On The DIVIDE

THEY'RE HAPPY

Folks living out on the Merton road, north of Eldorado, have reason to be happy these days. The county's road crews have just completed fixing up this road, and many out in that part of the county say that it's the best road they have ever had.

Practically all of the lakes and low places in the road have received a good topping of caliche, and the road has really been graded up. With the present road bed, it will be an easy matter for the county's maintainer to keep this road in good condition at all times.

If you want to see folks enjoying coming to Eldorado, just give them a road they can get over!

THE REAL MAN

A real man never talks about what the world owes him, the happiness he deserves and the chances he ought by right to have, and all that.

A real man is just as honest in the dark in his own room as he is in public.

A real man does not want pulls and favors. He wants work and honest wages.

A real man does not want something for nothing, so the get-rich-people can not use him. A real man does a little more than he promises.

A real man has' excuses for others, never for himself. He is patient and charitable to others; to himself he is strict.

GOING DOWN, DOWN

J. M. Cooper's No. 2 Bert Page well, which is three-quarters of a mile southeast of the distillate producer, had gone down to 460 feet last Monday. Drilling was in lime, after 15 1-2 inch casing had been set at 355 feet.

A STUBBORN CUSS

Our Mangus No. 1 Judkins & Spencer wildcat is turning out to be a stubborn cuss. After being treated again last week with 7,500 gallons of acid, it failed to make a showing and was shut down.

There is some talk now of the well being abandoned.

IN BUSINESS NOW

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hooker and Miss Wood of San Angelo, visited friends and relatives here last Monday. Mr. Hooker is taking over the Carmel Corn Shop, located near the Angelus Theater, in San Angelo, and he invites all his Eldorado and Schleicher county friends to drop in and visit him there.

Hooker can feed you if you're hungry. He serves lunches and sandwiches, and he will be glad to see you any time.

LOCAL WOOL SELLS

FOR 40 1-2 CENTS

Highest prices for local wool which has been reported so far is that of Stanford and Son, Schleicher ranchmen. They sold 1,600 pounds last week at 40 1-2 cents.

The wool was sold through the Eldorado Wool Company.

Final Plans Being Made For County-Wide Sing Song Friday

Schools in the Eldorado Independent School District are making their final plans to enter the Schleicher County Sing Song to be held in the school gymnasium Friday evening, May 30. The Sing Song is being held at the suggestion of Deputy State Superintendent S. Ozell Murdock and under the direction of County Superintendent C. S. McKinney.

Schools in the local district to enter the Sing Song are Eldorado High School, Eldorado Ward, Alexander, Reynolds, and Mexican school. Each school will enter a group of singers who will sing some songs individually and others with the entire Schleicher County chorus.

Reports from all rural schools are that each one will take some part in the sing song. Those which will be represented are: Mayer No. 1, Mayer No. 2, Adams, Cliff, Bailey Ranch and Kaffir.

The Loftin school closed its term during March, and will not have students represented in this event. All students have been working hard the past three or four weeks to learn the songs, which are specified by the State Department of Education.

Mr. Murdock is scheduled to be here in person to attend the Sing Song and to lead a few numbers. Because of his marked ability to sing and to lead singing, his coming will be a treat to all those who attend the affair.

The scheduled time of gathering for the Sing Song is 7:30 Friday evening, April 30.

Father Of Miss Beulah Williams Dies At Home In Eden

Miss Beulah Williams, instructor in the Eldorado school, was called to Eden last Friday morning because of the sudden death of her father, J. A. Williams, well-known ranchman. Mr. Williams died of a heart attack.

Smith, all of Kingsland; Mrs. Roy Gunn, Marble Falls; Mrs. L. M. Smith, Llano. Other survivors include a brother, Sam Williams of Eldorado, three sisters, Mrs. J. A. Gaddy, Algerita; Mrs. Mollie Yarbrough, Los Angeles, Calif.; and Mrs. J. W. Burk of Eden.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at Eden.

EDMISTON NAMED RANGE INSPECTOR

R. C. Edmiston has been named as one of the range inspectors for this county. He began his duties the first of this week, helping Frank Bradley inspect the ranges which have been entered in the 1937 program.

