Battle Past Allied Fleet

U. S., Other Troops Put Up Fierce Battle As Japanese Make Landings

BANDOENG, Java, Sunday, March 1.—(By Trans-Pacific Telephone to New York) (AP)—Powerful Japanese invasion forces battled their way past the blazing guns of outnumbered United Nations warships in the Java Sea overnight and landed in the face of furious allied resistance at three places along the northern coast of Java.

At 8 a. m. (6:30 p. m., Saturday, Central War Time) the battle for this last bastion of the United Nations in the Netherlands East Indies was raging in full fury at all three points.

The official Dutch news agency Aneta ordered its Batavia correspondent to depart immediately from the capital "for the front." The agency indicated that vigorous land action already was under way.

The showdown battle for Java started with a landing in the northwest part of Bantam province, at the island's extreme west, opposite the tip of Japanese-occupied Sumatra.

This was followed in the early morning hours by additional landings at Rembang, on the north central coast, 90 miles east of Batavia, Java's capital.

The Indramaju region is only 60 miles northeast of Bandoeng, headquarters of the Netherlands East Indies army. Batavia itself was flanked by the landing there and in northwestern Bantam.

The size of the invading forces was not immediately disclosed. An official Dutch statement said of the landing in the vicinity of Rembang that "a strong fleet" put the Japanese ashore "on an extensive front."

Invasion ships off Bantam were engaged by allied warships, including American, which had sent the Japanese fleet reeling back northward in their initial running clash on Friday. On Java itself many thousands of American, British and Australian land troops stood side by side with their Dutch allies to defend the vital island.

Two other sections of the landing fleet were attacked overnight by allied aircraft and it was announced officially that losses were inflicted upon the enemy.

"These bombing attacks are still proceeding," the official announcement added.

The navy announced in Washington late Saturday that the 5,000-ton Japanese cruiser Mogami and three Japanese destroyers were put out of action during the day in the opening round of the battle of Java.

"None of our vessels suffered heavy damage in the initial phase of this battle for Java," it added, "and our forces are still intact despite the overwhelming superiority in numbers of the enemy naval forces."

Boy Steals Money To Buy War Bonds

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (AP)—A 16-year-old German-born schoolboy was so anxious to buy defense stamps he stole the money for the money, his attorney said today in city magistrate's court.

The magistrate held the boy in $200 bail for grand jury action on a burglary charge.

Corrigan Gets Job As Ferry Pilot

LONG BEACH, Calif., Feb. 28. (AP)—Douglas (Wrong Way) Corrigan has joined the army air corps ferrying command.

"Don't worry, compass or no compass, I'm taking these army planes the right way now," Corrigan said today as he left on his first delivery flight.

TRAIN WRECK

MARIETTA, Ohio, Feb. 28. (AP)—The ten-car Santa Fe hanger, fast northbound passenger train, was wrecked at the approach to a bridge three miles north of here today, injuring two trainmen, shaking up its passengers and tearing up the track for about a quarter of a mile.

Kimmel And Short Face Court Martial

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—Major General Walter C. Short and Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel were ordered today to stand trial by court martial on the charge of "dereliction of duty" for failing to take proper safeguards against a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor.

Until the trials are held, possibly after the war, the former Army and Navy commanders of the Hawaiian defenses were permitted to retire to civil life on the regulation retired pay of $6,000 a year for officers of their rank.

The long-studied decision that they should face trial was announced in brief, almost identical statements by Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary Knox of the Navy, which bore the approval of President Roosevelt.

The statement that the trials would be delayed "until such time as the public interest and safety would permit" suggested no early airing was likely, under war conditions.

The charge of "dereliction of duty" was made by the Roberts inquiry commission and preparations for the court martial trials were ordered on the basis of the findings of the group headed by Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts of the supreme court.

General Short returned to his home at Oklahoma City, Okla., after being relieved from his command by the president on December 21, two weeks after the Pearl Harbor attack. The home of Admiral Kimmel, also returned from Hawaii, is at Henderson, Ky.

Negroes And Whites Clash In Detroit

DETROIT, Feb. 28. (AP)—Fourteen persons were injured in clashes between white persons and negroes as the latter sought today to move into a federal defense housing project designated for them.

Mayor Edward J. Jeffries ordered police to halt further attempts to move families into the new unit.

Twenty persons were jailed as police were forced to use tear gas to disperse a crowd armed with steel bars, clubs and bricks. At least two shots were fired by unidentified persons.

Autopsy Performed On Siamese Twins

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (AP)—An autopsy performed today showed that Joanna and Vincenta Ploctot, the Siamese twins, probably never could have been separated, had they lived, because their hearts and livers were fused.

Joanna's lungs were found to be weak but Vincenta supplied enough oxygen for the bloodstreams of both and even her heart kept beating a few minutes after her sister's heart stopped yesterday after 29 hours of life.

Scraping for the Big Scrap

Such might be the slogan for the petroleum industry in this area, which is pushing a drive for scrap metal under the direction of Ben LaFever, general chairman. The metal is desperately needed at this time because it is used in the proceeding of steel. Approximately a million pounds have been brought in to date, and perhaps that much more is due to come in. LaFever is shown here with Harold Bottlesley, in charge of collection for Cochen, where the material is being loaded. (Photo by Kaiser.)

Oil Men Half Way To Scrap Collection Goal

Responding to a call by the government, the petroleum industry of this area was about half way to its goal Saturday as the total amount of scrap metal brought here for shipment hobbled around the first million pounds.

It was difficult to say at what stage the collection had arrived, but few believed it was actually past half done. Some of the small independents had cleaned their properties, but the majors—with tremendous amounts already brought in—were reported getting into full stride. Others had not made complete junkings of scrap. Late in the week, Harold Bottlesley, who is heading up the scrap shipping operations for Cochen Petroleum Corp., receiver for the material here, said that seven carloads of around 25 tons each had been shipped to mills in Youngstown, Ohio. This did not include the shipments of Cochen scrap junk, which has been going on for considerable time. He estimated Saturday that there was possibly 300 tons on hand swelling cars. Transportation has become the most pressing problem now.

Ben LaFever, general chairman of the campaign for collection of scrap metal in all fields of local fields, said that the drive was meeting with encouraging response on the part of operators. The one condition that ultimately a total of 1,000,000 pounds of the material would be required to begin work in Howard, Okla., and Midwest counties.

Grocery Bill Relief — — OPA Fixes Price On Canned Goods

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—The government clamped price ceilings on 25 canned fruits and vegetables today in the first application of such regulations to any food other than sugar.

Announcing simultaneously further details of sugar rationing plans, the Office of Price Administration said ration books would be denied to persons having more than two months' supply.

Co-op Will Name Officers At Meeting

Nine directors and officers will be chosen as the Caprock Electric Cooperative holds its annual meeting here Tuesday in the district courtroom.

Under the cooperative's by-laws, the entire personnel of the board holds office for but a single year. From the directorate will be chosen the officers for the year.

Principal speaker at the meeting, slated for 2 p. m., will be Judge James T. Brooks. Others will be O. E. Bryan, superintendent, who will give the annual report; Arax Phillips, a director and secretary-treasurer, who will have the financial statement; and William D. Scoates, Clovis, N. M., field operations engineer.

In contrast to last year before war put a crimp on manufacture of such items, there will be no display of appliances with the exception of a home made electric chick brooder, and perhaps a home flour mill.

A brief program of entertainment has been arranged by Mrs. Phillips and will include Perry and Billy Jean Walker, Center Point, vocal duo; Mary Anna Whitaker, Midway, solo; Moore students in a stunt; Mrs. Doyle Turner, Moore, piano numbers; Romona Fay Barber, Moore, and Twila Phillips, vocal solo.

Postal Figures Up, Building Down In City

Postal receipts gained slightly over the same month a year ago to lead the field in reports on business activities from public agencies.

The $5,228.75 for the month was only little more than $44 over over the same month a year ago when the figure was $5,885, but it was good enough to establish an all-time record here for total volume during the month. It was, of course, considerably below the hefty $7,523 tacked up in January.

Building activity sagged to its lowest point since February of 1936. Total permits for the month reached only $4,260, including one permit for $1,500. This was well under the meagre $7,610 for February of last year and the $10,127 for January of this year.

By an interesting turn, six new residential permits were included for a total of $900. Biggest one was for $200. They were all one or two room huts erected by those of Mexican extraction on the northwestern slopes of the city.

The new car business, balked to a January standstill, showed small signs of life in February as the government relaxed freezing orders to free those on which trades already had been consummated before Jan. 1. This enabled troubled dealers to turn six machines, a far cry from the 105 for February a year ago.

Rites will be in charge of the Rev. R. D. Browder, Methodist pastor, and burial will be in the Westbrook cemetery with Floyd Marshall, Melvin Warren Costin, Colorado City; J. C. Costin and Rex McKinney, Westbrook; Cecil Turrell, Lubbock, and E. J. Davis, Austin, as casketbearers. The body will lie in state at the Nalley Funeral Home until 2 p. m. when it will be taken overland to Westbrook.

Ramsey Rites Set Sunday

Funeral for Ralph Wayne Ramsey, 27, fatally injured when he fell from a train at Columbus, N. M., Friday, will be held in Westbrook at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

AUSTIN, Feb. 28. (AP)—A $1,000,000 state cancer research program, with a hospital located at Houston, will be launched as soon as possible. University of Texas regents announced today.

War Powers Bill Passed By House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—The second war powers bill, vesting vast emergency authority in the hands of federal agencies and the president, was passed today by the house little changed from the form originally advocated by the administration.

The action came on voice vote as the climax to four days of heated debate. The senate now must concur on minor amendments.

As passed by the house, the bill contained these thirteen emergency provisions:

1. Gives the interstate commerce commission the same emergency powers over motor carriers it now exercises over railroads.

2. Extends the government's power to acquire real as well as personal property for emergency use.

3. Provides penalties for violations of priorities orders.

4. Excludes certain part-time officers and employees of the government serving in the war effort from the Hatch act.

5. Permits the assignment of CCC workers as guards for war industries, utilities and natural resources.

6. Provides free postage for the armed forces at home or abroad.

7. Permits minting of 5-cent pieces from silver and copper in order to save nickel for war tools.

8. Gives the government power to inspect the plants and audit the books of war contractors and subcontractors.

U. T. Regents Set Hearing On Spies Case

AUSTIN, Feb. 28. (AP)—The board of regents of the University of Texas tonight ordered a hearing here March 16 to take testimony on charges made by persons seeking the removal of Dr. John W. Spies as dean of the medical branch at Galveston.

