SCHOOL BOARD TAKES FAIR PARK IN CHARGE

Eldorado Schools To Open Promising Term Monday

PROSPECTS BEST EVER,
SAYS HOLT

With a short, informal program, the Eldorado public schools begin a new year's career Monday morning at nine o'clock. The program is to be held in the main auditorium of the high school building and the general public has been given a cordial invitation, by Superintendent Holt, to be present. Three minute talks, interspersed with musical numbers, will be made by Clarence Knight, president of the Lions Club, Mrs. Robert Milligan, president of the Parent-Teachers Association, J. C. Smith, principal of the high school, Coach Dave Williamson, Mayor J. N. Davis, Rev. Noel Williamson, Presbyterian minister, Rev. P. S. Connell, Methodist minister, R. E. Moore, president of the school board, and Leslie L. Baker, secretary of the school board. The musical numbers are to be furnished by local talent. Announcements of interest concerning the current school year will also be made at the opening program.

REGISTRATION SATURDAY AND MONDAY

Superintendent Holt announces that registration for Seniors and Juniors will take place tomorrow from 8 to 10 a. m. and from 1 to 5 p. m. registration of Freshman and Sophomores is scheduled from 10 to 12 a. m. and from 1 to 5 p. m. Monday, the opening day of school.

LARGE ENROLLMENT AND GOOD YEAR EXPECTED

"Prospects for the largest enrollment and the most profitable and beneficial school year in the local school annals is in the offing," Superintendent Holt said yesterday afternoon. "Interest is great, and we are going to do things in the educational field this year," he said.

Coach Williamson said that he had "high hopes" of another high flying Eagle squad this year.

NEW COURSES OFFERED

For the first time, vocational courses, the most practical of all studies, are being included in the curriculum. First year vocational agriculture and first year home economics (clothing, first semester; foods, second semester) will be offered. Plans are being laid to build up a three-year vocational program in the schools here, second year agriculture and home economics being added in 1935-'36, and the third year courses to be added in the 1936-'37 term. "Our commercial courses, which are not strictly vocational subjects, will be taught from a vocational standpoint," Superintendent Holt reports. Eldorado has an excellent vocational department, having won the three first places in the district typing matches last year.

Woman's Club
Scholarship Funds
Now Available

Mrs. D. E. DeLong, a trustee of the scholarship fund of The Woman's Club of Eldorado, a Federated organization, reported Thursday morning that the $300 which constitutes the scholarship fund was now available to any worthy boy or girl in Schleicher county who wishes to attend college this year.

"The fund may be borrowed at the low rate of 4% interest by any worthy Schleicher county boy or girl who has a good high school record and a good moral reputation," Mrs. DeLong said. The money is loaned to only one party for the current school year. Applications for the fund will be accepted at this time according to Mrs. DeLong.

J. D. Willis
New Resident

Mr. J. D. Willis of Oakland California has moved to Eldorado and is now in business with his brother E. M. Willis, in the West Texas Service Station. Mr. E. M. Willis states that his brother will have charge of the shop work, and that he is fully equipped to do any kind of work as he has been working in automobile and machine shops in California for the past several years.

WORK ON SCHOOL BUILDING PASSES EXPECTATIONS

Laying of brick on the Eldorado's new $45,000 grammar school and gymnasium was begun last Wednesday morning and to date an excellent showing has been made in that work. The rate of speed at which the building is being erected has surpassed even the fondest expectations, and architect H. S. Becker has made the promise that "without unforeseen trouble, the building will be ready for occupancy by Thanksgiving."

"We can use the building at any time it is finished," says Superintendent Holt, "because we need it badly; but we hardly expect to be able to occupy it before the first of the year."

Cannery To Con- tinue Operation

Rumors that have been circulated over town that the cannery would be closed are unfounded, states officials in charge of the work.

The Success learned through Van McCormick, relief administrator, that the cannery would continue to operate as long as there is anything to can.

To date there have been 11,486 cans canned, most of this being meat.

Fine Meeting In Progress At Church Of Christ

Gratifying audiences are in attendance at the Church of Christ Revival, now in progress at Eldorado. Many visitors are coming from Sonora, San Angelo, and other places. There have been several additions to date with good indications that there will be others before the meeting comes to a close.

Elder W. W. Leamons, minister of the Church of Christ at Junction, is doing the preaching. Services at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. each day. The singing is being directed by Kithreil Durst, able evangelistic singer. Much interest is being manifested by the people in the plain gospel sermons and the excellent congregational singing.

Some of the sermon subjects to be used during the remainder of the meeting are as follows: Friday night, Why It Is So Difficult For A Married Man To Be Saved; Saturday night, Why We Sing And Do Not Play In The Public Worship; Sunday morning, The Millennium; Sunday night, The Scriptural Work and Worship Of The Church Of Christ.

