PAUL JAMES ORGANIZER OF ESTELINE BAND

Paul James, band master of Memphis, perfected a band organization here last week, with an initial enrollment of twenty members. Practice will be held on Tuesday and Friday nights of each week.

Fred Landers was selected as president and Bill Cowan, secretary. The band-orchestra is composed of both men and women, boys and girls and will consist of both band and orchestra instruments. Lessons were assigned and a practice with the entire organization was held Friday.

The band is complete with the exception of drummers and a tenor horn. Several are contemplating joining and it is thought within a short time a large band will be perfected and much enthusiasm will be created.

A place to meet and practice has not yet been secured, but several are being considered where weekly rehearsals will be held.—Esteline News.

LOKEY COTTON MACHINE COMPANY INCORPORATED; TO BE AT WICHITA FALLS

The Lokey Cotton Machine company of this city was granted a charter Monday by the secretary of state at Austin. The capital stock is 70,000 and the incorporators are A. T. Lokey, H. W. Mullis and Flora Snow.

The company has leased the old quartermaster supply building, with trackage, at the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds, and will move into the structure about January 1. The company is now located at Clarendon, Texas, where a factory is in operation. The concern will move all its machinery to the fair grounds building from Memphis.

The company manufactures a burr extractor that is attached to ginning machinery in cotton gins.

Offices for the company have been located in room four of the Bradford Supply company building, and the Bradford company will be the jobbers for the machine in this territory, according to company officials.—Wichita Record News.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Despite reports, I am returned to Memphis for another year, much to the delight of myself and family. Sunday will be our first service of the new year and I desire to greet a large congregation at both morning and evening hours. Let's begin the year right and make this the greatest year in the history of our church. I shall not work for the Methodist church alone, but will do my best at all times to co-operate with others in making Memphis a better community in every way. C. E. JAMESON, Pastor.

The officers elected were J. E. Bass, president; Harry Delaney, vice president; R. E. Stroup, business manager; Omer Johnson, secretary-treasurer; E. C. Johnson, publicity director. Directors—W. C. Milam, Frank Fore, T. J. Dunbar, Sr., Dr. J. A. Odum and the above named officers.

Plans for activity for the coming year were discussed, and several new bandmen in town are coming into the band. All business of the band will be transacted by the directors. At a later meeting they will employ a band director whose duty will be to direct and teach.

Attend the Thanksgiving day service.

QUANAH FALLS WHEN STRUCK BY CYCLONE

The Quanah Indians proved easy prey for the Memphis Cyclone here Thursday when they took the small end of a 47-6 count. Dennis, Cyclone backfield flash, scored three touchdowns in the first five minutes of play. One a 12-yard plunge after a Quanah fumble was recovered on the Memphis 35 yard line and Hammond ripped off 23 yards around left end.

The other two were 35 and 40 yard broken field runs, one a returned punt and the other a long end run through the entire field. Dennis was chased from the game in the first period, for roughing and was replaced by Crawford, pint-size fullback, who played a brilliant game, and accounted for substantial gains.

The entire Cyclone was in the game with plenty of stuff and proved too much for the Quanah aggregation. On several occasions Quanah linesmen were forced to take time out after a few attempts to penetrate the Memphis line. Nixon, hefty Cyclone center, was the outstanding player in the line.

The lone touchdown for the Indians came after a 32-yard pass put the ball on Memphis eleven-yard line and Cox plunged the Cyclone line, for the counter. He kicked wide by inches, in his try for point.

Hammond, star Cyclone halfback was carried from the field in the third period with a broken leg after a fifteen yard run when he tripped after sidestepping an Indian tackler. He will be out of the game the balance of the season.

ARMISTICE CELEBRATION PROVES SPLENDID AFFAIR LARGE CROWD TAKES PART

CYCLONE STAR BREAKS LEG IN QUANAH GAME

John Hammond, football star of Memphis high school sustained a broken leg in the game here last week with Quanah, when he tripped in an attempt to avoid being tackled after making a fifteen yard run. John was hurried to the hospital where an X-ray picture was made which showed the small bone to be broken about three inches above the ankle. He was then removed to his home. His condition is greatly improved at the present but he will be unable to engage in football the balance of the season.

INTER-DISTRICT FOOTBALL GAMES SOON TO BE SCHEDULED BY BOARD

Austin, Texas, Nov. 15.—Immediately following Thanksgiving the Interscholastic League Bureau of the University of Texas will begin arranging the inter-district high school football games. According to Roy B. Henderson, athletic director, it is likely that in conference A District No. 1 will play District No. 2, the winner meeting District No. 3, and so on through. Although arrangements have been made, it is likely that the conference B districts will be paired in the following order: Districts 1 and 2; 3 and 7; 4 and 5; 6 and 10; 8 and 12; 9 and 13; 14 and 15; 11 and 16.

COMMITTEE RULES BOB HENDERSON INELIGIBLE

A decision was reached last week by the committeemen of the Interscholastic league relative to the protest against the eligibility of Bob Henderson, star quarterback of the Memphis high school, whereby he was ejected from the team for the season, and the game played between Wellington and Memphis here on the 5th of this month was annulled. Memphis defeated Wellington by a score of 41-0.

