LIGHT DOCKET FOR JANUARY COURT TERM

Setting of Cases Occupies Time This Morning

An unusually light docket is scheduled for the January term of Hall county court which was called this morning by County Judge Jim Vallance.

Unless additional cases are filed before the close of the term, it is likely that no criminal cases will be heard, Judge Vallance said this morning. No new criminal cases and no new jury civil cases have been filed since the last term of court.

The setting of cases occupied the time of the court this morning, with the appearance docket scheduled to be called by Judge Vallance tomorrow. Six new cases have been filed on the appearance docket, in addition to the cases that have been continued.

Jury cases will be called next week, Judge Vallance said.

POLICE BELIEVE NET CLOSING ON KARPIS

Warning Is Sent to Atlantic City Clothiers

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 21.—Strengthening the net that they are confident they have cast about Alvin Karpis, public enemy number one, the police today asked that a warning be broadcast to clothing stores to be on the lookout for men seeking to purchase apparel.

Karpis is wanted as the co-leader of the Bremer kidnap gang. He and his companion, Harry Campbell, shot their way out of a police trap yesterday.

Authorities are certain the men are bottled up in Atlantic City, which is connected with the mainland only by three highway bridges heavily guarded.

Karpis was clad in slippers, trousers and an overcoat, and Campbell in underwear, slippers and an overcoat when they escaped after police sought to arrest Karpis for an automobile theft. Campbell stole another car and drove away with Karpis firing a machine gun at the officers from the tonneau.

Head League for War on Huey

Ernest Bourgeois

Heading the Square Deal Association, formed with the view to end the dictatorship of Huey Long in Louisiana, are Ernest Bourgeois, president, and Chester P. St. Amant, treasurer, who have called on Louisiana communities to form companies of the association and "start drilling along military lines until the time comes to strike." Local organizations are being formed in all parts of the state for the conflict, many of them with women's auxiliaries.

Woman Says Fisch Used Name 'John'

ASKS MISTRIAL

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 21.—The defense counsel moved for a mistrial in the case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann today, after Attorney General David T. Wilentz referred to purchase of aviation stock by Hauptmann. Justice Trenchard denied the motion.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Mrs. Curt Schwartz, Bronx housewife, said today that Isador Fisch was known as "John" during a trans-Atlantic crossing after the kidnaping.

"John" was the name taken by man who collected the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom, a part imputed to Fisch by Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense.

"My husband and I sailed with him on the steamship Washington when he went home to Leipzig to die," Mrs. Schwartz said. "He always gave us the name of 'John' on the ship. He wrote us two (Continued on Page 4)

ROCKET TRAINS GET DOWN TO BUSINESS

Zephyr and Others Prove Worth on Regular Runs

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 21.—Circus days are over for the silver and gold streamlined trains, and here the much-publicized rail rockets are down to the serious business of proving they have what it takes.

No cheering crowds line the Burlington's track from Kansas City to Lincoln, Neb., as they did from Denver to Chicago when the Silver Zephyr made its flashing 13-hour and 5-minute run last Spring, but the Zephyr is doing what President Ralph Budd believed it would when he ordered it built.

H. F. Jones, Kansas City general passenger agent for the Burlington, said that, in the first month of operation the Zephyr more than doubled business on the Kansas City-Lincoln line.

"Some of the passengers undoubtedly came from our competitors," he said. "Some of them surely came from the buses, but most of them we are certain, came from private automobiles."

Another Car Added
"The Zephyr now is a three-car articulated unit but we have found it necessary to order another car built for insertion into the train, raising its capacity from 72 to 115 passengers."

Two more of the trains are being built.

The Union Pacific, which placed America's first streamlined train on the rails, will put it into regular passenger service the last of the month between Kansas City and Salina, Kan. The "Streamliner," as it is called, will make a 3 1/2-hour trip over the 187 miles twice each day, making stops at the principal cities between the two terminals.

A favorable hearing was given by the Texas Highway Commission to a Hall county delegation Friday when plans and estimates were submitted on a proposed highway from Clarendon to Turkey as a part of a proposed international road through the state from the Oklahoma state line to the Mexican border.

County Judge Jim Vallance and members of the Hall county commissioners' court were accompanied to Austin Friday by members of the Donley county court to present plans for the proposed road. Representatives were also present from practically every town and city on the proposed route for state line to border, Judge Vallance said.

To Discuss Plans
W. R. Ely, of Abilene, commissioner for the past six years, told the Panhandle group that "he was committed to the designation of the highway and would discuss the matter with the other commissioners."

This statement by the veteran road commissioner was made in the face of a previous statement that "funds for roads other than federal aid projects apparently will be scarcer this year than at any other time since I have been on the commission."