The board gave notice that all persons who have requested removal of the dean must file specific charges against him with the secretary of the board on or before 6 p. m. March 7.

In a formal statement issued at the close of a lengthy meeting the university governing board said it had received requests that Dr. Spies be dismissed.

Stock Show Heads Named

Definite steps toward planning for the annual district club boy livestock show here March 30-31 were taken Saturday at a meeting of the Howard County Fair association.

Fred Keating, president of the association, was named general chairman although he was unable to attend the meeting. He also was named to pick a sifting committee to pass on stock as it is brought to the show. O. P. Griffin, county agent, will contact a show judge.

George White was picked as chairman of the sales committee, with M. E. Allen, A. L. Cooper, M. M. Edwards and John W. Davis as other members. They will seek to arrange with merchants to underwrite the purchase of stock.

Rehearsal For Big Push — — British Raiders Land On Continent

LONDON, Feb. 28. (AP)—Striking boldly into German-occupied France for the first time since 1940, British paratroops and heavily-armed infantry last night carried out a successful surprise invasion 100 miles across the English Channel and for a few brief hours spread terror and confusion among the Nazi defenders of the mouth of the Seine.

REVIEWING THE BIG SPRING WEEK

BY JOE PICKLE

As this is written, we wonder if anyone has ever figured out what happens if March comes in like a lamb. For while Saturday, when it was steeking out of a sky full of sunshine, it looked as if the month might come in like a polar bear, further complicating matters.

Speaking of the weather (if Uncle Sam will permit us to indulge in this delicate subject), it is little short of uncanny how most fruit and other trees, have held back despite repeated days of sunshine and comparatively little sharp cold. Of course, there are lots of plum and a few peach trees that have blossomed even 10 days ago, and foolish Chinese elm have started seeding.

A committee returning from a highway hearing in Austin summed it up nicely. They did not believe they had done any harm any more than they believed they had done any good. That helps, for it's a comfortable feeling to know that perhaps the commission at least won't take any of our highways away from us.

One local service organization is looking ahead to a day when this war is over and young men will be coming back home. Its members are securing a building for a community center where these young veterans can congregate in a wholesome atmosphere such a place should be a fine thing during that period of readjustment that must inevitably come.

News that work has been started on the city budget is welcome, for in past years it has been well up into the new fiscal year before the budget was presented for consideration. A budget is a guide, and a guide is needed as much the first month as the last.

It probably will be Tuesday before J. R. Collins, county chairman, has his bond and stamp totals complete, but we have no idea that the February report is going to be miserably off. After a fine start in January, sentiment seemed to have cooled. But the war has not cooled, nor will the government's need for money from its people cool. In March we need to get to work and take up the slack.

Back we note, has been taken from the list of surplus foods for March by the FSMA. For surplus food in the past, we'd say it's been doing pretty well on the price.

Hope as many folks as possibly can will go to Garden City Tuesday to see the stock show and tell our neighbors howdy, and ask them to come up and see us. Lot's of fine folks down there.

Former Local Man Dies In Air Crash

Body of Cadet Noel R. Brown, fatally injured in an airplane crash near the army contract field at Bonham, was sent to Plover, Colorado from Dallas Friday.

Funeral services were to be held at Eaton, Colorado, possibly Sunday, friends here thought.

Brown formerly was range engineer for the Soil Conservation Service office in Big Spring and had earned his private flier's license here before enlisting in the U. S. army air corps as an aviation cadet. He had finished his work at Kelly Field and had been assigned to Bonham about a month ago.

Scout Court Of Honor Is Slated

A Court of Honor has been planned for Boy Scouts of the Big Spring district for 8 p. m. Tuesday in the district courtroom. It was announced Saturday.

At a meeting plans for the district first aid contest in the high school gym on March 19 will be talked. Dr. P. W. Malone, chairman of health and safety, will be in charge of the contest and will be assisted in judging by first aid instructors. The council first aid contest is in Odessa on March 21.

Tuesday evening in Stanton there will be started a leaders training course in fundamentals. Scouting has just been reorganized there. Later there will be a scoutmaster's course offered at Stanton, said Stanley Mate, field executive.

Groundwork Laid For Intensive Scrap Collection Drive

That Time Is Here Again -- Auto Registering Month Begins

Okay, folks, you can come get those automobile license tags now. Beginning today, it is legal to substitute the 1942 plates for the 1941 issues, and within a month it will be illegal if you don't make that substitution.

Already 233 passenger car owners in Howard county have obtained tags for 1942, even in advance of the legal date for affixing them to the automobiles.

Within the next 26 shopping days, the county tax office plans to issue close to 5,000 more sets of passenger car tags, along with quite a number for trucks, trailers, farm trucks, motorcycles, et cetera.

That figure stands if registrations stand up to the past few years—which is doubtful. Sidewalk strategists say a goodly number of aging jalopies, or those with those paper-thin tires, will be retired to the shade of the garage come April 1. With a few cars disappearing from the streets everyday, that registration fee is liable to spell the doom for a good number more.

However, that is guesswork. Not so indefinite is the fact that those folks who intend to drive must, during March, not only dig up the first fourth of that income tax, but also find $10 to $15 per car, on the average, for license tags.

Fords for the past four years will require fees of from $10.08 to $11.52 for sedans and tudors, with coupes being 36 to 72 cents less; Chevrolets of the same age will cost from $10.44 to $11.52 to register if they are two-seated, a little less if coupes, and Plymouths about the same. Heavier cars will require slightly more, lighter ones less.

The deadline for payment of 1942 license fees is April 1, and the waiting lines are liable to be long those last few days.

Use Of Block System May Be Tried

Groundwork for a more intensive and effective system of salvage of materials vital to war production was laid by the Howard county defense council at a meeting Friday night.

With the need for better collection of such items as paper, scrap iron and steel and tin growing more acute each day, council members agreed that local efforts should be broadened. Discussed favorably was a "block system," whereby a chairman would be designated for each block in the city and be responsible for collection of needed materials in that block. He would call on his neighbors, solicit their support in saving paper, collecting scrap iron and saving tin cans and tubes made from tin, then see that the collections from his block are put in a convenient place for a city-wide pickup.

The plan is being worked successfully in many other cities. Stanley Mate is the county salvage chairman, and council members are to work with him in formulating a definite program.

"The people are willing and anxious to cooperate in any salvage program," Chairman Grover Dunham said. "What we need to do is work out a systematic program and we will make an impressive collection."

Revenue from the first carload of paper shipped from here—collected by the city—was turned over to the council Friday night to defray miscellaneous civilian defense expenses. The sum was $172.90.

The council voted to meet regularly on the first Tuesday night of each month, and more frequently if Co-Chairmen Dunham and Walton Morrison deem it necessary. A session of special activities chairman is due to be held soon, when the whole list of civilian volunteers will be distributed according to preferred classifications.

Work of the Civil Air Patrol and of the Red Cross first aid program was outlined by P. W. Malone and C. L. Henry, respectively.

Hanged Man Cleared Of Guilt In Disappearance Of Tourists

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 28 (AP) — Three men who cashed checks taken from one of four Illinois tourists who disappeared in New Mexico six years ago today cleared self-slain Otto Bernhardt of any connection with the mystery.

The men viewed the body of the 48-year-old San Antonian in a morgue, and declared he was not the man for whom they cashed the travelers' checks. Bernhardt hanged himself yesterday after receiving a summons from U. S. District Attorney Clyde Eastus to come to Dallas for questioning.

Thomas F. Bacon, filling station operator; Clyde Swallow and L. E. Johnson, Dallas garage workers, came from Dallas this morning with federal men investigating the mystery disappearance case. They said they could identify the man who gave them the checks.

The dead man's son, meanwhile, offered an explanation of why his father killed himself. Elmo Bernhardt suggested his father hanged himself for sons having nothing to do with the Lorus case, but because he feared he might be accused of sabotage in his work as mechanic at Duncan Field, near San Antonio.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer of Duquoin, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. George M. Lorus of East St. Louis, Ill., were last seen near Vaughn, N. M., on May 22, 1935. Their car later was found wrecked and abandoned in Dallas.

Elmo Bernhardt explained his father was a native of Germany but was an American citizen. Many new mechanics had been placed under his charge at Duncan Field. Much material had been wasted, he said, and plant officials questioned the elder Bernhardt. The latter sought to convince them it was not sabotage but the inexperience of the workers causing the loss.

His father feared he would be accused of sabotage. When informed by his wife that U. S. District Attorney Clyde Eastus had telephoned from Dallas summoning him to appear for questioning, Bernhardt thought his job was involved and hanged himself.

The San Antonio Light added to this explanation by the son, saying that records of a San Antonio machine company where the elder Bernhardt had worked disclosed he had never been absent from work during the time the tourists disappeared in New Mexico.

Playoffs Scheduled Between Crystal, Carnett Cage Teams

supervisor, late Saturday night that he and Claude Wilkins had reached an agreement for Mundy fast league play-off to settle the championship.

Until the announcement, it was generally conceded that there would be no play-off because of a failure to reach some player compromise.

The play-off schedule calls for the first game at 9 p. m. Monday in the high school gym, another at the same time Tuesday, and a third and final, if needed, at 9 p. m. Wednesday. Monday the game will be preceded by one between Radford, winner of the slow league, and an all-star team from the same league. Tuesday evening there will be a game between girl teams as a preliminary.

Bitter rivalry has existed between the two teams. Crystal took the lead in the first half only to be overhauled by Carnett. In the last half, they both had to pull a comeback to overcome Vaughn's, but the race was not without extreme feeling between the two.

New, Cheaper Auto Stamps On Sale Now

New and cheaper federal motor vehicle stamps were available at the postoffice today, but that was because the time before recurrence of the tax had been out by a month.

Postmaster Nat Shick said Saturday that the new ones would come to $1.87 and that they were identical in design to the ones sold originally, except that the adhesive has been placed on the stamp side.

This will permit the stamp to be stuck on the windshield and show through. On the rear are printed lines for the make of car, the model, engine number and state license tag number. Thus, the stamps will not likely be targets for thieves quite so easily.

Like those purchased when the law first went into effect, the stamps hold good until June 30, 1942. Then the $5 per annum stamp will be coming up.

Of the $2.09 stamp offered nearly two months ago and which went off sale Saturday, a total of 5,245 were issued here for a total return of $10,962.05 to the federal government, said Shick.

The highest weather temperature ever recorded was 136 degrees Fahrenheit at Azusa, Libya, Sept. 13, 1922, the department of commerce says.

