Resolutions of Respect. To the Worshipful Master, Wardens, and Brethren of Estelline Lodge Number 823, A. F. & A. M.

We, your committee, appointed to draft resolutions dedicated to the memory of our deceased Brother, R. E. Tackitt, who died October 22, 1923, beg to submit the following:

Resolved, that in the death of Brother R. E. Tackitt, the Lodge has lost a worthy Brother and True Mason; the community in which he lived, an honest and upright citizen; the wife and children, a loving husband father.

Brother Tackitt had been a member of the Estelline Lodge for more than seventeen years. He came from Eureka Lodge Number 371, Springtown, Texas, to this Lodge, and was a member of the Eureka Lodge for several years. He was a Christian gentleman in the strictest sense of the word, and was a consistent church member for many years of his life. His life has been a shining light in honor to God; to Masonry; and to the world.

Be it resolved furthermore, that we extend to the bereaved family our sympathy, that we spread a copy of these resolutions on the minutes of the Lodge, that we send a copy of the same to the family of the Deceased Brother, and one to The Memphis Democrat for publication.

Signed: C. A. White, T. N. Copeland, P. L. Vardy, Committee.

WHERE THE PAVEMENT ENDS, ROMANCE BEGINS

Where the pavement ends, there romance begins—and there is no pavement beneath the feet of life in the South Seas. It is all sunshine and danger and the slow, easy poison of lassitude; all lazy surf and white beach and green jungle. Such is the essence and the background of "Where the Pavement Ends," a story by John Russell, which has been pictured for Metro by Rex Ingram, maker of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and other such great photoplays. It is the story of the young daughter of a missionary. She was quite alone and young; and the tropic nights, so alive with the pulse of life, quickened her longing for love. Alice Terry is the girl, and Ramon Novarro the one to symbolize love to her.

During June and July, 1920, there were about 150 cases of typhoid fever in Pittsburgh, California. This was due to a lack of a stock of liquid chlorin. The water supply from the Sacramento River was pumped into the mains for at least one day without being sterilized, and an epidemic followed. Eighteen typhoid victims pooled their interests and sued the city for damages. They were awarded $32,821, the largest individual amount being $12,500.

The Palace Theatre Program

MONDAY AND TUESDAY—Metro presents the production, "Where the Pavement Ends." Chapter II, of Daniel Boone.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY—The Memphis Chamber of Commerce Band presents Jackie Boy, with their annual program.

FRIDAY—Universal presents in "Beating the Gate," II of "The Jungle Boy."

SATURDAY—Wm. Fox presents "Second Hand Love."

What Is Your Score?

By Phoebe K. Warner

the community, the district, and the state fairs for another year, how? How did you score? You score as an individual? as a community? as a county? The best thing about a fair? What's fine? What's all feel good to win a premium on anything? But after all the best part is what you do the year fair and all the other years. If there were nothing more than the premiums, well that would be worth even then of amusement and sight-seeing. The best thing about a fair everybody who enters any whether it is an individual or county exhibit, is the satisfaction.

But once in a long while some fellow will. Well, in some of our greatest universities they are sending their students in sociology out into the different communities to take the measure of that community's ability to do things; its intellectual strength; its financial power; its physical measurements; its spiritual assets; its home conditions and schools and commercial outlook. And these students go back to their class rooms and report what they have discovered in that community and from this knowledge they compute what that community could do with its different assets if it would. Pretty good plan. A lot of our communities could do a lot more than they are doing if some outsider would only come along and prove it to them.

Is your farm as good as it might be? Is your home as good as it might be? Is your school as good as it might be? Is your church as good as it might be? Is your town as good as it might be? Is your county as good as it might be? Is Texas living up to her best possibilities? Are you living up to the best within you? How many of us would make a good substitute for a sociology class? What would be the score if measured by our opportunities and the products of our lives.

