ELDORADO LIONS ELECT OFFICERS FOR FISCAL YEAR

At the regular weekly meeting of the Eldorado Lions Club, held at the Eldo Hotel on Wednesday, officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

C. Snell, first vice president; Don McCormick, second vice president; E. C. Hill and O. E. Conner, one year directors; C. S. McKinney and Tom Kent, two year directors; N. P. Wilkinson, Lion Tamer; R. L. Sample, Tail Twister.

Election of the president was deferred until the next meeting of the club.

Other business, including the reports of various committees and final arrangements for the completion of clean-up week in Eldorado, was postponed.

Men of Methodist Church Hold Banquet

About thirty men, members of the local Methodist church and their friends, gathered at the church at eight o'clock Tuesday evening for their regular monthly banquet.

The program included songs, "Beautiful Texas" and "Carolina Moon," sung by W. W. Jackson, Pat Waller and Clyde Keeney, accompanied by Margaret Hill; a piano and violin duet by Mrs. C. E. Poer and Miss Celeste Tisdale; piano solos by Mrs. Poer and Miss Tisdale, and two vocal solos by Mrs. Thorpe Parker, accompanied by Mrs. E. C. Hill.

The principal address of the evening was by Rev. Tennyson Nixon, Baptist pastor at Harper. Other talks were made by Rev. P. S. Connell and J. C. Carr.

PARENT TEACHERS ASSOCIATION ACTIVE

Before any school can be successful in training the child for worth while citizenship, the co-operation and interest of the parents must be demonstrated. The patrons of the Eldorado school have been interested in the welfare of their children from the first. This is demonstrated by the fact that a Parent Teacher Association was formed at an early date.

In 1913 a Mothers' Club was formed in Eldorado. Mrs. P. H. McCormick served as the first president, and Mrs. Lewis as the second president. After about three years the name was changed from the Mothers' Club to the Parent Teacher Association.

At present the Parent Teacher Association is doing good work for the school, tho not as many parents take part in the organization as should.

Mrs. Robert Milligan is president this year.

Roy Pennington and family, of Excelsior Springs, Missouri, spent three days this week with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. Z. Pennington. Roy, who is manager of the Montgomery Ward store in his city, is enjoying a ten day vacation, and was en route to Greeley, Colorado.

Economics Department Is Highly Commended

The department of home economics of Eldorado high school, newest division of that institution, received high praise this week from Miss Ruth Huey, state supervisor of home economics, who made a careful inspection of the work in the local school.

Miss Huey commended the work of the new department very highly, and especially complimented the work of Miss Ford, home economics teacher, and her pupils, on the progress made in the department during the one year of its existence.

Miss Huey announced after her inspection that the local department would receive credits toward affiliation for the work of the year.

Finnigan in Charge Of Texaco Station

Ernest Finnigan this week took over the management of the local Texaco station, and will supply the needs of users of Texas Company petroleum products in this section in the future.

Mr. Finnigan is not a stranger in this county, as he is a brother of Ed Finnigan, and stayed two years with his brother some years ago. He comes here from Brady.

Mr. Finnigan will feature a complete washing and greasing service, employing the Texaco system of certified lubrication. He invites the public to come in and get acquainted.

Y. W. A. Meets At First Baptist Church

The Y. W. A. met Monday, May 13, at the Baptist church.

Leola Boyer was in charge of the program. We sang "Make Me a Channel of Blessing." Elvora Andrews gave the Scripture reading, and we sang "I Gave My Life for Thee."

Others taking part on the program were Misses Pat Kent, Evelyn Anderson, Florence Page, and Mesdames Jack Kerr and Jimmie West. We were glad to welcome Miss Pauline Kent as a new member.

Next Monday night we hope all members will make a special effort to come to the meeting. When you are absent you are missed and you miss a blessing. Stop long enough in the rush of life to worship God.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR CLOSING OF SCHOOLS OF CITY

School Life Draws to Close For Seniors of Eldorado High As Examinations Come to End

This week marks the close of high school life for the members of the class of 1935 of the Eldorado high school. Senior examinations are being held Thursday and Friday, and with the close of examinations, nothing remains of school days except the graduation exercises.

On Sunday morning at eleven o'clock the commencement sermon will be preached at the First Baptist church by Rev. N. P. Wilkinson of the Presbyterian church. The seniors will attend in a body and will be seated in a specially reserved section.

The climax of the commencement activities will come on next Thursday night, May 23, when the graduating exercises will take place in the high school auditorium. The speaker of the occasion will be Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne College, at Brownwood. Dr. Taylor is well known as one of the ablest speakers of Central Texas, and the seniors are fortunate in securing him for this occasion.

Margaret Hill will deliver the valedictory, and Lois Whiteley the salutatory. High school diplomas will be presented by Superintendent R. D. Holt.

Housing Administration Reports on Work Done

J. A. Whitten, chairman of the Federal Housing Administration for Schleicher county, makes the following report of work done, and reported since Title I has been in effect:

Eighteen jobs, running $25.00 to $2,500.00 each, amounting to a total of $10,846.00, with possibly $2,500.00 spent for labor.

Prospects for several small jobs which if done will raise our totals to fourteen or fifteen thousand dollars.

Title I of this act will expire on the last day of this year, and we suggest that all who are interested make their application at once. We are of the opinion that much more valuable work could be done in town, and that many ranchmen and farmers should avail themselves of this opportunity to make needed improvement while it can be done.

