WORK TO START ON LAKEVIEW'S SCHOOL PLANT

Local Contractor To Begin Work on Two Modern Buildings

L. D. Sanders, Memphis building contractor, has received notice from the federal government to begin work tomorrow on the construction of the proposed $45,000 brick school building at Lakeview.

Construction of the modern building is made possible through a PWA grant and through monies raised by citizens of the Lakeview Independent School district by floating of bonds, which were sold to the state. The school district is paying 55 per cent of the building costs, and the federal government is paying 45 per cent.

Construction of the modern building is to be completed by the end of the month. The contractor is to be paid 10 per cent of the labor to be employed on the job will be local Reemployment Service workers from the Lakeview section.

The construction was let the first of last December, after taxpayers of Lakeview had authorized the issuance of bonds for the amount of $57,000.

When completed, Lakeview will have a school building on or near par with most any school in the city.

LAN METHODIST SPRING REVIVAL

The Board of Stewards of the First Methodist Church in session last night for the regular monthly meeting, laid preliminary plans for the holding of a Pre-Easter Revival of the church, beginning March 28, and continuing for 10 days or two weeks. Rev. O. W. Carter, pastor of the First Methodist Church, left tonight for Dallas where he will attend the two-day annual conference of Methodist ministers, in session in Dallas.

SCS OFFICIALS TAKE PART IN DISTRICT MEET

Two Day Session at Amarillo Studies Erosion Problems

Officials of the Memphis Soil Conservation Service force attended a two-day meeting of erosion experts in Amarillo this week, at which time recommendations for the conservation of land in this region were adopted. The recommendations will be referred to the Washington Bureau of the Soil Conservation Service.

E. McBride, camp superintendent of Memphis; J. C. Ebersole, Memphis agronomist; and John C. Gilbreath, local engineering aid, were among the specialists attending the meeting. R. C. Nelson, James A. Jackson, J. C. Wilcox and H. A. Finch, all former Memphians but now connected with the Soil Conservation Service in Amarillo, also attended the meeting.

LIQUOR DOCKET OCCUPIES COURT

W. H. (Bill) Monzingo was acquitted in County Court here yesterday afternoon on a charge of the possession of beer for the purpose of sale.

County Judge Jim Vallance, presiding over the January term of County Court, sent the case to the jury with instructions to find the defendant not guilty, as the State had failed to make out a case against Monzingo.

David Fitzgerald was counsel for the defense.

The case of Glenn Moore, charged with the possession of untaxed liquor, had been on trial this morning, and was expected to go to the jury about noon.

Mayor's Proclamation

Realizing the great worth of the Boy Scouts of America as a force of good among the boys of the nation, appreciating the benefits which are certain to accrue to the boys of our city by the proper organization and maintenance of Scouting in this city:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, J. A. Whaley, Mayor of the City of Memphis, Texas, in co-operation with the local Boy Scout Organization Committee, do hereby proclaim and set aside Thursday, January 30, as Boy Scout Day in the said City of Memphis, Texas.

On this day I call upon our citizenship to co-operate with the Committee, to the end that there may be established in the City of Memphis several troops of this worthwhile organization, and thus offer to our boys the training and character-building advantages accruing from membership in the same.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name and affixed the seal of my office, on this the twenty-eighth day of January, A. D. 1936.

J. A. WHALEY, Mayor

Cotton Ginnings are Nearly 25,000 Bales

The Weather

WEST TEXAS: Snow in north, rain and snow in south, colder. Cold wave in north except Panhandle tonight, and in south tonight or Thursday; lowest temperature zero to 16 in north and 18 to 22 in south; Thursday partly cloudy, colder in south. Livestock warnings.

EAST TEXAS: Cloudy, probable rain or snow, colder. Freezing in south except near west coast. Cold wave in north, with temperature 12 to 18 tonight. Livestock warning.

LOCAL: Temperature constant at 24 all this morning. Light snow has fallen all morning, with total of near an inch by noon, and prospects of continuation of fall all day.

Cotton Production is More Than Triple Last Year's Crop

According to figures received this morning from Tom Ballew, Department of Commerce Special Agent, cotton ginnings in Hall County are nearing the 25,000 bale mark, with a dribble of cotton still coming in.

According to Mr. Ballew's report to the federal department, 24,366 bales of cotton, counting round bales as half bales, had been ginned in Hall County prior to January 16, which more than triples the county's production of the fleecy staple in 1934. To the same date last year, 7,261 bales had been ginned.

Local cotton men seem to be of the opinion that there will be enough more cotton come in to raise the total for the year to 25,000 bales, far in excess in what some had predicted for the year.

