Memphis Gets Overflow From 'Oil Field'

Memphis hotels, restaurants and cafes have reported a slight increase in business due to an "overflow" from the Childress and Kirland oil boom, it was indicated in a survey made yesterday by The Democrat.

Although local hotels have not had a complete sell-out since the showing of oil in the Mollie Low Well near Kirland a week ago, each reports an increase in business. Cafes have shown the largest increase in business, due possibly to traffic to and from the new field, it was reported.

Drug stores report only a slight increase since the rush to the new oil field.

CAPITAL STOCK OF LOCAL ACC IS REDUCED

Stockholders To Get $20,000 in Refunded Stock Soon

An amendment to the charter of the Agricultural Credit Corporation of Hall County reducing the capital stock from $39,450 to $1,000 was granted yesterday by the state treasurer, according to press notices.

Thomas E. Noel, secretary-treasurer of the local corporation, explained that the amendment was made upon a recent request of the officials of the company, placing the company in the process of liquidation. Stockholders of the company will receive approximately $20,000 in refunded stock within the near future, he said.

The $20,000 payment will represent an immediate refund of 50 per cent of the capital stock. The balance will be left in a surplus fund and in loans now in effect, Mr. Noel explained.

The company is being liquidated because its original purpose of making loans to farmers in the Memphis Area is now being carried out by the Memphis Production Credit Association, Mr. Noel said. Association serves nine counties in the Panhandle, with Henderson Smith, of Memphis, as secretary-treasurer.

The Agricultural Credit Corporation was organized in 1931 and has made loans to farmers averaging almost $300,000 per year, Mr. Noel said. In 1932 the capital stock was reduced from $50,000 to $39,450. The new figure of $1,000 represents the minimum capital stock to keep the company in operation until it is ready for complete liquidation.

Sportsman Safe In Florida Port

By Associated Press
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., May 28.—William B. Leeds, Jr., millionaire sportsman, for whom President Roosevelt directed a search by navy and coast guard craft, reached here safely yesterday after being missing overnight in a small fishing boat on a trip from Miami to Bimini.

The heir to the tin plate fortune said he and his crew of 50 succeeded in negotiating the 50 miles from Miami to Bimini last night but that when they reached there in his 26-foot cruiser "Little Monica" the ocean was too rough for him to proceed into port.

MEMPHIS YOUTH ON EUROPEAN TOUR LIST

Cearley Read Kinard To Visit Russia With Band

Cearley Read Kinard, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard, 820 Noel Street, will be a member of the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboy Band that is to tour Europe this summer, it has been announced by Marion B. McClure, director.

He was one of 25 members chosen to make the trip. The band will be accompanied by about 50 tourists.

Before leaving for Europe, the band will leave Abilene June 8 for Mexico, with stops at Dallas, San Antonio, Laredo and thence to Monterrey and other Mexican cities.

Returning to Dallas on June 16, the group will leave for New York to sail on June 19 on the S. S. Manhattan.

After arriving in Europe, the band and tour party will travel together until the musicians go to Russia for a two-month concert engagement in Leningrad, Moscow, Saratov and other cities at the invitation of the Soviet government.

Locate Nursery For Shelterbelt Near Childress

A nursery for the cultivation of trees for the Plains Shelterbelt Program will be established at Childress in the near future, it was announced at a field meet of shelterbelt officials near Childress yesterday.

County Agent James A. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Davenport of Lakeview, Charlie Williams and Clyde Fowler attended the meeting from Hall County.

H. H. Fennell, regional supervisor of soil erosion service, took part in the program, as did F. M. Cossitt, assistant chief of planting, Lincoln, Nebr., and John D. Jones, state director.

Representatives from Hall, Childress, Motley, Collingsworth, Wilbarger, Himpbill and Fischer counties were present for the meeting yesterday, Mr. Jackson reported.

Business Man Is Injured in Crash

Max King, local business man, was reported "resting well" at the Memphis Hospital today where he was carried following an automobile accident near Lakeview late last night.

Mr. King suffered a double fracture of the left leg, severe lacerations and bruises when he lost control of his automobile while en route to Memphis. An ambulance call was answered by the King Ambulance Service at about 12:30 o'clock.