The Bible School (with a place for every member of the family) will begin Sunday morning at 10 a. m. A cordial invitation is yours to be present—your presence and cooperation is needed in effecting some improvements in this work.

You are also urged to read the 30th chapter of Revelations, and then be present Sunday at 11 a. m. to hear the sermon on the Millennium, Binding of the Devil, and the First Resurrection.

This congregation is working out a forward-looking program in order to increase its usefulness in the community. It is eager to encourage and assist the young people. If you endorse this effort, during this meeting is the time for you to "show your faith by your works."

Stag Cafe Opens

Mrs. Oscar Martin and L. B. Bryson have opened the Stag Cafe next door to the Bailey Motor Company. Mrs. Martin will be proprietor of the new business in conjunction with the Ritz Sandwich Shop. Mrs. Martin states that the Stag, as well as the Ritz will be open both day and night. A nice domino parlor has been installed in the Stag.

LOCAL LIONS SEND REPRESENTATIVE TO SAN ANTONIO MEET

CAIN MEETS ABLE AND A BIBLICAL TENNIS MATCH ENSUES

When the Eldorado netters met a team from Ft. Clark last Sunday, the match took on a Biblical aspect. Cain was the name of a player for the Eldorado team, while Able played for Ft. Clark. True to tradition, Cain, with the help of L. T. Barber, slew Able and his partner at the net.

410 BALES GINNED TO DATE

Approximately 185 bales of cotton have been ginned in Schleicher county since Thursday afternoon, August 30, according to reports from the Eldorado and Bailey Ranch gins. This brings the season's gin record to around 410 bales, the Eldorado Gin Co. having ginned 300 with the Bailey Ranch Gin 110.

$72,000 RECEIVED HERE FOR CATTLE

Checks amounting to approximately $72,000 have been received from the government by Schleicher county ranchmen on the government's cattle buying program. It was learned through C. L. Meador, Jr., Thursday afternoon. This leaves around $24,000 yet to come in on the cattle already sold. Mr. Meador stated that there would probably be two or three thousand more sold.

Work has not yet been completed in the matter of listing the number of sheep and goats to be sold in the county. So far there has been listed around 60,000 sheep and 7,000 goats. This is, it is believed, about seventy per cent of the sheep and goats to be listed.

Officials of the live stock program have not received word as to when the buying will begin.

BACKING YOUR SCHOOL

(AN EDITORIAL)

School begins anew Monday after what seems to be a very short vacation for most of us. Right now, however, we are not interested in vacations; but, rather, we are interested in what Eldorado will do in an educational way. Our school year will be just what we make it.

Patrons of the school, back your educational system for all you are worth. Talk your school—build a reputation for it. No matter how efficient an organization may be, its reputation depends upon its patrons' good word to spread its fame abroad.

Patrons, cooperate in every way during the school year. An organization in which there is lack of cooperation never thrives. If three of us pull for the school and two of us fight the school, the greatest aims of education are lost—the school does not have a fighting chance to develop.

Patrons, if you have a grievance against the school during the school year, carry your grievance to the right authority, the superintendent, of your school, in the right attitude, and get it settled. Nine times out of ten, your trouble is petty misunderstanding; nine times out of ten, your trouble can be settled without ill feelings. The most obnoxious thing a school patron can do is to spread his grievances against the school among his neighbors and friends without first investigating the circumstances.

Patrons, don't talk teacher's faults before your children. It does more harm to your child's career than to the teacher's career.

School children, back your school; stand up for your school; and above all, go to school to learn. When it is too late, you will regret everything you have missed in school. Ask those who have gone on before you and see what they say.

We could write on and on forever about the various phases of our school and its surroundings, but let it suffice to say that loyalty, interest, and cooperation are necessary essentials to the building of our community and to the welfare of our school.

We have an excellent school board, an excellent superintendent, an excellent faculty, an excellent school system, and an excellent chance of doing the worthwhile in the educational field. Show your interest and loyalty, cooperate with the school, pass the good word along, and you will be excellent, too.

Sincerely Yours,
The Editor

CASING BEING RUN IN WELL

According to Jimmie Love, an employee at the John M. Cooper No. 1 Bert Page well, located in section 40, block L of the G. H. & S. A. Ry. Co. survey, 5-8 inch casing is being run into the well which is familiarly known as the Page well, nine and one-half miles east of Eldorado. The well now stands at 5,635 feet and drilling will be resumed at that depth as soon as the casing is run.

No acid test will be given the well, Mr. Love stated. Efforts to make arrangements for the acid test have been abandoned altogether.

