

City reaches out-of-court settlement

By RICK WHITE

The City of Muleshoe reached an out-of-court settlement Tuesday with former city police officer Chris Lopez.

The City will pay Lopez $125,000 in exchange for dropping the whistleblower lawsuit he filed against the city two years ago.

"I'm just glad that it's behind us," said Muleshoe City Manager James Fisher. "It was very physically and mentally draining on both me and members of the City Council."

"Now we concentrate on the future. And it also allows Mr. Lopez to get on with his life."

Lopez, who was hired as the police chief in Abernathy earlier this year, was equally pleased with the outcome.

He said he holds no ill will toward Muleshoe, but directed all other questions to his lawyer Randy Pyles.

Pyles was unavailable for comment.

Lopez filed the suit against the City in June of 1995, two weeks after being fired by then City Manager Dave Marr.

Marr said he fired the Lopez for using poor judgement during an early-morning traffic stop involving the city manager. Lopez contended he was let go for reporting alleged wrongdoings by then police chief Julian Dominguez.

The lawsuit was filed in Austin, where juries are notorious for handing down huge settlements.

In March, a Travis County jury awarded two state college workers a total of $36 million in their whistleblower suit, a fact not lost on Fisher.

"They don't even know where Muleshoe is. And they don't really care. It's not their money."

Fisher also said a trial would have proved embarrassing to Muleshoe regardless of the outcome.

"We really didn't want to go to trial and start slinging mud," Fisher said. "It would not have

Board approves Healthcare Center advisory committee

By RICK WHITE

Nursing home care is expected to be one of the fastest growing health fields in the next 10 years.

Hoping to meet those needs, the Muleshoe Area Hospital District Board voted Thursday to create an advisory planning committee.

The five-member Muleshoe Area Healthcare Center planning committee would be comprised of community members approved by the board.

Built in the 1950s, the 54-bed facility is need of a major overhaul that should include increasing current capacity, according to MISD administrator Jim Bone.

Because there is little room left at the current site, Bone talked about the possibility of purchasing neighboring property for expansion, or building a whole new facility at a separate site.

"Right now, it's important to know what the public thinks because its their tax dollars," Bones said.

He said the nursing home needs to be the top future priority of the hospital district.

The nursing home has operated at near capacity for several years. With the average life expectancy continuing to rise, the need is only going to increase, Bone said.

"A lot of people in the Muleshoe area are interested in the nursing home," said hospital board president Buck Campbell. "And they're going to wake up one day and have no place to go."

He said he knows of several people that have placed their parents in homes in Farwell and Clovis because there was no room in Muleshoe.

"It's not like you can just go down the road and check on MAPLE — Stamps were a nickel when President Lyndon B. Johnson appointed Marie Toombs as postmaster of the Maple Post Office in 1967.

A lot has changed since then, said Toombs, who retired this spring after 30 years on the job.

"I'm 75 years old, I think that's old enough to retire," Toombs joked while sitting in the living of her home about a mile southeast of Maple.

She had planned to retire Aug. 1, but hip surgery forced her to quit early.

Her job was much easier when she started because there was a lot less paperwork and red tape, according to Toombs, who took the job to earn extra money to put her three children through college.

"If all you had to do is put up the mail, it would be easy," who worked the post office by herself except for Saturdays. "I really enjoyed working."

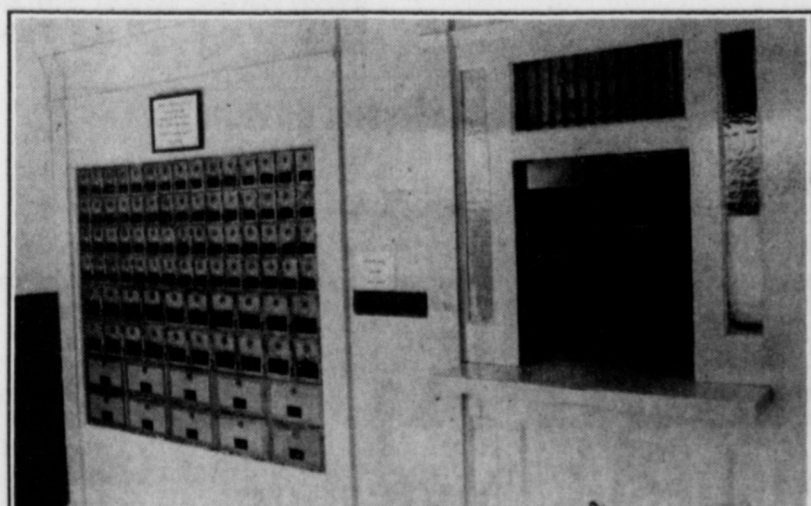

Toombs remembers Maple being a bit bigger back then, and folks stopping by to visit instead of just running in to get their mail. She also remembers Harold coming to eat lunch with her everyday.

