Clipper Finishes First Round Trip Flight to Hawaii

The first aerial round trip between here and Hawaii was completed yesterday with arrival here at 258 p. m. (PST) of the experimental transpacific seaplane, Pan-American Clipper.
The voyage from Honolulu took just one minute less than 21 hours. No effort was made to break any speed record, the trip being devoted to aerial exploration of three different routes.
The clipper approached her air base here from the hills south of San Francisco. It had been anticipated she would enter the harbor through the Golden Gate, but watchers in that area were disappointed.
The trip down to Hawaii took 17 hours 45 minutes, a new record for the westbound crossing although the multimotored seaplane was not pressed.
Today's return journey was impeded for some 2,000 of the 2,400 miles by head or cross-course winds.

MAN ARRESTED IN DEATH OF YOUNG WIFE

Placed in Jail After Accusing 'Sleep-Walking' Son
By Associated Press
GREENVILLE, April 24.—S. P. Darden, 33, was arrested last night on a charge of murder in connection with the shotgun slaying of his pretty wife, 32-year-old mother of two children.
Darden submitted quietly to the arrest shortly after his wife was buried in Clinton Cemetery, four miles west of Caddo Mills.
The accused man made no statement as Deputies Harrison Etheridge and Frank Burnett took him into custody, nor would he talk after being carried to Hunt County jail here.

Insurance Policy Revealed
Darden had contended his wife was shot by their eight-year-old son, Jackie Glenn, as the lad walked in his sleep early Monday.
District Attorney Pharr revealed today that Darden had secured a joint insurance policy on himself and his wife recently and that the policy contained an indemnity clause providing for more than face value in the event of accidental death of either party. Amount of the policy was not disclosed.
Pharr also said that Darden endeavored to renew a burial policy with the Rousey City Funeral Home, and took out a new policy after being advised the lapsed payments cost more than a new policy.

Boy Was Blamed
Darden had contended his wife was shot by their eight-year-old, sleep-walking son, Jackie Glenn. He told officers he had been awakened yesterday before dawn by the discharge of a shotgun and found his son, clutching a smoking gun, standing over his mother's body.
District Attorney Pharr termed "a physical impossibility" the contention of Darden that his son had fired the fatal shot.
Pharr said Jackie Glenn, when questioned about the death of his mother, said:
"I can't remember."
Darden expressed regret at the tragedy and said "It will be hard for Jackie Glenn to live down."

Soil Erosion Head Impressed Here, Discusses Work of CCC

ROOSEVELT ASSIGNS WORK RELIEF POSTS

WASHINGTON, April 24.—President Roosevelt today assigned a vast scope of work relief projects to more than 60 existing government agencies and organized three new government units.
He named Rexford Tugwell, under-secretary of agriculture, to head one new agency—an organization for rural resettlement.
He set up a new unit for grade crossing eliminations under the bureau of roads and department of agriculture.
He created a third new division to handle rural electrification.
Discussing the start of the four billion dollar program, the President said all projects would be cleared through Frank C. Walker, New York, named to handle the job as director of the National Emergency Council.
He probably will announce the allotment board tomorrow, which will pass on the distribution of the huge fund. The President himself is to head the board.
The rural resettlement agency is to undertake the task of moving families and possibly even whole communities to new places of better opportunity. The agency takes over subsistence nonemerging and related agencies.
The President is undecided on whom to place in charge of rural electrification.

HOUSE ORDERS OIL, MILK INQUIRY

To Study 'Hot Oil' Charge and Anti-Trust Violation
By Associated Press
AUSTIN, April 24.—Investigations of the hot oil situation and the reported violations of anti-trust laws by large milk companies were ordered yesterday by the house of representatives.
Both investigations would be by special committees of the house. While they might begin before the conclusion of the current regular session, they could continue after adjournment.
Representative Sidney Latham of Longview, chairman of the house oil and gas committee, offered the resolution pertaining to the oil investigation as a substitute for one previously introduced by Representative Augustin Celaya of Brownsville.
He said that reports were heard that oil was being produced in excess of the legal allowance, that investigations had been made against the conduct of some state officials, and that the legislature should ascertain the truth.
Opponents argued that Gov. James V. Allred and other state representatives had told federal officials only last week that they had the oil situation well in hand and the proposed investigation at this time would weaken their fight against suggested federal oil control.
"This investigation should be thorough enough to uncover facts as to hot oil," Latham said, "and at the same time to restore legislative investigations to high plane they deserve."
Incidentally, it was understood a committee of the house appointed early in the session to investigate conduct in various state departments planned a report in a few days.