CAMPAIGN HERE FOR SUSTAINING ORGANIZATION

Citizens Are Urged to Aid in Scout Work in County

Assisted by Lloyd M. O'Neal, regional representative, and C. A. Clark, executive of the Adobe Walls Area council, the Memphis Organization Committee will tomorrow stage a drive for the organization of the Boy Scout movement in this city.

Russell Middleton, chairman of the local committee, announces that workers will breakfast in the morning at 7:30, at the Triangle Room of the Memphis Hotel, where plans for the day's drive will be discussed.

Tomorrow's drive will be specifically for the organization in this city of a Boy Scout Sustaining Club, whose purpose will be found elsewhere in this issue. Fees for sustaining club members are just what the donor wants to make them, and may be paid in cash, semi-monthly, quarterly or monthly.

Officials of the drive emphasize the fact that it is not the amount of money they can raise which is of vital importance, but the number of citizens they can interest in getting behind the Boy Scout movement here.

It is expected that there will be 25 to 30 workers at the breakfast in the morning, from where they will start the campaign.

The honor of being the first member of the local Boy Scout Sustaining Club goes to Rev. O. W. Carter, who yesterday voluntarily made his contribution, without being approached by members of the committee.

At 4:30 tomorrow afternoon, there will be a meeting of the newly organized Sustaining Club.

ROTARY HEARS SCOUT ADDRESS

Club May Sponsor a Troop of Scouts in Local Council

The Memphis Rotary Club, civic organization, will probably sponsor a Memphis Boy Scout troop as a result of action taken yesterday at the regular weekly luncheon of the club.

Lloyd M. O'Neal, Scout executive from the regional headquarters in Dallas, was principal speaker on the club program, and the Dallas man extolled the merits of Scout work so convincingly that Dr. J. A. Odom, club president, announced in effect at the conclusion of Mr. O'Neal's talk that the local Rotary Club will sponsor a Boy Scout troop.

Introduced by Russell Middleton, who stated that a Boy Scout membership drive has been launched here, Mr. O'Neal unfolded a proposed program of Scout work for Memphis and vicinity.

Mr. O'Neal declared that the Boy Scout movement is not in entrenchment, but is moving forward, and has reached a height where it influences the body politic of America. Citing instances of good work done in other communities, the speaker urged Memphis citizens to get in line with the Scout movement here, and averred that parents can kill or put over a Scout program.

Principles of the Scout law are conducive of good character building; the boys are offered time and

To Hear President at Ball Here

Install Radio at All Local Parties to Hear Address

Arrangements have been made that every person who attends any of the local activities of the president's Birthday Ball in this city tomorrow night will be able to hear the address of President Roosevelt on this occasion.

Radios will be installed at both the bridge party and the two-party, so that those in attendance can hear the address, which will be delivered at 11:30 o'clock, Central Standard time.

Chairmen of the committees in charge of each activity report that it looks like a capacity crowd at each. Those citizens who plan to attend the bridge and forty-party are urged to get in line with the president of one of the local clubs and secure tickets now, so that some estimate can be made as to the size of the crowd to be taken care of at each

NEW METHODS IN BEEF HANDLING

Walter Labay, vocational agriculture instructor of Estelline High School, in cooperation with County Agriculture Agent R. E. L. Patillo, Miss Margie Lyon, home demonstration agent of Childress County; and V. E. Hafner, county farm agent of Childress, will conduct a beef cutting and canning demonstration February 12 on the Eddleman farm just east of Estelline.

The beefs will be slaughtered several days prior to the cutting and curing. Mr. Patillo will have charge of the meat cutting, and Miss Lyon will supervise the canning.

The vocational agriculture students of Estelline will witness the proceedings at the all-day demonstration, and Riley W. Carlton's Memphis students will likely attend.

A pork cutting and curing demonstration was held near Estelline recently.

SCOUTING MARCHES ON

TWO important forward steps marked the Boy Scout movement during its 25th Jubilee Year, which ends on February 7, the eve of Scouting's 26th birthday—one for older boys and one for boys below Scout age.

The first involved the launching of a definite program for older youths, known as Senior Scouting and designed to reach youths from 15 to voting age—and indeed indefinitely beyond. This senior program embraces the interests of older boys on land and sea. The Sea Scouts, of whom there are today more than 20,000, were among the first groups of older Scouts to be organized. Now there are Rover groups, Explorers, and half a dozen others, all pledged to carry forward Scouting ideals.

