Young Generation' Is By Dr. Knapp F. A. Banquet

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech, was the inspirational speaker for the second annual banquet of the Memphis Chapter Future Farmers of America Tuesday night at the Memphis Hotel banquet hall. There were about 125 present, including the chapter members, their fathers, sponsors, and visitors in attendance.

"It was men who made Texas: not oil, not good land, not good crops, not climate, not fine buildings and money; but men who had the courage to pioneer and develop an empire out of a plains country," Dr. Knapp said in beginning his address which was one of inspiration and forcefulness. Continuing he stated that we overlook the things of most importance in the development of a country—the coming generation. Assets of a country are not measured by industries and power, but by the type and character of men who make the country. The same qualities that made Texas and the same courage that made the development of the plains are the things that will continue.

Operetta, 'Masked Riders', To Be Season's Best

Twenty People To Take Part In Romantic Musical Affair To Aid Community Project

For those who like a touch of the romantic the operetta "Masked Riders" is a definite panacea. The story deals with a group of men headed by the fearless "Captain Joe" of Civil War fame who attempted to regain the Rancho Rivera for Don Jose Ramon Rivera, scion of an old Castilian family. The time of the action is about 1870 when the nation is being gripped by the first transcontinental train. The place is romantic California during the Spanish influence.

Music is under the direction of Mary Helen Hardin, who will also sing the feminine lead in the operetta. Playing opposite her will be Harry Delaney in the double role of Don Jose Ramon Rivera and Captain Joe of the Masked Riders. Other parts in the operetta are being taken by Mildred Phelan, Mary Foreman, Mrs. Landrum Stanford, H. J. Gore, W. C. Davis, Guthrie Bennett, Jack McClendon, and H. R. Crawford.

A group of 20 will compose the chorus. The songs sung by this group are characteristic of the Spanish influence so dominant in the operetta. The orchestra is under the supervision of Milton Pullis. Mrs. Beckett, art teacher of the Memphis schools, is planning the stage decorations. Mary Helen Hardin is designing the sets. Dances are under the able direction of Ann Carter Gilpin who will also dance "Nautch" as a solo in the fiesta scene of the operetta. Carl Nuhn has charge of the lights and lighting effects. Margaret Morgan is accompanist for the production.

A twenty-minute intermission between the second and third act will give the guests an opportunity to visit the Cafe Theatre which will be under the supervision of Miss Rachel Deahl. Here the men will have a place to smoke and buy the ladies sandwiches, coffee or cold drinks. The Cafe Theatre will be decorated to carry out the same color scheme and style used in the operetta. Music will be furnished during this recess.

Since this operetta is being given so that the school might equip the stage of the auditorium, this has assumed the nature of a community project. Various women's clubs in town have voted to sponsor the Cafe Theatre and the Rotary Club will have charge of the ticket sales. Tickets will be on sale by Friday of this week. Help your school, help your town, and help yourself to a wonderful time by coming to see "Masked Riders" Friday, February 25.

Farm Surplus Control Bill Is Signed Wednesday By F.D.R.

The long-awaited farm measure has been passed by Congress and has been approved by President Roosevelt, making it effective for the 1938 crop year, according to advices from Washington.

As finally approved by Congress the measure seeks to stabilize prices and production of major farm commodities in an all-weather program extending the scope of the present soil conservation act. It is to be financed with $440,000,000 available annually under the soil conservation legislation which was enacted after the AAA was invalidated.

It provides for control of wheat, corn, cotton, rice and tobacco crops through acreage allotments in normal years, and for a system of marketing quotas and penalty taxes which must be approved in national referenda by two thirds of the affected farmers during bumper crop periods.

The measure provides:

1. Authority to the Commodity Credit Corporation to make loans on farm crops when huge surpluses deflate prices. The commodities would be restored under an ever normal granary plan during the bumper years for use during lean periods to assure a plentiful supply and reasonable prices to the consumer.
2. For a $100,000,000 Federal Insurance Corporation to underwrite wheat crops against damage or destruction by natural causes and authority to buy them when necessary to stabilize prices and supply.
3. For limitation of benefit payments to $10,000 annually per farmer if he co-operates in the program. A total of $50,000,000 of the available funds is earmarked for increasing the scale to little farmers.
4. Authority to the Commodity Credit Corporation to take over 1937 cotton on which loans may be made at 9c per pound up to July 1, and payment of additional subsidies of 2c per pound if the grower agrees to cooperate in the new program. The loans could be extended until July 1, 1939.

