COUNTY WIDE ROAD MEETING TUESDAY

Committeemen representing Alexander community, Reynolds, Kaffir, Bailey Ranch, Rudd, and the Meyer community along with business men of Eldorado met at the court house Tuesday night to discuss the making of application to WPA for funds with which to improve the farm to market roads in this county.

Glenn Ratliff, president of the Lions Club presided as chairman of the meeting. He explained the purpose of the gathering and introduced Mr. Callahan, district engineer for the WPA office in San Angelo. Callahan explained that the government was getting out of the relief business and that after December 31, 1935 there will be no more relief. The WPA projects are being set up throughout the state in order that the thousands who have been on relief will have honorable work to do, at which they can earn an honest living, and at the same time accomplish something that will be a permanent benefit to the state.

Callahan pointed out that Schleicher county, without the expenditure of very much money could repair and build county roads—which are badly needed—and at the same time give employment to all our unemployed and all that are likely to be without means of making a living for some time to come. He urged that the commissioners court get the application for funds in now. He stressed the fact that WPA means works progress administration and that those employed would be expected to give an honest days work. "Smoking and leaning on shovels are out", he said. The time has come for every man to work for what he gets. "Some worthwhile work must be accomplished with this money," he said.

Mr. Burnside, director of the San Angelo office then took the floor and told the audience that the money was ready and was a gift of the government to this county and all we have to do is to furnish an engineer for the project, furnish rock and caliche and the county road machinery. Credit will be allowed for materials and machinery which will take care of the greatest part of the country's portion of the cost.

Judge Finley told the writer late Thursday evening that the Commissioners would meet immediately for the purpose of deciding what should be done about the making of an application for funds.

RENEWED ACTIVITY IN WOOL MARKET

Renewed activity is indicated in the wool market this week with sales reported from various points in the territory.

Estimates place the amount of wool sold during the past two weeks at around two million pounds with a price range from 15c to 26c per pound, the average said to be around 23c.

The Eldorado Wool Company sold two cars during the week at 25c. At Sonora a car of graded wools were sold at 26c, and from other points of concentration in Texas scattered sales have been made at prices said to average around 23c.

Fire Chief Parker Tells Lions About Fire Protection

Chief Parker of the San Angelo Fire Department was a visitor at the weekly luncheon of the Eldorado Lions club here Wednesday.

Parker is interested in selling this city a fire truck with tank and pump mounted on the chassis of a truck. The fire apparatus was built by the Tom Green county commissioners for use in putting out grass fires. Mr. Parker had charge of the construction of this fire fighting machine and is said to have built many fire trucks for other counties in West Texas. Those who have seen this machine in operation say it will get the job done.

A committee was appointed by the Lions club to investigate the truck by attending a demonstration in San Angelo, and make recommendations to the club.

Movement of Texas Cotton is Cleared by Federal Court Action

The apparent tie-up last week of the movement of Texas cotton has now been cleared through the action of the Federal Court at Houston.

According to F. E. Lichte, senior administrative assistant of AAA at College Station, a ginner may now be issued bale tags and certificates of tagging by submitting the regular "G. T. Form 101, Application of Ginner for Bale Tags, Certificates of Tagging, and Lien Cards."

The ginner must also submit an affidavit that he agrees to comply fully with all provisions of the Cotton Act and administrative dealings, with respect to accounting for all bale tags and lien cards, the keeping of records, rendering monthly returns, and agreeing to pay tax due on the ginning of cotton.

The affidavit must be signed and properly acknowledged by the owner or owners of the gin.

Corn-Hog Advisory Committee Elects Officers, Plan Work

College Station—Officers of the Texas Corn-Hog Advisory Committee who were elected here during the 26th annual Farmers' Short Course were: J. P. Strader, Canadian, chairman; J. S. Sharp, Paris, vice chairman; and S. M. Ainsworth, Gonzales, secretary-treasurer.

The committee, which acts for the approximately 38,000 producers in 225 Texas counties, commend the national administration for its effort to give farmers parity prices for commodities and to give producers of agricultural commodities a protection similar to that given manufacturers and other commercial interests. In setting forth plans for the year, the committee insisted upon the continuation of agricultural adjustment programs and processing taxes and expressed the determination of Texas farmers to hold the adjustment programs regardless of attacks made on them.

In endorsing the Texas Agricultural Association in its effort to expose the unconstitutionality of high protective industrial tariff which have been of great damage to the interests of the majority of farmers, the committee said: "We call on all the people of Texas to assist us in our struggle for a fair deal which is of great importance to the people in all occupations just as well as to those engaged in farming."