WTCC HAS THREE-POINT PROGRAM PLANNED

By United Press
STAMFORD, April 24.—Max Bentley, chairman of the editorial board of West Texas Today, publication of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, said the Chamber's convention program May 13 to 15 at Plainview would stress "three fundamentals in the life of West Texas."
"A clear-cut program will be devised with the objective of attaining needed relief for the sorely pressed property owner who pays 75 per cent of the taxes of Texas," he said, "although holding only 33 1-3 per cent of its wealth. On an average, ad valorem or real estate taxes in this state total an annual assessment of 3.75 per cent of the investment and property is not earning 3.75 per cent or anywhere near it."
State Senator Arthur P. Duggan, Littlefield, will be chairman of the taxation group conference. Duggan is a member of the Senate tax program committee.
The agriculture group conference, Bentley said, will make a close examination of the Bankhead cotton act for determination whether the West Texas Chamber should favor its continuance, with important changes, or favor its abandonment altogether.
"The regional organization already is on record as opposing the acreage control feature and favoring domestic allotment instead," Bentley added. Clifford B. Jones, Spur, former WTCC president, will be chairman of the agricultural group conference.
A diversity of problems will be considered by the territorial development group conference, with emphasis on development of the chamber's soil erosion program, the Brasos River and other development projects. Ray H. Nichols, Vernon, WTCC first vice president, will be chairman of this group.
Gov. Allred already has accepted an invitation to attend the Governors' Banquet, tentatively set for Tuesday evening, May 14, and invitations have been sent to Gov. Clyde Tingley, New Mexico, and Gov. E. W. Marland, Oklahoma. Marland is expected to arrive on a special train operated by the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by Maury Hopkins, manager of the Oklahoma City chamber and former assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber.
Amarillo and Wichita Falls already are laying plans for a spirited contest to obtain the next convention and invitation offers are being considered by Mineral Wells, Brownwood and El Paso.

Camp Is Virtually Assured by Visit Of H. H. Finnell

The establishment of a CCC camp in Memphis to do soil erosion work and other agricultural reclamation in this section seems virtually assured following a visit to Memphis yesterday afternoon of H. H. Finnell, director of the Soil Erosion Service, with headquarters at Daltart.
"I am very favorably impressed with the enthusiasm and the willingness to co-operate that is being shown by the people down here," Mr. Finnell told The Democrat at the close of the meeting. "It is significant," he said, "that Memphis is anxious for surrounding counties as well as Hall County to be served from the camp we propose to establish here."
John Stovall, Collingsworth County agricultural agent, attended the meeting and supplied considerable information on erosion problems in his county. County agents were also invited to the meeting from Childress and Donley counties but were unable to attend because of previous engagements.
County Agent James A. Jackson led discussions at the meeting in the commissioners court room at the court house, attended by 35 business men, stock men and farmers. Water erosion, wind erosion, terracing, re-seeding of pastures and numerous other problems of great importance to Hall and adjoining counties were discussed at length.

Men's Bible Class Enjoys Steak Fry

The Memphis camp will erect permanent barracks similar to those in use by camps doing similar work throughout the state. At least two army officers will be in charge of more than 200 youths for disciplinary purposes. The corps in charge will also include a physician, chaplain, physical director, etc. Army trucks, part of the camp's equipment, will transport the CCC workers to and from the various work projects within a radius of 25 to 30 miles from Memphis. The boys work five days a week, with Saturdays off. Their pay, in addition to their room and board, is $30 a month, $25 of which is sent direct to dependents by the government.
The camp likely will be erected on the outskirts of Memphis, adjacent to lights, gas and water, on one of a dozen sites already made available.

The DARK BLOND

By CARLTON KENDRICK

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MILLICENT GRIVES, secretary to GEORGE DRIMGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. JARVIS HAPP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a brunet, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets Hupp's son, NORMAN; his stepson, ROBERT CAISE; MRS. HAPP; and VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. Hupp's maid.

That night a note under her door informs Millicent, "The woman in black ermine is here." Millicent sees the woman, tries to follow, but loses her. Millicent goes to the chauffeur's quarters. The chauffeur is dead from a bullet wound.

Next morning SERGEANT MAHONEY takes charge of the case.

Over the telephone Mrs. Hupp learns that her husband has been kidnapped. She is warned not to inform the police.

Millicent and Norman learn that the owner of the car Millicent saw the woman in ermine driving is PHYLLIS FAULCONER. They go to her apartment, are about to go inside when Bob Caise appears. They see Bob enter and then leave. Millicent and Norman go into the apartment. Millicent opens a closet door and calls, "Norman—look!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIV

Norman Hupp stepped forward into the closet and took from one of the hangers a black ermine coat with a high collar. He brought it out into the living room of the apartment, where he regarded it curiously.

"Do you think that's the one?" he asked.

"I'm practically certain of it, Norman. It's exactly the cut, shape and style of the one I saw."

