Is Memphis Gold Medal Band to Be Supported

NEXT week Memphis is to decide whether it is worth while keeping active one of its greatest publicity assets—the Memphis Gold Medal Band.

The contract with Director Milam, who has developed the organization to its present splendid status, expired a month ago, and must be renewed if the band is to continue to function.

The organization, which is the official band of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is composed of High School boys, who are now eligible for affiliated credits for their musical work. Mr. Milam having just this week received a State Teachers Certificate for musical instruction.

Next week a committee from the Chambers of Commerce will call on you to decide whether you want to continue the band or not.

There should be but one answer—an emphatic "Yes."

ALL ELIGIBLES IN COUNTY GET COMMODITIES

Former Restrictions Removal to Allow Many to Be Aided

Destitute Hall County residents are to benefit from a relief program opened in Memphis this morning.

Government commodities, food and clothing, are to be distributed those in the county who are eligible for relief but who cannot be placed on WPA projects because they did not have a relief status prior to January 1, 1936.

Those who are employed on WPA projects in the county but who have not received their first checks will also be eligible for the government commodities.

Eligible also are those employable who are eligible for relief but who have not been placed on a Works Progress Administration project.

Those who have been placed on WPA work but who are temporarily incapacitated—due to illness or like causes—will also receive the commodities.

TRY INFLUENCE JERSEY POLICE

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—Dispatches received here today said that Col. H. Norman Swartzkopf, head of the New Jersey State Police, had reported to Governor Hoffman that efforts had been made by unnamed parties to get state troopers to admit that evidence against Richard Hauptmann had been "framed" in his trial for kidnaping the Lindberg baby. From Thenton, Governor Hoffman sharply denied that he had any knowledge of such "threats or promises."

The Weather

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday.
EAST TEXAS: Cloudy tonight and Sunday; occasional rain on west coast tonight, and in south and east Sunday; slightly warmer in northeast, central and east coast tonight.

PREMIER IS LIVE AND WELL

BY Associated Press
OKAYO, Feb. 29.—Premier Kei Okada, thought to be the victim of assassins, reappeared alive and unharmed today, as the Japanese government announced. His "resurrection" remained a secret until a Japanese rebel had rendered threats from machine guns. The man mistaken for the premier was his brother-in-law. Emperor Hirohito ordered Okada to remain at head of the government. Acting premier Goto became head of the post.

New Orchestra

The American Legion has selected "Doc" Davis and his "Broadway Country Club" Orchestra for an engagement at the Legion hall next Wednesday night. "Doc" and his boys are direct from thirty weeks at the famous New York club, and advance reports are that it will be the best orchestra to appear here in many months.

WANT TEN MEN HUNT RABBITS

Shelterbelt Project Wants Men to Exterminate Pests

Positions on the Shelterbelt tree planting program are now open for 10 Hall County men who are certified for relief and who reside near Estelline.

The men may move to Estelline in order to take the jobs, Frank N. Blevins, NRS clerk from Childress, stated here today.

Most of the jobs are desirable, in that they will consist of hunting rabbits all day long. The men hunt rabbits in the vicinity where the young trees are set out.

BEER ELECTION INTEREST LIGHT

Only 252 Votes Cast in Memphis Boxes to Noon Today

Not a great deal of interest is being shown in the county-wide beer legalization election in the two local voting precincts, according to reports from the polls at 1:00 o'clock this afternoon.

At that, 130 votes had been cast in Precinct 1, and 118 in Precinct 13, a total of 248 for the two local voting boxes. Four absentee votes bring the total to 252.

Inasmuch as there are 1181 qualified voters in the two local voting precincts, it will be seen that inter- (Continued on Page 12)

Three hundred soldiers, 105 Marines, 105 Bluejackets, a Marine band, an Army band and army fliers, staging regularly scheduled air shows, will be part of the service forces' Exposition program.

Agricultural Class Makes Field Trip

Completing a unit of study on dairying, the High school Vocational Agriculture class of about 65 students and the instructor, Riley W. Carlton, made a tour of inspection through the City Dairy, the Loard Dairy and the Gate City Creamery plant here yesterday.

The students noted in particular the construction and ventilation of the dairy barns. At the creamery the students watched a cream test. Ice cream confections were served to the students at the Gate City Creamery.

The field trip was the first one made by the agriculture class since the first of December, and Mr. Carlton announced that one would be made hereafter almost every week.

Art Has No Concern With Political Ideas

It must be hard to be such a devout party man that you don't know whether you like a piece of music until you find out what the party authorities have to say about it.

No American is likely to get into such a fix, because neither the Republicans nor the Democrats, as such, pay much attention to the fine arts. But it is a real problem in Soviet Russia, where the composer, Dimitri Shostakovitch, has been denounced formally and officially for composing "un-Soviet" music.

Until a few days ago, Shostakovitch was the darling of the radicals. His music embodied the purest spirit of Communism, and when capitalist outfits like the Philadelphia orchestra played some of it the world revolution drew perceptibly nearer.

But Shostakovitch has gone off the front page and is back among the want ads, and no good Communist will listen to him.

His case is worth examining, because it helps illustrate the odd state of affairs into which you get when you try to make every activity of life conform to some all-embracing theory.

Shostakovitch writes music in the modern manner; music that is harsh, dissonant, blaring; music that you can't whistle, because there is nothing to whistle.

A conservative soul is apt to find it just a lot of noise; and somehow, perhaps because of the fact, the Russians got the notion that this music was Marxism expressed in terms of trombones and kettledrums.

So he became a national hero. His opera, "Lady Macbeth," had a two-year run in Moscow. Party leaders assured everyone that this man was greater than Wagner. He found himself Russia's most famous composer.