Two Hall County Men Are Injured In Auto Accident

D. E. Travis, C. E. Culver In Hospitals Here; Collision On Highway Monday Night

An accident occurred Monday night about 11 o'clock on Highway 5 near McQueen's filling station some five miles south of town, when the cars driven by D. E. Travis of Parnell going south and C. E. Culver of Memphis coming north had a head-on collision.

Cause of the accident was accredited to foggy weather, which prevented the drivers from seeing each other. Both Travis and Culver were knocked unconscious and were brought to Memphis hospitals. Travis sustained a broken leg and some minor cuts and bruises, and is recovering nicely. Culver received some severe gashes and did not regain consciousness till late Tuesday. Doctors say he is now in no immediate danger and that they think a complete recovery probable.

Both cars were damaged to a considerable extent. Travis, mail carrier at Parnell, was returning home from Memphis after having been presented with a seven-pound baby girl. He was back at the hospital approximately thirty minutes after having left it.

Game Preserve Is Helping Maintain County Wildlife

The four and three-quarter sections of game preserve land in Hall County is proving very successful in maintaining and restoring wildlife, according to R. E. L. Pattillo, county agent.

One of the four owners of the game preserve stated recently that when he began preserving wildlife on his land there were only about 50 birds on his entire farm. At present, there are about 550 birds on the farm, he estimated. Each of the owners of the game preserve join in asking their neighbors and friends to cooperate in protecting the wildlife in Hall County, the county agent said.

Pattillo believes that with the cooperation of the landowners and hunters in Hall County, wildlife can be restored to the extent that it will furnish plenty of sport and some revenue to all concerned.

'Fat and Forty' Race Is Scheduled For Relays Here

75 Yard Dash For Middle-Aged Heavyweights Included In Events at Cap Rock Relays

A special feature was this week added to the second annual Cap Rock Relays to be held in Memphis April 15-16. School officials announced that they will award a beautiful trophy to the winner of a 75-yard dash by men over 40 years of age and weighing over 200 pounds.

Any town sending high school representatives to compete in the relays may also send a group to enter the "fat and forty" competition, providing the following requirements are met: Must be 40 years of age or over, weigh 200 pounds or more, must have been in training at least twelve hours, and must wear in the race either a bathing suit or short-legged pajamas.

Further plans in the track, debate, and hand division of the relays are rapidly materializing, according to Frank Hubbell, Wilson Dees, Clinton Voyles, and Milton Pullis, directors. Indications point to one of the most successful tournaments ever held in this city.

Farmers Sign Applications

The County agent's office has been flooded with farmers during the past week, who were signing application blanks for checks for compliance with the 1937 Soil Conservation Program.

County Agent R. E. L. Pattillo stated that another shipment of 400 application blanks were due any time.

WORK THAT MADE 25 PER CENT CROP GAIN

Terraces and strip cropping of grain sorghums and cotton which resulted in a 25 cent increase in yields in 1937 for J. W. Burk, who is operating the C. L. Rushing farm near Newlin, in Hall County. In previous years Burk found that farming on the general contour resulted in dry and wet spots in his field and a spotted stand of crops. In 1937, with water held evenly over his field, he produced 42 bales of cotton on 87 acres, and a half ton of milo maize to the acre. At the same time he stabilized his field against wind and water erosion.

HALL COUNTY FARMER PROVES TERRACING PAYS IN YIELDS

Terraces which held the subnormal rainfall of 1937 evenly over the field of J. W. Burk, located a mile east of Newlin, resulted in a 25 per cent increase in yields of cotton and grain sorghums grown in strips, that farmer has informed J. T. Reese, superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service demonstration camp near Memphis, according to an exclusive story carried by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Monday morning of this week.

Burk reports that he gained 42 bales of cotton from 87 acres and that he harvested approximately a half ton of milo maize to the acre. These yields, the farmer says, are a gain of 25 per cent over the 1936 crops, when the field was farmed on the general contour.

