Cyclone Loses Championship Game To Clarendon

ARMISTICE DAY GRID CLASSIC HARD FIGHT

Locals Meet Defeat By Score Of 12-0; Fight To Finish

Approximately 3,000 football followers saw a fighting Memphis Cyclone go down in defeat Wednesday afternoon at Clarendon before the vaunted Clarendon High School Bronchos by a score of 12 to 0. The Armistice Day classic of Class "B" football was the best game witnessed in Section "A" this season, and the Memphis boys turned in their best game of the year.

Clarendon's first tally came in the first period. Memphis lost the toss and kicked to Clarendon. The Cyclone line held and Andis, Broncho field general, was forced to punt. Memphis, on three line smashes, made a first down, but were held on the next try. Several exchanges of punts and spectacular off tackle runs by Nichols, Clarendon fullback, gave the Bronchos the ball on Memphis' eight yard line. Three line plays carried the ball over for a touchdown. The try for extra point was missed.

Clifford Stewart punted out of danger. Clarendon punted 40 yards and Charles Flanery returned the ball 29 yards. The locals were penalized 25 yards for clipping, and a 25 yard pass and a four yard run was good for the (Continued on page 4)

Legion And Grid Boys Honored At Special Services

Two special services were conducted at the First Presbyterian church Sunday. The morning hour honored members of the Charles R. Simmons Post of the American Legion and the evening hour was devoted to a football sermon, honoring members of the Cyclone football squad. Dr. J. A. MacMillan, pastor of the church, preached two practical sermons that were genuinely appreciated by those present.

The morning subject, "The New Patriotism," was well developed. The minister contrasted patriotism as it existed in the days of 1917 and 1918 with that of the present. The evening topic, "First Down and Goal to Go," was a typical football sermon from start to finish. Football was compared with life and the comparisons drawn were gripping and vital.

Hoods of Chicago, entered the church auditorium from the vestry door and waited at the altar for the entrance of the bride, preceded by her matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. Jeffrey D. Hoy, from the door on the opposite side of the chancel, while Mrs. Meeker played the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March. The altar was attractively decorated with rosebuds and baskets of ferns centered with a five-point candelabra. Charles Lieberknecht, director of the church choir, sang, "At Dawning" by Cadman, and "O Promise Me," by De Koven. Following the reading of the service the bridal party left the church, going down the aisle to the front entrance.

A wedding reception was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Hoy, immediately following the reception the bridal couple left for a wedding trip into Wisconsin. The bride's wedding dress was of white and black angel satin with accessories conforming and she carried a bouquet of yellow rosebuds and baby's breath. The matron of honor wore wine colored silk with accessories in harmonizing effect and carried a bouquet of cream roses.

Ques.-Ans.

Q.—Why is it that most great men have exceptionally large feet? A.—To be a success in any line of endeavor, a good understanding and a firm foundation are the fundamental requirements.

Q.—Who is the possessor of the initials L. C. S.? A.—It is none other than that flashy half-back on the Cyclone squad, Lowell Cecil Stengel.

Q.—Will Santa Claus be good to Curtis Bourland this year? A.—We don't imagine he will, since he was a bad little boy and treated the Shamrock boys too rough and turned them flips in the air.

Q.—How is it that B. F. Shepherd is like Harpo Marx? A.—It is because he is always blowing his horn. Get it?

Q.—Is it true that Charles Flanery is a "woman hater"? A.—Well, we'll just tell you, we don't know, but you can ask him if he would like to be greeted at the end of a football game as the Shamrock girls did their players, and you can get all the low-down.

Q.—Have we any proof that there is such a thing as a "mission link"? A.—Yes, decidedly so, just take a good look (out of the corner of your eye) at Tug Sanders.

Q.—What profession does J. W. West expect to follow in later years? A.—Just as his initials indicate, "Just whistle."

Q.—Is it true that "Mo" Dixon is ultra-modest? A.—Who ever asked this question should know that he isn't, for he wears golf knickers and places his legs on exhibit before the critical eyes of the world.

Q.—Why does Tommie Boren always wear a ribbon around her hair? A.—Well, if you must know, you just try to ride in an "open job" without a ribbon around your flowing tresses and see how you feel.

Chapel Program Is Given At Jr. High Thursday Morning

One of the most interesting chapel programs of the year was presented during the assembly period last Thursday at the Junior High school under the direction of Mrs. Elmer S. Shelley. This is the first time during the school year Mrs. Shelley has presented a program before the student body at the Junior High school.

