Baptist W. M. S. Closes Year With Meeting Monday

Monday marked the closing activities of the calendar year of 1930-31 of the Baptist W. M. S. when it met at 4 o'clock in the auditorium of the Baptist church, in a well attended and enthusiastic meeting. The outstanding feature of the program was the installation of officers for the ensuing year. Mrs. T. M. Harrison, having charge of the ceremonies. The devotional was given by Mrs. Roy Leverett and the opening prayer by Mrs. J. S. McMurry. Mrs. Pete Cudd rendered a beautiful vocal solo, Mrs. Roy Leverett playing her accompaniment after which Mrs. Harrison introduced the following officers: President, Mrs. W. J. Bragg; first vice president, Mrs. A. Baldwin; second vice president, Mrs. Claud Johnson; third vice president, Mrs. Henderson Smith; fourth vice president, Mrs. Bertha Carter; recording secretary, Mrs. Sam Hamilton; corresponding secretary-treasurer, Mrs. John Barber; director of music, Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard; Bible study teacher, Mrs. J. H. Treadwell; historian and reporter, Mrs. W. L. Wheat; young people's director, Mrs. E. T. Miller.

After the installation of officers, the incoming president made a splendid address, sounding her slogan for the coming year, "All for Service." This was followed with an inspirational talk on duties and privileges of the members by Mrs. Jack Boone. The program was pleasant climaxed when Mrs. W. L. Wheat presented Mrs. T. M. Harrison, the out-going president, a lovely W. M. U. pin in behalf of the society as a token of appreciation for her loyal service during the past year. Mrs. Harrison graciously responded. The program was closed with song and prayer. Mrs. Oren gave the closing prayer. During the past year there has been a keen friendly rivalry in the circles for the W. M. U. pin. Mrs. Henderson Smith won the laurels.

At the close of the meeting all present were invited into the dining room where iced watermelon was served by the following hostesses: Mesdames A. Baldwin, Sam Hamilton, John Barber, J. H. Smith and Claud Johnson.

A FRANK TALK TO OUR MEMPHIS GAS CONSUMERS

I am taking this means of discussing frankly the "gas question" with the citizens of Memphis. As Manager of the Northern Texas Utilities Company, I will speak for the company which I represent. In view of the discussion of the "gas question" it now seems as though the time has come for us to say something. So far we have refrained from making any public statement, because we felt that we should not talk until we were prepared to back up our statements with actual facts.

Last winter a number of complaints as to gas bills were received from our customers. There probably were several causes contributing to these complaints, among them being "hard times" and a winter without extremely cold weather but with an unusual number of days sufficiently cold to require heat in living quarters. At the request of the City Council, officials of my company appeared before them during the week of March 6th. At that time the "gas question" was discussed fully, and the City Officials were then advised that we could not consent to a reduction in rates without first making an investigation of our property for the purpose of determining as to whether or not we were making more than a reasonable return from our Memphis business. We made no promises as to changes in rates, but we did promise that an investigation of our Memphis business would be made and that all the facts which might be brought to light as a result of such investigation would be laid before the City Council.

We told the City Council at that time, that the Northern Texas Utilities Company as a whole was not then making more than a reasonable return on its investment, but, notwithstanding this fact, if the investigation of our Memphis business brought to light that our rates were yielding more than a reasonable return on the present value of our property in Memphis, we would gladly consent to a reduction.

It may not be clear to many of you why it was impossible for us to produce at that time definite information as to our Memphis business, apart from the affairs of the Northern Texas Utilities Company as a whole. I appreciate that it is only reasonable that there should be a lack of understanding on this point, hence I will endeavor to explain it in some detail.

The Northern Texas Utilities Company operates as a single unit in producing, transmitting and distributing natural gas to its customers. All of its operating affairs are supervised from its office in Wichita Falls. The general books of the company reflect only the affairs of the company as a whole. The Memphis revenues are kept separately, but the general books of the company do not reflect separate figures as to the value of the property in Memphis, as distinguished from the rest of the property.

In determining the reasonableness of rates charged in Memphis, it becomes necessary to arrive at the present fair value of those facilities used and useful in supplying gas service to our Memphis customers. Even though our books showed a separate valuation of our Memphis property, it would be proper and only fair to our customers to revalue the property on a present day cost basis which we recognize is now lower than it was when the property was originally installed. As stated before, the Memphis facilities had not before been valued separately, hence it was necessary to make such a valuation before we could intelligently discuss the question of the rates in effect in Memphis.

In May our engineers started appraising all of the property of the Northern Texas Utilities Company, and we have had more than sixty men engaged in this work. There is much more involved in this situation than an appraisal of the property in Memphis. The same promises were made to the City Councils of Childress, Wellington and Quanah. Thus the distribution systems in all four cities had to be appraised in the same way. Moreover, in order that we might arrive at an equitable city border rate for the gas supplied from the transmission system to the Memphis distribution system, it became necessary to make an appraisal of all the gas reserves, wells, gathering lines, transmission pipe lines and other similar facilities. While all of this work has not been completed it has progressed far enough to enable us to make the reports as promised.

On July 15th I conferred with a committee of City Officials from Wellington, Memphis, Childress and Quanah and at that time I assured them that we expected to complete by September 1st, the report that had previously been promised. We have done our utmost to get this information as early as possible, but we have declined to make any report until it could be made authoritatively.