The second important movement, accomplished by the Operations Division of the National Scout Movement, was the taking over of the administrative operation of the Cub Program for boys of pre-Scout age—9 to 11 years inclusive.

Cubbing, launched in 1930 with a few packs, as the groups are designated, has grown literally overnight, ending the Scout Jubilee Year with a membership of boys and leaders in excess of 50,000. More than 10,000 represent new Cubs and their leaders enrolled in 1935.

An interesting feature of Cubbing is that it is related closely to the home, that parents have an important part in it, and that it also numbers among its leaders older Boy Scouts who have had qualities of leadership trained and developed as a result of their Scouting experience.

The city now has the opportunity of securing for its boys the distinctly worth-while training which Scouting gives them.

Tomorrow is Boy Scout Day in this city, and every citizen who is approached by the local campaign committee is urged to do his bit toward bringing these advantages to our local boys.

No boys program in history has meant so much to the youth of the land as has Boy Scouting.

Let's make Memphis and Memphis youths a part of this great world-wide movement.

Bill Huddleston listened to Howard's contentions and declared that the rough ruts should be fixed. He even went so far as to proffer a plan of construction. We agree with both parties and shall try to get the Highway Commission to repair the paving.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—The report of the "regional adjustment" survey of last year, in which agricultural experiment stations of 48 states collaborated with scientists and officials of AAA and other Department of Agriculture bureaus, is the "bible" of officials now seeking to work out details of the domestic allotment-soil conservation program with which they hope to replace the Agricultural Adjustment Act, knocked out by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Purpose of that survey was to recommend systems and schedules of farming and ranching for various areas which would check soil depletion or erosion and at the same time stimulate farm practices which would lower production costs.

Estimates were made of the effect of such program on production and the probable change in terms of acreage.

On the basis of results, AAA seeks to judge the most desirable goals for total acreage and total volume of production of specific commodities, and, according to H. R. Tolley—prominent now in administration farm councils—must work out the best possible compromise as between:

1. The need of farmers for adequate prices and income.
2. National consumption needs.
3. Condition of soils and various farm management problems in each region.

ABOUT 700 type-of-farming areas were catalogued. General recommendations for the big key areas are, in part, the following—and bear in mind that it's proposed to pay farmers for their share in making the changes: CORN BELT—Reduction in corn and oats; increase in soybeans, hay, and pasture; decrease in number of hogs; substantial increase in dairy cows and milk production; moderate increases in beef cattle and sheep. Resulting increase in hay and milk production would be especially marked in lake states region.

SOUTH. Decrease of cotton acreage below normal level; increase in total crop land, pasture, and all southern feed crops except corn. Considerable increase for all kinds of livestock production—chiefly to improve living standards.

GREAT PLAINS AND PACIFIC NORTHWEST WHEAT REGIONS. Decrease in pre-AAA wheat acreage, removal of low-yield wheat land from production. Increase of feed production in hard winter wheat, spring wheat, and Pacific Northwest areas.

RANGE REGION. Chiefly, slight decrease in number of cattle from the low level prevailing in either 1930 or 1935, with increase of hay production to provide more winter feed. In a long year period it is believed that stabilization of cattle and sheep populations in this area at or near present low levels would result in improvement of ranges, with consequent increase in yield of meat and wool relative to number of head. For irrigated areas, continued cultivation of about the present number of acres is recommended.

NORTHEAST. Probably desirable to stabilize agricultural production at about present level. More milk could be produced, but an increase isn't recommended. View of the market situation. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service Staff)

Just Back From a Trip to Warm Tropical Seas

This is what old salts must mean when they exclaim: "Shiver my timbers!" Anyhow, the remark would have been appropriate for any member of the crew of the S. S. Southern Prince, which came into New York harbor on the coldest day of the year, decked out in a gleaming coat of green spray. And only a few days before it had been cruising the tropical seas off South America!

BRADDOCK ROCK PRESERVED

Stone Where British General Landed

Think one of a series of articles describing strange and novel localities and various parts of the nation, uncovered and described by writers compiling the American Guide, a guide book of the United States, sponsored by the Works Progress Administration.

The sites of ancient cities consist of layers upon layers of debris but even cities so youthful, as our civilization is considered, as Washington, D. C., present illustrations of growth and growth.

Recently, writers have been detailing features of the National Guide for the American Guide, forthcoming 5-volume Government handbook on America, was assigned to look up Braddock Rock. He was a persistent and finally succeeded in finding it. The Guide will carry details.

Probably the reader never heard of Braddock Rock, perhaps he knew that General Braddock landed on the shore of the Potomac. Possibly all he recalls of the mighty Britisher was that he was defeated and killed at Braddock and that the remnants of his command were driven from the French and Indian War by the sagacious and youthful George Washington.