The farm, which is owned by C. L. Rushing, has a slope of from 5 to 6 per cent and has been in cultivation 20 years or more, the owner says.

In 1936 Burk farmed the field on the general contour. He says: "My contour survey lines were too far apart and left the rows with high points, which allowed the water to drain away. This resulted in dry spots, while other parts of the field where the water had accumulated were too wet to plant."

When the farmer and land owner decided to adopt a program of soil and water conservation practices early in 1937 in co-operation with the Soil Conservation Service, (Continued on page 5)

JUST A-RIDIN'

The Texas cowboy ends every "ridin'" day with a pot of coffee brought to steaming fragrance by the embers of his camp fire. The chances are more than even that today, he fills his pot with Admiration, because this Texas coffee has become the largest selling brand in the state. Such sales can mean only one thing—people LIKE it. And whether you buy it at a commissary or at your corner grocery, Admiration is fresh, delivered to the point of sale direct from one of the roasting plants, by fast truck. You, too, should try Admiration . . . it's the thing in Texas.

This is one of a series of advertisements finding inspiration in the authentic, original cowboy ballads. Selections are from the John A. Lomas collection.

Just a-ridin', just a-ridin',
Desert apples in the sun,
Mountains blue along the skyline,
I don't envy anyone.

My feet are in the stirrups
My horse is on the bust;
His boots are flashin' lightning
In a golden cloud of dust;
I'm bowlin' to the cattle
Down the wind,
I might hard to find.

Just a-ridin', just a-ridin',
Splittin' long cracks in the air,
I'm ridin' up a baby cyclone,
I'm ridin' up the prickly pear.

The centerpiece was a bouquet of crystal cellophane covered with red and silver hearts. The favors which still helped to carry out the chosen motif were old fashioned corsages for the girls and boutonniere for the boys.

MEMPHIS MAY HONOR MRS. F. D. ROOSEVELT

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT is just like any other woman, except that she is the wife of the President of the United States. She is perhaps no better wife, mother, grandmother or mother-in-law than hundreds of thousands of other women, but the fact remains that she is America's First Lady.

Paying honor to nobility is an age-old custom of man. The Greeks looked up to their Gods; Americans look up to their President and his family. And, as little as Memphians might have thought of it, this city may soon have its first chance to pay honor to a President's wife.

Mrs. Roosevelt has accepted an invitation to come to Texas this spring and speak at Wichita Falls, under the sponsorship of the Business and Professional Woman's Club. From that city Mrs. Roosevelt goes to Amarillo where she will be honored on Mother-in-Law Day. The Democrat knows nothing of the lady's traveling plans. But, to go from Wichita Falls to Amarillo, either by rail or motor, one must pass through Memphis.

An investigation is in order, and if Mrs. Roosevelt is to pass this way she should be honored with the presentation of something expressing warmth and appreciation. A bouquet of roses is out of the question, for Amarillo is doing that in a big way. Memphis should give something original . . . and something the First Lady will appreciate . . . if she comes this way.

LEARN LITTLE FROM EXPERIENCE

THE DEMOCRAT'S NEA news service quotes Robert H. Jackson, nominee for United States solicitor-general, as saying that business has learned little since the crash of 1929. His belief further depresses the old adage that "experience is a great teacher."

Businessmen who cut their advertising during the depression, because they considered it "an overhead", were the first to suffer heavy indebtedness, if not complete bankruptcy. On the other hand, chains of retail stores, who have made their names nationally famous through their alertness to advertise, glided through the depression years with only little decline in their average gross business.

No doubt, the advertiser laughs at the non-advertiser. The advertiser knows that after all there is really little difference in the two firm's wares. But, advertising bridges the gap between customers and wares.

A bridge that nets the builder continuous revenue is never considered "an overhead". It's an investment, just as much as the stock on the store's shelves is an investment.

Many businessmen within the reading area of this editorial are still laboring under the opinion that they "can't stand the overhead" of building a bridge to their would-be customers. Experience and observation hasn't altered their prejudice views, and The Democrat doesn't expect to find said businessmen reading this or any other editorial, in which the theme is "invest money to make money . . . advertise".