House back funding for boll weevil plan

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The House showed strong support for agriculture Thursday by giving approval to next year's Agriculture Appropriations bill.

The House rejected efforts that would have endangered the Federal Crop Insurance program, as well as attacks on production support programs.

Of particular interest to the Panhandle-South Plains Region is the federal government's cost-share for full funding of the Boll Weevil Eradication Program at $16.2 million in fiscal 1998, as well as research to find an effective means to control sorghum ergot fungus, scheduled to receive $250,000.

Funds totaling $750,000 are also set to be in place to fund expansion of operation at the Cotton Production and Processing Unit in Lubbock, including two additional researchers. Differences with a Senate-passed measure will be worked out in a conference committee before its final passage and presentation to the President.

"Our region, which grows just about every known commodity crop, is a natural laboratory for agricultural research," said Congressman Larry Combest (R-Lubbock), who also chairs the Agricultural Research Subcommittee. "Throughout the region, containment of the dev-been fair to the citizens of Muleshoe."

Court depositions detailed a twisted tale of deceit, extra marital affairs and questionable police practices.

The settlement was hammered out during a day-long mediation hearing Tuesday in Lubbock.

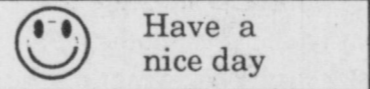

"No one wanted to walk away without a settlement," Fisher said.

Fisher said both sides were a "Grand Canyon" apart when mediation started and 90 percent of the negotiating was about dollars and cents.

The settlement money will be drawn from a city investment account.

Including attorney fees, Fisher estimated the total cost of the lawsuit at between $150,000 to $200,000.

The first $75,000 in attorney fees were covered by city liability insurance.

RODEO KIDS

BAXTER BLACK
ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

If you ever find yourself feelin' sorry for Job's mother, visit with the parents of rodeo teenagers:

DAD: Mornin' boys, I see you got back okay.
KIDS: Mumble
DAD: What happened to the trailer?
KIDS: Gance mumble
DAD: What happened to the trailer!
KIDS: Which trailer?
DAD: The one you took to the rodeo yesterday.
KIDS: You mean the grey two horse?
DAD: Yes. The one with the big dent and the tail light smashed.
KIDS: Oh... that one.
DAD: (sounds of steam emitting)
KIDS: I was backin' up... that's all.
DAD: And?
KIDS: Nobody told me that truck was behind.
DAD: Did you look?
KIDS: Well, Mom was standing right there.
DAD: What about the truck you hit?
KIDS: He never said a word.
DAD: Did you tell him?
KIDS: Who?
DAD: The owner of the truck you hit.
KIDS: I don't even know who it was.
DAD: You mean you backed into somebody and didn't tell them?

KIDS: It was one of those low bumper hitches on a one-ton flat bed. You couldn't tell. Pass the syrup.
DAD: (silence)
KIDS: Sis did good at the goat tying.
DAD: Really.
KIDS: Yea, real good. 12 seconds or 16, somethin' like that. Except her goat got loose.
DAD: How'd y'all do in the team ropin'?
KIDS: No good.
DAD: How many teams?
KIDS: Seventeen.
DAD: When did you rope?
KIDS: Last.
DAD: What time did you have to beat?
KIDS: 26.3
DAD: What happened?
KIDS: Danny headed him good, right outta the box. We coulda had a 5 second run, but I missed.
DAD: Yeah?
KIDS: Coulda built a second loop and caught him in ten!
DAD: And?
KIDS: I missed again.
DAD: I see. Where ya goin'?
KIDS: Out.
DAD: Whatya gonna do?
KIDS: Nothin'

Keepers of Legend' songs caricature of West Texas life

Editor's note: The following story by former Muleshoe Journal staff writer Joanna Gallman was reprinted from last year.

