The Siege of the Woolworth Building

These heavily armed police—and some scores of others—were eluded by a gunman who vanished into the labyrinth of the Woolworth building (right) in New York after shooting a watchman.
When police had combed the forty acres of offices in the elaborate manhunt, the suspect appeared from the basement of a nearby store, snatched into the subway station and escaped before clerks could notify police. He is believed to have escaped from the sixth floor windows of the sky scraper and fled across adjoining roofs.

Highway Department Asks Bids on Work at Highway Bridge

The state Highway Department is advertising for bids for the installation of steel jetties on the upstream side of Red River at the Highway Five bridge, to control erosion of the river banks, which might endanger the bridge approaches.
The highway department has been having quite a bit of trouble in controlling the erosion of the south bank of the river, and in the past year hundreds of steel automobile bodies have been placed along the bank, to control the river, but, apparently they have not been sufficient to prevent the gradual eating away of the river bank.

ALL ACTIVITIES IN CITY WERE WELL ATTENDED

Nice Sum is Realized for National and Local Funds

Memphis last night turned out for the various activities in celebration of the President's Birthday in a way which put the local drive over the top in great shape.
At the Memphis Country Club, local bridge fans filled twelve tables, with more tickets sold than attended, according to Mrs. John Deaver, chairman of the Bridge Party Committee. Prizes for the evening were won by Frank Garrett and Mrs. A. H. Miller.
At Memphis Hotel Ballroom,
according to Mrs. A. W. Howard, chairman, thirty-four played Forty-two. Quite a number of tickets were sold for this party that were not presented. During the evening, doughnuts and coffee were served to those present, in lieu of prizes.
At the Old Postoffice Building, a good crowd was in attendance at the old-fashioned square dance, and those who attended state that the music was good and the dances exceptionally well performed. For the entertainment of the less experienced, a square dance team put on the less used figures of the old-time dance.
At the American Legion Hall where the modern dance was held, room was at a premium, so large was the crowd. Music for this

MEMPHIS FOLKS ATTEND BANQUET

Fourteen Memphis citizens attended the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet in Childress last night, and heard James E.
Gheen, prominent platform speak-the principal address of the evening.

Three hundred persons attended the banquet, and delegations from numerous surrounding towns were in attendance.
Those from Memphis to attend the feed were Dr. and Mrs. W.
C. Dickey, Dr. and Mrs. J. A.
Odom, Dr. L. M. Hicks, J. Ray
Marrin, S. T. Harrison, F. N. Fox-

By Associated Press
DALLAS, Jan. 31.—Sunny skies and a forecast for warmer

Texas was chilled by sub-zero weather, but with the tempera-

The Democrat may not always be right in the stand it takes; it may not always be wise in standing for what it believes; but, right or wrong, wise or unwise, the Democrat will stand for the things it believes are for the welfare of the Community.

MEMPHIS GOES OVER THE TOP

MEMPHIS may sometimes neglect minor things which should be done and like any other municipality, it sometimes makes mistakes, but when something really worth while comes up for attention, you can usually give odds that our citizenship will not be found wanting in support of measures of real importance.

This was twice illustrated yesterday in a striking way.

The organization committee's patrols of workers who made the rounds yesterday in the interest of the reorganization in this city and county of the Boy Scouts of America met with an enthusiastic reception at the hands of our citizenship and the revival of this distinctly worthwhile activity among the youths of our city and county is assured.

The various activities last night in connection with the celebration here of the President's Birthday Ball were all well attended and committees in charge report the realization of a nice sum to add to the national endowment fund for the fight against that dread scourge—infantile paralysis.