The first number on the program was a piano solo by Virginia Orr, which was followed by two vocal solos by Guthrie Bennett. Miss Hazel Delaney gave two short readings and Gayle Greene sang two popular numbers.

The program was closed with the student body singing the pep song, "Memphis Will Shine Tonight," with Mrs. Shelley directing and Miss Janice Miller at the piano. Arthur Howard was in charge of the program.

H. J. Gore, principal of the high school, introduced the speaker and made several announcements.

INDIGESTION

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest. I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted. Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."

laugh them off even at their own expense.

Punning and wisecracking may have a place in the world, but it should be relatively small. If the perpetrator finds moments of lucid thought from following the practice, if a wisecrack or pun elicit a generous and not practiced laugh, the author should give thanks there are other folk like him. The experience should prove a "strange interlude" for him, in which to meditate, cogitate, deliberate and finally expectorate on the folly of any one attempting to pan the practice, for of a certainty, I am as guilty as the rest.

other Clarendon score. The third period was played on even terms with both teams making several first downs, but neither getting within striking distance of the other's goal line. The last half was an exchange of punts, with Stewart outdistancing Andis. Late in the game, Jack Norman and Gordian Walker went into the Cyclone lineup and attempted several passes, one being good. The game ended with the Clarendon line holding and the ball going over to them deep in their territory.

George May Stars
George May and Nichols were the outstanding offensive players of the game while Ronald Melton and Pete Morris, Clarendon guard, were the best defensive players. May, carrying the brunt of the Cyclone attack, played the best game of his football career. Nichols was very good. His line smashes went for long gains and his defensive work was outstanding. Melton, on the defense, held the Clarendon end runs at bay, playing a very commendable game. Morris broke up play after play of the Cyclone. Both lines held exceptionally well with both touchdowns being made possible via the aerial route.

Sourland Outstanding
Captain Curtis Sourland, playing his last interscholastic game, closed his several years of brilliant playing, by turning in a spectacular performance. His defensive work was great and he led his teammates in a flawless fashion. He will be missed when the Cyclone team lines up next fall, and it will not be surprising to see his name listed on the all-star team, if one is chosen.

Charles Flanery called a good game at quarter. Besides directing the team in a fine fashion, he made several long gains that brought the stands to their feet. Leslie and Stargel played outstanding ball.

Stewart Punt Well
Clifford Stewart was strong on the defense and got off several long punts. He outdistanced the Clarendon kickers most of the game. West, Shepherd, Bagwell, Sanders and others did their part well.

Memphis made 11 first downs while Clarendon made 12. Memphis punted 14 times for an average of 34 yards while the Ironchoes kicked 13 times, averaging 34 yards. The Cyclone threw nine passes with one being completed; five incomplete; and three intercepted. Clarendon threw the ball nine times, completing three passes; four were incomplete; three times. Clarendon had one punt blocked. The Cyclone was penalized four times for 40 yards to Clarendon's six times for 50 yards.

Starting Lineups
The starting lineups were: Memphis, West and Sanders, ends; Melton and Stewart, tackles; Shepherd and Bagwell, guards; Sourland, center; Flanery, quarterback; Leslie and Stargel, halves; May, fullback. Clarendon, T. Watson and Martin, ends; Brennan and Easterling, tackles; Morris and Benson, guards; McMahon, center; Andis, quarterback; Reid and E. Watson, halves; Nichols, fullback.

Memphis substitutions were: Norman for Flanery; Walker for Leslie; Oren for May and Sittion for Bagwell. Officials: Vaughn (Simmons) referee; Sheid (Baylor) umpire, and Walker (T. C. U.) head linesman.

Judge Sam Bryant Clarifies Act Of State Legislature

Representative Sam A. Bryant has issued the following statement: "It has been published as coming from a member of the Attorney General's office that under the cotton acreage reduction law passed by the second called session of the Legislature, cotton could not be planted in 1932 on land cultivated in cotton in 1931. I feel that there is a mistake somewhere, either in the quotation or that the law was not carefully digested. "The Act intended to, and I think does, outline but two things: one is to reduce the cotton acreage to 50 percent of the land in cultivation on any tract of land in 1932 and thereafter and the other is to prevent planting cotton on the same land in two successive years, but is not made mandatory until the 1932 crop, 'making it unlawful to plant said product in 1933 on the same land upon which said crops were planted in 1932 and THEREAFTER making it unlawful to plant said crops on same land two years in succession'."