Production Board Plans New Speed-Up Drive In War Industries

Nazi Planes Carry Reinforcements To Trapped Army: Reds Mow 'Em Down.

MOSCOW, Feb. 28 (AP)—Desperate Nazi attempts to save the trapped 18th army by rushing up air-ferried reinforcements drawn from the spring offensive reserve have been frustrated by Russian anti-aircraft gunners and fighter planes, dispatches from the Stepana Russa front declared tonight.

They reported shooting down big German supply and troop planes and capturing prisoners, who said they were sent to the front from camps in Germany where they were being trained for the spring drive.

Southwest of Moscow, on the front extending through the Donets Basin and into the Crimea, the Germans were reported last night to be in counter attacks possibly intended to divert the Russian pressure in the northwest.

The Red army acknowledged that at one place on the southern front the Germans drove a wedge miles wide and six miles deep into the Russian line, but said Russian counter measures straightened the front and wiped out the assault force.

On another part of the same front 900 Germans were reported killed in a one-day fight.

On the southwestern front the Germans were said to have attempted six successive counterattacks. These were reported beaten back with heavy losses to the Germans.

Dispatches from the central front west of Moscow also mentioned German counter thrusts but said they failed and that the Germans left 550 dead on a single battlefield.

The Red army reported successful use of tanks despite snow-covered fields. Red Star, mouthpiece of the army, predicted that Russia's growing tank strength would be felt increasingly in the spring battle.

Red Star said the Germans were losing men at the rate of a million a month, killed, captured and wounded.

FDR Says Spring Work May Tell Tale

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Told by President Roosevelt that victory depends in large measure on increased arms production this "crucial spring," the War Production Board today ordered a fresh national drive to quicken the present rate of output.

The new speed-up program calls for establishment of joint labor-management plant committees to consider all suggestions for increasing production, 24-hour a day of machines, awards to employers and workers for outstanding accomplishment, and faster conversion of factories to war needs.

An exchange of letters made public by the White House disclosed that the chief executive wrote Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, yesterday that the months just ahead were the "critical months of the war," that present output schedules must be exceeded, and that "to win we must fight."

"This is a total war," the president said. "We are all under fire—soldiers and civilians alike. No one is a spectator, we are all belligerents. X X X

"The urgency of today must be felt in every shop and factory producing war goods, in every home and on every farm."

Replying, Nelson said he had discussed the matter with war, navy and maritime commission officials and received pledges of their "heartiest cooperation" in a "continuing national drive designed not merely to increase production at once, but to keep stepping it up further as the war continues."

There were heartening indications that production already was reaching record speed. The new $12,000,000 light cruiser San Juan was commissioned at Boston months ahead of schedule and in New York a submarine combat ship was launched just 61 days after the keel was laid.

Nelson said he would start on Monday night a series of weekly discussions "of the part each one of us will play in this drive." His first radio address is expected to be addressed to labor and management. Three others will follow in ensuing weeks.

WPA officials interpreted the president's directive to exceed "what has been done so far" as calling for an earlier attainment of 1942 production peaks rather than an expansion of the overall output goal for the year.

The president has set as the 1942 goal the turning out of 60,000 planes, 45,000 tanks, 20,000 anti-aircraft guns, and 8,000,000 tons of

U. S. Submarines Return To Pearl Harbor After Giving Japanese Ships Plenty Trouble

HONOLULU, Feb. 28 (AP)—American sailors who "hadn't seen the light of day for months" unfolded stories of triumphs under the sea today, and told of carrying the war "right to the enemy's front doorstep" in the Far Pacific.

They also reported Wake Island, which fell to the Japanese Dec. 23 after a two-week siege, was "deserted." Date of the submarine inspection of Wake was not given.

"Their stories," a navy spokesman said, "reveal for the first time a type of heroism that gets scant publicity because submarine operations of necessity are secret operations."

The navy, in a release from the office of the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, gave its own description of the men as "grinning, triumphant, taciturn," and said that reports indicated their craft torpedoed enemy ships "sometimes almost in view of lookouts at his principal home ports."

Regarding the Wake Island reports, the navy's announcement said "two enemy destroyers, wrecked and beached during the savage Japanese assault, remained mute testimonial to the heroic defense of the outpost."

The Japanese capture of Wake was accomplished only after 14 days of assaults on the small marine corps and naval garrison.

One submarine, whose trip the navy termed remarkable, battled heavy seas for many days, sank a 5,000-ton freighter in a full gale, eluded destroyers, sank two more ships, and expended its last torpedo on an enemy destroyer.

This submarine accounted for 15,000 tons of enemy shipping.

Another American undersea boat was bombed by the enemy so consistently its commander believed an aircraft carrier was in the vicinity.

Later, a converted liner of the Yawata Maru 15,000-ton class was sighted at an undisclosed port. The submarine dodged an enemy patrol for 48 hours, finally saw the ship leaving its berth and let go with two torpedoes amidship.

When the submarine surfaced shortly after firing its torpedoes, the liner had disappeared.

The third returning submarine crash dived when it was surprised by an enemy destroyer and survived "terrific attacks" from depth charges which shattered the underwater craft's light bulbs and cracked its paint.

Days later, while still on the prowl, this submarine sank a freighter of the 7,500-ton London Maru class with two direct torpedo hits.

The work was quite happy with the prospect of one submarine, which originally was scheduled to go to the mainland for an overhaul before Christmas.

The outbreak of war Dec. 7 changed the plans and the craft was given an assignment "to the enemy's doorstep x x x and it gave America a Christmas present—a 5,000-ton enemy merchantman."

One submarine commander was gloomy because his boat failed to bag some game.

"Three torpedoes, six depth charges—no hits," the commander cryptically reported.

The commanders unanimously declared the morale of their crews was "splendid."

School Census Taking Begins During Week

School census taking is due to get underway during the coming week, to continue through the month of March.

Anne Martin, county school superintendent, received census supplies from the state Saturday and immediately assorted out a batch for each district. School teachers or officials from each district may obtain the supplies at her office.

W. C. Blankenship, city superintendent, had not received supplies Saturday night, but presumed that they would arrive Sunday or Monday. The city census will begin immediately.

Census must be completed by April 1. School officials pointed out that patrons will be rendering a public service if they will make certain their children are listed in the census. Each school district receives a $22.50 allotment from the state for each scholar listed, so each one not listed will deprive the district of that much money.

Every child of 6 to 18 years age, regardless of whether in school or not, should be listed.

The area of the Dutch East Indies is about one quarter of the area of continental United States.

Rich Flamingo Stakes Nabbed By Requested

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP) — Ben F. Whitaker's Requested, forced to play second fiddle to Alab as a two-year-old, turned the tables today with a spectacular victory in the rich Flamingo stakes worth $28,150.

Coming out of nowhere with a burst of his old speed, Alab snatched third place, back of the longest Redthorn.

The biggest crowd of the season at Hialeah Park, 28,571, got its first thrill when Louis Tufano's astounding Cinderella horse, Market Wise, beat one of the best fields ever to run in a race.

From dead last at the start, Market Wise came through handily under a brilliant ride by Jockey Wendell Eads to win going away over such champions as Attention, War Belle, Chaldon, Victor, Miland and Porter's Cap.

Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention, starting for the first time of the winter, took second, and Samuel D. Riddle's War Belle was third in the $2,500 race—in which every advance favorite for next week's $50,000 Widener handicap was a competitor.

Once Eddie Ararco called upon Requested to make his bid in the Flamingo, there was little doubt that the Whitaker colt would triumph. The horse was third at the three-quarter post in the mile and an eighth heat, and flashed over the finish four lengths to the good.

Phenomenal Yields—From this patch of cotton last autumn came an almost incredible four bales an acre from the most productive spot in the field that averaged better than three bales to the acre. These pictures were taken on the Von Roeder farms at Knapp, Texas, in southeastern Borden county. An exact acre was measured, and when it was

Tunney Wants 'Big Names' In His Work

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 28 (AP)—If Lieutenant Commander Gene Tunney ever has to send a landing party ashore to capture an enemy position, he'd rather have the party headed by Bob Feller than by Joe Doakes, an individual with a Masters degree in physical education.

Gene said so in an interview today designed to explain why, as director of physical fitness for the Navy, he has grabbed up such box office glamor guys as Feller, Billy Soose and Freddy Apostol.

It's Tunney's job to pick physical instructors and recreational leaders for the Navy. Only one out of about every five applicants makes the grade—those who are selected receive chief specialists ratings, which is the same as top sergeant in the Army.

Tunney feels that men like Feller, largely because of the fame they've built up for themselves in the sports world, are naturals for the work.

"In the recreational end—why Feller can entertain thousands," said Gene. "And the boys will listen to what a chap like Feller tells them to do to improve their physical fitness."

The psychology, you see, is quite simple. Joe Doakes tells the Navy boys to do this and that and they will become strong. The Navy boys reply with a mental, "Nerts to you, Joe." But when Feller—or someone like him—tells the boys what to do, they reply with a mental:

"Well, Feller himself must have done that, and look how far he got. I'll do it, too, by golly."

At that, though, about 97 per cent of the men Tunney has recruited are college graduates, with degrees in physical education.

picked, the return showed 5,590 pounds of clean seed cotton. Since the Von Roeder cotton runs 49 per cent, this means four big bales, or as the government calculates a bale, around four and a half. Note the unique planting arrangement—two rows 40 inches apart then a 16-foot skip. In the rows, plants are 24 inches apart to allow maximum sunshine and air, thus reducing insect ravages.

Four-Bale-To-Acre Cotton Grown On Von Roeder Farm

Four bales from an acre of cotton—this is the almost unbelievable record of the Von Roeder Farms in the Knapp community of southeastern Borden county.

Some of the May plantings of the farms made three bales of cotton per acre, but the biggest yield came from an acre measured out of one of the most productive spots in one of the highest yielding fields. Results: A total of 5,590 pounds of picked seed cotton. Since the Von Roeder Farm has a record of 40 per cent lint for this cotton, it meant four full bales. Based on the government's figure of 483 pounds lint net for the bale, it had possibilities of four and a half.

Certainly this is believed to be a record for any non-irrigated cotton patch in the state, and some have contended that it possibly is a record for any type of cotton in the state.

On a large scale, Von Roeder's averaged three bales and 2,300 pounds of cotton seed per acre last year. A factor making this even more phenomenal is that the yield was obtained from a planting of only four pounds of cotton seed per acre, and from a new method of planting.