Title II of the Federal Housing Act is now in force, which as you know provides for building new homes as well as refinancing existing homes where short terms and high interest rate makes it impossible to keep the loans in good standing.

We will be glad to assist in any way possible in your application, and believe that we can secure the finances to build homes, where the applicants can meet the federal requirements.

We will be glad to give you any information possible, and under Title II there should be number of new homes built here. See me or either of the committee, who are C. E. Knight and L. L. Baker.

Baptist Brotherhood To Hold Regular Meet

The Baptist Brotherhood, an organization of the men of the First Baptist church, will hold its regular monthly meeting in the basement of the church Monday evening at eight o'clock.

Judge George T. Wilson of San Angelo will address the men at this meeting. Judge Wilson is well known as an interesting and forceful speaker, and will bring a worth while message.

All men and young men of the city are cordially invited to be present.

New Manager For Humble Gas Station

The Humble station on Main street is now under the management of Chester Burk, son of A. J. Burk of this city. Mr. Burk took charge of the station Tuesday of this week.

The station will handle a line of tires, tubes and accessories, and will specialize in fixing flats and in greasing and lubrication service.

The Humble station was formerly under the management of Ben Isaacs.

Mrs. Crosby Hostess With Bridge Party

Mrs. J. C. Crosby was hostess on Thursday afternoon to her bridge club and several guests. Three tables of players enjoyed bridge during the afternoon.

Among the club members present were Mesdames Louis Ballew, H. T. Finley, Louis Whitten, Albert Bailey, Bernice Sammons, Oscar Martin and Otis Buie.

Guests were Miss Agnes Ray, Mrs. Jerry Westmoreland, Mrs. Joe Williams and Mrs. Elton Smith.

High score prizes went to Mrs. Louis Ballew for club members and Mrs. Joe Williams for guests.

Growth of Library Surpasses All Hopes

The Schleicher county library, located in the county commissioners' office, has advanced in size and importance in the civic life of the county more rapidly than its founders had ventured to hope.

Opening on April 20, less than a month ago, with seventy-five volumes, the library now has on its shelves a total of 230 volumes and the number is constantly increasing.

The library is open to the public on Wednesday and Saturday afternoon of each week, and the average number of books taken out each library day is between forty and fifty. While many of the books are being read in Eldorado, the circulation of the library extends to all sections of the county.

Members of the civic bodies responsible for the organization of the library are delighted with the enthusiastic reception being accorded it, and feel well repaid for the time and labor required.

Miss Pat Kent accompanied Mrs. Oscar Martin to Llano Saturday where they spent the week end with relatives, returning to Eldorado Monday.

CO. COMMISSIONERS IN REGULAR SESSION IN TOWN THIS WEEK

The county commissioners court met in regular session at the court house in Eldorado on Monday, May 13, with H. W. Finley, county judge, presiding, and all four commissioners present. The meeting was also attended by Sheriff O. E. Conner and County Clerk Isaacs.

Among other matters coming before the court was the quarterly report of the county treasurer, Mrs. Mabel Parker. This report was approved and will be found in full on another page of this issue of The Success.

Matters pertaining to school lands of Schleicher county were discussed during the session, and a number of bills were allowed and ordered paid.

It was ordered by the court to cut real estate valuation in the county twenty per cent of the 1934 rendition.

Other routine business was transacted before adjournment.

CITY COUNCIL HELD SESSION TUES. NITE

The first session of the newly elected city council of Eldorado was held Tuesday night at the First National Bank building.

Those present were Mayor A. T. Wright and Aldermen J. L. Ratliff, L. L. Baker, George R. Long and J. S. Loyd. Alderman A. J. Roach was absent.

The financial condition of the city was discussed, and the report of Ben L. Isaacs, city tax assessor and collector, was heard, the report showing the city finances to be in rather bad condition. The mayor appointed a committee of three, composed of L. L. Baker, J. L. Ratliff and J. S. Loyd, to get up a complete audit of the city finances, and report on same to the council.

The council discussed the consolidation of the offices of city marshal, tax assessor and tax collector and pound keeper. Definite action on this matter was postponed until a later date.

The council discussed a sanitary tax of three dollars annually on all pit toilets furnished by the city, which have not been fifty per cent paid out. This matter was also deferred until the next regular meeting. It was the opinion of the council that those who benefit from the purchase should bear the tax, and that those who have other conveniences should not have to pay for pit toilets.

This will be further discussed at the next meeting, and after the citizens have been made acquainted with the financial condition of the city, the authorities are confident of their support. The records show that the city owes some $3,800 on these pit toilets. The exact figures will be furnished after the report of the auditing committee is made.

Other minor matters were discussed, among them the question of paying the councilmen and mayor two dollars for each meeting of council. This was recommended by the mayor, and will be acted on later. The regular meeting of the city council will be on the second Tuesday night of each month.

To The Patrons of The Eldorado Public School

I take this method of publicly expressing my appreciation to the citizens of the Eldorado community for their co-operation with and interest in the schools during the past eight years.

During this period of service in your community, I have honestly and to the best of my ability worked to increase the efficiency of your schools so that the boys and girls of this community could receive training as good as that given anywhere in the state, and so that they would be prepared to assume the duties and obligations which go with American citizenship.

Naturally, not all pupils have been interested in this training, and naturally our school system can yet be greatly improved. The greatest asset of any community is its children, and their training and education should be given an important part in all community activities.