"Then this Phyllis Faulconer is the woman in the black ermine coat."

"Yes," she said slowly, "but who is Phyllis Faulconer?"

"Some astrological nut who has a great influence over Cynthia. Apparently Bob is working in cahoots with her in order to get something he wants."

Millicent stared at the fur coat, looking at it from various angles.

"Yes," she said slowly, "this is the one. The woman who wore this coat is the one who took my purse in the tea room and left me the other one."

"And," Norman finished, "she must have gone to Drimgold's office, unlocked the door and killed him. Let's give Sergeant Mahoney a ring and have him take her into custody."

"No," Millicent said. "I want to find out more about her before we make any rash accusations. After all, I didn't see her face clearly enough to identify her."

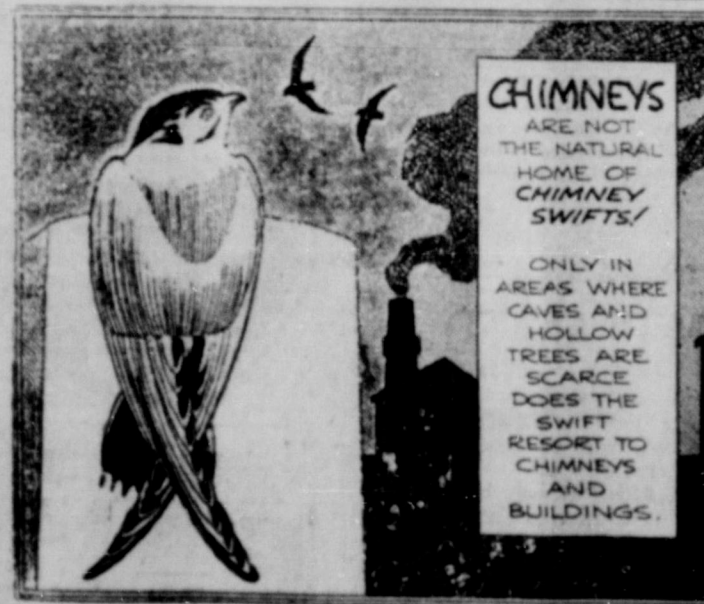

"But the man in the liquor store can identify her."

"First," she said, "let's make certain this was the woman who purchased the whiskey."

"It's got to be," Norman exclaimed impatiently.

"I know just how you feel," tain Drimgold's confession. That will clean up the last piece of evidence. You ditch the car. Leave the girl to me—Bob."

"Good heavens!" Millicent exclaimed, "then he was mixed up in the Drimgold murder. What a mess it all is!"

"He may not have been mixed up in the murder," Norman Hupp said slowly, "but he certainly has cut in on the deal so that he's going to capitalize on it. You can leave it to Bob to know which side of the bread has the butter. He's always looking out for himself."

"But the woman must have had some man with whom she was working," Millicent pointed out. "She would hardly have committed the murder by herself. She..."

Millicent ceased speaking abruptly as she realized the import of what she had said. There had, indeed, been some man in the building at the time of the murder, and that man had been none other than Jarvis C. Hupp—the man who had appeared, ostensibly, as a benefactor but who had, in reality, placed her in such a position that she had been exposed to further danger.

"What's the matter?" Norman asked, noting her sudden silence.

"Nothing," she said.

"You're nervous," he told her. "You ought to get out of here. Let's go. We'll put the note back on the table so that..."

"Indeed we won't!" she interrupted. "We'll take this note with us. It's a valuable piece of evidence. Bob Caise will have a hard time explaining this to Sergeant Mahoney."

"But," he objected, "Bob Caise is going to get in touch with Phyllis Faulconer sooner or later. When he does, he'll ask her about the note. If it is missing and she knows nothing about it, he'll suspect..."

Millicent crossed the room to the writing desk, opened it, took out a sheet of note paper and said to Norman, "Copy that note. Forge Bob's handwriting as well as you can, but don't be too particular about doing it because, if the women becomes suspicious and thinks the handwriting isn't Bob's she'll give Bob a ring and ask him about it and he'll tell her that he wrote the note and left it there."

Norman's eyes sparkled.

Life WAS Like This Life IS Like This

"The Story of a Country Town" by ED HOWE. (Father of John Newnes, The News-Globe.)

Here is a story written in the early 80's by a small newspaper man in a little Missouri Valley town. No publisher wanted it. It had no "plot" according to accepted modern standards. It didn't preach any sermon that you could notice. Its characters were such ordinary, blundering, inconsistent folks that it wasn't anything remarkable about them. Even the author didn't take the book very seriously. He did print 3,000 copies of the book in the back shop of a country newspaper and these copies after a fashion.

