re Of Compress Business In South

Business Leader

The accompanying article tells of the career of Col. C. T. Matkin, manager of the Memphis Compress Company, and President of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce. Col. Matkin has contributed much to the civic well-being of Memphis and Hall County and his career in the compress business is eminently successful throughout.

(V. C.) Memphis—any town successful must look for its growth place in the sun. An agricultural country, its most useful industries are those that transform products of the farm into the finished product—making them ready for the factory. In this cotton country, those enterprises consist of its gins, compresses and cotton oil mills. In Memphis, these industries have wrought well and have contributed heavily to the industrial and business development of the town.

A successful business institution is but the lengthened shadow of a man. The Memphis Compress Company bears sound testimony to this fact. Under the guiding hand, genius and industry of C. T. Matkin, the suave, genial and interesting man, who is the subject of this sketch, is a compress in the manner born.

Mr. Matkin is a native of Alabama—a Texan by early adoption—a man who has achieved success in his chosen field—the compress business. C. T. Matkin's career in the compress business is parallel with the growth and development of this industry in the south. He, with other leaders, has been the guiding hand that has given the compress business its correlative growth and expansion.

Mr. Matkin began his career in the local compress at Corsicana, in 1885, which institution he managed for fourteen years. Coincidence, only recently this compress machinery was sold and moved to Turkey. Mr. Matkin went over to see it and "that the hum of its machinery awoke memories of other days."

Leaving Corsicana, we find Mr. Matkin next in Memphis, Tennessee, the then largest inland cotton center, handling at this time one million bales of cotton in one plant. He had supervision here of four compresses and six extra houses, and it is here he learned that he gained much practical information in handling cotton. "I exerted every effort," he says, "to keep the plant in full production, and it was here that in one year we compressed 275,000 bales of cotton." He served here for five years. He says one enters differing systems of ginning cotton in different der his care, located in widely diverse parts of the state, requiring three weeks travel to make them. Following twelve years service with this company, he came here to build the local plant, as also one at Quannah, and one at Chilli-cothe. Then came a change of ownership with the Underwood people. Mr. Matkin says he liked the climate and people here and decided to make this his home. He says he has always given good service.

The Japanese Cotton Company, world cotton factors, of Dallas, addressed a letter to the Memphis Compress Company, then he low, in parenthesis, "The press that gives the service." Mr. Matkin met a representative of this company on the streets and said: "Why don't you come out to my plant?" He replied: "Oh, things are handled so nice, weights, service, patching—everything first class, you see I have no occasion. Its the plants that do not render this service that I must go to see."

Mr. Matkin says he sells only one commodity—service. The object of compressing is to facilitate tonnage in shipment. This service is sold to the railroads. He says with the high density service now installed, he can put one hundred bales of cotton in a car that would accommodate only fifty flat bales. The Memphis Compress Company, during the busy season, employs about seventy men and distributes a payroll of $6,000 per month or an average of $72,000 a year, based upon the busy period. No inconsiderable factor, this, in our business growth. Mr. Matkin is the manager of the Memphis and Hedley compresses that represent a combined capital of $150,000. These plants compress on an average of fifty to sixty thousand bales of cotton per year.

A third of the crew that began work with the local company ten years ago is still regularly employed during the fall season which attests the regard in which their employer is held.

Mr. Matkin, who is now president of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, has served this institution unselfishly and ably in committee work for a number of years. He says that he regrets that under his administration the local chamber cannot go forward, but says under present conditions, he recognizes the wisdom of watchful waiting. He says he enjoys civic work and desires to be of some real service to the community.

We get an insight into his political prescience when, as county chairman of the Sterling forces, he led them to the overwhelming victory in the final primary of 1913 votes to 104 in favor of his candidate. Mr. Matkin says he wanted us to have a business man in the Governor's chair. Mr. Matkin's family is composed of his wife, four girls and two boys who reside in Dallas. C. T. Matkin, the oldest son, is a member of the English Exporting Cotton Company, of Dallas. He also has three grandchildren.

Order, strength in repose, serene, tactful, courteous, interested in and untiring in his work, of wide sympathy and generous impulses, Mr. Matkin epitomizes the business man and good citizen who stands high upon the role of those who have contributed much to the growth and progress of Memphis.

Keep Your Life Insurance In Force

The last financial stronghold for anyone to surrender should be life insurance.

It is a necessary protection, not a luxury to which economies usually are applied.

Life insurance is more urgently needed in times like these than in prosperous years.

Cash reserves that have been built up in life insurance are aiding many business men to weather adverse conditions.

