A note on a table, written in a neat, firm, apparently nervous hand, said: "I am sorry about this. There is no necessity for an autopsy, so please turn my body over to the proper officials for burial. Do not try to locate relatives, as an special act of kindness, I have come here with the intention of avoiding this and I am far, far away. Kindly keep my suicide out of the papers, and quiet, so far as possible." No reason for her act was left by the young woman. She had apparently destroyed all letters or other articles which might lead officers to her relatives or friends by pieces together her own death, which culminated in self destruction. She was not without money. She had plenty of nice clothes. She was young, and pretty.

Reason For Act Unknown; Note Is Left

Young Woman Drinks Disinfectant In Hotel Room Here

What is her real name? Why did she go "far, far away" from relatives to end her life? And, why did she wish to die? Last night the body of an attractive woman, about 28 or 30 years of age lay in a morgue here. She committed suicide in a hotel room during Friday night by drinking disinfectant. Although she pleaded in a note left in the room that officers not attempt to find her relatives and that her suicide be kept as quiet as possible Sheriff Jess Slaughter last night was doing everything possible to establish her identity and locate her loved ones. At 9:35 p. m. Friday a well-dressed young woman registered at the Crawford hotel as "Mrs. L. Hunt, Chicago, Ill." She asked to be called at 9 a. m. Saturday. A few minutes after she went to her room she ordered a pot of coffee. When she did not answer the call by telephone Saturday morning attendants entered the room. They found her lying across the bed, in pajamas—dead. An empty disinfectant bottle was on the floor. Her lips and left hand were burned by the fluid. A note on a table, written in a neat, firm, apparently nervous hand, said: "I am sorry about this. There is no necessity for an autopsy, so please turn my body over to the proper officials for burial. Do not try to locate relatives, as an special act of kindness, I have come here with the intention of avoiding this and I am far, far away. But Lose 7-2 After Failing To Find Goal-Line Punch Oftimes KEZAR STADIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Southern Methodist University Mustangs from Dallas, heralded as one of the strongest teams in the nation and one that would give California real aerial circus' did that in a big way today but lost to the St. Marys Gaels 7 to 2. The Mustangs uncorked the assorted passes for which they are famous for a total of 11 completions in 14 attempts in the first half. Through the first three periods St. M. U. was inside St. Marys 10-yard line four times on first down but lacked a goal line punch for victory. On one occasion they lacked but an inch and a half of scoring. "Speedy" Weldon Mason, rated third All-America halfback on the Associated Press poll, was both a star and the goat in his last game. His fumble on a lateral pass from Gilbert in the last quarter led to St. Marys' touchdown. Mason then took the kickoff on his goal line and ran it back 40 yards. A few minutes later Delcambre, S.M.U. center, broke through to block a punt that rolled out of bounds behind the goal line for a safety. S.M.U. threatened twice more in the final minutes but intercepted passes but they off. Forty thousand people witnessed the game, one of the most thrilling in the Pacific coast has ever seen. Riley of S.M.U. was the outstanding lineman of the day.

Will Rogers Opens Today At Ritz In "Ambassador Bill"

Unofficial Diplomat To All Nations Untangles Things In Glamorous Little Kingdom

"Ambassador Bill." Will Rogers latest picture under the Fox banner, is regarded by some people as an actual historical document of some importance. This not because of anything dealt with in the plot, though this, too, has a timely interest; but because of the revelations it contains of the state methods in diplomacy.

As an unofficial diplomat, the "Ambassador Bill" of Washington Rogers has brought a note into international relations that is unique in history. It is a direct and to the point, and yet a timely interest; but because of the revelations it contains of the state methods in diplomacy.

So often in the past the course of nations, and of history, has been turned by the human equation. And this is just as true today as it ever was. It is fortunate, therefore, when there appears a man of the caliber of Rogers, who has the ability to make that element operate for the best, rather than the worst, that is in it.

The "Ambassador Bill," we see him as the tough, but truly wise American Ambassador who untangles the scrambled politics and royal loves of a glamorous little kingdom ruled by a boy king. Shocking the snobbish, Englishmen of the court by his total disregard for etiquette, he endears himself to the real human beings beneath the surface. Rogers, it will be remembered, has actually done this in real life, and knows whereof he speaks.

Rogers, it seems to be one of those rare individuals who are able to go through life as though the false fronts of other people did not exist.

AMBASSADOR BILL with GRETA NISSEN

AMBASSADOR BILL with GRETA NISSEN

AMBASSADOR BILL with GRETA NISSEN

Plays New Role

EVELYN BRENT gives the finest characterization of her film career in "Traveling Husbands" Wednesday and Thursday at the Ritz Theatre.

And what is rarer still, he is able to do this without giving of offense to either.

This humane quality is said to reach its full favor in "Ambassador Bill" which opens today at the Ritz Theatre for a three-day run. That this is an unusual occasion no surprise, considering the theme. In it Will Rogers, the star, is simply reliving the life that has made him famous. Sam Taylor is credited with a capable directional job in this picture, and the supporting cast is also said to have reflected the star's enthusiasm. This includes Marguerite Churchill, Greta Nissen, Tad Alexander, Gustav von Seyffertitz, and Ray Milland.

At the Queen Theatre Wednesday and Thursday the feature picture will be "Good Sport" featuring Linda Watkins and John Boles. With them will appear Greta Nissen, Minna Gombell, Hedda Hopper, Allan Dinehart, Claire Maynard, Joyce Compton and Sully Blane. Kenneth Mackenna is the director of this Fox picture.

Coach John P. "Clipper" Smith of North Carolina State college football has lost 15 pounds since the season began.

Meet Mr. Traveling Salesman—He's the parlor car Bedouin, the rib-tongued knight of the rails who carries novelties in his grip and love in his heart wherever he goes.

He's the champion story-teller of the world. Everybody likes him. The Don Juan-like adventures of these smooth-tongued romancers are humorously told in Radio Pictures' unusual comedy-drama "Traveling Husbands" showing at the Ritz theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

These modern touchstones of love, as they fill from one amorous adventure to another, are presented in an interesting light in this rollicking film.