During the past eight years some 115 students have graduated from the local high school to go out and take their place in life. The greatest commendation which can be given to the community, the parents, the teachers and the school is that most of these are now making useful citizens whose lives and characters stand for the right in the community where they live.

My best wishes are ever for the good people of the Eldorado community and for the boys and girls who have attended school here during the last several years. May you co-operate with your schools in the future and with the next superintendent of schools so that the youth of this community may receive such training as will best fit them to meet all the problems of life.

I prize the friendship of the Eldorado people very highly and hope that I may ever hold such friendship.

Sincerely,
R. D. HOLT.

Mother of Local Woman Dies at Brownwood

Mrs. W. O. Turner of Brownwood, mother of Mrs. Ben Hext of Eldorado, passed away Sunday morning at one o'clock.

Mrs. Turner would have been seventy-eight years of age if she had lived until September 23 of this year. Death resulted from a heart attack.

Ten children survive, all of whom were present at the funeral services which were held at ten o'clock Monday morning, in Brownwood.

"IT DOESN'T PAY"

Raymond Hamilton, the latest to hold the ominous title of "public enemy No. 1" in the Southwest, has gone the way of many of his predecessors in that unenviable rank. And again it has been proved that crime does not pay.

Especially has that fact been clearly demonstrated since the forces of the United States government have joined hands with those of the states for the suppression of crime.

It hasn't been many months since folks apparently had reason to believe that crime might pay. The "big shots" were the men of the hour, their names and pictures were on every front page. If they happened to run out of ready cash, it was but the work of a few minutes to hold up a bank and secure all they needed. If it became necessary to shoot down a few employes or customers or policemen, that was all in the game. It looked like an easy life, a few months ago.

But later events have changed the picture considerably. Of the major criminals, scarcely one is still alive and uncaptured. Kelly, Bailey, Floyd, Dillinger, Nelson, the Barrows and their gang, the Touhy gang, Hamilton, the leaders in the war against society have been taken off the map with a promptness and thoroughness that speaks well for the law enforcement agencies of the nation.

It is to be hoped that every young man in the entire country who may contemplate a life of crime as the sure way to "easy money" will stop and consider the score for law and order for these past months. It seems to us to be strong enough evidence that crime doesn't pay.

THE FARM CHEMURGIC

The "Declaration of Independence" proclaimed on May 7 at Dearborn, Michigan, by delegates from more than thirty states attending the Conference of Agriculture, Industry and Science, may well prove a notable landmark in the economic history of the United States. Basically it advocates a "philosophy of plenty" instead of a "philosophy of scarcity," and may therefore be regarded as a challenge to the AAA curtailment program of the administration.

This challenge, however, is only incidental. Like the signers of the Declaration of Independence in 1776, the framers of the Dearborn resolution aim at goals far above the merely political. They present no instant panacea for all existing distress, but in the words of one speaker, the American farmer "hopes this conference will set in motion influences that will do more for rural life than the politician has ever been able to accomplish."

But it is not the purpose of the delegates who attended the conference to promote the interests of the farmer at the expense of other classes of the community. While maintaining that the "basic sustenance of men issues from the soil and not from merchants' shelves," the intent is to bring into every possible co-operation the discoveries of natural science and the most successful methods of industry, and apply them to new and as yet almost unexplored fields of agriculture—the doctrine long preached and practically demonstrated to some degree in his factory-farm projects by Henry Ford. It is pointed out that new sources of income will restore the purchasing power of the farmer, thus helping to revive industry and reduce unemployment in urban centers.

"Chemurgic farming" is a newly coined term which will probably become familiar before very long. Members of the Chemical Foundation, sponsors of the conference, told the delegates that applied chemistry could and would enable the farmer to become more than a producer of foodstuffs by finding new industrial uses for great basic crops, thus giving him greatly increased markets.

The medieval word for chemist was alchemist. His chief and perpetual pursuit was the transmutation of baser metals into gold. The day may be here when the modern chemist, by enlarging the market for farm produce and by processing crops where they are raised, will transmute the languishing farm into a hive of industry, and the artificial "philosophy of scarcity" into the natural and normal "philosophy of plenty."—Christian Science Monitor.

POWDERED MILK GIVEN TO TEXAS CLIENTS BY RELIEF COMMISSION

Austin.—Texas relief clients this week began to receive milk in powdered form as a surplus commodity from many of the county relief offices thruout the state.

Aware that the overwhelming majority of relief roll families, and particularly the children in these families, were not receiving the essential elements for normal growth and health found in milk, relief officials have long been seeking a means by which more of this valuable body builder may be included in the diet of the relief roll family.

Dry skim milk is the answer. It is being distributed in 200-pound barrel lots by the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation to a number of states, there to be packaged in one-pound paper bags by relief labor.

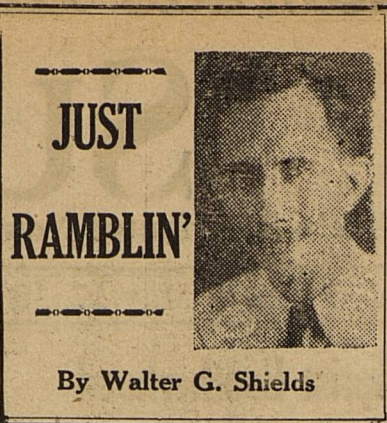

Dry skim milk is fresh, sweet liquid milk from which the fat and water have been removed, leaving fine, creamy white powder. It contains all the solids of the original milk except the fat and fat soluble substances. Since its fat content is very low, dry skim milk does not deteriorate easily, and can be kept under ordinary conditions for at least six months.