FLOOD CONTROL BOARD IN WASHINGTON

WITHIN A FEW WEEKS citizens of the three counties composing the Upper Red River Valley Flood Control and Irrigation District will know if the proposed dam and lake, near Antelope Flat, is to receive the serious attention of federal authorities. A committee of the agency will leave shortly for Washington where plans will be presented to rivers and harbors committee of Congress.

If the plans are approved, then bright hopes will burn in the hearts of citizens of Hall, Childress and Briscoe counties. Hopes that may be further kindled if the engineers report favorable findings from their examinations. There is time enough for the remainder of the story, after these hopes come true.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

Paragraphs From Panhandle Press

Culled From The Democrat Exchanges

Says John Gould, Wichita Daily Times columnist, concerning Abraham Lincoln:

I have the hope, in ignoring the propaganda—and it is hard to call it anything else—in the school books, that today's children will some time be enabled to get a clear, fair view of the man, a view uncolored by partisan propaganda, over-emphasis on martyrdom, or sectional prejudice.

When such a view is made available, I believe it will partake of these considerations, among others:

That the most nearly sublime thing in Lincoln's career is the fact that he was able to emerge from an environment that was utterly unpromising . . .

That the political party which elected him has long since forsaken every article in his political creed, that its leaders turned, literally, from his deathbed to put into effect the harsh measures he had opposed, and that it is hypocrisy, nothing else, for that party today to try to capitalize his fame.

That no other man in the world's history died at such a time and in such a way as to make his fame profit so greatly by death. The leaders of his own party were preparing to tear him to pieces . . . . Death spared Lincoln a struggle from which he would have emerged, even if victorious, with many stains and scars.

That as president he has been grossly over-rated. Making allowance for his democratic spirit, his strength of character, his kindness, his sense of humor, his shrewd, calculating political sense, and all the rest of it, there was little in his official conduct to stamp him as a president of more than average ability.

That there was nothing saintly about him, either in private or public life, and that he was much too human an individual for the idea of saintliness to attend his memory.

No American political figure is as sorely in need of a thorough, ruthless debunking as he.

Solidarity
Ever so often, the proposal, based on the treaty by which Texas became a state permitting subdivision into five states, some group in a locality agitates the creation of a separate state.

Vice President Garner has given support to the idea from the viewpoint that Texas might have 10 United States senators instead of two.

It is argued that Texas could give away enough area for one or two states and still be by far the biggest state.

There is no real sentiment for a new state in the Rio Grande Valley, in West Texas, in the Panhandle, or anywhere else. There is a very strong and almost unanimous sentiment against dividing the state.

Practical considerations alone would block any split-up of Texas. The university could not permit its lands to be alienated into another state without compensation. There would be endless squabbles about the assumption of a proper share of the state's deficit.

But the main point is the solidarity of Texas sentiment that would block any effort toward the secession of the Rio Grande Valley or any other part of the Lone Star empire.—Wichita Falls Record News.

Unveiling
A columnist comes clean. Three-fourths of the town already knew who she was and the other fourth was making such accurate I-betcha-I-can-guess-whos that there seemed to be no further point in "concealing" her identity.

The daughter of an editor, she has dabbled in printer's ink ever since the time she began crawling on all fours. The ink sank deep into her veins and early dyed her thoughts with the love of print. For the past 17 issues, she has been head-lined in all appearances of the News-Chronicle simply as the "Scribbler," a nameless observer, a wanderer among memories. But today she removes the mask which concealed her well at first but not for long. Henceforth, when we sit down to a feast at her front page table, at the head her place-card will read: "By Bertie E. Haskett."—Wells Burton in Childress County News.

Bubbled Over
When the group of so-called "little business" men assembled in Washington on invitation of the administration to present their views of the needs of "little business," they all wanted the floor at once.

There are two reasons why they acted as might have been expected: They followed the example of Congress; and they had waited so long for an opportunity to say their say that it just bubbled over. Probably the soundest advice from any other group was heard when "little business" finally got its label reduced to a few brief resolutions. The boys from the forks of the creek know more about the nation's needs and the fundamental laws that govern than any other one group, not excepting the "brain trusters."—The Clarendon News.