Due to the large number entering this program, it was impossible for one inspector to do this work in the required time, and with Mr. Edmiston's aid this work can be done much faster.

Funeral Services For Amos J. Morris Held On Saturday

Funeral services for Amos J. Morris, Schleicher county farmer, were held last Saturday afternoon at five o'clock. Mr. Morris died at his home here at 6:20 last Saturday morning.

A native of Texas, Mr. Morris was born at Shelbyville, Shelby county, on October 8, 1866. He was 70 years, 6 months and 12 days of age, having spent his entire life in Texas.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Violet Morris, two daughters: Mrs. Myrtle Herron of Eldorado and Mrs. May Belle Adams of San Antonio, 18 grand children and 9 great grandchildren.

Services were held from the Eldorado Funeral Home, being conducted by Rev. N. P. Wilkinson, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Burial was made in the Eldorado cemetery.

The Success extends sympathy to the relatives in their hour of sorrow.

Mr. H. E. Nut of Rankin, Texas, was in Schleicher county the first of this week, buying sheep. He expected to buy some 4,000 sheep from local ranchmen.

Eldorado Students Enter Regional Meet Held At Abilene

Six students journeyed to Abilene last Friday to enter the Regional Meet held in Abilene Saturday. Events entered were track typewriting, and shorthand.

The second and third place District winners in typewriting, Alice Mund and Genevieve Ramsey, entered that event. Miss Williams, their coach, did not accompany them because of the death of her father. Mary Cloud, Bonnie Mund, and Johnnie Ferne Isaacs, winners. (See No. 1 Last Page)

METHODIST MEN ENJOY FISH SUPPER ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Several Methodist men gathered at the local church last Thursday night to enjoy a fish supper. Rev. Wheeler was drafted as chief cook, and the supper was prepared and served without the aid of women.

A delicious supper consisting of fish, waffled potatoes and coffee was enjoyed, after which the men made plans for cleaning the church premises and making repairs to the building.

Friday has been set as the day for doing this work, and all church members are urged to give their support to this cause. It is planned to haul in rock and build flagstone walks from the church to the streets. Repairs will also be done to the interior of the building.

Mrs. Bonnie McDaniel, nationally known home economist of Chicago, will hold the West Texas Utilities Company's cooking school here on Friday afternoon of this week. The school will be held at the First Baptist church, beginning at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The local office of the West Texas Utilities Company has mailed invitations to all ladies in this vicinity to attend the school. It is open to everyone who cares to attend.

Work On Reynolds Road Started First Of This Week

W. P. A. LABOR IS BEING USED IN FILLING IN LAKES ON LANE

Work on fixing up the road leading to the Reynolds school started the first of this week by our county commissioners and W. P. A. workers.

It was announced that rock foundations, which will be topped with caliche, will be placed on all lakes and low places along this road. The lane will also be widened from its present width of 40 feet to 60 feet, so that a good road bed can be put up.

W. P. A. laborers started again this week after it was made possible for this county to set up a county-wide project for the purpose of fixing all lakes in the county. This labor will be used where it is needed most over the county. The county road machinery was moved to the Reynolds project this week and will likely stay in this territory until the road is completed.

The improving of this road will greatly benefit those living in the Reynolds community. Some 1,000 acres of land are being put into cultivation this year.

Eldorado Mexican Killed In Fight At Sheep Shearing Camp

STABBED NINE TIMES WITH BUTCHER KNIFE, THROAT ALSO SLASHED

Last Tuesday morning, Albino Torres, Nicolas Robledo and other members of a shearing crew working 50 miles east of Fort Stockton drove up to the courthouse and wanted to see the sheriff. "We've got a dead man out there," they said.

The "dead man" was Aguido Barrera, Eldorado Mexican, who was working with the Jose Ramirez shearing crew out of Fort Stockton. And he was very dead, having received nine wounds with a butcher knife, and, in addition, his throat was slashed, severing the jugular vein.

Jesus De La Santor, Jr., another Eldorado Mexican is in jail at Fort Stockton, charged with the killing. According to reports of the slaying, the two Mexicans had been in a scuffle Monday night and the slayer became angered when Barrera tore his shirt.

