

HELEN'S REWARD

A STORY BY LOCAL TALENT

SYNOPSIS

Helen Walters whose worthless brother has spent a small fortune left Helen by her parents, spurns the attentions of one, Melton Elton. Helen's brother, Franklin, borrows money with which to gamble from Elton. Franklin loses the entire $25,000 borrowed from Elton on a polo game. In the course of events, Franklin reveals to Helen that he has mortgaged their home to Elton and has promised Elton that if he can not pay, he will persuade his lovely sister, Helen, to marry Elton whom she utterly abhors. When Franklin approaches Helen on the subject of marriage to Elton, she admits that she must treat him nicely since he holds a mortgage to their last piece of property, but she declares that she will never marry Elton.

After many unsuccessful attempts to find a job, Helen finally gets work; but her brother, Franklin, is the cause of her being discharged. After consistently nagging at Helen, Franklin forces Helen into a promise to marry Elton.

Now on with the story

CHAPTER V

At these last submissive words—hardly before they were said—Franklin was gone.

Melton and Franklin came to the house at eight o'clock. Both men were perfectly sane for the first time in months.

They found Helen in the living room, reading the "June Issue." Franklin retired to his room, suggestively leaving Helen and Melton together.

"Shall we go out?" Melton asked. "I'd rather not," Helen replied in a tired voice.

"Then what shall we do?" "Switch on the radio. We'll just rest and talk," Helen suggested.

The radio was tuned in. Helen sat at one end of the divan; Melton at the other.

After a brief period of silence, Melton began, "Helen, darling, I love you—I want you—" He paused. Helen hesitated. The tone of Melton's voice did not sound sincere to her.

"You are beautiful," he added. "Won't you let me take you out of your troubles? I can make you happy." "But I don't love you," Helen protested coolly.

"You will learn to love me," Melton pleaded.

"Mr. Elton," Helen spoke slowly and coolly—she did not feel like herself—"I will marry you, if—I if you will make me a few promises."

"What are they?" asked Melton curiously.

"First," began Helen, "you must promise never to drink again." Melton seemed about to interrupt.

"Wait," continued Helen; "you must promise to stop exerting a demoralizing influence upon my brother. You must promise to be—to be—a good fellow."

"I'll do my best," declared Melton, shaking his head doubtfully. He seemed none to eager to promise, but he repeated, "I'll do my best."

"What is your date?" Helen asked in a tone that was more appropriate for a business transaction than a marriage proposal.

"What are your plans?" asked Melton, courteously.

"I have none."

"Shall we have a church wedding?" Melton inquired. Helen shook her head slowly, negatively.

Without looking up Helen continued shaking her head negatively. She had no desire for a public wedding under the circumstances; neither did she desire to be married in the home-town which she had once loved. Now she hated it—not that it had harmed her, but because it had been the setting of all her recent sorrow.

"Then we will go to New Mexico on the twentieth of next month. That is my most convenient date," Melton explained, "and we will be married in the first county seat across the line. We can go anywhere and everywhere on our honeymoon."

This was acceptable to Helen. Anything was acceptable to her now. She seemed to care for nothing, and nothing seemed to matter.

"You must go now and let me rest," she commanded.

Melton complied sullenly. He called Franklin, and the two left together. As soon as they were gone, Helen ran to Jennie for comfort. As she related all that had taken place, both she and Jennie wept.

That was the middle of November. The rest of the month and part of December passed quickly—too quickly so Helen thought. She spent most of her time preparing her clothes for that dreadful honeymoon as she termed it; but she would make the most of it, so she told Jennie.

Melton came every night. True to his promise, so far as Helen knew, he was always sober. He never came to the house intoxicated.

On the evening of December the nineteenth, there was a phone call. "What could it mean," thought Helen, when Jennie announced that the call was for her.

"Dearest," said the voice at the other end of the line, "I'll be out at town tonight. I'll call for you at six o'clock in the morning."

The voice had sounded strangely to Helen, but she gave it little heed.

"Probably drunk again," she thought disgustedly.

Franklin did not come in that night. Helen was up early next morning. She had everything in readiness for the departure by five-thirty.

At five until six, Elton drove up to the house. He seemed more handsome than Helen had ever seen him to be. He was dressed neatly in a dark-grey traveling suit. His complexion was ruddier than usual.

"He has actually shaved that horrid mustache," Helen whispered to Jennie who was helping to get her valises ready.

Elton was unusually polite to Helen. He refused flatly to let her carry any of the valises. He very gracefully helped her into the car.

They were off. Frank sends word that he is with friends," Elton said.

"As usual," Helen replied.

Elton's voice had a strangely different sound to Helen. "Probably because he hasn't been drinking so much lately," she thought, and then remarked aloud, "I am very glad that you have kept your promise about drinking, Mr. Elton."

"Oh, I never—" he stopped short. "I am doing my best."

They sped on toward New Mexico. "You are very handsome indeed, today, Mr. Elton," Helen finally forced herself to say.

"And you are very beautiful," he returned, "but you are too formal, too cold."

"I suppose you understand that I am doing this against my will, Mr. Elton," Helen was forced to smile at the ridiculousness of the entire affair.

"Yes, I know, but you will learn to love me if you let yourself."

Onward they sped, talking for a time, in silence for a time.

Most of their remarks were confined to the scenery. The scenery of the plains country through which they were traveling was little to speak of. Miles and miles of open, extremely level ground. No trees were to be seen. They spent much of their time in guessing the distance that could be seen with the naked eye on this vast prairie.

Before the morning was gone, Helen began to realize how nice Elton could be when he desired. She wondered—she had never been treated so royally and so courteously—she had never seen him so nice looking. She looked at him a second, a third time to see if he were the same man she had known. Yes, it was he.

"Could it be that this affair was going to be pleasant after all? she thought. "Hardly. It won't last."

Things were so different than she had expected that Helen hardly noticed the rough places in the road, and the detours here and there.

Time literally flew. At one-thirty December the twentieth, a dignified and seemingly indifferent couple halted their car in front of the Lea County, New Mexico, courthouse.