AND then, without warning, the tables were turned. The Moscow newspaper, "Pravda," suddenly announced that his music was just a muddle, after all—"fragments of melody dissolving into a general roar, scunch, and scream."

Newspapers all over Russia followed this cue; from being the very embodiment of distilled Marxism, Shostakovitch overnight became a petty bourgeois, who was clearly up to no good.

All this seems to add up to a good joke, with Shostakovitch on the receiving end. What happened, probably, was that Stalin himself at last got around to hear some of this music, rushed from the place crying "This is terrible!" and let the party hacks do the rest.

But it is an interesting example of the folly you can commit by supposing that a pure work of any kind of art intrinsically can be either Communist or non-Communist. The canons of art have precious little to do with such considerations.

Music, whether it be Shostakovitch's or Beethoven's, is—music; nothing more, nothing less. You let yourself in for much befuddlement by trying to fit it to a political theory.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—In a world in which the statistician and accountant are looming larger every day it is marvelous that so little is known about certain very important things.
For instance, every legislative effort to cope with relief and re-employment must hang on one bit of information. How many unemployed are there?

And the answer, with all the elaborate statistics that come flooding out of statistics machines daily, is simply this: Nobody knows.
The American Federation of Labor and the National Industrial Conference Board make periodic estimates, usually agreeing within a couple of million. But they can be little better than intelligent guesses.

That is why a census of unemployment has been periodically proposed, perhaps as a national WPA project. Hugh Johnson had a plan to use voting booths in every precinct in the country as registering places for the unemployed, just as they were used during the war for draft registry.

BUT you may be sure that nothing will be done this year toward an accurate national listing and census of the unemployed. Bad election year business.
Some day, however, an increasing number of government officials feel that it must be done, on the principle that before you can accurately determine where you're going, you must first know "where you're at."

Another example of this vagueness of knowledge of elementary data came up in debate on new alien laws in the Senate. It was

Ed Smith upholding the school choice of the most beautiful—Janet McQueen. We asked why he thought she is the prettiest girl, and he said: "Why, uh, I go with her some."

Mrs. Herschel Melnar is reported ill at her home in Memphis.

Senator Reynolds of North Carolina who pointed out that nobody knows how many aliens there are in the country, let alone how many of them are here illegally.
For instance, the Commission of Immigration estimates that the number of aliens illegally in the country is less than 100,000. One New York City official estimates there are 300,000 in his city alone.

IT would be inaccurate to say that the adverse supreme court decisions raised the public clamor protest that inner New Deal hoped it would. Spontaneous public clamor was strangely absent.
But plenty of thoughtful people are thinking, both ways, which at least an improvement over the former tendency to consider the court blindly as something somewhat superhuman. More than proposals are pending in Congress to modify in some way the power of the court.

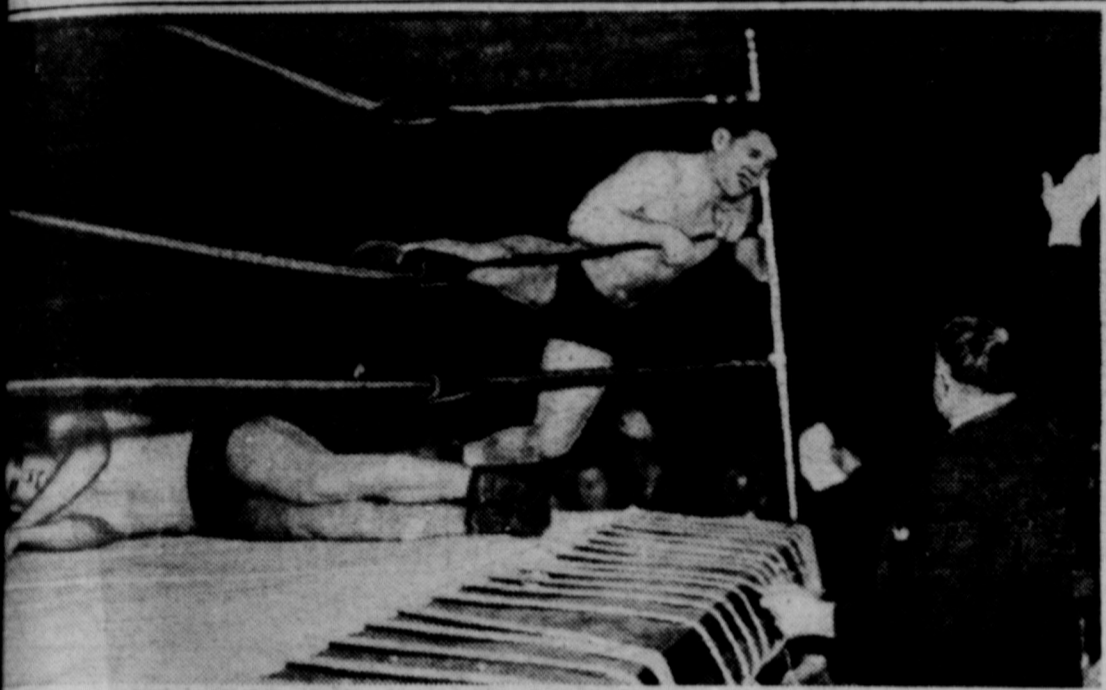

There is almost no chance of modification in this session of Congress. After the November elections, perhaps, but not now.
Hence, the frantic efforts to frame the new AAA substitute terms that would agree with the present court's interpretation of the Constitution.

A new twist was added to the effort to make the new AAA court-proof by Senator Logan of Kentucky. He added to the purpose of the bill "protection of rivers and harbors against the effects of soil erosion."
The point is that states, be they ever so touchy about their rights, have never objected to the federal government coming in and spending millions in dredging out their harbors and rivers.