The purpose of the plan, as outlined by officials of the local company, is to secure a wider ownership of the parent company, particularly among customers of the local companies. The stock is being distributed exclusively through local employees.

Mrs. Henderson Smith Discusses Plans Of Junior High School Library Group

The chief project this year of the Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association is parent education, according to Mrs. J. Henderson Smith, president. Through well planned programs it is hoped that members will be aided in creating home and community experiences for the children which will enable them to make wholesome and happy adjustments both as individuals and as members of families and communities, she said.

Thursday, November 19, at three p. m. in the Junior High School auditorium, a good speaker will talk on the importance of good books in the lives of growing boys and girls, Mrs. Smith said.

Parents Could Help
"Parents should know more about the books our children read," Mrs. Smith said, "and we may be disconcerted at the mounting numbers of sensational serials and low level magazines. But they can keep their children from poor literature and expose them to good reading that should make wholesome interests more attractive."

"Every argument for education is an argument for reading since reading is the most universal tool of education. Reading is in itself, an enriched life. Some years ago, a leading agricultural paper, in trying to advance the economic condition of the South, used constantly to repeat, 'A reading people is a leading people. Let me choose the pleasure books of a people and I will do more toward shaping their lives and destinies than the makers of their laws and of their textbooks.'"

Likes Motto
"We shall do well to adopt the motto of the American Library Association: 'The best reading for the largest number at the least cost.'"

The reading habit should be the major objective of the school and the library is an indispensable part of the apparatus of education, second in importance to the school alone, Mrs. Smith pointed out. "If boys and girls are to read intelligently, we must give them the information which will serve as the foundation of intelligence, and because of the scarcity of much needed books in the Junior High School library, a book show has been planned for this meeting and all who will be asked to contribute a book, money, or good magazines," Mrs. Smith said. Every one is invited to attend the meeting.

City and county officers made four arrests in Memphis Saturday. Two youths were arrested in the city early Saturday night and charged with drunkenness filed against them. One of the boys attempted to evade arrest by fighting with Wesley J. Manum, night watchman, it was said. A young man was arrested Saturday night and charged with drunkenness. He made bond and was released Sunday morning, officers stated.

Stir the mixture when the mixture thickens, stir in the crisp salt pork and add more if needed and the pepper. Serve on crisp toast.

Legion Is Treated To War Songfest By Local Artists

A spirit of hilarity and good fellowship pervaded the Legion Home Tuesday night as some forty ex-service men began the celebration of Armistice Day. A musical program was presented under the direction of Mrs. Elmer S. Shelley, bringing into the fore again songs popular during the period of the war.

Those taking part on the program, directed by Mrs. Shelley, were Mesdames Maynard H. Drake, Mac Tarver, Forrest Power, and Messrs. Thos. E. Noel, Omer Johnsey, Harry Delaney, David Fitzgerald and Harold F. Miller, a member of the American Legion post at Waterloo, Iowa, and Miss Annie Laurie Carter, well known dancer.

The program was as follows: "Keep the Home Fires Burning," an Ensemble number; solo, "Rose of No Man's Land," David Fitzgerald, and encore, "I Don't Want to Get Well," two dance numbers, "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag," and "Peggy O'Neil," Miss Annie Laurie Carter; quartette, "Long, Long Trail," Messrs. Noel, Johnsey, Delaney and Fitzgerald; encores, "How You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm," and "Long Boy," solo, "Joan of Arc," Mrs. Maynard H. Drake; encore, "Alsace-Lorraine," duet, "Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight," Thos. E. Noel and Harry Delaney; solo, "Sunshine of Your Smile," Harold F. Miller; encore, "Somewhere in France," Ensemble numbers, "Over There," "Peggy O'Neil," "Let the Rest of the World Go By," "K-K-K-Katy," "Smiles," and "Till We Meet Again."

On behalf of the Legion post, Commander R. C. Householder thanked those who had taken part on the program, and invited them to be guests of the Legion at the "army feed" which was to follow. This feed proved ample and thoroughly enjoyable. It was served army style, and consisted of fine barbecued meat, pickles, bread, potato chips, onions and coffee.

After the feed, the Legion boys set off black powder and recalled army days until a late hour—or probably an early hour would be more correct.

TIME TO DO SOMETHING

JAPAN, a small but ambitious and aggressive militaristic nation, occupies before the world the unenviable position of the proverbial bull in the china shop. She is on a rampage in China with no immediate intentions of slowing down.

