Parade of Nearly 50 Witnesses Starts Monday Morning

Special to The Democrat
AMARILLO, March 16.—The twelfth juror in the George S. Hamlin murder case was accepted in five minutes at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon, climaxing five days of tiresome examination, wrangling between attorneys and intense questioning by both state and defense counsel.

The eleventh man had been selected over the vigorous protests of state attorneys less than an hour before. The state had exhausted its quota of 15 challenges early in the day.

A. F. Cobb, 74, a retired and veteran Potter County peace officer, and George L. Williams, 62, retired sign owner, were the eleventh and twelfth jurors. J. P. Wilmet, 54, tourist camp operator, was the tenth, selected in the following session.

Senate Votes To Continue Relief

WASHINGTON, Mar. 16.—Responding to the President's request, the Senate today voted to continue the Federal Relief Administration another year but deferred action on the proposal to extend PWA for two additional years, until Monday.

A shift in presidential plans, attached as an amendment to the $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill, stirred speculation. Roosevelt had said that FERA was to be abolished as quickly as possible under the new set-up.

In more than one capital quarter there were private observations that, with a delay of the social security program and other plans, a partial continuation of the "dole" might be necessary next winter.

It was indicated that Harry Hopkins and Secretary Ickes might help manage the program.

Civil and Criminal Dockets Will Be Called

The fifth week of 100th Judicial District Court of Hall County will open tomorrow with District Judge A. J. Fires resuming his bench after a court recess of three days.

Judge Fires has called the grand jury to reconvene tomorrow and make their final report by the last of the week. Among other cases, the grand jury will investigate a charge of burglary filed Saturday against L. Z. Burns, negro, in connection with the series of "clothes line" thefts in the city within the past several weeks. Burns had previously been fined $50 and court costs upon conviction of a misdemeanor theft in Justice Court.

TAX PENALTY IS FIXED SATURDAY

Two Per Cent Penalty Is Applied; Goes Up One Per Cent on April 1

Yesterday a two per cent penalty was applied to all unpaid state, county, school and city taxes that were delinquent prior to 1934, and after April 1 this penalty will be increased to three per cent, it was pointed out by County Tax Collector Holt Bownds and City Tax Collector W. V. Coursey.

Until Saturday, taxes that were delinquent prior to 1934 were exempt from penalties and 1934 delinquent taxes carried a two per cent penalty. Until April 1 all delinquents will carry a two per cent penalty and after April 1 a three per cent penalty.

Both tax collectors report that collections have been fair since reduction and exemptions. Although payments were made by a comparatively small number, amounts of payments ran into large figures, they said.

By Associated Press
BERLIN, Mar. 16.—The German cabinet in secret session today decreed compulsory military training and Reichsfuhrer Hitler declared that Germany is released from further obligations under the Versailles treaty.

The cabinet decreed that the future German peace army would consist of 12 army corps of three divisions each, totaling an estimated number of 480,000 men. The Versailles treaty allows Germany a total of 100,000 men.

In flaming denunciation of the armaments policies of other nations, Hitler appealed directly to the people of Germany, saying, (Continued on Page 3)

Fire Inspection Starts Monday

Beginning tomorrow morning, an inspection of every home and business house in Memphis will be made by members of the Memphis Volunteer Fire Department in an effort to eliminate fire hazards and to prevent the outbreak of disastrous fires in the city.

Plans for the inspection have been taking form rapidly during the past week under the leadership of Fire Chief M. G. Ray, and everything will be in readiness for an inspection of the business district Monday and Tuesday.

Mayor R. E. Davenport last week issued a proclamation designating the inspection period and urging Memphians to cooperate with firemen in every way possible to help prevent fires in Memphis.

"The fireboys are offering their services in making this inspection free of all cost. They will receive no compensation whatsoever for their extra work, and I am asking every civic-minded citizen of the city to cooperate with them in every way possible. They have your interest in mind in trying to prevent fires in your homes and your business houses and should receive your cooperation," the mayor said.

The first crew of firemen to begin inspection of the business district tomorrow will be headed by Tom Wood and Coy Ragsdale. They plan to inspect about 25 houses each day, with the entire canvass of the city to take over a month, according to plans made by Chief Ray and the firemen.