We expect to complete and file our Memphis report by September 1st. This report will show that for the year ending June 30th, 1931, our net revenue after payment of all expense and allowance of a reserve for depreciation, was 5.8% of the present day depreciated value of our Memphis property. These figures will be set out in detail in the report. Do you think this is more than a reasonable return? Do you see how capital can be attracted to a business yielding less than this? Do you believe that a reduction in rates can be justified in the face of these facts?

Someone will say "I would like to be making that much return from my business at this time." That is a reasonable remark to make and it strikes at an important phase of this "gas question" viz: the fundamental difference between the utility business and private business. A public service company, because of the character of its business, is limited by regulation to charges which will yield it no more than a reasonable return. The private business, on the other hand, is not subject to regulation, and in good times may build up a surplus which will tide it over in times of depression. Thus regulation of rates prevents a public utility from making enough money in good times to enable it to reduce rates in hard times, however much it might like to do business on that basis.

But please do not get the idea that this company is not suffering from the depression. A substantial source of revenue consists of sales to industries. In this field, gas is sold in competition with fuel oil. For the year ending with July, 1931, as compared with the year ending with July, 1930, the total revenues of my company were 31.2% less. The total revenues for July this year against July of last year were 45.1% less. If anyone thinks that the depression is not affecting our business as a whole along with all other lines of business, let him please make careful note of these figures.

I have the responsibility of managing the affairs of the Northern Texas Utilities Company as a whole. In that position, I feel that my obligations are twofold. First, I want my company to merit the confidence of its customers. Without the good-will of its customers, no business can succeed. With this in mind, it is the policy of the company under my management to take an active part in the affairs of the communities in which it operates. While we have not as yet accomplished as much in this direction as we hope to do, we have been assured in recent months that at least some progress has been made in this direction.

The second obligation resting upon my shoulders is to so operate the company's affairs that it may continue to merit the confidence of those who have invested their money in this business. There are many people who have purchased securities of our company. Those people expect, and are entitled to receive a reasonable return on their investment. It would be unfair to them to consent to a reduction in rates which would undermine the security behind their investment. I am sure none of our Memphis customers would expect such a thing.

But I want to adopt a course that will satisfy both the customers and the security holders of the Northern Texas Utilities Company. This cannot be done if we allow the customers to place their own price on the service rendered by my company without any thought to the affect of such a course on the capital this other lot of people (our security holders) have entrusted to my management. Put yourself in my position and tell me what you would do.

A request has been made that the domestic rates for gas service in Memphis be reduced to 50c per 1,000 cubic feet. While this suggested rate has never been stated definitely, it is assumed that a 10% discount would be requested in connection with the rate and that the minimum monthly bill would be $1.00 as in the present rate. We have calculated what the effect of this change of rate would be for the year ending June 30th, 1931, and have found that instead of a net return of 5.8% a net annual loss of over $8,000 would result in Memphis. This rate would confiscate our property.

I will say frankly that we are not satisfied with our present type of residential rate. For the year ending June 30th, 1931, our records show that 76% of the annual residential gas bill in Memphis was paid in six months of the year. For the same annual period the highest average monthly bill was $9.16 and the lowest $1.60. This creates a burden on the customer in the winter time when his other bills are high, and requires the company to maintain gas service during the warmer months at a loss. We have been seeking a form of rate which would reduce the cost of gas when the consumption is greatest and which would reduce the company's loss from maintaining service to residential customers when the consumption is lowest. Therefore, we have designed an entirely different type of rate which we are going to offer to those Memphis customers who may want to take it, provided the City Council approves such action. The monthly rate is as follows:—

15c net per 100 cubic feet for the first 1,000 cubic feet used during the month.

7½c net per 100 cubic feet for the next 2,000 cubic feet used during the month.

4½c net per 100 cubic feet for all additional gas used during the month.

Net minimum monthly charge $1.50.

Subject to the approval of the City Council, we propose to offer this as an optional rate. Those who want to take it may do so, those who prefer to continue paying the present rate may do so. The only stipulation that we feel that we must make is that once a customer has elected to take the new rate, he must continue to take it for at least one year from the date of his application. Of course, this means that only those who would be benefited by the new rate would select it. Applying this rate to all such customers for the year ending June 30th, 1931, this would have resulted in a reduction of the annual amount paid by Memphis domestic customers of more than $5,000 and an annual decrease in the company's revenues from its sales to such customers of more than 10%.

I want you to know that my company is fully appreciative of the opportunity we have to do business in Memphis. We don't want to be unsympathetic at this time when business conditions are unfavorable. We don't blame anyone for wanting gas service for less. I am glad to explain the affairs of my company to our customers, believing that they want to be fair with us as we want to be fair with them. We feel that the majority of our customers do not want to ask for gas rates that would represent less than the cost of service.

The report we are rendering to the City Council of Memphis sets out all the facts which we believe are pertinent to this situation. I wish that we could place a copy of this report in the hands of every customer so that it might be read by all. Since this is not practicable there has seemed to be no other way for us to tell our story to our customers, except by means of newspaper advertisements. In this, the first of a brief series of talks which will appear in the weeks to come, I have attempted to give you only an outline of what is given in detail in our report to the City Council.