BY JOANNA GALLMAN
Special to the Journal

Playwright Paula Paul captured the rhythm of rural America in "Keepers of the Legend," creating scenes extracted from an array of personal childhood experiences in West Texas.

Paul not only wrote the script of the locally-produced play, but composed lyrics for 12 original songs featured in the play.

"It was a new experience for me to write that many lyrics," said Paul, who typically writes children's books and romance novels. "It was really my first serious attempt at writing lyrics. I enjoyed it though, and I wouldn't mind doing it again."

"Keepers of the Legend", which will be performed nightly starting at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 8-11, is a two-act play that depicts the struggle to incorporate Bailey county near the turn of the century, while telling the legend of the Muleshoe sandhills.

According to legend, an Indian tribe that settled in the Bailey County area was erased by an enormous sandstorm. The ghost of the tribe's chief is rumored to still ride the Muleshoe sandhills at night.

Paul, a Bailey County native, wrote the songs with West Texans in mind.

"The lyrics are straight forward and plain-spoken," she said. "That's the way people in West Texas are. There are no hidden messages or flowery language in the songs."

One of the play's feature songs, "West Texas Morning," is sung by a farmer who smells the morning air and sings about the need for rain.

"That one really came from my heart," said Paul, who grew up on a ranch near Baileyboro. "For some, there is only beauty in West Texas that can't be matched anywhere else. And 95 percent of the time we need rain. The song is about the beauty of the land and how it's so darn dry."

Religion was the most dominating influence during Paul's childhood, and therefore shaped the lyrics sung by a fire-and-brimstone preacher in the production.

"If You're Gonna Get to Heaven" is a caricature of the way I remember Southern Baptist preachers growing up," she said.

"Name-Calling" is performed during a scene where youngsters are scuffling on the playground.

"That on was inspired by years and years of riding the school bus," Paul said. "There was always somebody fighting. I still carry a scar under my eye from a fight I got in defending my little sister."

Paul said that the underlying theme of the entire production is about the need for change.

In the play, ranchers in Bailey county are opposed to the incorporation for the county, while farmers are anx-

Proud to be a Texan

Nearly one out of every four state residents consider themselves a Texas first and an American second according to a recent poll.

That's a stunningly high rate of identity with a state and probably unmatched in any other of the 49, said pollster Frank Luntz, who operates a Washington-based consulting firm.

In his survey, 500 Texans were asked: "If you had to chose one or the other, would you consider yourself a Texan or an American first?"

Twenty-three percent said Texas, 73 percent said American, 3 percent said both. Others didn't know or declined to answer.

"There's something special about this state," Luntz said in an Associated Press story. "There is a community here that doesn't exist in other states."

Texas was the only state surveyed.

He attributed Texas loyalty in part to the state's unique history. After rebelling against Mexico, Texas was an independent nation before joining the United States in 1845.

It may not be the biggest tomato, but it may be the one stop your family remembers forever.

Got a Weak Chin? Here's the Answer!

A gentleman by the name of Maynard Good Stoddard wrote an article recently for The Saturday Evening Post which my brother, for some reason, sent my way. It is entitled, "To Beard or Not To Beard."

Mr. Stoddard says that one day he finally figured out why he had been pushed around, especially at home, for many years. It was, he says, because his chin lacked authority. Not, he writes, that he wants one of fort to him than was Mrs. Billings. According to Stoddard, "Beards have been causing domestic wars ever since wives discovered that whiskers could be mowed, shaven, or set on fire."

More of Stoddard's research. It was Alexander the Great who first "shot down the beard," ordering his soldiers to shave lest their manly chins provide the enemy with convenient handholds.

It seems that Louis VIII of France started a war with England that lasted 300 years by shaving his beard, a trimming that his wife, Eleanor of Aquitaine, dear lady, objected to. After their divorce, she married Henry II of England who had a beard he could "tuck into his belt on windy days."

During the reign of Henry I, Serle, the bishop, termed the bearded gents of the Norman English court "filthy goats and bristly Saracens."

