CONFESSION IS MADE OF LOCAL BURGLARY

Men in Jail at Anson Confess to Local Burglary of Store

The Sheriff's office is in receipt of a letter from officers at Anson, stating that the two men being held there for burglary at Stamford have confessed to the burglary, in December 4, of the Harrison Hardware Company in this city.

On December 20, Sheriff Colvin and Deputy Turlington went to Anson and identified shotgun shells and a man's fitted case as being like those which were part of the loot of the local store, but no absolute identification could be made, as they were similar to like articles sold in all parts of the country.

The confession of the two men, however, clears up the case. (Continued on Page 8)

SUPERVISOR IS WELL PLEASED

Work at Local WPA Sewing Room Very Satisfactory, Said

Complete satisfaction of the work being done by the Memphis WPA sewing room was expressed by Mrs. Albert Walker of Childress, district sewing supervisor of the WPA, on an inspection trip of the local plant this week.

Mrs. Walker was so pleased with the work being done here that she took a part of the finished products, samples of sewing, to Lubbock to be put on display at the WPA district headquarters.

The full quota of 25 women is now working at the local sewing room, and they are turning out from 50 to 75 garments a week, Mrs. L. C. Smyers, supervisor, stated. It is thought that as soon as the women become more accustomed to the work, production will be increased. (Continued on Page 8)

MODEL PLANES TO FLY SUNDAY

Miniature Air Meet To Be Staged at Old Fair Grounds

Model plane builders and flyers are to stage a miniature air circus next Sunday afternoon, weather permitting, at the old Fair Grounds, to which the public is cordially invited.

There are expected to be a large number of both flying and scale models at the meet. The following will be judged on flight tests and the latter on accuracy and neatness.

All the rage in the east, the flying model airplane meets are new for this city, and it is expected that this one Sunday will be but the first staged by model builders of Memphis.

In entering the fair grounds, the public is asked to use the south gate, so as not to intrude on the grounds of the CCC Camp.

Treasury for Palestine's Past

Cathedral-like in its austere beauty, this white marble building has just been completed in Jerusalem to house the Palestine Archeological Museum. In its halls will be displayed the historic treasures that have survived the years, many of them dug from the dust of centuries by scientific expeditions. Construction of the building was made possible by a $2,000,000 gift from John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

ADVANCE PLANS FARMERS WIRE OF PRESIDENT'S BALL IN CITY

Add Square Dances to Attractions on Night of Jan. 30

At a meeting of the general committee in charge of the President's Ball in this city on January 30, celebrating the birthday of the chief executive, final plans for the affair were gotten under way.

For the first time in this city, there will be three separate attractions for our citizens that night, the addition of an old-time dance being decided upon by the general committee last night.

As in the past, there will be a Forty-two party, a Bridge Party, a Modern Dance and an Old-Time Dance.

The Forty-two Party will be held at the Memphis Hotel Ballroom, and refreshments of coffee and doughnuts will be served during the evening, in lieu of prizes.

The Bridge Party will take place at the Memphis Country Club, and prizes will be awarded the winning players.

The Modern Dance will be at the American Legion Hall, and the old-timers will do their steps at some place in the city not yet decided, but which will be secured for this attraction in ample time for announcement to be made.

Tickets will be placed on sale for the bridge and forty-two parties within the next few days, but no advance ticket sales will be (Continued on Page 8)

PRESIDENT AND HIS AAA AIDES

Hall County Farmers Express Confidence and Appreciation

Appreciation of what the Agricultural Adjustment Act has done for Hall County and Hall County farmers was expressed yesterday in telegrams sent to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Congressman Marvin Jones, Secretary Henry Wallace, Senator Tom Connally, Senator Morris Sheppard and Chester Davis, AAA administrator, by cotton men of this county.

The telegrams, sent over the name of the Hall County Protective Association with M. M. Lewis of Alaska as chairman, urged the government heads to continue their efforts for a parity on farm products and thanked them for their efforts of the past.

