WHAT DO YOU THINK? Local Opinions on Pertinent Topics.

THE QUESTION: What do you think about the Gold Medal Band?

THE ANSWERS:

R. S. GREENE: It's amazing how the youngsters have made such a wonderful showing in such a short time.

One of the most appealing features of the band is the youthfulness of the members and the quality of music they play. Where ever they go people remark about this. They expect good music from older players, but they don't from mere youngsters. They get the surprise of their lives when they first hear the Gold Medal Band.

A good deal of the credit goes to the members, but its leaders, W. C. Milam, must not be overlooked. He is the right man in the right place. He can get the cooperation and co-ordination of the Band members.

B. BALDWIN: The Gold Medal Band and W. C. Milam are to be complimented on their splendid work.

They are one of the main topics of conversation in the whole Panhandle region. Outsiders know Memphis because of the reputation the band has built up. Whenever people refer to Memphis they refer to it as the home of the Gold Medal Band.

I, particularly, enjoy hearing them play "The Old Grey Mare Ain't What She Used To Be."

H. J. RICE: An organization like the Gold Medal Band is not only beneficial to the community but to the members as well.

CLIFFORD LEMMON: A good band is an asset to any town, and this is just what the Gold Medal Band is to Memphis.

Looking at the band from a recreational stand point, it affords the people of Memphis many pleasant hours. From a business view point, we could have no better advertisement. Many times, when I have been traveling, I have had people ask me if I were from the same city as the Gold Medal Band. It was always with a great deal of pride that I answered "yes."

COLLECTOR OF REVENUE IN TALK HERE

Speaks to Rotarians; Rotary Ann Picnic Is Planned

Insisting that the Government is attempting to interest the "average people" by the placing of tax-free bonds within their reach—giving them an opportunity to "hold stock in their government"—W. A. Thomas, collector of internal revenue in the Dallas district, spoke at length to local Rotarians at noon today.

"In order to have an interest in something," he said, "you must have stock in it. The Government sees this; therefore, it is giving the average man a chance to buy stock in his Government."

Preceding this with a discussion of the tax problem, Mr. Thomas said: "I have little patience with the man who criticizes his Government, church or society, because we are all a part of these things and when we criticize them, it is a reflection on ourselves."

"It is a privilege to live under this government because it leads in every line of endeavor. No other can stand up with it, shoulder to shoulder, and survive."

"Revolutions come because large groups of people disassociate themselves with the ideals of the Government and become dissatisfied."

"One reason why we have a better government and a better society is because we have more room in which to develop. But as population grows more dense, the problems change and the government had to adapt itself in order to offer the advantages it should offer. And we have to pay for this advantage."

"It has become a hobby for people to cry about taxes; yet, we must pay for protection, increased privileges and pleasures. This dissatisfaction and these complaints would be wiped out if the people took an inventory of all the things they enjoy under our government that are not enjoyed in other countries."

Mr. Thomas has recently visited.

39 ATTEND KELLISON FAMILY REUNION AT NEWLIN SUNDAY

By MRS. FRED HEMPHILL
NEWLIN, Aug. 6.—A family reunion was held at the home here of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kellison Sunday.

"Grandmother" Kellison of Hollis, Okla., brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, children and grandchildren of the Kellison family began gathering at the home Saturday afternoon.

Nearly Sunday preparations were made for an outdoor picnic. Near the noon hour, the entire group drove to Haikberry Grove on the Smith Ranch and spread the bountiful feast in picnic style.

The entire day was spent in happy reminiscence of other days. The joyous occasion ended in the late afternoon, as the different families returned to their homes.

Those present were "Grandmother" H. M. Kellison, Mr. and Mrs. John Kellison and children, J. R. Donald and Leota, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Kellison, all of Hollis; Mr. and Mrs. Proffer and son, of Ferrington; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Curley, Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Curly and daughters, Mildred Jean and Betty June, of Meridian; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kellison and children, Taylor, Bertha Ann and Betty Sue, of Newlin; Mr. and Mrs. Moody McCulloch and children, Mary, Katherine, Susan and James, of Plainview; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davis and children, Barbara Ann and Marvin Alex, of McLean; Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Nelson and children, R. O. Lillian and Ray, of Newlin, and Hortense Lawrence and Eloise Elliott, of Newlin.

