MEMPHIS WINS HALL COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Another League Is Planned For 1939 With Same Teams

In the final game of the Hall County Baseball League play-off, Memphis defeated Parnell by a 11-5 score to win the 1938 county championship. The game was played at Parnell.

In the first inning Memphis took a decided lead in the scoring when Crow, Memphis catcher, hit a home run with three men on base, bringing the score to 4-0. Another run for Memphis brought the score to 5-0 at the end of the first inning, a lead that Memphis held throughout the game.

Batteries for Memphis were Staggs to Crow and for Parnell, Hoover to Phillips.

The county championship for Memphis is the result of a season of hard playing during which the local nine led the league throughout a series of Sunday games.

Jack Boone, president of the league, stated that another league, possibly composed of the same teams, would be organized for a 1939 championship contest. He stated that the first meeting of the 1939 association would not be held until sometime in February at which time representatives of the various teams would meet and hold an organization meeting, electing officers and planning schedules.

During the 1938 season teams from Memphis, Childress, Cross Roads, Parnell, Salisbury and Hedley participated in the contest. Semi-finals between Memphis, Cross Roads, Parnell and Salisbury resulted in a final play-off between Memphis and Parnell. Memphis won the first game, and Parnell the second of a three game series and Memphis' victory Sunday won them the county championship.

Half of Subsidy Checks Received

Approximately one-half of the subsidy checks for Hall County farmers, issued on the 1937 cottons, are received by the county agent's office here according to reports secured Wednesday. To date 1,500 checks have been received and it is estimated that the entire payment will cover more than 3,000 accounts. Some 25 or 30 checks were received Wednesday.

The total amount received at the agent's office in Memphis to date is $256,693.78.

According to R. E. L. Pattillo, county agent, as soon as the checks are received in Memphis they are tabulated and proper records are made and the farmer is notified by mail that his check is ready for him. He is asked to call at the agent's office and get it. Mr. Pattillo points out that unless notification is received it is not necessary for the farmer to call, since no check has been received for him.

The first lot of checks for Hall County was received by the county agent's office here two weeks ago and since that time they have been coming in steadily. The first allotment was made up of 121 checks and subsequent allotments have increased the number to more than 1,500.

Observers state that the subsidy checks, a part of the 1937 AAA program, will substantially increase Hall County farm income this year and will, in the face of a short crop this season, be highly acceptable.

Bankers, merchants and local businessmen have been enjoying stimulated business since the arrival of the first checks and Hall County cotton producers began placing the subsidy funds in circulation.

The well on the Nellie Kuteiman location southwest of Hedley standardized Wednesday of this week in order to drill through the dolomite formation which was encountered at 2,855 feet, according to Messrs. Robinson and Jones, owners, who were in Memphis Tuesday.

It will take from a week to ten days to test out the dolomite which checks about 270 feet higher than normal, and is a good indication of oil, the promoters stated. After testing the present formation, if no showing is found, the rotary rig will be moved over the well and drilling will continue to the contract depth of 4,500 feet, and deeper, if indications are good.

Robinson and Jones are very optimistic, and believe they will find some interesting and promising formations before reaching the contract depth.

Fire Damages Eli Store Last Sunday

Fire of unknown origin damaged the Eli store of the Farmers Union Supply Company Sunday to the extent of $350 according to C. L. Ayers, manager. Although the fire was confined to a small area in the building, the stock of the store suffered damage from smoke and soot.

According to Mr. Ayers after the flames had been extinguished and the smoke cleared away, he found that an automobile tire has been on fire, causing the heavy smoke which did considerable damage to the stock. The flames were confined to the tire and some chicken feed that was nearby.

The fire was discovered about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon and the residents of the Eli Community who gathered at the store put out the blaze. A heavy fire-proof wall-board, used in the construction of the building, prevented the flames from spreading.

Mr. and Mrs. Ayers, who make their home in the rear of the store, were away at the time of the fire. Neighbors carried their household effects out of the building.

Fire At Co-op Gin Tuesday Causes Damage; Volunteer Firemen Called

Approximately $500 damage was sustained by the Farmer's Co-op Gin Society Tuesday afternoon when a bale in the process of ginning caught fire. The damage was estimated by Tom Landers, ginner.

The Memphis Volunteer Fire Department was called and extinguished the flames which were confined to a cleaner and to a small out-building. Mr. Landers expressed the opinion that the fire was caused by flint rocks passing through the ginning machinery. About fifty pounds of cotton was burned.

The gin plant was out of operation about an hour during which time the fire was extinguished and repairs made.

This was the first fire that the gin has experienced this season. A burr pile near the gin property caught fire in July.

According to Mr. Landers the Farmer's Co-op Gin No. 1, which has not been in operation this season will be placed in service during the latter part of this week to care for the cotton that is being brought to the Co-op Society's two plants here.

The music, prayers, and message we hope will all be in keeping with the day.

It will be a pleasure to welcome visitors, and other friends who may attend the services of the day. Our sympathy, and our prayers for all in distress not only in America, but also throughout the entire world in such trying experiences and days of fearful consequences. CORRECTION
In last week's issue of The Democrat under the cut showing a large shipment of pressure cookers, it was stated they were for "REA clients" when it should have been for "FSA clients." Also, it stated that "R. D. Land" was shown standing in front of the display, when it should have been "R. C. Land, FSA supervisor."
The writer of the cut lines became confused over the government's alphabet and made the errors for which the publishers wish to apologize.