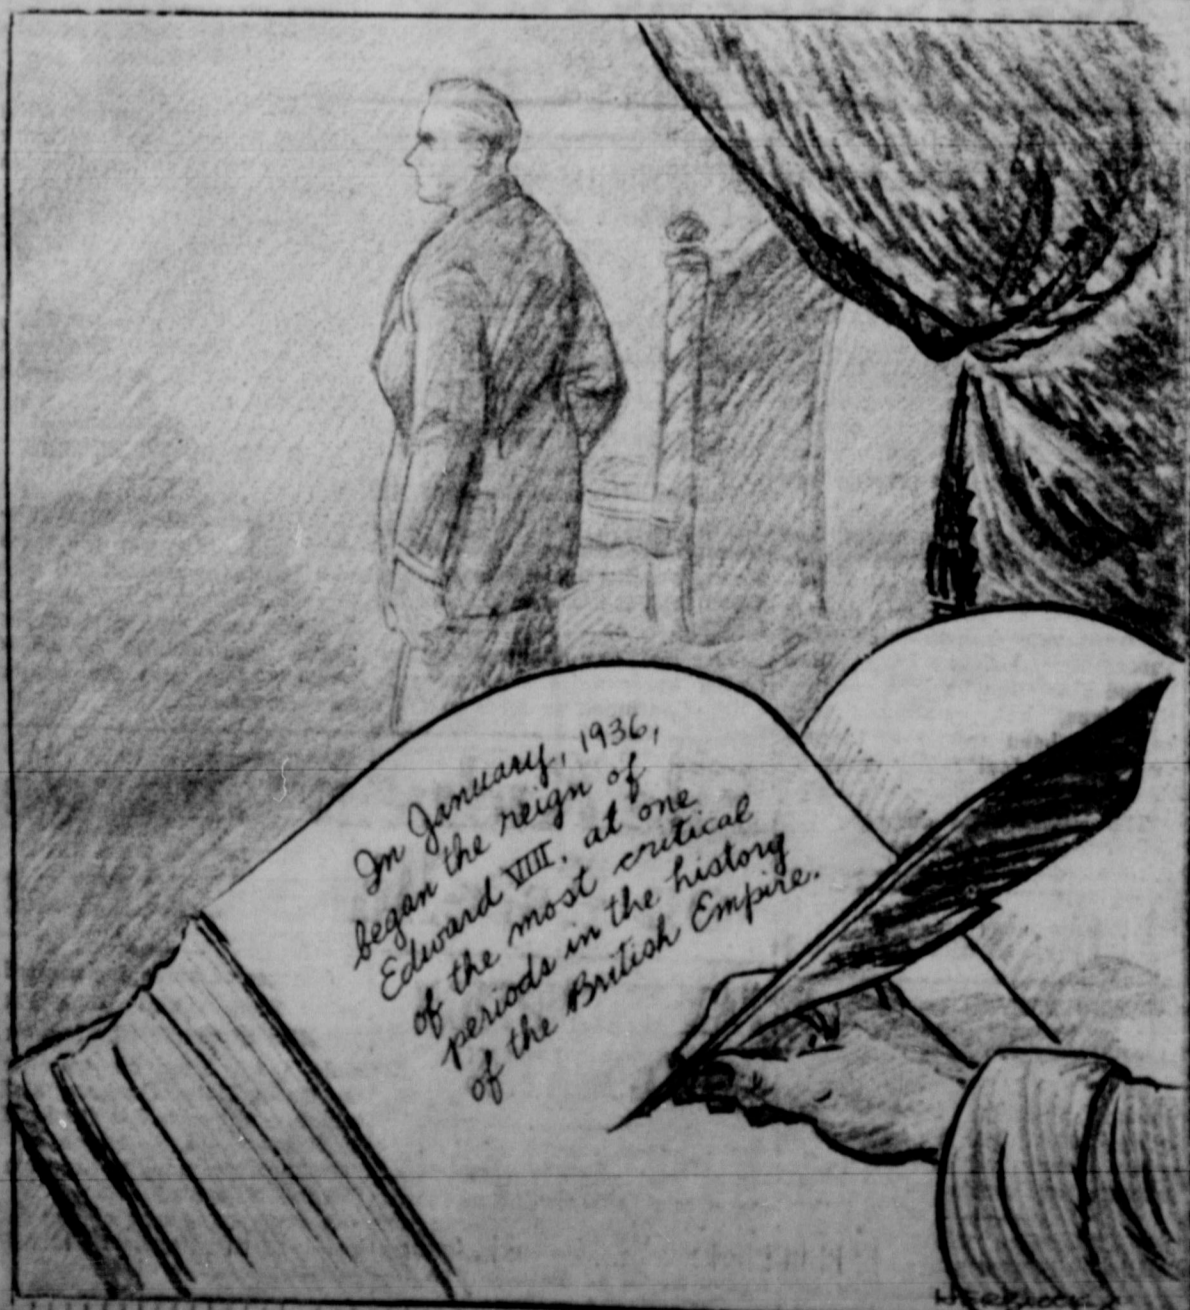

Both of these worthy causes received co-operation from our citizenship which put them "over the top" in a manner distinctly pleasing to those in charge of both activities.