The committee commended the corn and hogs section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington for the splendid way in which the program was carried out in Texas and expressed appreciation of the farmers to the Extension Service for the capable way in which the program has been handled. It also endorsed the actions of the members of the present corn-hog review board and the way they handled the job of allotment.

The corn-hog advisory committee is composed of nine members, one from each district in Texas, elected by the president of the corn-hog associations in the district. Members are J. P. Strader, Canadian; J. S. Sharp, Paris; S. M. Ainsworth, Gonzales; O. J. Edler, Crosbyton; R. E. Lee, Mason; George Slaughter, Warton, Otho Morris, Anville; Judson Wood, Sherman; and W. J. Fritts, Comanche. All were present at the first meeting of the committee except W. J. Fritts.

Planting Of Soy Beans In Cotton Saves the Crop From Leaf Worm

Planting soy beans in every third row of cotton saved part of his cotton crop for Grover T. Gattis, McCulloch county farmer, according to J. D. Prewitt, county agricultural agent.

Thirty acres, of which every row was planted to cotton, has been completely destroyed by cut worms and grasshoppers.

The 16 acres of cotton that he interplanted with soy beans came up in good condition. The cut worms and grasshoppers fed entirely on the soy beans and did not touch the cotton. Gattis says that the soy beans are coming again now and that he expects to make a good crop out of them.

DAVIS SPEAKS ON COTTON PROGRAM

Speaking at the 16th Delta Day celebration at Stoneville, Mississippi, on August 13, Chester Davis, AAA Administrator, pointed out that economic sectionalism and internationalism both affect the South's great crop, cotton.

"Consequently," Davis said, "some of the opposition to the Adjustment program is sectional in its origin and is expressed in defence of tariff preferences which the farmers' programs seek to offset. Another criticism purports to show that loss of farm exports is entirely the result of the Adjustment program."

He continued, "There are certain fundamentals in any thorough study of the cotton problem. These are sometimes waved aside by certain groups, who would, naturally, serve their own interests even about the interests of other groups who are much important to the national economy. Let us keep these real fundamentals in sight, whatever hearings are drawn across our path. There are two of these fundamentals that are particularly important.

"One of these fundamental factors is the vital matter of income to the cotton producer himself. Too often in these involved discussions of international trade and export balances the cotton producers themselves are the millions of forgotten men. These must not be forgotten, not only because of their sheer numerical preponderance over groups that are much smaller though often noisier, but because of the greater effect of their prosperity or poverty on the nation as a whole. That is the important group, these millions of cotton producers. They have a larger investment in the cotton industry than any other group. They and their families are the most dependent upon it; they would be the most lost without it.

They are of the most importance to the nation. A sustained fair income to this group is the most important consideration, and a fundamental that cannot be dodged.

"Another fundamental factor in any study of the cotton problem is the soil of our cotton farms. The most valuable of all our national resources is the fertility of our farms. That must be protected and maintained. Gins and warehouses and docks and mills may be built up and torn down; the fertility of our soil, the basis of the industry and of life itself, must be preserved. Any program that has to do with cotton must consider this as one of the fundamentals."

SPORTSMANSHIP

(Stephenville Empire-Tribune)

The thing that distinguishes a genuine sportsman from a "bum sport" is that those who have the spirit of sportsmanship not only knows how to win gracefully, but how to lose uncomplainingly. The difference between a genuine sportsman and the other kind is that your real sportsman never tries to shift the responsibility for his failure upon somebody else.

We have long believed that the sporting attitude toward life is the soundest of all philosophies of living. Try your best to win, but if you lose don't be too quick to blame somebody else for your failure. Nine times out of ten, people get whatever rewards their individual ability, character and industry entitle them to. But it is our observation, also, that about nine times out of ten the man who fails is ready to lay the blame upon the government, or the capitalists, or the boss, or anybody else but himself.

True sportsmanship does not imply taking defeat lying down. The true sportsman never knows when he is licked. He never accepts defeat as final, but continues to strive to the end of the game. He observes the rules of the game rigidly. If he doesn't like them, he may try to have them changed, but so long as the rules are as they are, he follows them.

We hear a great deal of whining in these days of depression, but every little while we run across a real sportsman, who hasn't let circumstances lick him, but is starting out afresh to try to win the game of life. To every such man we take off our hat.

GETTING OFF RELIEF

It is a healthy sign of the times when jobs become so plentiful in any part of the country that the relief rolls can be "purged" of able-bodied men who are now able to find work. That this condition should have been reached first in the wheat growing states is not surprising. South Dakota began it, by dropping 19,000 heads of families from the roll, because of the great demand for harvest workers in the wheat fields. According to reports from Washington, it is expected that at least 100,000 men who have been on relief will be dropped from the rolls in the principal wheat states.