However, history records that General Braddock disembarked from a ship on a rock and a pretty good sized rock at that. In those days the waters of the Potomac were deep about its base and Braddock had done so for centuries. Braddock's object in coming ashore was to establish his headquarters for the night—the first stop on his way to Ohio.

The Hill, which centers at 24th and E Streets, N.W., is now the site of an unused part of the Naval Hospital.

The demand for cheap transportation grew, the Chesapeake and Ohio canal was dug. It ended the Potomac near by the general's landing place, which was covered by the upheaved earth.

Years, Braddock Rock lay forgotten. At about the time that America entered the Civil War, an historical society was formed from some old records of the battle and sent representatives to find it. Eventually, it was located by the chief engineer of the Naval Hospital eight feet below the surface of the open ground at "H" building. Today,

Tax Payment Limit is Near

January 31 is the last day for paying 1935 school taxes without additional penalty or interest, and tax payers are urged to make special effort to meet the obligation before that time, Tomie Potts, chairman of the Memphis School Board, announced this morning.

Mr. Potts also emphasized the fact that the school has a comprehensive forward-looking program which is making it one of the leading schools of the Panhandle, and at the same time doing its part toward improving the social and civic interests of the community. The school is being operated as economically as possible and the payment of taxes is therefore necessary.

In order to carry on the work of the school as it should be done the school must have the support of the entire citizenship and the taxpayers, Mr. Potts said. The current taxes should all be paid.

Mrs. Eual Warrick and son, Clifton, returned to their home in Wellington yesterday after a visit here with her aunt, Mrs. H. P. Gilmore. Mrs. Gilmore and Mrs. Scotty Sigler and her daughter, Shirley Sandra, who are here from Petrolia, accompanied Mrs. Warrick home and spent the day as guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Sigler.

and the delinquent taxes if possible. The money is needed and will aid in making the school what it should be.

Delinquent taxes are obligations that will have to be met some time or other and the sooner they are paid the better, since they are liens against property. They may be paid a year at a time, or on any one piece of property for any one year—thus giving the property owner an opportunity to pay as he is able, it was stated.

W. V. Coursey, at the City Hall, is tax collector for the Memphis Independent School District. J. C. Wells is assisting in the collection of delinquent taxes, and payment of such may be made to him or to Mr. Coursey.

Henry Cabaud, vice-president of the operating line, was given a suspended sentence of one year and a fine of $5,000. The company was fined $10,000.

The W. M. S. of the First Baptist Church met Monday afternoon at the church at 3 o'clock for a missionary program and social.

Mrs. G. H. Hattenbach, president called the meeting to order and the song, "Lead On O King Eternal" was sung, after which the meeting was turned over to the leader, Mrs. J. S. McMurry, when Circle No. 4 rendered the program. The topic for the afternoon was, "Thy Kingdom Come." The devotional was given by Mrs. J. H. Smith, using Matthew 13:33-35, Liken Unto Leaven, followed with prayer by Mrs. D. A. Grundy. "The King, Kingdom and His Subjects" was given by the leader, Mrs. McMurry. Few seconds of silent prayer, closed by Mrs. O. K. Webb. A well rendered duet, "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord," was sung by Mrs. S. T. Harrison and Mrs. A. Baldwin. "The Nature of the Kingdom" was discussed by Mrs. Webb. "Enemies of the Kingdom" was given by Mrs. John Barber, followed with prayer by Mrs. T. R. Garrott. "The Kingdom of Heaven is at Hand," Mrs. C. Z. Stidham.

Following the program the social committee composed of Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard, Mrs. L. O. Dennis, Mrs. E. M. Godfrey, Mrs. G. C. Baskerville, Mrs. C. Z. Stidham, Mrs. C. Land and Mrs. W. C. Davis served individual cherry pie, whipped cream and coffee to 28 members.

W. C. Dennis entertained a group of friends with a Theatre Party Saturday afternoon.

The guests met at the Dennis home, 603 North Ninth Street and went in a group to the show, escorted by Mrs. Dick Vallance.

After the show the group returned to the Dennis home where games were played and refreshments were served by Mrs. Vallance and her mother, Mrs. L. O. Dennis.