Loans made on Midland policies during the past year have protected thousands of families from actual want.

Today, when uncertainty exists and we see other investment standards changing, the value of life insurance is more evident than ever before.

Your Midland Life insurance is worth 100 cents on the dollar and will continue to be worth that so long as you keep it in force.

Therefore, hold on to your policies. Keep this valuable asset and protect yourself and your family.

Should you find it necessary, like millions of others, to reduce your expenses, don't sacrifice your life insurance. Remember the Midland Life has devised a plan of extension that will meet practically any emergency.

Before you even consider dropping your insurance in the Midland Life, write to the Company or its nearest agent and find out all about our extension plan and how policies may be kept in force regardless of your present circumstances.

Busy Main Streets

MAIN STREET is busy when factories are busy. The industrial development of the small and medium-sized cities is largely dependent on an ample and economical electric power supply. The grouping of many towns into a widespread electric service system brings to each of them an efficient power supply on which to build a sound industrial development.

The West Texas Utilities Company is making available this vital power supply to 120 prosperous cities and towns in West Texas, where three major generating stations, nineteen auxiliary plants, and a 2,500-mile network of high tension transmission lines insure a constant, dependable source of inexpensive electric power.

A COUNTY CLUB WOMAN IS HONORED

THE Democrat points with pride to the fact that a Hall County club woman has been signally honored in the state living room contest which was conducted recently. Home demonstration club women from all parts of the state entered this contest and the fact that Miss Mae Paul, of Parnell, won first place in this district, attests the excellence of her entry as well as the fine manner in which the contest was conducted and brought to successful fruition under the leadership of Miss Ruby M. Adams, county home demonstration agent.

It was our pleasure to see Miss Paul's living room. We thought at the time that she should go much farther than winning county honors. In fact, all living rooms entered in Hall County showed such a vast improvement that the real worth of the contest was plainly apparent. The competition, with suitable awards, is made possible each year by the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News. Rather than offering prizes for many non-essentials that have a more glamorous aspect, The Farm News has gotten at the very heart of home life through these contests and has made it of real interest to club women to enhance the attractiveness of their living quarters.

We have every reason for believing that Miss Paul's living room will meet with favor when the final awards are announced at the short course to be held at the A. & M. College of Texas this summer. Wouldn't it be a fine thing if a Hall County club woman should be selected as having the best living room in the state of Texas? It is not out of line to anticipate this coveted honor for Miss Paul and we are eagerly awaiting the final judging to ascertain if the Hall County entry will win state honors.

ANOTHER FOURTH

A few more days and another fourth of July shall have come and gone. So far as we know, there will be no particular celebration in Memphis on this occasion. Many local residents will probably attend the events scheduled to be held in Clarendon; others will go to Amarillo and near-by points. For the vast majority, it will be just another holiday.

The depression will probably cut down the number of fourth of July orators who awaken once each year to the fact that America is our country and we should, therefore, feel patriotic. We have never put much faith in the person whose patriotism comes to life only once during the year. Consistent patriotism, year in and year out, is as essential to the welfare of this country as the long, and seemingly hopeless, pursuit of a good five cent cigar. The fourth has its significance, certainly, and we would be the last to belittle it, but on the other hand, a higher brand of patriotism is needed than that which is kindled on the day which marks the anniversary of liberty, and remains dormant and inactive for the remaining 364 days.

EVOLUTION AND REVOLUTION

THIS country of ours is in the throes of evolution as well as the depression. It is evolving rapidly from the sphere of self-complacency and general well being to the point where it is, gradually and surely, taking cognizance of the fact that this is a big world and much of it is outside the confines of these United States. We, of America, have been so generally satisfied with ourselves that until the depression struck with lightning suddenness, we were well content to pat ourselves on the back and admit brazenly that this was the land of the free and the home of the brave.

We found that the United States is on the verge of losing its economic balance, that our exports are, more and more, becoming shunned by the other powers, who are raising and manufacturing the products we thought were ours outright. In other words, competition has made its appearance on the scene and we are finding the competing hard. Take Russia, for example. It the Soviet five year plan proves to be workable, our wheat and cotton exports are going to fall off to the point where we must find new uses for them ourselves or tread upon the perilous banks of national bankruptcy. We are no alarmists or extremists, but facts speak for themselves and are not to be controverted.

With this new awakening becoming general, there is yet time to save ourselves, but unless we take into consideration the fact that living wages are necessary, that people will not grow hungry indefinitely, we will be faced, of a certainty, with one kind of revolution or another. We may talk of unity and cohesion until we are black and blue in the face, but until the day comes when we practice what we preach, until we provide adequately for the masses as well as the classes, the rumblings of revolution will continue to reverberate and some bright day we will awaken to the fact that the impossible has happened—and right here in Hall County with the rest of the country.