Where fire hazards are found, owners will be asked to make such changes as are deemed necessary to reduce the possibility of a fire, Chief Ray said.

FUNERAL RITES TO BE HELD TODAY

Death Follows Short Illness; Passes at Age of 72 Years

David A. Grundy, 72, one of West Texas' real pioneers and one of the first and staunchest builders and backers of Memphis and Hall County, died yesterday morning at 1:45 o'clock at a local hospital, following a brief illness. Death followed a stroke of apoplexy.

The funeral rites will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the First Presbyterian Church, with Dr. John Angus MacMillan, pastor, in charge, assisted by Rev. O. K. Webb, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery with King's Mortuary in charge.

Native of Kentucky

A native of Kentucky, Mr. Grundy was born on Dec. 11, 1863. He came to Texas 45 years ago and resided in Cooke County a short time before coming to Hall County. He was married to Miss Belle Adams on December 25, 1895, at Owensboro, Ky.

He always took an active interest in the building of Memphis and Hall County, being recognized as one of the strongest backers of enterprises that assisted in the upbuilding of the area. He had been associated with his brother, the late J. A. Grundy, in abstract and loans since 1892. In 1915, C. R. Webster was added to the firm.

Mr. Grundy served as Hall County's third county clerk, being appointed to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Dan Hill, and then being elected for two terms, beginning in 1896.

Connected With Ranch

At the time of the Shoe-Bar Ranch activities in the county, owned by J. K. Zimmerman, Mr. Grundy held the position of secretary. When the 118,000-acre ranch was divided into farms, the farms were sold through the Grundy Brothers firm. He owned a number of farms in the tract.

He had been a member of the Presbyterian Church since childhood and was an elder in the local church from the time it was organized. He also was a Mason since his 21st year and attained the 32nd degree. He was a charter member of the local lodge and held all offices in the lodge at some time.

The esteem in which Mr. Grundy was held by his friends and associates here is shown in the following praises by several of his oldtime acquaintances:

Died as He Lived

Style Slant

Occasionally a vogue sweeps a community like wildfire, which is why the hat adorning Betty Cook of Atlanta is known as the Miamian. Broad brimmed and jaunty, in many shades of felt, it seemed just the thing for suntime wear at the Florida resort, whether on the boardwalk or at fashionable Roney Plaza in Miami Beach.

The Democrat: In traveling along our splendid and permanent new highways in Texas, I notice our excellent Highway Beautification Committees are transplanting trees to beautify and adorn our thoroughfares and to produce shade for the traveling public. They should be highly commended for this good work. They are putting out many native trees that grow luxuriantly and will in time make more beautiful the view to the traveler as well as a fine shade to shield him from the burning sun.

In deep soil the pine, the gum, the beech, the oak, the elm, the walnut, and the pecan, our State tree, grow most beautifully, and the two last mentioned bear fruit which will be an added help to both the citizens and the traveling public. Putting out these walnut and pecan trees is in line with the wise suggestion made by our greatest Governor, James Stephen Hogg, when he requested that a pecan tree be planted by his grave in order that those who wanted to could come and gather the fruit, replant it, and thereby benefit mankind. There are no more beautiful trees in Texas than the walnut and the pecan.

We have native to nearly all sections of Texas the dogwood, red and black haw, and tree plum which produce in the spring a lovely white bloom and the redbud tree that produces a red bloom—all these as beautiful and as fragrant as the famous Japanese cherry tree. These trees interspersed along our highways would most beautifully adorn them and at the same time produce a shade for the traveler and fruit for those who may wish to partake of it.

I was a member of the State Senate when our lamented Lieutenant-Governor Barry Miller introduced and passed a resolution making the blue bonnet the Texas state flower, and it was my pleasure to vote for its adoption. With our noted and unsurpassed Texas bluebonnet fields on either side, with stately oaks, elms, beech, and pecan trees, and with redbud, black and red haw, and plum trees in bloom along our highways I am sure that they would surpass in beauty, in fragrance, and in grandeur any highways in the world.