The delegation appearing before the body in the interest of the Panhandle-to-Border route numbered almost 50 persons. Opening of the stretch in Donley and Hall counties is the only missing link in the proposed route, it was stated.

36 Mile Route

Recent engineer estimates have set the cost of opening the road in Hall and Donley county at $586,042. The road from Clarendon to Turkey would be 36 miles in length, with 22 1/2 miles of the stretch in Hall county and the balance in Donley county. Hall county laborers will be used on the road building program in this county if approved by the commission, and Donley county laborers for the construction work in Donley county, Judge Vallance said this morning.

Members of the Hall county commissioners' court who accompanied Judge Vallance to Austin were Cloyd Messer, Roy Russell and A. R. McMaster.

Jailer Locked Up As Five Men Flee

GEORGETOWN, Jan. 21.—Five prisoners escaped from Williamson county's jail yesterday while Jailer Andy Pickle was feeding the other prisoners. One of the fugitives, Louis Cernoch, held in the slaying of two Granger, Texas, officials, later was recaptured in San Gabriel Park by Sheriff Louis Love. The others who escaped were Lloyd Fulton and Gene Anderson, wanted for the burglary of a Liberty Hill store; E. E. Carter, wanted for forgery; and Nathan Sheller.

Cernoch and his cellmate had saved three bars in front of their cell. When Pickle entered the dining room adjoining their cell they crawled through the opening and locked up Pickle.

Lost—Man and Five Sons in Memphis Area

Does anyone know of the whereabouts of C. H. Brooks? He is supposed to live on a farm, with his five boys, somewhere near Memphis, according to Gano Lewis, of Keams, who is trying to locate him.

According to Lewis, he has written Mr. Brooks several letters but got them all back. He is anxious to find Mr. Brooks. Information should be sent to Mr. Lewis at Koron, Route 2.

WHAT REALLY COUNTS

HENRY FORD is one of those men whom you're pretty apt to feel strongly about. Either you are one of the many who feel he is a great industrialist and a great man, or you are one of those who feel he is a man whom fortune has advanced beyond his actual talents and deserts.

Lots of people didn't like Ford's defiance of the NRA, didn't like his attitude that his plant must be an exception. And some liked him all the better for that. In the same way, opinion divides on his attitude toward organized labor.

But neither partisans nor enemies can quite laugh this off: That today in his River Rouge works there are 70,000 men at work, more than at any other time since 1929. Addition of 10,000 more men since his new models were announced has stepped up his production to a 3000-a-day pace, and he may soon achieve 5000.

If more employers could show a similar employment record, there would be a less precarious situation confronting us today.

RELIEF FROM RELIEF

IN a little story from London, fight is thrown on just what the relief problem means—and what patience is going to be required to work it out.

In London, one Frederick Head, unemployed father of five children, was sentenced to one month at hard labor for refusing to learn a trade in the government training classes. The new British regulations provide that a relief beneficiary must show that he has made an honest effort to get work.

But the interesting part of it is that Head had been drawing about $8.50 in relief ever since 1923. For 12 years, the public had paid this man in cash because it had been unable to give him a chance to work. And after 12 years of that, Head refused to go to the trade school because he said it was "a waste of time."

It is to avoid this sort of thing that an effort is now being made to substitute work for handouts in this country.

Lowly Sotol Plant Being Used as Feed

PECOS, Jan. 21.—The lowly sotol plant, which for centuries has waved a lonely greeting to the wayfarer across the desert country is proving a savior to ranchmen of this section.

Machines to chop the weed are being installed and cattle fed from it. Millions of the plant grow wild in this section.

A sotol chopped is being used on the W. L. Kingston ranch near Balmorhea and the feed sold for $6.50 a ton to neighbors. C. O. Finley has a chopper in operation at Pecos, feeding a large number of cattle with sotol.

BEGIN HERE TODAY ANN HOLLISTER breaks her engagement to TONY MICKLE the same day that PETER KENDALL tells VALERIA BENNETT, his fiancée, that everything is over between them. Ann thinks she still loves Tony and Peter believes he still cares for Valeria, but when chance brings the two together and Peter asks Ann to marry him she agrees.

They go to Florida and are happy there. Then Peter is recalled home. His family snubs Ann and Valeria tries to make trouble between Ann and Peter. She succeeds finally and Ann goes away, leaving no trace of her whereabouts.

She is hired as governess for the children of MRS. TRACY, an artist. ALLAN VINCENT, Mrs. Tracy's brother, is attentive to Ann. Through him Ann learns that Peter is furnishing a house. Convinced that he plans to divorce her and marry Valeria, Ann leaves the Tracys.