A DUTY WELL PERFORMED

NOW that President Hoover and Mr. Coolidge have fittingly consigned the ashes of Warren G. Harding to a dubious posterity the Republican press of the nation is full of reports and stories that Mr. Hoover will be the choice of his party for the Presidency a second time and that prosperity will return in time for him to be overwhelmingly elected.

Statements of this character do not hold water, more particularly, the latter. Hoover is not popular with the Republican party as a whole, but the leaders are clinging to him in a forlorn hope that maybe some one else will bob up at an opportune time to save the party from disastrous defeat. It is readily recognized that he is a wash-out, pure and simple, but since he is the best man in the party, his name continues to be lauded. Frankly, we believe the Republican party has a white elephant on its hands.

Wholesale Grocery Houses Entered By Thieves Last Week

Wapples-Platter and Wooten Wholesale grocery houses here were entered by burglars between midnight and dawn last Friday morning and were successful in getting away with quite a large haul of tobacco, cigarettes, cigars and chewing gum. A reward of $200 is being offered by the two houses for the conviction of the thieves.

Wapples-Platter was entered by knocking a door open with a crowbar and Wooten was entered by using a crowbar to open a window. The robbers made away with 149 cartons of cigarettes, assorted; 50 boxes of Doublemint chewing gum; 40 pounds of thick plug Tinsley chewing tobacco; 26 cans of Prince Albert smoking tobacco; 250 Mexican Commerce cigars and 12 dozen packages of Bull Durham.

Officers are at work on the case, but thus far, no arrests have been made.

Bond Denied Hess Tyler At Hearing

At a hearing before District Judge A. J. Fires on last Friday morning at 10 o'clock, Hess Tyler, convicted for the murder of Bryan Nall, more than a year ago, who was granted a new trial recently by the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin, was denied bond and remanded to the custody of the sheriff. A large number of people were present at the hearing.

Tyler appeared pale and weak from his incarceration in the state penitentiary although he was clean shaven and remained calm and joked with his attorney during the hearing. The date for the new trial is expected to be set by Judge Fires during the September term of district court here.

OLLIE LINCOLN BENTON DIES AT LOCAL HOSPITAL

pone? What man is there, so versed in finesse and tact, as to be able to strangle out all opposition in the beer racket, and the crime racket in general? Who is left to hand out "grands," right and left, and pay for protection with such dramatic intensity? The questions must remain unanswered.

What great modern day killer has dispatched enemies so thoroughly as Capone? What will become of that immense army of hired assassins whose sweetest music was the chirp, or spatter, of machine gun bullets? Where, oh where, will wholesale massacres take place, now that once colorful Chicago is no more?

Nothing has so shaken Chicago, I can well believe, since Mrs. Somebody's cow kicked over a lamp and started the great Chicago fire, or the events incident to the last world's fair there, as these epoch-making changes that have recently taken place. Chicago without Thompson and Capone will be as a barren waste, devoid of that close interest and attention from the rest of the world that is generally considered only in connection with the Sahara Desert or Death Valley.

What will the next world's fair turn out to be with two of Chicago's most illustrious citizens conspicuous by their absence? Mayors may come and go, but hale and hearty William Hale Thompson can not be replaced, in bulk, in size, and in the amount of big-time talk and small-time action. And as for Capone, only the heart-aches and heart breaks of full-time gangsters can fully epitomize the great loss suffered. Poor old Chicago! The city might as well roll up the sidewalks and drape the Gold Coast in mourning at the deflation in publicity and prestige occasioned by the downfall of two great leaders, for alic and wily Willy and bold and brazen Al have passed out of the picture, definitely and for all time.

Highway Paving—

The only outsiders to be used in the construction and paving work will be specialty men, whose places can not be filled by local labor, it was pointed out.

Mr. Hasse stated that John A. Focht, professor of highway engineering at the University of Texas, will arrive in Memphis this week to act in the capacity of laboratory assistant to the contractor.

Yell Leader Named Betty Dale West was director of archery and yell leader. Mrs. J. R. Sensabaugh favored the group around the camp fire with several readings. From the call to get up as the girls sang, "Here Comes the Sun," to taps at 9:30 each evening, the day was filled with activities. The girls were organized into five troops, with a counselor in charge of each. The various troops were assigned special duties daily, including ground duty, care of the dining hall, which included setting the table and washing dishes and plans for the camp fire. The court of honor controlled the life of the camp. The girls planned all activities incident to the programs.