The League of Nations has done its utmost to induce the Japanese government to withdraw its troops from recently occupied Chinese territory, and in this, the League has been supported by the Washington government. But in violation of the League covenants, to all of which the Japanese are signatories, and of the Kellogg-Briand pact, to which the Japanese are pledged, Japanese armies remain in unauthorized Chinese territory with no apparent intention of retiring.

Before adjourning, the League council, through some of its members, made a veiled threat of an economic blockade of Japanese ports if the latter's troops are not withdrawn by the time the council meets again on November 16. But the Japanese are standing firm and exhibiting a defiant attitude, with no indicated intentions of respecting their pledged word to the League and to the Governments of the United States and France, through the Kellogg-Briand pact.

To a layman, there would seem to remain only one course to pursue. If the Japanese troops remain in unauthorized Chinese territory on November 16, the League should send warships of its member nations to blockade every Japanese port until the Japs come to their senses. A continuation of the present status can mean but one thing—another great and devastating war of nations—a war that the world does not want and humanity cannot sanction.

POLITICS, OR EATS?

PRESIDENTS are never hungry. They have plenty to eat. Many of those who help elect them are often hungry. They have very little to eat. Political parties raise millions of dollars for the purpose of electing their man president. At every election much of that money is wasted—the candidate of the contributors is defeated. And when the other fellow gets in, every one who contributed to his fund expects to receive something in return. Some would be cabinet officers, or ambassadors, or judges, or high officials of this, that or the other. Others are more humble and would be satisfied to annex any old kind of a job with a pay envelope attached.

But they want something, and there is a mighty grouch if they don't get it. Perhaps, that accounts for much of the sour discontent we see in our country every four years. There are more dollars spent in electing a president than there are jobs to hand around in return for votes.

Why spend all this money, any way? Wouldn't it be just as well to nominate a man and then simply leave the people to do their own thinking and voting? Is all this money spent in buying votes? If so, it is criminal. Is it spent in telling people how to vote? If so, it is money wasted.

ANOTHER NOTED BILL

WE have had our Wild Bills, our Buffalo Bills, our Pawnee Bills and numerous other Bills, all of whom made history during their spectacular careers in the wild and woolly west of former days. But the West is no longer wild and woolly. Its civilization and observance or law and order are equal to that of any other section in all of the country or of the world. It yields precedence to no other section in all that is finest and best in life.

And as the wilderness disappeared, and wool was transformed into the finest of silk, and the Bills ascended upon high to receive their rewards, we entered upon an era of Tom, Dick and Harry. But another Bill has arisen to give us thrills, to serve as another topic of conversation, a Bill who is fast becoming as famous as those who trod the six gun trail in the olden days. We refer to Alfalfa Bill Murray, Governor of Oklahoma.

When Alfalfa reared up on his gubernatorial legs and threatened to close the oil wells of his state in order to force an increase in the price of crude oil, the country smiled. Some laughed; others snickered. To many, it was a huge, bombastic joke. A big undertaking it was, but there was no bombast, Alfalfa Bill did exactly as he threatened to do and he did it with the guns of the Oklahoma National Guard. The great oil companies were brought to their knees; the price went up and more gold is flowing into Oklahoma as the result of Alfalfa Bill's nerve and statesmanship.

But that is not all. In the matter of the toll bridge dispute between Texas and Oklahoma, Alfalfa Bill scored again. He sent a detachment of the Oklahoma National Guard to look after Oklahoma's interests and they were looked after.

Now, a number of Oklahoma Democrats are in favor of transferring Murray from the office of Governor of Oklahoma to the Presidency of the United States, and the redoubtable Alfalfa Bill is getting reams of publicity in the country's greatest papers that would cost him millions of dollars if paid for at space rates. We do not take the boom for the Oklahoman seriously, but whenever Alfalfa Bill gets on a rampage, his apparent rugged honesty and determination have an appeal not easily turned aside.

PREMIERS ON THE VISITING LIST

NOW that Premier Laval of France has been to this country and has returned to France, comes the announcement that the next distinguished visitor is to be Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy, with the chance that he will be followed by Chancellor Bruening of Germany. Following the German statesman, there will be a regular procession of them—all wanting something from poor old Uncle Sam.

Uncle is a patient individual, and at times, soft-hearted and susceptible to flattery, but if he gives the visitors free meals and a good time while they are here, that is about enough for him to cough up. The trouble with our Uncle is that he has done too much coughing in the past.