Bad Post Actor Is Knocked Out

Gino Garibaldi, heavyweight wrestler, got to acting up at the post in a Los Angeles bout with Vincent Lopez, and found the post just a bit too hard for his head. Gino charged Lopez, the latter dropped to the floor, and the irate Italian flew over his opponent and smacked into a ring post, as shown above, knocking himself out.

HARRY GRAYSON'S SPORTCAST

THE winter books on the Kentucky Derby now are in the making. Before long, commissioners will be receiving thousands of dollars from bettors who are taking a far greater gamble than odds quoted by bookmakers indicate.

Already stories of the prowess and training of Hollyrod are going around, and plenty of people are regarding him as the winter book favorite for the classic at odds of 8 to 1. That quotation has been made by a St. Louis keeper of the tomes.

These aren't particularly generous odds in view of the fact that you can find plenty of gamblers who will give you the same or better odds that Hollyrod, or in fact any horse you want to name, will not start in the Derby, let alone win it.

The Derby is the hardest test of horseflesh in the world. It comes so early in the year that it is sometimes impossible to get the nags ready. Those that do go to the post often never get to top form again, and a large share of the Derby horses either go wrong preparing for the race, or break down shortly afterward from the strain of preparation.

Usually more than 100 are named to start only a matter of months ahead of May, yet by that time the percentage of horses that go wrong or fail to measure up in class is startling. Look back over the years and remember that Equipoise failed to get there, as did Top Flight, Universe, Burning Blaze, and Chance Sun.

A NUMBER of the better known handicappers elected to get out on the limb by making up experimental handicaps, in which they tried to rate the 2-year-olds according to worth. Apparently all of them have forgotten to mention the distance the horses are to run. Similar handicaps last year had Omaha rated from fifth to 11th on the lists, and the majority of the horses that headed him never have been any better than sprinters.

Now as to Hollyrod's suitability to head the Derby lists, one might express grave doubts. That he was a good 2-year-old goes without saying. That he will be a great 3-year-old is harder to prove.

Consider his breeding. He is by the former sprint marvel, High Cloud, out of the famed Mandy Hamilton, by John o' Gaunt. Tans, he is a half brother to the stallion, Supremus, by Ultimus, and High Cloud was himself by Ultimus.

Ultimus never got anything that could race over a mile. He was inbred to the Domino line of speed horses, and all his offspring, and theirs—excepting Sarazen—have been sprint horses. Supremus, despite that Mandy Hamilton blood, was a sprinter. So what does that portend for Hollyrod? Yet you are already reading that he will be able to run all distances.

THE Whitney's, watching their horses break down from Derby preparation—Today was last year's casualty in the Eaton blue and brown cap—haven't named Red Rain. Coldstream might be there, but, judging from St. Bernard and Pop Dog, he will have to prove that imported Bulldog is setting more than sprinters.

You might be justified in looking for a horse of Fair Play blood for your winter book favorite, Balancing that with the fact these horses mature late, you'd still find that Grand Slam, conqueror of everything in sight last year, when the going was muddy, pretty nearly would fill the bill.

This department wants none of the winter book, anyway, even if the favorite were Grand Slam and the odds on him were 20 to 1.

Bowling Association Opens Second Half League Season

Teams Probably Will Be Dropped from Schedule

Second half of the Memphis Bowling Association league season will start this week, with the possibility of two of the teams of the first half of the season being dropped from the schedule and a new schedule arranged for the remainder of the season.

The first half of the season's Outlaws and the Band each forfeited three series by not appearing at the bowling clubs when the games were scheduled. There is a possibility that these teams will be dropped from the league and their members will be allowed to play distributed among other teams.

Opening series between the Merchants and the Laundry, Monday night, was taken by the former, who rolled over the laundry in all three games.

Monday night's series between the Merchants and the High School was cancelled, on account of the absence of the Outlaws, who forfeited three games of the league.

Democrats took the Industrials into camp Wednesday night in a game of two out of three.

Monday's game scheduled between the V-Eights and the Band was cancelled, when the band could not get their team together.

The schedule for next week: Merchants vs. Outlaws; V-Eights vs. Industrials; Band vs. Democrats; High School vs. Laundry.

Meeting Monday to Decide on Entry Into New League

All persons in and near Memphis who are interested in forming a baseball club are asked to attend a meeting Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the office of the Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting is being called by Jack Boone, manager player of the Memphis Owls baseball nine. Memphis is to be asked to join a baseball league this summer along with Amarillo, Pampa, Lubbock, Borger, and Lefors. Jerry Malin, Amarillo News-Globe sports editor, is instrumental in organizing the league, which is to be a Semi-Pro affair.

The "C" class teams would play two days a week, on Wednesday and Sunday afternoons. Memphis was a member of such a league last year, the Red River Valley league. The Owls finished third in the scheduled play, and it is believed locally that the crew would fare as well or better in the proposed Amarillo league. Most of the players on last year's nine are ready to play, Manager Boone said.

It may be a little early to begin thinking about baseball, Boone said, but we want to meet and talk the situation over. There will not be any money or other strings attached to the meeting Monday night, and we are hoping for a big turnout, he said.

The athletic committees from the Memphis Junior and Senior Chambers of Commerce were urged to attend the parley, and all other interested persons are asked to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Newby, teachers in the Salisbury School, and daughter, Temmie Sue, were visitors in Memphis yesterday.

TURKEY PROFITS

TAHOKA.—V. E. Jones, Lynn county agricultural agent, in his annual report says that the J. T. Owens family of the Edith community made a net profit above feed cost of $319.28 on turkeys produced during 1935.