According to Stoddard's research, Peter the Great levied a tax ("a sir-tax") on Russian beards. King Charles swept the points of his moustache upward and sported a beard shaped like downward flame. Edward II's beard was curled into three ringlets. Edward III's was long and patriarchal. Henry VIII's was knotted. The Roman Emperor Hadrian grew one to cover his warts.

Beards. I'm pretty sure that God, unlike most wives, is neutral on the subject. What comes out of our hearts is far more important to him than what graces or disgraces, as the case may be, our chins.

Improved yields hike state wheat estimate

AUSTIN — The 1997 Texas winter wheat crop is forecast at 118.9 million bushels, up 15 percent from last month as a result of improved yields and an increase in acres for harvest.

The July 1 estimate is 51 percent above both last year's production and the 1995 crop.

According to a July 1 survey conducted by the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service, statewide yield is expected to average 29 bushels per acre, up three bushels from last year and up one bushel from last month.

Harvested acreage, at 4.1 million acres, is expected to be up 41 percent from 1996 and up 11 percent from the June forecast.

Production on the Northern High Plains is forecast at 49.0 million bushels, up 44 percent from last year and 19 percent above last month.

"Harvest operations were active in the Plains under hot, open conditions. Yields continued to be better than earlier expected in dryland fields, but some irrigated yields appeared to be affected by the late freeze," State Statistician Dennis Findley reported.

Winter wheat production on the Low Plains is forecast at 24.5 million bushels, up sixty-six percent from last year and up three percent from last month. The Cross Timbers is estimated at 8.8 million bushels, up 28 percent from last year's production, and up 24 percent from last month.

Production in the Blacklands is forecast at 24.5 million bushels, 82 percent above the 1996 crop. Harvest was slowed in some areas by wet conditions.

In South Texas, wheat harvest was virtually completed by June 1.

United States winter wheat production is forecast at 1.78 billion bushels, up 20 percent from last year and up 11 percent from June. Yield is expected to average a record 42.8 bushels per acre, up 5.6 bushels from a year ago. Acreage to be harvested for grain is expected to total 41.6 billion acres, five percent more than a year ago.

Roosevelt County Fair gears

PORTALES, NM— The annual Roosevelt County Fair is set for its five-day run Aug. 5-7, with junior livestock shows, a ranch rodeo, live entertainment and a carnival among the attractions.

Among the entertainers scheduled for the fair are Chek Rippee and the Roadrunners, who will play for dances on Friday and Saturday nights, Aug. 8-9.

Other entertainment includes the Nuthin' Fancy Band of Roswell, which will play Thursday night, Aug. 7; Elvis impersonator Ron Hale, who will perform Wednesday and Saturday and twirler Michelle Dunn, also scheduled for Wednesday and Saturday. Also to perform are Chico and Rene, a gospel singing duo, on Friday, Aug. 8.

Spectator events include the Roosevelt County Invitational calf roping on Wednesday Aug. 6; a Cowgirls Rodeo Association barrel race and pole bending Thursday, Aug. 7; a youth horse show and a ranch rodeo Friday, Aug. 8 and the final performance of the ranch rodeo on Saturday, Aug. 9.

Youth competitions include the Fair Queen and Princess contests; the junior market swine, lamb and steer shows, the junior dairy show, and the youth halter horse show. Saturday offers a particularly full day with the kids' pet show, roping contest and stick horse races.

The highlight of the entertainment is the Roadrunner Band, featuring Roosevelt County native Chek Rippee. A graduate of Floyd High School, Chek learned the fiddle at an early age and played in the Floyd Jamboree for many years, starting at the age of 5. Rippee is a former member of the popular Delk Band and is now the lead singer and fiddle player for the Roadrunners.

The band's drummer is John White of Portales, who has played with a number of area bands, including Smokehouse and Blue House. Another Portales resident, R.D. Phillips, plays bass guitar and has also played in a number of area bands, including the "hang Ten" rock 'n roll band, Smokehouse and Blue House.

The lead guitar player is Kevin Hardige of Farwell. He is also a former member of Smokehouse and Blue House and also played with Hot Hands.

The band joined Rippee about six months ago and they have been touring for about three months. Among the stops have been the Caravan Clubs in Amarillo and Albuquerque and have been booked in Clovis, Alamogordo, Ruidoso, Carlsbad and Hobbs. The group plans a recording stint in the near future.

