'Biggest Thing That Ever Budged'

France's Liner Normandie, Welcomed in New York at Maiden Trip's End Today, Is Largest Moving Unit in History

Normandie is virtually as large as New York's famous Chrysler building. Each of liner's three funnels is equal in size to cross-section of TWO vehicular tubes like Holland Tunnel. Rudder which guides mammoth new liner across Atlantic is 60 feet tall—about height of five-story building. Vessel's stupendous prow represents the utmost in maritime streamlining.

Sped on her way to America with the title of "the biggest thing that ever budged," the 79,000-ton French liner Normandie is shown above as she appeared to New York crowds that welcomed her at the end of her maiden voyage. Nearly a fifth of a mile long, the Normandie is seven and a half times the weight of Paris' Eiffel tower, is wider than New York's Fifth Avenue, and has 11,000,000 rivets in her, and a central electric system that would light a city of 25,000 population.

C. C. MEACHAM NEW MANAGER OF RITZ

Takes Charge of Local Theatre Yesterday

Charlie C. Meacham yesterday assumed active management of the Ritz Theatre, pending completion of a deal in which he is purchasing the interests of Mrs. Jean McClure, proprietress and manager of the theatre for the past year.

Mr. Meacham is proprietor of the Meacham Pharmacy and has extensive business interests in the city. He announced this morning that he would continue operation of the theatre under the present operating plan for the immediate future, with the same operating personnel, Lee Bell will remain as operating manager, he said.

Mrs. McClure has not announced her plans for the immediate future.

The Ritz theatre has been under the active management of Mrs. McClure since the death of her husband in February, 1934. The Ritz theatre was established in Memphis June 16, 1931, by Max L. McClure in the R. E. Martin building on Main Street.

The theatre has been at its present location on the south side of the square since 1933 when a new and modern sound system was installed. It is considered one of the finest amusement houses in the entire Memphis Area and has gained a wide reputation for high type programs.

Fire in Paris Kills One, Injures Dozens

PARIS, June 3.—One person was killed and dozens were taken to hospitals suffering from burns yesterday when a gasoline truck exploded on a quay beside the Seine.

Flames shot to a height of seven stories, endangering quarter houses in the Saint Michel quarter.

Normandie Smashes Trans-Atlantic Mark

NEW YORK, June 3.—With the Atlantic blue ribbon as her prize on her maiden voyage, the giant new French liner Normandie steamed into harbor today amid wild acclaim.

Her voyage was the fastest ever made by a trans-Atlantic liner. Averaging officially, 29.68 knots from Southampton to Ambrose Lightship, the Normandie surpassed the 28.92 knot record set by the Italian liner Rex on a run from Gibraltar.

The time from Southampton was 107 hours, 53 minutes, beating the previous best record by nearly three hours.

Five Break Jail In San Augustine

SAN AUGUSTINE, June 3.—Sheriff V. B. Worsham announced today that five prisoners, including two charged with murder, broke out of the county jail here last night.

The sheriff said a welded bar of the run-around was pried loose and apparently one prisoner crawled through the hole and obtained a key to the main door.

The sheriff expressed the opinion the prisoners had outside help.

Joe Hill Speaks at High School Tonight

Tonight at 8 o'clock, in the Memphis High School auditorium, the Junior Chamber of Commerce will have the pleasure and honor of presenting Joe Hill, Jr., 21-year-old Eagle Scout, who accompanied the Second Byrd Antarctic Expedition to Little America. Joe will introduce his Eskimo Husky Dog, "Neeka", to the audience and will present a number of exhibits, showing in a pictorial way, what the members of the Expedition wore and so forth.

Joe will explain in detail the workings of an expedition that makes exploration and does scientific research. There will not be a dull moment in the entire address. The joys and sorrows of the expedition will be detailed, as they were witnessed by an American boy, as keen for adventure for the thrill of far off places, as any hero in fiction.

It took a long time for Joe Hill to get lined up for the place he eventually assumed in the life of the Expedition. It took more than a year, but Joe's determination won for him, and not only did he get to make a trip that is the envy of every red-blooded American, but he received high praise from all his companions, chief among them being Admiral Richard E. Byrd himself.

Joe will give the vivid details of most of that which happened on this momentous trip. He uses direct, forceful language, and those who have heard him talk say that an audience sits spellbound from the start of the narrative until its conclusion.

This attraction is being brought to Memphis at considerable expense on the part of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and this organization believes that people in this city and section will show their appreciation of the effort made by giving Joe Hill one of the largest audiences ever assembled to hear a speaker in the history of Memphis.