The Owens family started the year with 10 breeding hens. One hundred and sixty-two poults were hatched and 131 of these reared to market size. Fifty-six of these birds were sold live weight, all grading number one, for $184.48. Fifty-one were home dressed and sold strictly on a quality basis. Forty-one of these graded prime and 10 choice. These 51 turkeys brought $180.50 and 12 were kept for breeding purposes and 12 of a late hatch are still on hand to be marketed.

"These turkeys," according to Jones annual report, "were fed a balanced ration consisting principally of milo, corn, bran, shorts,

TODAY, ammonia is obtained on a commercial scale as a by-product, when coal-gas is made. Even the air we breathe often contains considerable quantities of it, formed by decaying vegetation. The name "ammonia" was given to it because sal ammoniac, one of its compounds, was made originally near the Temple of Jupiter Ammon.

JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH never fully recovered from the strain suffered as a boy. Christoph, a brother, owned a manuscript which he believed too advanced for Johann, and he denied him the use of it. But Johann was determined to have it, and each night he crept to a bookcase and copied, by the dim light of the moon.

Ideas about who and what evil is may have undergone changes in recent times. But one thing is sure—the spirit represented by that term is still with us. ### Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Jesus Teaches Neighborliness

Text: Luke 10:25-37

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 3.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
 Editor of Advance

THE story upon which our lesson is based, the Parable of the Good Samaritan, is in many respects the greatest in all literature. It expresses, possibly more than any other story, the universality of religion in its application to life.

Here is a tale that requires no philosophical system, no scheme of theology, not even a code of morals, for its interpretation or its validity. It is as true and applicable today as it was when Jesus told it, and we can think of it as applying to every people, everywhere, and in every age.

It is one story that perhaps is familiar to all. It begins with a certain lawyer, or scribe, asking Jesus what he should do to inherit eternal life. Jesus, as He so often did, turned the question upon the questioner.

Here was a man versed in law asking the question, and Jesus directed him first of all to the law. He asked, “How do you read the law?” The man aptly pointed out that the law showed the way to eternal life by loving God with all the heart and soul and mind and strength; and in loving one’s neighbor as oneself.

Jesus approved his answer. “This do,” said He, “and thou shalt live.”

BUT the lawyer was not quite satisfied. Willing to justify himself, he said to Jesus, “Who is my neighbor?” It was then that Jesus told the simple story. “A certain man,” worth some money, was attacked by robbers and left half dead.

A priest came along. He saw the poor victim, but he passed by on the other side. It was not his business. So, also, passed a Levite, a man of religion who ought to have been concerned about his fellow.

And then came a Samaritan, in the eyes of the Jew an unorthodox person, an outcast from the real truth and practice of religion; and the Samaritan was moved with compassion. He stopped, and he did what he could for the poor fellow, putting him upon his own beast, bringing him to an inn, and arranging for his care.

“WHICH of these three, think-est thou,” said Jesus to the lawyer, “proved neighbor unto him fallen upon by robbers?” What could the lawyer, or anybody else, reply in the presence of such facts?

Naturally, the lawyer answered, “He that showed mercy unto him”; and Jesus said to him, “Go and do thou likewise.”

Does one need to add anything to the clarity of such teaching? Truth in religion does not consist of place or profession.

The good man is the man who is good in action, who is good for something, and, in the eyes of God, a man who is outcast and despised by those who consider themselves better than he is, may stand commended and approved where and when he has acted with love and kindness.

CRUISE TO NOWHERE

by Deck Morgan

© 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JANE WESTON feels her dreams have come true when she is put out on a three weeks' ocean cruise, accepted in payment for the salary due her when the magazine for which she worked as a typist suspended publication. On board the ship, she meets the handsome DIRK STROM, expert diver, as penniless as Jane. The trip was a gift to him from the parents of a child whose life he saved.

Dirk introduces Jane to his friend, SNOWSHOES, a detective. Others on board are: NORA LANE, famous actress and owner of the Kokinor diamond; the eccentric MADAME GOREMUS; DUTCH LENZ and ANNIE JACKSON, blackmailers; TINO ROSSI, opera singer; BEN MARTIN and LINDA RAYES, floor show entertainers. Dirk and Jane spend much of their time together. Then a misunderstanding comes between them. Dirk meets Nora Lane and becomes Jane's constant escort. Snowshoes persuades Miss Lane to turn the Kokinor diamond over to the pursuer and they go to her stateroom to get it. The detective returns for Dirk. He tells him Mannie Jackson is lying dead in Nora Lane's stateroom.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

When Dirk reached Suite AA he saw Nora Lane in the sitting room, her features pale. Seated close to the wall, she twisted the handkerchief in her hand, and stared into nothingness before her. She was wilder.

His eyes swept through the door to the bedroom beyond and he saw the body of Mannie Jackson. The pursuer was bending over it, going through the pockets of the suit. The ship's doctor came out of the bedroom, and seeing the detective, said, "He's been dead only a short while. Not more than an hour, I should say."

"Shot while Miss Lane was with us in the ballroom," Snowshoes said thoughtfully. "Or in the bar. Between 11 o'clock and midnight."

The actress sat there, wringing her handkerchief. She stood up, and said, her whole being writhed with despair, "Oh, why should this have to happen to me on this cruise?"

She was plainly too distracted to be of any use in the ship's inquest, and the doctor indicated to the pursuer that he was to provide another stateroom for her, where she could get some rest.

Nora Lane appealed to the pursuer, "Oh, this won't get to the papers, will it? Oh, why, why? Haven't I enough to bear without this thing?"

The doctor laid a hand gently on her shoulders. "You'd better go away to another stateroom and get some rest," he said.

"No, no, no," she replied. "I won't go to bed before we know more about this monstrous—"

The pursuer came to them shaking his head.