As stated above, we in Memphis sometimes overlook an opportunity, no doubt, and we may occasionally do foolish things which were best left undone, but put us face to face with something of vital importance, and you can bet your roll that we'll emerge from the campaign with colors flying.

Which leads us to again remark, as we have too many times to number in years past, that we don't believe there are a people on earth who come nearer being the "salt of the earth" than Memphis and Hall County folks.

We may wear overalls instead of full dress, but beneath the breast of everyone of us, we believe, beats the heart of true Western progressiveness and hospitality.

The Moving Finger Writes . . . .

Out Beavers wearing the "droopiest" trousers yesterday afternoon that we've seen since the good old days when Charlie Chaplin did pantomime.

Maynard Drake getting a haircut yesterday. His wife was standing nearby and supervising operations. A barber's must be an easy life.

Mrs. Frank Foxhall admonishing her small son yesterday afternoon down town. The lad, it seemed, didn't want to go into the Ladies Department at Rosenwasers.

Mrs. T. D. Weatherby in the office bragging about going all the way to Arkansas and back without changing gears. Hm, she must have gone in a covered wagon.

Sonny Morrison driving a big Graham-Paige around last night that had been given to him on a silver platter. It looks like a good car, and we'll bet it doesn't burn over a gallon of oil in fifty miles.

The We Saw editor rattle a telephone receiver at the Legion Hall last night (or this morning) for fifteen minutes without waking up the night operator at the telephone office. Wonder if there would be a way to attach a shotgun, instead of a bell, to the alarm system over there after midnight.

Mrs. Harley Cudd slip on the ice at the door of the Legion Hall last night and do a spectacular entry.

J. E. King limbering up the old joints at the President's Ball last night, and stepping a few num-

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—Although the national social security program calls for no tax collections until next year, racketeers are starting early. Both employers and employees already are being victimized through misrepresentations of its requirements.

One racket is the persuasion of employers that reports required from them are so complicated and difficult as to call for installation of special accounting systems—and even for special business machines.

Some agents are selling systems of accounting alleged to be "approved" by the Social Security Board, whereas there actually aren't any special authorized or approved systems.

At social security headquarters it is insisted that no more accounting is required for federal unemployment tax records than the ordinary employer goes through in compiling his payroll. The facts required are chiefly the number of employees, names, amount of money paid, and when employees worked.

Old age benefit reports will require little more information, chiefly as to ages of individuals.

Reports have been received of employers who are deducting from pay envelopes to meet expenses they themselves are expected to pay and of others who intend to pay no taxes for factory workers engaged on piecework.

FROM Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Illinois have come copies of questionnaires distributed to employees which appear to seek information helpful in thwarting union activities. They are believed to have been distributed by a manufacturers' organization or strike-breaking agency.

A typical questionnaire, issued by a tire company, demands answers to 32 questions, whereas the SSB regulations would require the employe to answer but one: age. It says:

"The questionnaire is to be filled in by every employe for government records. Information given hereafter in many ways makes it ineligible to receive any benefit which he should be entitled to. The labor union membership is supposed to be an employment purpose only."

All of which is false. The questionnaire then proceeds to ask for the employe's name, address, telephone number, religious affiliation or rental of home, and other personal details.

The SSB says it has no employers for any information concerning individual employes. It set up an information bureau to answer all questions of employers and employes in case of such requirements.

THIS will be news to the U. S. Supreme Court. The case was that of Mississippi Negroes named Henry Shields, and Yell who contend they were changed on the basis of a murder confession obtained.

The torture is admitted. Mississippi supreme court is to interfere, because the state's lawyers hadn't used the proper words at the time.

One by one, the state leaped—often in defiance of the unhappy lawyers of the state in opposition to the deal. Justice Roberts, a vigorous anti-New Deal, seemed especially angry.

During discussion of the judge's instructions to Justice Van Devanter, he heatedly demanded: "Do you infer here that this is a 'stratagem'?" Well, that's it's not! . . . .

bers during the evening.

