General Butler's Fantastic Story of Fascist Plot to Seize the Government—Strike in the Great Steel Industry Becomes Imminent.

EDWARD W. PICKARD

SOBER minded American citizens find it difficult to take seriously the fantastic story that Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler told to the congressional committee investigating un-American activities.

President Roosevelt is resting in his bath and rest at Warm Springs, Ga., but he is not neglecting the nation's business.

COMPTROLLER GENERAL J. R. McCARL has thrown a monkey-wrench into part of the machinery of Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

The FERA already has under way a program of "rehabilitating" 80,000 farm families in homes and on land to be sold to them by the government.

MORE and more it becomes evident that President Roosevelt intends to pursue a middle of the road policy in his efforts for national recovery, and that in the overwhelmingly Democratic next congress there will be no one faction strong enough to dictate to him.

Silas Strawn

Some leaders in and out of the government construed this action as indicating a conviction by the President that there were too many agencies floating around doing odd jobs without restraint.

Through the National Association of Manufacturers, invitations were sent to every manufacturer in the United States to attend a national industrial conference in New York on December 5 to draft "constructive recommendations" for presentation to President Roosevelt.

In a petition addressed to the President and congress the National Economic League has presented a definite program for balancing the federal budget in the coming fiscal year.

NOT so pleasing to the industrialists were the two speeches the President delivered during his inspection of the Tennessee valley project.

May Export Currency

Unrestricted exports of currency, but not gold or silver metal.

In Birmingham the President said: "I am aware that a few of you citizens are leaving no stone unturned to block and harass and delay this great national program."

Forty-five new bills were pushed through the Louisiana legislature in five days with Senator Huey Long on the rostrum telling the legislators just what to do.

NOTABLES of the Catholic church gathered in Chicago from all parts of the world to take part in the silver jubilee of Cardinal Mundelein, who was consecrated a bishop 25 years ago.

Shake-Up in Policies

Washington.—Administration plans and policies appear to be undergoing a shaking down process.

With the time only a month away for selection by the Democrats of their candidate for speaker of the house—selection that means election—the speakership fight is attracting much attention.

Speakership Fight

Although, as I said, the fight is wide open there are certain straws that tend to show the way the wind is blowing.

For example, Representative Byrnes of Tennessee, the Democratic leader while the late Mr. Rainey was speaker, normally would be expected to be chosen as speaker.

In support of this view was the action taken by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation which has cut off further loaning on homes.

On top of all this is a statement from White House quarters that the President will remain aloof.

On new loans. And so it is for the first time in the current administration we are witnessing a shrinkage, rather than an expansion, in governmental facilities set up as a part of the recovery program of the New Dealers.

Along with the establishment of the loan policy committee, there came an order from the treasury, bearing Mr. Roosevelt's approval, which once again allows unrestricted exports of currency, but not gold or silver metal.

Borah Criticizes

The responsibility which the administration carries in having such complete control of governmental machinery has its thorny cushion despite the ability to muster a two-thirds majority in both the house and the senate.

The first harpoon which the Idaho senator has thrown was directed at the relief policies pressed through and administered by professional relievers.

Of course, the administration has fought to ward off just such attacks as Mr. Borah has inaugurated, by announcement of employment plans and transfer of unemployed from relief rolls to work rolls.

In some quarters the lifting of the ban on currency exports was accepted as meaning that Mr. Roosevelt is not entertaining any thought of further devaluation of the currency.

This Election changed a lot of folks' idea on things. They have kinder become reconciled to the fact that the folks are not so excited about this great debt that is being piled up as they thought they were.

JUDGE WHITTEN'S PLANS FOR SCHLEICHER'S PART IN THE TEXAS CENTENNIAL

Worthy of lengthy comment and of the highest praises are Judge Whitten's plans for Schleicher's part in celebrating Texas' 100th birthday. Comment and praise are not all the dues of the Judge's plans—they deserve action: They should be carried to completion.

Not only does Judge Whitten, chairman of the Centennial Advisory Board, desire to compile data, in history form, on the development of every organization and industry in the County so as to "show people what we are doing," but he wishes to make important and needful preparation for the Centennial by beautifying and improving the city and County.