"This is the first murder I've ever seen on shipboard, and I'm stumped. There are no signs of a struggle, and the doctor says it couldn't have been a suicide. There is no identification on him. Nothing in his pockets but a wallet and a film pack, exposed. We might have the film developed. This might show something, a sea gull, or a pretty girl—"

"Or something pertaining to his racket," Snowshoes said darkly. "He was a yegg—an extortion artist. Blackmail. He introduced himself as Mannie Jackson, but it may not be his real name."

Dirk went in with the pursuer to look over the bedroom for clues. Not a single article in the room was disarranged. The trunk was locked. There was no object lying on the floor beside the corpse.

Snowshoes was already at work outside, looking for fingerprints on the doorknob. He came into the bedroom and went through the routine job of searching with a glass every object that might have been touched by the intruder. There were no clues, no telltale fingerprints.

"Gloves!" Snowshoes explained. "A planned job. And not a single clue!"

They stood over the fallen man while Snowshoes ruminated about. "He was shot through the heart from a distance of at least 10 feet. No powder signs. He was facing the man who shot him. If Mannie fell in that position the man was standing just inside the door that leads to the sitting room. That's all the physical evidence we have to work with. The rest will take time. We can get the bullet that killed him, later on, but the gun has probably been thrown overboard."

The pursuer was more mystified than the rest.

"But what was Mannie Jackson doing in this suite? With the door locked on the outside?"

Snowshoes' eyes were still roving tirelessly about the bedroom and the bathroom beyond. But he said, "The person who shot him simply walked out after the thing was done, and closed the door. Swallowed up by the ship. It looks like a perfect job. It's like a crime committed in a hotel where there are a thousand guests. It's a curious thing, but in a public house the murderer is almost never apprehended. People come and go all the time. It's what you might call," he added, smiling dourly, "an anonymous crime."

Dirk went outside to Nora Lane. She was alone now, for the doctor had gone back to the ship's infirmary. He said, "I'm so sorry this happened, Miss Lane. But I want you to know that you've two friends on board to shield you from any unpleasantness."

The actress tried bravely to smile, and gave him her hand. "I thank you," she said. "My first apprehension was for you. It was a wild thought which came to me in my first panic. Looking at the man on the floor, I said, 'This is the man Dirk knocked down this afternoon. I hope he won't be implicated.'"

"Perhaps I should be thanking you," Dirk said. "But if there's anything I can do in the next few days, please let me know."

"You have been very kind," she said. "We had gay times together. But, now—"

"I know," he said. "You'll have to stay secluded in your new stateroom. I'll hardly see you. I'll have to answer a lot of questions."

He knew that this was the end of his one taste of glamour. Nora Lane wouldn't be seen on shipboard with him again. He had realized a boyish ambition only to have it snatched away from him by mishap.

Snowshoes came in with the pursuer, and said, "Not a single clue!"

"Mr. Blake," the actress said, "I want you to keep our agreement. You are to act as my bodyguard during the rest of this cruise. I'm in your hands," she added. "You're my lawyer, too."

"In that case," Snowshoes said,

"I'll do my professional best to solve the crime."

The pursuer still looked completely mystified. "I'm glad you're going to help with the case. You can have a free hand. I'm stumped. I wouldn't know which way to turn. I'll have to go report to the captain soon. But I'd like to know something to tell him—"

He threw up his hands with a gesture of despair.

"I can't make head or tail of it. You know something about the man," he went on, "so what do you say it is, Mr. Blake? What was Mannie Jackson's motive in entering this suite? If he was a blackmailer he'd be looking for—"

The pursuer stopped, but Nora Lane looked up at him squarely, her chin up.

"Some evidence pertaining to my private life," she said firmly. "Letters—"

"Why not a theft? Has anything been stolen?"

Suddenly Nora Lane's hand flew to her throat. In the first stricken moments when she was unwilling to enter the room where the man lay on the floor, she had been too distraught to remember the thing she and Snowshoes had come seeking in her suite. The necklace with the Kokinor diamond!

She entered the bedroom and went to the big trunk in a corner. She fumbled in her evening bag for the key, and opened the trunk. Snowshoes swung the trunk lid back, and Nora Lane opened the little top drawer. Then she looked up, and her eyes were like china eyes. The Kokinor diamond was gone!

"It's gone," she said simply, and invited the pursuer to look in.

"Why didn't we think of that first?" Snowshoes said. "The diamond!"

Fumio Goto

Three of Japan's great statesmen died in the uprising of junior extremist officers in which the insurgents seized Tokio government offices, rail stations, and other centers. Listed as assassination victims in dispatches from Tokio were Admiral Keisuke Okada, 67, prime minister since July, 1934, hated by the militarists for his liberal tendencies; General Jotaro Watanabe, one of the "Big Three" in army command, inspector general of military operations; and Admiral Makoto Saito, 78, lord keeper of the privy seal, called the last great liberal of Japan and a former premier.

Foremost fiscal expert of Japanese empire, finance minister, who narrowly escaped with his life, being wounded by rebels. He was a slave boy who rose to great wealth and power.

Named acting prime minister of Japan, he acted at once to form new government. He has served his country as home secretary and agriculture and forestry minister in the past.

100 YEARS AGO TODAY

February 29, 1836

On this date, Col. Almonte entered in his diary:

"Monday, 29th. In the afternoon, the battalion of Allende took post at the east of the Alamo. The President reconnoitered. At midnight General Sesma left the camp with the cavalry of Dolores and the infantry of Allende, to meet the enemy coming from La Bahia to the relief of the Alamo."

March 1, 1836

Capt. Albert Martin, with thirty-one brave and devoted men, from Gonzales, successfully passed through the Mexican lines on the night of March 1, and joined the heroic defenders of the Alamo.

Col. J. B. Bonham, a courier from Gonzales, had preceded the men of Capt. Martin, and penetrated the enemy lines and gained the shelter of the mission at 11:00 o'clock on the morning of March 1.