FORD MANUFACTURES OWN WIRE FOR WINDING ARMATURES OF FORD GENERATORS

Detroit, Michigan, Oct. 29.—Because outside manufacturers failed to meet specifications for wire used in winding armatures of starter generators used on Ford cars, the Ford Motor Company has itself gone into the wire manufacturing business. This new industry at the Highland Park plant, though not yet in full production, is at present turning out every day some 70 miles of fine insulated copper wire.

The making of 6,500 generator units daily calls for the absolute standardization of parts, particularly wire size. If the wire winding on the armatures is slightly off-size, or if the insulating cover is a bit thick or irregular, either the winding will not fit in the armature segments or lower generator efficiency will result.

So, with outside wire not giving full satisfaction, the company determined to make its own and improvements and simplification of standard wire making machinery have placed this plant ahead in quality and economy. One interesting drawing operation is where the wire passes through eight diamonds each reducing the size a few thousandths of an inch. The cost of each diamond may run as high as $300 and it takes several days of continuous drilling with diamond dust in order to pierce one. They can be used about six months without appreciable wear.

Cotton, used for wire covering, is also made by the Company and is spun from fine cotton imported from England.

The new wire, which in every way meets the high standards of Ford manufacture, has brought a general improvement in the production of starter generators.

Notice of Road Bond Election.

STATE OF TEXAS, COUNTY OF HALL

To the resident property tax-paying voters of Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas:

Take notice that an election will be held on the 24th day of November, 1923, within Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas, to determine if said district shall issue bonds, and if a tax shall be levied in payment thereof, in obedience to an election order by the Commissioners Court on the 20th day of October, 1923, which is as follows:

On this, the 20th day of October, 1923, the Commissioners Court of Hall County, Texas, convened in regular session at the regular meeting place thereof in the court house at Memphis, Hall County, Texas, all members of the court, to-wit:

A. C. Hoffman, County Judge, W. H. Grundy, Commissioner of Precinct No. 1, C. J. Nash, Commissioner of Precinct No. 2, Med Barton, Commissioner of Precinct No. 3, U. F. Coker, Commissioner of Precinct No. 4 being present, came on to be considered the petition of D. H. Davenport and 84 other persons, praying that bonds be issued by said Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas, in the sum of $200,000.00, bearing 5% per cent rate of interest, maturing at such times as may be fixed by the Commissioners Court, serially or otherwise, not to exceed thirty years from date thereof, for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating macadamized, graveled or paved roads and turnpikes, or in aid thereof, and whether or not a tax shall be levied upon the property of said Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas, subject to taxation, for the purpose of paying the interest on said bonds and to provide a sinking fund for the redemption thereof at maturity;

It appearing to the court that said petition is signed by more than fifty of the resident property tax-paying voters of said Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas; and

It further appearing that the amount of bonds to be issued will not exceed one-fourth of the assessed valuation of the real property of said Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas; and

It further appearing that said Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas, has been duly established by an order of the Commissioners Court of Hall County, dated on the 20th of October, 1923, of record in Book 5, of the minutes of said court and the boundaries thereof are herein described and defined in the order of the Commissioners Court, establishing such district, as follows, to-wit:

"Beginning at the Northwest corner of Hall County, Texas; thence South with the West boundary line of said county to the North bank of Red River; thence East with the North bank of Red River to the mouth of Indian Creek; thence North with said Indian Creek to the North boundary line of Hall County; thence West with the North boundary line of Hall County to the place of beginning.

"The above described Road District No. 2 embraces all the territory contained in Commissioners Precinct No. 2, which is a political subdivision of Hall County, Texas."

It further appearing that said district does not embrace any part of a political sub-division or defined Road District that has been heretofore established and has issued bonds which are now outstanding and unpaid.

It is therefore considered and ordered by the Court that an election be held in said Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas, on the 24th day of November, 1923, which is not less than thirty days from the date of this order, to determine whether or not the bonds of said Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas, shall be issued in the amount of $200,000.00, bearing 5% per cent rate of interest, and maturing at such times as may be fixed by the Commissioners Court, serially or otherwise, not to exceed thirty years from the date thereof; and whether or not a tax shall be levied upon the property of said Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas, subject to taxation, for the purpose of paying the interest on said bonds and to provide a sinking fund for the redemption thereof at maturity.