A meeting of leading farmers of the various communities over the county yesterday afternoon in the county courtroom, presided over by R. E. L. Pattillo, county agricultural agent, resulted in the telegrams being sent, after considerable discussion had been held on the plight of the Administration in regards to a federal program for cotton producers.

Discussion was held at the meeting yesterday on the reorganization of the community agricultural associations of the county, and a meeting of all presidents, vice-presidents and secretaries has been called for Saturday afternoon. (Continued on Page 8)

LAND OWNERS NEAR OIL TEST MEETING TODAY

To Ask Designation of Public Road Across Railroad

Land owners south of Red River in the vicinity of the Knorpp oil test near Parnell were meeting today in Memphis to discuss the drawing up of a petition to hand to the Hall County Commissioners Court asking that a public road be designated across the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad near the Knorpp drilling location.

Johnson and Kemnitz, drilling contractors who are drilling the well, have been in touch with the Fort Worth and Denver officials. (Continued on Page 8)

HEDLEY MAN IS TREATED HERE

Worker Is Stricken With Convulsions While on Job

Considerable excitement was created here this morning when a group of WPA Highway workmen from Donley County brought Jesse Guillems, about 40, of Hedley, to Memphis for treatment.

Instead of taking Guillems to a hospital, the men carried him to Durham-Jones Pharmacy and asked for a doctor. Dr. R. Ernest Clark, who chanced to be at the Pharmacy, examined the man and declared him to be suffering from convulsions.

The workmen handled Guillems as though he were drunk, and (Continued on Page 8)

BASKETBALL IS BEGINNING NOW

Cyclone Quintet Has Six Lettermen on Team for Season

Fifteen aspirants are reporting for practice each afternoon at the High School gymnasium, attempting to win a position on this year's Cyclone basketball team.

With six lettermen returning from last year's team, which finished third in the county, as a nucleus, Coach Swede Roark is optimistic of producing a basketball five of championship caliber.

Although the quintet has not played in any game this year, getting a rather late start, Memphis will be represented in the Grey invitation tournament Saturday. (Continued on Page 8)

THE DEVIL QUOTES SCRIPTURE

THERE is an old saying that "even the Devil can quote scripture," and it seems peculiarly applicable to the Supreme Court of the nation just at this time.

The scope and true meaning of the provisions of the Constitution seem to depend entirely upon the men who interpret them, and the fact that six of the members of the court look at the matter in one way, while three of them view it in an entirely different light, removes the "odour of sanctity" with which most folks cloth the rulings of the august body which effectually squashed the A. A. A.

Despite the fact that in no department of government should politics play a lesser part than in the Supreme Court of the nation, you will find most of their ruling colored by it.

The plea that under the Constitution no class of citizenship shall be favored by any measure which is an expense to any other group is rather foolish when you consider the fact that this is being done daily, and has been going on for years, with a measure which has been declared constitutional by the Supreme Court.

The measure in point is the productive tariff, which taxes the public for the benefit of industry. If this is constitutional, then why is a measure which taxes the public for the benefit of agriculture unconstitutional?

Is it possible that the greybeards of the court deem industry more important to the nation than agriculture?

Is industry a privileged class and agriculture just a bunch of folks "down south" who do not deserve any special privileges?

Must the program which, by fostering agriculture, the basic and fundamental industry of the nation, has set the country squarely on the road to recovery be torn down?

Unless the President and his aides can devise, and at once, a satisfactory substitute for the A.A.A., we are going to find ourselves no better off than when we emerged from the Hooverian "chicken in every pot" era.

But we have confidence in President Roosevelt, and we believe that he will find that necessary substitute, and that march to recovery, instead of being stopped, will be merely temporarily halted.

Then, all at once, the angry look had given place to a sober expression and Scott's tone had been clipped and controlled. He said, "Sorry. Forget it. The fog's lifting now. I don't suppose you'll have any more trouble."

That glimpse of Scott had been devastating. Dana's carefully built theory that you could build happiness with the materials at hand toppled. She faced the knowledge now that she was miserable, and that marriage to Ronnie would not make her less so.