Henderson was ruled out because he participated in football at McMurray college at Abilene in 1923 while a student of the academy. He was ruled eligible by Roy B. Henderson at Austin last year, but Henderson, referred the protest to the local committee and refused to render a decision in the matter. A statement from his office advises that no record of Bob Henderson could be found.

Attend the Minstrel by the Business Girl's club Monday.

STORM DOES BIG DAMAGE AT DEEPLAKE

A. S. Bevers, of the Deep Lake community was in Memphis Wednesday morning and reported much damage to property and crops in his community from the wind Tuesday night which assumed tornado proportions. Many hundreds were blown down and hundreds of bales of cotton on the ground, besides one side of the tile building on the Holden place two miles west of Lakeview was blown in. This house was occupied by Mr. Billingsley and family. Fortunately no one was injured.

The damage to cotton will run into thousands of dollars, and will make the cotton left on the stalks hard to pick.

MEMPHIS GIRL IS EDITOR OF THE TEACHERS COLLEGE ANNUAL

Miss Mae Simmons, of Memphis, is editor-in-chief of "Le Mirage," the annual of the West Texas State Teachers College, this year. Last year she was associate editor and received thorough training for the great task that is hers this year.

Before doing her junior and senior college work at the College, Miss Simmons was a teacher in the kindergarten training school at Oberlin, Ohio.

The Armistice celebration last Thursday was one of the most interesting of any held since the cessation of the World War in 1918.

The first thing on the program was a big parade. This was worthy of note, and the streets were lined with people who watched the parade with interest. The order of the parade was as follows: Led by the colors, then the Memphis band, the American Legion float, "Flanders Field," the Legion Auxiliary float, "Justice," the ladies' float "Liberty," Confederate soldiers and U. D. C., decorated cars carrying members of the Legion Auxiliary, the Red Cross float, "The Greatest Mother in the World," hundreds of school children, P. T. A. car with officials, Dr. W. Wilson's car with health posters, Mystic Weavers with float representing Betsy Ross making the National Flag, the Business Girls Club float, "The Old Ship of State."

The parade formed at the Presbyterian church on Eighth street, marched north to Main, east to the square where the following program was held: Music by the band, flag drill by the school children, instruction concerning the flag by Allen Grundy, In Memoriam by Rev. Chas. E. Richter, prayer by Rev. E. T. Miller, Taps, 11 o'clock, one minute silent tribute. John M. Deaver, county attorney, acted as master of ceremonies.

The Red Cross float won first prize in the float contest and the "Old Ship of State," second.

The floats were all nicely and appropriately decorated and attracted a lot of attention and favorable comment. The Mystic Weavers' float was very unique. A spinning wheel, belonging to Mrs. Breeding, which has been in her family for more than a hundred years was on the float and was being operated by a lady dressed in colonial costume, and another lady representing Betsy Ross was busily engaged in sewing on a flag. The other floats were equally interesting.

The Memphis band boys were dressed in their new uniforms and made a fine appearance as well as splendid music.

The entire square was filled with people who took part in the Armistice service and enjoyed it. Every business house in town was closed from 10 o'clock throughout the day.

In the afternoon the citizens enjoyed a football game between the Quanah Indians and the Memphis Cyclone.

PANHANDLE PIONEER DIES AT AMARILLO

Judge W. H. Brummett of Amarillo died last Monday at the age of 81 years. The body was taken to Claude for burial.

Judge Brummett spent thirty-five years in Armstrong and Potter counties. He had been actively associated with the development of this section of Texas since 1898; was county judge of Armstrong county four years, and after moving to Amarillo was prominently associated in the affairs of city government serving as corporation judge up to the time of his death. He was an Ex-Confederate soldier, a Mason and a great church worker.

Two of Judge Brummett's grandchildren live in Memphis. They are Mr. Brummett and Mrs. E. H. Martin, of the Memphis Music Store.

COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY GETS GOOD GASSER

Wellington, Nov. 16.—No little excitement was caused among lease holders in this section when the Texhoma No. 1 McDowell blew in with a 10,000,000 foot gasser. Operations have been suspended while the boilers are moved back.

This test is located in section 107 of block 22, Collingsworth county, and again raises hopes for oil in this area since the Gibson company's test was abandoned.

tions 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of the Constitution and Texans

Will H. Mayes) ers of Texas have an to put $5,000,000 into holding pool, to which government will ad- 000,000 to be loaned nte of interest to the their cotton. The Dal- ston banks have agreed 000,000 into this pool these cities. The San earing House has re- t a like amount into it nd that there does not e a need for it there.

A large part of the immense in- crease in cotton production this year has been in the San Antonio territory, two counties of Nueces and Hidalgo having grown nearly 100,000 bales each. But a large part of that was marketed early in the season when cotton was bringing from 15 to 17 1/2 cents. Now the San Antonio banks, most of their customers being "out of the woods," are refusing to come to the aid of the rest of the State, which appears to be a rather narrow policy for a city seeking anything else than a purely local business. San Antonio seems to be crawling into its shell.