The gas flow, Mr. Love states, is as great, if not greater, than when the well was closed down. The Page well has created much interest in Schleicher county and in the surrounding territory and many, who had been watching the developments of the well, are as anxiously awaiting the resumption of drilling.

Rev. A. J. Quinn To Preach Here Sunday

Rev. A. J. Quinn of Carlton will preach both morning and evening at the Baptist Church, Sunday September 9.

Morning service will be held at 11 o'clock and evening services at 8:15 p. m.

HUMBLE ACTIVITIES SLOWED UP BY FISHING JOBS

FRESHLY SHORN SHEEP WON'T BE BOUGHT BY U. S.

GOATS NOT MENTIONED IN TELEGRAM RECEIVED BY DUTCH WARDLAW

"The present regulations in regard to government sheep purchases stipulate that no freshly shorn sheep shall be purchased," said a telegram received yesterday by C. B. Wardlaw of Del Rio, chairman of a committee of the Texas Wool and Mohair Warehouse Association appointed to confer with the Department of Agriculture regarding various matters of interest to the sheep and goat industry. No mention was made in the telegram as to freshly shorn goats. The message was signed by C. B. Baldwin, assistant to the secretary of agriculture, Mr. Henry Wallace.

The message also said that the matter of loans on Texas wools was being referred to the Farm Credit Administration. This has led some to believe that the loans may be made. A group of warehousemen and growers have requested these loans be made.

The refusal to buy freshly shorn sheep was viewed with alarm in the Del Rio country where a good many sheep have already been shorn. Should it be applied to goats it would almost stop the sale of goats to the government in some parts for at least 25 per cent of the fall mohair is now shorn.—San Angelo Morning Times.

Demonstration To Be Given Saturday

In a letter from Mrs. Irma C. Hensarling, representative of the Kerr Glass Co. she states that she is finding it difficult to secure materials for relishes so she prefers to change her demonstration to canning of fruits, with perhaps jams, marmalades, and preserves, being given.

This demonstration is to be given Saturday September 8th at 2 p. m. in the basement of the Baptist church. All women of the county are cordially invited.

All Obligations Assumed

Through the diligent work on the part of the Lions; through the progressive interest on the part of the school Board and through a highly public spirited interest held by the citizens of Eldorado and of Schleicher county, Fair Park is to remain the home of school and town athletics. The School Board, with financial aid from the Lions Club, has purchased the park and according to Leslie Baker, secretary of the Board, it will continue to be used for fairs and rodeos as well as the official athletic field for the Eldorado High School Eagles.

In buying the park, the School Board paid the first of three $500 notes which the Fair Association owed Mr. George Williams on the property, and assumed obligation on the other two. These two notes are to bear eight per cent interest, the first one will come due on or before September 1, 1935. The second one coming due on or before September 1, 1936.

Assisting the school board in the work, the Lions Club of the town donated $200.00 cash out right and raised contributions totaling $100.00 toward the cause. This sum of $300.00 went toward making the initial payment of $500.00.

The School Board, the Lions Club and the people of the town and county are due high commendation for their efforts and co-operation in procuring the park for a permanent high school athletic field.

J. N. Davis Takes Over New Station

J. N. Davis has taken over the retail selling of Texaco Products of this territory. He has installed Texaco gasoline and oil in his Cash Service Station and will continue to operate this station in conjunction with the Texas Company Station which Pete Bryant has been operating.

Mr. Davis announces that he will continue to offer the same courteous service he has been giving and will appreciate your business.

GULF COMPLIMENT

These Gulf boys are always doing good things. We note that Jarvis Benton has replaced the old, worn out turning post in the street in front of his station with a brand new post. This, we understand, is a compliment to our city from the Gulf. Very nice, very nice.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

The Future?

The Future, a word which stands for the biggest, most unfathomable part of world's history, takes much of our attention; but such is uncalled for: the future of our lives, our nation, the world is the result of the things we do today. Then it is the present which should concern us most—not the future. Our present chaos is the direct results of unwise plans and actions of the people of this nation not many years ago when our past was then present and our present was then future. Take care of the present and the future takes care of itself. Are we acting and planning in such way today that tomorrow will not be a repetition of the disaster of yesterday?

Wise Planning

Being discrete or being conservative does not mean being a stick-in-the-mud. An individual or a nation might act discretely holding up somewhere and becoming moss-backed. In fact, we think that conservatism can become as radical as many other ways of attacking our problems. To be too conservative is as indiscrete as to act unwisely.

Back To The Constitution?

A lot of noise is now being made about a back-to-the-strict-letter-of-the-constitution movement. Well, we believe in the major portion of the constitution and we agree that in some instances we have gone too far afield; but to say that we must observe our original constitution to the strict letter of reading is to say that this nation has made no progress in the last 150 years. We believe that we have men living in this country of ours who could better our constitution by a change here and there and an addition here and there.