Another feature of the fair is the gospel duo, Chico and Rene. Chico Ukle and Rene Maciel have been ministering in song and teaching since 1982. They met at Hardin-Simmons University and since graduation have developed a unique way of praising and worshipping that attracts young people to Christ.

The pair's music is mostly written by Chico and they have performed with youth and adults from Florida to Colorado.

In 1995, Chico and Rene combined with country Christian artist Michael James to produce their first album. Chico wrote all 10 songs and James arranged the music.

The Nuthin' Fancy Band of Roswell includes Earl Purcella, Stewart Bogle and Scott Bogle, as well as Jim McCampbell. They have played dances, weddings, private parties and corporate functions.

Thousands in Texas affected by heat stroke

Summertime in Texas means outdoor fun. Unfortunately, it's also the season when thousands of people in Texas are affected by heat exhaustion and heat stroke. Heat exhaustion occurs when the body's circulation system fails to maintain normal functions because of excessive loss of body fluids and salts. The illness results from heavy sweating during strenuous activity or from being enclosed in hot and stuffy areas.

Symptoms of heat exhaustion include dizziness, headache, profuse sweating, elevated temperature, and a cool and clammy skin texture. "Left untreated, heat exhaustion can rapidly escalate into heat stroke, an emergency type of heat illness," says Gene Weatherall, chief of Texas Department of Health's Bureau of Emergency Management.

Heat stroke, a life-threatening emergency, kills about 4,000 people in the U.S. in an average year. In heat stroke, the body's temperature-regulation system fails, and as water and salt supplies dwindle, body temperature rises to extreme and deadly levels. This heightened temperature can lead to severe damage to the brain, liver or kidneys. Symptoms of heat stroke are similar to those of heat exhaustion, but more extreme.

Body temperature usually exceeds 105 degrees F and the skin becomes red, dry or very hot.

Weatherall suggests that adults stay alert for these warning signs of heat exhaustion and heat stroke, especially in children and the elderly.

If you need to treat someone for heat exhaustion, first move to a cooler location, then elevate the patient's feet. Remove or loosen any tight clothing and apply cool compresses with a wet cloth to the head, neck, armpits and groin. Do not apply ice directly to the skin; make sure the victim does not become cold enough to shiver. Have the person drink one-half cup of water or a watered-down sports beverage every fifteen minutes. Avoid beverages which contain caffeine, alcohol or a high sugar content, and if the person is vomiting, do not give anything to drink. After conditions improve, a heat exhaustion victim needs to be seen by a medical professional. If conditions do not improve, seek immediate medical attention.

Heat stroke victims need emergency medical attention. An ambulance should be called immediately. Follow the same initial treatment used for heat exhaustion. Move the person to a cooler place, remove or loosen tight clothing, and cool the individual by wrapping him with wet sheets. Do not give the victim anything to drink, not even water. Do not apply ice directly to the skin, and make sure the victim does not get cold enough to shiver.

Both heat exhaustion and heat stroke can be prevented by following a few simple precautions.

- Never leave anyone—including animals—in a closed, parked vehicle during hot weather.

- Drink plenty of fluids, such as water and juices, and avoid beverages which contain alcohol, caffeine and large amounts of sugar.

- Plan strenuous activities for early or late in the day when it is cooler; then, gradually build tolerance for warmer conditions.

- Stay indoors and in an air-conditioned environment as much as possible unless your heat tolerance is well-established. If air-conditioning is not available, use fans to cool rooms and pull shades over windows. Open windows on opposite sides of a room for cross-ventilation.

- Eat more frequently, but make sure meals are well-balanced and light.

- Consult with a physician to determine the effects of sun and heat exposure while taking prescription drugs such as diuretics, antihistamines or mood-altering or antispasmodic drugs.

