Hurdle Atlantic In Crippled Plane

STOCK MARKET BILL NEARS APPROVAL

Conference Report Is Accepted By Senate

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The Fletcher-Rayburn stock market control bill neared final congressional approval today when the Senate accepted a conference report on the measure.

The House of Representatives was expected to act on the measure today. The President's signature is almost assured.

The bill provides for regulation of stock exchanges and modifications of the Securities Act of last year.

Administration officials hope that the measure will bring an immediate spurt in long-time financing and revive the capital goods market.

Carl Estes Fights Oil Control Bill

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Curtailed of powers proposed for Secretary Ickes under the Thomas-Dinsley oil production control bill was urged yesterday before the house committee by Carl Estes, Tyler, Texas, publisher and supporter of most of the measure's provisions.

Estes suggested three amendments to remove Ickes's authority, as oil administrator, to set production quotas, or quotas for movement in commerce, within any state having a regulatory body of its own, and limit his power to prescribe within states the methods to be used in developing future fields.

Violation of Rights
The Texan contended the sections he seeks to amend were unnecessarily violative of state sovereignty.

Amos L. Beaty, chairman of the code authority for the industry, denied the bill would abridge the rights of the states, asserting it was broken with 101 degrees.

JAMES ALLRED SPEAKS HERE TOMORROW

To Discuss Platform On Which He Seeks To Be Governor

Coming here tomorrow, James V. Allred will speak in the interest of his campaign for governor, appearing at the east entrance of the court house at 2 o'clock.

A large crowd of people, whether or not they favor Allred's candidacy, are expected to be on hand to hear his speech.

Loud speakers will be set up on the steps of the court house so that everyone may hear distinctly.

Speaking at Childress last night before 1,000 people, Allred emphasized the need in Texas for new lobby and utility control laws, for balancing the budget and meeting the relief needs of the state, for tax relief and support of the schools.

He outlined the platform upon which he is making his campaign for election to the state's highest office.

Condemning the present pardon system, Allred said that a new system should be installed which would place the responsibility of pardons upon the pardon board. This board, he claimed, should be appointed, one by the governor, one by the chief justice of the supreme court and one by the chief justice of the civil court of appeals.

Allred will speak on these and other subjects tomorrow. He will be introduced by Judge J. S. Moss.

STEWART SAILS IN DETENTION

Rests With American Consul If Man To Be Arrested For Texas Murder

By Associated Press
GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, June 1.—Robert Jones, Stewart, was still in detention aboard the Canadian liner Lady Nelson in connection with the murder of a woman near Van Horn, Tex., when the vessel sailed for Trinidad today.

Police said it rested with the American consul at Port of Spain where Jones will be arrested.

Jones was questioned here by United States authorities, who said he resembled Arthur Wilson of Cleveland, accused with the brutal killing of Mrs. Irene Deboit, pretty young widow, whose nude body was found on a desert near Van Horn last fall.

19-Year-Old Farm Hand Arrested In Dairyman Killing

By Associated Press
MEXIA, June 1.—The week-old investigation of the mysterious slaying of John L. Adams, 50, Groesbeck dairyman, was culminated today with an indictment against Fred Herring, 19, farm laborer, one of three men held for questioning.

Herring reported finding Adams' body in a stock tank in the south part of Groesbeck three days after he disappeared.

Investigators expressed belief that robbery was the motive for the slaying although they had not discarded the theory of kidnaping.

Cotton Raises $2 To $2.50 A Bale

By Associated Press
NEW ORLEANS, June 1.—Cotton rose from $2 to $2.15 per bale in late trading at the New Orleans market today.

July reached 11.77 and October stood at 11.99, which is from 40 to 43 points above yesterday's close.

Speaks Tomorrow

James V. Allred (above), candidate for governor, will speak here tomorrow afternoon. He will discuss his platform and changes that he believes should be made in the government of Texas. He appears at the west entrance to the court house at 2 o'clock.

N. R. S. OFFICE HERE PLACES 35 ON JOBS

Word Complimented By District Head From Amarillo

For the week ending yesterday, Memphis National Re-employment office placed 35 employes on jobs, according to Miss Ruth Johnson, National Re-employment service clerk.

The Memphis re-employment agency, located in the courthouse, is a unit of the National Recovery Act. It serves employes and employers of Memphis and all of Hall county.

These seeking employes are asked to apply at the National Re-employment agency. Approximately 400 persons are listed on the N. R. S. employment rolls here, representing almost every type of work.