OVER 200 FROM COUNTY HEAR WALLACE

Demands Protection Equal to Tariff Benefits

Hall County had a large representation in Amarillo yesterday to hear Secretary of agriculture Wallace speak. F. V. Clark, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce estimated.

Mr. Clark said that in the neighborhood of 500 Memphis people met at the county agent's office yesterday morning and left from there in groups by automobiles for Amarillo and another delegation of about 100 persons went in school buses from Estelline. Many others went singly by car.

The audience of 4,000 people, who were on hand to hear the address, were from a radius of 200 miles. Among this number were quite a few women.

The assembly showed keen interest in the speech.

Secretary Wallace left for Washington last night concluding the series of such talks in the South and Southwest.

AMARILLO, Aug. 6.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace yesterday demanded protection for agriculture equal to that enjoyed by industry under the present tariff system.

Wallace declared farmers were entitled to the same benefits industry receives and that the farmers should be educated to fight for their rights of a tariff equivalent.

Charging that most of the criticism directed at the AAA program came from that section which had benefited most from the tariff, Wallace said that "if first should be asked that tariff give the same protection to the consumer as does the processing tax."

"Second, we should say he will do away with the processing tax if you will do away with the tariff."

Wallace said a statement in a previous address that tariff privileges should be taken from industry "was perhaps a little too hasty."

Band Returns From New Mexico 'Hills'

After a great vacation trip through northern New Mexico, 20 members of the Memphis Black and Gold Band and Director Cicero Milam returned home early this morning.

They left Santa Fe yesterday morning and arrived here at 12:30 a. m. today.

Despite the fact that the boys believed they had the biggest time and finest trip in their lives, they were glad to be back home. And many were the tales of adventure that were being told this morning!

Travel by Bus

Traveling by bus, the group covered a large area of northern New Mexico, from Raton to Santa Fe. They left Tres Ritos and went to Santa Fe Sunday, and left the New Mexico capital yesterday morning.

They reported nothing but pleasure on the entire journey. The only travel trouble was one flat tire, and it caused little concern since the tire went down while the band was in camp instead of while they were on the road.

"We had enough money to stay a couple of more days," Director Milam stated, "but it started raining a couple of days ago and since some of the boys were not prepared for that kind of weather, we decided to come on in."

Cook Version Differs

Ed Smith, one of the camp cooks, said that none of the boys were seriously affected by his cooking although one or two did get a little bit sick.

Mr. Milam contradicted this, however. He said that he did take two cooks along, but they had trouble boiling water since they could not build a fire. He claims to have done most of the cooking, aided by one or two of the older boys.

WORST TYPHOON IN YEARS HITS IN CHINA DISTRICT

AMOI, China, Aug. 6.—A second typhoon regarded as the worst in a quarter of a century struck Southern Fukien Province today.

It closely followed yesterday's hurricane and officials fear a terrific loss in life.

The storm today hit a heavily populated area 60 miles south of here.

All communications were destroyed, shrouding the details of deaths. A heavy destruction is feared.

Hsiwei, northwest of Chuanchow, was reported under 25 feet of water. A heavy loss of life was reported.

Talk of Old Timers Centered on Reunion

The talk of old timers all over Hall County today is centered upon the reunion of the county's old settlers here Friday.

And many of the pioneers, who haven't "swung around" for many, many days, are "practicing" for the old fashioned square dance that will climax the event here Friday night.

Several hundred old settlers—men and women who have lived in Hall County 25 years or longer—are expected to register for the occasion at 9 o'clock Friday morning at Carnegie Library Park.

Here all the festivities of the morning will take place. The program consists of talks, songs, band concerts, story-telling and a general discussion by old timers themselves.

At noon a big "feed" will be spread picnic style at the park. Everyone attending has only one requirement to be eligible for the banquet—a well filled food basket.