Judge Whitten has pointed out the advantages that Eldorado and Schleicher County might derive in increased tourist trade. He has also shown that some people may be attracted to this County permanently. "Attract People To Schleicher County in 1938" is the motto adopted by the Centennial Committee of this County.

A beautification and improvement committee are to be appointed by the Centennial Board and much work will be done in the County toward permanent improvements. Beauty, psychologists tell us, is one of the six most important essentials to happiness; and with more attractive highways and byways, a cleaner and more attractive city, more beautiful homes and more beautiful yards, we will not only be a happier community but we will make a better impression on our visitors.

"Even if there were no Centennial, the plans of this committee would be well worth carrying out," Judge Whitten has said; and we agree with him. LET'S JOIN HANDS AND CARRY THEM OUT.

THE HOUSING ACT AND ELDORADO

Through the efforts of our two local lumber yards, the people of Eldorado may either modernize homes or build new ones with long term loans at a low rate of interest. Nothing is more desirable or more essential than a well built modern home. High standards of living have been the pride of the American people for more than a century, and a nice home is an essential to the standard of living.

Eldorado needs to grow some—there is no surplus of houses in Eldorado; and we need some houses to accommodate our growing population.

Again, there are a number of others here who could and should own a nice home. The long term and low interest of the loans now offered afford people a chance of owning their own homes as easily as they can pay rent.

Still further, repairing, remodeling, and modernizing are also possible by the funds now available. Certainly these, too, are also necessary. It is cheaper to keep a home in repair than to let it run down.

And, too, we cannot be too emphatic about the essential qualities of beauty and comfort to a home. Beauty and comfort in the home are essential to happiness; and beautiful, well built homes are a drawing card to any community.

Eldorado is fortunate in having the opportunities now offered its citizens to build, repair, and modernize; and Eldorado's citizenship should not fail to take advantage of the opportunity.

THE HIGHWAY TO LAREDO

E. C. Hill, at a recent meeting of the Lions Club, pointed out the advantages of the new highway from Oklahoma to Laredo via San Angelo, Eldorado, Sonora, and Rocksprings.

The advantages of this highway cannot be stressed too much. Of course the highway through Eldorado is already constructed; and that, we believe, is the reason for such a lack of interest in the new highway. The highway from Sonora to Rocksprings, however, has neither been built nor designated, and the people of Schleicher should aid in encouraging this new highway.

The new highway will draw many people from Oklahoma to Mexico through Eldorado. On the other hand, the new attraction at Rocksprings, Devil's Sinkhole, is destined to rival if not surpass the wonderful Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico. The Carlsbad Caverns draw from 20- to 30- thousand people each year from all over the world—not just the United States. Towns along U. S. 62, the Carlsbad Cavern Route, get much tourist trade; and the town of Carlsbad, New Mexico (population, about 5,000) thrives on tourist trade alone.

Now, would the construction and designation of the Oklahoma-Laredo highway aid Eldorado?

Rev. A. J. Quinn and his family left yesterday for Brownwood. They will attend the Howard Payne Home Coming exercises today and the Howard Payne-Southwestern football game this afternoon.

Judge J. A. Whitten was back at his office yesterday following a several day period of illness.

SPORT SLANTS

Post Season Game

There seems to be in prospect a post-season game between the San Angelo Bobcats and the Eldorado Eagles. Local officials are reported to be in favor of such a game and word comes from San Angelo that such would meet with the approval of Harry Taylor, Bobcat mentor. It has been suggested that the two teams meet in exhibition under the lights in San Angelo Friday night, December 7.

Such a contest would, no doubt, prove financially worthwhile as it would draw a large number of fans from this section.

In event of such a game, we predict that the Class A Bobcats will have none too easy a fight in winning over the Eagles. This year's ensemble is far superior to plenty of Class A teams we have seen in action and apparently they are in the peak of form right here at the close of the season. The non-district game with Sonora today will serve to keep them in condition for the San Angelo affair, should such a game be booked.

Final Standing of District 17-B

	P.	W.	L.	Pct.
Rocksprings	5	5	0	1000
Eldorado	5	4	1	.800
Ozona	5	3	2	.600
Junction	5	2	3	.400
Sonora	5	1	4	.200
Menard	5	0	5	.000

The Winner

With the final curtain closed on conference games of District 17-B, we salute the winner, the Rocksprings Bulldogs. Not only have the new champions kept their slate unmarred by defeat, but they marched through their district schedule without permitting a single opponent to cross their goal line. A fine record, indeed.