She goes to work in a book store. One rainy night she meets Allan and he persuades her to drive home with him for dinner. After she is in the car she realizes he has been drinking. They reach the Tracy home and Allan admits his sister is away. Ann realizes she has been tricked. Frightened, she plans to escape. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIV In the kitchen Allan was making progress slowly. He smiled as he bent over the stove and moved uncertainly about the room. Ann was a little wretched, he thought, masking an entirely different personality under her nun-like attitude.

A plate slipped from his nervous fingers and crashed to the floor. He called, "Guess you'd better help me dish up. I'm breaking all the china." There was no answer. He waited a moment and called again. "Say, Ann, you never did have that cocktail. Want one now?" Still no answer. At the same moment he felt a rush of cold air. A door must be open. A door—

Allan ran to the hall. A black expense met his bewildered gaze. The front door was wide. He saw fresh branches swaying near the porch. His hands felt for the switch. He cursed softly. So that was why she had wanted supper! Well, she couldn't get far with this game. A quick survey convinced him that Ann was really gone. He would find her, he thought furiously. It would have been better for her if she hadn't played him a trick like this. It would be only a matter of minutes before his car would cover the distance and he would bring her back.

Ann, crouched behind tall shrubbery near the sun porch, heard him driving away. As soon as the sound of the motor died she opened the door, removed her wet coat and hat, nutting them on a chair in the hall and called a taxi company. "I want a cab sent in a hurry to the Ingle-side section. You know where it is?" "Sure, lady. What street?" "No. 44 Cherry Circle. Write

Ann, spreading the cloth, smiled at him. "There's nothing to hurry about and I like the table to look nice."

There was the taxi coming up the drive. Allan had not heard it. His head had dropped to his arms, on the table. "I forgot the silver. Will you please get some?" He got to his feet and staggered into the dining room. "For heaven's sake, Ann—"

She flew to the front door, grabbing her hat and coat on the way. The driver had reached the door. In another moment he would have pressed the bell. He helped Ann into the cab, got in himself and turned on the ignition.

They were driving away when Allan rushed to the porch. "Ann!" he shouted. "Drive on, please," Ann said. "Don't stop."

Now that her frightful suspense was behind her she leaned back against the seat, shivering in her wet garments, tears pouring down her cheeks. The driver guessed that this girl had quarreled with the fellow who yelled at them. Perhaps he was her husband. Women were always running away from their husbands. There was the girl who had run away from that young millionaire, Peter Kendall.

The taxi driver hadn't believed the story until the detective who had questioned him told him there'd be a fat sum in it if he could locate the girl. The detective had tipped him liberally, too, for the information he had given—about dropping the girl at the restaurant for breakfast. The cab driver never had heard whether or not they had found the girl. If she was the wife of a millionaire, she probably had gone back to him.

He had not seen this girl's face. She had opened the door and rushed out on the porch just as he reached the door. She had not waited to put her coat and hat on, but had run to the car. Women were certainly queer.

There had been something about her that seemed familiar. He didn't quite know what it was. She was crying now. He could hear muffled sobs. Probably she regretted running off from her husband and would be telling him in a moment to take her back. He shrugged. Well, it was all in the night.

The taxi sped along through the darkness, rain beating fiercely against the windows. The driver leaned back, turning his head slightly. "Where to, miss?"

After a moment the girl answered in a husky tone. "Do you know where Roland street is?" Roland street. He had to think a moment. "It's on the east side of town."

He remembered now. It was an old street filled with cheap brick apartment buildings. "I think I know where it is." Ann couldn't bear going back to the dreary, lonely apartment just then. Sheila was out with Jimmy. It would be several hours before she returned. She felt faint at the thought of the place. Maybe she would feel better if she stopped at the drug store on the corner and had some hot chocolate.

The taxi was nearing Roland street. "Please let me out at the

Cyclone Invasion Of Wellington Is Postponed Today

Coach Arthur Howard's Cyclone cagers will remain idle early this week, having postponed until an unannounced date the club's return engagement to Wellington, because of cold weather.

The Wellington mentor called this morning and released the Cyclone from its agreement to play there tonight, saving the club a cold, rough trip.

Meanwhile, Coach Howard is still attempting to schedule games for this week-end here, but because of tournaments over the section, thus far has had no success. If possible, he will arrange a game for Thursday night.

With no tilt early this week and perhaps none at all, the Cyclone will settle down today for some long, hard drills that will center around offensive work.

Such phases of the game as blocking for goal-shooters, a rather difficult job because of rules governing such action being so severe, quick breaks on offense and new offensive formations will receive a great deal of attention, on which number of the players are still needing some hard work.

The drills probably will see Chester Grimes working at center a great deal and with Malone and Walker, rapidly improving subs, seeing a great deal of action on the first five, as Howard seeks a stronger combination.