The back-to-the-constitution movement now on foot is merely a political play upon the sentiment of the people who love the United States and its traditions. We want to go forward, not backward; and what we need, more than anything else, is a new constitutional convention composed of sober, right-minded, and progressive men to frame a constitution to suit the needs of the United States of today—a constitution framed in and wrapped with the spirit of 1776 but molded to suit the needs of 1934.

SAGE AND SAGES

People manage to get along with each other only when they try.

Competition may be the spice of business, but cooperation is the life of business.

The world is heartless simply because they are heartless people in it.

One man lived and made a million dollars; another man lived and developed a soul.

If dollars were ideas some people would be worth more than they now are.

When success is measured in service, rather than in dollars and cents, the world will stand next to Heaven.

The man who buys a cannon to shoot a goat is likely to kill himself, someday, with a toy pistol.

Whatever you sow, that shall you also reap; do unto men as you would like for men to do unto you; and if the best you can do.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

The proud owner of a refined-looking "Scout Hound" stood gazing fondly at a young lad who was apparently admiring the dog.

"Is that your dog, Mister," the young lad asked innocently.
"Sure; how did you guess it?"
"Because it looks so much like you, I guess," the youngster replied.

The fellow who invented the Yo-Yo top made a million dollars; but—most "great" men die paupers.

Joe owes Dummo five dollars. I'll give you a check for what I owe you if you'll write me a receipt," says Joe as he meets Dummo on the street.

"Allright" Dummo replies.
Joe writes the check and hands it over to Dummo. "Now about the receipt," says Joe.

"But I have nothing to write it on," says Dummo.

Just write it on the back of the check and it will be O. K., says Joe.

So Dummo writes out the receipt, hands it to Joe and both go on their way rejoicing.

Success is not measured in golden gain, but by the heights of service we attain.

Washington could not tell a lie; a greater man than he has yet to live: one who can tell a lie but won't.

A good shot: The clock strikes nine, bowls three of them completely over, cripples two others and scatters the entire set. Most of them went to bed.

"Courts are tending toward more leniency," one great jurist recently said. Maybe they will soon be granting divorces before marriage.

RAILROADS HUM AGAIN

Texas railways report a 74.24 per cent increase in business for the first half of the current year over the first half of last year. Though the present volume of railroad business is not yet normal, this report is encouraging. Railroads are essential to progress and their decline during the last few years has been alarming. Railways have been one of the biggest factors in the development of the country and have been one of the hardest sufferers during the depression. The American nation can not afford to let its railway system go to wrack just on the verge of a new era of railway development.

AMERICAN ROYAL LIVESTOCK SHOW NOW RECEIVING ENTRIES

Special to Success

The premium list for the 36th Annual American Royal Live Stock Show to be held at Kansas City October 20 to 27, is just off the press and is ready for distribution to prospective live stock exhibitors.

This year's premium list includes classifications with liberal premium offerings for Beef Cattle, Dairy Cattle, Swine, Sheep, Draft Horses and Mules.

It is truly said the prosperity of nations lies in their herds and flocks and the improvement of these herds and flocks is in the hands of men who understand live stock breeding. The American Royal is the display window in which the achievements of these breeders may be displayed to the public and are of vital importance from an educational standpoint to the consuming public, the live stock industry itself, and gives the breeders an opportunity to make comparisons and to benefit by the experience of one another.

Anyone contemplating exhibiting at the American Royal October 20 to 27, should send their entries in at once.

If you have not received a premium list same may be had by writing 200 Live Stock Exchange Building, Kansas City, Missouri.

Commercial Failures Show Decline

Austin, Texas, Aug 30—According to the weekly reports received by The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, only 17 commercial failures occurred in Texas during July, a decline of 59 per cent from the 41 failures in July last year. Liabilities of $261,000 were 64 per cent below those of a year ago. The average liabilities per failure, totaling $15,353, was 14 per cent below that of last year.

Regulations Announced By The Housing Administrator

Washington, Sept. 6.—Swinging into immediate action, the Federal Housing Administration has launched an intensive drive to renovate and modernize 10,500,000 buildings which have fallen into serious disrepair during the construction industry. Offices have been set up in the new Post Office Building here from which James A. Mocat, the administrator, will direct this vital project designed to release millions of dollars held back by the credit jam in the nation's banking systems.