Naturally, some of those are not going to like it. After a man has been getting money for doing nothing, it is hard to go back to work, especially if he gets no more for working than he did for loafing.

The disgruntled few who prefer idleness to work are already beginning to make a noise about the "injustice" of taking them off relief. Some of the reports which we have seen in the big city newspapers, especially in the East, are calculated to give the impression that practically all of the recipients of relief in the wheat states are sore because a way has been opened to them to earn their living instead of subsisting on the public bounty. We do not believe that is true. We are not convinced that the moral fiber of the average American has deteriorated that far.

We can understand the reluctance of a man with a family to being dropped from relief when he has no assurance of getting back on again if his job turns out to be a temporary one, as jobs in the harvest field necessarily are. But we understand that Washington has given assurance that in such cases it will not be such a long and difficult process to get back on the relief as it was to get on the rolls in the first place.

Sooner or later, the whole relief program must end. The money and the taxpayers' patience will give out. We are looking hopefully for a start on all fronts of the $4,000,000,000 Work Relief plan. Also, we are looking hopefully for an important speeding up the wheels of private industry.

The situation in the wheat country is, however, encouraging as far as it goes.

The golfer stepped up to the tee and drove off. The ball sailed down the fairway, leaped onto the green and dived into the hole.

"What have you suddenly gone craby about?" asked the golfer's wife, who was trying to learn something about the game.

"Why I just made a whole in one!" yelled the golfer, a wild gleam of delight in his eyes.

"Did you," said his wife placidly, "Do it again, dear, I didn't see you."

When the sun is blazing hot, your motor heat goes up, too!

To protect your motor, use Germ Processed Oil, which has 2 to 4 times greater film strength and is less affected by extreme motor heat!

YOUR MOTOR runs lots hotter in summer. That's why you must have oil that maintains high film strength under extreme temperatures to get safe lubrication. Otherwise, the lubricating film ruptures and the bearings and cylinders suffer damaging wear.

Plain mineral oils have little film strength and oils over-refined by new cleansing methods have even less. As motor heat goes up, these oils rapidly lose film strength.

You'll get better motor protection with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. Timken machine tests prove that it has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than any plain mineral oil and that heat above 225° does not lessen this advantage.

Here proof—supervised road tests were made in identical cars fitted with the new alloy metal bearings used in many 1935 cars. The bearings lubricated with a high quality plain mineral oil showed 45% more wear than those lubricated with Conoco Germ Processed, the first alloyed oil.

You'll be certain your motor is safely lubricated even at high temperatures if you say "O. L.—Drain" and fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil—the oil with the "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away.

LAW PROHIBITS SALE OF GAS FOR DOMESTIC PURPOSES

According to a recent amendment of the state legislature, in the near future it will be unlawful to sell gasoline at filling stations for domestic uses. The law reads:

Article 1104. No person, firm, association of persons, or corporation shall sell kerosene, distillate, or other products of petroleum, to be used for domestic cooking, illuminating, heating or other domestic purposes unless such that it will not flash at a temperature less than 112 degrees fahrenheit, according to the United States close testing cup method of the United States Bureau of mines.

The effect this law will have on the sales of Gasoline for domestic use will be far reaching in this state. Oil companies are advising their representatives to discontinue the sale of these products until further notice.

The bill carries a penalty of a fine not less than $25.00 nor more than $200.00 for each offense.

SPEED TAKES MORE GAS

We heard of a motorist who when he suddenly discovered his gasoline was very low, speeded up so as to get to the next filling station before the gas gave out. Of course, he should have known that to get the most mileage out of a given amount of gas one must not drive faster than about 20 miles an hour.

Many tests have been made to determine the rate of gasoline consumption at various speeds, and these tests have invariably shown that the faster one drives the greater the consumption per mile. A typical illustration is given by the bureau of standards, taking a car that gets 18.9 miles per gallon at a speed of 20 miles per hour.

At 30 miles an hour the same car will get 18 miles per gallon.

At 40 miles an hour it will get 16.4 miles per gallon.

At 50 miles an hour it will get 14.6 miles per gallon.

At 60 miles an hour it will get 12.6 miles per gallon.

At 70 miles an hour it will get 10.6 mile per gallon.

At 80 miles an hour it will get 8.6 miles per gallon.

It is shown also that the consumption of oil at 60 miles an hour is six times as great as it is at 30 miles an hour.

Excessive speed places great strain on an automobile and shortens its life, as the engine, tires and steering mechanism are all subject to unusual wear and tear. Not only as a matter of safety, but as a measure of economy as well, driving at moderate speeds is recommended to all motorists.