Eulogy
Those of us who recall that red-dish colored Texas History of some 44 years ago may be surprised to know that the author, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, died just last week. The fall of the Alamo, San Jacinto, and many other interesting events recorded in that much loved history book supplied debating subjects for many a Friday afternoon in the rural schools of the early 90's. Mrs. Pennybacker led an eventful life filled with service to the people of her great state. After the death of her husband in 1904, she again entered the school room to support her family. Fourteen years of excellent service was given to the children of Texas. She began as teacher at the age of 17 in the early 80's. No more gifted woman ever spoke from the public platform in Texas. As a leader in women's club work, her work was praised highly. She served as president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs from 1912 to 1916. But after all, I like her best because she taught me the value of early Texas history when I studied that book with the dark red back away back there in 1896.—The Apostle in The Donley County Leader.

Sheer Necessity
By next week the farm bill may be a law. In most respects it may be satisfactory, but there is one thing that stands out quite clearly. Because they were organized the dairy farmers of the North and Middle West had their interests protected. It can be a blow to diversified farming in this section. Some day the farmers of the south are going to learn to work together, but I have no great hope of it happening soon. It will happen as the result of sheer necessity.—Deskins Wells in The Wellington Leader.

Oh!
It was a pleasant, tidy room with white lace curtains and two buckets of ferns in the window. The walls were festooned with a sweet, courageous odor, of snuff.—"Trail Dust" in Matador Tribune.

Farm Friends

About People and Things . . . Here 'n There

Greater consumption and greater production at lower costs were termed as the greatest needs of the farmer of today by J. W. Evans, vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Evans asserted that never before had the people of smaller communities enjoyed the advantages over the industrial centers as they do today, with lower costs of all kinds.

The principal reason for the decrease in the sale of Texas cotton in foreign markets, Evans contended, was the lack of quality and length of staple. Though the market in foreign countries for Texas cotton has decreased, American cotton exports as a whole in 1937 showed a slight gain of 270,000 bales over the shipments in 1936.

D. H. Davenport, a resident of Lakeview for the past 49 years and a true Hall County pioneer, was in Amarillo last week for the D. L. McDonald sale. Davenport settled on his ranch near Lakeview in 1889, just 14 months before Hall County was organized. In addition to the ranch at Lakeview, Davenport is owner of a 16 1/2 section ranch, 24 miles northwest of Clovis, N. Mex. The ranch has been leased for the past 10 years to the Horney Brothers of Clovis.

W. V. Baker, who has lived in this vicinity for the past 20 years, believes that following the Soil Conservation program has proved very profitable to him. Baker, who owns a 200-acre farm four miles north of Memphis, has terraced and contoured all of his land, and asserted that it had repaid him in large measure. Baker believes that the farmer will be better fixed financially this year than previously, for it will not be necessary for many to buy feed. He made plenty of feed to take care of his stock during this year, and made one-third of a bale of cotton per acre. "I intend to begin listing my land as soon as the weather permits," he said, "because I believe that the sooner land is plowed, the more

CHAMBER CHATS

By CARROLL SMYERS

And you said that you overheard two men talking on the street last Saturday about the Chamber of Commerce, and that one of them remarked that he hoped "they" would put the Chamber of Commerce over. "They" have had a pretty hard time of making "it" go the last few years. Yes, my friend, and that is just the trouble. The Chamber of Commerce has been looked on by most individuals as "it," "they" and "their," until the ones upon whom the Chamber of Commerce depends for its success have separated themselves entirely from it. Those men whom you referred to as talking about "it" and "they" did not seem to realize each person was just as much a part of the organization as "they" were. Do you mind if I ask you a point blank question? How do you think about YOURSELF in connection with the Chamber of Commerce? Do you look upon yourself as a part of it, or do you content yourself with saying it is a good thing which "they" ought to support? The success of any chamber of commerce depends upon the cooperation of the people of that community.

But you say you have never been given an opportunity to have any "say" in the Chamber of Commerce, that your opinion has never been asked for, that your suggestions about the Chamber of Commerce have never been requested. But that chance is coming to you. Your opportunity has arrived. You can have your "say". The Chamber of Commerce has always been a democratic organization, always working for the good of the community, but beginning in about two weeks there will be held a series of open forums, open to everyone, for the purpose of discussing important community problems that can be solved through your Chamber of Commerce. This Chamber of Commerce must be democratic. Your opinions, your suggestions, and your helpful criticisms are welcomed.