It is reduced to the powdered form in the following manner:

Water is driven off from fluid milk until it is about the consistency of evaporated milk. This thick fluid is then sprayed into a special container in a current of hot air. The remainder of the water is instantly evaporated and particles of milk solids fall like snow to the bottom of the container.

The relative value of dry skim milk and fluid milk may be seen in the fact that one cup of dry skim milk added to a quart of water is the equivalent of one quart of skim milk. Three tablespoons of butter added produces a quart of whole milk.

Editing a paper without ruffling anybody's feelings is like fishing without a hook on your line. You get lots of recreation, but mighty little results. And results, not recreation, is the proof of the value of the exercise.

Fate, Providence, or whatever you may choose to call it, plays strange tricks at times. And also the world, in spite of its size, is but a small place after all.

These gems of wisdom were called forth by an occurrence of last Saturday afternoon; an occurrence which, for all the reputed toughness of our hide and hardness of our heart, made us right sentimental for a while.

We were here in the office, reading papers from various towns of West Texas. In the course of the reading we picked up the paper published in our neighboring town of Christoval. On the front page of that paper was a story headed "The Dead Line," and glancing casually over the first lines, we found that it was a story of the Civil War. So we began to read with more interest.

As we read, we began to have an odd feeling of having read or heard that story before. The feeling grew as we continued on to the end of the account. And there at the end we learned the reason. For the story carried at the end the name of the author—and it was "J. J. Smith, Covington, Georgia."

"Uncle John" Smith! Or, as he was known to everybody in the old home town, "Cap'n John." An officer of the Confederacy, a staunch and loyal follower of the "Lost Cause," a true gentleman of the Old South! Many the day in childhood that we sat on a low stool beside "Uncle John" and heard him tell of his stirring adventures during the war; many the tradition of the courtesy and gallantry of the South that he instilled into our heart; above all, many the lesson of loyalty to the Stars and Stripes that he taught us in later years, when we became able to reason about questions of patriotism.

More years have passed than we like to count, or even to think about. We suppose that Uncle John and his faithful, loving wife, Aunt Sallie, have long been resting under the sod of that Old South whose glory and traditions of history they loved so well, and whose might and importance in the world of today and tomorrow they saw so clearly. The comrades and followers of Uncle John are passing fast; a scant handful today still marches, out of the thousands of erect figures in Confederate gray who flocked to reunions in our childhood. The glory of the Old South is being overshadowed and forgotten in the glory of the industrial New South.

For the New South has its glories as well as the Old, and we're glad to be a part of the South of today. Yet there is a glamour of heroism over the South of "before the war" that is unknown in any other land, we believe. In the sons of the Old South there was a fervently blazing patriotism for the land of their birth, the like of which we never see today. In our modern age "Dixie" is just another tune, and a far from popular one at that, but we can recall, not too many years ago, when the opening strains of that lilted battle song would be greeted by a ringing, roaring chorus of rebel yells that would drown out the best efforts of any band in short order.

The economic system of the Old South was a false one, and doomed to failure. The political theories of the Old South would have disrupted and wrecked the entire western civilization, had they had the misfortune to succeed. Yet in the flaming patriotism of her people the Old South had the one quality which it seems to us that our nation most needs today.

And the chivalry and the courtesy of Uncle John and other Southern gentlemen of his day is another quality which the world of today could use pretty well. Of course we are all in a hurry today, and we don't have time to be courteous. And of course the ladies have equal rights and expect to be treated like men in the business and professional world. That's all right, of course; that's progress. But we're still old foggy enough to long, sometimes, for the courtesy and gentility which were taught us and practiced by this veteran of the Civil War.

When folks speak of "veterans of the war" today, most likely they mean those of our own age who carried the Stars and Stripes thru the Argonne and over the Hindenburg Line. It's hard for us to realize or accept the fact that we are a veteran. To us a veteran is still one of the beloved figures of our childhood, gray-haired, gray bearded, but erect and active still in that day; the remnant of the army that was "worn out and starved out and exhausted, but never conquered."

Such thoughts have flocked into our mind since reading that story which Uncle John had told us so many times. It is strange that it came under our eye as it did, fifteen hundred miles from where we first heard it, and after the lapse of years. We wonder how it got into print, and if any other of Uncle John's reminiscences were written. If they were, they make a thrilling narrative; more interesting than any fiction can ever be to us.

We're living in a modern age and in an up-to-the-minute town; we seldom think much about history. Yet at heart maybe we're still an un-reconstructed Rebel in lots of things. In any case, we are proud to have known, and loved, and been loved by, Captain John J. Smith, a true Southern gentleman and a loyal American.

HIGH POINTS IN LOCAL SCHOOL DEVELOPMENT

Founded in 1895, Miss Marian Goldwire was the first teacher, according to information furnished by the Mias Amigos Club, an organization of ex-students of the school. The trustees were B. F. McCartney, C. C. West and W. B. Silliman. There were eight pupils who attended this school.

First class to graduate from high school was in 1907. An account of the members of this class will be found elsewhere in this paper.

First brick building was erected in 1909. This is the front part of the present building nearest the highway. A bond issue of $20,000 was voted to pay for the building.