Constitutional Amendments Adopted

For the first time in years Texas voters have shown an interest in proposed constitutional amendments, having adopted all the meritorious amendments submitted at the recent election. Heretofore, it has been regarded as practically impossible to get a favorable vote on a constitutional amendment however much merit it might contain. The recent vote indicates that Texans are taking more interest in and making a closer study of State problems. This indicates a possibility that in future Texas may be better governed. There is but little danger of a government going far wrong when its people study its interests closely. The non-thinking voter is the greatest menace to good government.

Baylor-A. & M. Relations

Students of Baylor University have petitioned the faculty for severance of athletic relations with A. & M. College because of dissatisfaction growing out of the committee report of the killing of Cadet Sessums in a mob fight at a recent game between the schools. This is not the first time ill-feeling between these schools growing of football games has become so tense that it has been thought best to have no further athletic relations with each other. The feeling is really deeper seated than the Sessums killing. It is the feud spirit growing out of football fights. The trouble is in the game itself, which differs from all other intercollegiate games in that it instills and develops the fighting spirit. In other athletic contests the play spirit predominates, while football has as its tocsin, "fight! Fight! FIGHT!" When college teams are trained to "fight" there need be little surprise when the fighting spirit spreads to the rooters.

Conservation and Irrigation

Representatives of the states of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico have agreed on the details of a conservation and irrigation project to cover the upper stretches of the Canadian River, in which Congress is expected to render material aid. The legislatures of the three states will have to pass favorably on the matter and the ratification of Congress will then be sought. A conservation district to include Brownwood is voting this month on bonds for the initial expense of a huge water conservation project Texas is fast coming into the proper appreciation of its valuable water resources.

Abilene Christian College

Abilene citizens are raising $150,000 for a needed addition to Abilene Christian College. Abilene is largely indebted to its colleges for its supremacy in its territory. Its citizens appreciate its splendid colleges, and the $150,000 will be raised. It is noticeable everywhere that the towns that are most liberal towards their institutions and enterprises are the towns that accomplish most.

Evidence of Progress

After serving part of McKinney for more than twenty years the street cars are quitting because they no longer pay expense. This is a concession to the prevalence of the automobile. In towns of 10,000 to 20,000 people of old time street car cannot pay expenses, and the lines run down to such an extent that they become a discredit. The small town traction lines everywhere are being forced out of business.

Miss Rea Nasse of Lakeview was a caller at the Democrat office Friday and renewed the Democrat subscription.

Miss Grace Wilson, who is attending school at Wichita Falls, spent the past week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wilson.

ARTICLE IN NEWSPAPER GETS LANDLORD IN BAD; INCREASES HOG CENSUS

An article appearing recently in the Coleman Democrat-Voice telling of the condition on the W. C. Jones plantation near Shield, where tenants have more automobiles than hogs, and not enough chickens to flag a hawk, got Mr. Jones in bad, but started some thinking that has resulted in an increased hog population in Coleman county. A few days after the article appeared Mr. Jones had occasion to visit his farms and the tenants "jumped him right now." "We do not get our eggs from town," they told Mr. Jones. But said Mr. Jones, "I thought you did because you never have any when I am here." With this the conversation terminated, but thinking about hogs continued.

Mr. Jones says that night he thought seriously of the article and the ridiculousness of a farm without hogs or chickens, and when he got up the next morning he went to Gorman and purchased 50 hogs that are now on feed at his place consuming the big feed crop harvested, and he expects to pay more attention to such things in the future.

A farm without chickens and hogs and a small garden, he thinks is like an automobile without wheels—neither can get very far.

SOUTHWIDE BAPTIST STUDENT CONFERENCE AT BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

Miss Ila Joe Leslie, Memphis girl, and student of the College of Industrial Arts at Denton, Texas, has been honored by being selected to represent the students of C. I. A. in the Southwide Baptist Student Conference which meets in Birmingham, Alabama, Oct. 27 to 31, 1926. Miss Leslie has been chosen president for two terms for the Baptist Student Union in her school. This is an unusual honor to be selected as the representative from so large a school to attend a conference of Southwide importance. This Conference meets only every four years. They will go from Denton the 25th to Houston, where they will run a special train out of Houston to Birmingham. They will stop one day in New Orleans sightseeing.

There is No Good Country Without Electric Service

Electric service is a community builder. It is what has been aptly called Essential Public Service. That means that the public can not get along without it under conditions of this day.

This service has been developed by the inventive genius of American people. It has grown into an essential public service through the enterprise of American men and women who have put their talents and means into equipment for supplying it.

The people who are supplying the service and the people who are using it to a very great extent understand that their interests in regard to it are the same—the best possible service at the lowest reasonable cost.

Whatever this company can do to help build up this community and this section of our great state is a part of its job.

Bilious dull feeling

"MY old stand-by is Thedford's Black-Draught—I have used it off and on for about 20 years," says Mr. W. S. Reynolds, of R. F. D. 2, Arcadia, La.

"I get bilious and have a bad taste in my mouth. My head feels dull. I don't just feel like getting around and doing my work. I know it isn't laziness, but biliousness.