She had remembered enough of the manner in which it should be operated to work the lever which closed the door, and pushed the throttle over to the left. ### Memphis Home Economics Department Develops Girls in Richer, Fuller Living

The Home Economics Department of Memphis High School, under the direction of Miss Marie Martin, offers three years work which is affiliated with the State Department of Education.

Home Economics girls are home-makers TODAY in every sense of the word. They plan for the future, but live and act in the present.

The cooking and sewing instruction that constitutes many people's idea of Home Economics is only a small part of their courses. They study how to develop themselves into having a fuller, richer life—then they apply these principles in living with their family and friends.

The first course in Home Economics consists of three weeks study in Personality Development. It has been observed that a pleasing personality is necessary in order to make and keep friends—that it makes one more attractive and pleasing and increases chances for true happiness.

To gain this desired charming personality each girl is given a self-rating score card whereby they have judged themselves on courtesy, punctuality, dependability, cooperation, self-control, sincerity, honesty, personal appearance and many other characteristics of a pleasing personality.

Three weeks study is devoted to Child Guidance. Students learn how to treat a child as an individual, how to guide its play, and in this unit's work this year many pieces of home made play equipment were made by the girls.

Fourteen weeks each are given to the Foods and Clothing courses. In the Foods units girls learn to prepare and serve well balanced breakfasts, lunches, and suppers. Special attention is given to the cost of meals and foods are prepared which are adapted to home use. In Clothing I an undergarment and school dress is constructed from cotton materials.

In Home Economics II a study of child care, budgeting and keeping accounts, improving the personality and personal appearance, home nursing and household equipment is made in addition to the foods and clothing lessons. Approximately fifty lessons are given to second year foods, which consists of canning and preserving and preparing and serving dinners. In the second semester's work the major unit deals with more difficult problems relating to clothing and household textiles. The clothing budget is extended by learning to remodel old dresses. A tailor-dress is also constructed. A unit on Children's Clothing includes consideration of the clothing needs of the infant and pre-school child, based upon observation of children of various ages. Attention is given to the selection of clothes according to the needs, and some clothing construction.

Home Economics III includes courses in Family and Community Relationship, Entertainment, Nutrition and Health, Guidance of Children, Managing the Home, Making the Home Convenient and Attractive and a dress for special occasions is constructed in the clothing unit. The Home Economics III girls are now constructing afternoon and evening

THE POLITICAL TAX CHAIN

THE attempt to extend exemption of $3,000 of the assessed value of homesteads from taxes of all political subdivisions except schools is creating no little trouble at Austin...

At any rate, we are in receipt of a letter from a group that has taken the high-sounding name of the "Texas Real Estate Tax Limitation League"...

According to the league, it seems definite that the exemption bill will pass. One amendment proposes that a sales tax shall never be levied to replace the revenues lost by reason of exemption.

An increased tax on sulphur was then advanced. The House opposed this "without passing upon its merit or lack of merit."

In order to protect the individual property owners, Representative Howard of Houston has submitted a resolution to fix "homestead exemption and limitation to one per cent of its true value of the sum total of taxes which may be levied against property by the combined taxing agencies of state, school, county, city and special districts."

According to the league, "it is obvious that revenues must be found to indemnify cities, counties, etc., for the (approximately) 40 millions they will lose through homestead exemptions."

HOW OUR SCIONS MAY REDUCE WORRIES
APPARENTLY one of the reforms we need down in Washington is a measure that would save politicians from themselves.

One of the commonest complaints of the hard-worked congressman—and most of them, by the way, do work very hard—is that greedy job-hunters take up so much of his time that he is hard put to do the work for which he was elected.

That being true, you'd suppose that when congressmen had a chance to reduce the number of posts open to spoilsmen they'd jump at it. It is obvious that no one could pester a congressman for jobs that were completely out of the congressman's control.

Before the present session is over, it looks as if the lawmakers would get a chance to protect themselves in this matter. Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska has introduced a bill to take the Postoffice Department completely out of politics, and he intends to have it voted on before adjournment.

Senator Norris' bill is one of those proposals which are so clearly and unmistakably in the public interest that it is hard for the innocent citizen to understand why they aren't passed with a rush and a whoop.

Under it, all postmasters would be put under strict civil service rules. They would be appointed by a postmaster general whose term of office would be ten years instead of four, and who would be barred from all political activity.