Next week I expect to answer a number of questions that I have been asked about our gas business. They are only reasonable questions and there are reasonable answers to them. The average customer cannot be expected to know all about the gas business. He has a perfect right however, to ask such questions and he has a right to expect an answer. Many statements about the gas business are being made nowadays which are not founded on fact, and after all is said and done, we believe what the people want are the true facts in this situation, as in all other matters. I am simply asking that you reserve your final judgment until I can have had an opportunity to be heard fully in behalf of the company which it is my privilege to represent.

Respectfully yours,

MANAGER

Local Druggist Reads Paper At Meeting Of Five County Medical Society Here

The following paper, on the "Relationship of the Doctor and Druggist," was read by F. V. Clark, local druggist, at the monthly meeting of the Five County Medical Society last Friday.

The paper is as follows: "I have been requested to discuss before you today the subject of the relationship of the doctor and druggist."

"The science of medicine as we understand it has for its province the treatment of disease. Pharmacy is the art of preparing, preserving and compounding medicines, according to the prescriptions of physicians. Medicine and Pharmacy had their origin with the Greeks. Pharmacy is the handmaiden of Medicine. The practice of Pharmacy was extended by the Arabian physicians and the separation of it from Medicine was recognized in the eighth and legalized in the eleventh century. The status of the Pharmacist was subordinate to that of the Physician in the time of Henry VIII. This relation prevails today. On the continent of Europe, the dispensing of prescriptions is confined to the Pharmacist. They are not allowed to prescribe and the medical men to dispense except under special license, and then only in small villages where the pharmacist could not make a living.

Thus we see fostered early the spirit of separation between the professions. Medicine had her Hippocrates, Galen, Pasteur and Lister. Pharmacy her Remington, Sadtler and others.

In the history of the two professions, we find a thread through the ages that parallels that of civil history. And the votaries of the two professions are the beneficiaries today of the knowledge gained through study, research, patient experiment and the sacrifices of our predecessors.

The mastery of a profession designed to serve humanity is liberalizing in its tendencies. We have the basis of this good fortune in our relations. As devotees of two useful professions, the one subordinate to the other, yet closely related, we bear towards each other a tolerant attitude. We imbibed from the study of the masters a proper ethical sense and relation the one to the other.

In the development of Medicine and Pharmacy we find applicable the following utterance of Tennyson, who said: "Yet I doubt not that through the ages one increasing purpose runs . . . And the thoughts of men are widened with the process of the suns."

The doctor and druggist today are mutually dependent. The doctor prescribes and the druggist dispenses from his selective stocks and conveys to the patient the order of the physicians' prescriptions. The druggist appreciates that the physicians' prescription blanks today bear only the name of the physician or clinic from which it originates.

This exemplifies the magnanimity and sense of fairness that is characteristic of the doctor of today. The proper sense of regard for his duty will not permit the druggist to counter prescribe. This is a species of charlatanism that the average druggist disdains.

For a doctor to undertake his own dispensing today would be archaic. The druggist's relation to the doctor I think may be truthfully summed up as follows: When approached as he frequently is by people more or less ill, he directs them to the creditable physician or clinic in his neighborhood; playing no favorites, but seeking to do justice to all. I may be pardoned if I say in conclusion that from an experience of fifteen years with the medical fraternity of Memphis, I have found them of an unusual average of ability, character and devotion to best ideals of their profession.

Today's Preparation Is Tomorrow's Progress

FORWARD-LOOKING towns must consider their power supply. Is it reliable? Is it ample? And can it be increased quickly when industrial growth calls for more power?

These requirements are met when a town is served by an inter-connected electric power system. New demands are met at once, because power is available from many different sources.

Making this elastic, dependable and ever-ready type of power supply available throughout West Texas, it is the privilege of the West Texas Utilities Company to serve 124 prosperous cities and towns in this "Land of Opportunity." Three major generating stations, nineteen auxiliary plants and over 2,500 miles of high tension transmission lines place inexpensive electric power at your command every minute of the day.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

makers will agree on some plan of control. Opinion in Memphis seems divided on the proposal made recently by Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana that the cotton producing states declare a "holiday" in 1932. All seem agreed, however, some plan must be decided upon that will curtail the production of cotton.

Will Notify Governor

The result of the meeting Saturday is expected to be made known to Governor Sterling in the form of a resolution or recommendations. Mr. Dial and others who are sponsoring the mass meeting ask that people come out and express themselves. It was agreed that the time for hedging has passed and that Hall County must go on record as favoring definite and concrete action on the part of Texas to prevent, if possible, a widespread calamity.

ried the cord to see what it contained. She discovered the bones and shells, notified her husband and he informed the officers of the discovery.

Bones Are Examined

One of the jaw bones belonged to the skull of a man, according to Dr. O. R. Goodall, bone specialist. Another of the bones was that of a man while the third is supposed to be that of a woman. Parts of the jaw, where muscles were attached were found to be more pronounced and fully developed on two of the bones than on the third. Several of the teeth in the man's jaws were still in place, but were very loose. The teeth were badly worn but well preserved. In the bone that is supposed to have been part of the skull of a woman, the teeth were missing and the bone around the base of the molars was badly decayed.

About 50 Years Old

It is Dr. Goodall's belief that the men were about fifty years old, but no definite statement could be made as to the age of the woman since the teeth were missing, but it is presumed she was about the same age as the men. In one of the bones which belonged to a man, two of the jaw teeth had been filled, but the filling was worn beneath the level of the upper surface of each tooth. Indentations, made by the teeth, proved that many of them were crooked and very irregular, Dr. Goodall said.