Somehow or other the people of the "country town" came to read many people all over the country who kept copies of this book from hand to hand. Not many years ago, then, literature discovered that Ed Howe had made a lasting contribution to the record of the American novel.

Here is a beautiful new edition with numerous corrections by Wilfred Jones.

Fast Pace Set for '36 Olympic Stars

BY CONRAD M. JENNINGS
Track Coach, Marquette University

Although American athletes no doubt will turn in some startling Olympic performances in Berlin next year, they'll have to step high and fast to outdo feats performed in previous games by illustrious predecessors.

For instance, Ben Eastman, west coast holder of the world 800-meter record of 1:49.8, is faced with the marvelous exhibitions of Jim Lightbody and Ted Meredith in that event.

Lightbody scored in the 800-meter in the Olympics in St. Louis in 1904, and came back with victories in the 1500 and 2500-meter events. Meredith prevailed in the 800 as a schoolboy from Mercersburg in 1912.

Jack Torrance, world record shotput holder and this country's chief hope for weight honors, can add little to the Yankee record in these events.

The late Martin Sheridan established America's prestige in the heavy out in the discus throw in 1904-06-08. America never has lost the 16-pound shotput title in Olympic competition.

Other remarkable American Olympic performances include:

Archie Hahn's 21.6 seconds in the 200-meter run in 1904 that stood for 28 years. . . Eddie Tolman breaking it in 1932 by four-tenths of a second. . . Harry Hillman's triple in the 500-meter run and 200 and 100-meter hurdles in St. Louis in 1904. . . Mel Sheppard's surprise victories in the 800 and 1500-meter runs in London in 1908. . . Jim Thorpe winning the decathlon and pentathlon in 1912.

NEXT: Training methods.

I could not get on outside. I was afraid I'd get into more trouble. I want to come in. . . Harry Iwanshyn, pleading for admission to Sing Sing.

BRITISH POINT TOWARD POLO BATTLES

Westchester Cup To Attract Island Empire Stars

LONDON, April 24.—British poloists already are preparing for the Westchester cup contest to be played in Britain in 1936. Hitherto the contests have been played in the country holding the trophy, but the recent change in conditions provides for the matches to be played alternately in the United States and Britain. The first battle under the new conditions will be at the Hurlingham Club here.

British interest in international polo was revived last season by the visit of the almost all-conquering United States Aurora team composed of Elmer J. Boecker, Jr., Seymour H. Knox, Harold E. Talbot, and William H. Post. Their combined handicap of 20 points proved too strong for the majority of British quartets and their American-bred ponies generally out-distanced the British mounts.

By way of returning this welcome visit the Hurlingham club is planning to send a team to the United States this season and the selection committee undoubtedly will endeavor to build up the nucleus of an international side in preparation for the Westchester cup matches next year.