All appointments would be made on merit, and a system of transfers would be set up so that a career service similar to that in the State Department could be worked out.

Merits of such plan need no argument. The Postoffice Department is really a gigantic business organization; this scheme would simply have it run in a business-like manner, with a complete divorce from politics.

And it ought to be a great relief for the congressman. No longer would he have to spend a couple of hours a day talking to candidates for the postmaster-ships at Leaking Creek. One of his major worries would be removed. His life would be much smoother.

How ROME Was FOUNDED

A STATUE that stood for centuries on the Capitoline Hill of Rome, and a stamp Italy issued in 1929 in four values, illustrate one of the most famous myths in history—that of the founding of Rome. It is the story of Romulus and Remus, twin sons of Mars and the Vestal Silvia, who were cast away on the Tiber and were suckled back to health by a she-wolf. Eventually the twins became leaders of a shepherd tribe and founded the city of Rome at the spot where the wolf had suckled them.

Pals of Old, Richberg and LaFollette Now at War Over NRA Codes Called "Horse Trades With Industry"

WASHINGTON, March 16.—A couple of old pals met when Donald R. Richberg, the celebrated "assistant president", and Senator Bob LaFollette of Wisconsin clashed during the Senate NRA investigation.

Not so long ago, those keen minds were teamed. That was before the progressives gave Richberg up as a fallen angel. Richberg, a labor lawyer and brilliant protagonist of progressive thought, fought many of the old fights at the side of the senior Senator LaFollette.

Next year, when "old Bob" died, his son succeeded him as senator and Don Richberg was his chief legislative adviser. Between them, they furnished much of the brains of the progressive movement in the Coolidge and Hoover days.

But now no one hurls harsher questions at Richberg than LaFollette, who, with the suave Costigan of Colorado, represents on the committee the thought of progressives that Richberg has become an apologist for administration failures and conservative policies.

In past years Richberg has been agin' the government. Now he's a large part of it. Progressives have been both for and agin', but become increasingly sour.

Scorched by Young Bob LaFollette describes NRA codes as a series of "horse trades" with industry, "with all the David Harms on the other side of the fence."

LaFollette thinks Richberg is devious and evasive. He and Costigan want to know how, with NRA on the job, unemployment—according to NRA figures—rose from 10,600,000 at the end of 1933 to 10,830,000 at the end of 1934.

Then they throw figures back and forth at each other to prove alternately that NRA has been a grand success and a grand flop. They also prove that there aren't any reliable figures on unemployment or many other figures to demonstrate what NRA has and hasn't done.

(A prying newspaperman about this point discovers that NRA has given the senators a booklet of charts which do not include many of the most significant discoveries and interpretations.)

Then there are the sharpshooters—Dingings, Harry Byrd, and Tom Gore, all of whom are more effective weapons than NRA.

Probably I owe it to Richberg to report his protest after the session story I recently wrote. "When I refuse 40 stanzas for speeches ever and make only two or you write that I have a making speeches, I will pile your hair."

If our resources have been utilized in the interest of the nation, we would need no credit, inflation—Marriner S. Eccles, go. The love to own property, be sustained above else. Gov. George H. Earle, sylvania.

Studios Just as Busy Each Night as in Day

By DAN THOMAS (NEA Staff Correspondent) HOLLYWOOD, March 16.— They work right in Hollywood's gigantic studios, and form a very necessary part of the populace of these little "cities" which dot the film colony.

These men are the unsung torch bearers of filmdom who work all night so the glamorous stars and important-looking directors can turn out more of the celluloid rips for which Hollywood has become so famous.

Lights then begin to glow again. A small tractor will pull the whole side of a house from one stage to another.

Music from a bit of sound track will drift from a cutting room. Once again the studio is alive, almost as alive as when it shelters the activities of beautiful and pampered stars.

Here truly is activity which is so completely behind the scenes that it escapes the notice of even the hundreds of writers who daily grind out reams of copy about the nation's fourth largest industry.

Yet no account of the inner workings of a studio would be complete unless it included a mid-night survey.

Waiting in the Night To find out just what does go on during the still night hours, I dropped by the Paramount studio.