The bones were not more than 15 years old, Dr. Goodall stated, as the living odor had not yet been destroyed and many spots on them were greasy. Although peritosteum was not present in any form, it could not be proven that the bones were older than 15 years, for climatic conditions could have caused it to loosen and fall, the doctor stated.

The shells were in seven clips of five bullets each. None of them had been fired and the steel points could be removed from most of them. Part of the powder was removed from the bullets and officers stated that when a match was touched to it, it barely ignited.

The bones and shells had evidently been under the house only a short time, as the paper in which they were wrapped was dated March 8, 1931. The gunny sack was in good condition and showed no signs of wear or abuse, officers stated.

According to Miss Adams, will furnish their own canning equipment. It will be taken to Roswell by trucks. La Hondo Courts, an exclusive camp ground, has been secured by Miss Adams, in which the group will stay while there. The canning will be done at the camp where all modern conveniences including hot and cold running water are to be had by the group at a reduced price, Miss Adams stated.

Plans have been completed with the Roswell Trucking Association to haul vegetables and fruits to the camp from surrounding country at a low cost, it was said, and every woman will pay for the amount she uses.

On Sunday, September 6, plans have been made for the group to visit the Oasis Ranch, west of Roswell, in the irrigated area. Other trips to places of interest have been planned, Miss Adams said.

"This trip will afford a profitable vacation for the club women," Miss Adams said. "All women who are interested in going should notify me before August 31, as we plan to begin work September 2."

ing equipment is not in use at Lakeview, where the highway is now under construction, it will be taken off Saturday or Sunday, Riza said.

Construction work into Lakeview will be completed Thursday unless something unexpected occurs, but 21 days will be required for curing before it can be opened for traffic, it was said. Work will begin immediately on the remainder of the road from Lakeview to Memphis, and it is thought that it will be completed in approximately six weeks.

According to the superintendent, those who use the new road from Memphis to Eli will do so at their own risk as side grading has not been finished. The construction company will not assume responsibility for any accidents occurring before the highway is completed, Riza stated. Side grading will be completed when the remainder of the road is finished.

Gravel trucks hauled 448 loads of batch from the gravel deposit, south of the Memphis Compress, to the mixer, located west of Lakeview, Tuesday. About 50 trucks were used in the haul. This number of loads in one day is an unusual thing as the average number per day is about 400, Riza stated.

The Ralph Pleasant Construction Company recently completed some 22 miles of pavement at Plainview and five miles at Paducah. They were awarded the contract here recently by the Hall County Commissioners' Court in the sum of $209,463.57.

Jim Webster Never Borrows Money; Pays Cash, And Saves The Difference

BY JERRY SITTON

How many people in Memphis are there who have never borrowed money or paid out interest on money? There must be very few, but J. W. (Jim) Webster is one of them. And that's not all he has never done. He has never smoked a cigar. He has never given it up as a bad job. And he has never chewed tobacco. Unusual, perhaps, but Mr. Webster says he has no desire for tobacco and sees no reason why he should use it. Jim Webster never buys anything on credit. If he doesn't pay cash, he doesn't buy. He says he never bought but one pint of whiskey in his life and he didn't drink that, but let a church official drink it for him.

Jim Webster is the oldest son of Mrs. J. P. Webster. His father died some 11 years ago. He has eight brothers and two sisters living. In 1889, he came to Hall County from Grayson County, where he was born in a log cabin. He has been married 24 years and has three children. His father built the first house in Memphis, Mr. Webster said.

Having had very little schooling himself, Mr. Webster is a firm believer in education. He plans to educate his children as thoroughly as possible. He said he had never voted against a school bond.

He still uses a 1921 model Ford touring car that has had only one set of tires during the ten years he has owned it. He has no love for speed and believes the old model "T" still has some good years left.

Jim Webster gets up at 5:30 every morning and milks five cows. He does not claim to do much work, but says he works more by accident than some people do on purpose. While seeking an interview with him, The Democrat representative found him cutting weeds in one of his pastures.

The life of a cowboy is his love. He rode the range for years and has worked on many well known ranches throughout this section. At the age of ten, he began riding and rode regularly until several years ago when he retired from active range work.

Mr. Webster stated that the younger generation in his day had a hard time and very few luxuries, but that is no reason why the younger generation of today should not enjoy themselves, he pointed out.

"I'm glad young people today don't have to work as young people did in my days," he said. "It is a pleasure to see them enjoying luxuries that were unknown in my youth."

When the question of the depression was brought up, he shook his head and said, "My plan is that economy is always the best way."

JESS ROSENWASSER IS IN EASTERN MARKETS

Jess Rosenwasser left Memphis last week for the Eastern markets to purchase his fall and winter line of merchandise. Mr. Rosenwasser will be away from Memphis for about four weeks. He is in New York City at the present time and writes home that he is making a number of purchases for his store here and that they may be had for very nominal prices.

Mr. Rosenwasser will buy ladies' ready-to-wear goods in New York and from there he will go to Chicago to purchase a line of men's clothing. He will return by way of St. Louis where he will purchase shoes. Mr. Rosenwasser is accompanied by his father, M. Rosenwasser, on this trip.

