walked to school and home again. Housewives didn't have the electrical equipment they now use in their daily work.

"Naturally people do not burn up as much energy as formerly, and consequently do not consume as much food." Davis said that some people believe the machine is responsible for surpluses.

"Most data available," he said, "indicate farmers have not kept pace with the growing population in production of most of their products. Instead, figures indicate under-consumption as one of the principal causes of surpluses."

Products from all parts of the globe are involved in the agreements through inclusion of the British colonies.

The importance of the trade with the colonies is indicated by the 1937 figures showing that the United States bought $332,560,000 worth of goods from them and sold them $74,897,000.

The United Kingdom is the United States' best customer. She bought $535,000,000 worth of goods from the United States in 1937, which is about as much as this country sold to Germany, France, The Netherlands, Belgium and Sweden combined.

The new agreement with Canada replaces and amplifies one expiring December 31. Trade between the Dominion and the United States in 1937 amounted to $908,947,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—The stock market, after three declining sessions, put on a quiet rally today that lifted industrial favorites fractions to more than 2 points.

Trading forces, while still somewhat concerned over possible international complications resulting from the German anti-Semitic flare-up, found courage in improving domestic business news.

The rather sluggish nature of the day's proceedings—transfers were in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 shares—was attributed partly to the desire of Wall street to await details of the new Anglo-American trade treaty which was due to be signed late in the afternoon.

Under the auspices of the Lions club, the Bible animal circus will be presented this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Oil Mill

(Continued from Page 4) mands at around 45 men for full time operation, plus an office force of about five employees. Operation will be for approximately six months a year, or more if supply and demand warrant.

The company requires four buildings at the present time. One is an office, another is a seed barn, a third the mill and storage house and the fourth a hull storage house.

The Processing In processing the seed, the story begins with a strong suction pipe at the seed house. Here a 48-inch fan picks up seed at the rate of 1,000 pounds a minute, works them on an elevator which deposits them on a conveyor. They may be dumped into any part of the "self-fitting" seed house by a series of conveyors.

Seed in storage are treated with great care. Through the length of the 140 foot house runs a tunnel carrying a maze of air pipes from a 60-inch fan. Every eight feet air pipes jut off into the seed, and on every building column pipes rise 45 feet to the top of the house. This air cooling eliminates spoilage due to hot spots. The tunnel idea also permits the clearance of a "hot spot," regardless of location.

From the seed house, the seed are picked up by conveyor and elevator, and sent to the processing units. When capacity is reached, overflow comes back to the seed house.

Cleaning At the processing plant, seed drop into a boll reel, go to a sand reel and then a final cleaner—a shaker. Next they go to the 12-linter machines. The first three of these produce what is known as first cut linters, the ninth finish the job of stripping the fine lint off the seed. Bulk of the linters go through a cleaner and to the press. First cut linters are cleaned and baled separately.

Use of linters is legion. They can be made into gun cotton, upholstery, cellophane, rayon, gear-shift knobs, etc.

Because of the intricacy of this step, saws on the machine are sharpened daily (and some times twice daily) on a special filing machine. The average gin files machine twice a season.

Oil And Cake From the linter machines, seed go to three hullers, each of which breaks the hulls and separates the meat from the hull. The hulls are conveyed to the hull storage house while the meat goes to a huge cooker. The cooker output runs to a "former" which arranges the material to fit press boxes. After the material is covered with a special cloth, it is placed in one of four of the hydraulic presses and subjected to a terrific pressure of 4,200 pounds to the square inch.

The result is two-fold—cotton oil and cake. The oil runs into two separation tanks, then is piped to storage tanks. The cake, which also may be ground into cotton-seed meal, is sacked and stored in an adjacent part of the building.

A railroad siding runs near the plant and a loading dock will parallel it. Oil will be pumped from storage tanks to tank cars and shipped to cotton oil refiners.

From the demand indicated to date, very little if any cake and meal will be shipped except to buyers in this area—that is to say, the demand promises to be as much as the plant output.

19 Million Collected By Liquor Board In Three Years

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—The state liquor board celebrated its third birthday today. Administrator Bert Ford said the board was organized Nov. 16, 1935, the agency has been responsible for revenues amounting to more than $19,000,000 of which $12,500,000 had been allocated to old age pensions. Out of the same revenues, the available school fund received about $3,700,000 and the general revenue fund more than $331,500.

"Expenditures for administration and carrying out a strict enforcement program over the three-year period amounted to $2,400,000," Ford said.

The administrator said cities and counties had collected more than $2,500,000 in license fees over the period.

Of 12,500 violation cases filed, almost 4,200 resulted in convictions and fines totaled slightly over $561,000.

Inspectors seized 1,800 stills, 902,000 gallons of mash and 7,700 gallons of contraband liquor, destruction of which represented prevention of more than $4,500,000 in tax evasions.

Oil Man Hits At Federal Regulation
 Pew Defends System Of Competitive Enterprise

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP)—J. Howard Pew, president of the Sun Oil company, of Philadelphia, characterized today what he termed government invasion of the oil industry under the guise of helpful regulation as a menace to the industry.

Speaking before the American Petroleum Institute, he made a vigorous plea to stand firm in defense of the American system of free and competitive enterprise. He pictured the industry as the nation's largest, single industrial undertaking and its most impressive monument to the efficacy of unstinted competition.

Until this week the industry was not monopolistic because it charged the lowest prices for its products, paid the highest wages and earned a lower return on its capital than would have been the money invested in government bonds.

"If natural economic forces are adequate to keep business on a sound basis," Pew asserted, "there is no occasion for governmental interference."

William R. Schuh, of Milwaukee, Wis., urged price posting and fair trade laws rather than government control to meet the needs of the marketing branches of the industry. "The petroleum industry's record," he said, "is the best argument for free enterprise."

President Axtell J. Byles of the American Petroleum Institute, said additional regulatory measures are needed to curb over-production in the oil industry.

Delivering his annual address to the institute's convention yesterday, Byles urged membership of all oil producing states in the Interstate Oil Compact which, he said, would widen and improve the usefulness of petroleum conservation through state authority and interstate cooperation.

He also recommended that the Connally act, a federal law prohibiting interstate shipments of illegally produced oil, be renewed and made permanent.

CHINESE RECAPTURE 2 SHANTUNG CITIES

CHUNGKING, Nov. 17 (AP)—The state announced today they had recaptured Taiichwang and Yih-sien in southern Shantung province, northeastern China, which is within Japanese lines and has not been a major war front since spring.

The Chinese won their biggest victory of the war by taking Taiichwang last April. They lost it later, whereupon the Japanese swung west along the Lunghai railroad to Wweiteh and Kaifeng in the first major offensive directed at Hankow.

New Type Sanding Machine, Work Of Local Man, Placed On Market

A. F. Hill, a former furniture dealer and repair man, is placing his invention—a handbelt sanding plane—on the market here this week.

Offered through hardware dealers and lumber yards, the plane is particularly useful in sanding surfaces which do not justify the employment of an electrical sander. Its size and economy fill a need of men who do only a limited amount of repair work. The plane is readily adaptable for refinishing surfaces, sanding off cigarette burns, floors, tables, counters, etc. Manufactured exclusively in Big Spring by Hill at his shop at 807 West Third street, the plane is constructed of strong steel frame with wooden base that holds the sandpaper belt and serves as a straight edge. The sanding belt is standard size and can be purchased at any hardware store. Through a slight adjustment, replacement of the belt is simple, or the belt may be rotated, thus cutting belt cost by 50 per cent.