Yet there were other things to consider besides personal happiness. There was the futility of loving a man who loved someone else and who was definitely out of your life. There was the happiness Dana knew she could bring to two old people and Nancy, who had always had the hard end. Maybe it was true that the most you could attain in marriage was security, companionship.

"Well, at least I won't let Ronnie propose while I'm feeling this way. It wouldn't be fair," Dana decided.

There are little discouraging tricks that every girl knows. Dana employed them. Ronnie didn't seem discouraged, though at times Dana knew he was puzzled by her attitude.

They were rushing from one party to another. Usually they double-dated with some other couple. Ronnie couldn't quite figure out Dana's sudden enthusiasm for crowds. He was sure, though, that it wouldn't be long before Dana would tire of chasing pleasure and excitement every moment, and the restless light in her eyes would be replaced by the old happy shine.

Dana was so absorbed she did not hear the gentle tap at her door until it was repeated again. Then she called, "Come in, Aunt Ellen."

Her aunt's face was drawn and troubled. "Dana," she said, in agitation, "your grandmother is ill. I'm afraid it's a stroke. She stumbled and fell. We've put her in bed. Sarah, Anna and I, and I've called a doctor. Oh, if anything happens to Agatha, I don't know what I will do!"

Dana cried, "Why didn't you call me?" She ran down the long hall to her grandmother's room.

Sarah was sitting by the bed, staring mournfully at her mistress. Mrs. Cameron's breath was coming quickly between drawn, parched lips. Above the old-fashioned nightgown, her neck looked thin, her cheeks sunken.

"I never thought of grandmother as being frail," Dana thought, shocked. "But she is. Terribly frail. She looks as though a wind might blow her away."

In swift compunction, she thought, "I've never done anything to show I love her. And she's been good to me in her way. It may be too late now."

Mrs. Cameron's weak voice came: "That you Dana? I was sure you were out with Ronnie."

Dana sat down by the bed, patting her grandmother's hand. How obsessed grandmother was by one idea. She wanted the marriage more than anything else in the world.

"He's coming tonight," Dana said, trying to speak brightly.

"I'm glad," Mrs. Cameron said. "Dana—"

"Don't talk, Grandmother. It isn't good for you."

"I'm worried about you and Ronnie. If anything should happen to me, I don't know what you would do, child."

"Everything's going to be all right," Dana replied gently. "Don't worry."

Mrs. Cameron motioned to Sarah, who left the room. "Dana, you're going to marry Ronnie, aren't you? It's best child. All the way around."

Best all the way around. Of course it was. Everybody would be so happy. And maybe, someday, she would be happy too.

"I guess it is," Dana said in a low voice.

"You mean you're going to marry him?"

"Yes, Grandmother."

She felt thin hands clutch hers fiercely, gratefully. Then Aunt Ellen was standing close by, her voice coming excitedly.

"Agatha, I sent for Dr. Osborne. I haven't a bit of confidence in Dr. Emerson, and I wanted the best. But he couldn't come. He had another patient or something. Scott Stanley is here in his place. I saw him getting out of his car and Sarah's gone to bring him up. Oh, I don't know what to do!"

Mrs. Cameron raised up on her thin arms, "Ellen, you fool!"

There was a knock on the door, and Dana opened it. She thought, "If Grandmother dares to hurt him now I'll never forgive her."

Some heady emotion was giving her strength, sending a joyous thrill through her.

"Come in, Scott," Dana said.

His deep voice answered, not bantering but quiet and controlled, "How are you, Dana?"

He turned professionally toward the bed, where old Mrs. Cameron glared at him from her pillow. After a moment, her eyes shifted to Dana. Something in the girl's expression was arresting.