Editor's note: This is the ninth chapter of Hank the Cowdog, a book about the adventures of Hank, who is head of ranch security; Drover, his mutt sidekick; Slim a ranch hand; and Loper and Sally May, who own the ranch

Hank the Cowdog
CHAPTER 9

THE CASE OF THE DANCING COWBOY

Slim Gets a Haircut
By John R. Erickson

(In the previous chapter, Miss Viola takes care of Slim's injuries after he shocks his hand on the spark-plug wire and bangs his head on the car hood while trying to work on her car. Slim, the ranch hand, refuses to go to the doctor to get stitches. Miss Viola suggests that she trim Slim's hair, which he has burned in an explosion at the burning barrel. She tells him he looks ridiculous. Hank the Cowdog watches the scene.)

They stared at each other for a long moment. Then Viola said, "I'm sorry to be the one to tell you, but it's true."

Slim's adam's apple moved up and down. "Well, a guy ought to do everything he can not to look ridiculous, I reckon." She nodded. "Nobody but a barber's ever cut my hair."

"Do you want to go into town to the barber?" "Not really."

"And you don't want to go around looking like a scorched possum, so...where does that leave us?"

He smiled. "Scorched possum, huh? Does it really look that bad?"

"Why don't you go into the bathroom and look at yourself in the mirror?"

"Well, okay." He pushed up from the chair and shuffled into the bathroom. He was in there for several minutes, then came back and flopped into the chair. He handed her a pair of rusty scissors. "It does look pretty strange. Are you sure you know how to cut hair?"

She rolled her eyes. "I've been cutting Daddy's hair since I was eight years old."

"Well...okay."

And with that, Miss Viola went to work. Against incredible odds and using only the scissors and a comb from her purse, she attempted to make Slim the Cowboy look partly human.

She wrapped a towel around his neck, pinned it at the back with a safety pin she found on one of his shirts, and went to work with the scissors. While she snipped at his hair, I curled up at her feet. This was True Happiness, lying at the feet of...burp...a lovely lady, excuse me.

The snipping stopped, and Viola said, "Slim, do you notice a fishy smell in this house?" "It's probably just my dirty socks. If I'd known you was coming, I would have spent some time picking up the house. It's kind of a mess."

She gave her head a nod and her lips formed the word, "Yes."

Slim didn't see it, but I did. And then I surrendered my body and mind to the tide of sleep and drifted out into a delicious dream about....

My goodness, what a delicious dream, I had taken Miss Viola to the dance, see, and there we were in the moonlit yard, dancing the Texas two-step and...yikes!

Someone had stepped on my tail.

"Hank, you're going to have to move. I can't cut Slim's hair and stumble over you at the same time."

Huh?

I lifted my head and cracked one eye.

Miss Viola was standing over me, with her hands on her hips, and we weren't dancing anymore. It appeared that...

"Hank, please move."

Oh. It appeared that I had gotten in the way of her lovely little feet, so I jacked myself up and moved seven inches to the north and flopped down onto the floor.

"Hank, move."

Fine. I could take a hint, but it didn't seem fair that I had to move while Slim got her full and undivided attention. I mean, I was the one who had invited her to the dance...Okay, maybe it was just a dream but...

I moved my freight over to the stove, where Drover was curled up in a little white ball. He raised his head and gave me his usual silly grin.

"Oh, hi, Hank. What happened?"

"I was dancing with Miss Viola, but she stepped on my tail, so now she's giving Slim a haircut."

"Boy, you miss a lot when you take a nap."

"Exactly, which just proves a point I've made many times, Drover. When you sleep all day..."

The mutt was asleep again, which was fine with me. I had better things to do than carry on a pointless conversation with him.

I spent the next fifteen minutes casting adoring looks at Miss Viola, and was wondering when Slim was going to invite her to the dance. I mean, here was a perfect opportunity. Surely he wouldn't let it pass. The minutes dragged by. Miss Viola snipped and combed. Slim talked about horses and cattle, the grass, the weather, and a bearing that had gone out on the stock trailer.

And all at once, the haircut was over.

While Viola swept up the hair on the floor, Slim went into the bathroom and looked at himself in the mirror. He came back, all smiles.

"By gollies, Viola, you didn't have much to work with but you sure did a fine job. I believe it's just as good as store-bought, or even better 'cause..."

I held my breath and waited for him to finish the sentence: "Cause you're a whole lot prettier than a barber." I knew that's what was on the tip of his tongue, but darn his hide, he didn't say it.

You know what he said? He frowned, chewed his lip, shuffled his boots around, started jingling the coins in his pocket, and turned red in the face.