All the food will be spread together. In addition, barbecue will be served the old timers. Since the crowd is expected to be so large that it would be impossible to furnish barbecue for everyone, the old settlers will come first—and if there's any left, don't crowd too closely, folks!

All Invited

Local sponsors have abandoned the idea of having a general "appreciation day" celebration and program during the afternoon since sufficient entertainment could not be provided at this time.

But everyone is urged to attend the square dance Friday night. It will be held in the open—in a roped-off portion of the courthouse square. There will be plenty of fun for everyone, whether dancers or onlookers.

IL DUCE CALLS MOBILIZATION OF 75,000 MEN

ROME, Aug. 6.—Premier Mussolini, today, called 75,000 more men to arms "as the consequence of heavy Ethiopian mobilization."

He ordered the mobilization of two regular army divisions and one volunteer Fascist Black-Shirt division.

This mobilization brought the number of divisions sent to East Africa or in training to a seven regular army and six Black-shirt militia.

It is estimated that this order brings Italy's white forces in Eritrea and Italian Somaliland to 195,000.

Attempt To Hook Bonus Onto Tax Bill Is Blocked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—A decision to block efforts to attach bonus payment of other "extraneous" issues to Roosevelt's tax bill was reached today by Senate Democratic leaders.

At the same time, it was agreed to give bonus legislation a preferred status next session.

Earlier, Robert H. Jackson, internal revenue bureau counsel told the Senate committee considering the tax bill that added revenue to go toward balancing the budget and paying the cost of fighting the depression should be contributed by the "preparatory class" according to its ability to pay.

He declared there has been a "general conspiracy" among the rich to evade taxes heretofore.

SCHOOL BOARD IS IN SESSION TODAY

The Hall County School Board is in session here today. The meeting started at 9 o'clock this morning in the county superintendent's office.

The changing of old bus routes and the opening up of new ones and the final classification of schools were the main problems before the board today, H. W. Kuhn, president, has announced.

Patrons and school people having questions to be decided by the board were expected to appear for decisions today.

Local Store To Have New Front

Another building in Memphis is being modernized.

Construction work was started this morning on Hamilton's Variety Store. The whole exterior of the building will undergo a complete change.

The familiar old red pillars will be removed and a new modern front will take their place. A new awning will be built and a concrete entrance will lead into the store.

The present window space is to be cut down and set back giving the store a much larger entrance.

Mr. Hamilton said that he expects the work to be completed Friday.

After the remodeling, Mr. Hamilton said that he was going to market to restock his entire store for fall business.

Water Employees Hold District Safety Meeting

Community Public Service Company employees of Memphis and Estelline districts held a picnic and safety meeting last night at Estelline, celebrating "no accidents" during the first six months of 1935.

The Memphis-Estelline district has an outstanding record for the past five years, having only two minor accidents, coming in 1930 and 1931.

Safety Director W. J. Millican of Fort Worth and Mrs. Millican attended the meeting, commending the employees for this record.

After the picnic lunch was served, an interesting program was given. Roy Fultz, manager of the local office, thanked each employee for his cooperation and successful safety work. He introduced Mr. Mullican, who gave an interesting and instructive talk on safety and conducted a questionnaire on hazards.

The following program was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carr: Violin solo, Dorothy Dewlin, with Betty Johnson at the piano; reading, Mary Ruth Anderson; tap dance, Betty Frances Fultz; reading, Edna Dewlin, medley of popular tunes, Nell McNeely.

Those attending the meeting included Mr. and Mrs. Mullican, Mr. and Mrs. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Fultz, A. Dewlin, T. J. Martin, Miss Mamie Bakke, Miss Nell McNeely, Dorothy Sue and Betty Frances Fultz, Edna and Dorothy Dewlin, Betty Johnson and Mary Ruth Anderson.

OLD SETTLERS EDITION WILL MARK REUNION

On Thursday, Aug. 8, The Daily Democrat will honor the Old Settlers of Hall County, who will gather here Friday for the annual reunion of the Hall County Old Settlers Association.

The Daily Democrat not only will be dedicated to the old timers who assisted in starting the Upper Red River Valley on its way to prominence and helped it to attain a high position; it will carry many stories and other reading matter of interest concerning the old days in Hall County.