Until this week when he resigned to market his product, Hill was employed at the Crawford hotel as furniture repair man. He displayed models of his planes recently in the Big Spring Manufacturers display held in conjunction with the Sales Crusade.

"The Case of the Living Dead Men" is the awesome title of tonight's episode—a case in which supposedly dead men are reanimated and again walk the streets, mingling with their fellow men.

Victim's Wife Tells Of Kidnap Attack

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 17 (AP)—The state summoned another array of witnesses today to testify against Dr. Kent W. Berry and three co-defendants accused of the torture kidnapping of Irving Baker, former coast guard lieutenant.

The prosecution reached its first dramatic climax yesterday when Mrs. Suzanne Baker, pretty brunette wife of the complaining witness, was called to the stand to describe how her husband was removed from his home through a ruse only to return several hours later badly beaten.

Mrs. Baker testified that William McAloon and Robert H. Smith, two of the defendants, forced Baker to leave with them after displaying a faked warrant for his arrest. McAloon, she said, held a pistol at Baker's back while both men pinned Baker's arms to his side, then drove away with him.

Mrs. Baker broke into tears as she described her husband's condition when he returned home. "He was covered with blood," she said. "Blood matted his hair. The whole side of his face was swollen and bloody, his mouth was swollen, his ear cut and he could hardly walk."

State highway departments in 1937 spent nearly $552,000,000 on road construction and almost $228,000,000 for maintenance.

3,000 Deer, 2,000 Turkeys Killed By Hunters

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fresh venison and wild turkey today decorated the tables of many homes in the state.

The state game department estimated 3,000 deer and 2,000 turkey had been taken by an army of 10,000 hunters. The count was made from reports of gardens and game managers concentrated in the heavily populated game areas.

Department officials were happy over encouraging reports of kills in East and Southeast Texas counties where restocking efforts had borne fruit after the species had been killed out.

A rare black buck with a white tail, having antlers with six prongs, was among the prizes brought in during yesterday's opening day activities. The buck, killed near the Bexar-Comal county line, was taken to San Antonio by Arthur Blackhear and A. S. Cornell who claimed to have shot it simultaneously.

Approximately 200 black-tail deer which roamed the rugged trans-Pecos region of West Texas were reported killed. Warden A. R. Williams of Alpine said the species were not as abundant as in years past due to drought conditions.

The department received no reports of black bear kills on which the season also opened.

REV. WRIGHT AGAIN IS CONFERENCE SECRETARY

MEMPHIS, Nov. 17 (AP)—The annual Northwest Texas Methodist conference entered its second day with the Rev. Cal C. Wright, presiding elder of the Vernon district, again serving as secretary.

It was the eleventh consecutive year for Rev. Wright who was re-elected at the opening session yesterday. The Rev. M. B. Norwood of Littlefield and the Rev. W. B. Hicks of Wellington were named assistant secretaries and the Rev. J. H. Crawford of Childress was elected statistical secretary.

Four hundred were here for the conference.

JUDGMENT ENTERED

Judgment totaling $18.83 was given Acorn Refining Co. in a suit against Sam Cook and L. F. Keisling in county court Wednesday. The case was brought into county court on a transcript from justice court.

FRIENDLIER FEELING BETWEEN NAVAL FORCES SOUGHT

HONGKONG, Nov. 17 (AP)—Japanese and British naval commanders are trying to establish a friendlier feeling between the two navies.

Vice Admiral Shiozawa, commander of the Japanese fleet in south China, and Vice Admiral Sir Percy Noble, commander of British forces in Hongkong, conferred today on "the betterment of Anglo-Japanese naval relations," a Japanese communiqué said.

EXECUTION DATE SET DECEMBER 7

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 17 (AP)—Blonde Anna Marie Hahn, Cincinnati poison murderer, faced with a still resignation today her probable remaining life span of barely three weeks in Ohio penitentiary.

Prison officials said the 32-year-old convicted slayer of Jacob Wagner, 78-year-old gardener, showed no emotion when notified that the Ohio supreme court late yesterday had set Dec. 7 for her execution.

Freight Rate Study Draws Wide Praise

WTCC Receiving Many Requests For Pamphlets

ABILENE, Nov. 17—Favorable response has been received not only from all parts of West Texas but from the entire Southwest by the West Texas chamber of commerce's recently released study and analysis of freight rates, says H. S. Hilburn, Plainview, president of the regional organization. Requests for copies of the pamphlets containing the complete report on the freight rate question issued by WTCC traffic boards have poured into the Abilene office from all sections of Texas and from other states, Hilburn said.

The widespread response indicates the people are ready for a change in rate making principles and policies, Hilburn thinks. Numerous editorials have appeared in newspapers in support of the report, he added.

The report, which points out that West Texas pays the highest freight rates in the nation—72 per cent higher than rates in the lowest zone or Official Territory—recommends a complete overhauling of the entire freight zone policies and practices. It also recommends that the Interstate Commerce Commission act be amended to require equality in rates as between zones.

"Too long have cities in West Texas, and all of Texas for that matter, been satisfied to fight for adjustment of rate differences in their own zone," says D. A. Barden, WTCC manager. "This is not the solution. After a town has received an adjustment in rates, what does it have? It is still paying rates that average 72 per cent higher than those in Official Territory (Ohio-Indiana zone). We must realize this to see the astounding discrimination against this area. This discrimination can be removed only by equalization of rates, as between zones."

FAVORABLE REPORT ON QUEEN

Oil Industry Sees Steady Business

Tank Car Price Of Gasoline May Be Increased

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 17 (AP)—With most prominent executives off to Chicago for the important American Petroleum Institute convention, those who kept to their workaday tasks in the oil centers found today that the oil industry had a good business going on.

From marketers came reports of unusually large shipments of gasoline for November.

In a general way the volume was enough to sustain encouraging predictions of the past fortnight.

Talk was growing even stronger that a boost or two in the price of tank car gasoline might be expected any time. Fractional local increases, coupled with a reduction in the price for the raw product, crude oil, gave many an independent refiner opportunity to note he was at least breaking even on his operations.

Reports filtering back from the discussions at the A.P.I. convention generally were of an encouraging nature in regard to "prospects for the oil business in 1939.

Crude Stocks Low

Crude oil men reported their market was strong because of a steady demand on refineries for gasoline and the low level of crude oil stocks. Isolated instances of crude purchases under posted prices were reported, however, in Kansas, Illinois and Oklahoma.

In the mid-continent area considerable improvement was shown in the inquiry for natural gasoline. Heating oils showed more demand during the past week.

Expiratory work kept on at a steady pace. In the week ending November 12 wells completed in all fields totaled 536, which was just four more than the week before. Compared to last year, however, field work was off considerably. In the week ending Nov. 12, 1937, operators in all fields completed 630 wells. So far this year 23,258 have been completed. In the same period last year 27,577 wells had been drilled.

The Illinois drilling play still held the spotlight as production in that state approached 100,000 barrels daily.

SCHOOL CLOSED BY FLU EPIDEMIC

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 17 (AP)—An epidemic of intestinal influenza closed St. Mary's College at Moraga today and Brother Albert, president, said the school would not reopen until Monday at the earliest.

Among more than 45 persons at the college stricken with the disease are several faculty members and more than a dozen football players.