In 1925, eight rooms and an auditorium were added to the brick building which had been erected in 1925, and the whole building was remodeled and modernized.

In 1931 the Eldorado high school was added to the list of schools accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the highest ranking that can be given to a school, permitting the graduates to enter any college without examination.

KNOWING YOUR SCHOOL

The patrons of the Eldorado public schools and the taxpayers of the Eldorado Independent School District should be proud of the work and of the records of their school. Naturally, no institution or person is perfect, and the work of any school or any teacher is never so good that it might not be improved. Thus no claim is laid to perfection for the local schools, and they are constantly working to improve so that they will at all times offer the very best possible training for the boys and girls of this community, so that they can become the best citizens possible.

Aims and Objectives

The principal aim and function of any modern school is to give boys and girls training that will fit them for citizenship along numerous lines. Mental development means the ability to think for oneself, to find facts and then use them correctly, and the ability to reason. Character development means the development of those characteristics that have been the backbone of the American people, such as honesty, fidelity to trust, loyalty, perseverance and obedience. Physical development means the growth of the bodies of the younger generation so that they will have health in years to come so that they can enjoy the good things of life and do efficient work in some occupation.

Vocational training means that each boy and girl should be better trained to make a living after high school training than he was before. The school does not attempt to train the boy so that he can step immediately into a good job, but it does attempt to train the pupil in certain fundamentals which he can use personally in any trade. The school aims that he shall be so trained that he can adapt himself to whatever vocation he chooses, or whatever situations he may meet.

The schools are not attempting to train the boy or girl so that they will not have to work for a living. Parents often get the idea that their children should go to school so that they will not have to work later, but this is a fallacy that should be corrected now.

An education is not to get a person out of work, but is merely to teach them how to do more work and more efficient work than they could have done otherwise.

School itself is not a period for loafing, and he who throws away his time in school should be deprived of the opportunities which the school furnishes. The pupil who does not take advantage of the citizenship training which the school is trying to furnish at the present time is the loser. All that the community can do is to offer the best training possible for the citizen, and the children in the Eldorado community are as deserving of the best as are the children living in any large city.

The School Curriculum

The subjects taught in the local schools at the present time are selected with the above objectives and goals in mind. The state chooses the course of study to a large extent, but the local school has the right, to a great extent, to adapt the course to the pupils of this community. The subjects offered are such that will give the pupil a broad training, the fundamental of an education, and at the same time offer some work that will be vocational, and some cultural.

Civic training is especially emphasized in such courses as government, civics, economics, and history. Vocational agriculture and home economics are offered to prepare the pupil better for some definite work. English, literature and music are intended to prepare the pupil for the enjoyment of leisure time.

Adequate Library

One of the greatest features of the school at the present time is the furnishing of good books to boys and girls. The local school, while the supply is not what is desired, is equipped to teach the pupils how to enjoy good reading and how to find facts for themselves. The high school has a good library with a trained librarian, as is required of all schools of the same first class rating.

Each room in the elementary grades has books for pleasure reading and also general reference books. One of the greatest improvements in the schools in recent years is in the type of readers which are being used as textbooks, for now these books are related to the life of the pupil and are not entirely outside of his experiences.

Teachers Are Qualified

Every high school teacher holds a degree from some standard college or university. Three teachers hold masters' degrees, and practically all the others have done graduate work.

All except three of the elementary teachers in the Eldorado school hold college degrees. Only two teachers in the entire system do not hold permanent certificates. With two exceptions, every teacher in the entire district attended college or took some college work by correspondence during the past summer, in order that they might be better qualified to perform their duties as teachers.

No other class of workers have to spend more of their time and income in preparation for their duties than do teachers.

Good College Records

The pupils who have been graduated from the Eldorado high school have records that will compare favorably with those of pupils of other schools of the same size anywhere.

Many of the graduates go on to college so that they can prepare themselves better, and numerous ex-students of the Eldorado school have made excellent records.

In vocations, out in actual life where the real test is made, ex-students are also making good in practically every line.

The school cannot make any individual a success. It can only attempt to instill those characteristics and training which are necessary for success in the individual's life.

Extra-Curricular Activities

The local school attempts to give broad training to its pupils in subjects and activities which are not considered an actual part of the classroom work. Such activities as athletics, debate, public speaking, writing, dramatics, music, etc., all have a part in the school. Every pupil is given some training in these fields of work, just as is done in a city school system.

Permanent Record Kept

In the local school considerable work and attention is given to the keeping of the records of each pupil's work and activities, so that they will be on file in the years to come.

Former students of the school frequently write in to ask for their records, but little can be found that is complete. Now a cumulative record of the pupil may be had from the time he enters the first grade up to the time that he graduates or drops out of school. A record of his health, such as vaccinations, etc., is also filed.

FIRST GRADUATING CLASS

(By Lois Whitley)

"Back there in 1907 we didn't go to school to play football," says Mr. Frank Meador. "We had lots of fun, however."

He also told of other schools in Eldorado before the present one was opened. The first school building in Eldorado was located where the John Davis Service Station is now. The building is the same that was later used as the court house of Schleicher county. The building is now located near the Eldorado Water Company and is known as the Silliman and Layne Abstract and Loan Building.