A. G. Irwin, district statistical clerk of the National Re-employment office, said.

BITTER STRIKE FOE MAY LEAD 10,000 IN STEEL WALKOUT

By NEA Service
A labor leader who hates strikes may lead 10,000 workers in one of the greatest walkouts in industrial history in June. He is Michael F. Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers.

The employees, in convention voted to strike unless their demands for union recognition were met. Steel company chiefs declare they will close their plants before they will grant recognition, indicating that a bitter struggle will ensue.

Tighe's hatred of strikes dates from his days as a puddler in Wheeling, W. Va. After five months on strike, when he was heavily in debt, his young son died. Tighe had only 75 cents in his pocket. Forty cents went for a wire to his wife's relatives. A $5 loan from a saloonkeeper friend paid a deposit on a burial lot and another friend, an undertaker, supplied the casket.

Tighe didn't place the blame for the tragedy on the strike, but he held it was a contributing factor and since that dark day he has fought bitterly against walkouts.

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 1.—Steel labor leaders Thursday night tried to cool the tempers of militantly impatient followers while they laid down the alternative of union recognition or a general strike throughout the industry two weeks hence.

Meanwhile, a widespread walkout in the cotton textile industry was called for Monday as the result of code authority orders to cut production by 25 per cent and consequently reduce the industry's $12 and $13 minimum pay enve-

F. D. R. REPORTS TO CONGRESS ON DEBTS

Promises Discussion Of Revision Of Agreements

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Roosevelt in a report to congress today on war debts, held out a promise for discussion of revision of the present funding agreements to any European debtor nations asking any "special circumstances relating to means and methods of payment."

President Roosevelt indicated that "special circumstances" would be considered by emphasizing that factors would be whether nations are utilizing their resources for "recovery purposes," or make a "reasonable payment on the debt owed," or spending for "unproductive nationalistic" purposes.

The message chiefly consisted of factual recording of debts status and of defaults, token payments and the like.

"I suggest in view of all existing circumstances that no legislation this session of congress is either necessary or advisable," Roosevelt stated.

SON OF COMMISSION MEMBER IS CHARGED

By Associated Press
LONGVIEW, June 1.—F. A. Smith, designated by A. B. Cross, head of the violation department of the East Texas Department of the Railroad Commission, as the son of Lon Smith, commission member, was among 13 men under charges of conspiracy to steal oil here today.

Cross began a week ago to investigate reports reaching the Commission that oil was being taken from two wells near Glade-water. Cross said that the cases would be presented to the Gregg county grand jury soon.

The accusations were listed as felony charges.

Blaming high tariff walls as the cause for conditions of the cotton industry in the United States today, Joe Bailey, candidate for United States senator, spoke before a large, representative crowd this morning, from the west entrance of the court house.

The trouble with the cotton market is under consumption, Bailey stated, and this can be remedied by the re-adjustment of tariff walls.

European Market
Europe has purchased between 60 and 90 percent of the United States' marketed cotton, he said, but since tariffs have been pushed so high, those boys are no longer playing ball with us.

Bailey also discussed the cattle industry and unemployment, which he said was the cause of the under-consumption of food stuffs within this country.

Veterans Bill
He stated that he voted for the veterans' bill because he thought it was right, because congress thought it was right and because the people he stands for thought it was right.

He insisted upon strict economy in federal expenditures and the forming of an adequate army and navy, and opposed the issuance of any more tax-exempt bonds.

Discusses Platform
Bailey also discussed his platform which included opinions upon all leading problems facing the government today.

Immediately after his talk, the candidate left for Clarendon, where he was scheduled to speak this afternoon.

He was introduced here by Judge A. S. Moss.

The official communique declared the Bolivians left 150 dead, including five officers.

The present Paraguayan drive is regarded as holding the fate of the Bolivian key defense of Fort Bolivian, stronghold in Chaco Boreal.

Aside from the irrigated land in Colorado, Dr. MacMillan stated that the most productive area he saw on the entire trip was between Memphis and Amarillo.

Visitors in Washington have no end of interesting places to see and can spend days and weeks sight-seeing. The streets and avenues are a source of worry, running in many different directions—the streets with the main compass points and the avenues angling, all running into some circle down town, and this is where one gets all balled up until he gets the lay of the city in his mind.

inaugurated the Pre-Centennial festival.

Playing at the Pampa City Hall, where Jimmie Allred officially opened the Pre-Centennial with an address, the local band furnished the music.