Forsan Students Issue Newspaper

FORSAN, Nov. 17—The first issue of the "Forsan Signal," school paper published by the Senior class with the assistance of Supt. and Mrs. L. L. Martin, came out Monday afternoon. This is another score for the senior class and the beginning of this year's work. With the victories of the Buffaloes, a six-man team of football which has been added for the first time at the school, the progressive work in the manual training and home economics departments, the school band and the addition of a course in "Traffic" taught by Mr. Martin, the school is making rapid progress forward.

The staff includes editor-in-chief, Fred Thiele; assistant editor, Bill Rucker; social reporter, Ruth Brown; and sports reporter, Maxine Moreland. The paper, eight pages, is assembled in book form, carrying a cover of an original drawing of the Signal mountain from which the paper gets its name. A brief history of the school since its beginning in 1928, sports, senior and junior news filled the first issue. The school is purchasing a mimeograph machine and papers will be issued every two weeks. Merchants from Big Spring and Forsan supported the paper by placing advertisements.

CAMPAIGN ON FOR 'CLEAN CANDY' AT CHRISTMAS TIME

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—With 25,000 pounds of candy already condemned and destroyed, State Health Officer Dr. George W. Cox promised children of Texas clean sweets for Christmas through efforts of the departments staff of food and drug inspectors. "In the fall certain manufacturers buy old candy from retailers, ship it to their factories and reprocess it," Cox asserted. "Then it is usually sold in bulk and is known to the trade as Christmas mix. It is retailed at cheap prices."

The health officer said inspectors were visiting all plants and as many retail stores as possible to remove the merchandise from trade channels. "The combination of old candy already filthy from handling," he said, "and insanitary conditions in some plants renders the article unfit for human use."

OIL HEARING

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Railroad commission examiners conducted a hearing here today on well spacing in the Slaughter oil field, Hockley county. Some of the smaller operators requested continued allowance of one well to each 20 acres or less while certain larger companies urged wider spacing.

NEWS NOTES FROM THE OIL FIELD COMMUNITIES

Measurements for new uniforms were made of the Forsan high school band students this week at the school. The same colors of black and white will be used in the uniforms with black coats instead of capes formerly worn by the students. The band was handicapped by a change in teachers when Carl Blackwelder who directed the band last year resigned last month to join the Roscoe school system. He was succeeded by C. M. Youth Plunges To His Death
Fatal Fall From 26th Story Ruled A Suicide

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 17 (AP)—Keith Parham, 15, junior student at the Fortier high school in New Orleans, plunged to his death from the 26th floor of the statehouse here yesterday.

Dr. Harry Johnston, coroner, said the death was a suicide but scheduled an inquest.

Mrs. L. F. Parham, his mother, said he left his home in New Orleans yesterday morning to go to school but apparently hitchhiked 80 miles to Baton Rouge, La., where he was found.

Parham was the second person to die in a fall from the skyscraper statehouse built by the late Huey P. Long.

On Sept. 4, 1937, a man identified as Hubert Carroll Lumbkin, 22, of Handley, Tex., fell to his death in similar fashion. A suicide verdict was returned.

Mrs. Loy Aeff, who has been visiting in San Antonio, returned Thursday evening.

She was born in Newfoundland, and came to this country with her parents in 1927. The Captain entered the Salvation Army college in Atlanta, Ga., in 1933 and after her graduation was appointed to special work in Dallas. For the past year she has been secretary to Brigadier Giles, and just recently was appointed by Governor Allied as secretary for parole work. Male Lead For Play Chosen
Herman Haygood To Appear Opposite 'Movie Queen'

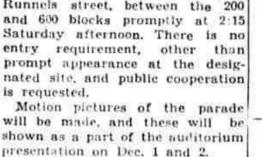

Herman Haygood has been chosen to play the leading male role in the American Business club benefit production, "Movie Queen," to be presented at the municipal auditorium Dec. 1 and 2. It was announced Thursday. Haygood will appear opposite the movie queen in the role of Jimmy Cain, a fast talking, high-pressure press agent. It is through the efforts of the zealous Mr. Cain that little Mary Brown, the home town girl who becomes a movie queen—achieves fame.

Remaining a secret until Saturday is the identity of the queen herself. She will be presented in public when she steps from a bus at 2:33 p. m. Saturday, arriving—according to the story—from Hollywood. The queen is a Big Spring girl chosen by the casting committee for the title role in the play.

Immediately after her arrival, a parade will be staged in the queen's honor, and American Business club members are inviting all local merchants who desire to do so to enter cars and floats in the parade. Entries are requested to line up on Runnels street, between the 200 and 600 blocks promptly at 2:15 Saturday afternoon. There is no entry requirement, other than prompt appearance at the designated site, and public cooperation is requested.

Motion pictures of the parade will be made, and these will be shown as a part of the auditorium presentation on Dec. 1 and 2.

GIANT METEOR SEEN IN WESTERN SKY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17 (AP)—Across the skies of three western states raced a ball of fire last night, burning out into blackness while airplane pilots and earth-dwellers gazed in awe.

The giant meteor, known to scientists as a bolide, was seen in California, Arizona and Utah, about 11:30 p. m. (Central Standard Time).

In Salt Lake City and Los Angeles, scores of excited residents mistook the meteor for an airplane falling in flames.

A. M. Newell, of the Los Angeles Griffith observatory, reported the bolide, or ball of fire, was not unexpected at this time of year and others might appear today or tonight, but it was unlikely they could be so large.

Holiday Workers Advised To Get Security Cards

Persons who expect to work temporarily in stores, shops and other business establishments during the holiday season are urged by David S. Pruitt, manager of the El Paso office of the social security board, to assure themselves that they can produce their social security numbers before making application for employment.

"Those who have not already done so should equip themselves with an account number because many employers now require numbers to be recorded before the worker may start on the job," Pruitt said. "Duplicate cards should be requested by workers whose originally-issued cards have been lost or destroyed."

Employment in seasonal businesses such as turkey picking and pecan shelling usually is covered by the law. It was pointed out that the fact that workers are employed on a temporary basis does not exclude them from participation in the old-age insurance program. Generally, any employment in the fields of commerce and industry is covered.

"Employers should request all employees to obtain account numbers promptly, since each employer is required to report each three months the name of each worker, his number, and amount of wages paid him," Pruitt said.

Application forms, available in El Paso at the social security board office, and elsewhere in this area at post offices, should be filled out and returned to the Social Security Board, 234 U. S. Court House, El Paso.

Economist Says Upturn Too Rapid, Decline Early Next Year Is Seen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—A prominent federal economist said today that a number of business prognosticators expect a temporary industrial decline early next year.

The economist, who asked that his name be omitted, said statisticians in and out of the government believe recent business improvement has been too rapid to be sustained indefinitely.

They foresee, he related, a setback in the first quarter of 1939 followed by a resumed upswing in the second quarter. By that time they expect the full effect of the federal government's spending program to swell purchasing power.

He estimated that industrial production, as measured by the federal board index, is now back to 100 per cent of the 1923-25 average—up 24 points from the 1938 low of 76 in May, 12 points higher than a year ago, and higher than at any time since the 102 mark of October, 1937.

To expect the rise to continue without interruption, the economist explained, would be too good to be true and would be unwarranted in the light of business history.