Cagney Shines With Blondell

'Blonde Crazy' Presents Wife Pitted Against Half-Dozen

"Blonde Crazy," the Warner Brothers feature picture which will be shown Friday and Saturday at the Ritz Theatre, brings to the screen two of the ablest young players in the Hollywood colony, James Cagney and Joan Blondell.

Warner Brothers show wisdom in recognizing the exceptional work this unique pair has been doing in pictures and their first co-featured roles in "Blonde Crazy" prove that they can more than live up to the early promise of their work.

"Blonde Crazy," by Kubec Glasmon and John Bright, those interesting newcomers to the ranks of screen writers who gave us first "The Public Enemy," and then "Smart Money," is a new type of hoodlum tale, not by any means a gangster story, yet as fascinatingly true to life as those other productions which bore their stamp.

A bell-boy and linen-girl in a big city hotel learn a dozen minor rackets from their associations with transients. It is a new and fertile field and Cagney and Blondell make the interesting story vividly alive by the convincing performances they give. There is always dramatic material in a hotel setting, but the material that Glasmon and Bright have used here is unusual.

Louis Calhern, who only recently reached Hollywood and pictures plays Dapper Dan, an unsympathetic assurance. Ned Francis is attractive as Dan's fishy lady, Gay Kibbee, Ray Milland, Polly Walters, Charles Levinson, William Burruss, Maude Euburne, Walter Percival and Nat Pendleton and others are well chosen for the parts they play.

"Blonde Crazy" was directed by Roy del Ruth. He has succeeded in turning out another box office attraction that deserves the rating of first class entertainment. The early prediction that Cagney would go far in screen roles is emphasized in this picture and Miss Blondell adds to her large following.

"Blonde Crazy" is excellently photographed. It's a picture you'll rave about.

"Good Sport" At Queen Two Days

With them will appear Greta Nissen, Minna Gombell, Hedda Hopper, Allan Dinehart, Claire Maynard, Joyce Compton and Sully Blane. Kenneth Mackenna is the director of this Fox picture.

Exploits of 'Parlor Car Bedouins' Is Theme In 'Traveling Husbands'

Meet Mr. Traveling Salesman—He's the parlor car Bedouin, the rib-tongued knight of the rails who carries novelties in his grip and love in his heart wherever he goes.

He's the champion story-teller of the world. Everybody likes him. The Don Juan-like adventures of these smooth-tongued romancers are humorously told in Radio Pictures' unusual comedy-drama "Traveling Husbands" showing at the Ritz theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

These modern touchstones of love, as they fill from one amorous adventure to another, are presented in an interesting light in this rollicking film.

The salesman's life is a mixture of sales argument, flirtation, conquest and remorse. He is irresistible in love, never takes "no" for a final answer and usually gets what he goes after.

Buck Jones Beat Death In 'Branded'

Star 'Framed' In Rustling And Mail Robbery Charges

Twice in the shadow of the gallows. That's the experience of Buck Jones in "Branded," his latest starring vehicle for Columbia Pictures, showing Friday and Saturday of this week at the Queen theatre.

Once, he is framed in a deal, that threatens to implicate him as a cattle rustler, one of the most serious breaches of range-law. The cowboys decide to settle this in their own way—lynching. It is only by some unexpected coincidences that he escapes punishment.

The second time that the hangman's noose dangerously approaches Buck's throat is also the result of an unjust conviction. But it arises from a cause, which is considered serious in the law of all-robbing the mail. Circumstantial evidence indicates him as the "marked man." A surprise climax is said to clear his name of this crime and bring the picture to a happy conclusion . . . after a series of events that involve him in daredevilry of the highest order. But Buck Jones thrives on roles of that type.

Supporting the well-known western star are Ethel Kenyon, who plays the feminine lead, Al Smith, Wallace MacDonald, Bob Kortman and John Oscar. D. Ross Lederman handled the direction.

SKIN AND CLAWS PERTH, Australia (AP)—Shortage of currency in Australia does not worry the men of the Nor-West of Western Australia, where, in some parts, dingy or wild dog skins and hawk claws circulate as money.

Dingo skins are worth about $10 each. The government pays a dollar for each pair of hawk claws.

It is not unusual at the wayback race meetings to see the wagers being made in skins and claws. A good winner has to take his booty away in a cart.

TO HAVE TIMEKEEPER The St. Mary's auxiliary are going to try a new scheme to get their members out and on time. They are going to have a timekeeper beginning with the meeting in the Parish House tomorrow. Mrs. Geo. Garrette will be the timekeeper.

Red Cross Seal Warning

The Child Study Club has informed the Herald that unauthorized persons in town are selling Red Cross Tuberculosis Seals and pocketing the money.

Someone has reported that a small boy has been selling 1929 and 1930 stamps. Others have declined to buy on the grounds that the Chamber of Commerce will mail out stamps. This is a mistake. The Chamber of Commerce and no other civic organization except the Child Study Club and the P. T. A., can sell these seals.

Only a person buying a 1931 seal (and it can be easily recognized, because every stamp has the year plainly printed on it) is contributing something to the tuberculosis fund. Sixty cents of every dollar's worth of stamps sold remains in Howard County to be used by authorized agents for tuberculosis and child welfare in this county.

The Child Study Club has placed seal boxes in several business houses and has asked many children to sell 1931 stamps through the P. T. A.'s. It is very easy for purchasers to inform themselves that they are buying the right seal from the right persons, if they will check up on these details.

The Child Study Club made the following agreement with the Texas Tuberculosis Association before agreeing to become sole agents for Howard County:

The Texas Tuberculosis Association, authorized state agent for the sale of Christmas Seals, hereinafter referred to as the State Association, hereby contracts with and appoints the Child Study Club, hereinafter referred to as the Agent, of the city of Big Spring, state of Texas, sole agents for the sale of Christmas Seals and substitutes for Howard County, Texas. Acceptance of this appointment by said agent is understood and agreed by the parties hereto as a promise on the part of said agent to perform all the terms and conditions of this contract on its part to be performed.