The Black and Gold band also played for the donkey baseball game that was staged.

Memphis Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored the band on the trip and made it possible for the 30 piece unit to make the trip.

"J. R. Jones, as head of the trade extension committee, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce as a whole should receive much credit for sending the band to Pampa," Bandmaster Truax stated.

A number of Memphis citizens, upon a suggestion from Mr. Jones, volunteered cars and drove the local band to the Pre-Centennial.

The trip was in the form of the Junior Chamber of Commerce's third good-will tour.

Those furnishing cars for the local band and Memphis boosters are as follows: Leon Bullard, Oscar Power, Roy Nultz, Cecil McCollum, W. M. Walker, Carl Nuhn, Wendell Harrison, C. W. Crawford Jr., and Foxhall Motor company.

would preserve rather than destroy them. He also contended an overwhelming majority of those in the industry wanted the legislation.

Estes, however, contended the bill in present form would make Ike an "absolute dictator" of the oil business.

What the industry needed, the Texan said, was merely a "dose of old-fashioned elixir that will enable the patient to rid himself of the thieves who are sapping his vitality."

States Need Aid
"In other words," he added, report out of this committee a bill that will aid all oil producing state enforcement agencies in stopping oil thievery everywhere, particularly in East Texas, where, as bad as I hate to admit it, most of it is going on."

Beaty contended the bill was "based on a firm, solid rock," constitutionally speaking, and said its main purpose was not "so much to regulate production as to regulate commerce in petroleum."

Lew Cody, Actor, Dies Suddenly In Hollywood Home

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. June 1.—Lew Cody, film actor and husband of the late Mabel Normand, was found dead in his home late yesterday. Death was apparently due to a heart attack.

The actor's butler, James Glen, summoned police and ambulance surgeon Young of Beverly Hills. The physician said the 47-year-old actor had been dead about 10 hours.

The body was found in a bedroom on the second floor of the palatial residence by the butler and Lee Westerman, Cody's masseur. Cody was clad in pajamas and was lying apparently peacefully asleep. The butler summoned police, who with the police surgeon arrived a few minutes after the discovery of the body.

"We didn't think there was anything wrong for a second," the butler stated, "but we noticed his face was awfully dark, and then we realized he had passed away."

The actor had returned from his beach home to his city residence at 1 o'clock this morning. He apparently had died in his sleep.

Using a long wire the boys twisted nine additional pups out of the den. From the size the boys con-

IT COULD HAVE HAPPENED HERE

YESTERDAY'S paper carried an account of an accident in which three women were killed, two expected to die and four others, including a small girl, seriously injured.

The accident was blamed on a man who at the time was carrying in his pocket a summons for reckless driving. He attempted to pass a truck going in the same direction, apparently without first being sure that no one else was coming from the opposite direction, for he crashed into a passenger car loaded with women.

One of the cars overturned and two women, thrown into the path of the truck, were beheaded by its wheels.

It was a horrible accident, and it makes one do a little thinking when he realizes that it could happen any day in or around Memphis.

We had an account here recently of a collision between a car and a milk truck that occurred when one of them failed to give proper attention to a traffic signal. No one was injured, but still we cannot help but be reminded that it could have been as bad as the one mentioned above.

We do not mean to be an alarmist and cry that reckless drivers abound within the city; that one's life is in danger every time he unventures into the streets, or that regulations are unrecognized and automobiles dart helter-skelter through the streets. This is not so. In the main, most drivers in Memphis are careful and conscientious.

But we could remember to give a little more attention to the safety of others by giving our own driving the attention that it requires to manipulate machines through traffic and while speeding along paved highways.

USEFUL HUMAN ENERGY WASTED IN CRIME

THIS modern world abhors waste. When it finds any source of energy going unused—a waterfall, a factory, a coal mine, or whatnot—it exerts every effort to put that energy to work.

But there is one kind of energy which is wasted every day, sometimes in the most extravagant and tragic manner, about which we seldom bother to think twice.

That is human energy—the energy, to be exact, of bad men and bad women, the outlaws, the people who rebel violently against any and all restraints.

Think, for instance, of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, those precious Texans who were finally shot to death in Louisiana after compiling a criminal record about as vicious as any in western history.

Within the last few years no fewer than 12 murders were definitely ascribed to these two. Nine of their victims were policemen. Bank robberies, highway holdups, filling stations, kidnappings—the crimes of this nature on their record are almost beyond counting.