Popular prices of 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children, 12 years of age and under, will be charged.

BELIEVE COTTON LOANS MAY BE AFFECTED

Officials Uncertain Regarding AAA Program

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Regarding the AAA as shaken by the supreme court's NRA decision some officials said they believed extension of the 12-cent loan on cotton to cover the 1935 crop might be affected by the ruling.

While various predictions about extension of this loan peg on prices have been made, AAA officials steadfastly have refused to comment. They said that no prediction or comment of any kind could be made until after the first 1935 cotton crop estimate in August.

Admit Hesitancy

However, some AAA experts said privately that in view of the expected decision of the supreme court on the Bankhead cotton control law in the fall and the certain course of action now facing the entire farm program there might be some hesitancy in granting a new loan.

The 12-cent loans on the 1934 crop, due to expire July 1, recently were extended until Feb. 1, 1935.

AAA records showed that 10 and 12-cent loans, for 1933 and 1934, on approximately 1,800,000 bales in the cotton pool, totaled more than $47,800,000.

Total of $267,686,797

The 10 and 12-cent loans on cotton outside the pool, a total of 4,387,649 bales, were said to aggregate $267,686,797.

Officials said that of the total loans, the government actually advanced only $33,171,000 in cash. The remainder of the loans was handled by banks, with the paper guaranteed by the government.

Faith in Mollie Low Test Falling

Special to The Democrat
CHILDRESS, June 3.—The Index says today that a majority of oil men in Childress "do not like the looks" of the Mollie Low test near Kirkland.

However, a few still claim that the test has a good chance of discovering a new field.

According to the Index, "one scout, representing a major company, said this morning he would recommend to his company that if land can be obtained at $1 or $1.50 an acre that they continue to buy.

Hopes of making a producer from a formation at 5,650 feet in the Alma Oil Company's test were almost washed out Sunday by the increasing flow of salt water.

The temperature of the water a few days ago was 76 degrees. It increased this morning to 86 degrees, which oil men considered a poor sign.

Gas pressure also dropped this morning, but a little oil showed as swabbing was continued.

The company has one chance—to plug the hole with cement and drill through to determine the formation farther down.

OVER 200 AT LEGION MEET

District Attorney Deaver Delivers Address at Memorial Services

Over 200 persons filled the American Legion Hall yesterday morning for the annual memorial day program presented by members of the Charles R. Simmons Post. District Attorney John Deaver delivered the memorial day address.

This year was the first time the program has been held at the legion hall and Commander L. L. Doss today expressed gratitude for the large attendance. "I would also like to thank all who took part on the program and to invite everyone back for a similar program next year," he said.

The program was held at 11 a. m. to pay tribute to deceased World War veterans. World War dead were remembered in a one-minute silent prayer, following the scripture reading by Roy Guthrie. A violin solo by Iris Bradshaw and a vocal solo by Guthrie Bennett added greatly to the program. Others on the program included readings by Jerry Leon Doss and Betty Sue Lindsey and the benediction by E. H. Whittington.

In expressing gratitude of attendance, Mr. Doss announced that the regular meeting of the legion will be held at the hall tonight.

Mr. Simmons lived here for a number of years, having been engaged in poultry and insurance businesses.

BAND VISIT TO AMARILLO AND PAMPA SET

West Texas Champs Making Plans for Concerts

The Memphis Gold Medal Band, official music makers of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will entertain visitors at Pampa and Amarillo Friday.

Accepting invitations to play at the Pre-Centennial and Old Settler's Jubilee at Pampa and the Young Democrats' Clubs of Texas convention at Amarillo, the famous band, under the direction of Cleo Milam, will leave here early Friday morning for Pampa.

Arriving in the Oil City at about 8:30 o'clock, the band will give concerts until noon. Leaving Pampa after noon, the organization will continue to Amarillo, arriving at about 2 o'clock and remaining until 8 o'clock Friday night.

Since attaining the highest honor accorded West Texas bands during the W. T. C. C. convention at Plainview, the services of the Gold Medal Band have been in demand throughout West Texas; however, the organization has been unable to accept several invitations to play for special occasions in West Texas cities.

Kidnap Suspect Is Taken to St. Paul

ST. PAUL, June 3.—Voley Davis, 35, convicted murderer and one of the alleged kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, who paid $200,000 for his release, was brought here today by airplane under heavy guard by federal agents.