FARM ELECTRIFICATION

Creation of the Federal Rural Electrification Administration has focused public attention on the job of bringing power to the farm. But, as Hudson W. Reed of the United Gas Improvement Company, recently pointed out, a real understanding of rural electrification's possibilities and limitations is essential to sound planning toward that end.

The electric industry has already made great strides in electrifying farms—and Mr. Reed says that it is ready and eager to cooperate to the fullest extent with the government in making additional progress, but that in doing that it wishes to know how far it can proceed along normal business lines.

The problem of developing rural electrification has three phases: First to determine those areas where farm density is great enough to make construction of new lines feasible, even though not immediately profitable; second, to locate such owners as are able to finance the wiring of buildings and the purchase of necessary appliances; and, third, to develop means of selling power in competition with farm machinery, automobiles and other desirable commodities or services.

Contrary to the belief of some the predominant part of farm labor—excepting certain highly specialized kinds of farms, comprising but a small percentage of the total farms—cannot be performed electrically. The horse and tractor are still the main sources of power. As a result, electric service must be primarily developed with a view to the use of power in the farm home. And to use it, the farm owner must immediately purchase a number of costly appliances which are more efficient more sanitary and better in all ways—but which nevertheless, perform no new service. This fact alone, especially in depressed times, severely limits the possible farm market.

Again, Mr. Reed says, there have been many misstatements concerning the cost of serving farms. Figured on an extremely conservative basis, the average cost of serving each farm (with three customers per mile of line) would total $97.67 per year. Inasmuch as farms now electrified use an average of less than 800 kilowatt-hours yearly, it is certain that the bulk of non-electrified farms would find it impossible to pay rates that would permit the electric company to break even.

ONLY AN INTELLIGENT LOOK

Porter—Where's your trunks sir.

Salesman—I have no trunks. Porter—But I thought you wuz one of them travelin' salesman.

Salesman—I am, but I sell brains, understand; I sell brains.

Porter—Scuse me boss, but you is de furst fella that's been here who ain't carrying no samples. — American Mutual Safety Bulletin.

A Paris dispatch says France will remain firm in her opposition to the two-power naval pact between Great Britain and German. Firm and nervous, as you might say.—Macon Telegraph.

Dad—I don't like to see our daughter lighting cigarettes.

Mom (modern)—Oh, don't be so old fashioned.

Dad—It isn't that. She's just too young to be playing with matches.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. O. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

BLACK-DRAUGHT

"TO THE WOMEN OF AMERICA"

Recently on the advertising pages of some of the America's most prominent newspapers much space was bought to address the Women of America. This was not an appeal to them to unite in an effort permanently to banish sweatshop misery in the garment industry or to renew their protests against the more dubious features injected into homes by the radio. It was an "Open Letter" (so the heading read) inviting the mothers and daughters of America to drink whiskey.

Within forty hours a chilling rebuke was administered to the sponsors of this particular piece of high pressure advertising by J. H. Choate Jr., director of the Federal Alcohol Control Administration at Washington. According to newspaper reports the rebuke brought from the advertisers "a positive assurance that further issues of this advertisement had been canceled and no more advertising of this type would be given out."

But the saloon in the United States has always had its back door. So the beer barons, artfully sidestepping, do not, at the moment, specifically invite feminine drinkers—and nondrinkers—to drain the beer mug. In place of the "Open Letter" the power of example is employed. Picture a young woman reclining in hammocks in country gardens find sultriness magically dispelled by tall glasses of somebody's famous beer. Girls radiantly emerging from a cool dip ecstatically declare that here's nothing like a glass of foaming beer to top off a swim.

Millions of decent-minded persons frankly deplore the unscrupulous commercial greed back of this demoralizing booze campaign. What can be done about "Open Letters" from the Women of America? for instance to legislators demanding their support, saying for the Capper bill, which would prohibit altogether interstate transmission of all advertising of any alcoholic beverage by newspaper, radio, or any other means?

The issue is largely in the hands of the Women of America. We believe that seeing this, they will meet it.

General Jan Smuts asks a London audience what possible profit can come out of a European war. Well, general, if the traditions hold good a shipbuilder can make 100 per cent profit and a cannon maker about 200 per cent. Cheyenne State Tribune.

General Johnson thinks the "stop-gap" NRA is a "pitiful mockery." Good idea, General—we'll establish a PMA.—Boston Transcript.

THE LACK OF MONEY

Possibly most people do not know so very much about money. But at one time or another we all know something about the lack of it.

Of course money isn't everything, but it certainly does its share toward making life easier and happier. It is a lot easier to spend money than to save it, when it is in your purse. It is better to keep it in our bank where it will be protected until you need it. That is the best way to avoid a lack of money