"So I take a few doses of Black-Draught and when it acts well, I get up feeling like new—full of pep' and ready for any kind of work.

"I can certainly recommend it." In case of biliousness and other disagreeable conditions due to an inactive liver, Black-Draught helps to drive the poisonous impurities out of the system and tends to leave the organs in a state of normal, healthy activity.

Black-Draught is made entirely of pure medicinal roots and herbs and contains no dangerous or harmful mineral drugs. It can be safely taken by everyone. Sold everywhere. Price 25c.

GO TO CHILDRSS

The Cyclone and Bobcats meet Friday at Childress to contest for supremacy of the Green Belt in gentle (?) play called football.
Childress claims she has the best team and Memphis knows she has.
It will be a tilt worth seeing.
Let's show our loyalty to and our belief in the Cyclone, and also show Childress that Memphis citizens are good sports although The Childress Index believes the contrary.

Attend the Minstrel show next Monday and Tuesday nights at the Gem Theatre and in this way help the Business Girls club to put over the street signs and house numbers in Memphis. We hope to some day soon be able to say
"It has been done" instead of "week after week fussing about it not being done."

The women of Hall county should become interested in having a Home Demonstration Agent. She would be of much help in many ways. Neighboring counties have Demonstration Agents and they are doing lots of good. Part of the salary is being paid by taxation already and no agent.
Why not take advantage of what the government is offering.

Why not repaint the monument on the northwest corner of the square, or else blow it up? Memphis isn't dead by a long shot, but visitors seeing the monument are prone to believe it is dead. It is a monument to the dead Ozark Trail—not Memphis.

The sandstorm Tuesday evening was something fierce, and pelted people as they wended their way home from work.

The Democrat will be pleased to publish the children's letters to Santa Claus. Send them in.

Be sure to attend church next Sunday.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Bible study at ten o'clock.
Preaching at eleven o'clock.
Theme: "Companionship With Jesus."

Communion at 11:45.
Preaching at 7:15. Theme: The Power of the Word.

We take this method of announcing to the public that Brother Albert S. Hall, of Wellington, will be with us on Thanksgiving Day and will preach at the Church of Christ at eleven o'clock also at 7:15 p. m. It is our purpose to spend the day in religious services, "praising God, from Whom all blessings flow." We cordially invite the public to join us in this service. The Pilgrim Fathers celebrated the first Thanksgiving service at Plymouth in 1621. They were constrained by the mercies of God to offer an oblation to Him, realizing as did the Athenian poets of old, that "in Him we live and move and have continual being." And as James says, "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." Then how grateful we should be to God for His goodness and loving kindness toward us.

"Count your blessings, name them one by one, count your blessings, see what God has done." Tillit S. Teddlie, Minister.

FOOTBALL IS TRAINING FOR CITIZENSHIP

Austin, Texas, Nov. 15.—As some high schools which are members of the Interscholastic League of the University of Texas are overlooking the necessity of strict adherence to the scholarship rule regarding football, Athletic Director Roy Henderson has called special attention to the part in school activities which the sport occupies. He says:

"Football should be fostered in the school for the good of that school, for the benefit of the students, for its citizenship training values, and for the opportunities it affords for developing character, ideals, morals, and the like.
It should never be conducted primarily for the purpose of interesting the patrons in the school, or for the reputation of a coach or school official. Nor should the fans ever come first.

"High school football should raise the standard of scholarship rule is, accordingly, the most essential of all, as it is the foundation of the whole structure. A superintendent, principal, or teacher who makes the least concession to a student in applying this rule loses the greatest thing that athletics can be made to do in the school."

As there is no rule in the constitution of the Interscholastic League which cannot be easily met by any average high school student, a boy who cannot make a reasonable amount of scholastic work has no right to represent his school on the gridiron, Henderson believes.

DEMONSTRATE ADVANTAGES OF TEXTONE

The H. R. Hayes lumber company held a demonstration of rough textured wall finishes with one material demonstrated by F.
P. Roemer, representative of the United States Gypsum company at their yard office Tuesday afternoon. A number of painters and decorators were present to learn of the advantages of Tex-tone and Sheetrock over other materials.

"We are going to take you on a decorators' travelogue," Mr. F.
P. Roemer announced. He then described the wall treatments typical of the early Italian, Spanish, early English, New England Colonial, Spanish Mission and Southern Californian styles of architecture.

"In each of these periods," he said, "rough-textures interior walls were used. So the present-day enthusiasm for stippled and other rough finishes is a renaissance, not a mere fad. These combinations of texture and color-tone are the proper ones to use in homes of these several styles."

While Mr. Hoemer was discussing the styles, he was demonstrating how to produce them with a texture and tone in a one-coat application. Sponges, brushes and painter's knives of various sizes, fingertips, palms of the hands, crumpled newspaper, wrapping paper and tissue paper—these and many other implements were used to render swirls, pinwheels, horizontal marks, basket-weaves and other patterns that create a variety of light and shade over a wall or ceiling.

Travertine marble and Caenstone were imitated in a single operation. Antique plaster effects were produced by working colored sand over the plastic paint. Methods of glazing and two-toning walls in a manner favored by many prominent architects were shown to the decorators of this city.