Accounts of early experiences in this territory, written by many prominent Old Settlers themselves, will be the feature of the entire edition. Feature stories on early day events also will be displayed prominently.

The official program for the Old Settlers Reunion will be given.

TO ADVERTISERS

The Old Settlers Edition of the Daily Democrat gives you an opportunity to get in direct touch with every Old Timer in the county, as well as many other readers. Since the "Good Old Days" the necessity of direct connections with the buying public has not changed.

You'll want to tell the Old Settlers your own story in this edition. Call 15 and an advertising representative will call on you. Ad copy must be in not later than 6 p. m. Wednesday.

PRICE PEGGING

AGAIN the AAA is under fire as strong political pressure for a 12-cent loan to help peg 1935 cotton prices descended upon the heads of farm administration officials. While we thought that the pegging of the price was definite, some of the AAA bosses were disclosed to doubt the advisability of any loan at all. Others believed, however, that a loan of from 10 to 12 cents may be authorized. The amount of the loan, if any, probably will be announced shortly after the first government estimate of 1935 crop production, which will be made late this week.

What worries the AAA is the possibility that with the cotton loan policy, the AAA and the Commodity Credit Corporation may find themselves confronted with the same situation which gained criticism for the old farm board, it was reported. The Commodity Credit Corporation advanced directly, or has guaranteed through private agencies, 12-cent loans totaling nearly three million dollars on 4,454,939 bales of cotton. And these figures do not include advances made on cotton held by the producers' pool. The pool has 675,000 bales of spot cotton and 933,000 bales of futures.

The loans were due early this year but were extended until February 1. Some officials said they did not believe the government would be repaid unless the price of cotton reached 13 cents a pound. Another problem, described as "delicate," is likely to face the administration. Although the Bankhead allotment this year is 10,983,264 bales, some observers estimate that the crop will run as high as 12,000,000 bales. The carry-over of American cotton August 1 was $300,000. In order to clear the dock and get a fresh start all the way around, it seems that the heavy carry-over is going to have to be done away with, and cheap foreign markets seem to be the only answer.

SUN-TAN

BY NARD JONES © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JO DARIEN, finishing her first year in college, learns her father is out of work. Jo hunts a job and secures part time work in a marine supply store. There she meets wealthy, handsome DOUGLAS MARSH who offers her the job of hostess at his inn at Crest Lake. Jo accepts. This causes a quarrel with BRET PAUL to whom she is engaged and Jo breaks the engagement. Fragonet tells her she loves her and begs her to marry him as soon as he can secure a divorce. He goes to Hollywood, promising to return anon.

Bret Paul comes to Crest Lake as the life guard. Fragonet's company decide to make part of a picture at Crest Lake SILAS DRANN, director, and several others arrive. Jo, taking a walk one evening, encounters Bret. He questions her about Fragonet and they quarrel. Next morning Fragonet calls Jo and asks her to have breakfast with him.

CHAPTER XXVII

Tubby glanced at Jo apprehensively. "Who was that? Peter Fragonet?"
"Yes... we're having breakfast with him."
"So I heard," said Tubby. "But you can count me out."
"Nonsense, Tubby! I want you to come."
But the buxom Davis girl shook her head stubbornly. "Not I. You remember I sat down at the table with one of these movie men, and he told me about my figure."
"Oh, that was Silas Drann," laughed Jo. "Peter Fragonet's not like that."
"Nevertheless I'll take no chances," Tubby insisted. "You just skip along downstairs, and you tell Mr. Fragonet I forgot I wanted to take a morning walk before my bacon and eggs and toast."
"Jo knew better than to argue further, and when she met Fragonet in the lobby of the Inn it was without the comfort of her friend. The actor, dressed in slacks and a heavy sweater, hurried forward smiling.
"It's good to see you again, Jo..." He took her hand, held it so long that Jo grew embarrassed before the alert gaze of Peyton, behind the desk of the lobby. "Please tell me you're us," Fragonet invited. "Have Drann and his crew been driving your guests away?"