ANNOUNCE DATES OF FALL HORSE SHOW

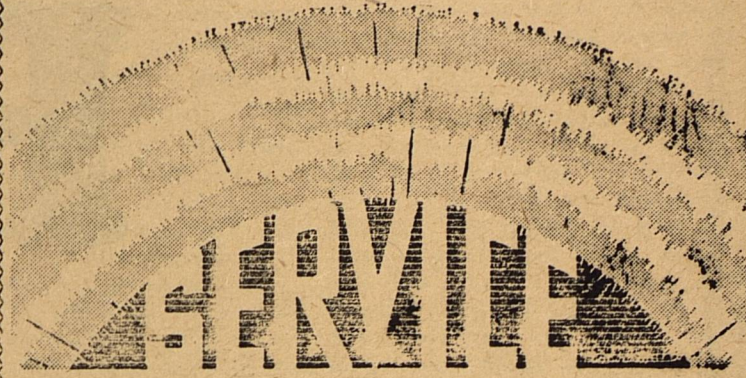

Dates for the annual fall horse show of the Saddle and Bridle Club of Texas are Oct. 19, 20 and 21. It has been announced by Fenton J. Baker, chairman of the board, and R. B. George, president of the organization. The horse show will be limited to Texas-owned horses.

The dates for the show fall on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the closing days of the 48th Annual Exposition.

Proceeds from the horse show will go to charitable organizations of Dallas.

Committees to handle details for the fall Charity Horse Show will be organized at an early date and efforts will be made to have this one of the biggest horse shows ever held in the entire South.

To see ourselves as others see us is a great desire, but to be as others wish us is a more noble ambition.

Except in the larger cities, electric service was rarely satisfactory before long-distance transmission of electric power was perfected.

Small local plants serving single communities generally lack the variety and volume of demand which enables a larger system, serving a wide area, to operate efficiently.

Nor can small, isolated plants meet sudden new demands for more power nearly as readily as the larger system.

The transmission line can deliver larger amounts of power at once without the delay of installing additional equipment. Thus it clears the road for industrial growth.

The present-day industrial progress of small communities is based in a large measure on the ample and economical power supply which resulted when the transmission systems replaced small local plants throughout the nation.

With 2,608 miles of transmission lines, the West Texas Utilities stands ready to render satisfactory service to 159 prosperous cities, towns and communities throughout West Texas—"The Land of Opportunity."

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprising 15% rate schedule and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

PLATFORM

Judge Runge said: "I believe in proper respect for duly constituted authority and observance of the principles laid down in our Constitution, a common sense but rigid enforcement of the law and a closer co-operation between the law enforcement agencies of the state and Federal Government so that lawlessness may be suppressed. The great livestock and farming industries and kindred interests of this District should be represented in Congress by a man who from experience and training understands their needs. I have no extended platform and no promises to make except that in the event of my election, I will attend strictly to the duties of a Congressman from this District and will try to take care of the problems of the District as they arise. We are living in an extreme abnormal time and such sudden and radical departures from the recognized fundamentals are taking place that no sincere man can advocate a program with any hope of fulfillment other than as above set forth."

Germany knows the value of advertising and of press service. She has spent several thousand dollars in the United States in an effort to spread Nazi propaganda. Of course the entire affair is an outrage and the United States will not stand for it, but it all goes to show that some people are smart enough to know the value of publicity and advertising.

ROOMS HARD
ELDORADO

32 men will be employed on the Humble well, most of whom expressed a desire to stay in Eldorado. They say, however, that they have had difficulty in arranging to stay in Eldorado and that unless they can find suitable rooms in Eldorado, they will stay in Christoval. Should all thirty-two men, a number of whom have families, move to Eldorado, business would be helped considerably in our city. We should do all we can to locate the Humble men in Eldorado and to make them feel welcome in our city.

MRS. ELLEN E.
CLOUD MAKES PUBLIC STATEMENT

To the voters of Schleicher County: In accordance with the custom of all candidates for public offices to make a statement to the people, I wish to say, I'm seeking the office of County Treasurer because I need it and feel confident that I'm capable to fill it honorably.

I have had several years of practical experience in the business world. I have taught school three years; and I finished a combined business course in Tyler Commercial College. Have worked as bookkeeper for Bell Telephone Co., also for an Attorney in Killeen, Bell County, Texas.

I have lived in Schleicher county eleven years, and have worked in public life here.

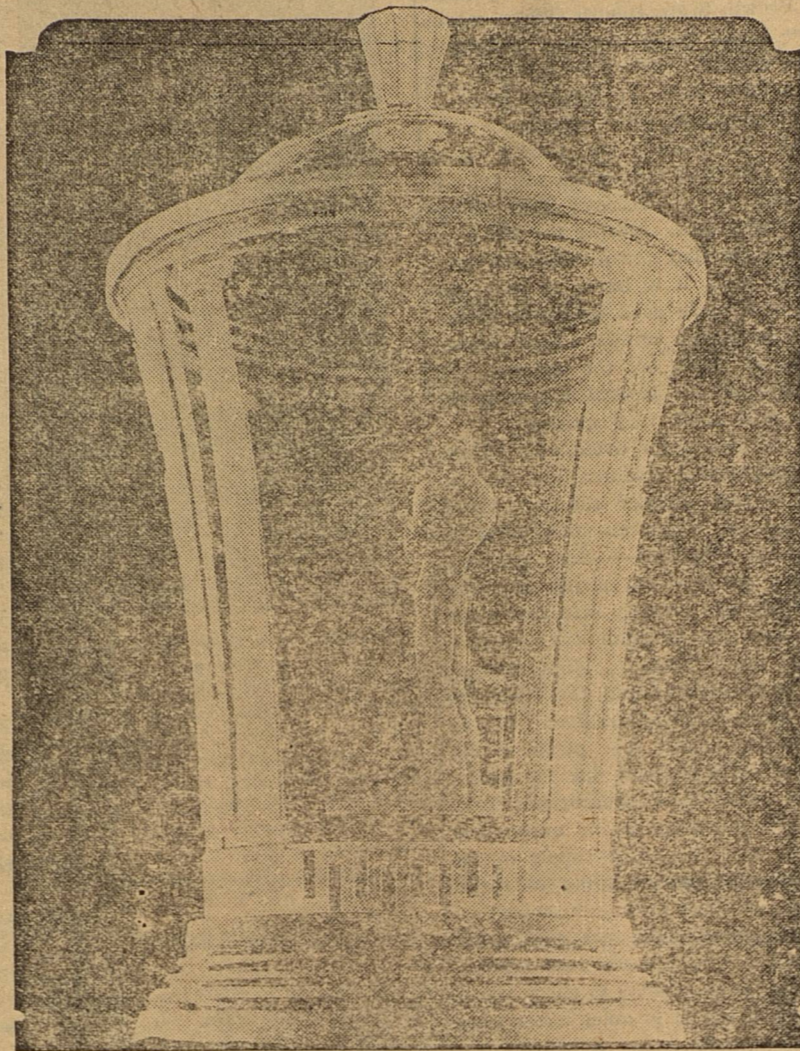

If I am elected I resolve to give my best efforts to the duties and obligations of this office, to the end that I may render capable, efficient, and honorable service, and will gratefully and sincerely appreciate your vote and influence.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ellen E. Cloud.