The said agent agrees to observe such rules and regulations as may be issued by the State Association or the National Tuberculosis Association especially the regulations governing the mail sale. Mrs. R. E. Blount, Pres. Mrs. E. J. Heywood, Sec.

The following children took part: Betty Jean Fisher as the grandmother; Janis Jacobs as the mother; A. J. Prager, J. B. Bronstein, Sidney Mellinger and Julian Fisher as the four sons, Joseph, David, Robert and Leo; with Sammy Mellinger, Joel and Emily Prager also on the stage. The play was splendidly rendered and the children acted their parts remarkably well. Many visitors attended the meeting.

The Fashion Parade

Flared Hem Of Skirt Lends Grace To Frock
PARIS (AP)—Any evening begins well, with the donning of this sophisticated black sheath of an evening dress.

Heavy fall is draped to outline the figure, and falls into loose swathed folds at the hips. The fullness at the waist is drawn into a bustle at the back of the dress. Mirande has designed this dress with careful attention to contrasts of fullness and of straight sweeps of black. The flared hem curving out from the straight skirt, accentuates the grace of the frock.

Hand Bouquets Match Flowers On Shoulder
WASHINGTON (AP)—Small hand bouquets to match the ones worn by the shoulders are the fad of this year's Washington debutantes. Orchids or gardenias are the favored flowers. They are usually worn on the left shoulder with a sprig of greenery and a flutter of ribbon while the wearer holds a smaller version of the same bouquet in her right hand.

If flowers are worn at the waist they are usually in the back instead of the front.

Wide Bell Sleeves Set Off Brown Frock
PARIS (AP)—Sleeves ring the bell for popularity this season, and a brown frock by Bruyere carries out the idea with its wide bell sleeves.

Further accentuation of the sleeves is found in the long shoulder line, which on one side is emphasized by a fold of the material. This square-cut neck is echoed in the design of the unusually wide girdle. Against the brown crepe of the dress, the cerise of the girdle makes a dominant note of color. Fullness of the skirt is tailored in long lines.

Furred Suit Finishes Worn to Luncheons
PARIS (AP)—Suits are playing a leading role in fashion's pageant these days. Despite the winter vogue for coats, many chic Parisians are appearing at luncheon and tea parties in smartly fur-trimmed ensembles.

Members of the younger set are wearing suits with short flared jackets, while older women choose three-quarter length straight jackets.

Gray Outfit Smart For Afternoon Wear
PARIS (AP)—A symphony in gray has been worked out by Patou for formal afternoon wear.

Oxford gray tweed forms the skirt and three-quarter length coat, the material being lightened by a white stripe. Gray astrakhan is looped into suave cuffs, and the same fur in a broad band edges the neck and is carried down the complete length of the coat. At the waist, the coat is moulded in a modified silhouette and the stitching carried down the coat paralleling the fur.

Rhinestone Bands On Evening Gloves
WASHINGTON (AP)—Bands of rhinestones were used as trimming on the long white gloves of Dorothy Nicholson when she made her bow to Washington society at a dinner dance.

Her dress was of white tulle covered with silver sequins. The full skirt was made of tiers of the tulle edged with silver.

BANQUET SPEAKER SECURED
Mrs. R. L. Gouillon announced that for the annual banquet to be given by the Young People of the First Baptist Church next Friday evening, she has secured for chief speaker on the program, Walter Jackson, educational director of the First Baptist Church of Abilene. His wife will also be present. There will be other numbers and a fine program is planned to entertain upward of 100 guests expected for the evening.

The Song of Quetzalcoatl

By John Hubert Coryn (The Antioch Press)

An unsuspecting reviewer was I when I asked for this book. Little did I dream I was getting such a treasure or that anything like it actually existed. Being merely an interested onlooker regarding everything Mexican, especially early Mexican, I walked calmly into a gold mine. Old Quetzalcoatl (not such a bad name if you pronounce it slowly) as all Texans should know and don't, is the feathered serpent of Mexico, God of the Air and the Wind.

Visitors to Mexico today report that one of the most impressive and unforgettable sights are the pyramids in the Valley of Mexico which date far back into antiquity. Among these ruins is the shrine of the wind God, I am going to quote a short description of it:

"The temple of Quetzalcoatl, faced with carefully cut stone, rises in five pyramidal terraces to eighty feet in height. A magnificent staircase, thirty feet wide, leads to the broad platform summit upon which the shrine of the Wind diety once stood. Huge ornate serpents carved in stone decorate each of the walls of the five terraces connecting the stairways on all four sides. These serpents, undulating and tutted with feathers, are the graphic representations of Quetzalcoatl as the God of the Air."

Favorite God
This was the favorite God of the Toltecs as they ended their empire. He belongs in the list of the world's great prophets. His people reached the peak of their culture under him.

Then came an enemy who conquered him and drove him out into the Gulf of Mexico. As all races expect of their saviors, his people thought he would return again in triumph. When the Spaniards entered Mexico and found the powerful Aztecs they conquered them easily, so some moderns think, because the Aztecs inheriting the legends of the Toltecs, believed these first Spaniards were Quetzalcoatl and his followers returning.

This book is written by Dr. Coryn, professor of Aztec language and literature in the National University of Mexico, who has studied the race with lovely and a rare understanding. He has translated many old records and he believes that many of the early Spanish accounts of the ancient history of Mexico are folk stories and legends handed down by memory from generation to generation. These people had a picture form of writing and not until the Spaniards came and taught them an alphabet did they find a proper method of preserving these stories. Dr. Coryn is busy with research new. This book is the first of many that he can and probably will give the world.

Resembles Hiawatha
The song itself is written in verse form, resembling Longfellow's "Hiawatha." For that reason it should be popular in this country. The author gives a precise account of the Wind God which covers 60 pages, the song occupying only 90.