Local Gin Manager Writes Open Letter Federal Farm Board

Coleman White, manager of the Memphis Farmers' Co-operative Society No. 1, has addressed the following open letter to the Federal Farm Board at Washington, D. C.:

"Of course you realize that it is necessary that something be done to relieve the cotton farmer in the South. While the writer is not aware of conditions other than in this part of the country, but judge from indications that other parts are about on a par with this, which is very bad indeed. The banks have not made a loan in the past thirty days and say they will not be able to make any loans even next year. Considering the low prospective price of cotton, many farmers will not be able to start a crop next season. Having read several plans which have been offered, but taking everything into consideration believe the one herewith offered will get the job done and give better general satisfaction than any which has come to my notice.

"The plan follows: To finance the proposition the Government should issue five year Government bonds to the extent of five hundred million dollars without interest, the bonds to be secured by cotton warehouse receipts as they come in, the Government issuing currency in bills of suitable denomination secured by U. S. bonds to the amount of the bonds issued. Permit the Farm Board to purchase six billion bales of this season's cotton crop, to be held entirely off the market, which would stimulate the price of this crop.

"Make arrangements for a campaign to be launched in the early spring and make it compulsory that each farmer enter into a contract with the Government to reduce his cotton acreage fifty percent, the Government to pay to the farmer on a probation basis $6.25 for each acre abandoned, payments completed in five months, the farmer agreeing to stop the abandoned acreage in a foliage crop such as cow peas, and plow under at the proper time for fertilizer, nothing else to be planted on this during the season, unless for the following year's crop. These arrangements could be carried out through the co-operation of the local county officers with but little additional cost. Where land is rented the $6.25 would be divided as per the regular crop division basis. Such a method will finance the farmer in making his crop, and not only benefit the farmer, but will benefit wheat and other feed, hogs and the cattle market.

"A straight reduction of acreage would do but little good in a way of relief, should this land be planted in other crops which we already have too much of, but my plan would not only stimulate other crops the land would make but such a plan could be continued until proper results were obtained. Besides this, the Government could influence other countries engaged in the production of cotton to adopt a like policy which would result in a real service. The Government would be reimbursed through the increased value of the cotton on hand that should go around sixteen cents per pound, under this influence, and not sell under that price.

"Mr. Reader, if this plan appeals to you, write the Congressman from your district and your U. S. Senators a short letter asking for action.

COLEMAN WHITE."

My mother's birthday comes every year on the 26th of July and besides celebrating with a dinner and birthday cake somebody usually performs some spectacular feat like fainting or falling down the steps, etc. When we went to my sister's I had no idea I had been chosen to lend the extra colorful excitement to the day. We ate, as usual, wished on the candles which George Bond, Jr., extinguished with one gust of histrionic breath, retired to the living room to chat and finally began scattering homeward. I chose walking and two of my grand daughters accompanied me. At the crossing from block five hundred to four hundred on Walnut street, my ankle turned when I stepped in a worn place, a small hole and the mischief was committed.

My mother attributes it mainly to the fact that I hold my head so high. It is high, so how can I help it? She says also, "Now maybe you will watch where you are stepping. The way you walk around with your head in the air has made me uneasy. I've expected hundreds of times to have you brought home in the ambulance just because of that way you have of never seeing anything below the level of your eyes."

I didn't know I had a broken limb until a week had elapsed and so, of course, didn't call a doctor as none of my family have doctors for sprains. One friend suggested I walk on it to keep it from being stiff, so I did. Another sent me a rubber ankle brace and I wore it. Suggestions of vinegar and hot water were tried. Sloan's liniment was used so faithfully that Mama and I would cough violently when we would try to talk to each other and all the time my foot was changing color. A week later, a doctor was called and I found I had fractured the small bone.

I'm having a good time, but feel disappointed over my daughter's visit turning out so hospitably instead of hospitably. I am making two quilts, have almost finished a dress for said daughter, answered a lot of limericks, written a story, sent in my four grandchildren's smart sayings: here's a sample.

Marian to her brother Tommy who has treated her doll roughly. "You shouldn't treat your niece that way!" Tommy who is four—"Chingee?"

And with another week of sitting with my foot elevated, I feel there will be more things than one.

So don't feel sorry for me because I'm having a good time. Think of me and don't forget me. I think often of Memphis and its good people and love you. I think of the splendid entertainment you gave me and live again the happy hours I spent with you.

Gentry Brooke, of Amarillo, and T. B. Brooke, of Lockney, spent Sunday here with their sister, Mrs. J. M. Lane. Royce Brooke accompanied his father here from Lockney and will remain with Mrs. Lane until the opening of Texas Tech where he will attend school the coming term.

Let's Chat Awhile

BY DOROTHY B. ROBBINS

When I opened my Memphis Democrat and saw myself written up right on the front page, I can't tell you how much I enjoyed it. This is the first broken leg I ever had and I like to have it noticed. Then, too, appearing so prominently in one of my loves, I can't say my first love as Lyman did but it's a close second—just made me feel good.

My mother's birthday comes every year on the 26th of July and besides celebrating with a dinner and birthday cake somebody usually performs some spectacular feat like fainting or falling down the steps, etc. When we went to my sister's I had no idea I had been chosen to lend the extra colorful excitement to the day. Statistics Show Marriages Decrease Last Year; Texas Loses 28.5 Per Cent

The marriage license business in Memphis is not so good according to figures. Only 43 marriage licenses were issued here last year and so far this year, 20 have been issued, while in 1929, 142 licenses were sold by the county clerk.