Mr. Meador remembers when he went to school in the building, and he says it was a long time ago when he was just a kid. A plank building was built near the place where the new grammar school building now stands, but it did not remain in use long and is now a barn on Mr. Meador's ranch. The first front rooms of the present building were opened in 1909, and rooms were added from time to time as there arose a need for more room, until the present building was completed in 1925.

The seniors of 1907 had very little choice as to what subjects they wanted to take, since only history, mathematics, Latin and English (called rhetoric) were offered. Mr. Frank Meador said, "We did not have any science or Spanish, but we had a public music teacher. I took lessons on the violin and learned to play 'Home Sweet Home,' I think it was."

The class of 1907 consisted of five students: Willis Beavers, Frank Meador, Clifford Womack, Pearl Bailey and Minnie Strother. Seniors in that particular day did not feel so important, dignified, or expect the favor of all the teachers as the seniors of 1935 do. They could hardly afford to, because the other classes also felt in the same rank, and in those days numbers ruled instead of rank or class.

In 1907 J. B. Silliman, the first lawyer in Eldorado, was offering a prize of twenty-five dollars to the high school senior making the best oration on a given subject. Willis Beavers, Clifford Womack and Frank Meador entered the contest. Mr. Meador says, "I remember Willis very well; he was in a contest against me." It seems that Willis Beavers must have been a pretty good talker, but Mr. Meador concludes, "I was lucky enough to win." Mr. Meador is the only member of the class who still lives in Eldorado. He is engaged in the oil and land business.

No one seems to remember whether the seniors attended a commencement sermon or not, but in "Eighty Years of Development in Southwest Texas," a brief paragraph records the fact that Reverend Earls spoke to the graduates. The graduation exercises were held at the Baptist church. Caps and gowns for the graduation were unknown; instead the girls wore white cotton dresses made by the same pattern and the boys wore light suits. J. B. Smith, the superintendent in 1907, is now connected with the Great Southern Life Insurance Company.

The seniors who actually graduated in the first graduating class in Eldorado were: Pearl Bailey, valedictorian; Clifford Womack, salutatorian; Minnie Strother and Willis Beavers.

Pearl Bailey graduated with the highest average made during

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

"Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: 'My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me.' . . . If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician."

Efficient Men Plan

—The efficient man meets life squarely. In bad times he is not discouraged. In good times he is always the man with resources. In hard times efficient men plan. They meet affairs as they find them roll up their sleeves and go to work. They re-adjust budgets, they save . . . and when good times come they are ready.

the year. She stayed with Mrs. Kate Robinson when she was going to school here, and Mrs. Robinson says "she was a very smart and sweet little girl, too." She is an aunt of W. B. Gibson, so we can readily understand that W. B. has only kept up the family tradition. She attended the Fort Worth Business College and is now a very successful stenographer for the Texas Oil Company. She married J. B. Nixon of Fort Worth, where they are living now.

Clifford Womack, salutatorian, attended the San Marcos Baptist Academy for a while, but received most of his training at Texas University. He married Agnes West, daughter of Mrs. C. C. West, of Eldorado. Dr. Womack is one of San Angelo's leading doctors, and Eldorado is proud of the record made by one of her first graduates.

Minnie Strother attended South Western Normal at San Marcos, now called South Texas State Teachers College. She attended this college for four years. She is now Mrs. Plummer Gilbert, and lives in Oklahoma.

Willis Beavers is married and living in Dallas. It is not certain what college he attended, but he must have received very good training, for he is employed as cashier in one of the Dallas banks.

Unlike many of the classes, the class of 1907 could have a happy reunion. All are living now, all are married, all attended college, all are comparatively well known, and each and every one of them successful. Eldorado would appreciate having them to visit in the high school today and see the improvement in the scholastic and athletic standards. The class of 1935 extends a warm welcome to all the old graduates of the Eldorado high school and wishes them success throughout life, because we are beginning to understand the hardships and hard work you must have been forced to undergo in order to be graduates from Eldorado high school.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ohlenburg of Station A were guests in the T. K. Jones home Sunday.

ONE DECADE OF SERVICE

Only one decade has passed since a unified plan of electrical development was inaugurated for West Texas. The West Texas Utilities Company pioneered in this development in 49 West Texas Counties and now serves 159 towns and communities.

Many of these towns have for the first time dependable and adequate electric service and many without immediate hope of electric service were enabled to procure such service.

The results of this well-planned and unified system of electrical development has made possible economies in operation through a closely correlated and experienced management. Rates have been reduced over 60 per cent since the organization of this company.

This company realizes the importance of electric service in the home today. It reasonably anticipates a far greater service in the future. Every plan of company operation is guided not only by immediate needs but by the potentialities for tomorrow. The policies that this company has adhered to in the past of building and of reducing rates can be continued with the co-operative efforts of its valued customers.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

The commercial curriculum of the Eldorado high school consists of the following courses:

Typewriting, one year; stenography, one year; bookkeeping, one year; commercial law, half year, and economics, half year. Typewriting is taught each year, but all the others are taught in alternate years.

Enrollment Growing

Commercial education is a relatively new field, but has grown by leaps and bounds since its beginning. Despite the fact that the commercial courses are free electives in most schools, an increasing number of high school pupils are taking them. In 1932-33, 85 per cent of all high school pupils in the United States took one or more commercial courses.