The limited consumption power of the nation will put the brakes on industry, according to this forecaster. When the present recession production slumped, much faster than consumption. Eventually, after consumption ran ahead of production long enough to use up glutted surpluses of some goods, the wheels of industry began turning a little faster, causing the current improvement.

Now, the experts believe that industry is producing goods faster than the public is buying and wearing out goods, and that the nation therefore is headed for another temporary merchandise surplus.

REPUBLICANS MAKE 10 PCT. VOTE GAIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Unofficial tabulations in twenty-four states give republican candidates 51.5 per cent of the popular vote of the two major parties in last week's election, compared with 40.1 per cent two years ago.

This preliminary survey did not include any of the heavily-democratic southern states, except Georgia, because the necessary data is not yet available.

In the 24 states democrats polled 14,016,223 ballots and the republicans received 14,886,356.

The republican percentage for 1936 was based on the vote for president, while gubernatorial and senatorial returns were used in some cases for the 1938 compilation.

ALLRED SOON WILL REVEAL HIS FINAL RECOMMENDATIONS

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred will begin to make public his final recommendations for the state's welfare about Dec. 1.

The governor has decided to disclose the gist of his last message to the legislature in parts and said today he would start in about two weeks. He said the breaking up of his recommendations would give the lawmakers and the public more time to digest them.

Allred also revealed he would bind copies of all his messages to the legislature and index them so any message would be quickly available to a future governor for reference. He said he hoped to make this a custom as he had sorely felt the lack of such a system in the past.

THE SPORTS PARADE

by HANK HART

The good old grapevine, source of many a mean and many a false rumor, whispers that Midland is "in" as winner of her district's grid race despite an early loss to Wink, that Lacy Turner's crew of mighty Wildcatters are about to be caught up with. They say that J. R. Callahan, both the Ezzell boys and one or two others are ineligible, that Midland officials have the goods on them if they want to press the charges. Of course, that might not be true. That's just what they tell us.

Speaking of Midland, the local grid squad will probably have to face that young man during the 1939 season. Only a junior, Roy will be back for another season of competition and Midland is reported to be favorable toward joining the Class AA league. That will be a break for Big Spring fans who missed a sight if they didn't see the young man perform this fall, for the two towns in general. Not in many years have Midland and Big Spring clashed on the gridiron, are too close together and on too good terms not to have an annual game of some sort.

Slickest looking basketball prospect in the local camp, and about the only one at the present time, is Wimpy McGuire, a mite of a fellow who can handle the melon like a marble. If he doesn't rate a first string berth the coming season, then we're sadly mistaken.

Three other local players besides Lefty Bethel—Ross Callahan, Alton Bostick and Chock Smith—are eligible for the prize that that breakfast cereal manufacturer is donating to the most popular gridder in Texas high school football.

A bouquet has been tossed at our gridder, our pep squad and our town in general by J. H. Williams, Sweetwater high school principal, who lauded the city for tending the Sweetwater visitors such excellent treatment last weekend when the Mustangs came and conquered.

Rarely before had Sweetwater people been given such royal treatment, according to the prof.

Roy Stice, the local 135-pounder who was once one of the country's better lightweight flatstickers, is thinking seriously of donning the pads again for a training spell and swapping a few punches with the ham and egg down San Angelo way, where a card is arranged every week or so.

Roy could probably handle any

Mates Serve As Pall Bearers For Vestal

Rice Grid Star To Be Buried In Houston Friday

HOUSTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Saddened football warriors of the Rice Institute tomorrow will carry to its last resting place the body of their star blocking back, Jack (Red) Vestal, 21.

The Red Horse, as they knew him on the gridiron, died yesterday of cancer of the pancreas—a malignant disease that robbed the Southern conference champions of a backfield ace for whom there is no substitute this year.

An honor student and a hard plunging football player who cleared the way for the touchdown makers last year and in the Cotton Bowl game against Colorado on New Year's Day, Vestal was a favorite with his fellow students and players.

Coch Jimmy Kitts announced today there would be no more strenuous football practice at Rice this week, even though Rice meets undefeated and untied Texas Christian university Saturday in one of the nation's top games.

Five football and one of his basketball teammates will act as pallbearers. They are Earl Glasco, Ed Singletary, Captain Jess Hines, Ernie Lain and Ole Cordill of the football team and Levi Craddock, basketball player.

The balance of the football team and basketball team will be honorary pallbearers along with the Rice coaching staff.

Vestal was a former all-state high school back at Sherman, Texas, before he entered Rice.

FROGS TO PLAY NINE GAMES IN 1939 SCHEDULE

FORT WORTH, Nov. 17—An inter-sectional game with Temple university in Philadelphia, for the second successive year, a conference game in December, and an open date Oct. 28 are highlights of the 1939 football schedule for Texas Christian university, as announced today by Athletic Director Howard Grubbs.

"We would still book a game for Oct. 28 if a suitable opponent could be found, but the chances are that the date will remain unfilled because almost all 1939 schedules are now completed," Grubbs says.

Not since 1927 have the Horned Frogs booked as few as nine football games as a season's work. In 1935 and 1936, with bowl games added, the schedules totaled 13 games.

The 1939 bookings include all of the schools played this year, with the exception of Marquette. The complete 1939 grid schedule for the Frogs:

Forsan Girls Beaten, 39-29

WESTBROOK, Nov. 17—The Westbrook girls' basketball team pulled away in the last stages of their game here Tuesday evening to defeat Gwyneth Lyles' Forsan team, 39-29.

The Buffs from Howard county were in front at the end of the first quarter, 13-12, but the Wolves put on an old fashioned rally during the next period, taking a ten-point lead, and the visitors were never able to catch up.

Mary Gregory was outstanding for the Forsanites.

Miss Lyles will take her team to Blackwell Friday where they will enter an invitational tournament which is being staged there over the weekend.

Bovines In Intra-Squad Game Today

Hopefuls of the 1939 football squad of Big Spring high school, who have been in training since the team closed its season last Friday, get down to serious business in Steer stadium this afternoon in an intra-squad game.

Players other than those competing their eligibility this year along with the graduating members of the Yearling squad will see action in the regulation game.

About 35 boys have been reporting to Coach Pat Murphy each afternoon on the Birdwell training grounds.

Today's battle will probably be the first of two games, the other scheduled one day the latter part of next week.

Both Sectors' Finalists To Be Decided

Sweetwater And San Angelo Tangle For Third Time

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Staff

Cisco's Big Dam Lobos, who over a decade ago were powers in Texas schoolboy football, climax their drive back toward the top tomorrow when they bid for the Oil Belt championship in a battle at Breckenridge that will be one of the headlines of the "semi-final" week of the interscholastic league race.

Many lean seasons have come to Cisco since the Lobos were feared from Panhandle to Gulf for their gridiron prowess but this year finds them reaching the end of the regular season undefeated.

Breckenridge is not unbeaten but the Bucos, boasting one of the strongest offenses in West Texas, have been tough to handle by the best of them.

While Cisco and Breckenridge are fighting for the championship of the eastern division of District 3, San Angelo, also on the comeback trail, journeys to Sweetwater tomorrow night to determine the winner of the western division.

The victorious teams clash next week for the district title.

Resumption of relations between Port Arthur and Beaumont in a game Saturday that is likely to determine the District 14 champion.