Stubble Checks Wind Erosion Is Claim Made by Soil Conservation Service

Land needs an overcoat in the winter too.
High winds are normal in the Southern Great Plains during winter and spring, and unless the land has a protective cover of vegetation, some of the valuable topsoil is likely to be carried away in the form of dust storms, Soil Conservation Service technicians point out.
Many farmers of the wind erosion region this year have grown grain sorghums because of their soil protective quality and feed value. Farmers within recent years have learned that by leaving a stubble from eight to 12 inches tall on the field and then protecting it against overgrazing and trampling by livestock, they can provide an overcoat of erosion-resisting vegetation for the land during the period of high winds.
Where sorghums are grown in strips with crops which do not resist erosion, such as cotton, corn and beans, the strips of stubble serve to check the movement of soil from the clean-tilled strips.
On fields of light or sandy soils, farmers found during the last "blow season" that emergency listing or chiseling between rows of stubble increased the protection against soil losses by wind erosion. The cloudy surface left by such tillage methods served to break the force of the wind and check the movement of soil, many reported.
Generally over the wind erosion region, it has been observed that where a good stubble is left on the fields and protected from grazing, there is practically no loss of soil from blowing. On the other hand, where there is little or no stubble, or where this protective cover is grazed and the surface pulverized by the trampling of livestock, there is considerable soil loss by blowing.

WEATHERLY FARMER FINDS THAT TRENCH SILO PROTECTS FEED

Has Enough of Last Year's Feed To Carry Him Through Another Season; Purchases Good Cattle

Sid Williams, farmer residing in the Weatherly community, is finding that diversified farming methods are paying, according to R. E. L. Pattillo, Hall county agent.

Last year Mr. Williams built a trench silo approximately 120 feet long, 8 feet deep, 6 feet wide at the bottom and 8 feet wide at the top and stocked it with feed-stuffs from last year's crop. A check-up reveals that he has sufficient feedstuff in his silo this year to carry him through another year without storing any of the 1933 crop.

Mr. Pattillo points out that Mr. Williams' example bears out in practice the statement made here by E. R. Eudaley, state extension service dairy husbandman, who spoke at a dairy show here early in the month. Mr. Eudaley stated that farmers must look to the dollars per acre rather than the total production to the acre and that through the use of trench silo methods of feed preservation the returns more than doubled the dollars per acre over dry feeding. The use of trench silos prevents the loss of natural moisture in feedstuffs, increasing their utility and is the least expensive type of feed preservation.

Last year Mr. Williams purchased a registered Jersey bull and this week has completed the building of a pen to care for his animal. At the same time he purchased the bull Mr. Williams also purchased for his son, H. C. Williams, a registered Jersey heifer. Only recently he has started keeping a record of his dairy stock, putting into practice as many of the approved dairy methods that he can.

F.F.A. Chapter Has Initiation Meeting

The Memphis chapter of the Future Farmers of America had the official initiation of Green Hands at their meeting held Tuesday night at the high school building. This initiation concluded a series of activities carried on this month by the students of vocational agriculture.

The year was begun by attending the first Hall County Dairy Show at which some very important points were learned concerning the judging and classification of dairy cattle from lectures by such authorities as Mr. Eudaley and Mr. Gibson. Several days were then spent studying the importance of silage in feeding livestock, especially dairy cattle, beef calves, and lambs. This study was concluded by putting on a window exhibit, displaying a trench silo in order to stress to farmers of this section the advantages of storing feed in this manner.

On September 24 the Tri-State Fair was attended by the group and observations made of the very fine breeding stock. A study was also made of the agricultural booths and FFA exhibits. Plans for individual and class projects are being worked out and reports of these will be made by the group as they are completed.

NEWLIN

Newlin School Pupils Attend Amarillo Fair
With 34 children and 9 teachers aboard a school bus bound for the Amarillo Fair Friday, it was a scene of much activity from the moment they left at 6 a. m. until they arrived home at 7 p. m. They arrived as per schedule at the fair grounds at 9 a. m. and immediately began an inspection tour of the entire attractions. The adults and a large group of children inspected the stock barns, with the hundreds of fine bred cattle which were bedded in hay, and with their attendants combing and curling their hair; the children decided they were really "contented cows." The general display of fancy work, quilts and spreads, etc. attracted the school displays. At noon they had the privilege of hearing and seeing the famous Simmons Cowboy Band, and other bands, also the "man on the street" broadcast and the stuttering clown. The chief attraction for the children was the Midway Carnival with all its rides and shows, and games of chance. Some attended the rodeo. At 4 o'clock a tired, happy group gathered at the bus each telling what they had seen and what they had done and all in all they had a grand time.

Rev. and Mrs. L. J. Crawford returned Friday from an extended trip to various points in Colorado.

J. R. Nelson left Tuesday for Denver where he will visit his daughter Mrs. Shied. He will also visit his son and family, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Nelson, in Albuquerque.

Band Benefit Pie Supper October 4

A hand benefit pie supper will be given in the high school auditorium Tuesday night, October 4, at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of aiding the band in securing several instruments that will put it on a par with other school bands in this section, Director G. W. Johnson announced Wednesday.

According to Mr. Johnson, the band at present is in need of a bass horn, and to purchase one between $50 and $100 will have to be raised. "This is the first large instrument that we are attempting to add to our band equipment this year," he said, "and we hope to add some three or four during the school year."

"The past few days the band students have been selling pencils with the schedule of the Memphis football team printed on them. The response from the patrons has been gratifying, and we are looking for a nice crowd used Tuesday night to help raise the necessary amount to buy the bass horn. Come-out and have a good time and help your band students," he continued.