Davis, a member of the Barker-Karpis gang, and a possible suspect in the kidnaping of George Weyerhaeuser, 9, at Tacoma, was last week arraigned before Federal Judge M. M. Joyce and pleaded guilty to his part in the Bremer kidnaping.

Harold E. Anderson, district chief of the Department of Justice here, refused to discuss the Weyerhaeuser phase of the case.

It was indicated that Davis, who was captured in Chicago last Saturday, will be sentenced Friday or Saturday.

THE VOICE OF THE UPPER RED RIVER VALLEY

TURKEY RECALLS TRAGIC BLUNDERS THE ghosts of several thousand soldiers should be interested—if they are in position to know about such things—in the news that Turkey is going to take a leaf from Hitler's book and fortify the Dardanelles straits whether the former allies like it or not.

That, at any rate, is the latest news to jar European diplomacy. It has drawn denials, but even the denials admit that a network of roads has been constructed which would enable Turkey to line the straits with motorized artillery companies on a few hours' notice.

And all this ought to be of interest to the ghosts; for it calls back to mind one of the most tragic and bloody chapters in all the tragic and bloody story of the World War—the effort by France and England to force their way through the Dardanelles in 1915.

In no other episode of the war did the terrible price that can be exacted for the failure of a few individual commanders stand out in such clear relief.

To begin, some British naval authority tipped off the Turks to the impending attack by ordering a premature bombardment of the shore defenses, which gave the Turks just enough warning to get ready for the real attack.

Then a combined British and French fleet tried to force its way through. It got about half way and then withdrew after mines sank several battleships. After the war it was learned that those were the Turks' last mines, that ammunition for their batteries were exhausted, and that they were resigned, on the day the fleet withdrew, to complete defeat.

For 24 hours this division remained there, practically unopposed. It could have crossed the peninsula and won complete victory; but its commander delayed attacking for 24 hours, giving the Turks just time enough to bring up men and guns and checkmate the thrust.

On such slender chances did the Dardanelles campaign turn. World history would be vastly different if it had succeeded. Turkey would have been knocked out of the war, allied supplies would have reached Russia in ample volume, the Russian revolution could have been averted, the war would have ended before America was drawn in—and, all in all, the record of the last 20 years would make altogether different reading.

All this, somehow, is brought to mind by this current news about new fortifications for the Dardanelles. To the ghosts of the thousands of Australians, Englishmen and Frenchmen who died there in a lost cause, the news ought to have a grim and melancholy interest.

Summer Sweethearts

BEGIN HERE TODAY KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 20, becomes acquainted with MICHAEL HEATHEROE, riding teacher, and acknowledges an unwilling attraction toward him. She is worried over the progress of an affair between ZOE PARKER, her best friend, and GIBBS LARKIN, of whom Zoe's parents disapprove.

Katharine and DR. JOHN KAYE, friend of the Strykhurst family, take Zoe to a night club where she sees Gibbs with a notorious woman. Zoe threatens to kill herself. That same night Michael is invited into taking SALLY MOON, local coquette, to the same place. Sally, arriving home late, informs her father that she and Michael are engaged. Zoe takes poison. Dr. Kaye works all night to save her life and succeeds.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

Katharine said, persistently, "I want to get away, Daddy." Victor Strykhurst frowned. "I don't know what gets into you girls nowadays," he complained. "Zoe Parker has to be dragged all over Europe and even when she gets home she's not satisfied; why, you've got everything in the world you want—"

Katharine listened patiently. Stubblyly she went back to her argument.

"There's nothing for me to do here. Frankly, I'm bored. I'd like a job."

The snowy eyebrows shot up. "What could you do? No, it's nonsense; I won't have it. People'd say Bertine hadn't been good to you. And she has been good hasn't she?"

It was almost pathetic, his desire for approval of Bertine, Katharine thought. Dryly she said, "Of course. But, Daddy, couldn't I have some of my own money now—the money Mother left in trust for me? It will be mine anyhow next year."

The merest shadow crossed his face. "Eh? No, I think that would be irregular. The bank probably wouldn't hear of it." "I thought you had it in charge?" His color deepened.

"Little girls shouldn't bother their heads about business. You money will be paid over in due time."

He rose, terminating the interview. "Buy yourself a new hat and forget about it, my dear."

OUT OUR WAY

By "Cowboy" Williams

That Katharine told herself, wandering out into the morning, was that. She had been a fool to think she could do anything with her father.

But how could she bear Inticook now?

Bertine's words of the day before rang in her mind. Was it true? Could it be true that Michael Heatheroe was going to marry Sally Moon?