Just to show you how lovely the verse form is, I am giving you one quotation: Moving, moving, always marching Streamed its bright flames ever upward Straight across the sky they traveled Lighting with their brilliant wonder All the far-extended heavens: Long continued their outflaming Father reaching, ever going.

Former Pastor Of B. S. Baptists Has Tragic Experience

The Rev. W. A. Bowen, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church of this city and now pastor of the Hope, Ark., Baptist church was called by a friend to fill a pulpit in an Atlanta, Ga., church recently and had the tragic experience of preaching the funeral service of his friend and host three days later.

The friend, C. E. Allen, president of the First National Bank of Macon, Ga., drove from his home in Macon to Atlanta to hear Mr. Bowen speak and hurriedly returned to his home Sunday evening. Mr. Bowen following Monday-morning. When Mr. Bowen reached Macon, he learned that Mr. Allen had been killed on his return trip when his car was hit by an express train. Funeral services were held in both Macon and Atlanta, with Mr. Bowen officiating at both.

Don't Be Misled!
Increased Chain Store Taxes Mean Increased Prices for You to Pay!
The state taxes now proposed against chain stores are leveled directly at your pocketbook. They will confiscate your savings—the savings which the chain stores' large scale buying and economical operating methods have brought to you. The immediate and lasting result of these proposed taxes would be higher prices to you—the consumer.
A recent bulletin issued by the Texas Independent Merchants Association states this quite frankly. It says: "It will be readily seen that a high license tax will force these chains to raise their general level of retail prices so as to put them on a level with the independents."
Fight these taxes! They concern you! They will take money out of your pocket! Tell your State Representative that you want and need the savings which chain stores give you. Act now!

Competing With Chinese Coolies

THE FEAR that Southern cotton farmers would some day have to compete with the pauper-produced cotton of India and China has become a reality. They are not only competing today with the coolies of rice and weavers of breach-cloths, but they are actually underselling them in the markets of the Orient.

It was announced by a Dallas cotton man last week that sales of Texas cotton in Japan and China had increased tremendously during the past few weeks, not because of the Sino-Japanese war but because the cotton buyers of Japan and China could actually buy Texas cotton cheaper than they could purchase the Indian and Chinese product.

This authority estimated that Japan would buy 100 per cent more Texas cotton this year than last,
simply because it can be bought cheaper.

The increased sales to Japan,
while they do not appear to be helping the price situation at all,
will perhaps have one good effect
—they will lower the holdover stocks on hand in this country and clear the way for the marketing of next year's crop.

Southern farmers are entitled to get whatever consolation they can from the fact that in 1931 much of the cotton crop in the world will be sold at a price lower than again will the price return to former levels. Not many cotton buyers are going to break their necks in a wild scramble to purchase something as plentiful as cotton is at this moment. That is, not unless the whole economic scene changes radically from the present outlook.

Pretty Clothes Disturb Communism

KANSAS CITY Times: An AMERICAN woman, returning from Russia, reports that women and girls of the Soviet republic, notwithstanding restrictions tending to create a dead level of uniformity in dress, as in other things, still have their vanity, and like pretty clothes. It is indicated that the exercise of the traditional feminine instinct has not proceeded far enough to incur official disapproval, for the good reason that the pretty clothes are hard to obtain in the country. But if the ladies should continue to insist upon having them, if the spread of education within the republic and a gradual gain of knowledge of the outside world should create a wide demand for privileges and possessions common to people elsewhere
just what would the Soviet authorities be able to do about it? How long can a country of about 160 million people be kept an airtight compartment? How long can human nature including that of the women, be denied outlets in one country that are permitted in others?

Removing Tonsils Electrically
After ten years of experimentation and study of the removal of tonsils by various electrical means, it appears to be the opinion of competent observers that "electronic" removal of tonsils cannot yet be considered as the most desirable method for routine removal of the tonsils.

This judgment is editorially expressed in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The process has certain advantages over straight surgical tonsilectomy. But there are also certain disadvantages.

Where there are certain complications existing, electrological removal of the tonsils may be the preferred method of operation.

Young patients with heart disease, tuberculosis, or kidney disease are better served by this method than by straight surgery.

The advantages reside in the process being practically painless and shock free.

Anesthesia is not required, hemorrhage is prevented, the tonsils are sterilized, and they may be removed, or better, coagulated and destroyed slowly in any number of desired treatments.

There are of course the disadvantages of time consumed in the treatment, and the proportionate expense.

There is some danger of the treatments leading to sloughing of tissue, and to swelling and oedema.
Abscesses may also form.

The editorial wisely warns that "many considerations must enter into the decision of the individual physician in the individual case as to whether or not electrocoagulation or surgical removal is to be the method of choice."

"In the vast majority of cases,
electrological removal of the tonsils has not yet been proved to be the method of choice."

"This should not interfere, however, with its application in properly selected instances."

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON — Republicans
would have had to look a long time to find a more stalwart party man for leader than

Bertrand Snell
of New York.
A member of the triumvirate
of Longworth, Tilson and Snell,
which dominated the house
for so long, the New Yorker in recent years has more and more
been looked to
for his leadership.

Some months ago there was
criticism of him
in regard to his stand on the tariff.
There were accusations of "backsliding," but he never wavered away. He seems as orthodox today
as ever.

His democratic friends smiled a little perhaps at his promises to "liberalize" the rules of the house
while campaigning
for the speakership. As chairman of the rules committee for six years,
Snell was held up
by some as an "oppressor."

Last year he was accused of applying the "rigid" rule on a bill of legislation calling for federal expenditures on many miscellaneous
projects.

Defends His Action
He countered that unless he as chairman of the rules
committee did not prevent enactment
of extra-legislation, the treasury
would be drained
and additional taxes would have to be levied.

And he later had
the satisfaction
of telling his colleagues that his warning was not heeded and the treasury faces a huge deficit.

Some regard Snell
as pugnacious.
This is probably because usually he prefers to keep quiet until a battle
on the floor reaches the point where the republicans
need their so-called
"big guns." Then
he goes into action with everything he has.