Coahomans Prep For Fluvanna

COAHOMA, Nov. 17—Hopeful of making a good showing against the highly favored foe, the Coahoma Bulldog football team prepared to leave for Fluvanna where Friday afternoon they are scheduled to oppose Gilbert Mize's highly touted Class C charges in the feature attraction of the weekend school carnival being held in that Scurry county community.

Lloyd Devan's team will be in its best condition of several weeks and the red headed mentor was confident that the crew would make a better showing than when Fluvanna came to Coahoma and licked the Bulldogs, 20-0.

The Coahomans will be outweighed considerably by the Fluvanna eleven.

The Coahoma band and pep squad may make the trip with the gridder.

Kipke Said To Be On Way To Detroit Pros

Writer Says Dutch Clark To Take Up College Job

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Around Detroit you can get a bet that Dutch Clark won't be with the pro football Lions next year.... And that Harry Kipke will take over his coaching job there.... Dutch, the grapevine says, wants to take a crack at college coaching.... It looks like Joe Louis vs. Maxie Baer early in April for that San Francisco show—provided the boys out that way get the quarter-million guarantee on the line for Mike Jacobs by Dec. 20.... Dan Hill, the ex-Piedmont League prexy, is in town and will tell you modestly that his boy, Dan, Jr., is quite a bit of center on the Duke team.... Well, Dan, don't be modest, 'cause the kid really has it.... Should even give Ki Aldrich of Texas Christian a rub....

Ex-lightweight champ Lou Ambers, who doesn't have to worry—what with those annuities and all, takes the comeback trail to Cleveland against Frankie Wallace, Dec. 6, and then to Boston.

Ernie Lain May Start Against Frogs; Matt Bell Pessimistic

By the Associated Press

Rice Institute's Ernie Lain probably will be on the firing line when the Owls meet Texas Christian university in an important South-west conference football game Saturday and that's the big news for folks down around the bayou.

Indication that Lain might be on hand to pitch passes with T. C. U.'s Dave O'Brien was a cheerful note in the woeful tunes emanating from Houston. The Mexas flash showed improvement yesterday when he tested his injured ankle and Ole Cordill, another ailing Owl, gave indications of getting into shape to handle the punting.

But a sour note was the report that Jess Hines, Owl captain and line mainstay, was not likely to see service. Hines reinjured an ankle.

On the other hand the Frogs were cutting up so much in scrimmaging the double tough Ki Aldrich, bruising center, retired with a hand injury. It is not expected to bother him much.

Matty Bell at Southern Methodist university, is trying to fashion a defense against Billy Patterson and his Baylor Bears. After watching the Mustangs futilely attempt to stop the kind of passing expected from Patterson, Bell declared disgustedly: "We're going to get beat, I'm afraid."

The Arkansas Razorbacks, dropping another game in the last quarter to the University of Mississippi, swung back to Fayetteville to resume training for their Thanksgiving finale with Tulsa. The Porkers lost yesterday 20-14.

Player Is Hurt, Teams Fight As Porkers Lose

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 17 (AP)—Halfback Parker Hall, Ole Miss' dynamic triple-threat, put on a great passign, kicking and running show yesterday to lead his Rebels to a 20-14 triumph over the University of Arkansas in a game that wound up with a small riot.

Flat fights broke out at the game's end and scores of firemen and policemen milled in the mass of players and spectators who crowded the field.

Hall, the Mississippi candidate for all-America honors, chunked two touchdown passes, the first to Harvey Murphy who had to go only two more yards for the score in the first period, and the second to Ward, who stood 16 yards away on the goal stripe in the third.

Substitute Bill Schneller, substitute halfback, intercepted a Porker pass on his 45 and streaked 55 yards for the final, and winning score.

Ole Miss jumped to a quick lead on Hall's first pass but Arkansas stormed back with its aerial game in the second period to score twice and hold a 14-6 half-time lead. End Zack Smith caught a pass from Gloyd Lyon on the Miss 40 and carried over.

Another pass, Lyon to Britt, put the Arkansas on the Miss 20 and Lyon finally plunged over.

Smith was seriously injured in the final period, receiving a possible skull fracture after he was dragged down on a run.

YOU CAN CUT Easier WITH A SHARP KNIFE

... and

YOU CAN SEE Easier WITH A Better Sight LAMP

You know how much easier it is to cut up a chicken or to trim a steak with a sharp knife. You don't have to work as hard, for the sharp blade saves your energy and saves your time.

A good light makes seeing easier, for you use up energy in seeing, just as surely as you use your energy in working with your hands. With a Better Sight Lamp, the effort needed to read a book, for example, is much less than if the light is poor or glaring.

Go to any store which sells Better Sight Lamps and see for yourself how much easier it is to see under the diffused, glareless light of one of these modern lamps.

TASK BEFORE THE COUNTRY AGENTS

Announcement came this week that O. P. Griffin, extension service agent in Howard county, is resigning his post as secretary of the county Agricultural conservation association, is relinquishing most of the duties associated with administration of the AAA program to another man, and presumably will be able to devote more time to the extension service work.

The same thing is happening in all Texas counties, and extension agents are going back to their original tasks with which they were charged under the long established farm program; that is, according to H. H. Williamson, director of the state extension service, "encouraging a sound agriculture based upon fundamental practices tested by time."

In connection with this shift, Booth Mooney has written in a recent issue of the Texas Weekly a thought provoking article wherein he poses the question of whether the state extension service, "encouraging a sound agriculture based upon fundamental practices tested by time," is in the opposite direction. Says Mooney: "There was a time when a man was called a good farmer if he could get good production from his land. The best farmer was the man who got the best production. The idea then was that increased production meant increased wealth. That is not the idea today. The idea now is that increased production means poverty—that scarcity means wealth. As representatives of the AAA, the county agents have had to proceed on the theory that scarcity means wealth; they even have had to serve as the instrument through which farmers were notified how many acres of land must be retired from production. But the agents did not accept the scarcity-means-wealth theory in the days before 1933, when they were striving to turn poor farmers into good farmers and good farmers into better farmers. What will be their attitude as they go back to their original tasks?"

Mooney points out that the diversification idea as formerly advanced by the extension service has been discouraged under the AAA, citing the restrictive dairy amendment and the ruling (recently changed for 1939) putting family gardens on the forbidden list of soil depleting crops. He asks "In view of the new much enthusiasm for 'live at home' campaigns will the county agents be able to engender as they resume the work for which they were trained?"

The agent, of course, has had a difficult and a thankless task in AAA administration. He has not been blamed for rulings he did not make. He has found it hard to explain to bewildered farmers the mass of red tape orders coming from Washington. He has had to bear the brunt of local criticism.

He will have to continue in cooperation with the AAA policies, interlocking governmental agencies being what they are. The farm agent always had a long and steady pull ahead, in bringing about improvements in farming practices. In many cases, he reached only the more progressive farmers; and those most in need of extension service demonstrations were those who did not take advantage of them. He has, now, the same task ahead. But the extension service work in years past—before 1933, if you please—proved itself too valuable for one to abandon the belief and the hope that continued efforts in its behalf will eventually mean sounder agriculture. The AAA program may not last forever; sound farming practices will be in order forever.

GIVE A MAN A CHANCE

Within the last few hours a very remarkable thing has happened. This country has suddenly discovered that on one issue we are one people. The issue has been precipitated outside our boundaries, by a country that only a few weeks ago proclaimed its desire for peace and appeasement and concluded a peace pact with Great Britain and France.