Commercial Failures In Texas Reduced

Austin, Texas, July 19. — Commercial failures in Texas continue low in comparison with last year, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, statistician in the Bureau of Business Research at The University of Texas. During June there were seventeen failures compared with 28 in June, 1933, a decline of 39 per cent. During the first six months of the present year there were but 130 failures against 321 in the corresponding period last year, a drop of 60 per cent. There were, however, two more failures in June this year than in May, when the number was only fifteen.

Liabilities of the bankrupt firms totaled $194,000 in June, a decrease of 59 per cent from June last year; and aggregate liabilities for the year to date at $1,777,000 were 68 per cent less than for the first six months last year. Liabilities for June were, however, 37 per cent greater than in May, when they totaled $142,000.

MRS. COZZENS
MAKES FINAL APPEAL TO VOTERS

In announcing my candidacy for treasurer of this county, I made the statement that I would endeavor to see and talk with each and every voter personally; and while I have tried to do that, I regret to say that there are some whom it has not been my pleasure to meet.

I now and hereby, through the medium of the press, make an appeal to you for your vote and influence in the forthcoming primary.

I wish you to know the merits upon which I base my appeal to you for your support; and I sincerely desire that every voter be fully informed as to his or her duty for whom they should cast their vote.

Teaching in the public school for a number of years has given me that training and accuracy in work along lines vitally necessary in performing the duties of the county treasurer.

The first and primary consideration in arriving at a decision for whom you should vote is qualifications: I am fully qualified to serve you in the capacity of county treasurer; and having first hand knowledge—by experience—of the perplexities and uncertainties of the life of those who would strive to win, I feel that I am in a position to know and sympathize.

I am striving for my support and the support and education of a small group of voters, modestly, that if you put your trust in me, you will never have cause to regret it for I shall, at all times, hold that trust sacred and give you the very best of my ability in service to you as your treasurer.

Upon my merits, qualifications, and capabilities to fulfill the duties of the office, I humbly beseech the favor of your vote—the privilege of serving you in that capacity.

Thanking you in advance for your support,

I am yours for efficient service.

INTERNATIONAL LIONS ELECT
NEW PRESIDENT

CHICAGO, Ill., July 20. — The eighteenth annual convention of the International Association of Lions Clubs adjourned today at noon in Grand Rapids, Michigan, after a four-day session. Vincent C. Hascall of Omaha, Nebraska, was elected president of the Association for the fiscal year 1934-35, succeeding Roderick Beddow of Birmingham, Alabama, and six new directors were elected to the International Board.

The Grand Rapids convention was the most successful gathering of the Association on record. It climaxed a year during which the financial position of the Association showed great improvement, and large net increases were registered in both the number of clubs and the number of members. The membership figure of the Association now stands at 80,000 and the number of clubs at 2,680. The highlights of the sessions were clearly the reports of President Beddow and Secretary General Jones, in which they paid tribute to the fine spirit of harmony and cooperation within the Association which enabled it to hang up the finest record of progress, both from a service and a material point of view, in the history of the Association. In relinquishing the presidency to Vincent Hascall, Mr. Beddow expressed the high personal regard in which he held Mr. Hascall, and pledged him wholehearted support during the 1934-35 year.

A & M SHORT COURSE TO BEGIN

Among those to attend the short course are: Mrs. Gordie Alexander, Mrs. Luke Robinson, and Mrs. T. S. Redford. A number of Schleicher county 4-H club boys and girls are also hoping to attend the course. Such courses are extremely beneficial to people who are engaged in farm and ranch work.

State Health Officer
Warns Picnicers
Against Dangers

Austin, Texas, July 19. — Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, warns those going on a vacation or picnic, to be careful about their food and the water they drink if they want to avoid unpleasant after effects.

"As to foods," Dr. Brown said, "First; be sure that what you take is perfectly fresh. Second; Take things that won't spoil. During the hot muggy weather that prevails at this time of the year, it is hard to keep any kind of food in good condition, as every housekeeper knows. Rich perishable food taken off the ice and carried around for several hours before using will spoil very quickly.

"It is better to avoid rich salads and indigestible combinations, and to stick to the simpler things. Sandwiches—of which an infinite variety can be prepared—cake, the simpler the better—and plenty of fresh, ripe fruit, are usually safe and satisfying and should form the principal part of your menu. Whatever you take, don't overeat and don't indulge in all sorts of queer mixtures. If, you do, the day after the picnic is not likely to be a pleasant one for you.

"And as a third precaution: Take your own drinking water, unless you are sure that the water supply of the place where you are going to spend the day, is free from contamination. Thermos bottles, thermos jugs, fruit jars, can all be pressed into service. It may be more trouble to carry water from home, but it is much safer than to drink water from a source that may be contaminated with disease germs, especially those of typhoid fever."

RUNGE AND DEAL

TEST VOTE

A straw vote taken on the streets of Eldorado last week showed Runge and Deal to be running neck and neck in Schleicher county for the post of congressman from the twenty-first district. The test vote was taken of the first twenty men met on the streets of Eldorado. The vote showed Runge 8, Deal 8, Murphy 3, and South 1. Dick Lawhon took the vote.

LADY IN UPPER SIX

This is not a scene from a motion picture but a view of the new style upper berth in the sleeping cars with which the Union Pacific streamline train is equipped. Folding stairways take you to the upper, and a little platform provides room enough to stand up while dressing. A sliding aluminum panel completely encloses the berth, making it in fact a small compartment. All berths, both upper and lower, are provided with individual washstands. The new style sleeping car is one of the innovations being shown at A Century of Progress in Chicago as part of the Union Pacific's streamline train.

SECOND CLASS
SCOUTS ADMITTED TO CAVERN TOUR

The camping tour to Crystal Caverns for Boy Scouts of the Concho Valley Council was opened Wednesday morning to second class scouts 13 years old and above. Mart Findlater, chairman of the camping committee, announced. All first class scouts of the council who expect to make the trip should have their registrations into Scout headquarters by Tuesday night.