LADY with a PAST
BY HARRIET HENRY

SYNOPSIS: An invitation to Mrs. Coates' villa at Biarritz gives Venice Muir further scope in her campaign for popularity. She is creating for herself the reputation of dazzling social success in Europe, with which to return home and win a New York that has considered her a social liability.
Guy Bryson has helped launch her in Paris. Now Rene de Thénardier is pursuing her. Mrs. Coates has invited Rene in the hope of interesting him in her niece, Rosemary. Venice cares for Rene only as a symbol of her success, and wants him to marry Rosemary.

Chapter 24
A WINDOW OVER THE SEA
Venice had not a serious discussion with Rene about Rosemary. They sat on the grass outside the villa one golden afternoon watching the sea and, hatless, letting an impet-uous little breeze play with their hair.

"She's the best-natured girl I ever met," said Venice.
Rene shrugged and raised his hands with a delicate kind of horror.

"But no grace, no aplomb."
"But such a sense of humour."
"So has a fishmonger."
"That's unkind, Rene. And she likes you."

"So does the femme de chambre."
"But the femme de chambre is not eligible."
"Neither is Rosemary."
"What do you mean? She's single and jolly and rich. What more do you want, Rene?"

"Charm."
"Charm won't comfort you when you're ill or fill your lonely hours."
Why was she taking such pains
over Rosemary's future, Venice wondered. Because she liked her, of course, and because obviously Rosemary was better enough to fit into any marriage of convenience. And as far as Rene was concerned surely one match for money was as good as another.

"C'est vrai," he admitted. "But charm is a — what do you say — stop gap for the hours of monotony that marriage is bound to bring."
Venice sighed. This was proving difficult.

"I think you're stupid," she protested. "You would love to have money and here it is for you on a silver platter."
"No," said Rene. "It is on a puddy hot, I do not like fat."

He shuddered with real aversion.
Venice rose and brushed the grass from her skirt. "Of course I've been impertinent. It's not my business anyway."
"Don't go," he caught her hand and tried to detain her. "I want to tell you something, Venice."
"Is it nice?"

"Very."
"Then save it, please, Rene. I promised Mrs. Coates I'd be ready at four to drive to St. Jean with her."

Somewhat suddenly he followed her to the villa. Mrs. Coates was sitting in the Rolls impatiently.
This was impossible, Venice with Rene ill after noon, Rosemary upstairs asleep, the clerk too much anyway, and Guy writing letters.
"I'm sorry," cried Venice. "To have kept you waiting, it was lovely in so long, the New Yorker in recent years has more and more been looked to for his leadership.

Some months ago there was criticism of him in regard to his stand on the tariff. There were accusations of "backsliding," but he never wavered away. He seems as orthodox today as ever.

His democratic friends smiled a little perhaps at his promises to "liberalize" the rules of the house while campaigning for the speaker-ship. As chairman of the rules committee for six years, Snell was held up by some as an "oppressor."

Defends His Action He countered that unless he as chairman of the rules committee did not prevent enactment of extra-legislation, the treasury would be drained and additional taxes would have to be levied.

And he later had the satisfaction of telling his colleagues that his warning was not heeded and the treasury faces a huge deficit.

Some regard Snell as pugnacious. This is probably because usually he prefers to keep quiet until a battle on the floor reaches the point where the republicans need their so-called "big guns." Then he goes into action with everything he has.

He is frank—at times painfully so—alert and a quick thinker. In his personal contacts he is likeable but he will fight to the last breath against legislation he believes wrong or ill-advised. At the same time he has waged battles for legislation he approves even in the face of administration opposition.

A Good Loser As chairman of the rules committee, some observers were of the opinion that Snell was the closest man in the house to the late Speaker Longworth.

It is true that Longworth often called on him to take the chair when quick action was desired. His decisions were reached quickly, and he stuck to them to the end.

He lost some of his fights, but he met defeat with good humor.

Snell, who at the age of 61 remains physically active, is of medium height. He has a ruddy face and his grey hair is thinning. When he can spare the time he likes to play golf.

Recently, he has arisen from book-keeper to his party's choice for one of the highest offices in the government. Since 1915 he has served un-interruptedly in the house.

Dealers Display New Chevrolet Models

CHEVROLET SPECIAL SEDAN

Chevrolet's new car for 1932 (shown above) went on display Saturday at dealer showrooms throughout the nation. Hundreds crowded into the Carter Chevrolet company's plant at Third and Johnson streets, to inspect the new model.

Chevrolet's new car for 1932 went on display yesterday at dealer showrooms throughout the nation. Embodiment of silent syncro-mesh transmission in combination with selective free-wheeling, a twenty per cent increase in power, top speed of 65 to 70 miles an hour, streamlined bodies and a wealth of other new features, the new car remains in the price range of the current series, the lowest at which a Chevrolet has ever sold.

Heralded as "The Great American Value for 1932," the car boasts more extensive changes than any annual Chevrolet model since the change-over to a six in 1928. Yet changes are mostly refinements over the basic design of the 1931 car which, from the standpoint of public acceptance, was the most successful in the history of the company, and brought Chevrolet first place in the industry during the highly competitive market of the past twelve months.

Practically every proven automotive feature of recent years is incorporated in the new 1932 Chevrolet, as well as a new "stabilized" front end construction embodied for the first time on any car. Outstanding improvements in the 32 line over last year's models are down-draft carburetion, counter balanced crankshaft, smaller wheels and larger tires, smaller changed front appearance, "finger touch" front seat adjustment, cowl ventilator on all models, hood doors instead of louvers, improved clutch and an additional cross member in the frame.

Plants Busy
The 21 domestic plants are now busy producing the new line. The stimulus to employment in the Chevrolet organization, in affiliated Fisher Body plants and among independent suppliers made possible by the introduction of the car, it is conservatively estimated, will add to the earnings of 200,000 people.

Twelve standard body styles are in the line this year—3 open and nine closed Fisher bodies—all in new Duco color combinations and all with smart new features. In addition, eight models also are available with deluxe equipment, making possible individuality of ownership and providing selection from twenty different types.