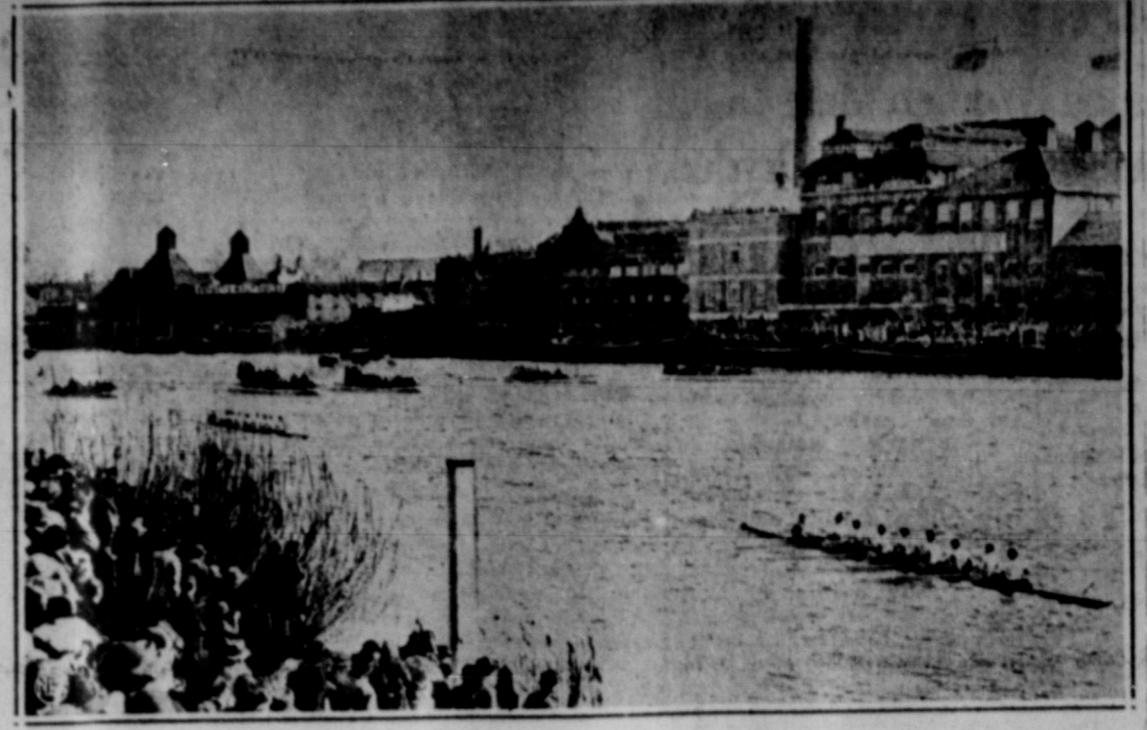

Although the British polo season does not open until May 1, experts and fans already are speculating on the formation of the team for the United States tour in which the American open championship will be the chief objective.

Captain P. B. Sanger, a member of the Maharajah of Kashmir's team, which will be playing here this season, is regarded as eligible. He has a great reputation in Indian polo and is considered as a player in the real international class.

Star in India Unfortunately, Captain, C. T. I. Roark, the famous international, who has played against the United States on previous occasions, is in India and will not be available. In Eric Tyrrell Martin, however, it is believed that Britain has another Roark.

Among other army men who claims to inclusion in the side will have to be considered is Captain

Cambridge Rows to Twelfth Victory in Row Over Oxford

Little Will Keep Word With British

NEW YORK, April 24.—Lawson Little's announced intention of foregoing competition in the United States Open Golf Championship so that he may defend his title in the British Amateur at St. Anne's, Scotland, has stirred debates among American golfing enthusiasts.

Those who feel that Lawson should omit his British championship defense would do well to consider the pledge he made to the aging Marquis of Ailsa, deputizing for the Prince of Wales and some 15,000 Scottish lovers of the game the afternoon he burned up Prestwick to win the title in 1934.

His eyes wet with emotion, Little, after he had received the cup promised to keep it "nice and shiny" and promised, "on my word of honor" to come back to defend it in 1935.

Obviously, Little as a gentleman, has no alternative than to make the journey overseas for a title defense. The British Amateur starts on May 20 and concludes on May 25. The United States Open begins at Oakland, Pa., on June 6. There is not time enough between the completion of one and the start of the other to enable Little to cross the Atlantic to get in shape for a proper showing in the American event.

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

Be Well Dressed, Women Must Obey Commandments of Fashion—Dryden

NEA Service
 LOS ANGELES, April 23.—Can you be well dressed without fortune to spend on clothes? follow the Ten Commandments of Fashion, says Ernest Dryden, noted Viennese designer has numbered among his the world's best dressed women. Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. Marshall Field, Dryden's commandments are:

- 1. Avoid frumpiness. Invest only in fabric of quality.
- 2. Dress to suit yourself, not best friend.
- 3. Shun "noisy" clothes. Don't be a slave to fashion.
- 4. Don't worry about the tag.
- 5. Don't try to be the "last" model. It is better to wear a model labelled "yesterday" than a poor one labelled "tomorrow."
- 6. Don't strive for a large robe. Correct, not frequent changes are important.
- 7. Avoid cheap-looking accessories. If you must add something to your costume, add a touch of color.
- 8. Don't try to be different. Dryden, who is here to Hollywood fashion influence, set forth this fashion creed: "The sartorial contest between Mrs. Williams and her rivals in their distinction through lavish expenditure of money, Williams' dress bill having reported at $50,000 a year. Necessary to spend $50,000 a year to be a best dressed woman is repeated the dynamic Viennese designer. "Pou! No! Why, that much money was necessary for chic would give most men and inferiority complex at her clothes."
- 9. Inherent Good Taste. Mrs. Williams is the best dressed woman in the world because she has a-a-what you call good taste. She has good taste. She is educated in the effectiveness of clothes,

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART
 (NEA Service Staff Writer)
 "I have a dry skin," writes a woman in the middle west. "It always gets worse in the summer time, and I do want to do something special to keep it in good condition this year. However, I have little money to spend, and if I buy a lot of expensive creams, I simply won't be able to go to a beauty shop once a week. Can you recommend a way out for me?"

Yes, indeed. In the first place, there is a new nourishing cream, made especially for dry skins, on the market right now. Inexpensive and needing no supplementary items to be used in conjunction with it, a little goes a long way and thus saves a strain on the budget.

It smells like a bank of fresh June roses and, if used each night after you have cleaned your face and throat, not only will prevent dryness, but will correct any dry condition you may have right now. Get a small tube at first. Then, if you like it, a large jar later on.