Incredible! Katharine's mind—her heart—rejected it.

Bertine had said coolly, "Of course the Moons are up in arms. But what can they do? The girl's always been a wild one. And undoubtedly the man's a fortune hunter. Sally Moon will have a very tidy little fortune of her own some day."

She had dismissed the whole matter. Somehow Katharine had got out of the room. No one, she was sure, had noticed. Not even John Kaye, who saw everything, usually.

She made the day pass somehow. Strange how empty hours could be when you hadn't anything to look forward to. Swimming, tennis, French lessons—sitting at the wheel of some boat with an attentive, bronzed young man beside you. It was all a dream in which you moved and spoke automatically.

So Michael Heatheroe was a fortune hunter? Could she believe that? Michael, with his lean, tanned face and those eyes that were so shrewd and kindly—could a man like that be really mean and base? Or had he fallen desperately in love with the bundle of feminine flutter and curls that was Sally Moon?

The town buzzed with the sensation for several days. Have you heard? That crazy Sally Moon's gone and got herself engaged to the man who runs the riding club. Of course he's a nobody, my dear, but quite good manners, and so good-looking! Oh, well, the Moons are really outsiders, anyhow. Her mother was a girl in a shop, some place. . . . And so on and so on. Small town gossip. Picked up avidly by the lurching, bridge-playing women at the country club, tossed from mouth to mouth.

Katharine thought it would drive her frantic, at first. But she steeled herself to it. After a week—two weeks—she found she could bear the thought without flinching.

She had not been back to ride since the formal announcement in the papers. Therefore she had not met the slightly puzzled, unhappy look in the eyes of Michael Heatheroe. She had not been compelled to see Sally's triumphant smile or air of possessiveness.

"Well, I know one thing, my dear," she heard Bertine say impressively to Mrs. Romantle. "I know if she brings him to the club I shall complain, I shall certainly expect all the members who know the man to cut him. It's not decent."

Rage had choked Katharine. She had flung herself out of the house, unable to trust herself further.

Zoe was completely recovered now. Lisa Parker took her out to Colorado in late August. Dr. Kaye came out less often these days. His practice was growing. Bertine had told everyone proudly that he was Park Avenue's most popular specialist.

So Katharine was left more and more to herself. She began to refuse invitations to dinners and dances, including the younger set of Inticook. Such parties bored her. She got into the habit, without Bertine's knowledge, of putting her sketching things into the car and driving up to Violet Merser's. Even if Violet were not at home, Katharine would set her easel up in the garden back of the little white house and work away busily and happily for hours.

The Merser garden was a pleasant jungle of old-fashioned flowers. Zinnias, nasturtiums, ageratum, snapdragons made a perfect riot of color here. Hollyhocks, some to seed, leaned idly against the clapboarded walls and within aicket fence enclosure of the drying yard. A rocky path wandered up the hills behind the house. Katharine tore her stockings and scratched her hands on tangled berry bushes. Mint grew in a fragrant carpet behind the peters. It was all old-fashioned and comfortable and satisfying. Sometimes one of the small girls, sunburned and hatless, with tawny hair flying in the breeze, would run out to glance over her shoulder. "Oh, that's lovely! Come, Mummy, see—thee's done the bird bath and the roses."

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

By Ahern

Katharine loved it here. It meant release and escape. Her soul, feeling its inevitable growing pains, expanded in this simple, uncritical atmosphere.

Stanley Merser came back from his western trip and joined the family group without destroying the charm. He was a stooped, silent, gentle man in his late thirties. An artist, Stan Merser, and a good one. The little girls adored him. His wife was devoted to him, anxious for his comfort and happiness.

It was a good marriage—a solid, permanent, companionable marriage. Katharine, observing it, felt that Violet Merser was a fortunate woman. Still Violet had told her one day that Stan hadn't been her first love. No, their coming together had been the culmination of a more mature attachment. Yet Violet was happy.

Maybe all the fevers and fury of first love were wasted.

And yet—and yet—Katharine couldn't hear to see Michael Heatheroe just now. Later, perhaps, when she had got over the shock of knowing he was going to marry someone else. When she'd managed to forget those scraps of words she had treasured so foolishly.

"My darling!" he had called her, holding her in his arms, that day Fur had flung her.

Or had she dreamed it?

Voices intruded into her day dream. "Katharine, we're going to have tea under the big maple.