Attending physicians said this morning that although there were no indications of internal injuries, the extent of injuries could not be ascertained for several days.

Gold Medal Band Is Invited To Attend Young Demo Session

Recognition of the Memphis Gold Medal Band, official musical organization of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, continues to be widespread.

John L. McCarty, of Dalhart, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Texas, this morning invited the local band to furnish music for the state convention at Amarillo on June 7 and 8.

Decision to accept or reject the invitation had not been made by band officials this morning.

The invitation requested the presence of the band on either one or both days of the convention.

Addressing the invitation to Lyman E. Robbins, publisher of the Daily Democrat, Mr. McCarty said in part:

"I do not know whom to write, so I am asking you to extend the Memphis Gold Medal Band an invitation to play at one of our sessions of the Young Democratic Clubs of Texas in Amarillo June 7 and 8.

"We will be glad to have them either day or on both days.

"Many important personages will attend the convention, and I am sure they will have a big time."

This is the second invitation extended the band since it won honors in the W. T. C. C. band contest at Plainview recently.

The first was to attend a school rally at Fort Worth. The band was unable to attend because the dates conflicted with closing school exercises.

Elliott and James Roosevelt, sons of the President, will be among the notables present at the convention, and negotiations are under way to have Mrs. Roosevelt attend.

George Philip Weyerhaeuser, 9, son of Job E. Weyerhaeuser, multi-millionaire lumber magnate of Tacoma, Wash., who was kidnaped as he left school for lunch Friday. It is reported that his parents have received a letter demanding $200,000 ransom for his return.

No Attempt Made To Bring in Well

Special to The Democrat
CHILDRESS, May 28.—The Childress Index will say this afternoon that it has learned authoritatively that no attempt will be made to bring in the Mollie Low well near Kirland until tomorrow or later.

An official of the Alma Oil Company stated that no work had been done on the well since the swabbing on May 20. Work is still being done on storage tanks, however.

He said work was being delayed pending the arrival of J. R. Porter, executive vice-president of the company, from Oklahoma City.

In the meantime, work in progressing on the Gibson location nearby. An official of that test stated that the derrick probably would be up tomorrow and that drilling would start Saturday or shortly thereafter.

The boom is still causing active business transactions or plans in Childress. It was announced that in case the well is brought in the Childress Hotel will be increased from 80 to 300 rooms.

Thirty-six dwellings and two business houses have been sold in the last eight days. The Index will state, and several supply companies are seeking space near the railroad.

REFUSES TO GO ON STAND IN CATO TRIAL

Under Murder Indictment; Fears Self Incermination

By Associated Press
LUBBOCK, May 28.—The government rested today in the murder trial of Sheriff W. F. Cato and three other Garza County men charged with the machine gun killing of Spencer Stafford, federal narcotic agent, at Post.

Motions for instructed verdicts of acquittal were made in behalf of Dr. L. W. Kitchin, Dr. V. A. Hartman and Tom Morgan.

LUBBOCK, May 28.—Mont Bridges, under two indictments charging murder, yesterday refused to testify in the trial of Sheriff W. F. Cato and three others of Garza County for the machine gun slaying of Narcotic Agent Spencer Stafford at Post February 7.

Bridges' refusal on the grounds that he would incriminate himself halted an attempt by the government to show that Sheriff Cato, two of his co-defendants, Dr. L. W. Kitchin and Dr. V. A. Hartman, and his former attorney, N. C. Outlaw, had entered into an agreement to engage in the narcotic business.

Bridges was convicted of murder and assessed a 50-year sentence at Post last November 9 for the slaying of Jay A. Donaldson near Post July 1. The case was reversed and remanded May 22 by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

He has not yet been tried on a companion murder charge in connection with the death of Bertha (Continued on page 8)

Bonus Leaders To Drive Plans

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Patman bill leaders in Congress decided today to proceed with a drive for cash payment of bonus at this session and to sacrifice inflationary provisions of their bill if necessary.

House and Senate supporters of immediate payment, in joint sessions, agreed to poll the Senate to determine what cash payment plans have the best chance to succeed and then put for action on it.