The said election shall be held under the provisions of Articles 627 to 641 inclusive, or Chapter 2, title 18, Revised Statutes, 1911, as amended by Section 1, Chapter 203, Acts of 1917, Regular Session.

All persons who are legally qualified voters of this State and County, and who are resident property taxpayers of this Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas, shall be entitled to vote at said election, and all voters desiring to support the proposition to issue the bonds shall have written or printed on their ballots the words:

"FOR THE ISSUANCE OF THE BONDS AND THE LEVYING OF THE TAX IN PAYMENT THEREOF."

And those opposed shall have written or printed on their ballots the words:

"AGAINST THE ISSUANCE OF THE BONDS AND THE LEVYING OF THE TAX IN PAYMENT THEREOF."

The polling places and presiding officers of said election shall be respectively as follows:

- Precinct No. 3, Eli School House, T. M. Cox, presiding officer; Precinct No. 4, D. C. Hall's Barber Shop, Lesley, D. C. Hall, presiding officer. Precinct No. 9, W. O. W. Building, Lakeview; J. W. Watson, presiding officer. Precinct No. 10, Brice School house, F. M. Sachse, presiding officer. Precinct No. 11, Lodge School House, J. T. Dennis, presiding officer. Precinct No. 15, Deep Lake School House, W. D. Bevers, presiding officer.

not in conflict with the provisions of the statutes hereinabove referred to.

Notice of said election shall be given by publication of a copy of this order in The Memphis Democrat, a newspaper published in Hall County, Texas for five weeks before the date of said election, and in addition thereto, there shall be posted other copies of this order at three public places in the Road District No. 2, of Hall County, Texas, for three weeks prior to said election.

The County Judge is hereby directed to cause said notices to be published and posted, as hereinabove directed, and further orders are reserved until the returns of said election are made by the duly authorized election officers and received by this court.

Given under my hand, with the seal of the Commissioners Court aforesaid, this 20th day of October, 1923. (SEAL) A. C. HOFFMAN, County Judge.

THE RED LOCK

by David Anderson

NEARLY one hundred years ago the Wabash valley was a land of uncommon romance, virile frontier types and vigorous action. The river itself was the seat of a prosperous pearl-fishing industry and to its shores came the hardy, reckless spirits of the time, very much akin to the adventurers who are always found where possibilities of sudden wealth exist.

In a previous story, "The Blue Moon," David Anderson penned the romance of the pearl fishers. In "The Red Lock" he has gone into another phase of the locality. The period is during the Forties and early Fifties, and the tale recounts a drama as stirring, as true to life and habitat as anything that has been written about any section of pioneer America.

It's the Old Devil Himself!

she belonged to... she was sacrilege, a... yet it was legal, forever in the power... she shuddered at that scene in the leering, drunken, voice of Judge Garrip with which Bob those hateful words to such unspeakable the struggle to save the broken door, the hands, the hot, drunken face, the blow which Good G-d! could this fresh night air, the black night, the Daniel Kelleen.

them below, sounded clear, exultant, a new ring in its tone. "He ain't here, miss, but by G-d, sir, I believe he's alive." Deborah could not speak, could not utter a sound. Alive! Alive! why that was impossible; her very heart seemed to stop beating. She could only stare up at the man dazed and helpless. It was the lieutenant who answered. "You say he is alive, Carney?" "Well, he sure left here alive, sir, and on his own legs. I found the place where he come down, an' where he got on his feet again. There wasn't nobody else here helpin' him, an' he started off along this ledge—impin' a bit, I should say, but goin' alone. Whatever happened since, sir, he certainly left here able to navigate. Maybe I better follow the trail?" "Yes, go on, Sergeant."