A lad of Scout age yesterday afternoon in the Democrat office about four times, before we could convince him that the Scout organization meeting at the courthouse yesterday afternoon wasn't for the boys.

About a jillion folks getting their names in the box yesterday for the free car at the Pott's Chevrolet Company.

W. C. Blankenship, Glynn Thompson and the We Saw editor wait about a quarter of an hour yesterday morning for a cup of coffee, while Chief Chef Eudy prepared a fresh batch. Some of the remarks made about Eudy's ability as a coffee cook almost made him blush.

Doc. Howard at the dance last night minus his pretty little mustache. Doc. said he shaved it off to get into this column again, and that we failed to notice it for a week. Pardon us, Doc., it was so small at its best that we didn't notice its absence.

STRANGE CASE OF JULIA CRAIG

by Ned Jones Copyright 1931

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JULIA CRAIG, pretty young secretary to GEORGE WOODFORD, lawyer, is ambitious to become a night club singer. Julia shares an apartment with AMY SANDERS.

PETER KEMP, young lawyer is in love with Julia but they quarrel and Julia declares she never wants to see him again.

Woodford gives a party aboard his yacht and asks Julia to come to sing for his guests, including CINTRA LEE, dancer, MRS. JOSEPH, widow; HUGO NASH, and ROYAL NESBITT.

On board, Julia discovers the trip is to be much longer than a week-end. The yacht lands at Evergreen Island where Woodford has a lodge. Julia meets TOM PAYSON who agrees to help get her away, but he is discovered on the yacht and accused of tampering with the radio. After an angry scene he is allowed to depart.

Julia arrives home. Cintra Lee telephones and tells her she can have a job on TONY LATTA'S gambling ship.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XIV

Next day, a little after five, Julia found herself in a taxi bound for one of the municipal wharves. There, Cintra Lee had told her over the telephone the night before, she would find Tony Latta ready to take her to his gambling ship for her first professional engagement.

All day long her better judgment had warred against the idea—but already she had given Cintra her word. And there remained the fact that she was out of a job and must do something. But, despite all this, she might still have sent her excuses had it not been for Amy Sanders.

"I'd do it," Amy told her. "You can take care of yourself, Julia. It's not where a girl is but what she is. If you're sold on this Cintra Lee, and she says that Latta is all right, what more do you want?"

So, bolstered with Amy's advice, Julia kept her promise to Cintra Lee. All day long she had occupied herself furiously with small tasks around the apartment, trying not to think of her eventual appointment with Latta. When the time came, she ordered a cab almost automatically—and now here she was, headed straight for Latta's gambling ship.

It seemed only a few minutes before the taxi had stopped before the wide gates of the municipal wharf. Trembling a little, Julia got out and paid the driver. In her excitement she almost forgot her bag and he had to call after her. But when Julia reached out a hand for it a low, strange voice said, "I'll take it, please." She turned swiftly to look into dark brown eyes—enigmatic eyes that told nothing.

"I am Tony. And you are Miss Craig?"

"Yes . . ." Julia faltered.

"I recognized you from what Cintra told me. You are ready to come aboard now?"

In those few seconds before she found her voice to answer, Julia examined Tony Latta. He was rather short, and a little heavy—a man somewhere beyond forty. His eyes were the eyes of his race, deep and dark and beautiful. They were his most—perhaps his only—attractive feature. But his smile was broad and friendly.

"Before we start out we must get things straight, eh?" He smiled again. "You want to sing for my customers?" He nodded quickly to his own questions. "And about the salary. I cannot pay very much, even though Cintra tells me you are very good. Suppose we start at $40 a week?"

Julia started. Her salary at Woodford and Brooks had been $27.50 a week.

Mistaking her hesitation, Latta added, "That includes your meals or you can come in with the last aboard the ship, if you want them. And also you can have a room—taxi boat."

"I—I think I'd rather stay in town," Julia said.

Latta shrugged. "Even if you do, $40 is all I can afford to pay." "That will be . . . quite satisfactory, Mr. Latta."

His wide smile flashed again. "Good! . . . And one other thing. Everybody calls me Tony. Nobody calls me Mr. Latta unless they do not like me much. I think right from the start you should call me Tony, and I should call you Julia. Is it a go?"