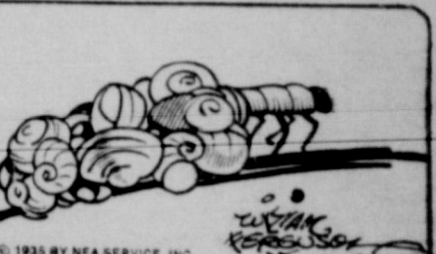

Mrs. Cameron moistened her dry lips, took a deep breath and

GIVEN PROTECTION AGAINST DIPHTHERIA

Dafoe Makes Treatment 'All in Day's Work' for Babies

DER, Ont., Jan. 8.—The scientific care which the Dionne quintuplets safely through 19 perilous now also provided them with the best known protection against diphtheria.

The nursery precautions against infection, and the most perfect health of the babies today, Dr. A. R. Dafoe said to take no chances with diphtheria.

The little sisters have completed a series of injections each of which contained a small amount of diphtheria toxin. The first was given in November and the second before Christmas.

By the time the third treatment came around, just before Christmas, it had become a game and all five of the little girls chattered and laughed.

Dr. Dafoe, anxious to add this further safeguard to the health of the Dionne babies, moved quickly and efficiently from one little girl to another, administering the toxin so swiftly and gently that none of them realized that anything unusual was taking place.

When he had finished the first injections, Dr. Dafoe explained his decision to immunize the quins against diphtheria.

"All children should be given toxin at an early age, for it is between 2 and 5 years of age that diphtheria takes its most terrible toll of child lives. You may be sure that if I felt there was any danger or possibility of harm, I would not have taken a chance with these five most precious lives."

Dr. J. A. Faulkner, provincial minister of health, took a personal interest in the treatment. The province distributes toxin free to any children whose parents want them so protected, and Dr. Faulkner believes the $15,000 a year that this costs is well spent.

"Any interference with this item of health protection," said Dr. Faulkner, "would result in our losing many children by diphtheria. Toxoid has proved its worth."

The Dionne babies showed no after-effects of the series of treatments, and face the new year in the best physical condition since they were born 19 months ago.

During the last 12 months they have gained an average of 10 pounds apiece in weight and their height, now range from 29 1/2 inches (Marie) to 31 1/2 inches (Yvonne). Marie and Yvonne have 10 teeth apiece, while the other girls have nine each.

said, "I suppose you never expected me to be a patient, Scott?"

"It gives me real pleasure," Scott said lightly. "I've lots of old scores to settle. So I've brought my biggest, bitterest pills."

Dana, amazed, heard her grandmother chuckle sardonically. "You would!" Weakness had softened her a little. She said, "I remember you were always one of the worst little boys in town. I haven't forgotten the green apples you and those wretched Wilkerson boys used to get from that big tree in my orchard."

"The branches hung over the wall," Scott said, smiling a little. "Walls never made any difference to you," Mrs. Cameron said grimly.

Scott lifted his hand from her pulse. "Pulse definitely shows misbehaving on your part. Now, then, we'll see about that heart."

Dana could bear no more. Scott who had been her husband, sitting there like a stranger. Speaking to her in a calm, alien tone. Talking to an old woman who had been his bitter enemy in a friendly, tolerant fashion.

Dana went out, closing the door behind her. How still the house was now. How horribly still and silent and cold and cheerless, away from the magic sound of a voice.

She put her hands up over her face and felt the tears trickling through her fingers. After a while she heard steps. And then Aunt Ellen spoke:

"Dana, I wouldn't have sent for Dr. Osborne for anything if I had dreamed this would happen. I hope you'll forgive me. Agatha's going to be all right. Something like vertigo, I imagine. She'll be up again in a few days. All she needs is to watch her diet and not over-exert. I hope you won't worry too much about—about all this."

"It's all right," Dana said in a muffled tone. "Don't bother about it. I'm so glad about Grandmother."

She sat staring into the fire which burned cheerfully under the white mantel. It had evidently been burning like that all day.

replenished by Sarah's conscientious hands. The room was too warm now. Suffocatingly warm.

Dana went to the window and opened it, feeling the cold air against her flushed face, gratefully.

And then she was listening. Almost holding her breath. A clear low whistle. She heard it twice.