"On the contrary, they've attracted them. And of course there are the usual curious females who are mighty disappointed to learn you didn't come up with the rest of the company."
Fragonet laughed easily. "That's one of the reasons why I didn't come up with the rest of the company."
"You know," said Marsh, winking slyly at Jo, "it must be awful to have to fight off women like Pete does."

Involuntarily, Jo reddened. Marsh saw her embarrassment and was instantly contrite. He stammered for a moment and then blurted out, "I didn't mean anything by that crack, Pete." He faltered again, and then rushed on, "We're all friends. Suppose I stop being a polite fool and we discuss this thing. Is Edna going to divorce you?"
"I beg your pardon, Mr. Marsh," interrupted Jo quickly. "Suppose we don't discuss it. You see, I'd really rather not. And there's nothing to discuss anyway."

It was Marsh's turn to grow red. "I'm sorry, Jo. It was only that I'd made a rather foolish remark and was trying to pull out of it."
"That's something a fellow should never try to do," laughed Fragonet cheerfully. Abruptly he steered the conversation into safer channels. "Drann tells me he's going to shoot a few scenes this afternoon. You two had better come down and watch. He may go temperamental before he's through and exclude all on-lookers—even the owner of the place!"
"What time's the shooting?"
"About two, I believe Drann said."
"Good!" exclaimed Marsh. "That's a date for 2 o'clock, Jo."

Marsh was waiting for her on the veranda when Jo appeared at two that afternoon. Tossing his cigarette away, he slid down from the railing and walked to meet her.
"I was afraid you might let me down," he told her. "I was such a fool this morning. But I'm a frank sort of cuss, and it seemed so silly for us to sit there and pretend."
Jo walked down the steps and out on the lawn in silence. Marsh added, "I'll admit it's something for you and Pete to decide, Jo. But, confound it, I feel rather responsible for you."
"Thank you."

"I mean it, I—I want you both to be sure of yourselves before you tie together, if that's what you're really thinking of."
"I haven't thought about it at all," Jo told him, shading her eyes to gain a better view of the lake shore where Drann and his company were already assembled.

Marsh sensed that her mood of the morning had not changed, that she still preferred not to talk about Peter Fragonet. The realization troubled him vaguely, made him feel shut out from Jo Darien and her life. He wondered just when his real interest in that life had begun—whether it was on that first night at the Olympic Bowl, or later. Perhaps, he told himself, it began on the road to the Lone Tree Tavern, the magic night he had taken Jo in his arms.

His disturbing thoughts were diverted as he and Jo drew closer to the shore of the lake where body for it. Every quarter min-Drann's carpenters had built a replica of a forester's cabin. The interior was unfurnished, and used as a storehouse for the sound and camera equipment, as the scenes in the interior of the cabin would be filmed at the Atlas lot in Hollywood. But the exterior was perfect, even to the tin wash basin hanging by the door, and the wash bench with its cake of well-used soap.

Ranged in a semi-circle about the front of the cabin were Drann and his assistants, some lolling in canvas chairs, others running nervously here and there but always somehow gravitating near the chair marked in huge white letters, "SILAS DRANN." Two cameras were set up behind him, and projecting out on a long crane-like arm was the black cylinder which Jo guessed to be the "mike" to catch the dialogue.

Something had gone wrong, something was missing, and, quite evidently, Drann had sent some- to the shore of the lake where body for it. Every quarter min-Drann's carpenters had built a his chair and yell, "What fellow? Where is he, and nobody paid much attention to her. Lolita Montez sat rigid on her canvas chair with a sheet of written pages on her lap. Her lips were moving silently, occasionally she referred to the typewritten script. Then, as Jo Miss Montez nodded and shoved the script into the side of the chair, she said, "Today, in riding and a snug suede jacket, she looked more sleek than ever."

Jo and Marsh had an ever-growing circle of curious and wide-eyed on-lookers. Drann and his outfit were conscious of the stares they gave no sign of it. As the minutes passed and nothing happened, Miss Montez rose from her chair and moved around behind the camera. (To Be Continued)

 WELLINGTON, Aug. 6—Behind the four-hit pitching of the veteran Jack Knight, the Wellington Gassers Sunday shut out the Rolla Tigers for their second straight win over the rural club. The score was 8 to 0.