Missionary Auxiliary Meets

The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. J. A. Grundy, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, leader of the program, gave a beautiful devotional on prayer, followed with a circle of prayer. After roll call, Mrs. VanPelt told an interesting story on, "Except Ye Become as Little Children." "Hysien Ting's First Day," was given by Mrs. Montgomery. "All My Children," was discussed by Mrs. Kittinger.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Grundy served refreshments to Mrs. T. Kittinger, Mrs. S. S. Montgomery, Mrs. Mamie VanPelt, Mrs. P. M. Fitzgerald, Mrs. J. C. Ross, Mrs. D. H. Arnold, Mrs. A. A. Dunlap, Mrs. J. A. MacMillan and a guest, Mrs. D. L. Cooper.

16-Year-Old Heiress an Elopement Bride

"Daddy will understand." 16-year-old Ruth Moffett, daughter of wealthy James A. Moffett, oil company executive, insisted when her elopement marriage to Warren Johnson, 24, became known. The newlyweds seem oblivious to interviewers as well as parental objections as they look into each other's eyes at their honeymoon apartment in New York. Their engagement had been recently denied by Mr. Moffett.

Sodalitan S. S. Class

Members of the Sodalitan Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met Friday afternoon at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard, with Mrs. E. T. Prater and Mrs. W. T. Hightower co-hostesses.

The devotional was given by the president, Mrs. Jim Fullingim. She used Psalm 46 for her scripture lesson. The song, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" was sung. A very interesting talk, "Be Yourself, In God's Sight," was given by Mrs. R. E. L. Pattillo.

During the social hour the hostesses served refreshments to Mrs. Henry Scott, Mrs. Frank J. Smith, Mrs. G. C. Baskerville, Mrs. B. B. Smith, Mrs. Riley W. Carlton, Mrs. W. Wilson, Mrs. J. H. ATTEND THE BIRTHDAY BALL ACTIVITIES THURSDAY EVE

Singing With a Purpose

Millions of Americans will celebrate the 1936 Birthday Ball for the President, but probably none with more gusto than Joseph Lapina, shown above with Mary Lewis, opera singer. Joe, who for years has suffered from infantile paralysis, will make his first big public appearance on the night of the ball, Jan. 30th, when he sings before a swank supper gathering at the Central Park Casino, New York. Like thousands of other youths throughout the nation, Joe got his chance through the Birthday Ball, funds from which will be used to wage nation-wide war on infantile paralysis. Now studying under the guidance of Miss Lewis, critics say he is destined for a brilliant opera career.

Camera Catches Striking Likeness

A more than passing resemblance between the faces of Charles Atlas (left), is shown clearly here. Atlas will portray "Manhood" in pageant at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, Jan. 30, the night of the Birthday Ball for the President, when 5,000 communities from coast-to-coast will make merry to honor Mr. Roosevelt and swell the funds to fight infantile paralysis.

Both Celebrating Leads Debutante

(International News Photo) American proxy for celebration of the Birthday Ball for the President, Jan. 30, in Manila, Philippines, Florida Flores, 3, poses with Miss Elise Ford, Howard Chandler Christy's famous model for Birthday Ball posters. The Filipino miss will typify here at a party her contemporaries at the Manila Ball which will be in addition to the 5,000 parties that will be held from coast-to-coast in the U. S. to raise funds to fight infantile paralysis.

Medora Roosevelt, niece of the President, who leads the list of prominent U. S. debutantes now working toward making the 1936 Birthday Ball for the President a success. Miss Roosevelt is chairman of the debutante committee for the celebration which will be held on the night of Jan. 30th at the Waldorf Astoria, New York. More than 5,000 other parties will be held in the nation, proceeds going to a country-wide war on infantile paralysis.

into the pockets of her skirt she encountered a cool small cylinder which was a silver pencil Amy Sanders had given her months ago. But neither of the pockets revealed even a scrap of paper on which to write a message for Payson. Then her glance happened to fall upon a piece of driftwood on the beach. Its surface was bleached white, and as she picked it up she discovered gratefully that it was dry. There was little chance that Payson would find it—but at least, Julia decided, it was worth a try.

Holding the little silver pencil tightly she printed in black capitals on the wood: WOODFORD HAS DECIDED TO LEAVE FOR THE CITY. WISH I COULD THANK YOU FOR ALL YOUR TROUBLE. J. C.

Then she set the white wood near the marks on the sand, but out of reach of the tide; and with another and last look at the island beyond, she started reluctantly back along the path.

Halfway to the other side of the island she met Woodford. He was red from exertion, and obviously relieved when he saw her.

"Didn't you know we were leaving?" he said petulantly.

"Why run away without telling some of us?"

"I'm sorry. I thought you weren't going before an hour."

"Everybody's aboard and ready," Woodford told her.

Puzzled, Julia followed him down the path. She had never seen him like this and she was moved to ask how Nesbitt was getting along.