The immediate consequence of that pact has been an unexampled reign of terror against political minorities and against the Jewish population of Germany. This terror has turned the stomach of the American people. Suddenly and spontaneously they have risen, regardless of party, regardless of race, regardless of class, in a protest which declares that there is in this country the front of which I spoke in a column a few days ago—the front of human decency.

Much as we differ among ourselves on every social, political and economic program, we are one on the principles embodied in the American Bill of Rights. We are against terror and oppression. We are against the cynicism that brings an indictment against a whole people, totally regardless of the individuals among them. The State Department in asking our ambassador to return from Germany acts as an agency truly representative of American tradition, American principles and American opinion.

On Monday night I had a remarkable demonstration of what public opinion is. On the regular program of the General Electric Company, which takes place at 9 o'clock on Monday evenings, I tried to picture the mentality of Herschell Grynzpan, the seventeen-year-old refugee who murdered Herr Vom Rath, and whose deed was the signal for the outbreak in Germany.

I expressed my own feeling that to send this man to the guillotine for a crime that has already been paid for by deaths, suicides thousands of arrests, a blanket fine of $400,000 and the economic ruin of half a million people, was one more act very hard to stomach.

I pointed out that every Jew in Germany was being held as a hostage for every action outside taken by any individual Jew or Jewish organization, and that I thought the business of non-Jews to provide for his defense, since he was penniless.

The response was flabbergasting. I am in receipt of some 3,000 telegrams, still uncounted letters, and several hundred dollars in checks, although I did not ask for money, and was speaking solely for myself. The telegrams came from forty-six states. Almost all of them gave their addresses and asked what they could do.

This morning's dispatches from Paris records that the French government has published some new edicts, among them one that decrees that a crime which may involve international repercussions may be tried in camera, with the press and public barred.

Every American journalist, working abroad, with many of whom I have been in correspondence in the last weeks, knowing the terrible pressure which is being exerted on the governments of Britain and France by the Nazi government of Germany.

Europe is literally being terrorized into the most abject submission by the fear of Nazi force.

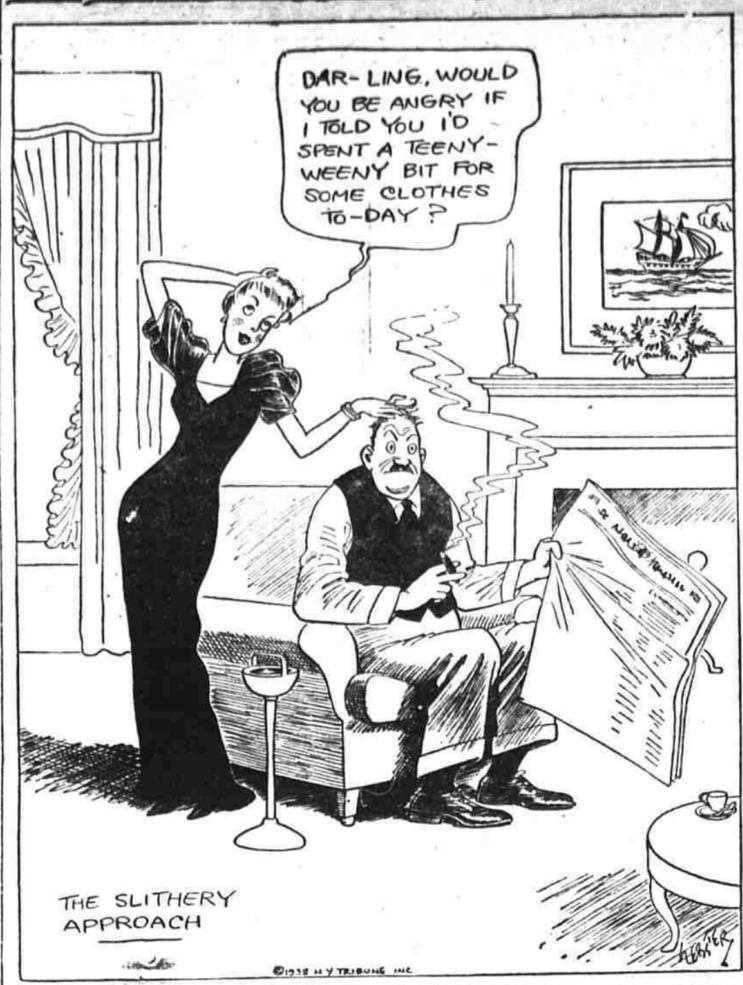

It would appear that the Nazi government has complete faith in its capacity to terrorize, because no attempt has been made to prevent the facts of what has happened in Germany from reaching the outside world. On the contrary, both Dr. Goebbels and Marshal Goering have acknowledged them in the most cynical manner and affirmed their justification.

Under these conditions, the United States, her democratic courage fortified by 3,000 miles of ocean, is the one place on earth in which the people can still freely speak their minds and affirm the simplest principles of decency.

One of these principles is that every man, to say nothing of a seventeen-year-old boy, has the right to a chance to fight for his life, and a right to present his case. The case of Herschell Grynzpan is more than an individual case. It is the case of a whole race, who, in the countries where they are persecuted, have no recourse to law. It is possible that things of great interest to all the peoples of the world lie behind this assassination.

The world still recalls that in the early days of the Nazi regime a half-witted pyromaniac, a Dutch boy named Van der Lubbe, was sent to the block after the famous Reichstag trial, in which an attempt was made to fix upon German Communists the responsibility for burning the Reichstag. Even the German courts were unable to uphold the thesis of the Nazi party, and there was overwhelming evidence to indicate that the Reichstag was burned by the Nazis themselves and that Van der Lubbe

New Rayon Tire Gives Motorist Longer Mileage

Throughout the nation turned toward introduction of new car models, sales of the recently announced Double Eagle tire are increasing rapidly, according to Troy Gifford, local dealer for the Good-year Tire & Rubber company. "Purchasers of new cars, and especially purchasers of cars in the higher price brackets, are anxious to provide themselves with the best possible tire equipment they can get," Gifford explained. "Good-year's new Double Eagle tire, recently announced, has already caught the fancy of motorists, and more and more of them are being sold."

"Cause of the Double Eagle's popularity is the fact that it gives longer wear and greater economy. Reason for this is found in its carcass, which is built of Rayotwist cord. Rayotwist is not only lighter and stronger, but resists fatigue and heat better than does ordinary cord."

"Because of Rayotwist's lightness and strength the Double Eagle is lighter and more flexible than the ordinary deluxe tire, and offers less rolling resistance. Rigid tests have proved that this tire lessens gasoline consumption to a noticeable degree, and therefore is more economical. Resistance to heat, which is the natural enemy of tire life, means much greater tread wear."

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Sometimes fate is kind in Hollywood. Sometimes the lightning of world news strikes at exactly the proper moment. Sometimes—but not often—Hollywood is ready with a picture that has anticipated the lightning.

It has just happened. One Sunday night a good portion of the American population is scared out of its wits by a fantastic broadcast. Mars attacks the world (in radio fiction) and the results make newspaper headlines. And before the week is out, a picture hits the market—"Mars Attacks the World."

And Barney Sarecky, a diminutive, cheerful chap whose producing activities are confined mostly to the Universal back lot where serials flourish endlessly, becomes the studio's man of the hour.