Miss Viola stared at him, waiting to hear the rest of the sentence. "Yes? Because what?"

"Because..." We were all waiting. Even Drover had raised up to listen. "Because...your haircuts are free."

I couldn't believe it. What a clod. What a meathead.

The little smile on Viola's lips faded. A shadow seemed to pass over her eyes. She went for her purse. Slim stared at the ceiling and jingled the coins.

He'd had a perfect opportunity to give that fine lady a compliment, and then ask her to the dance, but he'd blown it, totally blown it.

ious to convince lawmakers of the need for organized government.

"The play and lyrics are all about change," Paul said. "The lives of our grandparents were very, very different than our lives today. We have to give up our old ways. But that doesn't mean you have to give up the spirit of the land."

Even while the lyrics denote transformation, parts of the production testify to the unbending nature of certain elements of West Texas life.

"West Texas Man" is sung by the wife of a stubborn rancher.

"My father is a good example of a West Texas man. He's a hard-headed man who is so aggravating, yet so lovable," Paul said.

"Even boys I grew up with were like that. There were always independent in the way they thought, acted and dressed," she continued. "West Texas men have this special sand-storm toughness about them, along with a vulnerable, lovable side."

"I realized I was rewriting the legend myself," Paul said. "I only enhanced the quality. That's what story-tellers do—they tell a story and then embellish it to add magic to it,"

she said.

"I felt like I was the 'keeper of the legend.'"

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

BE MY GUEST!

IN THE DAYS OF THE BIBLICAL PATRIARCHS, THE RULES OF HOSPITALITY WERE STRICTLY ADHERED TO. SOME OF THE CUSTOMS WERE CERTAINLY BIZARRE AND ODD, TO SAY THE LEAST! FOR INSTANCE, A MAN'S ENEMY BY THE MERE ACT OF TOUCHING THE MAN'S TENT POLE IMMEDIATELY BECAME HIS GUEST AND, AS SUCH, COULD CLAIM FOOD, DRINK, AND PROTECTION IN THE TENT FOR THREE DAYS PLUS FOUR HOURS—AND, ON LEAVING, COULD CLAIM FURTHER IMMUNITY FROM HARM FOR THIRTY-SIX MORE HOURS!

IN ANOTHER ASPECT OF HOSPITALITY, A MAN'S WEALTH WAS MEASURED BY THE NUMBER OF GUESTS ENTERTAINED. NEHEMIAH, GOVERNOR OF JERUSALEM, ENTERTAINED 150 MEN AT A SITTING! KING AHAZ AND JEZEBEL FED 800 PRIESTS OF BAAL DAILY (UNTIL ELISHA SLAUGHTERED THEM!). FOR SOLOMON'S FEASTS AT HIS COURT, ONE DAY'S PROVISIONS INCLUDED "...10 FAT OXEN, 20 CATTLE, 100 SHEEP, HARTS AND ROEBUCKS, FALLOWDEER AND FATTED FOWL." (1 KINGS 4:22FF). IT WAS A MATTER OF PRIDE FOR KINGS, NOBLES, AND ALL WEALTHY MEN TO PROCLAIM HOW MANY PEOPLE THEY FED AND ENTERTAINED. BUT FOR SHEER NUMBERS JESUS OUTDID THEM ALL—WELL, DIDN'T HE FEED THE FIVE THOUSAND? (MATT. 14:14-21)

NURSING HOME NEWS

Irene Splawn was visited over the week and by Julia Peterson and her son Kenneth Splawn. Kenneth took his mother Irene out for lunch.

Betty Ramage from Volunteers Plus brought us a supply of quarters for our weekly Bingo games.

Tuesday afternoon Claudine Embry, Mary Jo Burge, Pat Watson, Beverly Wagon, Kimberly Dickerson, Alta and Joy, shampooed and set the ladies hair and gave manicures.

John Seaton returned to the Care Center after being in the local hospital. Welcome back Mr. Seaton.

We wish to extend our heart felt sympathy to the family and friends of Harvey Toten, we too shall miss him.

Mr. Clark Price made his special cookies for us this week.

Roma Davis had her grandson and his family were here visiting with her. Victoria their beautiful and well behaved canine came, too, for a visit.