"He'll be all right. It wasn't serious."

Then why, Julia wondered, all Woodford's seriousness? Perhaps he was only piqued because his vacation jaunt had broken into troublesome fragments. But she could have asked him no more questions even if she'd wanted, for he rushed on down the path quite as if the Wood Nymph might leave without its owner. In a moment she saw Captain Eakely waiting in the stern of the power boat.

Cintra Lee was the only one in sight aboard the yacht except the members of the crew. When the tender reached the larger craft, Woodford and Bakely went at once to the wheel house, and Julia sauntered aft to where Cintra sat smoking a cigarette.

"I was a little surprised when I saw you in the boat with Woodford," the dancer said.

"Why?" Julia sat in the deck chair beside Cintra, felt the sudden vibration of the engines as the Wood Nymph got under way. "I had a notion perhaps you'd decided to stay marooned with that handsome young man who tried to rescue you last night."

Julia turned to the girl. "You won't say anything?"

"I? It's no affair of mine."

"I almost wish I had stayed. Somehow I don't like the idea of being on this yacht again."

Cintra gave her a curious glance. "So you feel it, too?" She looked out over the rail a moment. Then: "I must be right about it."

"Right about what?" asked Julia quickly. There was something in the girl's tone that frightened her. Something ominous and sure.

But at her question Cintra only laughed. "It's probably just the jitters. I've been feeling that our bad luck hasn't run out. I've a notion to get in my berth and stay there until we land."

"Do you think Mr. Nesbitt is all right?"

Cintra nodded. "He's very lucky—lucky that Nash drank so much last night that his aim was shaky."

Her words might have meant everything . . . or nothing; and something told Julia not to press her for an explanation.

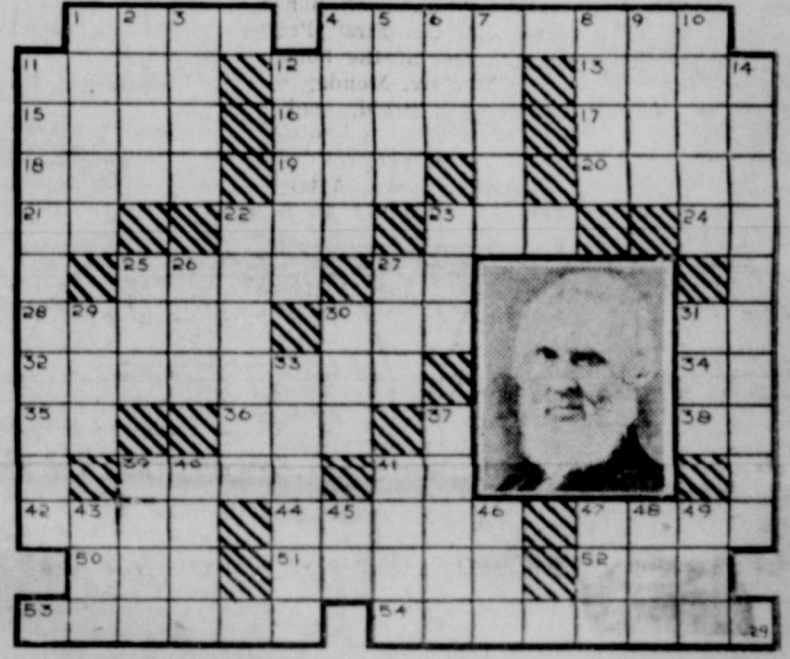

Obo served luncheon from his tray, seeking out the guests wherever they happened to be. Julia, who remained on the deck after Cintra had gone to her cabin, supposed that Woodford was attempting to avoid the strain and embarrassment of bringing them all together in the main cabin. She wondered if the whole cruise back to the city was to be like his. Almost afraid to move from her place, she consumed her sandwiches and coffee, then set the plate by her feet.

It wasn't long, however, before Woodford appeared. His mood seemed to have lightened, for he greeted her with a pleasant smile. As he sat down in the chair which Cintra had vacated, Julia caught a faint odor of whiskey. "Sorry to leave Evergreen Island?" he asked. "Well . . . I'll be sort of relieved to get back to town," she (Continued on Page 6)

Twenty Months Old, and You Still Can't Tell 'Em Apart

THE amazing good nature with which, one year ago, Cecile, lower photo, endured pommelings at the hands of her more vigorous sisters has evolved since into a bonny sense of humor. With a memory already working, Cecile now, top photo, displays the most marked individuality of all the babies. She's jolly, mischievous, impatient, and a bit of a coquet. When visitors are about, she invariably "plays up" to them.