By Associated Press

TACOMA, May 28.—Ready to negotiate with kidnappers of their son, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser today contacted abductors through the classified columns of the Seattle newspaper, saying "We are ready, Percy Minnie."

Kidnapers demanded $200,000 for the return of the child.

Search for the kidnapers of George Weyerhaeuser, 9, extended across the international boundary today with officers considering "remnants of the Alvin Karpis and Machine Gun Kelly gangs" as possible suspects.

Stop Interference

Last night the family made a firm request to federal agents to cease their "interference."

It also was learned authoritatively that the agents of the Department of Justice were definitely seeking at least three suspects, but all information concerning the agents' activities was withheld.

"We most earnestly ask you not to interfere further," they said. "If you refuse to do this, it will bring all our efforts to naught."

Finding of a boy's pocket handkerchief bearing the monogram "G" in hand-embroidered blue silk thread, near a path near the Annie Wright Seminary, gave authorities a possible clue to the way in which the boy was kidnaped.

Handkerchief Found

The handkerchief was found by reporters and private investigators in a trampled patch of grass beside the path, which the boy would have followed if he had decided to take a short-cut to his home.

Friends said the boy frequently used the path on his trips to and from school.

The family pleaded with officials, apparently because of the sinister warning in the ransom note, which gave them five days to comply with demands.

Today is the fourth day since the child was kidnaped and the note gave detailed instruction on how he would be returned.

"Don't follow them (the instructions) and it will be sorrowful for you," it reads.

KIDNAPER IS SAVED FROM CHAIR

Missouri's Governor Commutes Sentence Of Walter McGehee

By Associated Press
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 28.—Governor Guy B. Park heeded the plea of Miss Mary McElroy and commuted the death sentence of Walter McGehee, her kidnaper, to life in prison.

McGehee was the first person in the United States to be sentenced to the extreme penalty for kidnaping.

Confined to the executive mansion by illness, the Missouri governor made his announcement while the country was stirred by another abduction—that of 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser of Tacoma, Wash., whose parents were warned he would be killed unless $200,000 ransom is paid.

Miss McElroy, daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy of Kansas City was kidnaped from her home two years ago today and held for 29 hours in a Kansas basement.

Her kidnappers originally asked $60,000 for her release but accepted $20,000.

Princess Gasps at Hollywood

This Greek princess had no word for it. Only a gasp, after a whirlwind tour through Hollywood studios, lunch with this notable, dinner with that one and a pie-throwing contest tossed in. "Just as I expected, only—my goodness—" said Princess Katherine, almost jarred out of her Katherine Constantine incognito.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliott © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY KATHARINE STRYKHURST daughter of wealthy VICTOR STRYKHURST, is deeply attracted by MICHAEL HEATHEROE who runs a riding school. Katharine is discontented and restless under her stepmother's rule. Thrown from a horse, she is taken to the home of VIOLET MERSER, who once was in love with Katharine's father. Violet is drawn to the girl and they become friends. DR. JOHN KAYE, just back from Europe, visits the Strykhursts. PARKER, Katharine's closest friend, is in love with GIBBS LARKIN, and persists in seeing him in spite of her parents' objections. Katharine asks Dr. Kaye to help her keep Zoe from eloping with Gibbs. They take Zoe to a night club which has opened nearby. Gibbs is there with a beautiful woman.

Zoe's face was terrible. John must have heard something... he must have known, or at least believed, that Gibbs could be found here! How extraordinary was this quiet man with the easy voice and the supple surgeon's hands! She marveled at him. A waiter came up and John said something to him in a low voice and he went away. Zoe said, "I think I must be getting back."