The 25 Scouts who make the trip will leave San Angelo Monday evening, July 30th, at 4:30.

An entire day will be spent seeing the Caverns and surrounding country. The scouts will pass through the "lowest point in New Mexico" and the "highest point in Texas." The "Old Butterfield Fort Ruins" near Frijoles, Texas, will be visited and also the "Old Fort Stockton" site and buildings.

A day will be spent in the Davis Mountains with a visit to the site where the new McDonald Observatory is being built. Other points of interest in the Davis Mountains are being outlined for the scouts by Dr. Hal P. Bybee.

The scouts will enjoy swims in the new municipal beach at Carlisba, in advance, the Texas Centennial Exposition may well be expected to be good—as good to the people of this state as the World Fair is to the people in general.

on his scout work while on the tour, he said.
Reed Trotter, driver of the school bus from Water Valley, and Earl Lee Starkie, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 3, will assist Mr. Billington.

Big Plans Being Laid For Texas Centennial

Plans, far in advance, are being laid for the Texas Centennial Exposition which is to be held somewhere in Texas during the year 1936. A small appropriation has been made by the legislature to support the one-hundredth birthday of the greatest state in the union, but the appropriation is not substantial.

In an editorial which appeared in the Texas Weekly, people are urged to support the Centennial since it appears that the legislature does not intend to be very much concerned in a patriotic celebration which, if not carried on in the grandest of styles, will mark Texas as a state of most unpatriotic citizens, ungrateful to the state which gives them life, and irreverent to the memory of those who spilled life blood to free the state from the shackles of ignorance and oppression.

Since plans are being made so far in advance, the Texas Centennial Exposition may well be expected to be good—as good to the people of this state as the World Fair is to the people in general.

old Ways in Which the Banks Are Serving the Nation

Handling Millions of Transactions Daily for Individuals, Corporations and State and National Governments—The Structure Strengthened and Deserving of Public Faith

By FRANCIS MARION LAW,
President American Bankers Association

THE banks of the nation provide the machinery through which pass daily many millions of checks and drafts, aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars.

F. M. LAW

The banks are largely financing the Federal Government in its Recovery Program, involving the greatest peace-time expenditures ever known.

Likewise the banks are largely financing the current credit needs of states, counties, cities, public schools and other political subdivisions, all of which have intimately to do with the daily affairs of all the people.

Each day banks throughout the country are making hundreds of thousands of new loans and they are renewing and extending old loans for the accommodation of a vast number of borrowers, these borrowers being individuals, corporations and partnerships and their loans being incident to agriculture, industry and trade in every community.

The banks, through their trust departments, are continuing the work which they have faithfully carried on throughout the depression and are protecting trust funds placed in their care against the worst shrinkage of values ever known incident to this activity in the service the banks are performing in connection with administering the affairs of widows and orphans.

The banks, through the medium of their savings and thrift deposit departments, are furnishing safety for the accumulations of many millions of people and on this class of deposits reasonable interest is paid.

Banks are providing a service for the depositor and safekeeping of the possessions, papers and securities of a very large number of people.

The officers of banks are unstintingly and unselfishly give assistance and counsel to the people of their communities, ready to a considerable extent to aid in their daily financial and legal affairs during this most difficult period of disturbance.

The Banking Structure Strengthened

The banking structure as it is today has been greatly strengthened and the process of strengthening still goes on. Banking is not a closed science. The banking system when we have had was not good enough, and I earnestly believe that an able and non-partisan commission should be set up to make a study of our numerous banking laws to the end that a properly correlated banking system might be worked out and submitted for consideration to the next Congress.

A good system would include rigid requirements as to management, intelligent and impartial supervision and, in due time, unification of supervision. Such a system, composed of banks adequately capitalized, capably managed and conscientiously supervised, would eliminate any possibility of a recurrence of what has happened in the past four years.

The temporary Federal deposit insurance plan under which deposits in banks up to $2,500 for each account are insured has been in effect for six months and has proven a potent factor in restoring confidence. Only two small banks out of over fourteen thousand holding membership in the fund have failed during this six months' period. The temporary plan has been extended very wisely for a year, and the amount of the insured deposit has been increased to $5,000, thus insuring in full over 98% in number of the depositors in the country's banks.

Hoarded money is returning to the banks and deposits are showing a vast increase. Banks everywhere are super liquid, meaning that they have an unusually heavy proportion of their deposits in cash. There are two kinds of unemployment in this country—unemployment of men and unemployment of dollars. These men and these dollars must be put to work. Banks in strong and highly liquid condition are prepared and determined to do their proper part in putting money to work.

Requisites for Grants of Bank Credit That brings me to the all important question of the granting of credit by banks. Two things are necessary to increase bank credit:

1st. The banks must be liquid and confident in their own strength.
2nd. Business men must further lay their fears and regain confidence to the point where they will dare to think and plan ahead.

The first requisite is accomplished. The second is in process. Bank credits will increase and money will go to work as soon as business men get over their disinclination to borrow and this will be when they begin to see profits within their reach.

In past depressions the real movement of the expansion in bank credit always came after general business recovery got under way and not before the number of good credit risks is increasing daily. Not in my time have good borrowers been so warmly welcomed at banks as they are today. Never before has there been such competition for good loans, nor has the interest rate ever been so low. Every sound business in the country today can get what money it needs.

A Return of Normal Lending Banks are badly needing loans for revenue purposes, and now that confidence in banks has been largely restored they are naturally turning to a more normal lending policy. Before the bank holiday the confidence of the people was unshaken. The thought paramount in the minds of depositors was the safety of their funds. Withdrawals from banks became increasingly heavy and general. Under such circumstances the banker, mindful of his primary responsibility to his depositors, was almost concerned in the collection of loans than in the making of new loans. The result was a severe contraction of credit. For this the banker should not be blamed. He simply performed his manifest duty.

Bankers at this time are very properly viewing the credit needs of business with serious and sympathetic consideration. Applicants for loans are not always familiar with the rules governing bank credit and constructive and interested help on the part of the banker will bring about the making of many additional loans, without doing violence to any principle of good banking.

Certainly no one would advocate the making of unsound loans by banks. The creation of a large volume of unsound loans would not only weaken the banks—it would prolong the depression and wipe out some of the gains already made. It is to be earnestly hoped that no banker will yield under the pressure of his desire for earnings, or for any other reason, and make loans of the wrong sort. John O'Leary of Atlanta, in a recent address, said: "The plan of lending freely and hoping for the best has never proven wise."