"Deborah's limbs trembled so she could scarcely walk for the first few steps. She clung gratefully to the lieutenant's arm, her gaze never deserting the man moving cautiously along the narrow ledge of rock high above them. Alive! Daniel Kelleen was alive! Nothing else mattered; her hands clasped tightly at the officer's sleeve. "Have the sergeant hurry; please have him hurry! He doesn't need to trace Captain Kelleen's trail. I—I am sure I knew where he was going." "Where was that?" "To the cave I had found, and told him about; it is there just beyond that mound. Good G-d, Lieutenant, there are horses grazing yonder—they have found him already!" "There were two animals in a little cove, hobbled, and nibbling at the short grass, but both saddled and bridled. They had the Meager ranch brand on their flanks, and the sergeant, joining the party below, easily followed the trail of two men on foot until they circled the mound of earth, and ascended the opposite side. Deborah pressed her way forward, too eager now to be longer held back, yet fully realizing the danger confronting them. "Be careful here," she warned. "They are certainly in there—two or three, at least, and they will shoot. Here, Sergeant, let me show you; I know the way."

"By G-d! but this beats h—l, sir, I—h—h, but I'm goin' in!" He went over the barrier of rock unhesitated, unstoppered, and recklessly Deborah followed. The lieutenant paused an instant. "Jones, you and Calhoun follow us; the others remain out here. Keep your eyes open, lads." The next moment he had also scrambled through the opening, and crouched down beside the trembling girl. Just ahead the two could dimly distinguish Carney, leaning forward, peering into the total darkness beyond. "It's—it's perfectly level, the floor is," she whispered. "You can follow along the wall—I did." They advanced together slowly, feeling their way, scarcely a sound breaking the silence. Suddenly the sergeant, slightly in advance, stopped, feeling at something on the floor with his feet; then he stooped over. "By G-d, here's a dead man!" "A dead man! Are you sure?" "He's dead all right, sir. Where's the flashlight? We've got to find out what this means." "Jones has it; Jones, come up here. Give me the flash."

"Crushed to a pulp." His head sank back helplessly, and his eyes closed. Carney and Jones rolled the last stone from off the imprisoned limbs, but he lay insensible. The three soldiers bore him out through the black passage to the entrance, and, with the assistance of those others outside, lifted his body over the rock barrier, between the clinging vines into the sunlight. Deborah never left his side, and as they placed the body on the short turf, his head rested again on her arm. The sergeant knelt, and felt the outstretched limbs. "Badly bruised, and perhaps crushed a bit," he said at last, "but I doubt if there is a bone broken. He'll be all right presently. One of you fellows bring a canteen. Now, miss, a little water will do the captain more good than anything else. What is it, Lieutenant?" "We can hardly move him at present, Sergeant. He'll have to rest awhile before he can ride. Perhaps we better search those bodies back there, and dispose of them in some way." "Very well, sir." They disappeared together, all but two troopers left on guard; below in the valley the troop horses grazed in the sunshine. Deborah, bathing the white face gently, waited with wildly beating heart. She was free, free, and Daniel Kelleen lived. There was nothing else in life to think about. He slowly opened his eyes, and smiled up at her, as though her being there was the most natural thing in the world. "The blue sky," he said, his voice trembling, "how beautiful it is. G—d! but it is good to get out of that hole, with dead men everywhere." "Yes," she replied, "but don't try to talk now; that is all over with." "But I want to talk," he insisted. "It keeps me from thinking; it makes me know it is all real—this blue sky, and you."

"Then if you must, tell me what happened; it seems almost a miracle." "It was a miracle, and I am not sure but you were God's messenger," he replied soberly. Then slowly, hesitatingly, prompted now and then by a question, he told his story, his voice growing stronger as he spoke. The guard sat on a rock a dozen feet away, their carbines between their knees, eyes on the deserted valley below. The girl bent over eagerly, seeking not to lose a word. At the end Kelleen asked suddenly: "The paper you took from the boy's hand—what was it?" "Only a map, very roughly drawn, and written on in Spanish. I could make little out of it—see." She held it out before him, a yellow, creased paper, looking a century old. He held it for a moment in his own hands, peering at the crisscross of lines impatiently. "Perhaps it was one Alvarez left," he said slowly, "and the boy had found it. He followed the rainbow to the end." "And we will never know?" "No; the end was death." They were quiet a long while; then his hand moved and touched her own. Her eyes, which had been on the valley, dropped, wonderingly to his face. "This is not all, it is—just to be alive again!" he asked softly. "I—I hardly know what you mean." "Back there in the tunnel," he insisted, "when I first looked up into your eyes I read a message; I want to read it again." "A message—are you sure?" "Yes, dear, I am sure; it was a message of love." She was no longer looking at him, and she caught her breath. Then their eyes met once more. "It is the same message always, Daniel Kelleen," she said simply. [THE END.]