The bureau of the Census at Washington, D. C., announces that, according to the returns received, there were 45,158 marriages performed in Texas during the year 1930, as compared with 63,173 in 1929, representing a decrease of 18,015 or 28.5 per cent. This decrease is due in part to a change in the marriage laws, effective June 12, 1929, requiring three days notice to be given before the issuance of a marriage license. In 1922, there were 61,730 marriages performed in the state.

During the year 1930, there were 16,682 divorces granted in the state, as compared with 18,383 in 1929, representing a decrease of 1,701 or 9.3 percent. In 1922, there were 12,527 divorces granted. There were 110 marriages annulled in 1930, as compared with 167 in 1929. During 1930 there were 25 divorces granted in Hall county, as compared with 17 in 1929.

The estimated population of the state of Texas on July 1, 1930, was 5,853,000 and on July 1, 1929, 5,739,728. On the basis of these estimates, the number of marriages per 1,000 of the population was 7.7 in 1930, as against 11.0 in 1929; and the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 2.85 in 1930, as against 3.20 in 1929.

The Bureau of the Census announced further that, according to the returns received, there were 1,128,180 marriages performed in the United States during 1930, as compared with 1,232,559 in 1929. These figures represent a decrease of 104,379 or 8.5 per cent.

During the year 1930, there were 191,630 divorces granted in the United States, as compared with 201,468 in 1929, representing a decrease of 9,838 or 4.9 per cent. There were 4,333 marriages annulled in 1930, as compared with 4,408 in 1929.

The estimated population of continental United States on July 1, 1930, was 123,191,000 and on July 1, 1929, 121,526,429. On the basis of these estimates, the number of marriages per 1,000 of the population was 9.2 in 1930, as against 10.1 in 1929; and the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 1.56 in 1930, as against 1.66 in 1929.

The ratio of divorces per 1,000 of the population in the individual states in 1929 ranged from .19 in the District of Columbia and .38 in New York to 3.22 in Oklahoma and 28.67 in Nevada.

IT'S UP TO THE INDIVIDUAL

ONE day last week a representative of one of our colleges in West Texas paid a visit to The Democrat office. He stated that it would be possible for a student to attend his institution of learning for a very nominal sum, that the college authorities were making every effort to see that boys and girls who really wanted a college education got one. He expressed the hope that there would be a number of students from Memphis and Hall County who would matriculate in the college late in September.

We wonder just how well Memphis will be represented in the various colleges another year? Will the depression keep young men and young women away who would otherwise attend? How serious are our young people in regard to a higher education than that afforded by grammar school and high school?

We believe that if a boy or girl really wants to get an education, he or she will succeed in accomplishing their objective. One of the finest things we know anything about is the experience to be gained from working one's way through college. The privations, the struggles, the difficulties encountered in an attempt to make ends meet will be prized heritages throughout the years to come. We have never known of any person who worked his way through a college or university expressing regret over his experiences there. On the other hand, they have frankly admitted that the training they received going along the bumpy path to a degree has stood them in hand and has accounted in large measure for whatever success has come their way.

Memphis' boys and girls are ambitious. We do not believe they will mark time, waiting for a more auspicious season to begin their education. We have faith in them that they will go ahead, buck everything if necessary, and come out on top.

WHEN DONATIONS BECOME A NUISANCE

THERE was a time—and it has not been so very long ago—that The Democrat, like many other businesses in Memphis—was on the giving end of the line. Regardless of the call or the subject matter, we dug down and delivered. We are still getting these calls, but we are thinking twice now where we thought once then. Only last week, it was necessary that we turn away several who were soliciting funds. Such action on our part we believe to be entirely justified. Most of us are making a real effort to "keep in the swim," and we must learn to recognize non-essentials from essentials.

We are ready and eager to back every good cause but from this time on until Mr. Hoover either retires from office or something equally as momentous transpires, we are going to exercise the best judgment at our command. We believe now, more than ever, that Memphis' money should remain in Memphis. If we start patronizing all the good causes that come along, some of Memphis' money will trickle out in spite of ourselves. It's a little thing, but worth thinking over we believe.

COMMITTEES AND COMMISSIONS

PRESIDENT HOOVER is still busy "Rapidanning" and conferring with the big boys of business prior to appointing them on committees and commissions. It seems that Hoover has committed himself to commission the land. While thousands upon thousands are idle, while other thousands are faced with starvation, while the press of the nation clamors for success, while the Senators and Representatives enjoy extended vacations and send countless telegrams to Washington trying to fool their constituents into believing they are on the job—while all these things are going on—Hoover goes to his Rapidan retreat and confers.

We have never seen a government so absolutely unreliable as the one in Washington at the present time. Absolutely nothing in the way of relief seems to be forthcoming from it. It is the same procedure, week after week, month after month. Hoover is busy gathering statistics; Hoover is busy motoring to his Rapidan camp and equally busy motoring back to Washington. He has a conference with one millionaire after another. They discuss and discuss and finally he announces he has commissioned another committee.

If the present program, or lack of program, continues for any length of time, there is no telling what will transpire. This country is not a great way from anarchy at the present time. If the unemployed are to remain idle, if the hungry are to remain unfed, we be to those in power at Washington. Some day the bottom will fall out of things and this great and glorious nation of ours will be torn asunder and from the way matters are going, we would not be surprised at anything. The public conscience is becoming aroused. Too long the middle classes have had to suffer while the rich gloated over their increased power and affluence. History records the French revolution. The United States might well profit by the example this incident affords.