Talk is emanating from football fans through out most of the district that the Eldorado Eagles possess a much stronger team than the Bulldogs, but, be that as it may, Rocksprings won the title and here's hoping that they go on and win the bi-district title.

The Eagles

For the Eagles,—they had a very successful season. Their impressive 33 to 0 victory over Ozona last Saturday placed them second in the final standing. In piling up four wins against one defeat, in district games they scored 99 points to only 7 for their opponents. Their goal line is yet ably defended save that lone touchdown that Rocksprings put over to force a tie in the district standing.

Of course it would have been great to have won the district gounfalon, but no criticism could mar the fact that the coaches and all of the players gave their best and this best was mighty fine.

These awards were won by taking a ten-minute test published monthly in the short hand magazine, "The Gregg Writer". The test is very difficult, but students have the privilege of practicing it as much as they like.

It is hoped that other students will also be able to qualify for certificates.

THE LITTLE OLD-FASHIONED GIRL

The little old-fashioned girls
Were pretty with all their curls
And ruffles and silks and laces
And pearly white hands and faces.

But then—they never could play
As little girls do today.

They never could climb up trees
("Matilda—come down from there, please!")
Or play with a ball and bat
("Maria, you mustn't do that!")
Or romp with the boys in the street
("Now, children, that isn't discreet!")

It couldn't have been any fun—
And I'm glad
That I never was one.

TALKING ABOUT FAVORITE MEALS

Too Many Good Combinations to Limit Choice.

By EDITH M. BARBER.

SOME ONE has asked me to write a few words concerning my favorite meal. This is really asking the impossible, because I have so many favorite food combinations. Perhaps you will like to hear, however, about one or two of the menus which I use for buffet suppers of which I am particularly fond. You see, my friends are so likely to bring along one or two extra persons, and a buffet supper can be stretched so easily. Actually, I seldom call any of the meals that I serve to my friends, dinner. When I invite them to supper they don't expect more than two courses, although they sometimes get three.

which is really not as rich as butter, a mixed green salad and individual shortcakes.

Mixed Green Salad.
Arrange in an extra large salad bowl, lettuce, watercress, sliced cucumbers and a clove of garlic encased in a cube of bread. At the table pour over about one-quarter of a cup of salad oil and mix thoroughly with a salad fork and spoon until every loaf is coated with oil. In the salad spoon put about one teaspoon of salt, half a teaspoon of mustard, half a teaspoon of sugar, and half a teaspoon of paprika, mix together and fill spoon with tarragon vinegar and mix again. Stir into salad, add half a teaspoon of vinegar, a sprinkle of freshly ground pepper, mix well, remove garlic and serve.

Toasted Cheese.
Flake one-half pound fresh cheese with a fork and arrange in a greased shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with salt, mustard and paprika, break an egg on top of the seasoning, pour in enough milk to cover cheese and mix well with fork. Set in a pan of hot water and bake 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., until set.

Veal Paprika.
2 pounds solid veal
Salt
Pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 clove garlic
1 cup water
3/4 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon paprika

25-Year Coal Fire Is Under Control

Mathewson, Colo.—The famous coal mine fire that has blazed here for 25 years is finally smouldering its last. Crews of men under direction of the United States geological survey worked 11 weeks to isolate the fire so that vast underground deposits of fuel may be utilized commercially. Hundreds of pounds of powerful explosives were used in cutting clear around the burning area and isolating it so that it will burn itself out.

son. Cook garlic in butter three minutes and remove. Add meat and sear on all sides until light brown. Add water, cover and simmer over a low fire one hour. Add cream and paprika and reheat.

Baked Tomatoes.
Cut tomatoes in halves, arrange on a baking dish, sprinkle liberally with salt, sugar and celery salt, cover with minced onion and arrange half a strip of bacon on each tomato. Bake about fifteen minutes in a hot oven, 425 degrees F., or twenty minutes in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F.