Through the Modernization Credit Plan, long deferred work of outmoded and unsafe homes will be started immediately. Loans up to $2,000 may be borrowed for as long as three years by property owners from banks and other financial institutions chiefly on the character of the borrower. A good credit record and a steady income are the only security requirements. The Federal Government will insure up to 20 per cent of these loans, which is 17 per cent more than the highest loss ratio through default for similar types of receivables. Interest charges or discounts may not be more than $5 annually on each $100 of the original face amount of the loan. The 4,000,000 formerly employed in the construction industry and allied trades but now idle see for the first time in nearly five years the possibility of an early return to work.

THE PHANTOM CHAMPIONSHIP

(A story of love and baseball)

SYNOPSIS

Benjamin White, a rookie pitcher for the Miners who were contenders for the Copper-Belt championship, was making good his first year in league pitching. His only fault was that of wanting money too badly. While he was out "looking for a job on the side," Ben was told that Higgins, manager of the Indians, the team which was contending with the Miners for the championship, wanted to see him. Higgins made White a $10,000 offer if White would throw the game to the Indians. Ben was tempted to take the money when Higgins walked out of the office leaving Ben to his own judgement, good or bad.

Ben's weakness for money overcame him and he took the money. His first thought was to look up his old friend Bill Moore, and with him, celebrate. To Ben's great surprise, Bill was entertaining a visitor, a cousin, who was very beautiful. Together the three had a "swell" time and Ben returned to his home town late that night after Bill had promised to bring Monna, his cousin, over to see him (Ben).

Bill and Monna, accompanied by Bill's girl, came to see Ben as was planned. The company enjoyed the day's events to the fullest extent; and in the early afternoon, Ben and Monna drove out to the edge of Cocanino forest to enjoy the scenery and fresh air.

After several attempts, Ben told Monna for the first time that he loved her.

"I like you, too, Ben, but..." Monna said.

Now on with the story.

CHAPTER IV

"I know," he said without letting his friend finish, "I shouldn't have mentioned it so soon. Maybe someday you will let me talk to you about it." He bent over and kissed her soft flowing hair. He felt that her head belonged there...it fit so perfectly. "Anyway, I'm going to do everything I can to..."

"Hadden't we better start back?" Monna lifted her head gently. She couldn't have offended him by that movement. Her tone was soft, sweet, and she smiled as she spoke...it charmed Ben. He thought he could read affection in the bright laugh of her eyes, but he dared only hope. He was hoping and thinking and dreaming. Every move she made, every expression on her face caught him, interested him, and held him spell-bound. He was in another world, but he did not have time to discover himself in this new world until he was suddenly aroused from his dreams...it was Monna's voice.

"We are about two or three hours drive from home, you know. They'll be expecting us, and besides you must get in early. The big game's tomorrow...you mustn't forget." She was gently chiding him, but those last words burst on him with the sudden harshness of stern reality...a realization of the kind of world he was really in.

"Yes, tomorrow is the day of the big game. I mustn't forget...I couldn't forget. You are coming aren't you?"

"Of course; I couldn't...I wouldn't miss it."

Monna's promise was a source of consolation to Ben. The journey home was almost completely occupied with talk of the big game and of baseball in general, with occasional remarks on other topics, especially scenery.

Now and then, some mention of the big game brought pain and rushing blood to Ben's head but each time his troubles were drowned in the consoling presence of the adorable girl who sat by him and bubbled over with sheer joy of living. He thought it strange that everything should seem a pleasure to her. Everytime Ben felt a tinge of despondency, it was dispelled by the glowing radiations of the pleasing personality with which Fate had temporarily thrown him. He felt that what she was could make up for what he wasn't. "You are absolutely perfect," he ventured to say once during the ride home.

"No," she chided, "You just haven't known me long enough to see my faults. I'm not perfect...no one is perfect; but we must forgive one another's faults."

"Yes, we must," he admitted. But he couldn't feature the lovely creature at his side with a single fault.

It was dark when the couple arrived home. Bill had been looking for them, but after giving up the search as hopeless, he had gone to Ben's home to wait for them.

"You must have explored the whole state," he laughed when they came in. "Well, we did explore quiet a speck of it," Ben retorted.

"We're going to beat it home now," Bill announced. "Old Hickman will be romping on us for keeping his players up so late before a game if we don't get home."

Ben laughed. "You're all wet; I'm gonna take Monna over myself."

"Oh, no you're not...you mustn't." Monna was chiding again in her gentle way. It wasn't at all harsh to Ben. It was sweet, gentle, adorable...but he dared not oppose her. "Besides," she added, "We'll be over for the game tomorrow."

"Well, you'd better not forget." "I'll be here...heart, soul, mind, and body. What more can you wish?"

A little mischievous smile played over Monna's face. "That's all I could expect," was all Ben had time to say. His guests were on their way home.