These men arrive around 6 o'clock and remain until midnight—unless a job turns up. Then they work all night.

A light in the makeup department attracted me. Four men were busy stirring quantities of body makeup in five-gallon jars, mixing a concoction of collodion and cutting strips of fish skin.

"We are going to need a lot of fish skin and collodion to put scars on the soldiers in 'The Crusades' tomorrow," explained Wally Westmore, head of the department.

In an adjoining room several girls were working on wigs, cleaning them, combing out the knots, curling some and changing the hairdress on others.

Glowing windows in the wardrobe building told of additional activity over there. More than a score of seamstresses were repairing tears and resewing opened seams.

Three women were fitting twelfth century gowns on a cotton stuffed dummy exactly the size of Loretta Young, for her role of Berengaria, queen of England, in "The Crusades."

Five of the little cell-like rooms in the cutting department blazed with light. Having just received a day's developed film from the laboratory, cutters were busy soling the bits of film into single reels so that the directors could look at their "rushes" the next morning.

In another building a dozen men were working on cameras, checking them thoroughly for worn parts, cleaning and oiling them. Cameras are carefully gone over in this manner after each day's use, as one flaw in their delicate mechanism might ruin an entire day's shooting.

While the Hollywood which is known to the outside world which sleeps at night, the gigantic studios truly are beehives of activity—an activity never exploited and little known even to the stars. Like readers of a newspaper, who seldom wonder how news is collected from all parts of the world for the papers delivered to them each day, the stars arrive at their studios in the morning expecting everything to be ready for them, but never giving a thought to how the many preparations were carried on.

The Night Is Young' Is Lifting Romance

Lifting romance of Vienna, borne on the wings of music, lends charm to "The Night Is Young," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's glamorous new love story with songs coming Tuesday and Wednesday to the Ritz Theatre.

Ramon Navarro, of "The Pagan," "The Barbarian," "The Cat and the Fiddle" and other hits, is teamed with Evelyn Laye, singing star from London who won outstanding success in "One Heavenly Night," "Mme. Pompadour" and her recent hit, "Evensong."

An elaborate cast includes Edward Everett Horton and Una Merkel, who scored in "The Merry Widow," Charles Butterworth, Donald Cook, Henry Stephenson, Rosalind Russell, Herman Bing, Charles Judels and Albert Conti.

Novarro plays a young archduke and Miss Laye a Viennese ballerina. Gorgeous sequences in the Royal Opera, in the emperor's palace, the Prater, great amusement park of Vienna, in quaint Viennese wine-gardens and other continental play-spots figure in the haunting blend of music, comedy, romance and drama.

Song hits include "The Night Is Young," "My Old Mare," "There's a Riot in Havana," "Lena, I Love You," "Though I Am a Noble Duchess," "Vienna Will Sing," "Wiener Schnitzel" and "When I Grow Too Old to Dream."

'Sweet Adeline' Is Musical Comedy

"Sweet Adeline," the sensational musical comedy hit by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II that set all New York a-whistling, now comes to the screen as the latest of the Warner Bros. gigantic musical specials, and is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Palace Theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Irene Dunne, favorite singing star of both stage and screen, will appear in the stellar role, supported by an exceptionally talented cast of comedy and dramatic players. Miss Dunne's golden voice became famous in such Broadway hits as "Show Boat," "Irene," "Sweetheart Time" and others.

The picture is laid in the glamorous Broadway theatrical district; a fashionable trying place for young blonds and their lady loves on the outskirts of the city and in a picturesque Hoboken beer garden of the gay nineties.

Irene Dunne has the role of the beer garden songbird, with Donald Woods portraying the young song writer.

Four of Hollywood's most talented comedians take part in the production. They are Hugh Herbert in the role of a wealthy dilettante in the secret service; Ned Sparks as musical comedy producer, who puts on the show for the beer garden girl; Joseph Cawthorn as the beer garden proprietor who is trying to marry his daughter off to the villainous major, and Nydia Westman, another daughter, who teams with Herbert in a comedy role.

The Home Economics department serves not only as an instructional center but also as a social center. A hospitable homelike atmosphere is maintained which furnishes a place where members meet, learn and love other girls. One who misses being a member is unfortunate.