Apple-Orange Compote.
Peel, but do not core small cooking apples. Prepare a heavy sirup, using equal parts granulated sugar and water. Cook this sirup for five minutes. Put the pared apples in and simmer slowly until they are translucent. Remove from the sirup. Add two table-spoons fresh grated orange peel for each cup of sirup. Cool sirup. At serving time spoon it over the chilled apples. Garnish with whipped cream into which a small amount of iced cream cheese has been folded.

Sabayon Sauce.
Grated rind and juice of half lemon
3/4 cup sherry
1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs

Mix lemon, flavoring, sugar and yolks of eggs. Stir over hot water until it thickens. Pour on whites of eggs beaten stiff.

Tartare Sauce.
1 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons minced parsley
2 tablespoons minced chives or onion
2 tablespoons minced capers
2 tablespoons minced olives
2 tablespoons minced cucumber pickles
1 teaspoon tarragon vinegar

Mix the seasoning and stir into mayonnaise.

HOW IT STARTED
By JEAN NEWTON

"Better Late Than Never"
THE standby of the habitually tardy, the defense with which late-comers attempt to cover their embarrassment—"Better Late Than Never!"
How comforting it will be to those who have frequent need to announce themselves with this saying, that it is of classical origin!
For it was one of the famous "Maxims" of Publilius Syrus, the Roman writer of maxims, specifically, Maxim 864, that:
"It is better to learn late than never."
What matter whether the lateness is in learning or in keeping a dinner engagement—the sentiments of the great Roman have beautifully adapted themselves to modern life!

Nebraska Towns to Build

Lewis and Clark Park
Walthill, Neb.—Representatives of ten northwestern Nebraska towns have organized a Lewis and Clark national park group to promote development of a tract including 25,000 acres north of Decatur and east of the new scenic Highway No. 73.

Iowa towns have taken an interest and pledged their support of the recreational project. A bird sanctuary is proposed for both sides of the Missouri river at the site of the park. The old mission recognized as one of the most picturesque spots in the Middle West will be included in the survey of the tract.

First in Back to the Land Movement

Ernest Jeffers was the first city dweller to sign an application for two acres of land at Pinehurst, N. J. Hundreds applied for the land to live on and to till, as part of the back-to-the-farm movement. Most of the men are on relief in New York. They will clear the land themselves and make other applications to the housing administration to build their homes.

Lights of New York By L. L. STEVENSON

A treasure hunt within sight of the skyscrapers of Manhattan seems somewhat out of place. But one is going on right now. As a matter of fact, it is a double search, since two competing outfits are engaged in it and the chances are excellent that there will be a third entry. The newcomer in the field, if he follows his announced intention, will be none other than Simon Lake, inventor of the submarine, who recently completed an underwater craft designed primarily for locating treasures, from gold to coal, on the bottom of the sea. In fact, the "mother ship" of the new craft can suck up as much as 300 tons of coal an hour and that runs into money. It is not coal, however, that the New York treasure hunters are seeking. They are after the yellow metal that is so precious just now. The place of the search is the East river, one party, equipped with an ocean going tug, being at work at Hell Gate and the other off East 130th street. For many days now, divers have been prowling around in the mud of the river bottom. The object of their quest is the old British ship Hussar.

The Hussar went down in 1780. According to records, she struck one of the many rocky reefs in the East river and probably slid into deep water, there being a stone ledge that drops off to a depth of 80 feet. Fourteen years after the sinking, salvage operations were begun. Those of 1794 were not successful. Eighty-two years later another attempt was made. Then, the ship is said to have been actually brought to the surface of the river. But it broke in two, sank and could not be recovered again. The interest in the wreck lies in the fact that it was supposed to have been carrying gold worth at present prices about $5,000,000, the money being the pay of British troops in this country. It is said that British admiralty records fail to show any such shipment. But treasure hunters are always hopeful and so, after 154 years, there is renewed search for the wreck.

MIGHT TRY WALKING

"I wish I could find a cheap substitute for gasoline."
"Have you tried car tickets?"

evolutionary days, I dropped into the New York Historical society to look at those powder horns that go back to the French and Indian wars of 1755-65, the Revolution, and the War of 1812. It seems that the soldiers of those days spent much of their spare time decorating the horns in which they carried their powder. Gunsmiths and silversmiths also engraved horns for sale. A soldier would purchase one and allow his companions to make copies of it, never dreaming of course that in the years to come their pastime would become collectors' items. The most highly prized are "map" horns. Nine in the French and Indian collection are engraved with maps of the Province of New York.