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

CHAPTER XV Zoe, absorbed in the mirror of her compact, an expensive and lovely trifle, did not catch sight of Gibbs Larkin for another minute. When she did, she took it "like a little soldier," John Kaye said later. Her color came up. The ghost of a gasp rose to her lips and she instantly suppressed. Gibbs had followed the tall, sinuous young woman in black net to a table at the very edge of the pool. He was plainly absorbed in the conversation. The young woman had the candidly revealed figure of a show girl. Her black hair, growing in a bold widow's peak, was drawn demurely back from a white forehead. Jewels dangled from her ears and her bare arms were agleam with narrow bracelets. Zoe stared. Quite frankly and childishly she stared, as if in a horrid fascination. Gibbs' sleek head bent toward his companion; he hung, as if enraptured, on her every word. Katharine wanted to turn her eyes away. The naked misery in

"Just as you say," said John. "You see it once and you've seen it all." Gibbs, with his back turned, was somehow made aware of the attention of the little group. Perhaps the young woman in the extravagantly "cut" black dress had told him that three people at a nearby table were gazing at him. He whirled, his rather heavy body pivoting at the waist. His eyes met Zoe's. There was a sickening moment in which Katharine felt the utter folly and uselessness of attempting further conversation. Zoe had risen to her feet and John with her. In mid-flight Gibbs... "Hello, hello, hello!" But you could see the discomfort behind that insouciant pose. Zoe did not answer. She was, thought Katharine, a little like a doll caught in a thicket—they had seen one last fall in the mountains. Zoe's eyes had the same stricken look. "Well, who would have thought of finding you here?" Gibbs breezed on, determined to brazen the thing out. Zoe could not find her voice. Katharine said, "We were only just going." "Ah, so soon?" burred Gibbs. "But it's a very jolly place, don't you think? Such amusing people..." "Very," cried Zoe. "Very amusing." Dr. Kaye took her arm. It wouldn't do to have her break here a scene at the Blue Sky Bath Club would be material for the Broadway columnists who haunted such meeting places in the summertime. "You take your hands off my girl," Gibbs said, very low. And now Katharine was sure he had been drinking. His eyes had a glazed, unnatural look; his voice picked up the words and set them down again gingerly, with a false dignity. Gibbs was drunk! Dr. Kaye looked around swiftly. There were only a few people in sight—some or two neglected waiters with hard, dark, foxy faces, and several parties of two who seemed completely absorbed in each other. The woman in black watched the little scene with an odd air of detachment. "Don't start anything here, Larkin," John Kaye said coldly. "If you want a good dusting down, come outside." Gibbs lurched forward. "You'll settle with me here and now," he cried. The diners looked

Cudd Bros. Offer Varied Service for Memphis Motorist

One of the busiest establishments in the city is that of Cudd Bros., at 401 Noel Street, and few businesses in the city offer such a varied service to motorists. At their station, they feature gasoline and oils, tires and tubes and a general service station business. Their attendants are all courteous and know their business from the ground up. They are distributors for Federal tires and tubes and recommend these sturdy tires to motorist of the Memphis Area. They are open twenty-four hours a day, and no matter what the hour of the day or night, when you have tire trouble, call 157 and their trouble car is quick to respond.

Club Cafe Rapidly Becoming Mecca for Hungry Folks

The Club Cafe, across from the City Hall on Noel Street, while one of the youngest of the Memphis business field, is rapidly becoming one of the favorite eating places of the city. Under the management of Fred Meason, the Club is rapidly acquiring an enviable reputation for its splendid cuisine and equally good service. The Club is ideally located to serve the western part of the business district, and scores of business men are making it their regular noontime eating place. The cafe features plate lunches and regular meals, and prides itself on its pie and coffee. All pies are baked in the Club kitchens, and Manager Meason says they're "just like mother used to make." The Club is this week installing several new pieces of equipment, including a new and larger coffee urn. Whether you want a full meal, a sandwich, a piece of pie and a cup of coffee, or a glass or bottle of good cold beer, pay the Club Cafe a visit. You'll like their service.

up, interestedly, whirling their glasses on thin stems. The girl in black net gave an almost unobserved signal to a waiter. It all happened so quickly that Katharine could scarcely credit it when the two girls were again on the graveled walk outside, with the doctor hatless beside them. "You knocked him down, Johnny!" "I only brushed him aside," said Dr. Kaye. He slipped and fell... "He's not hurt?" "I'm sure he isn't. Let's get along. I don't want you girls mixed up in this."

They were in the car; unbelievably, they were whirling round the Post Road again. Zoe slumped between them, limp and unprotected. "We'll drop you at home, Johnny," Katharine said. "I'll stop with Zoe at her house. Tell Bertine she's not feeling well." "I don't need anyone," Zoe protested. She was deadly pale. "Don't let Bertine telephone her mother," Katharine went on swiftly. "She's quite likely to unless you stop her."