The quarrel was renewed, it (See No. 3, Last Page)

WATER STORAGE TANK AT COURT HOUSE IS BEING CLEANED OUT

Realizing the need of having pure drinking water at the courthouse, County Judge C. S. McKinney had the storage tank inspected by the county health officer this week. Dr. Patton, health officer, after inspecting this source of water supply, ordered that the tank be cleaned out at once.

Three men were put to work cleaning the tank Wednesday. All water was run out on the courthouse lawn, and the tank is being thoroughly cleaned. It is planned to also clean the tank on top of the courthouse.

Seniors To Carlsbad

The senior class, sponsored by T. D. Riddle, plans to leave on Friday, May 7, for the Carlsbad Caverns. This will be Senior Day, and the class expects to leave Eldorado early in order to reach Carlsbad early enough to see the town and go swimming.

They plan to stop at the Black River Village for lodging on Friday and Saturday nights. The party will go through the cavern on Saturday and return home Sunday. The class plans to use the proceeds from the senior play to help defray expenses.

All members of the class expect to go, taking about four cars on the trip. This is the first time that seniors have ever gone on a trip of this nature. Last year, their first year to observe Senior Day as a class holiday, the graduates went to Christoval for a picnic and swimming party.

MADRID A SKELETON CITY

Some day the Spanish war will end, and the people will set about repairing the damage they have done their country. No matter which side wins—if either does—the task of rehabilitation will tax the nation's resources for years to come.

Cities, towns and countryside are strewn with the wreckage of combat. Buildings have been reduced to heaps of rubbish, factories wrecked and fields laid waste. No amount of money can restore the Spain that was. Much of the rich architectural and artistic heritage of Spain's golden age has been burned and blasted out of existence. Paintings and statues that have delighted art lovers for centuries have vanished in the ruins of ancient museums and churches. Heaps of rubbish mark the site of lovely buildings wrought by Moorish and Medieval Christian architects.

According to apparently reliable reports, much of this melancholy havoc represents wanton destruction. Madrid, Spain's capital and largest city, has suffered and continues to suffer from the destructive fury which animates both sides. Day after day shells from insurgent batteries rain into the heart of the city. They explode in the streets, in public buildings and in private homes, killing and maiming non-combatants, including many women and children.

The defenders' lines are miles away on the outskirts of the city. This ruthless bombardment of an unfortified city, inhabited by a million noncombatants, serves no military purpose. It is an act of pure terrorism, but it seems to be part of the tactics of modern war. The Spanish war demonstrates with brutal clarity the truth of the warning that wars hereafter will be between peoples rather than armies. From a military standpoint, the siege of Madrid has been reduced to a stalemate. It seems clear that the insurgents can not take the city unless they are strongly reinforced, and the defenders have been unable to push them beyond artillery range. The siege has been in progress for months, and apparently it will continue until the end of the war. Madrid will be a skeleton city when the guns finally cease. —Galveston Daily News.

"LOW BRIDGE"

Some years ago your editor, visiting Holland, made several trips through the extensive canals of Amsterdam. As one sails along, he hears the frequent warning cry of "low bridge" upon which it behooves everyone to duck low until the bridge is passed.

In business for the last several years this has been a frequent warning which the wise ones have heeded, but so often have we heard the cry that there are many who just permanently keep their heads between their knees which is most painful and permits them to see little of what is going on about them.

We believe that most business men realize that during the next several years they will be confronted by obstacles new in the conduct of business. If these new conditions cause them to merely "lay low", return to successful operation will indeed be slow; but if they will press ahead, adapt themselves to new conditions it is our belief that they can force a return of prosperity. After all it has been business enterprise which has made the United States the greatest agricultural, commercial and industrial nation in the world's history.—Southwestern Ambassador.

Bailey Ranch, Reynolds, the Shell Pipeline employees, members of the Lions Club, employees at the wool house, and the high school all have stated that they will likely have a team.

Plans which are now under way for lighting a ball diamond in Eldorado, so that the games may be played at night, will likely be completed within the next week.