In Eldorado high school the enrollment in commercial courses has steadily grown for the past four years. Approximately ninety per cent of all students who graduated during that time have had typing. The typewriting enrollment reached a peak in 1933 with 35 pupils. The economics enrollment has increased from eight pupils in 1930 to about 18 in both 1932 and 1934. The stenography class this year consists of fifteen pupils, the largest number in several years. Approximately eighteen pupils take bookkeeping in alternate years.

Courses which are spreading rapidly in the United States at the present time, and which may eventually be found in our local curriculum, are junior business training, commercial arithmetic, investments, occupations, and second year stenography. Commercial arithmetic for the eighth grade students becomes a prerequisite to bookkeeping in Texas next year, and some of the other courses mentioned are already required in many states.

Commercial Contests

Almost since the beginning of commercial work in the high school, contests have been employed to stimulate interest and to raise standards of skill.

The local commercial department has participated rather fully in contests, especially in typing contests, as a means of creating interest and elevating the skill standards above what could otherwise be attained.

Following is a resume of typewriting contests during the past four years in which the local pupils took part:

During the latter part of April a contest between Sonora and Eldorado was held at Eldorado, in which a gold pin was offered the individual writing at the fastest speed, a smaller gold pin for the second place, and a silver pin for third place winner. Irwin Sawyer of Sonora won first place with a rate of fifty words per minute; Lucile Oglesby, second, and Junior Isaacs, third.

The regional typing meet was held at Colorado, Texas on April 13. The writers for Eldorado were Lucile Oglesby and Albert Martin, with Fred Williams and Cora Sauer going along as alternates. The final results were: Colorado, first; Abilene, second; Midland third; Big Spring fourth; Eldorado fifth and Sweetwater sixth.

During the spring of 1932 the typewriting team for Eldorado had four contests with the Sonora high school, winning three and losing one. Eldorado won in the first, second and fourth contests, and Sonora won the third. In the last of these contests Eldorado won the first four individual places: Gusta V. Graves, 35.8 words per minute, first; Elnora Andrews, second; Melba Jones third and Artie Mae Wood fourth.

The regional typing tournament was held at Colorado on April 9. Gusta V. Graves and Melba Jones represented Eldorado, with Elnora Andrews and Artie Mae Wood making the trip as alternates. The final results of this meet were: Big Spring first; Colorado second; Eldorado third, Baird fourth and Mertzon fifth.

During the spring of 1933 Eldorado and Sonora held three typing contests, Eldorado winning the first two and Sonora the last. In the first contest Margaret Hill won first place, W. B. Gibson second, and Jack Ratliff third place.

The regional typing meet was again held at Colorado, this time on April 8. Jack Ratliff and W. B. Gibson represented Eldorado, with Lillie Belle Kent and Loleete Andrews accompanying as alternates. The results were the same as the previous year for the first three places: Big Spring first, Colorado second; Eldorado third, latan fourth and Mertzon fifth.

On April 29, 1933, Eldorado high school held its first cup typing tournament. Four schools attended the contest, Ozona high school winning the cup. Eldorado ranked second, Sonora third and Mertzon fourth. The two writers for Eldorado were Margaret Hill and Jack Ratliff.

The 1934 season was the most successful of all, due principally to a small group of talented and hard working freshman girls. The entire year was marked by a real struggle for supremacy between Johnnie F. Isaacs, Helen Stanford and Maxine Wilton.

Honors were fairly evenly divided between the three, since Maxine won first place at the district meet at San Angelo, Helen ranked next to the Abilene writers and turned in a perfect paper at the regional meet, the only one at Abilene and probably the only one in any regional meet in Texas; while Johnnie Fern took first place in the local cup tournament.

Three contests were held with Sonora during the year, Eldorado winning all of them. The three pupils just named took the first three places in each contest with the exception of the last in which Elizabeth Stanford ranked second.

At the district meet at San Angelo Maxine won first place and the gold medal; Helen Stanford, second, and Johnnie Fern Isaacs third. Ten students from four schools entered the contest.

At the regional meet at Abilene on April 21, Helen Stanford won fifth place, with the four Abilene writers winning the first four places. As a team Abilene won first place, Eldorado second, Brownwood third, and Mineral Wells fourth. Other schools in the order of their rank were Eastland, Throckmorton, Coleman, Big Spring and Breckenridge.

Eldorado won the local cup tournament held at Eldorado on April 28. Ozona was the only school which attended the contest. The score for Eldorado was 128, as compared with 120 for Ozona. The individual places were as follows: Johnnie Fern Isaacs first, Maxine Wilton second, Louise Gideon (Ozona) third, Helen Stanford fourth, and Helen Adams (Ozona) fifth.

HOME ECONOMICS

Home economics is a new subject in Eldorado high school this year. It had been taught here in previous years, but was dropped from the curriculum. It has been added again as vocational home economics. As a vocational subject a portion of the funds needed for maintenance and a portion of the teacher's salary are paid with state and federal funds. The teacher this year is a half-time home economics teacher. The state department requires that this teacher have a regular vocational home economics certificate.

The state department sets up a three years' course in home economics. Each year's work is divided into two parts: clothing and related subjects, and foods and related subjects.

This year in our school first year home economics is being taught. A clothing laboratory has already been equipped, and for that reason the clothing unit, which is called home economics I-b, was given first. We have two sections of this work, with a total enrollment of 31 pupils.