FOOTBALL AND SCANDALS BY STEVE

Some of the strangest things happen to championship football teams over the country—take the Memphis Cyclone for example—Won every conference game by a topheavy score and held two colleges and a class A team each to a one-touchdown victory, still most of the Class B teams who were so overwhelmingly defeated by the versatile eleven from Memphis High are kicking and hollering their heads off because one of the backfield men played a few games in the academy department of McMurray college while it was yet not affiliated as a junior college, in 1923. Henderson is the man referred to, one of the headiest quarterbacks in the state and a good, clean, powerful player, and a real sportsman in every sense of the word.

—Beat Childress—
A ruling from Roy B. Henderson was received here two years ago when the entire facts and circumstances were laid before him at Austin—his ruling was that Bob Henderson was eligible for athletics at Memphis high school. Last year Bob was kept out of the first few games until another ruling could be obtained due to some misunderstanding in regard to a transfer of credits. Again, he was ruled eligible. Therefore, he was played the past season in good faith and with no intention to pull anything over the opposing teams.

—Beat Childress—
The Wellington team was swept from the field to the tune of 41-0 and their sweetest players were held without a substantial gain, the Wellington fans were heartbroken and put up one of the worst squawks ever let out by a bunch whose team had been fairly and cleanly defeated—they were kicking about the eligibility of Bob Henderson, Cyclone quarter.

—Beat Childress—
WELL, THEY SUCCEEDED IN GETTING BOB THROWN OFF THE TEAM BUT THEY FAILED TO GET THE GAME
BY FORFEIT—THEY MAY PLAY MEMPHIS IF THEY WISH
—BUT IT IS DOUBTFUL IF THEY CARE FOR ANY MORE
OF THE CYCLONE — EVEN
WITH HENDERSON AND HAM-MOND BOTH OUT OF THE GAME. THEY WELL KNOW WHAT THE RESULTS WOULD BE, OR THEY COULD EASILY GUESS.

—Beat Childress—
Now that they have succeeded, we wonder how much good it does them and if they feel proud of the fact that Memphis, their neighboring city, has been made to suffer the loss of a perfectly eligible football player because of their poor sportsmanship and the fact they were poor losers. Their actions have greatly lessened the possibility of Memphis taking the bi-district championship from the Slaton team and will probably send the title to the South Plains.
However, it is done and we hope they're satisfied.

—Beat Childress—
Along with the above per-plexes comes the greatest of all as published in the Childress Index. A few weeks ago the Index wrote at length ripping the citizenship of Memphis, as a whole, and the football team because a 19-year-old, 140 pound youth resented being cursed by a Wichita Falls substitute during the Junior college game here a few weeks ago, and the youth took a swing at the sub's jaw. Now the Index says this is terrible and Memphis is unsportsmanlike, and, whenever Childress has to resort to such methods they will have no football team.

—Beat Childress—
THEN IN A WRITE-UP OF
THE CHILDRESS-SHAMROCK
GAME AT CHILDRESS ON AR-MISTICE DAY IS ADDED—
".....MUCH INTEREST WAS ADDED TO THE GAME BY SEVERAL FIGHTS ON THE SIDELINES."

—Beat Childress—
Well, now ain't that cute—it's a SIN and DISGRACE to fight in Memphis but a lot of fun and amusement for Childress fans to fight in Childress. A regular "What's Sauce for the Goose is the AXE for the Gander."

—Beat Childress—
Then another thing we can't comprehend is how kum they think the Bobcats can outsmart such men as Dennis, Brumley, Nixon, Hammond, Henderson, Coaches Bolton and Thompson
—It just isn't being done, thass all.

—Beat Childress—
CHILDRESS LINE IMPREG-NABLE—HARD TO SCORE ON
CHILDRESS—TIE GAME—A FLUKE PLAY MAY ALLOW MEMPHIS TO SCORE—All the above is the way Childress dopesters figure the Memphis-Childress till. Well we never did like to

SOCIETY

SODOLITAN CLASS
ENTERTAINS HUSBANDS

The Sodolitan Class of the Baptist church entertained their husbands at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lang last Friday evening. There were 28 guests present who registered by their given names and Rev. E. T. Miller called the roll and each member responded with their given name. Forty-two was enjoyed for a while. A contest was held to see how many words could be made by using the letters from the word 'Sodoli-tan.' Mrs. E. G. Dyer won first prize which was a scrub brush.
Rev. Miller won second prize—a bar of soap. A delicious salad course was served, and all voted it an enjoyable event.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSION SOCIETY

The Missionary society of the Presbyterian church met in all-day session with Mrs. H. E. Deaver, Nov. 15. The program for this meeting was the study of Moslem women and proved very interesting. At the noon hour a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess assisted by the members. A short business session was held at which time arrangements were completed for the annual Thanksgiving and Praise service to be held in the church parlors Wednesday night, Nov. 24 at 7:30, to which all members of the church and congregation are invited. A short program will be given and refreshments served during the social hour.