So proud of their powder horns were the owners that they engraved them with their names. One belonged to Phineas Bunting in 1761. Another belonged to Robert Lloyd at Oswego in 1756 and another bears the inscription: "Daniel Chapman, his horn, made at Lake George Oct. ye 13: 1753 in defense of Independence." One belonged to William Elmslie, who, in addition to a map of Northern New York, engraved on it "The front of Town House, old Meldrum in Aberdeenshire." One guess as to the land of his birth.

Typed Messages by Radio
Gleim Watson of Detroit and Walter Lémon of New York have perfected a machine, known as a Watsonograph, which will send typed messages by radio. As each key on the machine, which resembles an ordinary typewriter, is pressed it sends out a cryptic flash over a five-meter wave length, which operates a corresponding key on a similar machine equipped for receiving.
Automatic coding and decoding is also incorporated on the device, this equipment scrambling the message so that only the machine for which it is intended can unscramble the information. To prevent eavesdropping by a clever cryptographer, the code may be changed at will by simply throwing a switch.—Pathfinder Magazine.

HOW TO SHOOT

By Bob Nichols

Shooting Editor, Field and Stream

MANY good shots prefer the single-barrel gun. Guns in this class are the pump-gun, the automatic, and also the so-called "over-and-under." The last named is really a double-barrel gun. But its barrels are superimposed, one on top of the other, so that it offers the single-barrel alignment of the true single-tube guns such as the pump and auto-loader.

The reason they give for their preference is that the single tube is easier and quicker to aim. And more accurate to aim.

In my opinion, this preference is largely imaginary. I, too, shoot the single-tube gun and prefer it to the double-barrel. But I have tested myself time and again on the skeet field and find that I shoot just as well with either type of gun.

The single-barrel shooter's most commonly expressed objection to the double-barrel gun is that the twin barrels confuse him and cause him to "cross-fire." What he means is that his eye unconsciously lines up either one of the barrels, usually the left barrel in the case of a right-handed shooter, instead of lining up the center of the gun on the target. Obviously, if your eye is unconsciously aiming the left barrel of a double-barrel, the chances are that you will almost certainly shoot behind the flying target.

My answer to the single-tube versus the double-barrel gun controversy is this: If you are so conscious of your gun that two tubes out there instead of only one confuses you—then I say you are paying too much attention to your gun, and you are not shooting a shotgun the way a shotgun should be shot!

In the first place, your eyes should be at "universal focus." In other words, your eyes, both wide open, should be aware of everything in a fairly wide field of vision. Roughly, I should say that about 60 per cent of your vision should be concentrated on the target, about 30 per cent on the gun, and about 10 per cent dispersed over an area perhaps ten yards on both sides of the target. I think this proportion is very nearly correct for shots in the open.

Note the great advantage of this, say in quail hunting for instance. Your faithful old dog stands on rigid point. You walk in carefully and flush the covey. Up they go with a roar. With your eyesight correctly proportioned to the first bird you pick out, to your gun, and to the remaining birds—you quickly knock down your first shot, swing like a flash on the second, which your 10 per cent vision makes you keenly aware of, and if you are quick enough in your gun handling and are shooting a repeater you may even get in a third shot. And after all the shooting's over you know where the main body of the birds went and you can immediately start for the right patch of cover to begin taking your singles.

The man who uses too much of his vision in watching his gun—or the man who shoots with one eye closed—can't begin to do this. After the first shot he is floundering, and when his eyes finally focus on the second bird he needs the range of a full-choke barrel to catch it—and the third shot on the rise is almost impossible. Moreover, usually he will be in the dark as far as knowing where all the rest of the birds flew to.

For the frequent shot one gets in thick woods and brush—especially on grouse, and quite often on quail—here I think the really good shot seldom sees his gun. His vision is concentrated about 80 per cent on the target and 20 per cent dispersed over an area around and ahead of the target. This is called the "snap" shot. It is pure, instinctive gun pointing. It can be extremely accurate. But it should be used only in emergency—never in open country where easy, deliberate aiming is possible. For the deliberate aim is the surest killer.