Barney will claim no genius, no prophetic foresight, for his feat. It just happened. He was making a serious study, some months ago, and he had some fancy sets. Economy is a major interest in a serial producer's mind, and Sarecky did not want to see his fancy sets wasted. He shot enough material for a feature in addition to his chapter-play.

Came the broadcast—and I think Sarecky and Universal must be grateful indeed to Orson Welles. Darryl Zanuck, with his fondness for headline-prompted themes, might tackle a Martian story now—but Sarecky and the U have one ready for showing while the "news from Mars" is hot.

It has happened before, but never so spectacularly. Myron LeRoy had it happen, but almost in reverse. He had been preparing a script for his new star for months, and Fernand Gravet was already being filmed in "The King and the Chorus Girl" when King Edward VIII decided to become the Duke of Windsor for the sake of an American who, though not a chorus girl, was still a commoner. For a time, it looked as if LeRoy favorably—but then Hollywood discreetly put a taboo on king-and-commoner themes. The British Empire, it was known, would not appreciate a dramatization of a royal crisis vitally affecting it, and the British market is important. LeRoy got by—and probably the picture gained by the news break—but it might, just as easily, have boomeranged.

"Alcatraz," thanks to the happy coincidence of a prison break on the island, became a movie best-seller—outgassing some of the studio's "A" films and emphasizing, incidentally, the importance of the lowly "B's."

One night a man named Dillinger went into a movie theater and, on leaving, met the fate that was his due. The last movie he saw, appropriately a gangster film named "Manhattan Melodrama," made a new box-office life as the picture which "nabbed Dillinger." This was a "natural."

So was an unpretentious little programmer called "Spy Ring," made with no thought that, six weeks after its release, it would collide in the news with the arrest of those being tried for espionage. The words—"spy ring"—fit readily into headlines. "Spy Ring" came back on its own power—another example of the luck that movie producers—and press agents—dream about.

Horrible Understanding I turned my thoughts resolutely in a new direction. There was still Shaw, the man who had tried to spoil Swede's beauty. I hadn't been able to fit that in with the murder of Barney's fiancée. But suppose the killer had intended the bullet for Shaw?

We had only Shaw's word that he had been in the reading room that afternoon when the first shot was fired—if it was a shot. Couldn't he have fired at Barney from in front of the building, run around the side and in at the door of the reading room? It would be a smart move to tell the story first, before Adam could hear it from Barney's lips.

It was easy to discount his wife's story of refusing to marry Barney. No girl in her senses would have made such a choice between the two men. A more likely surmise would be that she had made a desperate play for Barney, only to find that he had been amusing himself at her expense—and Shaw's. She was probably still in love with him; that would account for her turning against Anne. And wasn't that a motive for shooting her?

On the other hand, why would Shaw, at this particular juncture, decide to put Barney out of the way? Anne was doing that for him.

I had floundered into confusion again. Barney or Anne? And strong motives for the death of either. Against my will my thoughts circled back to their starting point. Strong motives. Elizabeth, if she loved Barney, Charlie...

But I refused to think of that. Adam was pacing the floor with quick, nervous strides, his open face mirroring indecision. "But if that's true I'm on the wrong track—I've been asking all the wrong questions." He frowned thoughtfully at Shaw. "Who hated him? Who on this post would be glad to see him dead?"

Shaw turned a seaisick green.

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

Chapter 13 ON THE WRONG TRACK

Excitement burned in Adam's eyes. "Well? I'm listening." "Why, I was in the reading room, here, this afternoon, polling up for the party. I'd come over to make sure there was enough dishes for the ice cream. That stuff must be melted to soup by now! They were to deliver it at eleven. The balloon dance was to have been the last before the intermission." Adam made a gesture of impatience. "Get on with it. What time were you over here?"

"Right after the polo game. Must have been between five-thirty and six. There's usually two or three soldiers in the reading room, but they'd cleared out. The place was empty as a tomb." He paused, shivered. "Tomb is right...."

"Well, as I said, I was polling up a bit in here when I heard what I took to be a pistol shot. I tore to the reading room door—it was shut and opened it. "Barney was standing in the entryway with a box of colored light bulbs in one hand and the pieces of one at his feet. I said, 'What was that noise?'"

"He said, sort of weak, 'It did make a noise, didn't it? Must be the arched roof. I dropped a bulb.' "But when I got up to him I could see his face was white and he was shaking so the bulbs all danced and rattled. And I could smell burnt powder."

"Well, that was his story, and he stuck to it. But I think somebody was gunning for him and he knew it. And that would mean— "That somebody got the wrong person tonight. Did you see anyone? Outside, I mean?"

"I never noticed. There were cars passing—the polo game was just over. As I say, I never noticed."

"He would have been an easy mark there in the doorway," Adam mused. "He was all in white." Suddenly I remembered something that turned me cold. What mean doubt was filling my mind with pictures of Elizabeth? Elizabeth, determinedly, alone, leaving the club before Tap; Elizabeth, an hour ago, standing in her own front door looking sick with—what? Horror? Disappointment? Fear? And now—Elizabeth taking me tactfully but firmly little from the polo game, leaving me there and propelling her shiny little car back past the long row of officers' quarters, past the Service Club, past the chapel, past the Post Exchange, and so out of sight among the small, orderly row of quarters known as Noncoms' Row.

And Shaw had said there were cars passing. Passing the Service Club. I wanted to deny those suspicions. I deny them. I was ashamed of them. I despise people who are always looking for evil that where only good appears.

Yet the recurring pictures were important; they had real significance if I could have puzzled it out. But I didn't know them well enough—the principals in that night's tragedy. And even Adam, when, toward morning, I told him all the things that were troubling me, was slow to see where they pointed.

I turned my thoughts resolutely in a new direction. There was still Shaw, the man who had tried to spoil Swede's beauty. I hadn't been able to fit that in with the murder of Barney's fiancée. But suppose the killer had intended the bullet for Shaw?

Men Never Remember

PA'S SON-IN-LAW

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—To Mary With Love: People speak of "a flood of memories." I know what that means now. I was standing under the clock in the Biltmore today, which used to be a famous meeting place in the old days, and it all came back to me as if it were exactly as it had been on that dim Saturday of the middle 1920's, when college boys wore coonskin coats, and everybody was drinking bathtub gin, and girls from everywhere came into New York on Saturday afternoons for the tea dances.

and as I placed it on the desk a young man with a gay sort of what-the-hell manner came in. He spoke to everybody and pretty soon he came over and picked up the bottle that was heavily wrapped in a copy of the New York Times. "Hummum," he said, sniffing it, "gin." And then he put it down and walked away, and for a moment I thought he was a detective and that he was going to arrest me for breaking the law.

ponship is another feature of the week's play. These two teams did not meet for several seasons because of a controversy involving use of twelfth graders by Port Arthur, but this question was settled by a league referendum. Port Arthur and Beaumont are undefeated in conference play. Each has a game after this week, however.

Last Obstacle

Masonic Home meets its last obstacle in the way of a championship in the Port Worth district, clashing with Poly tomorrow night. Poly retains a chance at the title but must win over the Masons to earn a tie. Masonic Home can tie Poly and still take the crown.

Things also happen in District 16 where ties are probable in both divisions. Brownsville, Harlingen and McAllen were deadlocked for the lead in the upper bracket. Brownsville plays Harlingen and McAllen tackles Edinburg. Should a tie for the title result the championship would be determined on the basis of "who beats who" in previous engagements. Pharr-San Juan-Alamo and Weslaco are tied for the top in the lower bracket but with Mission playing Pharr and Mercedes clashing with Weslaco there were prospects of all five teams finishing in a deadlock. In that case the title would be decided on the basis of scores and penetrations. If two teams tie for the title the crown would be determined on the basis of "who beats who."