Remember that all beauty preparations are less expensive when bought in large quantities. You'll find that it's cheaper in the long run to get a half-pound jar of cleansing cream rather than several small ones. Don't buy it by the pound unless, of course, you are going on a long trip. And not even then if your travels will take you through hot countries.

Buy cotton in round rolls instead of stinky little boxes that cost too much. Watch for sales on cleansing tissues and stock up then.

Mrs. A. J. Kinard arrived yesterday and will spend until tomorrow here as guest in the homes of her sons, D. L. C. and A. A. Kinard. She is en route to her home in Goodnight from a visit with relatives at Cardell, Okla.

Motorists who know these facts will save money:

Motor oils refined by the usual methods have some oiliness and film strength, but they may form carbon and sludge, which lead to expensive motor repairs.

Other oils may form almost no carbon and sludge, but are so over-refined that they are robbed of oiliness and film strength they need to prevent motor wear.

Germ Processed Oil is refined to eliminate carbon and sludge troubles and then the Germ Process adds extra oiliness and 2 to 4 times more film strength than any mineral oil.*

YOU will save money on repairs and have a smoother running motor if you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil!
 The Germ Process—adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil—gives it the extra oiliness and film strength so necessary for full protection of high-powered, high-speed motors. No other oil is made by the Germ Process.

PROPAGANDA FOR NEWSPAPERS

NEWSPAPERS today are faced with a rather disagreeable task. It is one with which they have always had to contend, but during the past year has grown to proportions heretofore unequalled. We are speaking of flow of propaganda and publicity that daily grows larger.

Not a day passes but that the newspaper is flooded with every type of propaganda.

It has grown to such an extent and so well covered behind a cloak of genuine news or a legitimate effort to aid the citizens of Texas or America or the world that it is difficult to separate the chaff from the grain.

The newspaper wishes to help all worthy enterprises and causes, but it is impossible to tell in most cases from the stories received whether the plans are for the betterment of everyone, the improvement of a condition or for the personal gain of some individual or group of individuals. It is impossible in most cases to determine if the news is legitimate or given out in the interest of a fraud, or at least misrepresentation.

An example of advertising disguised as news and used for the purpose of getting free space in newspapers is shown in a rather forceful example. Weekly The Democrat receives a letter marked "4-H Club News" and apparently containing news about the work of this worthy farm organization. Upon close examination, however, somewhere in every story can be found the name of a large farm equipment manufacturing company of national reputation.

Especially has the amount of propaganda increased from the state and national capitals, begging the newspaper to favor a bill, to fight an amendment, or proclaiming the work done by Senator John Doe either for or against the bill, as the case may be. This presents the most difficult problem for the editor. Naturally, each side has a good argument, and if he listens or reads only one side, he is very apt to announce favoritism for a bill that is entirely different from what he at first supposed. He must be exceedingly careful to understand both sides, or he is likely to arouse the ire of readers who either understand the proposed plan or else know only the other side. The information about individuals in the legislature or congress is not hard to dispose of. It invariably lands in the wastebasket, usually without even being scanned.

VOW AGAINST FIGHTING NOT END WARS

THE recent effervescence of college lads in connection with the question of war and peace is one of the most saddening demonstrations of recent years. For one thing, it is a living testimonial to the ghastly waste of the last war.

The young collegians who went out to speak and parade against war had an object lesson before their eyes. You don't need to have a college education to discover that whatever it was that we got out of our participation in the last war wasn't worth anywhere near what we put into it. With 1917 as a sample, is it any wonder that the youngsters decided that war costs more than it is worth?

But that is only part of it. All these pledges, these spirited resolutions, these high-hearted vows to have no part in any new conflict... what will they amount to, in sober reality, when the drums begin to beat again? Are not these young people in college deluding themselves in the old, tragic manner of ardent youth everywhere?

For when war comes we may be assured that the conditions of 1917 will be repeated. Once we get into it, no individual's private viewpoint will be of any account.

Some of these lads will be swept off their feet by the waving flags and the brass bands, and will undergo a sudden, militant conversion. Others will be overwhelmed by the pressure of public opinion.

A handful may remember their non-participation pledge, and stick to it; and they will be carted off to some prison or other, very quietly, and no one will know the difference.

Their fine enthusiasm for a warless world, in short, will be quite wasted; and it will be wasted because their opposition to war is taking a form which cannot succeed.

THE SPIRIT OF SACRIFICE

WE WILL GLADLY GIVE UP OUR SMOKE, COKE, CIGARETTES, OUR NATIONAL RESERVATIONS, FROM THIS GREAT AND NOBLE CAUSE!

WHAT! YOU WANT US TO GIVE UP SOME OF OUR NATIONAL INDEPENDENCE AND POSSESS A FEW DOLLARS WORTH OF BONDAGE TO INSURE PEACE?

HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

While you are dosing your children with the annual spring tonic of sulphur and molasses, be sure to look them over carefully for any sign of measles. This, you should know, is one of the oldest springtime diseases affecting children.

The usual treatment of measles involves merely putting the child to bed, protecting it against cold, taking care of its diet and of its eyesight, and guarding it against the complications which are more dangerous than the disease itself.

The number of deaths from measles is exceedingly low. However, when the complications do occur, or when measles is severe, its results are exceedingly serious.

The room should always be kept fairly warm to lessen the danger of pneumonia. Persons with colds should always be kept away, because the danger of complication in the lungs is greater than any other.

After the child has recovered, it needs a good diet to permit it to build its blood and its body as a whole back to the proper condition.

In addition to the usual treatment, medical science has developed a method which is of great value in making the attack of measles lighter and in lessening the total number of complications. A rather large epidemic of measles occurred in Glasgow, Scotland, in the spring of 1934, giving the physicians in that community opportunity to test the value of this new method.

The treatment involves the injection into the child, immediately after the diagnosis is made, of the blood serum from a grown-up person who had an attack of measles in childhood. The blood serum may be collected even in advance of the appearance of an epidemic and be stored away in an ice chest to await the time when it is needed.

The serum is used not only to treat the disease when it occurs, but also to inject children who may be exposed to measles, with the idea of preventing severe attacks of the malady in these children. Much depends, of course, on the stage or duration of the disease at the time when the serum is given.

LIBERTY LOANED OUT

THE motif for stamps of two South American countries is the Statue of Liberty that stands in New York harbor! In 1919 Uruguay borrowed this famous symbol of freedom and good will for a set that commemorated the end of the World War. In 1934 Peru issued a stamp showing the monument that France had presented to the United States in 1886, on the 100th anniversary of American independence.

Spain and France also have used the Statue of Liberty in their postal designs, but only as part of a general theme.

NEXT: What new U. S. stamp commemorates the settlement of a great state?

Side Glances by George Clark

The Scotch investigators found that the attack of measles may be expected to be very light in 80 per cent of those who develop the disease, if they are given the blood serum within four days of the time when they are exposed to the infection.

If the serum is given from the fifth to the seventh day after exposure to the infection, 60 per cent of the cases are found to be very mild. Without the serum, only 14 per cent of cases of measles are found to be mild.

It is understood, of course, that the blood serum must be taken from persons who had measles in childhood or who had measles fairly recently. However, the blood serum from persons 50 years of age was found to be just as suitable as that from young men and women.

On the other hand, the blood serum taken from people who have not had measles will not have the power to weaken the attack of the disease.

Deaths Pile Up as Lobbyists Continue to Block Food and Drug Bill... Senate Foes Wreck Measure With Amendments... Glaring Gaps Revealed in Survey.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Democrat Washington
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Quite a few people have died painful deaths, in the year since the first administration food and drug bill was liked, because they used fake patent medicines or cosmetics such as the bill was designed to banish. Others have been blinded or otherwise maimed.

You'll find the record in publications of the American Medical Association.

Of course it is unfair to expect politicians to be influenced by a little thing like that. The fate of this year's Copeland food and drug bill depends on whether a consumer's lobby can make things hot enough for certain senators who have been willing to sabotage the measure.

Consumers really haven't any lobby as such, but the job of rescuing the Copeland bill has been taken over by what's known here as the "female bloc," legislative representatives of a dozen or more national women's organizations.

This group has been rather deadly at times past. Ready, it has stirred up a large flow of squawk mail to senators.

But the lobbyists for food companies, patent medicine companies, and insecticide companies—which want less federal regulation of use of arsenic on apples in bug-killing processes—have the edge to date.

Worse Than No Bill

The bill was snatched off the Senate floor after Senators Bennett Clark and Josiah Bailey and the lobbyists had loaded it with so many amendments the Copeland felt it was worse than no bill at all.

The "female bloc" now seeks enough support to have the bill brought back to the floor with assurance that such amendments can be defeated, which means it must change eight or nine senatorial

REVIEWS OF CURRENT MOTION PICTURES

PALACE

For the purposes of merry entertainment, "Lightning Strikes Twice," at the Palace Theatre, brings the elements of a farce comedy. It is filled with laughs, and proves to be a blend of story, direction, and acting by an all star cast.

Its romance, nearly wrecked by diverting complications resulting from mistaken identities, is paralleled to its climax, by the antics of trapped policemen, and by a murder mystery growing out of a butler's attempt on the life of an obnoxious black cat.

The work of several performers stands out. As the aunt, Laura Hope Crews fashions a fine comic characterization. Thelma Todd, as the fiancée, and Pert Kelton, as the dancer, add to the hilarity. Ben Lyon as the hero, and "Skeets" Gallagher as his pal are excellent.