Julia laughed. "It's a go," she agreed, wondering what there was about this short, dark man that was so likable.

But when he led her to the end of the wharf where four sleek mahogany runabouts were moored she felt as if she were about to step into an abyss from which a return would be difficult. At sight of Latta, a man appeared from out the sedan-top of the nearest boat.

"Ready to go, Tony?" "All ready. Put the light on the ladder, Pete."

Below her Julia saw the narrow rungs which made it possible to board the water taxi. In no time at all she and Latta were aboard, and the boat seemed to literally leap away from the dock. Julia caught her breath at the sudden speed, and Latta smiled.

"These boats are very fast," he said. "I have had them a long time." He looked at her slyly, like a small boy confessing a peccadillo. "I had them before prohibition was repealed. Before," he added with a smile, "before I decided that it was not right to be breaking the law."

"I see," said Julia uncertainly. "You know my ship is perfectly legal?" he asked anxiously. "It does not operate in the state, and so it is not subject to state laws. You know that?"

"Oh, yes," laughed Julia. "Cintra told me. I wouldn't have taken the job if she hadn't assured me of that."

Latta nodded. "I believe you, Julia. You are a good girl. I can see that with only one eye. And that is what I want. Cintra says you sing like—I think she said it was like nobody's business."

"I hope she didn't build me up so much that you'll be disappointed."

"I cannot tell a good note from a bad one," Latta confessed. "But I take Cintra's word for anything. And anyhow, my customers will tell me if they do not like you."

He laughed uproariously at this last remark, but somehow Julia could not find it amusing. "I hope," she thought, "that I can last the week out."

But when the speedy boat had left the harbor and encountered the heavier weather outside she was not so certain that she wanted to last the week out. The runabout seemed to leap from wave crest to the next, and she waved slapped the bottom of the giant sledge.

"Does it get rougher than this she asked."

"Rough?" Tony Latta was surprised. "This is not rough."

The Strange Case—

These boats will take more than you think—and sometimes it is pretty bad." He smiled at her. "I think sometimes you will change your mind about wanting to come back into town."

Julia's heart beat faster. Would this job, too, be virtual imprisonment—as she had suffered on the Wood Nymph? Certainly she had no desire to spend very many days and nights, friendless, on a lone ship moored out from shore. But perhaps Latta was having some mild fun with her.

Fortunately it was not very many more minutes before there loomed ahead of them the outlines of a ship. It was not now fully illuminated, except for its regulation lights, and to Julia it seemed a black and forbidding hulk bearing down upon them. But Latta's man maneuvered the small boat with the perfection of long experience, and Tony Latta helped Julia to the landing platform. In another moment she was on the deck of his gambling ship.

It was not the largest ship out of the harbor that night, but neither was it very small. Latta explained that he had purchased it from a transportation company which considered the boat out of date.

"But she's fine for my purposes," he said. "I got her for a song, and I sold the engines for a good price, too." He laughed, pleased at his own astuteness. "She don't need engines—we tow her when we want to change her position. But mostly she's anchored tight, and I got plenty of weight in her hold and she don't roll much."

The interior was not at all what Julia had expected. It was more like the interior of a fine hotel than of a smaller passenger vessel. There were three large gambling rooms with cream-colored walls and furniture that just missed being in florid taste. Most of the chair and settees were in bright red leather, which seemed to please Latta immensely—and the game tables were all covered with green felt, and marked for a dozen different games of chance.

"But here is where you will sing," Latta said, and pushed open a wide white swinging door.

Julia gasped. It was, in truth, a miniature night club. There were small tables, each with a blue cloth. At one end of the room was a space for a small orchestra, and along one wall was a cocktail bar, resplendent in gray wood and indirect lighting.

Latta smiled. "A nice setting for my—my new little jewel, eh?"

"It's so much nicer than I expected," she said, without thinking how her remark might sound.

"But Tony's boat gets the best people," he assured her. "Your singing will not be wasted. . . . And now I will show you your room."

That, too, was lovely, but there were some evidences of the former occupant that Julia found a bit gaudy.

"Adjoining it," Latta explained, setting down her bag, "is a little room with a comfortable cot.