Monna didn't forget. She, Bill and Dorothy were in the grandstand before the crowd began to gather. Ben was in the grandstand, too, for some time. Manager Hickman had to send for him before he could be made to realize that he should be warming up for the game.

When Ben arrived at the pit, Hickman was talking. He was just in time to hear the word "dinner."

"What was that about dinner?" he asked.

"Oh, you always get in on the tail-end of something and then want to know what you've missed," Hickman laughed. "I've just been telling the boys that since we've had a good season and today's game is the last one, every player and his wife or sweetheart is to be a guest of the manager himself down to the hotel tonight whether we win or lose."

Ben had hardly heard the last word when he burst out of the pit and rushed to the grandstand. He knew he was violating a rule, but what did he care, for rules? The crowd wasn't there yet and the game wasn't in progress.

"Monna, dear, you're going to a big dinner with me tonight," Ben was bubbling over with enthusiasm.

"Who said I was?" Monna laughed playfully.

"I mean will you go?" Ben was visibly upset by the blunder he had made.

"Of course I will."

With an "O.K." Ben dashed back to the pit as if he feared she would change her mind if he gave her time to think it over.

Manager Hickman called him off to the side.

"Ben, you know all the other boys are pitched out. You're our only chance. I can't depend on the others in this game. Can you do it?"

"I can't..." But Ben had hardly finished speaking when he glanced toward the Indian pit. It was an accidental glance, but what he saw was neither accidental nor pleasing. Higgins stood in the corner of the pit so that he could get a view of all that was going on. At that moment he came face to face with Ben, and the frown on his face with a slight nod of his head brought back to Ben's mind what actually seemed to have escaped him. Whether Ben had really forgotten the matter or had just failed to realize its significance would be impossible to say; but its meaning was made clear to him at that moment. All of his hopes and dreams faded nothing was left for him.

In the warming-up exercises he felt sick. He was giddy and without energy. It soon became apparent to the crowd which was steadily growing now, that Ben was experiencing an off day. He failed to catch time and time again, and his throws were wild. He was glad when his team turned the diamond over to the Indian team for a warm-up.

The visiting team chose last-time at the bat. The umpire announced the batteries and the game was called.

For eight innings there was no need for Ben to throw the game. He was in no pitching mood...he was dragging through the game as if he were near-dead. During the game he would have made an interesting study for the psychologist. Most of the time, pain and agony were written on his face. What would Monna think of him? What would his team think? What would the townspeople think? Did they know what he was doing out there? He would dig his finger-nails into the palms of his hands...he would hesitate. What should he do? What would he do? Sometimes he would forget everything...sometimes he would remember everything. How could he avoid doing the thing that he was doing? Sometimes he would think of the girl who was watching him in the stand. During those moments his face would brighten...he would gain control and energy. It was then that he would strike out Indian after Indian...they were no match for him. When he lapsed into his bitter thoughts again, he would walk Indian after Indian...he was no match for his task.

When he paused he could hear his team-mates encouraging him; the people in the stand were cheering him on. He could hear Manager Hickman coaching him. Once or twice he thought he heard Monna calling to him. No man ever suffered so many emotional upheavals in such a short time.

Hickman was frantic, but what could he do? The first half of the ninth inning was well under way with the score 5-3 in the Indians' favor. Ben found himself at bat...two outs...one man on base. For the moment he forgot everything...nothing was distinct to him. The Indian pitcher was ready to throw. Ben gritted his teeth...it was a fast ball...he stepped into it with all his strength. There was a great roar from the crowded stand. Ben was stupefied, bewildered...he had hit but he still stood at the plate.

To be continued next week

Some Features of The World Fair

We were left stranded on the Island in our trip over the World Fair in last week's issue of the Success. Today we begin at the electrical building which also houses the Social Science Building. Headquarters of the Lions International, the only club of its kind with a World Fair headquarters, is located in the Social Science quarters. Other social welfare groups have rispsays of their work.

Inside the Electrical Building, one can see everything that is modern in the way of electrical devices. A book could not describe them all, but some of the most outstanding are a television theatre which shows a broadcast of stage plays; a television telephone over which you may see the face and actions of the party who is talking to you; a refrigerator which freezes and heats water at the same time with the same amount of electricity; the various kinds of light rays and the way in which electricity produces the various kinds of rays (these exhibits include the famous black light); and a thousand other indescribable features. Music is transmitted from various parts of the United States by telegraph to the Hall of Science and to the electrical building. There is also a demonstration of music broadcast over light rays. The stock tickers and the "iron mike" (the news tickers) are explained. The translation of music into colors (as the Firestone Singing Color Fountain does) is explained in the electrical building. A recording demonstration is also given for people who wish to send friends a phonograph record of their own recording. This entire process is explained. The latest in the radio is exhibited; and an electrical man performs for you in the electric building.