Dana caught up a coat and ran swiftly along the hall. Down the back step, through the side door. Her eager feet took her in a breathless rush to the garden.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

ARTICHOKES, generally speaking, are in the same class with Nezzlerode pudding in this country—considered quite beyond ordinary housekeeping skill as well as budgeting pocket-books.

It's a pity the idea prevails for French artichokes usually are most plentiful in market when other fresh vegetables are scarce and high. They offer a delicious variety at a most opportune time, too, because they are very simple to prepare and serve and can take the place of a green salad.

Cook in Salted Water

To prepare for cooking, wash through several waters and cut stem close to leaves. Pull off hard outer leaves and cut off about 3-4 inch down. Let stand in cold water to cover to which vinegar has been added in the proportion of one tablespoon vinegar to one quart water. Let stand one hour and drain. Cook in boiling salted water for thirty to forty minutes. Drain and serve with Hollandaise sauce, melted butter or hot mayonnaise.

Each leaf is pulled off with the fingers, dipped into the sauce and the soft part at the end eaten, the rest discarded. After all the leaves have been pulled away and the thistle-like choke removed, the heart is eaten with a fork. This, the very best part of the artichoke, is what comes in cans at fancy prices. The sauce is served in separate individual dishes, or if thick can be served on the side of the plate.

Stuffed artichokes are grand with filet of beef for a special dinner. They are also nice with sweetbreads for luncheon.

Stuffed Artichokes
Four globe artichokes, 1-2 pound mushrooms, 1 tablespoon

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Baked apples, cereal, cream, cornmeal pancakes, syrup, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Creamed sweetbreads in noodle ring, stuffed artichokes, jellied cucumber and pineapple salad, cherry tarts, milk, tea.
DINNER: Baked short ribs of beef, browned potatoes, broccoli, banana and peanut salad, diplomatic pudding, milk, coffee.

minced onion, 1 teaspoon chopped shallot, yolk 1 egg, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons oil, 4 thin slices bacon, salt and pepper, 2 carrots, 1 onion, 2 coarse blades celery, 6 sprigs parsley, bay leaf, 4 tablespoons white wine, 1 1-2 cups veal stock, 2 teaspoons flour.
Trim artichokes and parboil in boiling salted water for ten minutes. Drain thoroughly and remove choke. Melt butter in sauce pan, add minced onion and mushrooms which have been peeled and chopped and cook ten minutes. Add shallot, salt and pepper and yolk of egg. Remove from the fire and mix well. Stuff prepared artichokes with mixture. Put a slice of bacon over each and tie with a cord. Put oil in a shallow sauce pan and add carrots and onions peeled and cut in thin slices, celery coarsely chopped, parsley and bay leaf. Arrange artichokes on this bed of vegetables, add stock and wine and season with salt and pepper. Cover sauce pan and simmer until tender, about an hour. Strain liquor in pan, add flour stirred to a smooth paste with a little cold water and cook and stir until thick and smooth. Pour over artichokes and serve.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 45 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.

GREAT AUK

THE GREAT AUK BECAME EXTINCT IN THE MORNING OF JUNE 4, 1844, WHEN THE TWO LAST AUKS ON EARTH WERE SHOT WHILE FEEDING ON A ROCKY ISLAND.

UNTIL 1921, A WHITE MAN APPROACHED WITHIN MILES OF THE BASE OF MOUNT EVEREST.

THE RACE OF GREAT AUKS DWINDLED DOWN TO A FEW HUNDRED NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUMS OVER THE WORLD REALIZED THAT IT WAS A MATTER OF TIME UNTIL THE BIRD BECAME A RELIC OF THE PAST. THEY OFFERED ENORMOUS PRICES FOR SPECIMENS. THIS ONLY SPEEDED UP THE WORK OF EXTINCTION, AND ON JUNE 4, 1844, THE LAST GREAT AUK MET ITS DEATH.

IF YA GET SHOT, WELL... THERE YA ARE, BUT IF YA GET BLOWN UP, WHERE ARE YA?

NOW that "Sky Pullmans" are being built, likely candidates for the naming job would be General Johnson and Gertrude Stein.