Of the mechanical changes, the outstanding one is the new transmission held in the county courtroom at 3 p. m. each Sunday.

Eagles Whip Sweetwater In Bi-District Conflict, Upholding Belt's Record

Early Spree By Hicks Overcome Quickly; Wyatt Has Field Day Against Former Mates; Abilene Clicks In Fourth

By CURTIS BISHOP
Special Correspondent

The Abilene Eagles defeated the Sweetwater Mustangs 21 to 6 in their bi-district clash Friday afternoon at Abilene before a crowd of 5,500 to maintain the supremacy of the Oil Belt over West Texas football, and to advance a step further on their road to the state championship, which they captured last in 1928.

Outplayed in the first quarter and trailing 6 to 0 after Mike Hicks, Sweetwater's widely-bally-hooded back, broke into the clear just as the gun sounded out the end of the initial period and raced 83 yards for a touchdown. Dewey Maybaw's henchmen came back to play the determined Ponies off their feet in the next three periods.

Behind a bulky, capable line, led by Balfanz at end and Stanley Smith at center, Glenn Wyatt, former Sweetwater backfield ace, led the Eagles to a decisive victory over the Mustangs. Wyatt had a field day against his former mates, gaining more yardage than any man on the field with his quick thrusts off-tackle and his quick runs and leading an aerial attack that functioned almost perfectly when needed. Sam Jones, hard-hitting fullback, tore the Sweetwater line to shreds in the last two quarters and scored two of the Eagles' three touchdowns. Wyatt made the other on a six-yard run.

The Mustangs scored first just as the quarter ended. Sheridan's punt brought the ball to the Abilene 10 yard line where Bledsoe downed Wyatt in his tracks. After a single play Wyatt kicked to Sheridan who returned almost to midfield. Sweetwater reeled off a first down with Baugh plumping the line for two nice gains but the Mustang quarterback lost the ball on the Abilene 30 yard line when Hughes of the Eagles covered his fumble.

After two running plays Wyatt pointed to the Sweetwater 20 yard line, but Hicks muffed the kick and Strother covered for the Ponies on his own 18-yard marker. A triple pass, Baugh to Sheridan to Hicks, made it first down for the red-jerseyed warriors on their 33-yard line. A 15-yard penalty brought the ball back deep into Sweetwater territory and Baugh was thrown for a yard loss on a line play. From there Hicks raced across the Abilene goal line.

perfect interference screening the "Roscoe Rambler" all of the way. Woods failed to convert. Abilene immediately threatened. Wyatt's pass to Balfanz was low with the Eagle end in the open after Jones and Wyatt had consorted to make two consecutive first downs, but the Eagle quarterback retaliated by making it first down on the Mustang 42 yard line with a nice run. Two pretty runs that made up for a four yard loss by Wyatt came to naught when Hicks covered Jones' fumble on his own 21 yard line. Sheridan kicked out on the Abilene 30 yard line. Jones and Wyatt hammered out two first downs to the Sweetwater 35 yard line on power plays. Wyatt dropped back on the first down and tossed a 35 yard pass to Balfanz, who was run out by Hicks on the Mustang 3 yard stripe. Jones carried the ball over in four line plays. Davis, a substitute sent in for Kucholtz at tackle, sent the ball tumbling between the up-rights and the Eagles were in the lead.

Second Touchdown

The Maybawmen scored again in the earlier part of the fourth period. With the ball in midfield Wyatt led a 50 yard advance that was culminated when Jones plunged 3 yards for a touchdown in four plays. Davis again entered the game and again delivered.

Balfanz put the Eagles in a position to score another touchdown as he intercepted his second pass of the day and returned to the 20-yard stripe. Wyatt and Jones, Abilene's offensive combination, made it first down on the Sweetwater 10-yard line. Jones and Wyatt were held and the ball went over to the Mustangs on their own 8-yard line. Sheridan got off a bad punt to his own 17 yard line. Wyatt and Jones made it first down for the Eagles on the Ponies' 6 yard line and on the next play the flashy Wyatt went over for a touchdown.

The final three minutes found the Ponies resorting to a desperate overhead attack that never materialized. Baugh, the passing sensation of District 4, was throwing them everywhere but in the right place all afternoon and the Mustangs gained little territory via the aerial route. Four of Baugh's heaves were gathered in by Eagle players.

Balfanz, Groseclose, and Stanley Smith starred in that great Abilene line while Grimsley and Sam

Baugh featured the defensive play of the losers.

The lineup:

Sweetwater	Abilene
Jones	Left End
Grimsley	Left Tackle
Strother	Left Guard
B. Baugh	Center
Brooks (c)	Right Guard
Rogers	Right Tackle
Bledsoe	Right End
S. Baugh	Quarterback

Letters To Santa

Childhood's annual messages to Santa Claus have begun pouring in to the Herald, for transmission to Santa himself.

Here is the first group of letters to Santa:

Dear Santa:

I am a little girl five years old. Some girls like boys' toys, so I want an electric train, windmill that I can put sand in, and a pan for the sand to empty into, and I won't forget to tell you I've been a good girl. But mother doesn't think so.

Love,
Franklin Ellen Seely,
Care of Owen-Silena Oil Co.,
Forsan, Texas.

Dear Santa Claus:

For Christmas will you please send me a doll, a story book, and an electric iron. I thank you for coming to see me last year.

Your Little Friend,
Patsy Ruth Stalcup, 1163 Johnson St.

Dear Santa Claus:

I hope what I want is not too much. I want an aviator suit, a tricycle if mine can't be fixed, some books, and a white shirt and a pair of black pants. If this is too much take some of it off. And I wish you a merry Christmas. Oh, and I forgot to tell you I want some cars, some little and some big.

From Champe Phillips.

Dear Santa Claus:

I am a little boy four years old and want you to bring me a little red wagon, a pop gun, some candy, fruit and nuts and don't forget my little brother, Billie Gene. I think he would like a little duck. I have been a good boy to mother, dad and Grandma. I live on Second street.

Your Best Friend,
John Dean Witt.