For the past four years Von Roeder Farms planted two rows of cotton 40 inches apart, and then skipped three 40-inch rows, leaving blank strip 10 feet wide; thus only the rows planted to cotton are counted against the allotment.

Wider spacing of plants in the rows and the strip of "retired" land between the two rows provides more soil moisture and plant food for the plants, enabling production of more mature bolls. Not only is the yield higher, but the staple is slightly longer than cotton planted in normal rows—36 to 40 inches apart.

Another interesting feature is the spacing of plants 24 inches apart in the rows to allow each the maximum of sunlight and air. This has been found to materially reduce damage from insects that do their worst in thickly planted cotton.

Von Roeder Farms plants cotton with a corn-planting attachment running on the slow speed of a tractor. This method drops three or four seed in each hill and maintains the spacing in the rows.

This is possible because the seed have been delinted, and again this year Von Roeder are bringing their seed into the Farmers Gin here to have the lint removed by the Kemgas process—a dry method in which hydrochloric acid fumes do the work.

All in all, wonders are being worked on the farm, which is first of all a cotton breeding place of high mark. In 1928, average yield per acre was 488 pounds; in 1929 it was 577 pounds; in 1940, a dry year, 410 pounds, and last year it averaged 750 pounds an acre and would have been considerably more had not hail in June necessitated replanting of a large part of the Von Roeder lands.

The unusually damp autumn last year cut the seed supply from the farms by more than half. Tons and tons spoiled and as a result, only about 100 tons are being run through the delinting plant here now. Last of the lot is due to pass through the machinery Tuesday.

Woman Of The Month — — She Leads Women Fliers To War

By ADELAIDE KERR Wide World Features Writer Jacqueline Cochran will lead the first contingent of American women flying behind the lines in Europe.

She will select and head 25 crack women pilots who will ferry combat planes from British factories to airfields. They will serve with the British Air Transport Auxiliary which is not part of the combat forces.

As head of a group whose work will mark a new phase in American women's world war service, Miss Cochran is my nomination for the Woman of the Month.

This will not be her first wartime work. Last June Miss Cochran, Americas No. 1 woman flyer, piloted a Lockheed Hudson Bomber across the North Atlantic to England—the first woman to do such a job. She has long felt that America's women fliers should serve as wartime ferry pilots and thus free men for active service. She will nominate the woman pilots, accompany them to Canada for training courses and flight checks and (probably late in February) go ahead of them to England. They are considered a first unit and will probably be followed by others. Their job means handling the big Hurricanes and Spitfires—much heavier planes probably than most of them have flown before. About fifty British women pilots are already ferrying such planes.

Miss Cochran, now on a recruiting tour of 10 cities, is interviewing pilots who have had at least 300 hours in the air. She spends hours on those interviews; explains blackout, rations, hard work and ly in Columbus, Ga. At 11 she was at work in a beauty shop and by the time she had reached her teens could set a wave with the best of them. Later she became a nurse, worked in the South, then moved on to New York and back to the beauty business.

Nine years ago she learned to fly and got her pilot's license within a three weeks' vacation. Since then she has chalked up records which have made her tops. In 1938 she won the Bendix Transcontinental Air Derby and a $12,500 prize against a field of men.

Income Tax ABC's -- Surtax Figuring Isn't Difficult

(Fourth of a Series) By ALEXANDER B. GEORGE Wide World Features Writer WASHINGTON—Being in the surtax income class isn't something to go high hat about this year. Every person who pays a federal income tax becomes a member of the surtax club.

That means hundreds of thousands of taxpayers will be sweating over surtax rates for the first time. It isn't so difficult as it may seem to figure it out, although there are a few steps to watch closely if you would avoid paying Uncle Sam too much or too little.

The surtax is computed before the 10 per cent credit on earned income is deducted. The normal tax of 4 per cent is figured after the deduction for earned income.

Here is a sample case: John Q. Smith, married and two dependent children, has a net income of $4,000. (Net income is the amount left deducting taxes, interest, church contributions, etc., from gross income.) From the $4,000 he deducts $1,500 head of family exemption and $800 dependents' exemptions ($400 for each child), or a total of $2,300. That leaves a surtax income of $1,700. The surtax rate is 6 per cent of the first $2,000 (or any part of that amount) of surtax income so his surtax levy is 6 per cent of $1,700 or $102.

Smith's earned income credit is 10 per cent of the $4,000, or $400, assuming that his income is for personal services. He deducts the $400 from his $1,700 surtax income, leaving $1,300 subject to normal tax. At 4 per cent his normal tax is $52. That added to the surtax of $102 makes a total tax of $154. It's a little more complicated if his income falls in a higher surtax bracket, such as $5,000 net income. After deducting $2,500 for head of family and two dependents' exemptions, his surtax income is $2,500. The surtax rate on the first $2,000 is 6 per cent or $120. The rate on the second $500 is 8 per cent. Nine percent of $700 is $63. The total surtax is $243.

His earned income credit would be $350. That subtracted from $243 would leave a normal tax of $93. That added to the surtax of $243 makes a total tax of $336. However, if you're single and your annual income is less than $2,700 or if you're married and your income is less than $3,300, you don't have to worry about the surtax brackets above 4 per cent. (Next: Those Dependents.)

Ration Board Closes Books For February

February quotas were all but exhausted in all departments of the rationing, a report from the Howard County Rationing Board showed Saturday as it closed books on its second month of activity.

All passenger tires and tubes allowed were issued, all save one truck tire, but 23 truck tires were left after requests had been acted upon.

At the same time, March quotas showed a more liberal trend than was the case in February. Passenger tires allowed were up to 53 and tubes of this type to 27. New truck tires were pegged at 73 with 52 tubes. The only rationed quota assigned for the month was for truck tires, and this numbered 31.

J. C. Douglass, Sr., chairman of the board, said late Saturday he had not received any figures for Howard county on new cars which may be sold under similar regulations governing issuance of certificates for tires.

Tuesday's session of the board at the chamber of commerce office was expected to be an active one, since it will be the beginning of both a new week and a new month. Only one car released Friday by the board was a 1942 Hudson to J. D. Hiles, who had traded for it before the freezing order Jan. 1.

Results of the February rationing of tires follows:

Day	A	B	C	D	E	F
Friday	2	2	8	8	2	4
Total	26	22	49	64	68	64
Quota	26	22	50	86	86	86

Legend: A—passenger tires, B—tubes; C—truck tires, D—tubes; E—other tires, F—tubes. Total passenger car certificates for February was six.

By JOE HELDEN
Editor, Texas Surveys of Public Opinion

AUSTIN, Feb. 28. (AP)—Political observers are saying that ex-governor James V. Allred wants to run for the United States Senate against W. Lee O'Daniel, who has already announced. If Allred becomes a candidate and no other strong political figure appears on the scene, O'Daniel may find himself in another photo-finish contest.

when his name was suggested in a panel containing several possible candidates. Pairing him alone with O'Daniel, causes a stream of the other candidates' votes to go his way, and only an insignificant amount to go to O'Daniel, as shown below. In the September and November polls, the candidates presented were O'Daniel, Mann, Johnson, and Allred. In the present survey (third column), only O'Daniel and Allred were mentioned:

	Sept.	Nov.	Feb.
O'Daniel	29%	40%	46.2%

No Army Men To Play In Big League Games

CHICAGO, Feb. 28. (AP)—Will Harridge, the American league's president, thinks the speculation about this player and that leaving his Army or Navy post this summer to play in an occasional game with his former team is just a waste of words, inasmuch as there's a major league rule preventing it.

The rule, Harridge pointed out today, was adopted in December, 1940, and states that any player on the "national defense service list" can be reinstated for league duty only upon his honorable discharge from the armed forces.

"And how," he inquired, "does that make it possible for anyone to participate in a game while on furlough?"

Garden City Ready For Stock Show

GARDEN CITY, Feb. 28. (AP)—With prospects that it will be bigger than ever before, the fifth annual Glasscock county livestock show will be staged here Tuesday.

Nineteen 4-H boys, two 4-H girls and 23 Future Farmers of America will show a total of 70 lambs, 24 calves in competition for $122.50 in defense stamps, naturally.

Besides these, there will be an unusually large field for adults to show animals in the breeder classes for cattle, sheep and horses.

As in the past, a free barbecue will be a feature of the show. Judging starts at 10 a. m. and is due to be completed by 1 p. m. when the barbecue will be served. Afterwards, there will be a sale in the gymnasium.

Fred Chaney is superintendent of the boys' calves and registered cattle division; Joe B. Calverley is superintendent of the sheep division; Charles J. Cox is superintendent of the horse division; N. R. Link, VA teacher is secretary-treasurer; and Berry Duff, county agent, is general superintendent.

Judges will be E. J. Hughes, Bill Read, and Foster Conger, all of Sterling City, for fat lambs, breeding cattle and horses, respectively. I. O. Sturkie, Midland county agent, will judge the boy's fat calves.

Big Spring is due to send a large delegation, the Lions club there having voted for the second consecutive year to hold its regular meeting at the show. Midland and San Angelo, too, will send sizeable groups to the show.

ORANGE, Feb. 28. (AP)—The first destroyer built in Texas will be launched here Monday, Texas Independence Day, in a brief ceremony significant of the fact this state's coastal yards now form an integral part of the nation's vast shipbuilding program.

High wages, scarcity of labor, and good prices for agricultural products have stimulated use of power on New Zealand farms, says the department of commerce.

Muny League Volley Ball Meet Slated

Sponsors and managers of teams interested in a city volleyball league will meet in the City-WPA recreation department's office at the city hall Monday at 7:30 p. m. Haddon F. Malone, supervisor, announced.

Already Carnett, Phillips Tire, and the American Business Club have signified interest in the formation of such a league. Small entrance fees would take care of maintenance costs, Malone indicated. He ventured that a double round-robin schedule could be concluded before the official opening of the softball season.

Softball generally gets underway here in late April, and although the sport does not attract as much interest as it did at its zenith several years ago, it still is among the most popular sports.

Curlee Team Leads Schoolboy Bowlers

Curlee's team is resting on top of the heap in the high school bowling league, having won three games straight over Robb's team Saturday.

Howard's second place team won two of three games in its series with Davies.

Jack Cauble was high scorer for a single game Saturday, knocking out a 163. Billy Shaw was high series scorer, with 438.

YANKS GET BUSY
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP)—With 23 players in uniform, the New York Yankees snapped through their stiffest workout of the spring training season today. Infielder Jerry Priddy accepted the team's terms, leaving only six players on the unsigned list.