After reaching the Tom Jones windmill one group composed of Lieutenant Enochs, Frances Richmond Robinson, Hazel Ruth Rodgers, Laverne Rodgers, Pauline McLaughlin, Mary Lou Brown, Nora Brown, Ora Nell Bricker, Margurite Newlin, Elaine Watson, Lois Davis, and Dorothy Craig went ahead and laid a trail and gave instructions for first aid. Soon another group including Mrs. Hoover, committee chairman, Captain Herbert, Ruby Bodine, Helen Thompson, Mary Hoover, Katherine Moore and Helen Craig followed, rendered first aid and obeyed other orders which had been given.

Mrs. Bricker and Miss Alexander came on in cars bringing the eats and picking up those who were not able to walk all the way. Those who were picked up were: Lieutenant Strickland, Katherine Bodine, Norma Jean Sproul and Betty Sue Ashmore.

Upon reaching the ranch of Mr. Jeff Enochs part of the troop went swimming while the other prepared lunch of bacon, eggs, corn, beans, pickles, olives, cookies and fruit.

After lunch Miss Enochs showed the troop her collection of old relics, rocks, buffalo and deer horns, and many other articles of unusual interest.

Music and songs were enjoyed by all.

WOOL

PREPARATION FOR MARKET

In order to command full market value wool must be carefully handled and properly put up at shearing. Frequently, the difference between a good clip of wool and a poor one is the manner in which it is put up. The following suggestions, approved by S. P. Davis, for many years associated with one of the largest woolen manufacturing concerns of the East and at present Wool & Mohair Specialist of A. & M. College of Texas, may enable the grower to present a more attractive clip of wool.

Shear Only When Fleece Is Dry

Do not permit shearing crews to start work following rain or heavy dew until sheep have thoroughly dried. Excessive moisture is injurious to wool fibers when packed and wet fleeces take a stain which will not scour out.

Shear On Dry Clean Surfaces

Shearing pens or sheds should be kept clean and the dust settled at frequent intervals during shearing by lightly sprinkling pens. Never shear on the ground.

Shear Closely

The skilled shearer cuts the fleece close to the skin and never takes the second stroke over the same area. Do not permit shearers to double cut your wool.

Tags

Remove tags from fleeces and pack separately. Never place tags, platform sweepings, or off-fragments in your fleeces.

Off Wools

Shear and pack separately all off-wools such as heavy bucks, black, shedded or partly shedded, burry, or other fleeces which do not compare with the best average of your clip.

Roll Fleeces

Much can be added to the attractiveness and marketability of any clip of 12 months wool through proper preparation of each fleece by rolling the flesh side out. An attractive fleece of wool involves skillful handling by at least four persons in the shearing and packing operation, viz: (1) the shearer must remove the fleece from the sheep evenly and unbroken; (2) the wool picker-up must roll the fleece in an attractive manner and deliver it carefully to the tying table; (3) the tier should tie the fleece neatly and securely; and (4) and of great importance the sacker should pack the wool in the bag carefully avoiding excessive tramping and overpacking. Do not permit the sacker to pack bags too heavy. Texas 12 months wool should weigh around 200 lbs. to the bag and overpacked bags are frequently penalized in marketing.

Fleece Twine

Wool should never be tied with sisal, jute, hemp, or other twine of similar substance. Use only good paper fleece twine.

Bags

Pack wool only in clean, regulation size 3 lb. hemmed-top bags, leaving seams turned out. The hemmed top bag is preferred since jute fibres from raw-top or unfinished bags become attached to the wool and extra processing and additional costs are incurred in manufacturing. Insist on fully finished bags.