Denmark's Bicycle Rider Always Has Right of Way

In Denmark, writes Harry A. Franck in "A Scandinavian Summer," the bicycle always has the right of way. There are no exceptions and no excuses. Automobile drivers who dislike dodging bicycles ought certainly to leave their cars behind when they visit the little land of the Danes. True, most two-wheeled riders there usually hold out a hand to right or left when about to swerve from a straightforward route—so habitually, in fact, that many Danes unconsciously do so even on foot! and not a bad idea at that. But a cyclist may cut in from either side at any time on any street or road.

An excellent highway runs up the east coast of the island of Zealand, from Copenhagen to Hamlet's Elsinore and the popular sea beach beyond. But it is not open to automobiles on Sundays during the summer.

The constant motionless sailing through the air of solemn faced people on bicycles—high-hatted ministers of the church, frock-tailed ministers of the government, haughty ladies in limousine garb, stodgy old ladies from the country, waiters in full dress, irrespective of the hour of the day—is one of the principal sights of Denmark, its most distinguishing characteristic. Out in the country old peasant women whom you would never suspect of mounting anything more unseemly than a rocking chair, sedately and noiselessly glide past on bicycles.

CHAIR BACK AND ARM REST DESIGN

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

"Tulip" Chair Back and Arm Rests; Three-Piece Set in Filet Crochet.

Chair backs and arm rests in crochet have been used for generations and are today again very popular for practical and decorative purposes.

How much more inviting is a chair that has this added personal touch and in a design that stands out clearly on a dark background.

This set in a conventional tulip design is easy work even for the inexperienced. The large filet stitch being used makes the work interesting, and a surprisingly short time is required to finish the set. It is an attractive addition to your living room or a valued gift for a friend.

The chair back measures 10 by 14 inches, the arm rests 6 by 10 inches if crocheted with a fairly tight stitch.

A looser stitch will produce a larger size. This package, No. 705, contains sufficient cream-colored Mount Craft Crochet Cotton to complete this three-piece set, also crochet hook. Instructions are included, also a black and white diagram of the design so the meshes may be easily counted.

Write our crochet department, enclosing 40 cents for this complete package, No. 705, which contains sufficient thread to make this beautiful set, or send 10 cents for the instructions and diagram only.

Address—Home Craft Co.—Dep't. B, Nineteenth and St. Louis Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Enclose a stamped addressed envelope when writing for any information.

Perfume and Beauty

There are tricks in the way you use perfume. To achieve a mystifying effect of haunting fragrance, spray it only on the hem of your skirt. Or perfume your hair, or dab a drop on each wrist, on your throat and the lobes of your ears. Perhaps you prefer to spray your lingerie with toilet water or to get your effect solely by using carefully chosen sachets. Experiment cautiously, and use too little rather than too much. Faint sweetness charms the imagination; too clamorous an odor invites resistance. Know your perfumes, use them with art, and they will work enchantment.—Ruth Murrin in Good Housekeeping.

GUNSTON MANOR

CLASSED AMONG WORLD'S FINEST

Within a radius of five miles about Mount Vernon, which was land owned either by Washington or his friends, many landmarks have been restored and now form a new frame for the home of our first President.

Among Mount Vernon's most historical neighbors is Gunston hall. This noted house can be reached from Mount Vernon by the Richmond road in about twenty minutes, but the distance by river, the route often taken by the Washingtons, is not more than five miles.

Of the house there, Paul Kester, brother of Vaughan Kester, who wrote "The Prodigal Judge" while the two were living at Gunston, says "It is easily one of the great houses of the world and its glory has not departed." Beautiful architecturally and historically interesting as the house is, it is the garden which spells magic for the visitor.

The view of the river and Maryland shore is inexpressibly lovely as one sits in a pergola at the end of the garden and sees that vast panorama of hills and water. It is said that the Mount Vernon boxwood was slipped from that of Gunston hall and it may readily be, for though the present house was not built until 1758 it took the place of an earlier one built in 1725.

The house was the manor of the vast Mason plantation, larger than that of Mount Vernon with its farms.

It remained in the hands of the Mason family until the Civil war, a longer period of tenure than Mount Vernon in the Washington family.

Washington's diaries make constant reference to visits and dinners between his own and the Mason family.