"I'll fix it," Dr. Kaye looked grim. He helped them out at the Parker driveway. He waved his hand and left them, to walk the few hundred yards of roadway that separated them from the Strykhursts. A clock in the convent tower boomed the half hour. "He's just in time for dinner," Katharine said, on a note of hysterical laughter. She was terribly shaken. Zoe, like a doll on string, like an automatic figure, allowed herself to be led to the house. The maid, Gerda, came to the door leading to the terrace, which was locked. "Oh, Miss Zoe! I thought you said you weren't to be here for dinner." "She wasn't, Gerda, but I think she's changed her plans. Will you bring some tea up to her room?" "I don't want anything," Zoe said lifelessly.

The broad halls were in twilight as the two girls ascended the stairs. Here and there a bar of late sunshine broke through the iron grilles appearing at intervals in the walls. Zoe's room was shuttered and cool. Silver Venetian blinds made a shimmering dusk here. In one swift glance Katharine saw the overnight bag at the foot of the bed. Zoe thrust it aside and thrust herself across the tattered coverlet, sobbing. "I wish I were dead!" "No, you don't. What a silly thing to say!" But Katharine felt the hopelessness, the utter futility of any argument. Zoe sat up, rubbing her eyes with a childish gesture. "But I do! Oh, you don't know—"

Let Dr. Raymond estimate tell you about this argument for prohibition, which has just been added to the Bronx Zoo in New York: "Begin at the anterior end of the animal, so called because it eats ants with the super-vacuum cleaner tongue; aft. of the eyes, it has long rabbit ears and then comes a body like a pig. Flat-heels, thank goodness, are good from a fashion viewpoint this season. You can wear low heels that look as smart as a model in a fashion show and at the same time have more foot comfort than you've had in years.

Of course, if you always have worn high ones, you simply can't switch to very flat types on a moment's notice. Let the change be gradual. You might start with medium-height Cuban varieties until your legs and body get used to the idea. Then you ought to be able to wear the lower kind without any trouble.

If the skin on your feet is extremely sensitive, better give them salt water baths at least twice a week. If you have callouses, rub them gently with a piece of pumice after your daily shower. Corns and bunions must be treated by a doctor. Don't cut them yourself.

Remember that your feet have a close relationship to the beauty in your face. Shoes that pinch cause corns, callouses and blisters.

Hedley and Salisbury in Softball Debut Here Tonight

MEET IN SECOND GAME IN CITY LOOP PLAY

Thompson's Hardwaxmen and Bullard's in First Tilt

Hedley and Salisbury, the two clubs yet to show in the City Softball League here, will make their debut tonight under the floodlights of Fair Park's athletic stadium.

They will clash in the second game of tonight's doubleheader. With this game, the clubs will be lined up in the race for league honors, although half of them probably will be bunched at the top of the ladder, with the others at the bottom without victories.

In First Clash
Not until the second round gets underway Friday night are the clubs likely to begin to spread out and the fighting to get hot.

In the first game tonight, at 8 o'clock, another leader attempts to make it two in a row, when Thompson's Hardwaxmen clash with Bullard's Tailors.

At the present time, Turkey is the only club that has made two successful appearances.

Interest Is High
Interest in the softball sport, getting off to a fine start last week despite disagreeable weather conditions for night play, is expected to develop the same into a leading sport here with the approach of warm nights.

Admission to the sessions is 10 cents. After the appearance of the two remaining clubs tonight, the league statistician will make his first release of batting averages and other league standings.

THEY'RE OFF! AND CAN YOU PICK THE WINNER?

The starter heaved a sigh of relief as this race at Belmont Park got under way. For 26 ambitious 2-year-olds sprang from the barrier, the entry field being so large that two starting gates had to be employed. It was a tough job for the judges, too, until Couleedam, shown well at the right carrying No. 12, came through to win by a neck.

Castleman Gives Giants 'Big Five' Mound Staff

This is the last of six stories on major league freshman stars.