1913 STUDY CLUB MEET WITH MRS. T. E. NOEL

The 1913 Club met at the home of Mrs. T. E. Noel on Wednesday, Nov. 17. Fifteen members responded to roll call with their "Pet Superstition." Mrs. Dunbar gave in her very interesting way
"Education versus Superstition." A beautiful rendition of "The Death Disc" by Mark Twain was given by Mrs. Arris Owen. The leader for the study of education was Mrs. G. A. Sager.
Mrs. Miles conducted a "Better English" drill which proved very interesting as well as instructive.
The hostess served a delicious salad course and the club adjourned to meet Dec. 1 with Mrs. R. S.
Greene.

CULTURE CLUB MEETING

The Woman's Culture Club met with Mrs. L. M. Hicks Wednesday afternoon, with twelve members present. Thanksgiving was the subject studied. Colonial characters were given in response to roll call. After business was disposed of Mrs. S. L. Seago told about Oysters and Oyster Fisheries. Mrs. W. P. Dial's subject was Cranberries and Cranberry Fields. Mrs. D. A. Neeley gave an interesting talk on Coffee. All these subjects were ably handled and proved very instructive. Some members who were on the program could not be present and their subjects had to be omitted. Mrs.
C. R. Webster gave a report on the Federated Club meeting in Dallas.

The social part of the program was enjoyed immensely. Each member was given a slip of paper with a word written on same, and asked to use this word in continuing a story started by one of the members. A match was lighted and each one's time was up when the match burned out. This proved to be rather unique and created much merriment.

Mrs. Hicks was an ideal hostess and served lovely refreshments. Miniature turkeys were given as favors.

THE FRIDAY BRIDGE CLUB

The Friday Bridge Club met Friday with Mrs. S. A. Bryant with Mesdames C. H. Silvey of Vega, Allen Grundy, J. E. Bass, Ewell Noel and Beach as guests.
Five tables were placed for the games. Mrs. John Deaver made high score for the club and Mrs.
Pedy second high and Mrs. Bass made high score for the guests.
A delicious plate luncheon was served. Club members present predict results so will wait for results.

—Beat Childress—
Quannah Tribune-Chief pops out with "Memphis football team needs coaching in sportsmanship more than in football." All that needs be said is "How about the plan to take Dennis out?" Quannah had rehearsed this little act and well knew the results when they tried to rough-up Dennis. The umpire was right on the job and saw Hubert "get rough" and out of the game went our ace just as they had planned. And all because he refused to have his faced at the home of Mrs. Duval Brum-were brought before the class for discussion. After the business joyed a social hour of games and contests after which a delicious salad course was served to 31 members.

"I couldn't have said all this to you if I hadn't been through—what happened today. Even if things had gone—happily—if that had been possible—I would have been a long time bringing myself—to say this. But when I looked at you first—I knew. I knew you were everything I had ever loved in Martin Deane and, oh, all I was hungry for! To love you every day—and know you loved me—and to go to bed early—to think of you. But it was wrong. It was where I very nearly failed—"

Constance Dropped Her Eyes to Her Clasped Hands.

I burst out here: "You mustn't say that! I went out to capture your husband last night because I was jealous—"

"Poor Robert! I had given you much provocation!" was all she said to that. "And then—I found him. I was riding up the trail to Forty-Rod. He came out of the pines. He was riding a black horse. Of course he was astonished. And yet he was glad. He—I felt he still loved me, in spite of the way he'd kept me in the East. That was the main thing, Robert. Not that I wanted him to love me—with you in the world. But so long as he loved me—there was a chance. He was mining above Forty-Rod. They expected to strike it soon, he said. Three weeks would tell the story. Then he'd come down to me. And we'd go away together. If I wanted to go away. And I did. It hurt, but I did. I was afraid—with you in Cottonwood, Robert. I asked to go up and stay with him at Forty-Rod. But he wouldn't have that. He said the place was too rough. He asked me not to tell anyone, for the present, that I had a husband here. Just let things stand as they were—for three weeks. I said: 'Martin, you've gone wrong again!' He laughed and said: 'Not very.'"

"And I came home, and did let things stand as they were. It was only three weeks, after all. And I would see you—and then no more."

"Last night he came to the tent. Came, he said, just because he wanted to see me. He had been drinking. That isn't one of his vices, usually. He said that things were going wonderfully. He'd be ready in two or three days to take me away. I made him promise to go straight back to the claim. I wanted to go with him to his horse. He objected to that. But he promised—"

"And broke his promise!" I interpolated hotly. "I think he intended to, nevertheless. Mrs. Barnaby told me this morning—about the robbery and the vigilance committee. She's the only person I've ever taken into my confidence, and she not very far. Probably she's guessed some of the rest. I found they'd killed three men at Forty-Rod, and had two in jail—to hang. I went to the jail. Through the side window I saw Martin. I appealed to you. And you saved me. That's all, I think."

Her shoulders, held so proudly erect, drooped now.