There are many needs for credit of kinds which are not within the province of commercial banks to meet. Likewise there are many types of credit, but there are also many types of credit facilities available enough, it would seem, to meet the requirements of all classes of worthy borrowers.

The Duty of Every Banker It is clearly the duty of every banker in the country to perform certain services. The most important are:

1. To afford perfect safety for deposits.
2. To grant credit to those who can serve it.

In the matter of credits the public must in fairness remember that commercial banks are not lending their own money, but the money of their depositors, represented very largely by the earnings and savings of the people. The people who own these deposits have accumulated them through years of labor and sacrifice, and in many cases the deposit represents their all. These depositors have the right to call for their money at any time, or at least on short notice. Deposits constitute a sacred trust.

There are certain basic principles in sound banking that must be held even in this period of change, but the progressive banker must be responsive to changing conditions and he must be active in seeking proper opportunities to meet the sound needs of his customers.

In a recent message to Congress, the President said: "I am greatly hoping that repeated promises that private investment and private initiative to relieve the government in the immediate future, of much of the burden which it has assumed will be fulfilled."

Repeated assurance has been given by the Administration that there is no desire on its part to continue government lending a moment longer than is necessary and that at the earliest possible time the government will give way to the banks and other lending institutions. This, of course, is as it should be and we are all earnestly looking forward to the time when private initiative and enterprise shall have recovered its vitality sufficiently to throw government crutches away.

Numerous bank failures have created in the minds of many a grossly exaggerated idea as to the losses of depositors in closed banks. The record indicates that depositors in banks which closed in the past three years will realize on an average about one-third of the dollar. That would mean a loss of 66% of the dollar. It has been estimated that during the depression the average value of investments in stocks lost about 90%; bonds similarly declined approximately 60% and commodities 65%.

Deposits in sound banks continue to be worth 100% throughout the depression and 90% of the bank deposits of the country were not affected.

Bankers Deserve Confidence The country can have full confidence in the integrity and competence of the bankers of the country. Out of the lessons of the last few years has come experience that will be valuable to banker and to his community. He can be counted on to show a proper appreciation of his responsibilities and obligations and to take his place among those who are making earnest and selfless effort to promote recovery, is not infallible, but with every power that lies within him I believe he can be depended upon to fulfill his duty as a custodian of the people's money, a dispenser of credit and as a fearless American citizen imbued with sincere regard for the common good.

Interpretative Flashes

Lumber prices over the nation have been reduced by an NRA action to about 15 percent lower than recent prices. The Administration's housing program is being pushed rapidly and the slash in lumber prices will help the move greatly. Now is the time to build.

The general strike on the Pacific coast shows that people are not entirely satisfied with the way things are being run. Nobody is entirely satisfied, but striking and rioting is a mighty poor way to get what we want. People in San Francisco are forced to go without food and clothing on account of the strike which has grown to involve nearly 100,000 people to say nothing of the thousands of others that are made to suffer indirectly from the strike.

TENNIS

Eldorado's fast tennis players suffered a serious but expected defeat in San Angelo Sunday. We have some good tennis players here; the score does not indicate, exactly, the brand of ball that was played. We give you the following games and scores:

- J. J. Pettus vs. Gleen Ratliff, 6-1, 6-1.
- C. P. Butcher vs. Forrest Alexander, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

- Otto Taylor vs. I. T. Barber, 6-2, 9-7.

McDonald, candidate for governor. Among those who attended the big event from Eldorado were Ed Hill, Forrest Runge, and Judge Whitten and wife who were house guests of the Hudspeths on Friday and Saturday.

TWO AMBITIONS;

TWO POLITICIANS

Ambition is a word which means much to the human race; but its meaning depends largely upon the individual interpretation of the word. There happens to be two sorts of ambition: an ambition which tends to build, to progress, to push forward steadily with a purpose of serving to utmost capacity; and an ambition which has as its goal to rule or ruin.

We should always be concerned with which sort of ambition a man possesses; but often it is difficult to determine into which class a man falls until we see the fruits of his work. A man who has the right sort of ambition should never be condemned, even in failure; he should be encouraged. The man who possesses the wrong sort of ambition should be regulated.

And just as there are two ambitions, there are two politicians. Especially, we should consider the ambition of candidates in the field as election day approaches. One class of candidates run for office for the sake of ruling—for the sake of swaying the fates of multitudes to suit the whims and fancies of an individual. Another class of candidates, those whom we must elect, run for office for the primary purpose of serving a nation which needs and deserves our service. Which of the two shall we choose in the coming election?

We have often made mistakes on our choices of candidates. Often we are unable to tell just what a man is until he is in office, but to make the same mistake over and over is unpardonable. Let's vote for a candidate who stands for service. Such men do not show themselves as often as we would like, but when they do, let's not betray the right of every American citizen. Let's vote—let's fill public offices with responsible, serving men.

SOME VIEWS ON RELIEF

Too many people are skeptical of the government's relief program on foundation that it is unconstitutional, unprecedented, inevitably ruinous. Where people get such "happy" ideas is beyond calculation. Relieving needy people is not unconstitutional—it is written into a constitution not designed by man. Relieving needy people is not unprecedented—the Perfect Man practiced such deeds almost 2,000 years ago. And yet devoutly religious people sharply criticize the government's recent undertakings.