Joe Embry visited John Seaton and Bill Darnell Tuesday.

Just a reminder that the July birthday party is scheduled for Thursday July 24th at the 3:00 p.m.; you are invited.

The date for the Carpenters visit has been changed for Friday, Aug 1st to Thursday 31st. We hope you can join us.

Children major carrier of flu

HOUSTON— A nasal influenza spray is sage and effective in preventing flu in children, say researchers at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston and nine other U.S. sites.

The result is a breakthrough in the battle to immunize children against flu without the fear or pain of a shot.

Only one percent of the 1,070 children who received the nasal vaccine in the national trials developed culture-confirmed influenza during last year's flu season versus 18 percent of the 532 same-age children who received placebos.

"This spray could well have widespread public-health implications," said Dr. Pedro A. Piedra, a pediatrician in Baylor's Influenza Research Center and an attending physician at Texas Children's Hospital, also in Houston.

"We recognize that children are major carriers of flu," he said. "Every year influenza sweeps through schools, and the children take it home to their parents."

Because this new vaccine is more easily administered, it could help control flu in school-age populations and thus control it in the adult population, Piedra said.

The large field trial enrolled 1,602 children from 15 months of age to 6 years. The Baylor portion of the trial was conducted primarily at Houston-area Kelsey-Seybold clinics.

The study targeted healthy young children because they experience the highest incidence of influenza and are an important source of its spread. Most children have had flu two or three times by the age of five.

The new vaccine, made from weakened virus, cannot cause influenza. It is designed to stimulate antibodies in the upper airways that protect against naturally acquired infection.

Lemons gave the residents ceramic lessons. Residents that participated were Hazel Riddle, Helen Tinskey, Katherine Rogers, Lora Dale, Lib King, Florence Harvey, Rosa Sneed, Aline Locke, Pearlie Helmer, Kathryn Hancock, and Nettie Quesenberry.

Pastor David McIntire, Clara Lou Jane and J.C Shanks directed our devotional time Thursday morning.

Each Sunday morning the Church of Christ on American Blvd., direct the communion service. The New Covenant Church of Muleshoe directed the church services Sunday afternoon.

Wednesday morning Buster and Wanda Kettrell, hasted coffee time, and around the table talk. Shortly following, Brother Robert Brown from the Trinity Baptist Church lead devotional time. Buster, Loyce Killingsworth, Jim Claunch lead the music and song service. Juanita White and grandson, Mr. Dodd, Jane Reeder, Harnld and Mary Jo Burge were guest at the event.

Tennie McCormick and Betty McCormick visited Leonard McCormick Tuesday afternoon and played dominoes with him.

Helen Tinskey celebrated her birthday Wednesday. She received visits, cards, gifts and a birthday cake.

Thursday afternoon the Rebecca Lodge of Muleshoe hasted the July monthly birthday party for the residents. Residents being honored were Cordie Claunch whos ebirthday was July 12th and Helen Tinskey, July 23rd. The Rebeccas served angel food cake, fruit salad and punch to the birthday honorees and everyone attended.

Bro & Mrs. James Sinclair and Anna B. Lane from the Three Way Baptist Church entertained, also the Rebeccas performed a skit. Decorators Floral provided the corsages. Altha Turner was visited by her daughter, Mary Wise, her daughter in-law Dorothy Turner and grand-daughters.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL)-- A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis," and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, jointaches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis, relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis, is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new roll-on liquid form. Arthur Itis, is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Wildlife officials want your big bass

WANTED — Live large-mouth bass weighing 13 pounds for a Texas Parks & Wildlife breeding program.

State fishery officials will pick up and return the fish to anglers and also include a mounted replica of the fish free of charge.

Officials are interested only in Black bass.

Parks & Wildlife, which has a live 20-pound largemouth bass on public display in Athens, are hoping to produce genetically superior and larger bass and then introduce them into state-owned lakes.

Anglers who land a bass 13 pounds or more are asked to call 1-888-676-1484, which is a pager number. Enter in your area code and number followed by the pound key. TDF&W officials will return the call and make arrangements to pick up the fish.

The program operates from Dec. 1 to April 30.

David Campbell of Parks and Wildlife said he would personally come get bass 17 pounds or larger. His number in Athens is (903) 676-2277.