"No, it wasn't all," I said. "Haven't you had enough, Constance? You surely don't hope—"

Her eyes lifted somberly to mine as she interrupted: "I'm not thinking of hope. There is very little hope perhaps—now. All I know is that I am still the one chance he has. And that I still have a hold. I must follow him—try to find him. And when I find him—of course that isn't pleasant to contemplate. My money is nearly gone. I shall be poor. Perhaps—he will go to jail. And I shall be a convict's wife. But, Robert, what would you think of a woman who abandoned her child just because it was idiotic or crippled or vicious? I'd be doing the same thing. More. If I should get a common divorce and marry you, it would be to me as though we had conspired to kill him—to get him out of the way."

"You must promise me that if the time comes when I may help cleanly—you will let me."

"I promise. What are you going to do, Robert?" "I shall stay here and face it—if there is anything to face," I said. "I am a rich man, you know. Constance," I added. "I don't mean my mining property—but I never have to think of money. I could go East and put this behind me. But I want to face it. Because I'll be nearer you. And because I'm stronger than I am."

She nodded slowly, solemnly. "That's good," she said. "Not the part about me—but about you. It is you as I'd like you to be." Then she smiled, almost like her old self in her merry moods. "Can't we forget this morning—for a moment? And oh, Robert, you are so tired! You've had a dreadful night and day! You must sleep now."

"Sleep!" I said. "When I have a few hours with you and may not see you for years!" But even as I spoke a rush of inner drowsiness made insincere my words.

Constance looked outside. The tent-flaps gaped wide, making visible this rude apartment to all the world.

"This camp doubtless thinks about as scandalously of you and me as it can," she said. "Look, Robert—I'm going to make you lie down on my bed."

Had I been myself, I should have protested. As it was, I yielded like a sleepy child. She wet a towel, washed my face. She loosened my collar. Her touch, which normally roused every fiber in me, was now heavenly soothing. She held my shoulders as I stretched out my aching muscles on the white sheet counterpane; she knelt beside me, holding and patting my hand. Once she looked swiftly out of doors, then bent and kissed my forehead. I raised my other hand to embrace her, but she put it gently back. . . . I was gone. . . .

A light shone in my face. I sprang up sitting. Twilight without. Mrs. Barnaby shading an oil lamp with her hand.

"Seven o'clock!" said Mrs. Barnaby. "Your boss has been looking over the bull camp for you. Says he's wanted at town meetin' and you've got to get out the paper, though why it should get out—"

"Where's Constance—Mrs. Deane?" I asked.

"Her? Oh, she took the two o'clock stage to Denver. Didn't she tell she was goin' to?"

CHAPTER XIV

MY DECISION to stay at Cottonwood and face it all down proved ridiculously more easy than I thought when I matched nobilities with Constance. Disgrace is a coward; it retreats before a bold front. The indifferent world in the end always takes toward it the attitude that you take yourself. Nor, indeed, did Cottonwood probably think me disgraced. They gossiped, of course; I had for a long time an uncomfortable sense that groups had pointed me out when I passed. But to my face men showed only cordiality—sometimes a trifle overdone, and more galling than public reproach.

Constance wrote from Denver. On the surface this was merely a friendly letter such as any married woman might address to a young man who had rendered her service. Yet the intention shined through the written expression; and words too subtle for analysis I knew that Constance Deane had not changed toward me, never would change. She had found Martin Deane; had seen him once. "But he thinks it better, considering his position, that we should not be together for the present—either here or while traveling," she wrote.

In all I had six letters from her that autumn—I have them yet. After that she did not refer again even to Martin Deane; only the four said:

"If there is any change in your situation I shall let you know it."

As the camp boomed, so did the Courier. We were publishing six pages on Wednesdays and Sundays now; and our job-printing department, in spite of the increase in power, ran two weeks behind its orders. Just before the big snow Marcus wrote a week's editorials in advance, packed his carpet bag, and took the stage to Denver, leaving me coked up on the dizzy eminence of the editorial chair.

There followed a period of hard work and trying but interesting responsibility. Marcus intended to be gone only a week; but the big snow came, blocking the passes. It was ten days, in fact, before he appeared at the office without the grace of warning by telegraph, walked in upon me, the leicles hanging from his mustache. With scarcely a word of greeting or of news, he plunged into the business of supervising the night's work. When the printers had an hour's copy ahead he said:

"Get on your coat and come over to Huffaker's—the private room. I've got a heap of things to spill about that Denver business; and I don't want to tell 'em here." We plodded over to Huffaker's, silent performers in the face of an arctic wind. He took off his buffalo coat, warmed his hands at the red-hot stove, before he began abruptly: "What I want to talk to you about isn't business. It's your girl."

"Is she—is she well?" I asked.

"Well, and reasonably happy, I guess," replied Marcus. "Now you sit down and keep your shirt on. I've got a lot to tell you." He came over from the stove, sat down at the table opposite me, turned on me a look more nearly tender than ever I had seen in his face. But his first words seemed remote from the subject.

"You remember Mike the detective?"

"Yes."

Marcus nodded.

"Well, he's no common detective. Fancy operative, and all that. When Mr. Taylor hired him, he had to sign a year's contract. Everything was rounded up long before anybody expected. And there was Mike, eating his head off. So Mr. Taylor lent me Mike. Little testimonial of esteem for my work in stabilizing finance in this camp."