STABILIZING INFLUENCES

WHEN all the world seems "topsy turvy," it is a comforting feeling to know there are left a few stabilizing influences. First among these, we would place the church. The church has stood as the Gibraltar of the ages—the boundless rock of hope eternal. Second to the church is the home. No matter how humble or how squalid, the home remains a bulwark of strength—a haven in the face of danger and perilous encroachments.

There is one organization to which we may point with pride that is exerting a stabilizing influence in the chaos of the present. That organization is the American Legion. The men who compose its ranks have tested the drugs of suffering, have felt and still feel the fires of patriotism. As long as the church, the home and the Legion remain intact, there is always something to be thankful for—something to point to—to strive towards. These three form a trinity unshaken and unshakable in a battered-up world.

THE MEMPHIS (TEXAS) DEMOCRAT STUDIOS ARE TO OPEN FOR FALL TERM'S WORK

Good Instruction At Moderate Prices Is Available Locally

With the approach of school, culture in Memphis will become emphasized by the opening of the several music and expression studios. Teachers in this city are well equipped to give that class of instruction so necessary to the mental growth and artistic natures of boys and girls, young men and young women, who are not satisfied with life's commonplaces, but rather, are concerned with self-improvement and advancement such as a study of the arts affords.

Take Personal Interest
Right here in Memphis are to be found as talented and as accomplished instructors in the Fine Arts as abound in the entire Panhandle. They take a personal interest in each student enrolled in one of their classes. These groups are not too large to become childishly and the individual attention given is the unquestioned boon to the progress the student is certain to make in the line of artistic endeavor in which he is engaged.

May Regret Indecision
What more pitiful expression comes to parents' ears from their grown children than "I wish I had . . . when I was young." How many times have YOU regretted that you did not study piano or some other instrument, voice, expression or public speaking? How often have you wished your own son or daughter had the musical talent of a neighbor's child? Broaden Junior's and Sister's education this year. Read in and "ritin" and "rithmetic" come first, of course, but to deprive your children of the study of Fine Arts is to neglect your obligation as parents.

Idea Is Obsolete
The idea is obsolete to think it is necessary to obtain foreign talent to instruct children properly. This fallacy existed for long, but it has been entirely dispelled. Big names, high sounding courses and corresponding high prices no longer enter into the picture. In this day when economy is not only to be preferred but is likewise essential, it is necessary to select with care those who are to instruct children in the Fine Arts. Memphis' array of teaching talent fills the bill, amply and completely. Prices for class work and individual instruction are very moderate, indeed.

Some of the studios in Memphis will begin the Fall term's work on Tuesday, September 1. Others will open on Monday, September 7. No matter which teacher you select, you may be assured your children will be given the best of instruction at prices you can afford to pay.

private piano, supervised practice, assistant to Mrs. Morgan, and Annie Laurie Carter, dancing, which includes tap, ballroom, interpretative, acrobatic and aesthetic. All work offered by the faculty leads to Graduate and Degree Courses.

Margaret G. Morgan has taught music in Memphis for the past eight years. She has had splendid private instruction with the late Dr. T. S. Lovette, head of the Fine Arts Conservatory of Baylor College, Belton. She has had special training in pedagogy and the Dunning System with Harriet Bacon MacDonald in Dallas, Gladys Marsalis Glenn in Colorado Springs and Carre Louise Dunning in New York. This summer Mrs. Morgan was a member of the Edwin Hughes Master Class in piano in Fort Worth. In speaking of Mrs. Morgan, Mr. Hughes said: "Mrs. Morgan is an experienced teacher and a gifted pianist. She has enjoyed excellent training and is to be highly recommended in both of these capacities." At the present time she is president of the Panhandle Dunning Teachers' Association.

Lelia E. Ballew has been a prominent teacher of the Dunning System for several years. She has organized successful classes in Vernon and Plainview. Joining Mrs. Morgan in the Memphis branch of the Amarillo Conservatory insures her patrons and pupils the most to be expected in piano instruction. Mrs. Ballew has studied four years in Weatherford College, and has studied with Claire P. Mangum, Leschetizky exponent of Greenville, Texas, Harold von Mickwitz in Dallas and Gladys Marsalis Glenn in Colorado Springs. She has also had considerable experience as choir director in various churches. Alice Ruth McClaren has been an assistant to Mrs. Morgan for the past year and this summer was in the five weeks Dunning Norman class of Gladys M. Glenn. She has had excellent training in piano and theory for the past six years with Mrs. Morgan and has had private instruction under Elizabeth Leake of the Fine Arts faculty of C. I. A. Miss McClaren will assist Mrs. Morgan in her classes this winter as well as giving practice lessons to those students needing assistance.

Annie Laurie Carter, well known dancer, will be associated with Mrs. Morgan in the local branch of the Amarillo Conservatory, as teacher of tap, ballroom, interpretative, acrobatic, folk and aesthetic dancing. Her many appearances in Memphis have demonstrated her wonderful talent for and ability in this art. She has studied dancing at Sherman prior to instructions received in Gulf Park College. At the present time, Miss Carter is doing special work in the dance at Mineral Wells. She will return about the first of October to open her classes in the ballroom of the Memphis Hotel.