Even if you decide not to stay aboard, you may want to rest." He looked at his watch. "I've asked the orchestra to come early tonight, in case you want to run over some of the songs with them."

But as Latta closed the door she was trembling in every fibre of her slender young body. This was such a strange new world in which she had chosen to make her way. Yet there was no turning back now.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Moore were visitors in Amarillo last week.

M. L. Portwood returned to Denton last week after a short visit here.

FOOTBALL STAR HERE

William Thomas (Tug) Sanders, member of the Southern Methodist University Mustang football team that played in the Rose Bowl football game New Year's Day, arrived in Memphis last night with his wife and daughter to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Sanders, and friends.

Tug played tackle on the Memphis Cyclone football team four years. He and his family will return to Dallas Monday.

Cardui Helps When Nerves Seem On Edge Every Month

Women who find themselves in a painful, nervous fix, suffering every month, may have some functional trouble which Cardui should benefit.

"At times, I felt like I must scream if a door slammed or there was an unusual noise," writes Mrs. P. A. Odum, of Haines City, Fla. "I did not feel like doing my housework and as I had other work besides, I felt more like lying down. A friend of mine asked me to try Cardui, which I did. After my first bottle, I felt much better. I continued taking it until I had taken six or seven bottles. By this time I was so much improved I was able to leave it off."

If not benefited by Cardui, consult a physician.

STATE ECW HEAD HERE

W. L. Cowan, State Emergency Conservation Work Administrator from Amarillo, is in Memphis today on a tour of inspection to the local ECW camp. He accompanied E. McBride, SCS camp superintendent, on the project work this morning.

He visited in Wellington in connection with the local camp work yesterday.

V-Eights Take Two in Bowling

In league play Wednesday afternoon, the V-Eights took two of a three game series from the Merchants, dropping the latter below the Industrials for league leadership.

High point man for the series was Bill Bowerman, who bowled 454 pins in the three games. High man on the Merchants team for the series was Johnsey, who accounted for 406 pins. Several dummies were run in the score by both teams.

Tonight's league play will be between the Democrats and the High School, and three good games are looked for.

No date has yet been agreed upon for the postponed game between the Outlaws and the Band, which was scheduled last Tuesday night, but not played.

Local Scout—

for the coming year was outlined in skeleton form. This will hinge chiefly on the "Scouting School" that is to be held in the city on February 17 and 18. It was decided yesterday that a "Scouting School" should be held here to instruct men of the city in Scouting problems.

W. C. Davis was appointed chairman of the training school yesterday. Members of the local Sustaining Club, and any other men interested, will attend the Boy Scout courses, which are to be taught by C. A. Clark, Scout executive from the Adobe Walls Area Council, Pampa.

After the Scout leaders have been trained, Mr. Middleton announced, actual organization of the troops will get underway. Several local institutions have stated their desire to sponsor troops, and it is thought at present that four troops will be organized in Memphis.

All Activities—

dance was furnished by the Rhythm Bandettes, a ladies orchestra from Amarillo, and all present seemed to be pleased with the organization.

While the committees have not had time to check up completely on receipts from the different events there is no doubt that the city raise a nice sum for national and local funds.

Newlin Farmer—

farmer, who had been confined in a Memphis hospital most of this winter with a broken leg and suffering of pneumonia, had been released from the hospital yesterday afternoon. He went home, ate a hearty supper and went to bed. He was suddenly taken with what was thought to be an attack of indigestion, but died of heart attack before a doctor could be summoned.

Funeral arrangements this morning were not completed, pending word from a sister in California. The services will probably be conducted from the family home nine miles southeast of Memphis tomorrow afternoon, with Dwain Jones, pastor of the local Church of Christ, officiating. Interment will be in the Memphis cemetery with King's Mortuary in charge.

Mr. Phipps, born in Gainesville, Texas, moved his family to Memphis 16 years ago. He had lived at Lesley, at Fairview and at Newlin. He was married in 1904 in the Indian Territory to Miss Lela Loffler.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. O. W. Phipps; two sons, Garald and Olaf of Newlin; three daughters, Mrs. E. B. Williamson, Plainview, Mrs. Jack Nelson of Newlin, and Mrs. George Gresham of Newlin; one brother, Joe Phipps of Hereford; and one sister, Mrs. D. B. Hugins of Orville, Calif.