I am glad that you are interested in these open meetings, and that you think that they will be beneficial. There is no question in my mind but that the people of this community will attend them, and that enthusiastic community spirit will be developed.

Your chamber of commerce has ten committees, and each one is busy right now working out some kind of a project that will be beneficial to this community. These projects must be acceptable to the community, and endorsed by the community. That is one of the purposes of these open forum meetings, to explain and to present the program of work to the people upon whose shoulders the success of that program rests. You are going to hear more about these open meetings and this program of work. Yes, you are going to have the opportunity of making both of them a success. Nothing succeeds like success. Let's have, first, a successful meeting.

insect eggs will be exposed and destroyed by the coming cold weather."

M. A. Beasley has farmed near Memphis for the past 16 years, insists he likes to farm because of the freedom he finds in doing so. He made 27 bales of cotton and enough feed to last him throughout this year. Although the land Beasley farmed last year is not terraced, he believes that terracing is a great method of farming, and especially for hillside land. Beasley's contention is that perhaps insects will be more plentiful this year, but that other farming hazards will not be so great. He has a very optimistic outlook for 1938.

According to R. R. Reppert of A. & M. College, grasshoppers will return to plague farmers of the Panhandle in even greater numbers than in the past year. To prove the seriousness of the situation, arrangements are being made for six times as much poison as was used last year. However, Reppert has made examinations of the amount of insect eggs found in Panhandle counties, and estimates that only 16 per cent of the crops in Hall County are likely to be endangered.

Former Memphian Gives Memphis C. C. Banquet Plenty Publicity

Jack Sitton, former city editor of The Democrat and now a reporter on The Amarillo Daily News, was sent to cover the Memphis Chamber of Commerce banquet last week. Besides the regular write-up of the affair, Jack reported side-lights of the annual feed and made comment relative to Memphis and this territory in The News' "Howdy, Neighbors!" column, as follows:

Down at Memphis the civic leaders know which side of their bread the butter is on. They know they depend on the farmer for their prosperity, and at the annual chamber of commerce banquet last Tuesday they had as their guests farmers from all surrounding communities. And that's not all. Carroll Snyers, Memphis' live-wire chamber of commerce secretary, saw to it that the president of the school board and every teacher of the rural communities were given free tickets to the banquet.

Dirt farmers present included Tom Cope, Parnell man who knew the wife's folks, the George R. Dicksons, at Deep Lake thutty-odd years ago, suh.

Jim King, past potentate of Khiva Temple and new president of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, arose when called on for a speech with these words: "They told me I would only have to be seen—not make a talk." King, who is also a member of the state Democratic executive committee, was the object of most of the barbs thrown during the feed.

Said W. C. Davis, toastmaster of King, a chronic bachelor: "Jim told me tonight that this banquet is as good as the Jackson Day dinner he attended recently in Dallas at $25 a plate. And he said there weren't half so many pretty women there at Dallas."

And King (or Davis) wasn't joking. Here are the names of a few of the lovely women at the banquet, and this list is just batted out from memory. Mrs. Coy Davis, Mrs. Leslie Foxhall, Mrs. Clarence Partain, Miss Maurine Thompson, Mrs. Leon Bullard, Mrs. Lloyd Phillips, Mrs. Carroll Snyers, Mrs. Carl Harrison, Mrs. Orville Goodpasture, Miss Tops Gilreath, Mrs. Matthew Allen, Miss Helen Boswell, Mrs. Nelson Combest, Mrs. John Deaver, Mrs. Roy Fultz, Mrs. E. N. Foxhall, Mrs. O. V. Alexander, Mrs. Alvin Massey, Mrs. Hugh Crawford, Mrs. Chaucey Thompson, Mrs. Mae Turner, Annie Laura Gilpin, Mrs. Winfred Wilson, Mrs. Bob Corley, Miss Mary Helen Harbin, Miss Joyce Road, Mrs. Margaret Morgan, Mrs. Carl Periman, Miss Jeanne Draper, and Mrs. Frank Foxhall. And that barely starts the list.

Claude Wells, veteran news paper editor, said that Memphis is going to have to get a municipal auditorium to care for the big crowds which attend numerous activities.