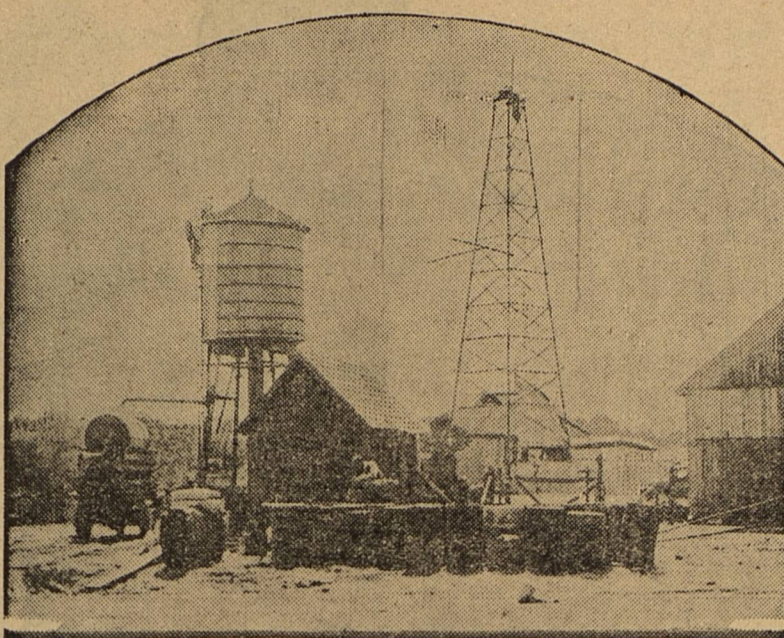

The only point of worry in the relief program is the method of relief—not the relief itself. We should feel concern when a man is given money without having expended energy because it encourages laziness, destroys initiative and self respect, and lowers the standards of living. But to give a man an opportunity to earn his bread when he otherwise has no opportunity is not ruinous. To buy a man's products which he has produced by the sweat of his brow when there is no market and no market value for products is not straight-forward charity but simply a practice of the golden rule in its most effective form. Most American people are not eager to accept charity anyway; what they want is a square deal.

When the Great War was going on the American people dug to the bone to come to the aid of the government, now the government about faces and comes to the aid of its suffering people. What is so radically wrong in that? What is a government for, anyway, if it isn't to protect its people? Wouldn't it be a wise thing to think twice before criticizing the government's liberal relief program?

Oil Strike on a Delaware Farm

This well, drilled on the farm of United States Senator Townsend, and which struck oil at 400 feet, may be the start of an oil rush in Bridgeville, Del., to compare with those in many a Texas or Oklahoma village. The well was drilled by the Cleveland Petroleum company, which has been studying the region for the past seven years and which has bought up options on farms within a radius of several miles of the strike.

Old Box Causes Court Case

Two women, charged with theft, recently were tried in Glamorgan, Wales. For two hours the jury listened to counsel questioning witnesses, four of whom had traveled 50 miles. After the judge summed up the case, and the jury had duly deliberated, it declared the woman not guilty. The theft consisted of taking a dilapidated wooden box. It was valued at 12 cents.

Diamond Needle

Though it will easily pierce your finger, the ordinary sewing needle appears anything but sharp under the microscope, and the diameter at the point usually measures several thousandths of an inch. Now engineers have produced a needle with a point one ten-thousandth of an inch across. The actual point is a diamond set in the steel, and it is used to test the smoothness of polished steel.

SHREDS & PATCHES

(A chat with the editor.)

LIBRARY

We are now assured a county library. The appropriation made by the commissioners' court is a good start, and as soon as the library is installed, the club women who sponsored the library should sponsor a book donation drive which is a mighty good way to build up the library. The Success is willing to give such a drive all the publicity that it can possibly give to such a move.

FIREFIGHTING EQUIPMENT

Things are looking mighty favorable for the creation of an Eldorado fire department. With fireplugs, a fire truck, and an eight inch water main in sight, we feel much nearer the goal than we did about twelve or one o'clock on the night of June 23. Regardless of how favorable things may look now, let's not stop our planning until the thing is a reality. "There is many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip," and if we stop our agitation and talk now, another disastrous fire may slip up on us before we ever get anything done.

STREETLIGHTS

Some people may be getting tired of our discussion of needs and wants, but we happen to know several things connected with getting what we get after. Among those things is to keep ourselves constantly reminded of the necessity of having what we need—we can grow cold and let a matter drop almost unintentionally before we know it and where have we got? Another thing... being editor of a newspaper, we know the value of advertising and if we advertise our wants and needs in an attractive manner, the public generally responds, because the public likes to be progressive.

We got far afield in the above paragraph, so now to the point: we need streetlights badly. We have some beautiful lamp posts and some nice lamps which will burn because we have seen them burn, but somehow they don't burn very regularly. Now, one nice feminine citizen of our town almost broke her leg recently while she was walking casually down the street in the very heart of the business section. A tourist, passing through our fair little city, is as likely to go down the sidewalk as down the center of the street, because it really all looks the same. One of our own citizens barely escaped a costly wreck in town recently by running into a parked truck—cause of wreck: no street lights!

We feel that the West Texas Utilities will be willing to make some kind of a fair and square deal with the city of Eldorado if we approach them in the right way.

GAS

And gas, too. We understand that some two or three parties are considering securing franchises to furnish Eldorado with gas. We only need one of these parties to get on the job and let us see some results. If one of these parties doesn't show signs of business pretty soon, we will run him ragged until he shows signs of doing the job or turns the job over to someone who will show some signs. What we want is either results or mighty good indications.

We got our school building; we got our library; we must not stop there.

New Charters In Texas Show Business Gain

Austin, Texas, July 19. —New charters granted corporations during June to carry on business in Texas showed a substantial rise over May, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, statistician in the Bureau of Business Research of The University of Texas. A total of 130 charters was granted with aggregate capitalization of $1,890,000, increases of 8 per cent and 50 per cent respectively over the number and capitalization in May. There was, however, a decline of 30 per cent in number and practically the same percentage drop in capitalization in comparison with June, 1933; and for the year to date there was a drop of 12 per cent in number and 39 percent in capitalization compared with the corresponding period last year.

Charters granted out-of-state firms were 29 per cent fewer than in May but 4 per cent above June last year; and for the first six months the increase over last year was 27 per cent.

A total of six firms with capitalization of $1000,000 or more each was chartered against two in May and six in June last year. During the first half of the current year seventeen firms were chartered against 34 during the corresponding period last year.

TO THE VOTERS of Schleicher County

There are some whom it has not been my pleasure to see during my campaign. I take this means to ask for your support in the July primary.

I shall give you the very best of my ability, if elected. I humbly beseech the favor of your vote—the privilege of serving you in the capacity of

APPLICATIONS FOR RELIEF NOW
ACCEPTED

DALLAS, Texas, July 19.—Checks covering drouth relief loans from the $100,000,000 drouth relief appropriation recently made available by Congress direct to farmers and ranchmen for the purchase of feed for farm and range livestock and to plant forage crops in primary drouth areas in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, are being written, according to announcement made today by Charles W. Sherrill Regional Manager of the Southwestern Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office of the Farm Credit Administration at Dallas. Checks will reach applicants in the least possible time after the forms are sent to the Dallas Office in proper form.

Loans will be advanced in monthly installments, with a supplemental application necessary for each month's requirements.

Applications must be submitted to the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan committee for the county in which the applicant's livestock is located or forage crops to be planted. Quarters for the county loan committee will be at the office of the local County Federal Relief Administrator who will serve as a member of the county committee.