The Cyclone has gone through two weeks of play and is still seeking its first victory. The second stringers are one up on the regulars having broken into the win column against the Lakeview seconds last week. The regulars have lost four straight decisions.

However, the team is not worried greatly about this, although the lads are working hard to improve the situation. They already have shown such a marked improvement since opening the season and starting from scratch, that the record of no victories is not considered as bad as it sounds.

Board of County Schools To Meet Here Wednesday

A Hall county school board meeting has been called for Wednesday morning, President H. W. Kuhn announced this morning. The meeting will be held at 9:30 o'clock in the county superintendent's office.

Mr. Kuhn stated that this will be an important meeting and urged each member to be present. Applications for changes in bus routes will be considered by the board, and several trustees will be appointed.

"Anyone having problems pertaining to schools in the county should come before the board at this meeting," Mr. Kuhn stated.

'Lending Library' Is Installed by Meacham Drug Co.

More than 90 volumes representing almost every type of fiction are included in the new "Lending Library" installed last week-end by the Meacham Pharmacy.

The books are loaned to regular patrons without deposits of membership fees at three cents per day, with a 10 cent minimum charge.

"If we do not have the particular type of book that is desired, we can get it within a few days, making it possible to supply practically every type of book desired," Mr. Meacham said this morning.

Application for Corn-Hog Papers May Be Made Now

Applications for 1935 corn-hog contracts may be made immediately with County Agent James A. Jackson, it was announced this morning following a meeting of the Hall County Corn-Hog association.

The contracts provide for a payment of $15 per head on 10 percent of the adjusted 1932-23 average hog production and a payment of 35 cents per bushel on the adjusted corn year on land retired from corn production.

Payment this year on hogs will amount to two-fifths of the 1934 payments and will total approximately $8,000 the committee announced.

Those who wish to make 1935 contracts are urged to see the county agent at an early date, it was stated.

School Heads Go to Abilene in Interest Of Adult Education

Miss Vera Gilreath, county school superintendent, and H. B. O'Neal, superintendent of schools at Lakeview, left Sunday for Abilene for a conference with W. C. Darnell, district state supervisor of adult education in West Texas.

Announcements of reappointment of Hall county teachers of adult education classes by the state board of adult education will be made the first of this week, Miss Gilreath said Saturday.

Mrs. Park C. Bolton of Quitaque is here spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Bradley.

By Associated Press FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 21.—William E. Frank, government accountant, testified today that Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann's assets swelled $44,486 after the futile $50,000 ransom was paid for baby Charles A. Lindbergh.

The state announced that it is ready to refute further attempts of the defense to implicate the dead German furrier, Isador Fisch, in the kidnaping, murder or collection of the ransom.

Albert D. Kurtz, New York attorney and prosecutor, said he has the diary showing that he and Fisch were together on the day of the kidnaping.

Hauptmann claimed on arrest that $14,600 of the ransom money found in his garage were given him for safe keeping by Fisch.

New Locomotive Planned The Santa Fe, which long has boasted of the speed and comfort of its trains between Chicago and the Pacific Coast, is working on a 3,600-horsepower Diesel locomotive which will pull an even larger "Chief" at a maximum speed of 98 miles an hour.

The Chicago and Northwestern, disdaining experiment in Diesel engines, has altered its present equipment and produced a train, the "400," which regularly runs 85 miles from Chicago to Milwaukee in 80 minutes, carrying ordinary coaches. The Northwestern's alteration of its locomotives consisted merely of substituting oil for coal and increasing the size of the drive-wheels.

The New York Central's "Commodore Vanderbilt," recently tested, is a streamlined steam train for which great speed and power is forecast.

Nor is all railroading done on rails in this, the new American railroad age. Almost every line operates buses, some as feeders, some as substitutes for slow local trains, some as competitors to other rail lines and some as substitutes for needed new construction.

REVIEWS OF CURRENT MOTION PICTURES

PALACE Comedy, drama and music—offered by one of the collection of stage, screen and radio stars ever seen together—feature the most unusual entertainment to come to the Palace theatre in many months. The production, which opened last night, is Universal's "Gift of Gab."

The story of "Gift of Gab" concerns itself with the rise of Edmund Lowe from a auctioneer to the foremost broadcasting announcer and reporter in America. Lowe and Gloria Stuart, blonde and more beautiful than ever, furnish plenty of thrills as he rises and falls and the way to the top.

Music is given to the audience by Ruth Etting, Ethel Waters, Phil Baker, Gene Austin, the Beale Street Boys, the Downey Sisters and Gus Arnheim and his band. Satire is presented during a radio broadcast by a mock murder mystery in which Bela Lugosi, Karloff, June Knight, Binnie Barnes, Chester Morris, Douglass Montgomery, Paul Lukas and Roger Pryor display their talents.