Dear Santa:

Please bring me a set of dishes, a doll, a little table and chair, a box of crayolas, a black board and some books.

Your Little Friend,
Carolyn Lee Cantrell.

Dear Santa Claus:

Please bring me a football, a fire engine, and a watch that will keep time and bring all the other children something, too.

Your Friend,
John Billie Gary.

Dear Santa:

Please bring me a football, watch and some firecrackers. Be sure and bring some cannon crackers.

Your Friend,
Jack Gary.

Crawford Dinner-Dance Again Is Successful

"Southern Nights" another of the Crawford Hotel's dinner-dance series, attracted many diners and dancers Friday evening.

Guests came into the ballroom for dinner to the tune of southern melodies by Gerald Liberty and his Crawford Hotel orchestra, featuring Broox Havens, accordionist.

A floor show was presented during dinner. Stude Robinson, a new member of the troupe of entertainers making headquarters at the Crawford Hotel, acted as master of ceremonies.

The first number was a "preaching" song by Bob Allen. Lew Parker, as high-brow negro gal, sang a blues number. Dorothy Frost appeared in a toe dance that was well received. A negro dance was given by a pupil of Miss Frost and a novelty number was given by Jack and Jane Humphries. Bobby and Calvin, Jr., Boykin.

Parker and Allen, a popular pair, appeared in a number of songs and dances that were widely applauded.

Plans for another of these affairs are being made. It will be "A Wicked Waffle Pajama Party," probably late next week.

Continental Opens New Series of NBC Program 10:30 A.M.

CARVETH WELLS

Sustaining its reputation established during the past two seasons for bringing to the air radio entertainment that is unique and instructive, as well as highly entertaining, the Continental Oil Company returns to the National Broadcasting Company network Sunday, December 6th, at 10:30 a. m. Central Standard time with what promises to be its outstanding series of radio entertainments.

The weekly programs, numbering twenty-six, and titled "Exploring America with Conoco and Carveth Wells," feature that distinguished British explorer and engineer, member of the Explorers' Club and Fellow of the Royal Geographic Society. Wells has already built an international reputation as a radio character by relating his experiences in Africa, the Polar regions, and other strange out-of-the-beaten-path corners of the world.

But in the Conoco programs Wells will tell, for the benefit of American audiences, the thrilling stories of the wonderland that is our own country.

"I have explored from the air, under the sea, the surface of the earth, and many great caverns in the earth," said Wells, "but I have come to the conclusion that if I were to start my travels all over again, I would see America first. Right here in the United States are to be found some of the most wonderful things in the world and it has always amazed me to find so few Americans who have taken the trouble to explore their own country."

Taking the various American wonder places by state, Wells will conduct personal tours by radio, describing in his typically vivid, colorful style the marvels that await the American seeing his own country. His opening program will deal with Southern Arizona. His talks are replete with facts and fancier that are little known, never published, and which make his sparkling comments second only in interest to an actual visit to the regions described.

HOME TOWN

after watching the experiences of other towns, that the best way to operate an airport is as a municipal property.

But, since it's not, we can't help it right now.

The airport company has no money. It was created as a stock company early in 1929 when Texas Air Transport offered to make this a regular stopping point. About $40,000 was paid for stock. The field was bought. Hangars, Crawford Hotel, acted as master of ceremonies.

First mortgage bonds against the airport company's property were floated to obtain funds for the improvements.

Now, where would money be obtained to build all-weather runways?

The only way we can see would be by regular subscription.

Its not a matter to be prognosticated with.

You've heard the crowd gripe about Midland doing this or getting that.

If she should take this step away from us it would be our own fault.

How about it?
George McDaniel, Jr., circulation manager of the Abilene Reporter-News, was a visitor in Big Spring yesterday for a short while. He was enroute to Pecos by automobile.

Two Odessa Oil Workers Gassed

ODESSA, Dec. 5.—Two men were seriously gassed while working on well No. 89 of the Gulf-McElroy lease 17 miles south of here today. George Mossholder, driller and Pose Kibbourn, helper, were pulling tools when the well formed a head and flowed, causing both men to be overcome by gas.

Killbourn, first to revive, found Mossholder, who had shut off the well, breathing more gas than his companion. Workmen who came to the rescue of the men rushed

Why Not A ROBE or a DRESSING GOWN?

Men at heart are homebodies. Ask one his idea of happiness and he'll reply "A book in a fireside corner, a pipe, and a comfy robe, to relax in." Doesn't that solve your gift problem? He'll pick his own reading matter, he'll die before he gives up his pipe...but he'll welcome a new robe. We have them in silk with Skinner Satin Trims...and Beacon Robes.

Mid-West Sets Pace On All-America Team Compiled By Associated Press

Three Notre Dame Men Chosen On First Team

BY ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor) NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—As the smoke from the barrage of All-America ballots cleared away today, the great mid-west emerged with a clear-cut advantage over all rival sections on the football battlefields. Repeating their conquests of 1930 the outstanding stars of the American midlands carried off six of the eleven positions on the All-America consensus, compiled by the Associated Press from the ballots of sports writers and editors in all parts of the country.

The south and far west, each of which disputes the mid-west's claims to team supremacy, gained two positions apiece. The lone eastern representative on the eleven is William Barry Wood Jr., Harvard's captain and the outstanding choice of the nation for the quarterback role occupied for the previous two years by Frank Carideo of Notre Dame.

Schwartz Repeats Notre Dame, with three places and Northwestern, with two, duplicate their achievements in the 1930 Associated Press balloting. The all-star representatives of the Fighting Irish are Marchmont Schwartz in the backfield, Captain Tom Yarr at center and Frank Hoffman at guard. Northwestern placed Pug Rentner among the ball carriers and Dallas Marvil at tackle. The sixth midwestern honor man is Minnesota's 212-pound captain, Clarence Dalrymple.

The south furnishes the two All-America ends in Captain Gerald Dalrymple of Tulane and Vernon (Cattfish) Smith, Georgia's colorful performer. The far west's contributions to the first team are Erny Pinckert, star blocking back of the University of Southern California, and Paul Schweigler, great tackle of the University of Washington.