Barring upsets championships in eleven other districts will not be settled until next week. Sunset (Dallas) has already clinched the honors in District 8.

This week's schedule by districts: District 1—Friday: Plainview at Pampa (conference).

2—Friday: Childress at Graham (conference), Vernon at Quanah (conference), Olney at Electra (conference).

3—Friday: San Angelo at Sweetwater (conference), Eastland at Brownwood (conference), Cisco at Breckenridge (conference), Fort Worth Tech at Mineral Wells.

4—Friday: Yaleta at Bowie (El Paso) (conference), Cathedral (El Paso) at Fabens, El Paso High at Douglas, Ariz.

5—Friday: Sherman at Paris (conference), St. Joseph's (Dallas) at Denison.

6—Friday: Ranger at Highland Park (Dallas), Greenville at Denton (conference).

7—Thursday: Arlington Heights (Fort Worth) vs. Paschal (Fort Worth) (conference); Friday: Masonic Home (Fort Worth) vs. Poly (Fort Worth) (conference).

8—Friday: Dallas Tech vs. Sunset (Dallas) (conference); Saturday: Forest (Dallas) vs. Adamson (Dallas) (conference).

9—Friday: Texarkana at Athens (conference), Marshall at Longview (conference).

10—Friday: Henderson at Livingston (conference), Palestine at Mexia (conference), Gaston at Nacogdoches (conference), Lufkin at Jacksonville (conference).

11—Friday: Waxahachie at Hillsboro (conference), Cleburne at Corsicana (conference).

12—Friday: San Antonio Tech at Austin (conference).

13—Thursday: Austin (Houston) vs. Milby (Houston) (conference); Friday: Sam Houston (Houston) at Conroe (conference), San Jacinto (Houston) vs. Lamar (Houston) (conference).

14—Friday: Orange at Goose Creek (conference); Saturday: Port Arthur at Beaumont (conference).

15—No games scheduled.

16—Friday: McAllen at Edinburg (conference), San Benito at Donna, Brownsville at Harlingen (conference), Mission at Pharr-San Juan-Alamo (conference), Mercedes at Weslaco (conference).

For two weeks later, swapping punches with either Sammy Fuller or Mike Caplan... The Sugar Bowl folks also hit town, and wouldn't mind it a bit if they could land an Ivy league outfit or Carnegie Tech for their classy show down N'Awleens way New Year's Day... Bernal Bierman loses 19 from his Minnesota squad by graduation this year—but you can pretty well bet he'll come right up with three deep in '39 anyway...

Which brings up that pick-and-pray session as usual... From here, it's Notre Dame over North-western in a breeze... And Oklahoma's Sooners score sooner—and oftener—than Iowa State... Syracuse socks Columbia, Fordham shells South Carolina, the Harvards hammer the Yales and Army pounds Princeton... Wisconsin takes the Big Ten title from Minnesota... California over Stanford, and Michigan over Ohio State's Auburn tops Georgia... And, for the longshot, Rice may finally come due against Texas Christian... Sounds silly, doesn't it?...

Apostili-Corbett Friday Fight To Be Broadcast

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fight broadcasting via WJZ-NBC is expected to get under way Friday night. It was to have begun a couple of weeks ago with Armstrong vs. Garcia, but Armstrong's leg injury delayed that scrap until the 26th.

The Friday night battle will be a 15-round go between the middleweights, Fred Apostili and Young Corbett III, listed for air description at 9 (CST) by Sam Taub and Bill Stern.

Bufs Favored To Win Over Westbrook

Forsan Six-Man Grid- ders After Tenth Win Of Season

FORSAN, Nov. 17—Coach Brady Nix and his Forsan Buffaloes were confident of a second victory as they went through their last drills in preparation for the invasion of Westbrook Friday afternoon.

The six-man gridlers last week routed the Wolves, 55-6, and were highly favored to outscore the opposition again this time.

The game will probably close the season for the south Howard county team which has not been beaten in nine starts this season.

Bearkats And Sterling To End Season

GARDEN CITY, Nov. 17—The Garden City six-man football team will close its season Friday afternoon when Coach Hershell Wheeler takes his Bearkats to Sterling City for the last PSAA game of the year.

The Kats will be after their second victory of the campaign.

The game has been billed as a battle for the "cellar championship" of the association. The Kats need a victory to keep third place in the standings while a Sterling victory would pull the Sullivanmen above the charges of Wheeler due to the fact that Sterling has played less games.

Two SW Games On Humble Schedule This Weekend

With the four leading teams meeting each other in two of the most crucial Southwest conference football games of the season, Saturday afternoon will be packed with gridiron thrills and drama for radio followers of the game, for the Humble Oil & Refining company will broadcast both games, between Texas Christian university and Rice Institute in Houston, and between Southern Methodist and Baylor universities in Waco.

The eyes of the nation will be on the game at Houston, for the T. C. U. Horned Frogs remain to date one of the nation's few unbeaten, untied teams, and the Rice Owls will bring to the contest a more complete roster of their strength than they have presented at any time during the past three weeks. The Humble company's broadcast will begin at 2:20 p. m., with Kern Tips handling the play-by-play description of the game and Hal Thompson the color. Tune in on KPRC, Houston; WBAP-WFAA, Fort Worth-Dallas; WOAI, San Antonio.

Southern Methodist university, tied with T. C. U. for the conference lead, travels to Waco for its annual game with Baylor, just back from the Pacific coast and a victorious rout of Loyola of Los Angeles. The Humble company's broadcast of this game will also begin at 2:20 p. m., with Cy Leland handling play-by-play and Eddie Dunn, color. The game can be heard over Stations WACO, Waco; KRLD, Dallas; KIRH, Houston, and RTSA, San Antonio.

San Jose To Pick NM-Tech Winner As Dec. Foe

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 17 (AP)—Officials of San Jose State, which has the highest scoring college football team in the country, delayed action today on selection of a team to play here December 26 in a post-season game.

Both University of New Mexico and Texas Tech have been approached to appear in the game here, but it was decided to wait until these eleven meet in Albuquerque, N. M., Saturday before proceeding further with selection of an opponent.

Oklahoma university notified school officials yesterday it would be impossible for the Sooners to play here, and it was considered logical New Mexico or Texas Tech would get the invitation.

NEW TREATMENT FOR PELLAGRA REPORTED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17 (AP)—A new treatment for a type of insanity resulting from pellagra, the food deficiency disease, was announced today before the Southern Medical association.

Four physicians who have been studying the disease in cooperation reported this type of insanity can be corrected within 24 hours with nicotinic acid, a drug which has been proven to be practically specific for pellagra.

Nicotinic acid, originally isolated from tobacco but now made synthetically, costs very little. The amount of drug necessary for a single complete treatment is valued at less than one dollar. When used in the treatment of pellagra it supplies a vital food factor which has been missing in the diets of victims of the disease and enables the body to make a quick recovery, said the four physicians. Dr. Jean M. Grant and Dr. Tom D. Spies of Cincinnati, Dr. Robert E. Stone of Chapel Hill and Dr. James B. Mc Lester of Birmingham, Ala.