Two Revivals Open In City This Week

Roy V. Foster, a former convict turned evangelist, will be heard at the Assembly of God during a revival. Full details may be found elsewhere in this issue.

"The Local Church in Aetown" will be the topic of the Rev. Homer W. Haislip Sunday morning at First Christian church. The sermon will be the first in a revival which will continue until March 18. "People are Lost in Big Spring" will be the pastor's subject at 8 p. m.

A solo will be given by Jeanne Young at the evening hour, the service being sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Shaw. Members of the local defense guard company will be guests of honor.

The Rev. O. L. Savage, Presbyterian pastor, will be guest minister at Thursday evening's Lenten observance at St. Mary's Episcopal church.

Rev. Mr. Savage will speak on "When Is Life Worth Living" at the morning hour and "Daring to be Really Different" in the evening Sunday at his church. F. H. Talbot will have the tenor solo in the morning anthem, "Oh That I Might Find Thee."

The Rev. Robert Bowden will speak on "The Saddest Word In The Bible and in Human Speech" at the morning hour at the Church of God. In the evening his topic will be "Words That Lift Us." Young people of the church will go to a district meeting at Sweetwater at 2:30 p. m., cancelling their regular local session.

Rev. Ernest E. Orton, Church of the Nazarene pastor, will bring the first of a series of four messages on the general theme "Revival," leading up to a revival beginning March 20. Sunday morning's topic will be "The Revival that We Need." Sunday evening at 8 o'clock he will speak on "They Missed Canaan."

Newspaper advertising in a nation at War

NEVER BEFORE have people turned to newspapers so eagerly, trustingly, hungrily, and in such large numbers...for all the news, for full reports, for complete details.

buy the countless things they need and want.

In newspapers the advertising is news, too... more so today than ever before. In newspapers the advertising is received as a welcome, helpful service. That is why, as The Continuing Study of Newspaper Reading shows, people read the ads as well as the news so thoroughly.

And the Study shows that big news, war news, increases the reading of newspaper ads... that when big news breaks, the advertiser can count on even closer attention to his message by even more people than in normal times.

Total war, into which this country was forced so suddenly, has added immeasurably to the responsibility of American newspapers...a responsibility they have been quick to meet, regardless of the cost and the effort.

It is a two-fold responsibility... A responsibility, first, to the public...to keep it fully informed in these critical days, to bring it the vital news of the day, completely, accurately and quickly.

A responsibility to advertisers, too...to give them the best means of telling their story, presenting their merchandise and services to the public where and when it will do the most good. In fulfilling this responsibility, newspapers are serving not only manufacturers and retailers who have things to sell...they are also serving the millions of readers who must continue to

To the men and women of this country the newspaper is more valuable today than ever before. That's what makes it so valuable a medium today for all advertisers...whether their problem is to produce more sales, build good-will, describe their part in the war program, advise consumers on the war-time use of their products, or to maintain brand identity, dealer friendship, and public acceptance for the peace-time years to come.

League Approval Due To Bring WT-NM Franchise To City

Some Smaller Lads Get On All-S'west

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The game of basketball hasn't been turned completely over to the giants in the hurry-bury Southwest conference.

The boys who vie with skyscrapers dominated the all-Southwest conference team, selected for the Associated Press by the coaches, but a couple of the half-pints pushed their way to the top.

The team averages almost 6 feet 3 inches in height but one of the forwards is Chester Palmer, 5 feet 9 inch scrapper from El Paso, and one of the guards is little Dwight Parks, the 5 feet 3 inch scoring phantom of Baylor's Bears.

Here is the team, selected by a composite vote of the seven coaches:

Player	School	Pos.	Ht.
Chester Palmer	Rice	F.	5-9
Bill Henderson	A&M	F.	6-4
Bill Close	Rice	F.	6-6
Bob Kinney	Rice	C.	6-6
H. C. Pitts	Ark.	F.	6-4
Dwight Parks	Baylor	G.	5-3

You will note that instead of a quiet list it's a sextet. The reason is that three players tied for the forward posts.

Parks, Pitts and Kinney were on every ballot. Palmer was a leading forward and also got a couple of votes for guard. Close and Henderson received all their ballots for forward.

Seven players received all the votes. In addition to the six given there was big Gordon Carpenter of Arkansas who was mentioned both as forward and guard. He therefore is named as alternate at both positions.

Of the six men picked on the first team, all are finishing out their string except Close, who is a junior. Carpenter also has another year.

Ringer Tourney Inaugurated By Women Golfers

Despite blustery weather, Big Spring's women golfers are launching a ringer tournament at the country club, with prizes to go to the player with the lowest net score and the player showing the greatest improvement.

Only three scores have been turned in thus far, reports Jimmy Gamewell, club pro. Mrs. Gamewell shot a 49, Mrs. Tommy Jordan a 49, and Mrs. H. W. Smith a 64.

Mrs. Smith shot a 46 a few days ago, indicating that she is no poor golfer, and felt that her 64-shot round gave her an unfair advantage in the competition for the improvement cup. She asked not to enter the score, but since intentions of listing a score must be made before the round is begun, it was turned in. She was coming through in good style up to the last hole, on which she used up 13 strokes.

Dick Ratliff Heads Group Prepared To Close Deal

Only the approval of other clubs in the West Texas-New Mexico league appeared today to stand in the way of Big Spring putting an entry in the 1942 campaign.

Dick Ratliff, veteran of four WT-NM seasons and of many more summers in professional baseball, said Saturday that he had an agreement in hand with Lamesa sportsmen for that city's franchise, and would show up at the league's annual meeting in Clovis, N. M. today to post a $600 forfeit fee if the transaction is given approval.

Thus, prospects are bright for one of the screwiest turns of events to be completed perfectly. The Big Spring franchise has gone to Lamesa, and now the Lamesa franchise is back in Big Spring. It doesn't make sense, and yet it does.

Lamesans love their baseball, but they had about reached the end of their rope in handling a home owned deal. Jodie Tate and Tink Riviere, who turned out a winner last year, held a "king agreement with Brooklyn, which meant cash aid. By turning the franchise and laying some shakels on the line, Lamesa assured itself of a club in the WT-NM league race this season.

But a deal to peddle the Lamesa franchise fell through when Albuquerque, N. M., backed off. Ratliff, together with others pooled resources and raised enough to meet the Lamesa prices.

Friday evening a comparative small group of fans gave him enough assurance that he was convinced professional baseball would go over here again this year, so Saturday Ratliff made ready to close the deal when it gets final approval.

The Lamesa franchise carries with it 14 players, four of whom are in the army at the present time. In addition, it includes a bus with good tires on it, said Ratliff.

With a franchise to work from, he declared, it would be possible to gain a working agreement with some higher club, and he was certain that it would be no trick at all to get player help from some team in a faster league.

The initial expense could be handled, he said, including the forfeit fee. The thing that must be done to provide funds for spring training and until the regular season starts is to sell season tickets for box seats, signs on the ball park fence, and a big flock of opening day tickets.

Fans attending the meeting were reasonably optimistic on these three points. Talk was of an opening day goal of 3,000 tickets at 50 cents each—the regular league game price this year. A league captain of promises to buy tickets disclosed initial prospects of around 1,000. Similarly encouraging figures were given on the signs, and baseball boosters felt that the 20 box seats would be snapped up in short order, around a dozen have been spoken for, it was asserted.

If the trade goes through as promised, fans may be treated to the spectacle this year of Big Spring playing against some of the young men who hit and fielded well enough to win the regular season of play. Ratliff himself would have been Lamesa property now, had he not secured his release from Tate and Riviere.

County League To Be Decided In Friday Tilt

Winner of the Howard county rural basketball league will be determined in a clash between Midway and Center Point boys teams at Midway on Friday night of this week. It shapes up as a hotly-fought contest, since these two teams are tied with seven victories and one loss each—the losses being to each other.

The playoff was delayed from a scheduled time last week.

An idea of the narrow margin between the teams is shown in the 16-15 victory of Midway over Center Point in Saturday's rural championships. This game had no bearing on the county league, an organization of schools which has been operating this season.

Brooklyn Boy Sets New Mile Record

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. Hunt, Lyles And M'Crigh Top Scorers

Cagle Hunt, rangy Crystal cafe star and who coaches Foran basketball teams when taking time off from his school teaching duties, led city league scorers during the past season.

Curiously, Hunt never ran up any big scores and never made any sensational showings, but his consistent basket ringing night after night put him well out in front with 115 points in 13 games. M'Crigh of Coaden and Lyles of Crystal were next with 105 points in 15 games. This gave Hunt 8.8 points per game to 7 for Lyles and M'Crigh.

But when it came to points per game, none could come close to Jack Smith of the Lions club slow league team. The slongated veteran banged away in six games for 94 points, or an average of 15.66 points per game. The nearest one to him was Abernathy of the champion Radford team with an average per game total of 9.5.

Semi-Pros To Play 48 Benefit Games

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 28. (AP)—Semi-pro baseball is going to outdo the major leagues in the number of all-star games for the benefit of the army's bat and ball fund.

The majors are playing two games, July 6 and 7.

The semi-pros will play 48, one in each state, early in August, the commissioner George Sisler said today. All proceeds will go to army camps for baseball equipment.

Hogs Start Spring Training Monday

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 28. (AP)—If the 1942 football season was just around the corner, the University of Arkansas Razorbacks would have a formidable squad.

Coach Fred C. Thomsen will open spring training Monday with 46 candidates, among whom are 16 lettermen, and none is in immediate call for selective service induction.

Arkansas is the final Southwest conference member to start spring work-outs.

Moore Boys, Midway Girls Take County Basketball Championships

The Moore school boys' team and the Midway girls emerged as county champions in the season's final tournament held Saturday at Center Point by a 16-15 count. Moore's victory came on some all-around scoring, with Hayden getting eight points and drew byes, and the boys aggregated 22 to 14 after Midway had ousted Center Point by a 16-15 count. Moore's victory came on some all-around scoring, with Hay-

Gibson and Fields six apiece. A. Tonn was the high scorer of the day, getting 10 in the Midway-Center Point tilt.

The Midway girls took their title the hard way, beating Lomax 12-4 in the first round and edging by Moore, 19-17 in the final. Tonn was the standout scorer in both contests, getting 13 in the opening match and six against Lomax.

28,000 Players To Take Part In 73-Day Natl. Bowling Meet

COLUMBUS, Feb. 28. (AP)—Sportadom's longest tournament for world championships gets underway here Tuesday.

Decorators today scrambled around steel girders in the barnlike fairgrounds coliseum putting final touches on the arena for the American Bowling Congress, a 73-day affair attracting 28,000 bowlers from 264 towns in the United States and Canada.