Cooperation of every agency is needed in this emergency in order that the task of actual provision of relief may be speeded.

The following counties have been declared Primary (emergency) drouth areas and applications for aid will be accepted immediately from farmers and livestock men.

The following counties in Texas have been placed on Emergency Relief:

HENRY MITTLE STANDS FOR ECONOMY

To the voters of Precinct Four, Schleicher county:

Thru this column I wish to state clearly my platform and qualifications as commissioner of Precinct Four Schleicher, county.

I stand for "Economy and Adequate Taxes."

I believe in sound Economy: The kind that will last. It can be accomplished by applying the old "Golden Rule" (a stitch in time saves nine,) especially in the repair and maintenance of county roads, public works, etc and not by delaying matters and curtailing necessary expenditures that prove detrimental and to be "False Economy."

I believe that our Taxes should be Adequate (enough) to meet the county requirements.

A Democratic Government is as strong as its representatives, and never has the need for "Leaders" been so great as it is now; demanding that we ignore sectional differences and partisanship and elect fearless men of unquestionable honesty and integrity. It is only thru political aspiration that I am seeking the office. My "Objective" is to make an efficient servant.

I feel that my college and business training enables me to carry on business to a better advantage for my self and others.

I hope you will give me fair consideration at the polls, July 28, 1934, Primary Election

I thank you,
Henry Mittel.

tabulation, although Witt's rating is better as to number of counties.

Allred's indicated strength extends into all sections of the state, even cutting into some of Clint Small's solid West of 1930. Hunter, too, is vouchsafed some of the erstwhile Small pasture, and a few of the western counties are credited to McDonald. Otherwise, McDonald's and Hunter's estimated ascendancy runs principally through Central, East and South Texas.

Small Is Watched.

It has been said in political circles that some of the West Texas counties have wavered from Small because they thought he had no chance to win, but that if his present whirlwind campaign, powered by his recently acquired influential group support, should develop serious strength, they are likely to rally to him again. These conditions make Small's campaign a center of political interest, presenting the question whether or not he can hurdle Hunter and McDonald. It is a long jump, and the odds are against it, but you never can tell.

Meanwhile, Hunter's boom of recent weeks appears to have subsided, and on the face of the editors' estimates McDonald's stands a strong second in the race. It is thought that Jim Ferguson's series of speeches, begun last Wednesday, will help McDonald considerably, and Allred is cutting Hunter down in various places, according to reports.

Total, 15 counties; 69,289 votes.

Opinions Are Varied.

It will be noted that in some instances two candidates are given the same rating in the same county. This is due to conflicting opinions giving the two candidates tie ratings. For instance, in Austin county, one editor gave McGraw first place and Woodward second, while another editor gave Woodward first place and McGraw second. In such cases both candidates have been first rating for expediency.

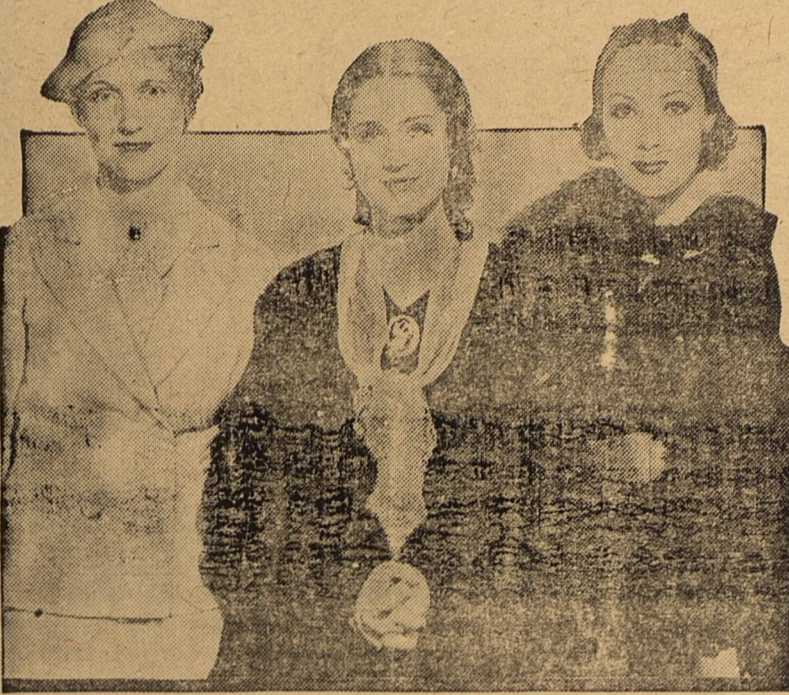

In many counties the editors of two or more papers sent estimates of the candidates' standing; as many as five of them in a few instances. While as a whole, their opinions ran fairly well together, naturally, in many instances, they had different opinions of the relative races. In Harris county, six editors responded; three gave Allred first place, two gave McDonald first place and one gave Hughes first place; two rated Allred second, the sixth gave an opinion only as to first place, two rated Hunter third, two rated Small third and two made no estimates beyond second place, two rated Witt, fourth, one rated Hunter fourth and one rated Small fourth; two gave Witt fifth place, one gave Small fifth place and one gave it to Hunter.

Example Given

Hughes was rated sixth by four editors. This is a sample, somewhat exaggerated, of the problem encountered in many counties, and the candidates rating was determined by percentage. The classifications given in this survey are not the predictions of The Post or of anyone else, as to how the candidates will fare in the election. They merely reflect the opinions of the editors as to how they thought the candidates stood in their counties at the time they answered the writer's inquiry.

A number of them said their estimates were scarcely more than guess-

Three of Our "Most Beautiful Women"

Three of the ten women recently designated by artists as the "most beautiful women in America" met in Hollywood not long ago. Left to right: Mrs. A. Compton Billicke, Los Angeles society woman; Norma Shearer, brilliant star of the motion pictures; and Dolores Del Rio, fiery Mexican screen luminary. Miss Shearer played hostess to the two other beauties.

of the military service ashore and of the naval service on board battleships and cruisers.

The Marine Corps is the Navy's little army, and serves on board the Navy's battleships and cruisers, and ashore in our overseas territory and in foreign countries when it is necessary to land forces to protect our interests.

Our "soldiers of the sea" are our "foreign legion." They are always ready to embark on our naval vessels and proceed where there is trouble or trouble expected, ready to land instantly.

"Soldiers and sailors too," they fall in with either the Army or Navy and know the arts and habits of both.