An entry from the diary of Col. Almonte, of the Mexican army:

"Tuesday, March 1st. Early in the morning General Sesma wrote from the Mission of Espada that there was no enemy, or traces of any, to be discovered. At twelve o'clock the President went out to reconnoiter the mill site to the northwest of the Alamo. Colonel Ampudia was commissioned to construct more trenches. In the afternoon the enemy fired two twelve-pound shots at the house of the President, one of which struck it."

An Evening at Home for the Roosevelts

Torn by an uprising of young militarists, in which scores were reported killed, among them three of the nation's leading statesmen, part of Tokio, capital of Japan, is shown in this striking air view. Especially noticeable in the business district are the many modern buildings which have displaced the old-style structures. For a time the principal centers of the city were in the hands of insurgents.

LET EVERY MAN THINK BEFORE HE VOTES

Never was there a question that did not have two sides. They might be the right and the wrong, but there are two sides to every question. Let me point out a few facts in favor of the Dry Side of the Election Saturday.

1. Beer is Habit forming. Once the taste for alcoholic drinks takes hold of a man and the habit is formed the result is failure to his life.

2. Beer destroys character. This is readily recognized by most every right thinking man everywhere, for its habit possessed the power over the personality, and it is more than difficult to get loose from its grip.

3. Beer elections are forwarded in the main by those who want the revenue from the sale of it, and is thus a selfish object in view.

4. The records show that one person was killed last year every six minutes in the United States from Car accidents. Facts show that a large percent of these wrecks were caused by drinking on the part of the occupants of at least one of the cars figuring in the tragedy.

5. In Counties where it has been legalized, it is a known fact that the arrests for drunkenness have increased some times as high as four times that of the previous period. In our own knowledge of one certain town in Texas where Beer was legalized just outside the City Limits, this very fact was true.

6. Legalized Beer joints breed all sorts of corruption and evils,

Emperor

Emperor Hirohito

no little part of which is murder itself.

7. This added crime has in most cases called for additional money to the extent that the revenue derived by the tax from the sale thereof, so that the states realized little in excess of its added expense. And again we repeat that it is habit forming and thus the expense will grow.

TEXAS FARMERS WILL RECEIVE DELAYED FUNDS

About $17,500,000 to Fulfill All Old Federal Payments

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 29. With the passing of a recent appropriation bill signed by the President of the United States, Texas farmers are due to receive approximately $17,500,000 to fulfill all old government obligations, according to E. N. Holmgreen, administrative assistant of the AAA at College Station.

"Some payments should begin to arrive within the next 30 days," Holmgreen announced.

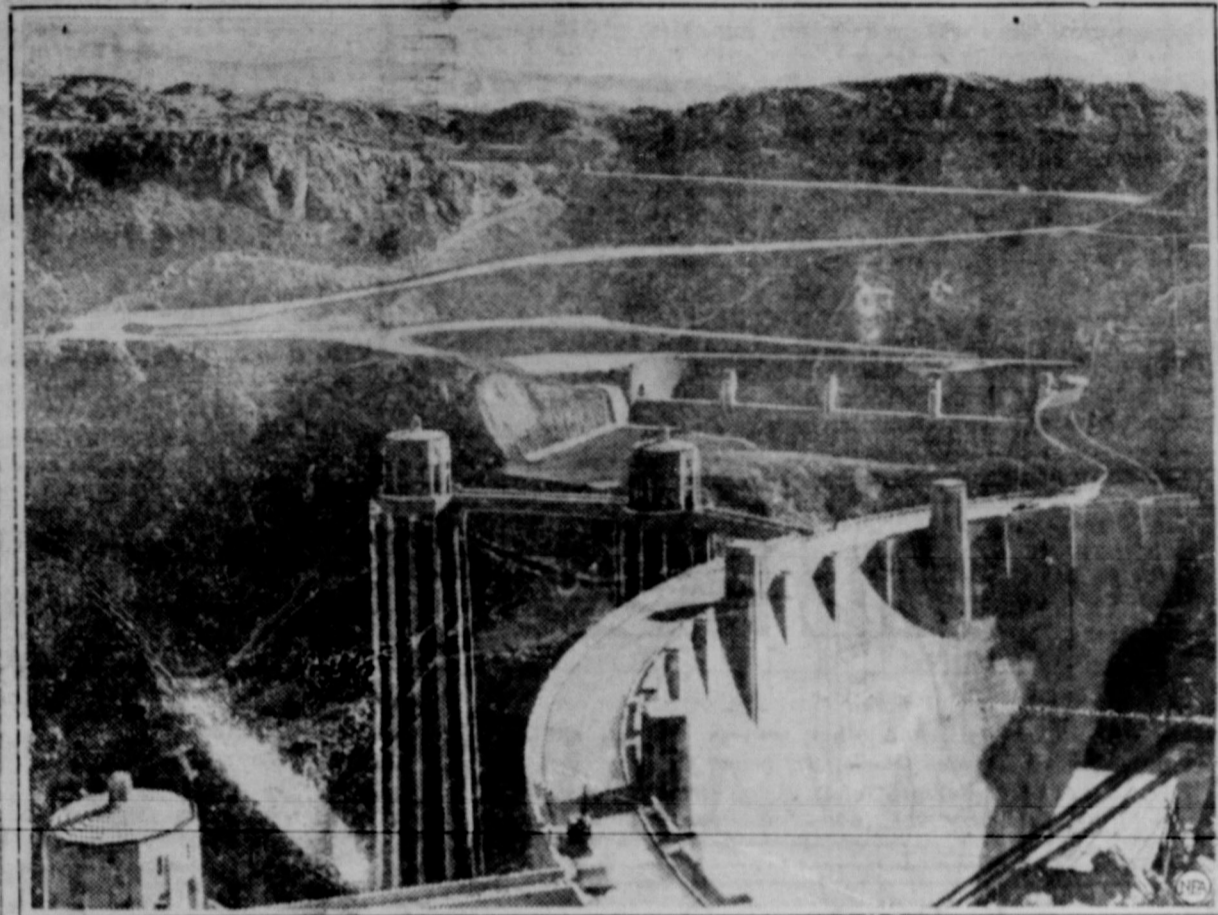

"Obligations of the U. S. Government to Texas farmers consist of second payments on the corn-hog contracts, the completion of rental and parity checks of cotton and the cotton adjustment payments," he said.