hours, but the winners of the contest were two men, Antonio Cerolini and Ubaldo Monopoli, who after 37 hours, 50 minutes and 11 seconds were still awake and lively.

To Try to Scale Roof of Continent in Plane

Anchorage, Alaska.—Mount McKinley, the highest elevation on the North American continent, will be scaled, perhaps the first time soon, if the attempt of Carl E. Efron, former army aviator, and C. J. Lincks, Anchorage newspaper man, to land in an airplane on the frozen plateau at its summit proves successful. The start of the trip will be made at McKinley station, at the entrance to the park, where there is a natural landing field. Other landing places are also being located in various sections of the park, where additional fuel is being stored. Entering the park, they will spiral to an altitude of perhaps 25,000 feet, reconnoiter over the plateau, several miles square at the summit, and, if the ice permits, actually make a landing on the "roof of the continent," 20,300 feet above the sea.

Might Even Be Worse. The Sixth—Say, steward, that chattering parrot and the noisy elephant are keeping me awake. Can't you persuade them to go to sleep? Monk (the steward)—I fear it will do no good, sir. The parrot talks in his sleep and the elephant snores.

Queer Feelings

"Some time ago, I was very irregular," writes Mrs. Cora Robie, of Pikeville, Ky. "I suffered a great deal, and knew I must do something for this condition. I suffered mostly with my back and a weakness in my limbs. I would have dreadful headaches. I had hot flashes and very queer feelings, and oh, how my head hurt! I read of

The Woman's Tonic and of others, who seemed to have the same troubles I had, being benefited, so I began to use it. I found it most beneficial. I took several bottles... and was made so much better I didn't have any more trouble of this kind. It regulated me." Cardui has been found very helpful in the correction of many cases of painful female disorders, such as Mrs. Robie mentions above. If you suffer as she did, take Cardui—a purely vegetable, medicinal tonic, in use for more than 40 years. It should help you. Sold Everywhere. E 99

MEMPHIS' GROWTH The quality of a community can be accurately measured by its public utilities. We constantly keep our fingers on the business, home, and industrial pulse of this community. Every time Memphis adds a new family or business, our service responsibility grows. This is not a slogan; we make from time to time are evidences of the growth of the territory we serve. That the growth is constant and increasing is shown by the demands that are constantly being made for extensions and improvements in our service. A close-up of the growth of Memphis is seen in our extensions of service. Memphis Electric & Ice Company J. A. BREWER, Manager

Maid-servants from the Antilles were imported by a group of French women. However, they did not prove altogether satisfactory. A quarter of the Negroes made fairly good servants, but were inclined to be restless. Another quarter had to be repatriated. The remainder have fully lived up to the expectations of their employers. Hard-working Czecho-Slovak girls are now drifting into France as servants. They are hard working and know their value, which is far above that of the serving girls from Martinique.

The Red Lock

By DAVID ANDERSON

It is not possible to hint the theme or outline of this novel without disclosing the surprising thing which the author has held back, not only from the reader but from the actors in his drama as well.

But it can be said that, as in "The Blue Moon," David Anderson has gone again to his native soil, the Flatwoods, for his romance. He has portrayed again the men and women he knows, as a doctor knows his patients; he has once more painted the Wabash scenery with a brush of many colors, and has told as before a neighborhood drama of violent action and elemental emotions.