Stover, Los Angeles; Helen Fouts Cahoon, Fort Worth and Arthur Multer of the University of New Mexico. Mrs. Shelley is an authorized teacher of the Progressive Series of Piano Lessons. The Progressive Series is used to standardize music. She has had extensive experience in directing choirs, choruses, glee clubs and other forms of ensemble music, as well as years of experience as an accompanist. Mrs. Shelley's piano and voice students have been awarded blue ribbons at the Panhandle Music Festival at Amarillo for the past four years.

When the pajama party began, one took to the streets when they saw a woman, but they have so common they attract attention on the streets. Of fact, pajamas, or some of the stores almost become the fashion for women here. The most common save the most.

that only Clark could have committed the crime. There is little doubt that more sensational and weird crimes pop up here in Southern California than in any other spot of the American continent. We recall to mind just now, among others, Clara Phillips, the hammer murderer, who beat a rival to death, and is now serving a life sentence in the penitentiary. Then there was, of course, the notorious Hickman case; the chicken ranch case, in which several young boys were done to death; the butcher boy who murdered his asserted mistress; the man who lived in the attic of his married sweetheart's home for years, before killing her husband, and scores of others, each with some peculiar twist to it that seemingly belongs to Southern California. Maybe, as the chamber of commerce says of other more pleasant features of the state, "it's the climate."

DON'T be FOOLED by Tricky SALES TALK

DON'T be misled by challenges—guarantees—laboratory analyses—price comparisons—claims of 25% savings—made by distributors of special-brand tires.

A recent example of a grossly misleading and extravagant statement by a distributor of special-brand tires is—"Mount one of our tires on one wheel of your car and a tire of any other make on the opposite wheel. If our tire does not give you equal service at a saving up to 25% in price, we will give you a new tire free."

This statement can be made for only one purpose—a desperate effort to gain your confidence and sell you a tire before you have had time to think about the ridiculousness of their challenge, which asks you to buy one of their tires and go to another store and buy a tire—have it mounted on the opposite wheel—then turn yourself into a tire tester!

Miss Adams Back From Meeting At New Mexico Camp

Miss Ruby M. Adams, county home demonstration agent, returned to Memphis Friday from Camp Cima del Mundo, in Gallegos Canyon, 20 miles west of Las Vegas, New Mexico, where she attended a weeks' encampment of the county home demonstration agents of District One. Some 22 demonstration agents were in attendance at the camp, Miss Adams said.

The weeks' program included two days work on making cottage and American cheese with F. K. Renner, dairy specialist of Texas Tech, in charge. A lecture by John W. Luker, dairy specialist of Texas A. & M., on dairy conditions of the state with an outlined program for improvement, was given. Mr. Luker will be in Hall county the early part of October to start a dairy program among the home demonstration club women of this county, according to Miss Adams. Paul Cunyus, dairy specialist also of A. & M., gave a three days' demonstration on poultry care and feeding.

Part of each day was devoted to recreational work, and one of the things stressed most in the camp meetings was the need of recreation in community life, according to Miss Adams. The club women of the county are planning an extensive program of recreation work for the ensuing fall and winter, she said.

Miss Minnie Mae Grubbs, district home demonstration agent, was camp director and manager. Miss Grubbs gave every demonstration agent present an opportunity to discuss problems confronting phases of their club work followed with a discussion of possible plans and solutions, Miss Adams stated.

"The camp was one of the most successful that I have ever attended," Miss Adams said. "Every one present expressed themselves as having received much benefit from the lectures as well as from camp life in general."

Womack Is Host To Large Crowd

A. Womack, proprietor of Womack's Grocery, was host to his friends Saturday, while celebrating the seventh anniversary of his business in this city. Mr. Womack is of the opinion that more people entered his store Saturday than any day heretofore. Fruit punch in the amount of 3,060 cups was served throughout the day, he said.

Four prizes were given to persons whose names were drawn from a box containing the names of about 615 persons who registered before five o'clock Saturday afternoon. First prize of 12 cans of Gold Bar fruit was awarded to M. T. McCormick. Mrs. S. L. Daniels received a 48 pound sack of Carnation Flour as second prize. A caramel nut cake or third prize went to Mrs. W. B. McClanahan while Mrs. C. L. Goble received a two pound box of Saltine crackers and a one pound box of Cloverleaf cookies for fourth prize.

"I want to thank my many customers and friends who visited the store Saturday," Mr. Womack stated. "The anniversary this year was the most successful that I have ever had."

Mrs. Roy R. Fultz and children, Betty Frances and James, are visiting relatives at Petrolia, Wichita Falls and Henrietta this week. Mrs. D. C. Brooke returned to her home in Wellington Sunday after a visit here with her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Lane. One lot of dresses for $2.49. Marilyn Shoppe. 1c

Negro Men Held On Beer Charge

Three negro men were arrested at Morningside about 12 o'clock Saturday night and lodged in the county jail with charges of possession and sale of intoxicating beverages filed against them. It is stated that two of the negroes approached the car in which B. Wilson, night officer, was sitting and offered to sell him two bottles of beer for a quarter. He bought four and returned to town with them placing them under arrest.

Mr. Wilson, Sheriff John Alexander and Deputy Lindsey Hill returned to Morningside and another arrest was made and 12 bottles of beer seized. The negroes are in jail and the beer is being held as evidence.