In the huge coliseum lay 36 highly polished bowling alleys. Down one of those 90-foot stretches of hardwood Gov. John W. Bicker will toss the opening ball launching the ten-pin extravaganza which doesn't wind up until May 15.

Olympic games can't hold a candle to the bowling congress when it comes to the number of contestants, for the 28,000 is the greatest number ever to participate in any single tournament.

They'll be routed in and out of the coliseum on a split-second schedule for singles, doubles and five-man events 18 hours a day, seven days a week.

And for sheer drama, the ABC is hard to beat. Generally some unknown bowler or some unheralded team walks off with the biggest portion of $200,000 in prize money, diamond medals and world championships.

For $5 an event, a bowler can enter the singles, doubles and five-man team classes. And all have an even chance to win $900 if they are lucky enough to roll the highest single game and be on the winning doubles and five-man teams—something no bowler has ever done.

There are no finals and no eliminations. Bowlers just do their best and then start planning for next year's ABC, to be in Buffalo.

Porkers And Rice In Title Deadlock

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 28. (AP)—Arkansas Razorbacks clinched a tie for the Southwest conference basketball championship tonight by sweeping the Texas Christian series with an impressive 63 to 37 win.

The Razorbacks, 1941 champions, met the Horned Frogs last break with an even faster floor game and held the lead from the six minute mark. At halftime the score was 35 to 15.

Big Clayton Wynne, who missed the Porkers' split series with Texas last week that dropped them out of first place into a tie with Rice, was a big Arkansas factor after being substituted midway in the opening half and his play tonight may mean that Coach Glen Rose will favor a playoff with the Owls if they win tonight over the Texas and deadlock the title chase.

3-AA Officials, Coaches Meet Here Today

Coaches and officials of district 3-AA are to meet here today to organize an "officials' association."

The parley is scheduled for 2:30 p. m. in the Settles hotel. In addition to all the football coaches of the district, officials who have been working or who hope to work district games this year will likely drift in for the parley.

Rule changes, interpretations, etc., will be discussed so that there will be a clearer understanding between coaches and officials.

Another meeting is due in September and still another in October.

Eagles Lose Second Game To El Paso

District 3-AA's hopes for a shot at state honors in the year's basketball race were blasted Friday night as the area's champion Abilene Eagles were trounced by the Austin High Panthers, 37-31.

Played in El Paso, the game was the second straight victory for the Panthers, who took the Eagles into camp Thursday night by a 45-19 count.

The sweep of the series gives the El Pasoans, district 4-AA representatives, a place in the state tournament.

The Eagles trailed the host team by a few points throughout practically the entire game. The score by quarters:

Cards Not Due To Lose Men To Army

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP)—The possibility that the draft might dip into the St. Louis Cardinals' collection of kids this year and wreck the Redbirds' pennant hopes was dispelled today by Manager Billy Southworth.

Five of the promising young Cardinals already have gone to the service. One of them, Pitcher Henry (Hank) Nowak, left last Monday, the day training camp opened.

But Southworth surveyed the situation again today and found that apparently not one of his key men was likely to be called. Most of the players are married and have children or other dependents.

What Texans are doing toward collecting books for the men in Uncle Sam's armed forces is detailed in a report from state headquarters at Austin of the Victory Book campaign, based upon reports from district chairman. Miss Fannie M. Wilcox, state chairman, said she was particularly impressed with the "whole-hearted cooperation" of various community groups—business houses, clubs, service organizations, clergymen, and particularly with newspapers and radio stations which have given freely their space to advertising the drive.

1941 Grain Keeps Moving Out Of Area

Last year's bumper grain crop is still moving out of this section in good size quantities, local feed dealers report. East and southeast Texas, which suffered an almost total crop loss this year, is getting a good portion of the grain being shipped out, as dairy herds and stock farms have exhausted supplies. The area between Big Spring and Lamesa is seeing considerable feed moved out, with farmers getting $12 and $13 per ton. Considerable feed is still believed to be in barns. Heading continued until well after Christmas, the harvest being delayed by a shortage of laborers during cotton picking season.

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—The stock market today managed to finish a modest recovery week with prices slanting irregularly higher. Nothing particularly stimulating was found in the war news and the rule of keeping commitments light over a week-end was accentuated by the battle of the Java sea and the desire to await the outcome of this engagement as well as other international developments. Generally good earnings statements aided an assortment of favorites.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .1 of a point and on the week showed a net advance of .4, the first improvement in three weeks. Transfers totalled 234,460 shares. Rubber company issues were aided by the better than expected Goodrich profits report for 1941. Rails held their own while waiting the freight rate boost decision. Standard Brands was the liveliest performer, dipping 1-2 to a record low of 3 1/2 in the wake of omission of the regular 10-cent dividend and a drop in last year's net from 1940.

In Seven More Years It'll Be Over With—
Colorado City Still Paying Off Bond Issue Voted By Original Municipality In 1882 Organization Days

COLORADO CITY, Feb. 28—Colorado, which existed from April 1882, until July, 1891. For years now the present Colorado City, in existence since 1907, has been one of the soundest municipalities in a financial way in West Texas, in spite of the fact that it has been paying heavily since 1916 on the debts of its long defunct predecessor. The debt began on the 29th day of August, 1883, when the city council of the first City of Colorado ordered the issuance of $6,000 worth of bonds to erect a sewer and drainage system. It was increased by $7,000 the following November when additional bonds were issued and sold for the construction of a city hall. The sewer and drainage system never functioned satisfactorily, according to old-timers. The city hall was a frame structure, long since gone. Existing part of the time as a city, part of the time as a town, the first incorporated Colorado (it was not Colorado City until a few years ago) struggled on until 1891, when incorporation was dissolved. The town's early prosperity, born of open ranges and cattle herds, was over by then, and its more lasting prosperity based on farms and livestock and, later, oil had not begun. There were disastrous droughts about that time, too. From 1891 until 1907 there was not, properly speaking, any Colorado City. The shadow of those early debts hindered movements to vote incorporation once again, although there were many citizens who maintained from the beginning that the town ought to incorporate and begin paying off whatever debts were judged to belong to it. A suit asking "appointment of a receiver for the defunct City of Colorado, and for the payment of a number of unpaid bonds," was filed by Robert Rankin and others in 1906, according to a story appearing in the Colorado Record for January 4, 1907. The amount at that time had grown to $31,000. The present city was incorporated in 1907. Some nine years later, in 1916, final judgment of the bond holders against the city was rendered. The total by that time had grown to some $55,000. The debt was refunded in two series—A for $48,000, B for $7,175.97. The B series was paid off several years ago. Series A had been paid down to $10,500 in 1939. In that year this remainder and $7,500 worth of bridge bonds were refunded together, reducing interest to 3 1/2 percent whereas it had been 5% on Series A and 4 percent on the bridge bonds. This refunded debt will be paid off in 1948. At that time the present City of Colorado City can forget, financially speaking, that there was ever a first City of Colorado if it wants to, and it will surely want to. Both England and Germany experienced some temporary unemployment during transition to maximum war output, says the department of commerce. Birds fly in a V formation for the same reason that aviators do—to avoid each other's slip stream.

In SHOES

The rubber shortage has put America back on its feet — and never before were shoes as important as they will be this spring. Millions of women, men and children who rode to work, to school, and to town, will be "hoofing" it this spring to save those precious tires.

So, foremost in the fashion picture for shoes are walking shoes. Shoes with low and comfortable heels, shoes that will walk a mile and still leave you ready to go places.

Following the khaki trend of the army, that old standby, beige, which used to be a sedate color, has come forth in many new shades and is destined to be the leading spring color. Jersey cream, it's called now, and it's a few shades lighter than the old beige.

Another shade along this line is Texas Sand, which ought to be a sure-fire hit in West Texas and there is parchment color, and turf tan, and country cream. Patent leather, as in other years, will be a leading contender for the popular shoe. Patents as always fill the bill for dress and semi-dress and manufacturers are making their shoes in high and semi-high heels in patents.

Shoe firms predict that this spring will be one of the most colorful shoe years yet, however, for along side of patent and jersey cream are such colors as flag red, R.A.F. blue, bright greens.

Due for popularity is another bright idea from the shoe manufacturers, a walking spectator sport shoe with 16-8ths heel. It comes in navy and white and brown and white and will be a godsend for those girls who must walk to work and yet look neat on the job. These dressy but lower heeled shoes can be worn with nearly any costume and look right.

Genuine alligator and lizard shoes which are getting scarcer are therefore much in demand. The long-wearing qualities of these good shoes is another point in their favor. These shoes come in a rich brown color called mink brown and can be worn the year around.

Another idea brought forth this spring by the shoe men are the plain brown oxfords made similar to men's shoes for women in uniforms, in defense work, and busy women all over America. Some manufacturers call them defense shoes, but no matter what the name your feet will love them.

A hopeful note for spring is that wedges, those featured shoes of the last season, are out now except for slack or play shoes. In their stead are studded shoes, studded with gold nail heads and which are made up for play, evening or dress shoes.

Evening shoes, as always, run to the metallic kinds, silver, gold, and some satin. Many are low-heeled but the high heeled evening pump is still a best seller.

For your Sunday afternoon and evenings, when you contemplate no hikes in the country, the manufacturers are showing toe-less, heelless and feminine pumps and straps. Seeming to hold on only by sheer will power, the shoes are still comfortable and make your feet that little.

Sandals are experiencing an unusual demand this year. Flat heeled, and toeless, they seem to be the answer to foot comfort for many for slacks and for sports wear.

Only sad note in the spring shoe outlook which so far hasn't bothered many is that the best leather is going for marching boots and shoes for the army and navy and marines. The citizen is getting second best but to date there is no noticeable difference. Also the buyer will find her shoes slightly higher in price but larger incomes of the populace are supposed to even this difference without any trouble.

All shoes modeled on this page are from the Spring lines being shown in Big Spring stores.

Military Influence Notable In Men's Shoes For '42

While the modes of men's shoes change less than their feminine counterparts, the fellow looking for something nifty in the way of footwear for spring and summer, 1942, will see some marked trends.

The military influence is strong, with most stores showing models that are either officially accepted for service use or are patterned markedly after those lines.

Outstanding shoes in the spring picture include the smooth calf wing tip brogue and the medallion perforated straight tip brogue. Soles are fairly heavy this year and "antiquing" is more important, running from the dark mahogany shade to the black finishes over natural brown.