Locals and Personals

Noy Crabb, who has been very ill at the J. C. Williams home, 303 North Fourteenth Street, is reported to be much improved and expects to be able to be down town in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill D. Hart moved yesterday from the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Foust at 517 South Sixth to the Deaver apartment at 1321 West Main Street.

Lafayette Pounds and his mother, Mrs. M. M. Pounds, returned from a trip to Dallas Wednesday. Mrs. Pounds was a guest of Mrs. Ben Kimbrough during her stay in Dallas.

Bobbie Dee Wood is ill with the flu this week at the family home, 1320 West Dover Street.

Mrs. Grover Ewing and daughter, Marjetta, of Estelline were visitors in Memphis yesterday.

about the technicalities which created this amazing economy. But you can't help being interested in the cash money it saves you.

Phillips 66 Poly Gas costs less than low-test motor fuels. So much of a gamble to try a new Do it today, or tomorrow, latest. You will quickly feel the difference, and you will enjoy the performance and savings made possible by Phillips resources as the largest producer of natural test gasoline.

New winter grades aid easy starting

PHILLIPS 66 MOTOR OIL 30 at 25 In Cans . . . Refinery

INSTANT STARTING with minimum choke and far less grinding of the starter! That's what you get every single time with Phillips 66 Poly Gas . . . the new kind of cost-cutting motor fuel.

It always has been the high-test headliner. Now it is even better than ever, because an added supply of heat units is crammed into every drop by the scientific POLYMERIZATION process.

These extra B.T.U.'s bring you an important saving. This is why: With ordinary motor fuels, every time you use the choke for starting, or while the motor is cold and sputtering, you use up gasoline five to fifteen times faster than normal! Just think of the mileage thus wasted . . . of the drain on your battery . . . of the damage to your engine caused by dilution of the crankcase oil.

Remember, Phillips 66 Poly is the gas that lets you go easy on the choke. You probably do not care

Teachers Meet--

County School problems. J. W. D. Chappell, Brice, president of the association, will have charge.

Among the subjects up for discussion, Miss Vera Gilreath, superintendent of county schools, said, will be the Interscholastic League meet that is to be held in Estelline during the spring.

Discussion will also be held on each school's part in the Centennial Pageant that is to be held in Memphis next April. Ways for primary and intermediate school teachers of the county to attend W.T.S.T.C. Training School demonstration Saturday of next week will also be discussed. The primary and intermediate teachers are to attend the Canyon school scout-course to observe teaching methods.

Phillips Test--

which drilling proceeded most of last week. No oil showings have been reported since gas was encountered several weeks ago at 5,422 feet.

Despite the fact that the test was expected to develop into a producer by Christmas, the drilling company plans to put the Hughes No. 1 down for a deep test.

The rig at the Phillips location is one of the best in the nation, and drilling can go to almost any depth desired. It is said that the test may go to 10,000 feet if oil is not struck before that depth.

The Hall County wildcat is the most closely watched test in the Panhandle district and is exploring virgin formations in this part of the state.

To Install Steel--

highway department includes the installation of 318 steel jetties along the bank of the river, and the specifications call for the work to be done in thirty working days.

With the installation of the jetties, it is believed that the river can be made to build up the south bank, instead of constantly eating it away. Red River has in years past changed the course of its bed considerably, and the highway department is taking no chances on this happening again and leaving the bridge high and dry.

J. C. Williams is reported very ill at his home, 303 North Fourteenth Street.

File Kidnap--

brought him back from Clovis, where he was apprehended by New Mexico officers.

According to officers of the Sheriff's department here, it is probable that no federal charges will be filed against Potts, who is alleged to have violated both the Mann Act and the federal law against transportation of stolen property interstate.

Potts is now being held in the county jail here, pending the action of the grand jury at next month's term of District Court.

Tax Exemption--

formed this morning by letter from E. L. Dehl, manager of the pool.

It is not known when the tickets will arrive in Memphis, the county agent said. No reference was made in the letter in regards to the $159,000 in tickets due Hall County cotton ers.

"The farmers are looking the surplus tickets here that are the money," Mr. Patten "as they have cotton that not be sold until they receive exemption tags."