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service
NEW YORK, May 28.—Three years ago Clydell Castleman was running around the small town of Donelson, Tenn., in his bare feet. Today he is a National League pitching star who has made the New York Giants' Big Four a Big Five.

Indeed, Manager Bill Terry is toying with the idea of giving the 20-year-old Castleman the regular starting turn of fat Freddie Fitzsimmons—pitching him in regular rotation with the great Carl Hubbell, Hal Schumacher, and Bud Parmelee.

Castleman is one of the few ball players purchased by a major league club strictly on the strength of what it believed he might do in the future.

The Giants brought Castleman a year ago on recommendation of Charley Dressen, new boss of the Cincinnati Reds, who then was pitching the Nashville outfit.

Jimmy Hamilton, one of the owners of the Nashville club, sent a scout to inspect Castleman while he was pitching for the Donelson town team in 1933. Castleman finished the season with the Volunteers.

'34 Record Not So Roxy
Castleman spent the first half of the 1934 campaign with the Giants before being farmed to Montreal, where he hurt his arm and didn't do much as a result.

He participated in 11 games with the sixth-place Royals, winning 4 and losing 5, and yielding 3.84 earned runs in each nine innings pitched.

Certainly, if there was anything remarkable about Castleman's record when he checked in at the Miami Beach training camp of the Giants this spring, it was due to the almost entire lack of one.

Yet, as early as a stop at Orlando en route north, Terry announced that he had another starting righthander in Castleman, despite the fact the large young man was experiencing difficulty in getting the other side out.

Castleman, the biggest man physically on the Giant staff, with the exception of Parmelee, drew his opening assignment against Fifty Phil Collins and the Phillies, and prevailed, 4-to-3.

Beat Giants' Nemesis
When Fitzsimmons pulled up with a bad arm, Castleman was sent against Bill Lee and the Chicago Cubs. Lee was a tough nut for the Giants to crack last season. They trimmed him only once, and then it required Parmelee and a 12-inning game to do it. But Castleman let the Bruins down with five scattered singles and won, 6-to-2.

Castleman became something of a celebrity the other day when he repelled the renowned Dixie Dean and the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, 4-to-1. A fielding miscue on his own part prevented him from shutting out the Red Birds.

All Castleman lacks is the poise that comes with experience. He's fast, with a good curve, and satisfactory control. It is only in his handling of bunts that his greenness shows itself.

The youth stands six feet tall, and weighs 190. He has an olive complexion, and greatly resembles Clydell Castleman, 20-year-old Giant rookie shown here in closeup and action, is earning a regular starting assignment with Bill Terry's team as the result of his brilliant first-year showing.

Another movie couple part the best of friends. In Hollywood, they seem to have a positive knack for ending a marriage just at the point it begins to menace a beautiful friendship.

WHITE'S THREE IRON WON $200 ON LAST HOLE AT CALIENTE

Although he didn't win the 1935 Agua Caliente, Orville White, St. Louis pro, copped $200 of the prize money with a No. 3 iron shot that was a honey.

Going into the final round of the tournament, White stepped up to the last hole, needing a birdie to tie for seventh place.

His drive was a whistler 275 yards down the fairway. With the green still 175 yards away, White selected a No. 3 iron, carefully took aim, and whaled away. The ball came to rest on the green, 10 feet from the cup, and he holed out for a three, winning a half share of seventh place money.

"In playing the No. 3 iron, he sure not to press," advises White "keep the eye always on the ball, and make sure of a full cock of the wrists at the top of the swing."

"A common fault of golfers is to overswing on this shot. Do not take the club beyond the horizontal position in the backswing—and be sure to hit the ball before the ground."

TAOS INDIANS TO PERFORM AT PAMPA

To Appear in Pre-Centennial Pageant June 7

PAMPA, May 28.—The group of Taos pueblo Indians which entertained visitors at the Century of Progress, Chicago, will appear in the Pre-Centennial pageant here the evening of June 7, wearing the same elaborate, colorful costumes they wore at the World's Fair.

They will perform many tribal dances. The Indians also will appear in the Pre-Centennial parades. They will take part in the last scene of the pageant in which they will "attack" a white settlement. They will be astride horses and are now practicing on their blood-curdling yells to use when they swoop down on the settlement.