A person might spend days in the Electric building without seeing and learning everything there is to see and hear but time and space makes us hasten on. The Enchanted Island, a delightful playground for children, is featured by many animals exhibits and children's shows. Beautiful flowers and rock gardens, representing every well known flower section of the world, may be seen at the Horticultural Building. The Mexican village is next on the trip toward the south end of the Island. Its scenery is typical of Old Mexico and while making the rounds through the village, one feels, as he does in all of the villages at the Fair, that he is actually paying a visit to foreign countries.

At Hollywood, the last of the major exhibits on the Island as one travels southward, one may see several famous movie stars in person as they demonstrate exactly how sound pictures are made. We now pass over the Swift Bridge back to the mainland. Upon the bridge we pause at the Swift Open Air theatre to hear the famous pipe organist, Crawford, render his daily broadcast and to see world famous divers in action. And now we have covered the entire north end of the World's Fair including all of the island with the exception of the Armour exhibit on Science Bridge and the famous Century of Progress electrical fountains in the North Lagoon which, when viewed at night from the Sky Ride and observation towers (64 stores in height), along with the many other multicolored streamers of light, is an awe inspiring sight.

We have not attempted to tell you all that there is at the Fair; nor have we attempted to describe fully all that we have told you about. It would be an impossible task for one man. We are simply hoping that we may inspire those who can, to attend the Fair before it closes because we feel that it is extremely educational and worthwhile. Expenses are reasonable and a visit to the Fair is worth a year in anybody's college if you attend the Fair with the intentions of learning what you may. You may never have a similar chance.

We begin at the 23rd. street entrance next week and continue our journey southward on the mainland toward the south end of the Fair grounds.

SOCIETY AND CLUB ACTIVITIES

MRS. EDWIN McCOLLUM HONORED WITH SHOWER

The W. M. U. of the First Baptist church complimented Mrs. Edwin McCollum with a miscellaneous shower in the basement of the Baptist church last Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

Miss Maxine Wilton played a number of beautiful selections on the piano as the crowd assembled. Miss Pauline Hudson and Leola Boyer presided at the register book. Rosalyn and Pauline Jones sang "May I" and "The Little Dutch Mill."

The many gifts of love and appreciation were presented by the "bushel basket full." The baskets were the plain commercial baskets with no trimmings. They were carried in and presented to the honoree by Mary Hoover, Rosalyn Jones, Beula Williams, and Pauline Jones.

Mrs. McCollum was, before her marriage on August 11, Miss Mildred Smith, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Smith of this city. She is loved and honored by all who had the pleasure of knowing her and her fine Christian character.

Mrs. McCollum was graduated from the Eldorado high school in 1929, she attended the San Angelo School of Fine Arts for two years after her graduation. She spent one year in Baylor College for women at Belton and one year at Sul Ross, Alpine, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. McCollum are making their new home at Alpine, Texas, and everyone is wishing them the greatest of happiness in their life together.

Refreshments were served at the shower to about sixty guests. Mrs. McCollum closed the afternoon's program by singing, "Take My Life and Let It Be."

T. E. L. CLASS IS ENTERTAINED

The T. E. L. class of the First Baptist church was entertained by Mrs. J. L. Ratliff, Mrs. Ed Finnigan, and Mrs. George Long on the lawn of the Finnigan home last Friday evening. Many games, such as "Hanging Out Clothes," "Putting the Pin on the Line," "Scissors," "My Ship Comes Sailing," and "Bible Spelling Match," were played under the direction of Mrs. Joab Campbell. Mr. Hoover was among the last to "load his ship" correctly. The Bible spelling match caused much mental strain and some of those present are still wondering if there are any Bible characters whose names begin with "Q," "W," or "Y." The ladies report that they do not understand why the men beat them at playing "Lemon."

Delicious refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. George Long, Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. Joab Campbell, Mrs. Mattie Cozzena, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ratliff, Miss John Alexander, Miss Nell Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Finnigan, Mary Hoover, Bob Hellen, and Beula Williams, and Ray Long.

COOPERATOR MAKES QUILT AT TWENTY-FIVE CENTS COST

"For only 25 cents, which I spent for dye and thread, I have a quilt that I'm very proud of," said Miss Oveda Faught, bed room cooperator of the Reynolds Home Demonstration club.

Miss Faught saved tobacco sacks which were given to her, until she had collected 250. Her brothers and sisters helped her rip them open. She then washed them and dyed some red, some blue and others ecru. She then pieced them into a quilt top in a "ric-rac" pattern. She used four flour sacks, dyed ecru color for the lining, and carded home grown cotton for batting.