The cast is reported indignant over advertisements of Santa tilting the bottle, he being one holiday merrymaker who can get away with climbing down chimneys.

If the United States had postponed its declaration of independence a century and a half, Japanese troops undoubtedly would be protecting it from Communists.

A London surgeon says intense drama can cause a cold, which makes it easier for the susceptible boy friend, after a sad picture, to explain away those snuffles.

was some time before they put him to bed.

A crowd of about 100 persons crowded around and watched the laborers try to walk Guilliams, a truck driver, up and down the street. Guilliams suffered a stroke while seated on the fender of his truck at the project site on Highway 5 in Donley County.

ATTENDS MEETING

B. B. McMillan, local Railway Express agent, attended a meeting of the Red River Valley Express Association in Childress last night at 7:15 o'clock.

Supt. R. S. Hampshire and C. C. Stephens, commercial agent, both of Dallas, were present at the gathering. Agents along the Fort Worth and Denver from Wichita Falls to Amarillo attended the meeting.

FINISHES DUTY

Lieutenant Duke, who has been in service at the CCC Camp, was yesterday checked out by Sub-District Commander Spurlock, and is leaving today for his home at Okemah, Oklahoma. Lieut. Duke had finished his tour of duty.

HENS PROFITABLE

GAIL—A net profit of $205.22 on 108 white leghorn hens was made during the past year by Nolan von Roeder of Borden county, according to Cline E. Morris, county agricultural agent. Von Roeder had a total income of $262.36 and the total feed cost was $57.14. The hens produced 1521 dozen eggs at a feed cost per dozen of 3.7 cents.

made for the dances. The central committee last night decided to ask each social club in the city to dispose of twelve tickets, each good for one couple, for the bridge and forty-two parties. If, through inadvertence, any club in the city is missed by the committee in sending out the tickets, they are asked to get in touch with Roy Guthrie and secure tickets.

for several weeks, attempting to bring about a crossing near the test. It was thought for a time that their efforts would be successful, but as yet they have not gained permission to make a crossing.

It is claimed by the railway officials that, because of obstructed vision, a crossing in that section would be hazardous.

The drilling company is interested in the railroad crossing in order that they may ship their rotary drilling equipment to the scene, as a complete new rig is to be installed as soon as possible. A part of the machinery has been unloaded near the railroad tracks, awaiting orders to cross; and the remainder of the machinery is loaded in Oklahoma City ready for shipment.

The Knorpp oil test has been shut down, awaiting arrival and setting up of the new rig.

Oil activities at the Phillips test, the other Hall County wildcat, is said by those in touch with the drillers to be a matter of conjecture.

Basketball Is--

Twelve crack quintets from this section will compete in the tourney.

Plans launched by Supt. W. C. Davis, Chesty Walker and Coach Roark to form a cage league between the towns in the district 3b football circle have apparently fallen through. A complete season schedule has not been carded by the local basketballers.

The Memphis team will compete for county honors, in addition to a number of inter-city games. Estelline, Turkey and Lakeview, all three having played several games to date, boast strong crews this year; and the Memphis aggregation is conceded little chance of running off with county honors.

Ten new playing suits, ten new sweat suits and ten pairs of shoes have been received at the High School this week for issuance to the cagers.

Coach Roark has announced that a captain will be named for each game played, with the players electing an honorary captain at the end of the season.

Those who have shown up to best advantage in the workouts thus far are Ray Childress, forward, a letterman; Garvis Davis, guard, letterman; Pud Malone, letterman, guard; Peter Gilreath, forward; Dennis Walker, letterman, guard; Lester Smith, letterman center; Bud McAbee, guard and a letterman; and Winfred Swift, another guard who has won a numeral.

Byron Baldwin went to Dallas yesterday afternoon on a business trip.

THE new dollar bill carries the motto "E Pluribus Unum" (One From Many), the significance of which will become immediately apparent every payday.

At this season it isn't hard to justify the AAA to Junior. He has undoubtedly been paid for not tooling his Christmas sax.