THE Yvonne of a year ago, lower photo, was coquettish, with a flair for vain mannerisms. Today, as pictured at top, the flirtatiousness has vanished in thin air. In its place is an abundance of "pep," with no trace of the showoff. Without the slightest prompting, for instance, she'll pat-a-cake fervently for her visitors. In one way, though, Yvonne hasn't changed. She still retains her pudgy grip on the title, "biggest quin."

A YEAR ago, Emilie, as seen in lower photo, displayed a decided bent for mischief. Today, top photo, she is the most valorous of the quins—adventurous and brave almost to foolhardiness. None of the babies takes more quickly to a new toy or game than Emilie. Just a bit of a showoff, Emilie's constant activity and fearlessness characterize her as pluckiest of the quins. And a very accomplished—flirt, too, if you please!

IN one short year, the personality beginning to shape itself when starry-eyed Annette, as pictured in lower photo, was the mischief-maker of the nursery, has done a complete about-face. Now often called the prettiest, most appealing quin, she frequently looks so lonely that the nurses simply must cuddle and console her. And yet, at other times, the "new Annette," top picture, shows more initiative than any of her sisters.

STILL, smallest of the nursery, Marie, has grown less than a year ago. While she continues to draw into her cheeks, she is often social, too, she has developed the best will of the quins. Marie, her nurses as good as NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 29.—Four members of the Ed Meltabarger family were burned to death yesterday when fire swept their farm home near this city. Only two children of the family escaped from the flames. The dead are Meltabarger, his wife and two children, Charles, 2, and Barbara, 6 months.

SECOND MAN DIES

AMARILLO, Jan. 29.—Victor Carlucci, 24-year-old Los Angeles jewelry salesman, died here last night, the second victim of a shooting scrape at the Ko-Ko-Mo Club last Friday morning. J. E. told Woodford frankly. "I'm afraid I'm not very good at just—well, loafing."

Woodford laughed. "We'll both be back in the office soon enough, Julia. I'm dreadfully sorry, for your sake, that the trip turned out like this."

She did not answer at once. Then she told Woodford quietly that she didn't intend to resume her place as his secretary at Woodford and Brooks.

"When did you decide that?" he asked, astonished.

"A day or so ago."

"What's the reason? Not enough money—or have you decided to plunge right into this night club business?"

"I still intend to sing in a night club," Julia told him. "But I'm leaving Woodford and Brooks for—"

"Personal reasons?" interrupted Woodford, and laughed. He faced her squarely, leaning forward in his chair. "I think I know what you mean, Julia. And I think you're right about it, too. The truth is that I'm glad you're resigning. You see," he smiled, "I don't like the idea of making love to my secretary. Perhaps it's because these cartoonists make so much fun of men who do."

"I'm—I'm afraid I don't understand you."

"I think you do, Julia. All you have to do is decide whether you'll let me make love to you."

"I can make that decision very quickly, Mr. Woodford. It's no."

"I could still manage that interview with Smith Garland," he went on quietly. "And I wouldn't object to your having a career."

opportunity to develop along the right lines, and the constructive associations are well worth while, Mr. O'Neal stated. Boys are given the counsel and touch of prominent men in the community, he said. He concluded by calling on the Rotary members to assist in the furthering of Boy Scout work in Memphis, and stating that C. A. Clark, Scout executive for the Adobe Walls Area Council of Pampa, who was present at the meeting, would be available for aid in the Memphis Scout work.

At a called meeting of the Boys Work Committee of the club just after the luncheon, the sponsoring of a Boy Scout troop was discussed, and another meeting of the committee was called to meet soon.

SNOW COVERS PANHANDLE

By Associated Press

AMARILLO, Jan. 29.—Snow today blanketed the West Texas plains to a depth of several inches, and the weatherman expected all North Texas to be whitened tonight.

At Borger, Amarillo, Lubbock and other points it was snowing steadily this morning. The temperature was down to 15 degree. in the North Panhandle. Cold rain dampened the rest of the state, as the most severe weather since 1933 set in.

The cold may extend to the east coast by nightfall, the weather bureau said, and it is feared the increased severity of the cold may endanger many cattle and some crops.

of the same size in this section. Two buildings are to be constructed, both to be equipped with a steam heating system. The buildings, to be constructed on school property adjacent northeast to the present school, will be a new High school building and a Home Economics Department unit.

Both are to be of brick, the High school building to be of brick and tile and the Home Ec building to be of brick veneer. A brick water tower is to be built, equipped with a large windmill, over a well that has already been dug.