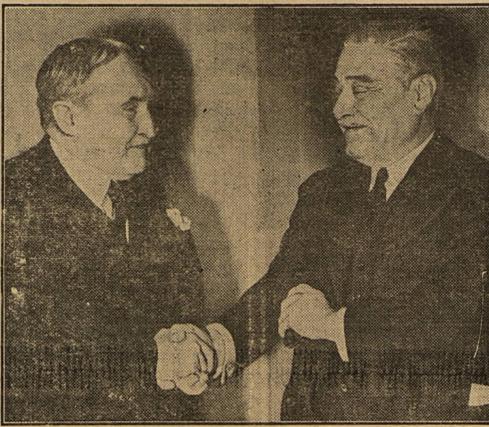

Store In Dry Clean Place

Wool exposed to excessive moisture or dampness becomes musty. Store your wool in a light, dry place. Wool bags are made of woven fabric and will pick up dirt, straw, and other objectionable matter if rolled around on the ground or stored in unclean places. Take care of your wool after shearing.

Branding Sheep

Do not use branding paint or other substances which will not scour out in the ordinary manufacturing process. An excessive amount of branding paint or some unsuitable marking mixture causes costly defects in finished woolen materials resulting in losses to the manufacturer which are ultimately passed back to the grower. If you are going to paint brand your sheep, use some good fluid that will scour out of the wool and apply as little of it as will produce a legible brand. Paint-free wools, especially in the clothing lengths,

General

When you start shearing, bear in mind that from eight to twelve months is required to grow a clip of wool and that by hasty preparation, improper shearing or careless packing, your entire year's work may be undone in a few hours. Remember also, that wool never comes out of the bag in any better condition than it goes in, therefore, the appearance of your wool at the market or in the mill depends a great deal on the care and judgement exercised in putting it up at shearing.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

Austin.—First indication that the senate planned to get down to the real business of the regular session of the 45th legislature was given by the senate, as the final three weeks of the four-month session began, when it named a subcommittee to consider the house's tax program, and bring out recommendations to raise some additional revenue.

Altho the senate has not finally disposed of pending resolutions to submit a constitutional amendment for a sales tax, it became apparent that the resolution probably could not muster the necessary votes at this session. Work has begun on the regular biennial departmental appropriations, and as fast as these appropriation measures are shaped up, the amount of new revenue needed will become apparent. The opinion of the majority of the senate subcommittee has been made clear, that if approximately the same as for the last biennium, there will be no additional revenue needed. What ever additional funds are appropriated for other phases of the social security program, including the care of dependent children, the blind, teachers' retirement, and similar legislation, will have to be raised. This revenue obviously will come from additional imposts on sulphur, gas, oil and corporation franchises—measures already passed by the house.

Senate To Go Slowly

But the senate is not going to rush hastily into new social security adventuring. It has learned thru experience with the old age assistance program that such legislation can run into tremendous sums of money, and that there are not now available any reliable estimates on the costs of aiding the underprivileged. So there is a strong disposition to go very slowly leaving of time and possibly to a vote of the people in some cases, the decision as to whether the state shall obligate itself further to aid additional groups of its citizens.

It is already apparent that the house's taxation program, which has been cooling for weeks in senate committees, is going to be sharply pared down on final passage. Nothing like a 6-cent oil tax will be acceptable to the senate majority, for example. There is also a strong disposition on the part of the senators to bring out the racetrack betting repeal measure—long buried on the calendar—and if so, it doubtless will pass. This will remove the greatest incentive which the governor has to call a special session immediately, particularly if some additional tax money is provided.

The constitutional amendment sponsored by the Texas Press association and piloted thru the senate by Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul, authorizing a vote by the people on a proposal to carry out a five year advertising program by the state to attract new industries and tourists to Texas, barely escaped an untimely death in the house, when a tie vote defeated its submission. A motion to reconsider is pending, and Gov. Allred lent his support by sending up a special message, urging its passage, Gov. Woodul has worked earnestly for its passage, took it successfully thru the senate, and has the support of virtually every newspaper in the state, for the measure. Members of the house appeared not to understand the proposal, some expressing the opinion during debate that the newspapers were for it because they hoped to receive the advertising money. Such an advertising program, of course, would be carried out in the north and east—where the tourist and industries markets are—and not within the state. So the newspapers' support is unselfish, and is chiefly based upon their own knowledge of the great good that would come to all of Texas thru an intelligent advertising campaign. It will require a two-thirds vote to submit the matter, however, and a good many house members must change their minds if the people are to be given a chance to vote on the plan.