Other players are Walter Catlett, as the dancer's mate; Chick Chandler, as a reported turned detective; Margaret Armstrong, as the maid; John Davidson, as the butler; with a number of veterans in minor roles. Ben Holmes' direction is clever.

"Lightning Strikes Twice" is one of the best film comedies in many months.

measures and sent it to the White House for his approval.

"This bill establishes a permanent agency or service," Chairman Jones of the House agriculture committee an author of the measure, said.

"It translates the temporary orders already in effect into something permanent."

The President, by executive order, consolidated all soil erosion activities in the agriculture department three weeks ago when severe dust storms became serious in the West and Midwest.

The House accepted without debate minor changes in the bill suggested by the Senate. Secretary Wallace would be ordered to create a "soil conservation service" to handle all phases of wind and water erosion and to utilize funds and personnel of the present.

Morgenthau Hits Payment of Bonus

WASHINGTON, Apr. 24.—Secretary Morgenthau told the Senate finance committee today that any of the pending bonus plans would require additional expenditures and therefore would call for additional taxes. Morgenthau warned that "a material decline in market price of government securities" would result from any large expenditure outside the budget. Questioned by members of the committee, Morgenthau said if the

TWO EVENTS IN CHEVROLET CONTEST

Local and National Prizes Offered During Week

The Whole Town's Talking! The office of The Democrat is receiving essays in line with the contest currently being waged in its columns, in conjunction with the Ritz Theatre and Chevrolet dealers! Two contests in one, in reality, it affords readers an opportunity to compete for both local and national prizes!

The question at hand is: "Why is the whole town talking about the new Chevrolet Master De Luxe?" Local prizes are in the form of theatre tickets. Five shining, new Chevrolet automobiles, ranging from the Master Deluxe Town Sedan to the Chevrolet Standard Coupe will be awarded in National Contest.

All you have to do is to answer the above question in from 10 to 100 words. Essays can be in any language, and correctness of spelling, grammar and punctuation are not deciding factors. Just express yourself in simple everyday language, written as you would speak it to a friend.

In the event readers are not versed with the details of the new model Chevrolet, special brochures are available at the Ritz Theatre or at any Chevrolet dealer's showroom.

Everyone in Memphis, apparently, believes he and she should win a ticket to see Edward G. Robinson in the Columbia picture, "The Whole Town's Talking," which comes Sunday to the Ritz Theatre! And from the essays which are pouring in, it would seem as though everyone is head over heels in automobile details.

The reasons given in the essays vary from style luxury to high pressure oil jets and electro-plated pistons, showing a desire on the part of contestants to be thorough in every fine detail.

If you haven't done so as yet, sit right down and pour out your wordage onto any piece of paper, and send it in to the Ritz Theatre. Or, if you prefer to play safe and to be sure of everything, entry blanks may be picked up gratis at the theatre or at any Chevrolet dealer.

Remember—Friday is the deadline for contest entries. If you would win one of the local or national prizes, essays must be in before that time limit!

Get busy right now and write your essay! Your small efforts may net you tickets to see "The Whole Town's Talking," or perhaps a new Chevrolet automobile, the star of the whole town's talking about!

Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Williams and son, Junior, of Chillicothe, were Memphis visitors yesterday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Boax returned yesterday from a business trip to Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Hamp Prater returned yesterday from a visit with Mrs. Curtis Huckaby at Pampa.

Farmers in the Leslie, Deep Lake and Brice communities have caused for rejoicing since the bounteous rainfall Monday afternoon. With a good season in the ground, farming operations can be carried on, and grass will soon furnish sufficient grazing for the stock.

This is the time of year when people of an agricultural community want rain, look for rain, pray for rain, and sometimes get rain and sometimes do not. The west-enders have received their rain, and the others are more hopeful than usual that rains will come in time for planting crops.

In this Panhandle country, people think and talk more about the weather than anything else. It is either too dry, hot, cold, dusty; too early frost or too late spring; too windy or too still—but it usually comes out all right in the homestretch. Political campaigns may wax hot in other sections of the state; wars may be declared and patriotism become the all-absorbing thought of the people "down east"; earthquakes, floods, strikes, panics, depressions and Hoovey's dictatorship may cause consternation over the entire nation—but, should the weather conditions not be favorable in the Panhandle, weather would be the overwhelming subject of conversation of its citizens.

The Tulsa Herald.—We see where a gentleman has been convicted in Milwaukee of using the mails to defraud. He goes to prison, if the sentence is not reversed, for fifteen years but this does not return the $2,000,000 he is alleged to have collected from suckers who wanted to get rich quick. Readers of the Tulsa Herald are fairly familiar with what returns money will bring when invested, whether in bonds or in businesses. When a smart man comes along to