Holmgreen went on to say that nearly all counties in the state have some second cotton rental and parity payments due and also that all counties have some cotton adjustment payments coming.

With the opening of action again and an appropriation of $296,185,000, skeleton forces were put to work February 13 and 14 in College Station to push with all speed the paying up of government obligations to the farmers.

Scenery of Rare Beauty Frames Boulder Dam Road

Winding down Black canyon, over the crest of Boulder dam, which is its bridge across the chasm of the Colorado river, the new highway from Kingman, Ariz. to Las Vegas, Nev., is shown here, outlined against rugged mountain scenery of majestic beauty. In the background of the four-lane route over the dam crest may be seen the Arizona spillway. Water slowly rising behind the dam eventually will come almost to the observation platforms on the intake towers seen at the left.

FRESH GARDEN VEGETABLES IN THE BACK YARD

Gardens Are Health Producers More Ways Than One

Growing vegetables in your own back yard is a healthful practice from more than one point of view. We think of garden-fresh vegetables harvested an hour before mealtime, as wholesome because they contain in full amount the vitamins and mineral salts which nature put in them. But there is another angle to consider.

The physical exertion of gardening is healthful. It is a physical culture course in its own right, and although it won't give you a massage and a rubdown after the exercises are over, the open air and sunlight will compensate for this little oversight.

The vegetable garden is a good family doctor, faithful, reliable and always at hand. Bending and stretching over the rows of radishes and lettuce are excellent for reducing as well as muscle building. Active gardening will shrink a too obtrusive midriff in the course of a few weeks, and the green vegetables produced are not fattening, but may be consumed without fear (Continued on Page 10)

Hi School Boy Makes Success In Baby Beef Feeding Project

Feeds Hereford Calf Balanced Ration and Makes Profit

As an indication of the intensely practical nature of the instructions being given students in the Vocational Agriculture Department of the Memphis High School, the case of a recent project undertaken and carried to a successful conclusion by H. C. Loard, a member of the class, merits attention.

Young Loard selected, for one of the home projects necessary to the work of the department, the feeding out of a baby beef.

He purchased a Hereford calf on September 25, 1935, and put it on a balanced ration for a period of 153 days. The ration consisted of cottonseed meal, shorts, ground maize, cottonseed hulls, and all the bundle roughage it would clean up each day. This calf's daily average gain in weight was 2.13 pounds.

Sold At Profit

The project being completed and its results tabulated and reported to the instructor, young Loard sold the calf the first of this week to a local butcher at a fancy price. The butcher declares it was one of the best heaves he had purchased in recent times.

Summarizing the accomplishment of the student, Riley W. Carlton, Vocational Agriculture Instructor of the Memphis High School, concludes with the state ment:

"The results obtained by this student indicates that he has developed skill as a feeder, and has also acquired much practical good from the job. He is to be congratulated upon his success in finishing a good enterprise."

If this is a sample of the work being done by his students, we also want to congratulate Mr. Carlton on the work of his department. The importance of adequate training for the future tillers of the soil cannot be overestimated.

Let your county agent help you with your problems.

PASTURE IMPROVEMENT BEING PLANNED SOON IN THE STATE

FEEDING CALVES

Sixty-one Hereford calves belonging to Reeves Brown, farmer in Live Oak County, made a gain of 2,850 pounds from November 18 to December 16, an average gain of 45 pounds each, on a ration of 544 lbs. corn, 111 lbs. cottonseed meal, 8 lbs. lime, 3 lbs. salt and all the silage they could eat.

Pasture Specialist Points Out Need For This Work

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 29.

A recent acreage census shows that 76,000,000 acres in Texas are devoted to pastures. R. R. Lancaster, Extension pasture specialist, says that these figures are an indication of the importance of pastures to Texas farms and ranches.

Lancaster pointed out that pastures in the state may be improved by controlling or removing the weeds, stumps, trees, erosion, marshes, stones, dead grass, rodents, insects, stomach worms, poisonous plants, loss of manure. The Extension pasture specialist said also that additional improvements for 1936 might consist of contouring for moisture, seeding improved plants, adding fertilizer or manure, supplementing minerals, creep feeding, providing shelter, shade, stock-water and giving more time to the management of grazing according to the various local conditions.

Lancaster continued by saying that: "Pasture demonstrations should be protected by reserves of temporary pasture, hay and silage for winter months and for short or long drouths.

The cost of winter feeding may be reduced by extending the grazing period. There must be more than one pasture in order to save ungrazed forage for grazing in midsummer, late fall, winter or early spring. Pasture plants need and deserve care and management during periods of reproduction and must have reserves of food during drouth and winter the same as animals.

On Texas Farms

Minnie Fisher Cunningham Extension Service Editor

Supplies of seed of grasses and legumes are greater this year than ever before in the Nation's history. This contrasts sharply with the scarcity of 1934.

It is a good thing that there are plenty of these seeds available because putting land into pasture and meadow crops is becoming more and more popular these days.

Some of the more scientific folk are even becoming particular about inoculating the legume seeds they plant. It pays too.