The present school plant will be converted into a grammar school.

INVESTIGATE KILLING

By Associated Press

JOILET, Ill., Jan. 29.—A sweeping investigation into sordid secrets of prison life was begun this morning, to uncover the full story behind the fatal slashing yesterday of Richard Loeb, "thrill murderer" of Bobby Franks in 1924.

The coroner's jury heard Dr. John Larson, prison psychiatrist, confirm in part the story of James Day, convict, that "indecent advances" by Loeb brought on Day's attack.

Larson said that "Day is sane but emotionally unstable, and had been apprehensive for several weeks about possible sex problems."

Day was formally charged with murder today.

No Bowling Last Night

The game scheduled last night in the local bowling league between the Outlaws and the Band was postponed, and will be played at a later date.

A game is scheduled for tonight between the V-Eights and the Merchants.

A meeting of the membership of the Memphis Bowling Association is also scheduled at the alleys tonight at 7:30 o'clock, at which all team captains are especially wanted to be present.

at the District Courtroom, where officers and a permanent district committee will be selected, who will be responsible for the organization and direction of the Boy Scout movement in Memphis and Hall County.

No citizen of Memphis needs to be convinced of the worth of this great movement for boys, and several local organizations are already planning to sponsor troops.

For the past several years the organization has been allowed to lapse in this city, and our boys have been deprived of the training and benefits which accrue from membership in the body.

the present crop. In Donley County, the present crop tops last year's production by a small margin. To January 16, Donley County had ginned 9,171 bales, compared to 7,019 bales to the same date last year.

A possible comeback, if the girl friend selecting from the menu begins to get out of hand, might be, "What's this, a Jackson Day dinner?"

The president's recent attack on money-changers may bring a situation in which a timid citizen, with only a $20 bill, can starve in a big city.

The men who are charged with the responsibility of directing and assisting farmers and ranchers of this section to prevent continued soil and crop damage, and to reclaim much of the land laid waste within the past few years attended the meeting with records on comprehensive surveys and experiments which proved conclusively that farm and pasture lands can be controlled with proper agricultural practices.

Reports heard at the initial session revealed that the human element is an important factor in solving one of the region's chief problems.

It was recommended at yesterday's meeting that terracing be done on the heavier textures of soil, and that on the light or textured soils where permanent contour markers are desired.

Terracing and contour farming save the water for production purposes where it falls, a report read, and it is important in distributing the rainfall evenly over a field where it is needed most for the maintenance of an adequate vegetative cover to prevent erosion.

APPROVE FARM BILL

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The Senate agricultural committee this morning approved the revised administration soil conservation bill, 14 to 2. Members said few changes had been made. The House agricultural committee is in recess.

SMITH REPLIES

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Replying sarcastically to Senator Robinson's speech of last night, Al Smith said this morning that "poor Joe" tried to "cloud the issue" and that Smith felt sorry for him.

He said that he would not reply to the contents of the speech, and that he was "unhappy" to hear Robinson read off a speech over which he stumbled. "I felt sure," said Smith, "that the speech was canned, and did not come from the heart of the Joe Robinson I had known."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE

THE secret of true hospitality, it seems to me, is in the sincerity of the invitation and the pleasure the hostess enjoys in entertaining her guests. If you find no joy in having friends for dinner then the atmosphere of your home will be far from hospitable. And if you feel that you must produce an elaborate dinner every time you entertain, you will naturally be under a nervous strain that will communicate itself to the guests.

It is absurd to attempt anything but the simplest menu without plenty of help in the kitchen. Only be sure of spotless linen, flowers, candlelight, gaiety and perfect cooking and a dinner of herbs would be a success.

Learn to Use Unusual Foods

If you live in a large city where you can get unusual foods, learn to cook and serve them for little dinners. If you live in a small town and are dependent on ordinary meats and vegetables, learn to cook and serve these commonplaces in unusual ways.

Here is a dinner menu that features guinea hen, which you can buy in market in the late winter months. Guinea is just as easy to cook as chicken.

- Cranberry Juice Cocktail
 - Breast of Guinea Hen
 - Lattice Potatoes
 - Mushrooms
 - Salad of Mixed Greens with French Dressing
 - Charlotte Russe
 - Coffee
- You can buy the cranberry juice or you can make your own the day before the party. Be sure to chill over night and all day. The only precaution to remember

Tomorrow's BREAKFAST: juice, cereal, cooked eggs, toast.

LUNCHEON: beans, brown radishes, apple cookies, milk.

DINNER: Swiss brown gravy, potatoes, buttered lettuce salad, milk, coffee.