Moccasin fronts and plain toe fronts are in the front line of popularity, too. These are supported by the military trend.

The place of the casual shoe is gaining prominence. With the growing acceptance of casual dress in men's summer clothes, a definite market in sports models is noted, with emphasis on comfort and informality of design.

In the summer picture, two-tone shoes retain their popularity, with brown and white the leading combination. The trend is toward more brown and less white, and decorative perforations are smaller.

To be noted principally in men's shoes is the fact that greater variety is offered than ever before, with selections varied in color, style and design so that the male purchaser has available any type of footwear to meet his particular wearing needs.

Mickey And Judy In Another Hit; 'Babes On Broadway' At Ritz

America's box-office king and his girl friend, Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, return to the screen for the seventh time together in "Babes on Broadway," which heads the bill for today and Monday at the Ritz theatre.

Headed by this incomparable pair are more than 200 of Hollywood's outstanding youngsters, including Virginia Weidler and two dancing newcomers from the New York stage, Ray McDonald and Richard Quine. McDonald, although he has played two dramatic roles on the screen, gets his first chance to show his hoofing as a partner of Mickey's and Quine. Adults in the cast include Fay Bainter, Donald Meek, Alexander Woolcott and Luis Alberni.

"Babes on Broadway" tells the story of the scores of youngsters who invade New York annually seeking their "breaks" on the stage. Mickey and Judy are two of these youngsters who, becoming discouraged at the lack of opportunity, decide the only way they can achieve recognition is to stage their own show.

A "block party" is arranged, both for the purpose of raising money to hire a theatre and to assure a vacation for children of a Settlement House. The party a success, the youngsters rent a theatre and prepare to put on their show.

Before the curtain can rise, the show is halted—the house has been condemned. Judy, however, talks a producer into seeing the show by himself. Amazed by the youngsters' abilities, he signs them for his next Broadway production.

The picture was directed by Busby Berkeley and produced by Arthur Freed, the same man who was responsible for "Babes in Arms" and "Strike Up the Band," previous Mickey Rooney-Judy Garland starring vehicles.

More Gaiety—You can bet there'll be fun a-plenty as Mickey and Judy and the rest of the "Babes on Broadway" team forced again for a piece of entertainment called "Babes on Broadway," showing today and Monday at the Ritz theatre. It has songs and dances, as well as fun and romance. Judy and Mickey are seen here in one of the character skits featured in the film.

Sugar Ration Book Issuance Delayed

DALLAS, Feb. 28 (AP)—Doubt that sugar rationing books would be issued to Texans before the final week of March was expressed today by Mark McGee, state rationing administrator, "because of the size, scope and complicated nature of the task."

McGee said that retail sugar dealers will register at high schools several days prior to the registration by consumers.

Consumers will register with teachers in the elementary schools.

Girls Tell Why Slacks Will Help

CLEVELAND, Feb. 28 (AP)—Feminine employees of the city clerk's office have asked permission of city council to wear slacks in the office because:

- 1—The impending wool shortage has made dresses more expensive;
- 2—Girls would not have to wear silk stockings;
- 3—They could wear inexpensive, low-heel shoes;
- 4—In winter the slacks would be warmer than conventional dresses.

Yep! Groceries Still Going Up

AUSTIN, Feb. 28 (AP)—Although some items showed a considerable decrease, the average price of retail food in Texas during February reached a new high of 17.6 per cent above April last year, the state bureau of labor statistics reported today.

The largest increase was shown in fresh fruits and vegetables and fats and oils.

Music Added To Western Melodrama

"Oomph" and "sock" are some of the qualities they say are to be found in the Queen theatre's featured offering for today and Monday, a musical western called "Go West Young Lady."

The oomph—and the sock!—are both to be found in the lovely persons of Penny Singleton and Ann Miller, who engage in a tooth-and-claw battle destined for motion picture history. Miss Singleton temporarily quitting the "Blondie" series to prove her versatility, appears as a tenderfoot tomboy on the rough-and-tumble frontier. Miss Miller is cast as a dance hall entertainer, who knows her way around the range, and the range riders. With popular Glenn Ford as the third of the featured triumvirate, it's small wonder that the two girls bring down the house in their efforts to keep the other away from him!

When the soft-spoken sheriff Ford goes a-gunning for Peccos Pete, the worst bad man west of the Mississippi, he manages to get himself worried by a custard pie heaved at the bandit by Miss Singleton. Despairing of ever seeing Peccos Pete captured, Penny decides to go after him herself.

She succeeds, too, employing as weapons not the ineffective slugs of her Western hero but more positive armaments, the pots and pans from her own kitchen!

Miss Singleton was a Broadway musical comedy star prior to her stardom as "Blondie." In "Go West, Young Lady" she reveals herself as a splendid actress, highly competent in the diverse fields of song, dance and comedy.

Ford, with the rich boisterousness of "Texas" behind him, again proves his right to the stardom he is so rapidly attaining. Miss Miller provides in "Go West, Young Lady" a swift succession of breath-taking new dances, including one in which she wears a Charlie Ruggles and Allen Jenkins are not far behind the featured players when it comes to winning laughs.

22 Aviators Volunteer For CAP Service

At least 22 licensed pilots in the West Texas sector are ready to meet Uncle Sam's call.

In response to a request from the Civil Air Patrol, that many Saturday evening had reported to Group Commander P. W. Malone. Names of these men will be forwarded to the state wing commander, D. Harold Byrd, and they are "on call" for service.

The CAP sought names of those between the ages of 27 and 45 and who hold CAA certificates, and whose services would be available on short notice for miscellaneous non-combatant flight work. If they were summoned to duty, the government would give them a refresher course.

Malone's request over West Texas brought a prompt and wide response. Men registering included holders of private and commercial licenses.

Tomorrow the March proration order will effect an actual flow of 4,445 barrels daily under the federal coordinator's suggested 1,510,600 with an allowable production of 1,536,061 as compared to 1,606,380 Feb. 1.

Actually, all except certain fields which cannot due to physical reasons, will be shut down tomorrow, the first of nine shutdown days in the new month as compared to seven in February.

March Is Time To Start Your Gardening

Get ready folks, for March — early March — is the time to plant these gardens, according to George C. Ellis, horticulturist at Texas Tech.

Ellis, who has made a study of gardens for this particular part of the state, is an advocate of the frost-to-frost garden plan rather than the spring garden. He advised that frames be used for leafy crops only.

Right now, green crops such as mustard, spinach, leaf lettuce, chard and parsley may be started profitably. Root crops should not be planted in frame gardens in March, because they can be planted outside about as well.

Hardier vegetables, such as English peas, should be placed in the ground by March 1. Turnips, collards, kale, radishes, rutabaga, spinach can go in by March 15 if early cropping is expected. If asparagus has not already been established, crowns may be procured and planted on or before March 1.

Tender crops such as melons, okra, tomatoes, peppers, beans, sweet corn, cucumbers and squash, should not be planted until the weather is warm and danger of frost is over. This would mean after April 15 in this area and preferably May 1 or later.

Mid-summer plantings of sweet corn, which produced nicely as late as Oct. 1, and rutabagas, which are not damaged by the first frost and can be field stored in pits or mounds for winter use. No garden, said Ellis, is complete without an August planting of turnip greens. Kale, spinach and collards are hardy and also grow well into fall. Radishes can be grown all summer and may be planted until September.

Each member chose his name which was scrambled on a green shamrock. The shamrock was pinned on to be worn throughout the evening.

TSCW NOTES

By CHAMPE PHILIPS

Are any of you females lonely? Have you been searching for that lost paradise? Well, let me tell you there's only one place for a condition like yours—Texas A.&M. where the only thing that grows is men, "millions" of them.

The sophomore class of A.&M. invited the home class of TSCW down to floor the mob and cut the rug for one glorious weekend. The first man I saw was R. H. Miller, who seemed to be quite ill, for he saw all two buses of us drive up, he just mumbled the word "Girls!" and fainted.

At the dance that night I saw Otis Grafs, Billy Koons, Harvey Adams, Howard Swarsenbach and Ralph Sheets calmly tearing the planks from the floor, per usual. Seemed like home. When we went there the campus was very beautiful . . . green grass, tall trees . . . perfect background for the thousands of boys and their smooth uniforms. (There must have been considerable moon, too . . . Ed.)

Suit Mate—Ideal for wear with a new spring suit is this tailored felt hat in Victory Red. The brim flange is piped in black grosgrain, which also "lapses" the pointed crown.

Tom Rosson Employed By Ration Board

Employment of Tom Rosson as clerk for the Howard county tire rationing board was announced Friday night by Board Chairman J. C. Douglas, Sr.

Appointment was made on authority of the Dallas office of the OPM, the government having made appropriation for employment of assistants to rationing board members. The action is in recognition of increased detail work on the boards, with the prospect of more to come if the same boards are to direct rationing of other articles.

Final decisions on items sold under rationing regulations still rest with board members, and Rosson will serve only as clerk, handling records, files, etc.

Douglas said the board will continue to hold its public hearings at the chamber of commerce office on Tuesdays and Fridays of each week. Those seeking information on rationing, however, may contact Rosson at his office, 211 Petroleum building, where records will be kept. Rosson's office phone number is 1466.

There has been no shortage in cigarettes because two years before the outbreak of the war a factory in North Carolina began successful production of cigarette paper, freeing the United States of almost total dependence upon France for this material.