Dr. J. F. Cox, chief of the replacement crops section of the AAA, says there is a sufficient supply of bluegrass seed and of red top seed to plant several times the usual acreage.

The available supply of timothy seed is larger than ever before recorded.

HOTBED PROFITABLE

McKINNEY.—"It pays to have a hotbed in which to start the vegetables which require a long growing season," Mrs. Dona Lee Carroll, sponsor of the White Rock 4-H Club in Collin county, said.

Last year she had a tomato patch of 250 plants, and gave several hundred plants to her neighbors. All these plants grew in Mrs. Carroll's hotbed. From her patch she canned 100 quarts of tomatoes, and made 32 pints of relish and catsup.

At one time, she harvested 10 bushels of green tomatoes and gave away several bushels to her neighbors. Mrs. Carroll is building her hotbed and starting her plants in it to a record. Collin county agent.

GRAPE CULTURE

PALO FINTO.—Nathalie Walker, farm fruit plot demonstrator for the Graford 4-H Girls Club not only plans to provide grapes, berries and fruits for her family but has already taken action towards getting a supply of grape vines, according to the report of Pauline Lokey, Palo Pinto home demonstration agent.

Nathalie secured 24 grape cuttings, one-year's growth, 12 to 18 inches long (8 to 10 buds), cut one-fourth of an inch from the bottom bud and one-half to one inch from the top bud. She tied them in a bundle and buried them upside down in the ground four inches deep so that the ends will rear over. In February they will be put out in the cutting bed.

"The buds will then take root better than if just cut and put in the bed," Nathalie Walker stated.

Farm Hostess

Helen Oakes, freshman in Santa Anna, Texas, High School, will be one of the hostesses when the Future Farmers of America and 4-H Clubs meet for two weeks at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas during the National Dairy Show next October. The Exposition will run from June 6 to Nov. 29.

"We are to proceed in liquidating all 1934 and 1935 cotton, corn, hog, and other contracts which were suspended or returned for correction."

Chester C. Davis, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Act in Washington, D. C., recently released this statement, "We will try to prevent delay in fulfilling obligations and in reimbursing those producers who carried out their agreements with the AAA in good faith."

of putting on extra poundage.

Green vegetables in the spring are the true spring tonic. The old fashioned spring tonic was designed to correct deficiencies of diet during the winter months. Today, instead of a tonic, green vegetables are prescribed the year around for general upbuilding. Not until science discovered these mysterious substances, the vitamins, was the need for tonics scientifically explained. It is now known that a lack of vigor in the winter was often akin to scurvy and due to lack of vitamins in the diet.

The vegetable gardener will not be caught short on his vitamin needs, because there is no greater supply to be found than in fresh vegetables taken from the garden just before eaten.

of normal usage, are reported for orchard grass, rye grass, and meadow fescue.

The seed supply of bromo grass and crested wheat grass adapted to Western and Northwestern conditions, is greatly increased over last year.

Alfalfa seed is reported plentiful. Red clover and alsike is below normal, but the seed of lespedeza—growing in popularity in the southern Corn Belt and northern Cotton Belt—is available in large quantities.

Sudan grass—great favorite among dairymen—shows the largest seed crop ever harvested.

Cowpeas and velvetbeans increased substantially with a supply on hand sufficient to plant an acreage of 50 percent larger than the 1935 acreage. Wholesale prices as reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, are lower than last year, and lower than during the whole five years from 1929 to 1932.

be nearly 50 calves in the baby beef class this year. There were 36 calves entered here last year.

The show is open to all 4-H Club boys and Vocational Agriculture students in Texas. There will be $131.00 in cash premiums for the calves.

The following premiums are being offered for the 1936 show.

Heavy Class—1st. $8.00; 2nd. $7.00; 3rd. $6.00; 4th. $5.00; 5th. $4.00; 6th. $3.00; 7th. $2.00; 8th. $1.00; 9th. $1.00; 10th. $1.00.

Light Class—1st. $8.00; 2nd. $7.00; 3rd. $6.00; 4th. $5.00; 5th. $4.00; 6th. $3.00; 7th. $2.00; 8th. $1.00; 9th. $1.00; 10th. $1.00.

Group of Five—1st. $10.00; 2nd. $8.00; 3rd. $6.00; 4th. $4.00; 5th. $2.00.

Grand Champion—$8.00. The Hereford Breeders Association has agreed to add 25 per cent to the above premiums on all prizes totaling $4.00 and over with the exception of the group five class.

Entries have already been received from Carson, Gray, Armstrong and Wheeler Counties, according to P. B. Farley, secretary of the show.

of competition. They will produce all the forage possible under prevailing conditions. Plants from foreign countries likely can do no better. Forty years ago, ranchers in 115 western counties reported a 40 percent decrease in carrying capacity of grazing land, from 106 head per section to 64 during the preceding 25 years. Now it would average nearer 30.

"Humid areas offer opportunities for reseeding and adding a few improved grasses and clovers. Good management is as profitable on small farm pastures as on the range. Management should include whatever is necessary to protect the best grazing plants and utilize those less desirable, cutting weeds, providing supplementary feeds and minerals."

In concluding his remarks, Lancaster said, "The livestock are the judges of the best plants in the pastures. They will always choose these first."

Mrs. Seth Pallmeyer and daughter, Ann, Mrs. Bill Kesterson and son, Bill George, Miss Imogene King, Miss Elizabeth Bryant, and Miss Jeanette Watson are spending today in Amarillo and Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Leathers and Mrs. Quin Aten of Clarendon spent yesterday in Memphis with their sister, Mrs. Gus Rasco, who is ill in a local hospital.

Mrs. W. C. Hamilton and son, Bob, and P. F. Craver Jr., were visitors in Childress yesterday.