"I set him to looking up this Martin Deane. For satisfaction of my own curiosity. And your peace of mind, boy."

"How Mike went at it, I haven't asked. But he has a special wire running down to every circle of crooks in the West. Since Deane, alias Maxwell, left here, he's been hanging round various camps in range of Denver. He's been telling Mrs. Deane, just as I told you, that he shouldn't go East with her for the present, because it isn't safe for them to be seen together. Hasn't occurred to you, has it, that they might travel separately and just meet somewhere? It has occurred to Mrs. Deane—I guess—but I suspect she's been fooling herself. Anyhow, I was stringing you because I wanted him right here in the West. And he was stringing her because he wasn't alone in his wanderings. He had company. This man's West makes the good better and the bad worse, in my opinion. And does it sudden. Crooks always have queer spots of virtue in them, too. The marrying crook's common. Like any other specimen of that species, he wants what he wants so hard that he doesn't care how he gets it. But he has a whim for sanctifying his intentions on women-folks with holy matrimony. And like most men, he's capable of fancying two women at once and the same time. This Martin Deane, for example, Mike found 'em last month. He's been working since to identify the signatures. And they're authentic." He spread out two documents on the table.

An order of divorce, Martin Deane of Wyoming from Constance Deane of Rhode Island. Cause, desertion. Dated last February. A marriage certificate, Martin Deane of Wyoming to Lucy Baldwin of Wyoming. Dated two days later—

"Don't let your emotions get away with you until I have told you the rest," said Marcus. I gripped myself, and listened.

"The divorce is right and it isn't right. There's other camps in this West that need a clean-up. That"—he pointed at the date line on the papers—"is one of them. No lawyer is needed to see that this divorce won't hold water if the other party wants to fight. He hadn't lived long enough in Wyoming to establish a legal residence. The court—on the Judge Cowan pattern, only worse, I guess—has delicately refrained from inquiring into that. Other party wasn't notified either. If I was a young man with any intention of marrying a lady in that fix, I'd wait until she got divorced proper and legal on her own account. Mrs. Deane says—"

"You've seen her?"

"Yes. Found an afternoon off to call. Me and Mike, and afterward me alone. She's plumb sick and tired of this Martin Deane at last. Wouldn't have the spirit of a squashed tar baby if she wasn't."

"I'm going to Denver!" I said. "All right, give you a vacation if you want it," responded Marcus with a beaming smile. "Only if I were you, on the way to Denver I'd glance for a moment into the ladies' parlor of this hotel. It's fixed with Jim Huffaker that you aren't to be disturbed if you want to loaf and linger there a little while."

I flew down the corridor. Constance rose from the sofa; faced me. But as I sprang toward her my arms outstretched, she stopped me with an uplifted hand.

"Robert," she said—and her syllables dropped like honey—"I haven't waited for you. I wanted to come to you—because you've been brave and because it happened here—and because you've suffered so much for me—and because I couldn't wait—and now, Robert, my lover—if you want me—come the rest of the way—"

The football game Thursday, Nov. 11 with the Quannah team left us victorious with a score of 46 to 6 in our favor, yet everyone was deeply hurt over the fact that one of our star players, John Hammond, received an injury to his leg which will probably keep him from entering the game again this year. John has done splendid work this year in his position as right half and all realize the heavy loss to the team that his sudden injury has caused. He is reported as doing nicely up to date and the classes have shown their sympathy by visits from the members and several presents of flowers.

Friday, 19, marks the climax of our football struggle and victory this year. On that day we shall meet and defeat the Childress squad. Every true citizen of Memphis is behind us. The sun shall not go down with the Cyclone at the little end of the score!

Professor Miles has announced that efforts are being made to charter a special train to Childress for the game Friday. The rates are $1.25 for the round trip and if two hundred passengers can be secured the train will be chartered. If you have not considered going before, do so now; the rates are low and we promise you a thrilling contest. Boost for Memphis! Don't be a piker!

The 7 Club started to Wayside Park on a hike Tuesday afternoon but the heavy sand storm that blew up prevented their walking all the way. Those in cars then came to the rescue and took them on to the park where they all entered a camp house and amid sand finished the weenies, pickles, buns and such like. It was a severe disappointment to all when they were denied the fun of a camp fire supper. However, they have not given up the idea entirely and plan to go again soon when there is promise of clearer weather.

This Week

Mrs. N. A. Hightower, assisted by the Brice Faculty, entertained about eighty young people of this community with an informal social in the school auditorium Friday night. Miss Poole furnished music for the occasion. The party began with a Rainy Day race in which Ladelle Jones and Mr. Harper won the prize box of Cracker Jacks. Miss Hutto presiding over the fortune telling, discovered many interesting facts concerning the amorous conditions of the younger set. Mattie Rhodes conducted the Lemon race in which the boys won over the girls. After a good-night stroll around the school building, the boys began fishing for partners. The noise then subsided while everybody busily engaged them selves in eating palatable pop corn balls that had been made by the Home Economic girls. Mrs. Hightower was assisted in the chaperonage by Mrs. Dan Cassie, Mrs. Ella Grady and Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Murf.