DANGEROUS BAGGAGE

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

Chapter 30 New Plan "Well, much as I hate to break this charming set-a-tete, I've got work to do. Tom took the suitcase swinging on a hook, thrust his arms into it. Across the shoulders lay the broad, dark bands of dampness left by last night's tussle with the storm. Suddenly, he buckled a gun-belt round his waist, picked up a large flashlight. "Any message I can take to Goodwin for you?" "Listen, Tom, I have an idea," Sharon wanted to stand directly before him, blocking his way to the door. "Another one!" Tom grinned broadly. "Goodwin ought to pay me overtime for the way you look that brain of yours!" "Please listen," she begged. "Okay, shoot." He glanced at his watch. "But make it snappy. You stand to lose a lot if anything goes wrong with this plan of yours, don't you?" "Yep. Just don't figure that anything will go wrong," she insisted. "If half of the load was still aboard the Ladybird, if some of the men were still going back and forth to the cabin. Someone would be sure to see you coming into the harbor—or notice your engines and give the warning!" "Right," Tom agreed grimly. "You're risking everything on the chances that they have had time to move those valves and that all of the men are in the ship, depending on the guards Goodwin thinks he has stationed around the cove." "Right. He'll be off guard," Tom said confidently. But his eyes were more than his words admitted. "He thinks we'll still be trying to find him around those rocks back in San Francisco. Right now he's busy stowing that stuff away under his dirty fishing nets, figuring to get out of here before we catch up with him. He'll now and slip back later when the pursuit cools off, and collect his valves." "How can he be so low," Sharon wondered. "And what will happen to all his gang? Dennis and Pavlo and the Countess and all the things who are involved in this thing?" Tom smiled grimly, shook his head. "I wouldn't like to think about that. Of course the Countess—who by the way was no nearer being a Countess than you are a chinaman!—has probably slipped out already. She'll probably meet him near the border somewhere, they'll change their names again, slip out of our clutches and start a new racket somewhere else. She is his wife, you know." "Wife!" Sharon gasped. Then more enlightenment flooded into her mind. That accounted for a lot of things. Edda's attitude toward him, her jealousy of Sharon, her strange violence that afternoon of her mysterious call. "Then, clenching his jaw savagely, "We've got to catch him this time. There just can't be any hitches!" Sharon asked eagerly. "Tom! What could you do to help?" Sharon took a long breath. "I would go ashore, get to the cabin, find out what the situation was, give you the signal you need when it's all set." "You're crazy." "I'm not crazy. It's the only sensible way to go about this business," she insisted hotly. "They suspect me, I can tell them I've escaped from you, came to warn you. I can take a lot of time explaining some long story about your whereabouts, your plans, long enough to give you a chance to collect your forces." "For a moment, something like a faint approval flickered in Tom's eyes. Then, instantly, it died out in a cold gray skepticism. "That's not a bad try, Sharon," he said dryly. "I almost fell for that one." "Then why won't you let me do it?" "Because it would take just the same little 'escape' to carry the good news to Goodwin and really roll our plans. Hands under her chin, she lifted her gently out of his path, moved toward the door. "Some other day, my sweet!" But Sharon clutched his arm, wheeled him around so she could look squarely into his eyes. "On my word of honor, Tom, I am not trying to do anything that can't help to apprehend this criminal. Certainly, you can convince the idea that I might possibly want to make up for past mistakes? That I might have as much desire as you to see this man behind prison bars where he belongs?" "Have you?"—relenting just a little. But enough to encourage her. "You must believe that I want to make sure you catch him now? That I will do my part to make your plan succeed?" "What about brother Dennis? Catching Goodwin means we

Editorial -- Arms Plants Need Women, Older Men

It is about time, we judge, that the government adopt a more positive policy toward the training of women and older men in defense industries. The point is simply this: Soon it will be increasingly improbable that young men without dependents can avoid the draft by getting into defense industries. Already the policy is being adopted and rigidly followed in restricting membership in training to 3-A selectees. Administrators are on the alert to weed out draft dodgers. In time, these more rigid enrollment requirements will broaden the field from which will be drawn the workers of tomorrow. This development, we believe, is inescapable. The sooner it is recognized and the program directed to meet it, the sooner we will see older men and women in training on the job. This is another of your cool-headed tricks, you'll win my everlasting admiration of your skill and hatred of your duplicity!" Sharon's lips quivered in spite of her. "Please give me the chance, Tom," she whispered. "What do you propose to do?" "You take me ashore in the dinghy—at once," she said rapidly. "I'll go ahead of you to the cabin. If all is ready for you, I'll give you some signal." "What signal?" he demanded. "I can't say. A shot, maybe. Or a light. If there is something wrong, I'll give you a chance to see what it is."

Hollywood Sights And Sounds -- Jerry Blunt Teaches 'Em How To Behave

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD — This is the story of Donna Reed, but it has to do with a young man named Jerry Blunt. I've never met this Mr. Blunt, but his name keeps coming up in my encounters with young beauties around this town. First time I heard it was from Alexis Smith. Most recently it was from Donna Reed. Alexis and Donna were classmates in Mr. Blunt's drama room at Los Angeles city college. "After Mr. Blunt," said Donna, "facing a camera is nothing at all." Alexis had testified with equal force. "Mr. Blunt really taught us," said Donna. "You know how we'd learn to concentrate? He'd have us read a scene, and he'd pitch rolled-up paper, or pencils, or blackboard erasers at us. We learned to pay no attention, just go on with the scene. And Mr. Blunt could spot anybody with movie ideas a mile off. The peroxide blondes, for instance — the ones who looked as if they were thinking more about Hollywood than about learning to act. I think these had to work twice as hard to make the grade." Mr. Blunt was beginning to sound like a young ogre, but Donna protested, "Why, we LIKED it! And now—why, I'm not afraid of the camera at all." Mr. Blunt may take a bow. As for Donna Reed, she must be seen to be believed. She's been seen already in three pictures — "The Getaway," "The Bugle Sounds," "Shadow of the Thin Man" and will be seen shortly in "Monkey" and "Courtship of Andy Hardy." It's still hard to believe there is a Donna Reed. That's not because she's young, uncommonly pretty, and talented enough to win a lead in her first picture — perhaps thanks to our Mr. Blunt — but because with it all she's as wholesome as an Iowa sunrise. There isn't any Hollywood about her. This is not surprising, when you consider that she's fairly fresh off an Iowa farm. Near the little town of Denison, where she went to high school and decided to become somebody's secretary, her parents still run the farm. Donna chose Los Angeles for a college because an aunt invited her out, and the drama class was coincidental. At first, that is. When her picture made the papers as campus queen, she forgot about being somebody's secretary.

Man About Manhattan— Birth Of Theatrical Hit Represents Heap Of Worry

By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK—Musical comedies are funny things. . . . They cost a lot of money. . . . Almost always they represent a gamble. . . . Sometimes they become hits, and everybody is happy. . . . Invariably, even before they become hits, they represent weary months of conferences and arguments, of interchanging ideas, of editing and re-writing, of hiring and firing, of long, tedious, endless rehearsal periods in empty theatres and halls. Let's take up now in progress, and see how it works. Three men are most vitally concerned. They are George Marion, Jr., George Abbott and Johnny Green. Marion is a theatrical writer, a Hollywood writer, a Broadway writer. He wrote a short story called "Yours For a Year." When Abbott saw it he wanted it, and he bought it. Abbott is a very happy guy. He's very musical conscious. He's a crack rumba dancer. He knows bands. He knows musical comedies. He is perhaps the most successful producer on Broadway. It should be added that who he liked best about Marion's story was this fact: It was the story of a band leader who had a successful band, and of what he went through to keep that band successful. "This," said Abbott, "ought to make a crack musical comedy." But you can't have a musical comedy without music, and that's where Johnny Green comes in. Green is a composer, an arranger, a pianist, a conductor. That he majored in economics at Harvard and began life as a banking clerk in NY has no bearing on this story. He likes music; that's why he has made it his career. And so every day the three—Marion, Abbott and Green—go into a huddle. They talk about the story, the plot, the settings. They edit and rewrite. They discuss the score, the tempo, the mood, the songs. Then Johnny Green goes back to his home and writes the music. How much music is needed for a musical comedy? More than you know. A musical comedy such as "Yours For a Year" will have about 20 musical "spots." This means there'll be about 18 pieces of music. Six of these will be publishable songs. Six or thereabouts will be choral numbers, group numbers. There must also be background music and filler music. Music is tailored to a show, just as your overcoat is tailored. In addition to these shores, Green is conducting the orchestra for the newest Rodgers and Hart musical comedy, a musical variation of "The Warrior's Husband." He

Washington Daybook -- Ambassador To Reds Is Kind They Like

By JACK STINNETT WASHINGTON—Joseph Stalin and other bigwigs of the Russian government reportedly prefer to deal with diplomats of the "straight-from-the-shoulder school of speaking." On that score, the selection of Admiral William H. (Bill) Standley as the new U. S. ambassador to Moscow should turn out to the Reds' liking. Standley is a 60-year-old sea dog who speaks without camouflage. Back in June, 1940, even before the Nazis had finally crushed the French army, he demanded the United States immediately declare that a state of war existed between this country and Germany. Again in the fall of that year, when German bombers were bad-ly blasting Britain, he told the New York Young Men's Board of Trade: "You fellows have got to get war-minded." He assailed the stand of "2,000,000 mothers who pledged their undying opposition to sending our boys to fight on a foreign soil." Said Standley then, "When the time comes to defend our country, it will be just too damn late." He urged a declaration of war against the axis or, lacking that, the granting of full emergency powers to the President by Congress. "I don't care whether it's Roosevelt, Jones or Smith," he said. "I think that's the only way to avoid a dictatorship." Admiral Standley, vigorous for his age, has a natural liking for people which made him, an unusually popular naval officer. He has a keen interest in foreign affairs and world geography. He rounded out 40 years of active service in the Navy as chief of naval operations, retiring in 1937. Recalled to active duty, he served for a year as naval representative on the priorities board of OPM. Last fall he went to Russia as the naval member of the Harriman special war supply mission and got a great kick out of the trip. Recently he has been in the office of Secretary of Navy Knox. Admiral Standley is one of the best golfers in the naval high command, shooting in the low eighties. He is a topnotch bridge player. During the London naval conference he played a few rounds of bridge with Isoroku Yamamoto, now commander-in-chief of the Japanese fleet. Yamamoto is the fellow who is reported to have boasted, "I am looking forward to dictating peace in the White House at Washington." Fellow officers of Standley say he probably could give Yamamoto a good answer to that one if he desired. CLINIC CALLED OFF WESTBROOK, Feb. 28—A high school band clinic which was scheduled to be held here today was called off because of the illness of James B. Nevins who was to have conducted the clinic. Nevins is assistant conductor of the Texas Tech band. ON HONOR ROLL COMMERCE, Feb. 28 — Miss Martha Hubbard of Coahoma was one of 27 students at East Texas State Teachers college to make the straight "A" honor roll.

mond pointed out in announcing the meeting that fair prices and other equalities should be accorded agriculture as compared with other essential industries.

"Farmers in the Farm Bureau Federation have never asked for more than parity prices," Hammond said. "We are opposed to any movement which leads us to inflation and our leaders in Washington are doing their best to keep prices under control in all channels of trade."

HD Club Work In War Times Is Described

Home demonstration clubs of extension service district 6 are organizing their efforts for national defense, Mrs. Hart Phillips, Jr., state vice president for the district, reports in this month's issue of "Texas Agriculture."

Clubs in the district are helping to organize nutrition courses, helping to extend information on good diets, aiding in school lunch programs, promoting use of whole grain products, cooperating with the government in producing more food for home use.