Approximately 100 persons will participate in the last act. The Indian attack is based on an actual occurrence in the Panhandle. The pageant will be staged at Pampa.

THE VOICE OF THE UPPER RED RIVER VALLEY

THE DOUBLE PARKING NUISANCE
NOT so long ago local peace officers issued a statement that double parking must be stopped in Memphis.

It is not a violation for which people necessarily should be arrested. But in order to be lenient, police must keep a continual watch on busy days to prevent the jamming of streets by cars lined up behind those stopped at the curb.

Neither do Memphians wish to show disrespect therefore, motorists and shoppers should not force such action.

On any busy day here, the shopping district is almost completely lined with double and triple parked automobiles. This is a dangerous practice as well as a nuisance to those attempting to drive through the streets or get out of parking places, for it makes driving difficult and creates unnecessary danger for pedestrians.

To eliminate double parking would create a parking problem here on busy days, but at that it would not be so great a problem as faced by many other cities, for its court-house square offers almost double the parking facilities of ordinary business streets.

We should not wait until someone is badly injured or there is a severe crash on a downtown street to awaken us to action against a condition that no one has failed to notice.

Until some better plan is devised, we suppose the police will just have to keep busy forcing the drivers to keep on the move or find parking space against the sidewalks.

Limited parking in certain shopping areas on Saturdays and during special occasions would force cars that remain throughout the day to be parked elsewhere and give those who wish to run into stores for only a few minutes an opportunity to get near the business houses they wish to visit without double parking.

BE NOT MISLED BY MARKET BOOM

THERE is a rumbling noise in the stock markets these days, and it sounds very much like the machinery of an old-fashioned boom picking up speed to swing into high. And that, in turn, leads one to wonder if we could be on the verge of repeating the joy ride which ended up against a safety zone stanchion in October, 1929.

A stock market boom in itself need not do much harm to anyone who has the good sense to keep his fingers away from the hot end of the poker. It is only if we begin to look on stock quotations as the one great sign of national prosperity, and assume that a bubbling stock market is prosperity itself, that the joy ride will really be under way.

That was what we did back in the glamorous twenties.

The stock market was our answer to everything, in those days. If anybody suggested that technological unemployment was becoming a grave problem, that our agriculture was critically ill, that our foreign trade was being erected on a basis of borrowed money, that we were losing sight of all human values in our race for riches—well, the one big answer to everything was that stock prices were way up and that anyone who didn't like it would best go back to Moscow, where he came from.

We can repeat that program if we choose. All ingredients for a stock market boom seem to be at hand—including the cheerful presence of Major Angas.

But we might as well remember that on our last joy ride we not only wrecked the automobile, but came uncomfortably close to breaking our own necks.

The danger lies in the chance that we may again mistake a rising stock market for an end in itself rather than a symptom.

A rising market does not bring prosperity. Prosperity brings a rising market. To put our chief energies into stimulation of market values would be to reach for the shadow and ignore the substance.

It would be like the janitor of the country schoolhouse who suggested that on cold days the thermometer be tied to the stovepipe, so that it would register suitably high temperatures.

If a high temperature in the thermometer is all we want, we can have it. If we have the good sense to demand that the room itself be comfortably warm, the thermometer readings will take care of themselves.

FIVE CHEERS FOR THE QUINTUPLETS!