R. L. Sample, Jr., left last week for Abilene where he will attend Simmons-Hardin University. He has procured a position in an Abilene drug store where he will work while attending school.

Black-Draught Brings Refreshing Relief of Constipation Troubles

Constipation produces many disagreeable sensations, several of which are mentioned by Mr. T. E. Stith, of Boonville, Ind., who writes: "I have used Theodor's Black-Draught many years when needed for biliousness and other minor ills when a laxative was needed. I have a tight feeling in my chest when I get bilious. I get dizzy and feel very tired, just don't feel like doing my work. After taking Black-Draught, I feel much better. This is why I continue to use it when needed." Theodor's Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, obtainable for 25¢ a package.

AMERICA'S HITLER

SNAGS A STUMP

Huey Long, the dictator of Louisiana, has had a small "clim put in his style" by a Federal jurist who has said that no names should be taken from the voting register of the state of Louisiana. Two voters charge that Long and others had conspired to remove their names from the voting rolls. Long has been having his day, but the "American Hitler" can't last much longer at his pranks with so much adverse public sentiment.

HOOVER LAMBASTS NEW DEAL

In an article appearing in last week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post, former President Hoover, in somber and convincing style, points out the dangers and impracticalities of the New Deal, labeling its idealism as "will-o'-the-wisps." Hoover's most striking words are: "I should be glad indeed to find a short cut to end the struggle with the intensities of human problems. I have no word of criticism but rather a great sympathy with those who honestly search human experience and human thought for some new way out, where freedom requires no safeguards, where justice requires no striving, where bread comes without contention and with little sweat."

The undertone of Mr. Hoover's article is very obvious. He is laughing at the idea of a man's wanting to better conditions. Some people have seen sober thoughts and ideas in Mr. Hoover's words—and possibly there are good thoughts in the article. God pity the man who can not think just a little; but Mr. Hoover is literally consoling himself for his failure to better conditions. We do not say that the New Deal is a "way out;" we rather doubt it; but the man who thinks our social and economic structures now are or have ever been at such a stage as would permit no improvement, has soured on the humanity and has gone back on man's chief purpose in living: that of overcoming such problems as stand in the way of humanity's ultimate salvation. Mr. Hoover is merely saying that he finds the problem a hopeless task; and he indicates that he has given up. And incidentally, when one gives up, there is no reason for consoling oneself for one's failures by condemning another's efforts. What we need is to join in a common cause, all hands that seek "to end the struggle with the intensities of human problems..." And we do not necessarily mean that we must all support the New Deal: there are better ways, yet untried.

The textile strike is growing serious and another problem is added to America's great burden. Such is the result of all strikes. Too many people care too little for the significance of "a square deal."

The United States is investigating firms which have been making profits by selling war implements. Such an investigation, if done thoroughly and with the intentions of obtaining results, may prove very beneficial to World peace.

UPTON SINCLAIR IN LIMELIGHT

Upton Sinclair, a former socialist, whose writings have, for several years, created a sensation in California, and who was recently nominated as the Democratic candidate for governor of California, has climbed into the national limelight by his two hour conference with President Roosevelt. The topic of conversation between Roosevelt and Sinclair was not revealed; but when asked if his "Epic Plan" to end poverty in California coincided with the New Deal, Sinclair answered affirmatively. Sinclair probably has a number of excellent ideas which will do to listen to (we should be open to any worthwhile suggestions which may help us to solve our current problems); but until thoroughly investigated, a man like Sinclair should not be given too much power.

SAN ANGELO PASTOR TO ESTABLISH MISSION HERE

Next Sunday at 3:00 o'clock, Rev. Raymond C. Wilson, pastor of the San Angelo Heights Baptist church will "teach some book of the Bible," he announces. This service Sunday is to be the first service of a regular mission which is to be established here. The service will be held at the courthouse in the district court room. Rev. Wilson recently closed a two weeks' revival in Eldorado.

A number of Eldorado people attended the second anniversary of Rev. Wilson's service as pastor of the San Angelo Heights Baptist church last Sunday. All day services featured the anniversary.

Rural Rehabilitation Work To Begin Soon

Austin, Sept. 6—The Texas Relief Commission's program of rural rehabilitation will be pushed to the limit during the next two months, it was announced today by J. E. Stanford, director of the department, as he issued instructions to his field supervisors to employ assistants to help them carry out the program during the next eight weeks.

It is the aim of the department to house every family possible and supply them with capital goods before the winter season arrives.

Federal authorities have been asked for a grant of $800,000 for rural rehabilitation in Texas in September, as against $250,000 for the current month.

Stanford reported the program now being carried on in 142 counties and said it will be extended to others as soon as rains break long existing drought in these counties.