Harris Overplays Hand

Harris-co interests which sought remission of state taxes for flood control had high hopes of passing their bill over the veto of the governor, after the senate overrode the veto, but the measure met sudden and emphatic death in the house. The Houston folks ran a special train from Austin to the Bayou City, taking the whole house, and gave the members a royal day of entertainment on San Jacinto day, when Jesse Jones dedicated the San Jacinto monument. But the house returned next day, and the bill failed to muster even a majority vote, when two-thirds was required. Many observers here expressed the opinion the Houston folks "spread it on too thick" in their effort to convince the house of the justice of their tax remission plea.

Notes

Advocates of highway safety in Texas are working hopefully to get the new drivers' license bill, which would tighten up restrictions upon those who can obtain licenses, out of the senate longjam and thru to final passage. With the death rate on the highways constantly increasing, they claim there is no more important legislation pending before this session. Judge T. A. McKinney, able house member from Huntsville, is being mentioned as a possible next speaker of the house with increasing frequency. McKinney is conservative, able, and is listened to by the house on his infrequent appearances before the "mike" with respect in all quarters. He is particularly apt at examining witnesses during an investigation or study, and he has a knack of getting at the essential facts of any controversial question without offending supporters of either side. The racetrack lobby is fighting desperately to stave off a vote on track betting repeal, but the natural resources lobby fears, if that issue is permitted to bring on a special session, anything may happen to them, and they are quietly urging their friends in the senate to vote on repeal, and thus remove the best excuse they claim Gov. Allred has for a special session.

Johnnie Clement ranked fifth in the high jump, clearing five feet eight inches. Johnnie tied for first at the District with six feet one inch, but apparently was not at his top at Abilene.

In typing, Alice Mund ranked ninth with 44.5 words per minute, while Genevieve Ramsey ranked thirteenth with 35.6 words per minute. Contestants from Mineral Wells, Abilene, and Sonora ranked first, second, and third respectively. The winning girl wrote 67.7 words per minute with only 8 errors. Nineteen students entered the typing contest.

Johnnie Ferne Isaacs ranked fifth in the shorthand contest with sixteen students entered. Her score was 182.2 out of a possible score of 185. The contest consisted of two five minute dictations at 80 and 90 words a minute, respectively. Brownwood won first, second, and third with Abilene taking fourth place. The winning girl had a score of 184.4. Johnnie Ferne, as fifth place winner, is eligible for the State Meet at Austin, to be held May 7 & 8.

The Regional meet marks the completion, for the most part, of Interscholastic League work for the current school year.

Land owners in that part of the county have shown their willingness to cooperate with the commissioners by donating the right of way for widening this lane. It is planned to make this road passable so that these people can get to town in almost any kind of weather.

It will take some six weeks to complete this project, it was stated, after which the commissioners expect to go back to the road project from Bailey Ranch to Station A. They left this road because the right of way was not secured, but they hope to have the right of way by the time the Reynolds project is completed.

WEST TEXAS RANCHMEN IMPROVE RANGES

County agricultural agents in West Texas report that ranchmen are showing much interest in the range conservation part of the Agricultural Conversation Program and that many ranchmen are already improving their ranges in line with the provisions of the program.

covering 366,435 acres have been entered in the program. The greatest part of range improvement work will consist of cedar eradication, but cactus eradication and deferred grazing are attractive to many ranchmen.

Approximately 100 men gathered in Irion county to watch a demonstration of cedar pulling with county equipment. In six hours, the tractor, equipped with three cables of varying lengths, cleared 6.6 acres at a cost of $1.51 an acre. The commissioners' court is making arrangements to rent the equipment to ranchers for cedar eradication work.

A series of meetings to explain the range conservation program has been held in Blanco county, where 300 ranches, involving 275,152 acres, have been entered in the program.

A system of spreader terraces and spreader dams on the W. F. White ranch near Balmorhea in Reeves county is expected to catch flood waters sufficient to irrigate a section of land. The section, which normally carried 40 to 50 head of cattle, is expected to carry 100 head because of the conservation of the water.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bailey of Abilene spent the week-end in Eldorado, visiting in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Roach.