The students in section one are Louise Bruton, Mary Cloud, Christine Currie, Imogene Evans, Deloris Fish, Doris Fish, Juanita Holland, Dorothy Jarret, Charlotte Kerr, Clarice Lee, Hazel Lewis, Bessie Mercer, Bonnie Aund, Lois Parks, Josephine Parent and Neva Wade. In section two are Pauline Bruton, Wilma Bruton, Marguerite Davis, Bernice Fish, June Hooker, Johnnie Fern Isaacs, Earline Jordan, Lela Sauer, Maurine Parks, Elizabeth Stanford, Helen Stanford, Carmon Warren, Naomi Underwood, Maxine Wilton and Wilma Nixon.

Following state requirements, each class period in home economics is one hour and thirty minutes in length.

Home economics I-b is divided into two units. The first unit is called personal relationships and the second unit is called personal grooming and clothing. In the personal relationships unit the following objectives were set up to be achieved:

Interest in and ideal of —
Developing desirable personality traits.

Sharing in the responsibility of the family in order to create and maintain a happy home atmosphere.

Judging situations and making satisfactory decisions.

Ability to —
Recognize desirable personality traits in self and others and to help develop them.

Practice genuine good manners.
Be a friend.
Adapt oneself to situations.
Do one's part in making one's own home happy.

The objectives which were set up for the personal grooming and clothing unit are:

Interest in and ideal of —
Improving personal appearance.
Relationship of clothing to health and personal attractiveness.

Selection of attractive school costumes.
Planning and constructing garments of cotton.

Budgeting.

Ability to —
Assume one's own responsibility in being well groomed.
Select appropriate and attractive undergarments and sleeping garments.

Select appropriate and attractive school costumes.

Select suitable material for, and plan and construct attractive undergarments or sleeping garments and school dresses.

Care for clothes so they will have a pleasing appearance as long as they last.

Develop and use a simple plan for keeping personal accounts.

In achieving these objectives we have completed the construction of an undergarment or of a sleeping garment, and a cotton school dress. We have also been working on personal appearance.

At the beginning of the semester we set up a plan of keeping a personal expense account. We hope in that way to realize better what portion of the family income we are spending, and in the future have an idea as to what we have to spend on clothing.

The foods part of home economics I is called home economics I-a and is divided into two units, one on foods and health and another on guidance of children.

It naturally becomes necessary that we have a foods laboratory, and since in the foods course we learn to entertain, it follows that we will need some sort of entertaining unit. We plan to make our home economics department as much like a home as possible, so that we may better meet the needs of our high school girls in their relation to the functions of family life.

In connection with all home economics courses the students are asked to choose some home project related to the class work. This project should be something which will develop a needed ability. The students are in most cases expected to spend about one hour and a half each week at home on these projects. At various intervals the teacher checks on this home work to see that it is progressing smoothly.

PRIMARY TEACHER HONORED AT SHOWER

On Monday afternoon the W. M. S. of the First Baptist church, assisted by other friends, gave a shower honoring Miss Una Lee, primary teacher in the Eldorado school.

The basement of the church was decorated with pot plants and cut flowers. The gifts were presented in a beautifully decorated May basket, which was brought in by little Miss Tincie Spurgers and Miss Ebba Ann Finley.

Miss Lee is much loved and honored by the many friends she has made in her ten years work in Eldorado, and will be greatly missed when she returns to her home in Lindale.

Refreshments of cake and punch were served to about forty-five guests.

B. T. S. ENTERTAINED AT WILTON HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilton entertained the intermediate B. T. S. groups last Saturday afternoon at six o'clock.

The Faithful Followers and Cheerful Givers met at the First Baptist church with their leader, Mrs. George Williams, and motored to the Wilton home for a wiener roast.

After a number of outdoor games were played the bonfire, already laid by Billie Wilton and S. E. Jones, was lit, and wieners and marshmallows were roasted over the flames.

At the last minute it was discovered that the crackers for the feast had been left in town, but Mrs. Wilton saved the day by supplying a generous quantity of hot biscuit, pickles and lemonade.

About thirty young people enjoyed the occasion, and expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Wilton for her hospitality.

In the games Miss Maud Boone won the award for high score and the cut prize went to Mrs. Harold Schweining. Miss Elsie Bessent received the consolation. The three winners presented their prizes to the honoree, who also received a gift from the hostess.

Refreshments were served in buffet style. The table was laid in lace and held a wedding cake as the centerpiece. A miniature bride, bridegroom and minister formed the top decoration for the cake. ## BAPTIST GIRLS GUESTS AT SLUMBER PARTY

"One purpose we have in these monthly class meetings is to give you the opportunity to learn to play together harmoniously, and to instill in you the idea of fair play and clean sportsmanship," said Mrs. W. N. Ramsay, teacher of the C. O. M. intermediate class of the Baptist Sunday School, at a slumber party in the Ramsay home Tuesday night.

The rain prevented the picnic on the lawn, but the guests were served from the dining room instead. Later there were games and songs. The climax of the evening was in the initiation of two of the girls into the Calif. order.

WOOL -- MOHAIR SUPPLIES

It is a fact recognized by the wool trade that the most desirable Texas wools are produced in a relatively small area, only a few hundred miles in dimensions in South Central and Southwest Texas.

When your wool is stored here it sells on the merits of the wool of this section and is not co-mingled with the widely varying types and grades of wool characteristic of those sections where less vigilant production methods are employed.

SALT PRICES ARE DOWN. We have in stock Grand Saline Kleeer Farm & Ranch Stock Salt packed at the mine in white heavy toweling or cotton bags.