Want to take time out? She put down her pen and tea would be grand! Lavinia brought the tray with the quimper and the thinly-sliced silver pot. "Anybody want it, you? Or Evelyn?" Evelyn Vincent was a lishwoman, a friend of She came now, balancing to glance at Katharine. "Oh, that's very nice. Look, Stan, don't you? "Mind if we look, The girl shook her ing. Funny, she didn't the least if these pe at her work. Owls Move Ahead of Wellington in Two Exciting Victories

The Memphis Owls staged a great comeback in the realm of baseball play in the Western Division of the Red River Valley Baseball League by snatching both ends of a doubleheader from the Wellington Gassers, third place club, yesterday afternoon at Fair Park Stadium.

According to unofficial standings—which do not include the other clubs in the loop—Memphis moved into third place in the division, a full game ahead of the Gassers, on the wave of determined baseballing that netted 8 to 7 and 5 to 4 victories before an almost packed park of rabid fans.

And equally encouraging was the announcement this morning that the Owls are to continue working, rather than letting down after a victory, which heretofore has taken the life out of the club after making one victorious stand.

Buck Whitfield, who had made no particularly startling showing all season, was the hero of yesterday in the last frame of the first tilt with the score tied, blanked the visitors, and got credit for the victory when, in the last half, Weathered doubled, went to third on a wild pitch and scored after the catch on Manager Joe Marcum's long fly to right.

Returning in the night cap, Whitfield hurled tight baseball until the sixth, when he weakened to allow Wellington to score three runs and take the lead. He came back in the seventh, however, to blank the visitors, and his mates reversed the outcome in the last frame.

Williamson singled, and the Gassers, as tight as last year's suit, committed three errors, fumbling and throwing wildly, to allow Williamson and Stewart, who batted for Phillips, to go home with the tying and winning runs.

Carl Melear, Wellington first sacker, led the attack with five hits in the two games, topped off by a pair of homers and a triple. Weathered also pounded out a homer.

The line scores:
Wellington 103 000 300—7 10 2
Memphis 500 000 291—8 10 3

D. Morgan, <night and Neeley; Stewart, Bullard, Whitfield and Sims

Wellington 000 103 0—4 6 3
Memphis 102 000 2—5 6 3

Knight R. Morgan and Neeley; Whitfield and Phillips.

WHEN LIVES ARE AT STAKE

You Need the Same Tire Protection That Race Drivers Demand

KELLY PETILLO on May 30 won the five hundred mile Indianapolis Race on FIRESTONE TIRES, breaking the track record and driving the entire distance at a rate of 106.240 miles per hour.

This record is an astounding demonstration of tire efficiency. To go 500 miles in less than five hours on this rough and bumpy 26-year-old brick track, without tire trouble of any kind, demonstrates the strength and blowout protection that Firestone builds into their Gum-Dipped Tires.

AB JENKINS ALSO RECENTLY demonstrated the stamina, efficiency, and blowout protection built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. He drove his 5000 pound car over the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, 3000 miles in 23 1/2 hours. This average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, and although temperatures were as high as 120°, he had no blowout or tire trouble of any kind.

There are reasons why Firestone Gum-Dipped give such amazing blowout protection. Every cord soaked and every strand is insulated with pure rubber, preventing internal friction and heat, the cause of blowouts. Gum-Dipping is a patented process not used in any other make of tire.

Take no chances—protect your life and the lives of others by letting us equip your car today with Firestone Tires and give you the Safety and Blowout Protection that race drivers demand.

BEFORE YOU BUY NEW TIRES ASK YOURSELF THESE THREE QUESTIONS

- 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"
- 2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"
- 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

ANSWER No. 1—Leading university tests show Firestone Speed Tires stop your car 15% quicker than the best of all makes of tires.

ANSWER No. 2—Unequaled performance records for consecutive years prove that Gum-Dipping gives you the greatest blowout protection ever known.

ANSWER No. 3—Thousands of car owners report unequal mileage records—evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

Volume—Direct Purchasing—Straight Line Manufacturing and Efficient and Economical System of Distributing to our Stores and to 30,000 Dealers, enables Firestone to give you greater values at lowest prices.

Sealtype LEAKPROOF TUBES

These new Sealtype Leak-Proof Tubes will give you greater mileage from your tires and are more economical. The initial cost is but little more than ordinary tubes.

Firestone chemists have developed a process of sealing the inner wall of the tube, which prevents air leakage. This, together with new cured-in rubber valve and an extra reinforced valve base vulcanized into the tube, makes this tube leak-proof and pinch-proof.