The Gassers pounced on Anders in the first frame, driving in four runs on as many hits, all for extra bases, and a free pass to first. They continued in the second with a pair of runs, and then slowed down against Tabers, who replaced Anders on the mound, to score singly in the fourth and eighth.

Knight kept the visitors' four hits well scattered, no two coming in the same frame, and only two men reached third base.

Next Sunday Wellington invades Memphis for the clubs' final meeting on the regular schedule.

he said, but coming home he treated the boys to "prepared meals" that cost him $13.

The boys had plenty to eat. But it took a little time to get straightened out. For example: Mr. Milam started out to scramble the eggs for breakfast. He cooked "two or three dozen," but the first two or three boys to help themselves got most of 'em and the others had no eggs. So after that, he fried the eggs so everyone would get his share.

'Oh's' and 'Ah's'

As soon as they hit the mountains, over Raton Pass, the boys scattered all over the mountain. Mr. Milam said. He never heard so many "oh's" and "ah's" in his life. Two groups went to the snow line.

The band played concerts to appreciative audiences at Taos, Tres Ritos and other places. The people enjoyed the concerts very much, the group reported, and a number of experienced musicians said, "How do you do it with a bunch of youngsters?" to Director Milam.

They also played a concert on an Indian reservation, but, as Mr. Milam stated, "not being able to understand Indian language, we don't know what they had to say about it." However, he added, they were attentive and seemed Keep Memphis Area Money in Memphis Area! Help Build Up Our Territory . . . Not Some Other!

Pounds Cafe Always Pleases Hungry Public

"Memphis' Leading Cafe" is the title which has been enjoyed by the Pounds Cafe ever since its establishment in this city, and the service given at this favorite eating place is an assurance that it will hold the title for a long time to come.

Under the management of Mrs. Ara Matlock, who has had years of experience in catering to the hungry public, the Pounds has steadily grown in favor with our folks. In addition, its praises are sung by traveling men and occasional visitors who dine there while in the city.

Started as a small cafe several years ago, in the Pounds Hotel Building, improvement of the equipment has never ceased, until now, in larger quarters and with the finest of equipment, it ranks among the best equipped cafes in Northwest Texas.

Not only is its cuisine splendid, but there is a restful air about the Pounds that is conducive to pleasant satisfaction of your hunger.

Cooled by an efficient system of large fans, the Pounds is one of the coolest places in the city, and you can enjoy your meal in comfort in even the hottest weather.

The staff at the Pounds is comprised of people experienced in their line of work. The chef and his assistants are master artists in preparing tempting and appetizing dishes, and the waiters go about their duties with an air of knowing their business which is appreciated by those who like to dine in comfort.

Next to home, there is no nicer place to eat than the Pounds Cafe.

A daily average of more than $5,000,000 was loaned by the Farm Credit Administration in 1934.

Doss Cleaning Plant Is Most Modern in City

The heart of any dry cleaning business is its cleaning equipment, and the work done by any cleaner is no better than the machinery installed to do the work.

Realizing this, Leonard Doss has one of the finest dry cleaning plants to be found in Northwest Texas and probably the best of any city of the size of Memphis in the entire state.

People should be very careful about their nicest garments, as there is a lot of money invested in them, and should know more about how they are cared for in renovating them. Doss has one piece of equipment for this work that cost $1500. It acts as a vacuum cleaner. Fresh, filtered air is blown through your clothes. This is quite an improvement over the use of a dry room, where your clothes are hung in a stuffy hot room with any and everybody's clothing.

Don't take your cleaner's word for the type of equipment he has. Go and look it over. Doss invites the public to inspect his cleaning plant at any time.

Send your next batch of cleaning work to Doss and see for yourself what modern equipment will do. You'll hardly know your own clothes when they come back, they will be so light and fluffy and clean—just like new.

Modern Equipment PLUS Modern Methods

are what make dry cleaning work from this stand out. Compare work with any other visit our cleaning plant and see what a real cleaning plant is.