While their educational qualifications are equal to those required for entrance to college, their physical standards are rigid. They must be over 18 years old and not under 66 inches tall. Also they must furnish evidence of character and good standing. Their duties and responsibilities require exemplary men who can be entrusted to act with credit for our country throughout the world in difficult situations.

This splendid corps with its opportunities for travel and varied service attracts many applicants from which only the most select are accepted.

The U. S. Marine Corps District office, 535 St. Charles St., New Orleans, La., receives by mail and considers all applications from Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Mississippi, and is the only office, except the U. S. Marine Corps District office in Savannah and Macon, Ga., where applicants in the Southern states are considered, examined, and accepted.

SET UP $25,000 IN

LIVESTOCK AWARDS

Dallas, July 19. — A total of $25,000 will be awarded the prize winners in the Livestock Show, which will be held for the entire period of the 1934 State Fair of Texas, it has been announced here by A. L. Ward, general superintendent of the department.

All classes of livestock will be shown for the entire 16-day period of the exposition.

Prize money in the horse department has been increased considerably this year, owing to the increased interest in the breeding and raising of this particular brand of livestock on the farms of Texas.

es. Doubtless some of them are biased. They were queried on the theory that editors, whose business is to gather information and know conditions, should know as much as anyone about the political outlook and that a mass editorial poll should at least serve the traditional purpose of straw votes and show which way the wind is blowing.

Changes Are Seen.

Their opinions were obtained by means of postal cards sent to the editors of all Texas newspapers, listing the candidates in each race. They were asked to write "1" opposite the candidate they thought was running first in the county, "2" opposite the candidate the one who seemed second strongest and so on. These cards were mailed out June 18 and the replies have been coming in a few each day ever since.

Developments during the last whirlwind heat of the campaign may change the lineup and antiquate these opinions. For the present the calculations of these 319 Texas editors may be of interest to the voters.

MARINE APPEALS FOR MORE MEN

NEW ORLEANS, La. July 19. The United States Marine Corps District Office in New Orleans announces that the vacancies recently created in the Marine Corps by Congress will be filled in limited monthly installments during the next few months.

The number of qualified applicants in June was greater than could be accepted in the authorized June installment. The excess was carried on the waiting list to be accepted in July.

The Marine Corps is the only military service in the world which requires that its accepted applicants must have the educational qualification required for entrance to college. Only those who are graduates from high schools or have equivalent education from other schools are accepted.

This high standard is maintained because Marines must be capable of learning quickly the arts of all arms

I am a candidate for the office of County Treasurer and solicit your vote and influence in the July primary.

I have had eleven years' experience in public work, ten of which have been in County and District Clerk's Office.

Like the majority of people, I must work for a living; and as I have had experience in the office I seek, I have no hesitancy in seeking your vote which will be heartily appreciated.

Motorcade

Former Congressman, Claude Hudspeth, who for ten years represented the greater portion of the new 21st Congressional District in the Halls of Congress at Washington, had over two thousand friends from many counties of this District in attendance at his Old Settlers Picnic on his Devil's River Ranch Saturday, July 14th, where every guest had the pleasure of enjoying a bountiful meal and was refreshed by the spirit of true Western hospitality which prevailed.

In addition being the annual picnic which Mr. and Mrs. Hudspeth have formed a custom of giving, it was also staged for the purpose of boosting the candidacy of Carl Runge for Congress and J. H. Walker for Land Commissioner.

Friends of Carl Runge from Mason, Mculloch, Llano, Gillespie, Kimble, Schleicher, Sutton and Bandera Counties made the trip. The delegation, which accompanied Carl Runge made the trip via Mason, Junction, Sonora, Rocksprings and were met in Brackettville by the delegation from Bandera which had held rallies at Sabina and Uvalde on their way to Brackettville.

The Bugshuffe Band of Bandera and the bands from Brady and Mason accompanied the motorcade. Runge spoke at all places along the route. On Friday night he spoke at Del Rio to a crowd estimated at over two thousand persons where he was introduced by Judge Brian Montague and it was stated by numerous persons present that this was the biggest gathering Del Rio had ever had for a political speech.

Rudd Community Hold Big Goat Roping

Last Sunday afternoon some forty or fifty riders and ropers gathered on the Vernon Porter Ranch to strut their stuff at roping. The first roping was won by Hugh Harzke and Will O'Harrow who tied for time, 13 seconds. Second pay went to Joe Thornton with a time of 16 seconds. The second roping was won by Joe Thornton, 15 seconds; Lois Kinser placed second, 16 seconds; and third money went to Walter King, 19 seconds.

In the free-for-all pairing with one rider roping and one tying, Ray Reynolds paired with Robert Baker tied with Will O'Harrow who was paired with Sid Stapp. O'Harrow and Stapp won the runoff when Reynolds and Baker failed to catch.

In a matched goat-tying Kinser beat Harske in tying three goats. Kinser's time was 7 1-5; 7 4-5; 8 1-2; and Harske's time was 6 1-2; 6 1-5; 14 1-2.

In a matched cigarette race between Frank Reynolds and Alton Williams Frank Reynolds won.

Other outstanding ropers present in addition to those making pay time were Bill Edmiston, Resman Ellis, Chute Richardson, Estes Ellis, and Leonard Isaacs.

Everybody enjoyed the day very much.

DEAL SPEAKS

Mr. Deal has done for us and we appreciate it."

Cecil Moore, the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Moore of Eldorado, is president of the local 4-H club, and is also president of 4-H units in District 3, comprised of the entire territory west of Waco. Cecil is one of the two Texas boys who was given a trip to Washington from where he has just recently returned.

The Schleicher county 4-H clubs drew up a petition last week, asking Mr. Deal to speak in Schleicher county.

During his speech last Monday night, Deal said that the drawing up of the petition was the finest compliment ever paid him. He also added that he had been fully repaid in friendship alone for the trouble he had gone to in helping the boys at the stock show.

In a short campaign speech Deal emphasized the fact that the farming and ranching interests existed on long term loans of low interest. Deal pledged himself to a campaign for the continuation of this policy.

"If the ranching interests of West Texas suffer," Deal said, "so does every other West Texas industry; and when the ranching industry flourishes, so does every other industry in West Texas."

Deal told of his record of service in this area and concluded his campaign speech by outlining his platform, "which," he declares touches every class of people in West Texas.

A motorcade of San Angelo Deal-for-congress boosters accompanied Deal to Eldorado.