HEALTH BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

One of the most frequent questions sent to me of late has been whether use of alcoholic liquors tends to put on much weight, and whether they have any special value in the diet.
People do not take alcoholic beverages with the idea of putting on weight. They are taken for their appetizing reaction, for the feeling of exhilaration that they give, and because they seem to be a pleasant way to quench thirst.
Alcoholic beverages usually are divided into malt liquors, wines, and distilled liquors. The various types differ in their contributions to increase weight and in the amount of alcohol they contain.
Malt liquors usually have less alcohol than do wines or distilled liquors, but they have a much higher amount of carbohydrate and protein.
In many foreign countries, beers and ales are taken as part of the meal and help to provide the total number of calories required by the individual for the day.
In this country far too frequently these liquors are taken between meals. Because they add a considerable amount of calories to those usually taken, they tend to put on weight.
Light beer usually contains less carbohydrate and more alcohol than dark beer. Back beer is made with more malt and hops per barrel, and therefore contains more alcohol and carbohydrates than ordinary beer.
Ale, porter, and stout differ from ordinary beer in using another type of yeast requiring higher fermentation and storage temperatures. These produce a different flavor.
These forms of malt liquors usually contain more alcohol and carbohydrates than ordinary beers. In general, a cup or half-pint of back beer provides 150 calories as compared with 110 calories for lager beer and 160 calories for ale.
Munich and Pilsner beers are a little richer than ordinary beer in calories.
Wines vary according to the country in which they are produced, and also according to the kind of grapes used in production.
Wines usually contain two to four times the percent of alcohol found in beer, but they are much lower in carbohydrates and are usually taken in smaller quantities.
For example, a wine glass, or about one-tenth of a quart, of ordinary California wine provides 75 calories. Sweet wines, such as muscatel, port, and cherry, provide between 140 and 170 calories to the glass.
Champagne provides from 85 to 120 calories a glass. The amount of alcohol in such a glass of wine is 10 per cent by weight as compared with 4 to 6 per cent by weight for beers.
Whisky is proportionately much stronger in alcohol, running from 30 to 35 per cent by weight and providing 50 to 75 calories for a small glass. Cocktails of all kinds vary according to materials put in them.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WAGNER LABOR DISPUTES BILL... Full Right of Collective Bargaining Assured Workers and Made Compulsory for Employers... Doom Sounded for Company Union by Measure Which Has Passed Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The Wagner labor disputes bill, passed overwhelmingly by the Senate and almost certain of victory in the House, embodies a definite government effort to foster organization of labor unions.

It isn't on Roosevelt's formal "must" list. But the indefatigable Senator Bob Wagner, of New York, buttonholing every Democratic member, was able to assert that "Roosevelt is for this bill." And the measure whizzed through the Senate with a conspicuous lack of any administrative effort at amendment or compromise.

The bill undertakes to keep the New Deal's early promises of a "magna charta" which would give labor an equality of bargaining power with industry.

A piece of "government interference" especially hateful to owners of America's basic industries, it attempts to sweep away devices by which employers have nullified the intent of Section 7-a of NIRA and defied the National Labor Relations Board while the growth of company-controlled unions far outstripped that of employee-controlled labor organizations.

Gives Power to Labor Specifically, the Wagner bill: Writes into permanent law an affirmation of the free right of labor and the compulsory duty of employers to bargain collectively.

Establishes the NLRB as an independent body free from executive interference, gives it "exclusive power" to prevent specified "unfair labor practices" regardless of any other law or code, empowers it to hold secret elections of employees—with fine and prison for anyone who interferes with the board's agents—orders it to hear employe petitions "expeditiously"; and enables it to prosecute defiant employers in federal courts with its own enforcement machinery instead of relying on a dilatory Department of Justice.

Majority Rule Provided Writes "majority rule" into the law by providing that representatives selected for collective bargaining by a majority shall be "the exclusive unit for the purpose of bargaining in respect to pay, wages, hours of work and other conditions of employment."

Imposes what's called sentence of slow down on any unions by "unfair labor practices." Interference with coercion of employe guaranteed right to bargain collectively.

Domination of organization or contribution financial or other nature (The quoted words are from the bill.)

Closed Shops Helped Refusal to bargain or any type of discrimination to discourage membership or paying employees.

The bill also gives employers may take "closed shops" by agreements with unions.

The House bill, NLRB under the Department, as is past Secretary Frances Perkins probably will be out.

Both bills are expected to promote equality of power between employers and employees, to reduce causes of labor disputes. The Senate committee that 70 per cent of unions had sprung up was passed.

Ignores Farm Labor The bill conspicuously cover agricultural labor regarded as the most and oppressed of groups.

Its effect would amount the relative, industries, including mobiles, rubber and other groups.

The bill, if passed, ed in the courts, for about a year of legislation.

But the present law, tained, will pile up non-compliance instances, ceeding cautiously of two test cases, as the of Justice has done.