Dalrymple Second in Votes The results of The Associated Press balloting in the seventh annual consensus since Walter Camp's death indicate striking support for several of their choices. Schwartz was voted the year's outstanding back, with 253 votes out of a possible 270.

Dalrymple was not far behind in total votes, with 225, and Munn, with 201, rated as the country's leading lineman. Rentner, with 211 votes and Wood, with 218, also were overwhelming favorites.

Leadership of the mid-west was maintained in the selection of second and third All-America teams. Of the total of 33 players placed, 14 go to the mid-west, eight to the east, five to the far west and one to the southeast.

Last year the mid-west led with 11, while the far west gained nine places, the east eight, the south four and southeast one.

Pinckert By A Nose The principal contests in the 1931 balloting involved the fourth backfield position and the second tackle jobs. Pinckert, the only repeater blocking support to stiff-arm such fine rivals as Gene McEwen of Tennessee, Don Zimmerman of Tulane and Bart Viviano of Cornell for the post of honor with Wood, Schwartz and Rentner.

Not far behind these performers. In the roundup of ballots, were Bill Morton of Dartmouth, the second man choice for quarterback; Carl Erny Pinckert, So. Carolina; Paul Schweigler, U. of Washington; Vernon Smith, Georgia; and W. Barry Wood Jr., Harvard.

Marchmont Schwartz, Notre Dame; Erny Pinckert, So. Carolina; Ernest Rentner, Northwestern (*) BACK.

(*) Has one more year of competition.

SECOND TEAM Player and College Votes Pos. Henry Cronkite, Kansas Aggies 61 END Hugh Rhea, Nebraska 52 TACKLE James Evans, Northwestern 63 GUARD Raymond Morrison, Michigan 44 CENTER Ralph Baker, So. first spot in the All-America lineup.

Baker Closers Strong Munn and Hoffman were the outstanding choices for guards, although this position also developed strong backing for a number of good men. Johnny Baker of Southern California undoubtedly would have given either first-string choice a stronger run if he had performed against all rivals as he did in playing the heroic role against Notre Dame.

Evans of Northwestern, Hickman of Tennessee and Kabat of Wisconsin were other leaders but the list of noteworthy guards also included Horwitz of Chicago, Zynell of Holy Cross and Zeller of Indiana.

Down in West Virginia they re-gained Cliff Battles of West Virginia Wesleyan as a combination of Grange and Cagle. But Toscani of St. Mary's similarly impressed all who saw him perform on the Pacific Coast for the team that beat Southern California and California on successive Saturdays.

Monnet, ran wild for Michigan State, Jack Crickard was a shining ball carrier for Harvard, so were Jack Ferraro, Cornell sophomore, Ralph Hewitt of Columbia and Jim Murphy of Fordham. Minnesota partisans likened Manders to Joesting and Nagurski of all-America fame.

Notre Dame Dominates For the past three years, Notre Dame has so far dominated the All-America selections as to double the number of entries from any other institution. Eight places have been won by the Fighting Irish aggregations of 1929-31, including Schwartz twice and Carideo twice. Northwestern has won four places, while two each have been gained by Minnesota, Harvard, Pittsburgh, Southern California, Alabama and Ohio State.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP District 4 in still the weak star of West Texas football. The Abilene Eagles maintained the supremacy of the Oil Belt by soundly defeating the Mustangs, the same Sweetwater Mustangs that defeated Big Spring 7 to 0, 21 to 0 on Parramore Field Friday afternoon. And the two touchdown margin was insufficient. The Eagles could have scored another, Requisite in Pace.

But everyone came off easier than the two youngsters playing guard for the Ponies, Woods and Brooks. (Strother came out of the line to a halfback's position on the defense and Woods moved into his guard slot). For some reason or other Sam Jones just couldn't leave those two guards alone. Every few seconds or so he seemed to think it was his duty to smash his two hundred pounds or whatever it is that he weighs, in any case you may take the writer's word that it's enough, right at those two harmless young men. Or perhaps it was Wyatt who was doing the thinking. Anyhow Jones did the plunging. And when Jones plunges he doesn't hesitate very long. You've seen a freight car go, well, Jones goes twice as fast as a freight car. Of course he doesn't weigh so much but then all of his energy is concentrated.

That widely heralded, over-emphasized Roscoe Rambler broke loose for 83 yards on the one play in which Sweetwater's blocking clocked. Not a man laid his hand on the Pony back as he scampered practically the length of the field as one includes his detours in the measurement. Woods missed the extra point, which is something to comment upon.

If Tack Dennis had been in the press box at Parramore Field Friday he would have blushed continually at the remarks Blondy Cross made concerning his gridiron ability. And the Sweetwater scribe, Mills-Cope was silenced entirely after the first half so Blondy's comments were audible to all. Particularly did the San Angelo scribe dwell at length upon Dennis' punting ability, which he seems to regard as nothing short of phenomenal. In fact Mr. Cross declared that Boyce Magness, Buckaroo ace of last year, was just another back in comparison to Dennis. Rather extravagant or at least very complimentary praise when one considers that Magness was practically a unanimous selection for all-state halfback.

In brief Abilene has the most powerful club in this portion of the state and optimists can very well say the entire state. A team that can beat Sweetwater 21 to 6 with two plays, with an occasional dwell at length upon Dennis' punting ability, which he seems to regard as nothing short of phenomenal. In fact Mr. Cross declared that Boyce Magness, Buckaroo ace of last year, was just another back in comparison to Dennis. Rather extravagant or at least very complimentary praise when one considers that Magness was practically a unanimous selection for all-state halfback.

Coach George Brown indicates that two of the present crop of intramural players might be considered varsity material. Both play for the Juniors, Roger Franklin and Otto Grief. Both players are guards. Franklin is the sweetest floor man of the some two score that participated in intramural sports while Grief is a capable guard. The latter, however, has an injured knee and may be unable to put out his best this year.