They roved from Texas to Iowa, irresponsible and dangerous, cutting a swath that made Dillinger look like a lad on his way home from Sunday school.

Finally, of course, the law caught up with them. Deputy sheriffs ambushed them along a lonely country road and filled them full of lead, ending forever that particular chapter in criminal history.

But one is forced to wonder, thinking about this pair—what was it that set them off on the wrong path, anyway? How could society have prevented that costly waste of potentially useful energy?

For it was a waste—make no doubt of that. Two youngsters who can do all these did have abounding energy, enormous vitality. The force that makes a man a dangerous outlaw is, at bottom, the same kind of force that enables a man to do the great, hard, and useful jobs that keep the world turning; it just gets directed down the wrong channel.

How could society have prevented it? Not being very wise, we don't know, and if we did know we should probably act too late. But sooner or later we must find out.

There is no more terrible waste than the waste involved in the career of a gunman like Clyde Barrow.

HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine
You're doing a good job against the disease-breeding house fly when you screen the doors and windows and swat every one of the insects that happens to get through these guards and into your home.
But this isn't enough. Screens, traps, fly paper, and similar devices are only secondary, rather than primary, means of controlling the development and spread of flies as a menace to health.
To do the job right, you should prevent the breeding of flies and this is done by observance of cleanliness, which includes the covering of all garbage and filth and the thorough washing of doorsteps, porches, window sills and windows.
A female housefly lays from 600 to 1000 eggs during a lifetime of several months. Each of the female young may lay similar numbers, so you can see that house flies multiply rapidly.
It has long been recognized that house flies may spread disease. They do this in various ways. Chiefly, however, they carry the germs of disease on their hairy feet, picking up the germs from filth, including the excretions of those who are sick, and transferring the germs either directly to the skin of the human body or to food the human being eats.
Nowadays it is well known that certain forms of intestinal disease in children, and occasional cases of typhoid as well, are caused by the medium of the fly.
The house fly is a scavenger. It multiplies in the presence of filth and best of all in the excretions of either human beings or animals, which are moist at the time when the fly feeds upon them.
The fly will deposit its eggs in such filth; from these eggs the larvae or maggots develop, and good-sized house flies appear from the eggs within 10 days.
Decaying filth, scraps of food, the excretions of animals deposited around a house are the best means of giving the flies opportunity to breed.
Under the best of circumstances the fly is a nuisance. Around a sick bed or in the presence of small children, it is a constant menace to health and safety.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Democrat Washington Correspondent
Washington, June 1.—The steel strike threat worries the administration just enough to make it interesting.
Confidential reports indicate that chances are against any major labor blow-up are tempered by the fact that strikes have been displaying spectacular militancy in Toledo, Minneapolis, and elsewhere.
One labor expert has just returned from the steel area with a report that there's about one chance in four of a strike which will wreck the present Roosevelt labor policy and turn the A. F. of L. upside down.
Much will depend on the result of an internal fight now going on between conservative officers of the A. F. and L. steel union, which had about 5,000 members a year ago, and leaders of an estimated 75,000 to 100,000 new members.
Factors against a serious labor upheaval in steel are:
The industry is entering the slack season, when there's heavy demand for tin-plate only—a demand which comes from the canners.
Roosevelt normally wouldn't have much trouble in getting A. F. of L. leaders to call off the strike. They don't want one.
The steel industry is well organized and well heeled, probably more closely knit for defense than any other major labor industry. It has the best developed labor spy system of any and apparently is willing to spend large sums to break a strike.
If resentment is as bitter as that shown in Toledo and Minneapolis, present A. F. of L. officers will be overridden and there will be no end of trouble, despite the workers' present tepid leadership and lack of organization.
Some insurgent leaders are talking privately of violence and one group of union lodge officials claim to have chartered an airplane to attack steel plants, officials here are advised. But such talk probably can be discounted.

Ickes Goes The Limit
Secretary Ickes invaded Secretary Wallace's favorite field of religion when he addressed the Presbyterian General Assembly at Cleveland. He would have invaded it harder if some who looked over his speech in advance hadn't suggested that it might be just a good policy not to urge the pastors to pay more attention to the affairs of this world and less to those of the next.
Even so, Ickes went as far in comparing the New Deal with Christianity as any Republican campaigner ever did in tying up Herbert Hoover and Abraham Lincoln.
"It is interesting to recall," he said, "that Christ's doctrines were held unconstitutional by the Pharisees of his day."