Treats Are Enjoyed Hearty thanks are here expressed by the Girl Scouts and their leaders for the many treats the camp enjoyed. The Estelline women brought soda pop, angel food cake and chewing gum on Wednesday afternoon. The Memphis women brought cakes, chewing gum and jelly on Thursday. The Gate City Creamery sent ice cream and cones for Thursday noon. Mr. McQueen sent eighty "all day suckers" and the gifts for the treasure hunt on Thursday were donated by Baldwin & Wherry, W. D. Orr, Hamilton Variety Store, M. Rosenwasser, and Leverett-Williams Pharmacy.

Draper Aids Campers M. J. Draper, the man on the council, aided greatly in establishing the camp. Tarver's Pharmacy sent samples of face cream, powder and mentholatum which were greatly appreciated. Publicity given by The Democrat is also appreciated.

R. C. Pearson had charge of the treasure hunt and as the Pliska Girl Scouts spent the day in camp on Thursday, they also enjoyed this occasion with us.

Heads Musicians In Program Here

Virgil O. Stamps, of Dallas, Texas, and Chattanooga, Tennessee, head of the Stamps-Baxter Music company, was the featured artist in the appearance here last Friday evening of the well known and ever popular Stamps Quartet. Mr. Stamps has a bass voice of unusual quality and range and his part of the program elicited much favorable comment.

Climax of Camp

The Climax of the camp was reached with the court of awards Thursday night at which time the tenderfoot pin was given to Mildred Lindsey and Mary Cooby of Memphis and second class badges to Marie McQueen, Margaret McElroy, Mary Miles Hall, Evelyn Lamb, Madeline Jackson, Virginia Orr, Nell McNeely, Lila Beth Johnson, Omega Ballew, Maxine Crump, Ruth Wood, Lorene Barton, Helen Ruth Thompson, Adell Harrell, Ruby Hoffman, Maidee Thompson and Clara Alexander of Memphis and Willie Freeland of Estelline.

Merit Badges Awarded Merit badges, representing scholarship, child nurse, scribe, musician, laundress, cook, housekeeper, athlete, hostess, home nurse, seamstress, needlewoman, citizen, observer, health winner, craftsman and Girl Scout aide, were awarded to Marie McQueen, Margaret McElroy, Madeline Jackson, Virginia Orr, Nell McNeely, Lila Beth Johnson, Geraldine Watson, Martha Draper, Betty Dale West, Vallie Harrell, Adell Harrell, Nell Walker, Maidee Thompson, Clara Alexander, Omega Ballew, Ruth Wood, of Memphis and Margetta Ewing, Willie Freeland, Louise Blake, Clarice Green, Mary Grace Hardy and Mrs. Faulkner of Estelline.

The camp was made permanent and the Indian name, "Camp Ko Ko Ho," was adopted by the Girl Scouts of Hall County. The camp has met the requirements of National Girl Scouts, Inc., and will be recognized as a permanent Girl Scout Camp.

Like the goat, a moth has strange tastes, but unlike the goat, the damage done by moths runs into millions of dollars every year.

Moths hide and breed in dark places. They are voracious eaters of your finest woollens, mohairs, and carpets. A thorough and thrifty housewife will spray the cupboards, furniture and carpets thoroughly every month with the modern type of insect spray, developed and marketed by the large oil refining companies during the past three or four years. The better grades of these insect sprays can be easily purchased from your grocer, hardware dealer, or druggist. They are advertised frequently in this paper. Regular spraying will save that new coat and that lovely fur—not to mention your husband's best suits.

GAS ENGINEERS TAKING PROPERTY INVENTORY

Engineers of the Northern Texas Utilities Company, four in number, have been in Memphis since June 15, taking a property inventory of this city. The work is progressing satisfactorily, although it is expected that it will take at least six weeks to complete. The work here is under the direction of J. P. Jackson.

The engineers have just recently completed a property inventory at Wellington.

Miss Lucille Polk of Wellington is the house guest of Mrs. A. J. Joyce here this week.

Oscar W. Barker, who has been with the Waples-Platter Wholesale Grocery Company for the past five years left Wednesday for Stamford where he will be with the same company as house manager. His family will join him next week to make their home at Stamford.

Mrs. Oscar W. Barker and children, Frances, J. R., and Bobbie Louise went to Silvertown Wednesday to visit their mother and grandmother, Mrs. W. M. Watley.

C. D. Denny went to Quanah Wednesday on a few days business trip.