AT THE GATEPOST: R. E. L. Pattillo, county agent of Hall, unbelted both coat and vest before tackling the food at the banquet. Lee Vardy, Turkey school superintendent, was there a-convaling after accidentally pouring carbolic acid in one eye. There, top, was Bob Alexander, Childress County dirt farmer and member of the Texas Legislature.

A. A. Meredith, regional WPA administrator, and State Representative Jack Little were among the large Amarillo delegation attending the banquet. Bob Land, formerly of Clarendon, now county FSA supervisor at Memphis, was bragging about the new baby girl at his home—and after having previously announced he was confidently expecting a boy.

John Deaver, district attorney for Hall, Childress, Donley and Collingsworth counties, continues to "panic 'em" as a humorous yet brilliant speaker. In fact, he has been given the sobriquet "the Will Rogers of the Panhandle." At the Chamber of Commerce banquet at Memphis the other night, Deaver pulled some good ones, including the one about "we sometimes get a little behind in our business. Like the butcher who backed into the meat-cutter."

Politics are really warming up down in Hall County. There were a dozen or more candidates at the banquet Tuesday night. About five are already running for commissioner in one precinct. Another called at the Democrat office in Memphis this week to announce for the commissioner's race saying he looks for about more to get in the same race. But Publishers Claude Wells and Herschel Montgomery don't mind. Seen at the banquet: Supt. J. T. Duncan of Estelline, Supt. H. B. O'Neill of Lakeview, Walter Labay and two of his agriculture studies from Estelline, T. L. Lewis of Childress, W. H. Patrick, Homer Mulkey and Sam Braswell of Clarendon.

Thousands and thousands of bales of cotton jam the Memphis and Hedley compresses and grounds. Still slightly scared is Gayle Greene, who entertained burglars in the spacious Greene residence at Memphis the other night after his parents had gone a-wintering to Mexico City. And more than slightly proud is "Mutt" Partain at Memphis, whose father-in-law gave him his first cowboy boots for Christmas. H. B. Estes, Memphis mortician is sometimes mistaken (perhaps purposefully) to be the father of Jim and Max King, both about the same age as Mrs. Estes. Anyway, Mr. Estes continues young to belie his silvery white hair, and he puts more grip in handshake than 99 out of a 100.

It would be a pleasure to write the biography of F. N. Foxhall, of Memphis, a man who has the deepest respect—if he has any enemies. Among other things, he is in the cotton oil and gin business. The same goes for D. L. C. Kinard, Memphis city secretary for these many years.

AT THE GATEPOST: Who has nicer manners than Lee Rushing of Memphis? Zeb Moore? Mrs. E. S. Foust? Rev. E. C. Cargill? Add to persons worth cultivating... One who knows how to sing and to lead group singing is Harry Delaney of Memphis... Tommie Potts, Memphis automobile salesman, never walks any place, even if it is only across the street—he runs... was it E. E. Walker of Memphis who began the saying: "I wish I had as much to eat as I know where the courthouse is?" Local Organization Offers Award To Clerk of Month

Beginning March 1 for an indefinite period, the "clerk of the month" will be selected and awarded a prize of $5 by the Memphis Chamber of Commerce. This plan was formulated by the C of C Trade Extension Committee last week to develop a better, more efficient, more courteous salesmanship on the part of local retail sales people.

Each month the Chamber of Commerce manager will select a shopper, whose identity will be known only to himself. During the month the shopper will visit practically all of the stores in Memphis in the course of his routine business.

At the end of the month he will report his choice of the outstanding clerk, whose identity will be made public and who will be given a check for $5. The shopper will also list five or six other clerks deserving honorable mention.

Ten things all customers expect and which the shopper will be looking for in selecting the "clerk of the month" are:

- 1. Alertness and willingness to serve promptly regardless of what he may be doing.
2. A smile of welcome.
3. Enthusiasm for his work.
4. Knowledge of the merchandise and how it is used.
5. Courtesy and attentiveness.
6. That the shopper be called by name if a regular visitor.
7. That new goods be brought to the shopper's attention.
8. That the stock be kept in order all the time.

10. That the same service be given regardless of the value of the probable purchase.
