

MEDITATIONS

By The Editor

The Dallas News and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram are relating much concerning the prohibition elections recently current in the neighbor cities. When we read of the arguments one way then from another we thought something like the following:

The old-fashioned saloon had a bad name, but you know, if you give the devil his dues, the saloon today is no improvement. Just because they call 'em a Lounge now, takes out none of the old smell. The saloon today is dark—and long before you go under the table you have no idea as to who is across from you, be he or she black, bronze, or white. The old saloon was lit up—in keeping, I guess, with the customers, but a friendly kind of gesture at that.

In the old days when we were a kid, if some papa stood too long for a coupla schooners at Clancy's, the children could scamper down and peep under the swinging door to see if he was still erect. Now there in no swinging door, to look under. And to make it even tougher, it is just as apt to be mama as it is papa that the children must round up.

A woman with 2 sheets to the windward—in the swinging door era—was looked upon as a hard customer. You can say that much for the old saloon—it labelled and branded its customers—you did not have to guess or surmise.

Experience teaches us that the four stages of sickness are: Ill, pill, bill, will.

How times change. Time was when women had to lift their skirts to cross the street. Now they have to hold them down.

The biggest handicap to marriage nowadays is the fact that a man can't support the government and a wife on one income.

When doctors advocate that kissing shortens life, Meditations wonders if they do not mean "single life".

Tomorrow's dictionary will define walking as a primitive method of locomotion achieved by placing one foot in front of the other.

Some people's vocabulary may be small, but it has a big turnover.

In explaining the reason for so much juvenile delinquency, it could be that too many parents are not on spanking terms with their children.

Some women are shy about telling their age—in fact several years shy.

The time has arrived when the man who never thought anything of walking ten miles a day now has a son who never entertains the idea either.

Maybe there isn't much to be seen in a small town, but what you hear makes up for it.

Is it true that what you tell a woman goes in one ear and out over the back fence?

No, Junior, a slacker isn't a woman who wears slacks. Chances are she's a welder.

A good speech has a good beginning and a good ending, close together.

Breaking the long drought of more than two months, rain fell in various parts of the county Sunday and Monday of this week, varying in some parts from .25 of an inch to 1.20 inches in other parts. Some sections report no rain as yet, but promises of more are forecast in cloudy skies Tuesday as this article is being written. Although present moisture is slight, ranchers and farmers hopes are raised anew over benefit of the range as well as late feed crops will realize from the showers.

An official report from the Soil Conservation office after readings of rain gauges in different sections of the county were taken, showed the following results for Sunday night:

Lumber Freeze Is Explained To Public

According to Pat Patterson, local manager for Wm. Cameron & Company, the mistaken idea exists in the minds of nearly everyone that all lumber is "frozen." "This is not the case, although definite efforts are being made to equitably distribute the lumber on hand and to channel it into uses that will help most with the war effort. Because of the manpower shortage production of lumber has been reduced and because of the shortage of carpenters available to civilians, it is necessary that lumber be used principally in the production and preservation of food and for the most essential civilian activities," Patterson said.

In our territory those most favored are farmers and ranchers and producers of poultry and milk. They are permitted to buy all of the lumber necessary to maintain and repair all of their farm buildings except residences. They can build new barns, graineries, sheds and even tenant or farm labor houses up to $1,000.00 on each farm or ranch. It is possible to secure special permission to spend even more. From this it is evident that the farmer and rancher can buy about all the lumber that he needs.

In town the most essential businesses may secure all of the lumber necessary to maintain and repair their plants and machinery. This includes feed and grain dealers, gins, warehouses, printing plants, repairmen, filling stations and others.

Besides the above, each lumber dealer is allotted from 5000 to 8000 feet of "free" lumber per calendar quarter to sell for practically any purpose. This goes a long way toward filling the gaps that are not otherwise provided for.

Critical Shortage To Be Relieved By The Reclaiming of Scrap

In cooperation with the Government's drive for waste paper, the Eldorado Lions Club in conjunction with the local Salvage Committee are to sponsor a local drive for scrap paper.

According to W. M. Patterson, local Salvage Committee Chairman, arrangements have been made for removal of the paper to a shipping center, and a local deposit depot will be designated in the near future.

E. W. Brooks, president of the Eldorado Lions Club has been at work on the project for some weeks in order that Eldorado might be able to participate in the drive. At the regular luncheon meeting of the club this week, Amos Shiver was appointed as chairman of the club's committee to assist in the gathering and shipping of paper.

Citizens are urged to begin saving paper at once, tie it into bundles and at a near future date an announcement is to be made of disposal methods.

Tentative plans are for Boy and Girl Scouts to assist with the drive under the direction of their respective leaders.

An urgent need for paper is being made known by the Government. Assurance is made that this time the paper will be gathered up and sent to rendering plants where it will be reclaimed and made usable again.

"SAVE YOUR PAPER" is the admonition of those in charge of the drive—"IT IS CRITICALLY NEEDED!"

Restrictions In Britian

The Outpost, in American publication in Britian, in a recent issue lists some of the restrictions imposed upon British civilians as necessary war measures. People in Britian are subject to prosecution for wasting a piece of string, for throwing away a piece of paper as small as a bus ticket, for tossing a crust of bread into the garbage pail and for driving private cars along a route served by buses or trains.

The article invites a comparison with the comparatively minor restraints imposed upon Americans which are obeyed by the majority of people but are so "onerous" that a political party is making campaign "hay" with the promise that this "regimentation" will be lifted soon as the war ends. Moreover, these restrictions so necessary to the war effort have been assailed by critics as "bureaucratic regimentation" invading our liberties, to say the least, these objections have inspired prejudice against wartime controls and some evasion of them.

The listing of severe restrictions imposed on the British should lead us beyond the contrast with our less vigorous situation to consider the results obtained in Britian. Waste of essential war materials is kept at a minimum, and thus Britian's home front is contributing more to the war effort than is America's. Every man, woman and child in Britian is closely identified with winning the war by actual participation in conversation of war resources, and the British as a people have the greatest satisfaction that comes from duty well done.

The American people should not only look to the actual contribution they make in obeying wartime restrictions but also evaluate the waste of food, gas, paper, fats and other vital war products. Does this failure to support the war effort by minor self denial, far short of deprivation and sacrifice, engender happiness, contentment and self-respect?—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

all get the same

electric service!

WAR has moved many American families into new living quarters. But, whatever the size of their homes, they all get exactly the same dependable electric service.

Oh, sure, some folks may light more rooms and use more appliances than you do. But the service and the quality of the electricity you receive remain the same. You can't buy an "exclusive" grade.

Electricity is also the one service whose cost has remained low—while the cost of living in general has been going up. Whoa, you say? Your bill's been more over the years? Well, that's because you're now using electricity to keep food, wash clothes, clean rugs, tell time and make music—where once you used it only for light.

The truth is, the average American family today gets about twice as much electricity for its money as it did 15 years ago! And we, your friends and neighbors, are proud to be one of the many electric companies under business management, bringing you this bargain.

WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS

By JAMES PRESTON

With Congress back on the job in this still hot and humid capital, the big job still isn't ready for it. With every Nazi setback the need for reconversion legislation looms larger, and the legislators know that a sudden German collapse could catch America at least partly unprepared for tremendous economic adjustments and employment shifts. So while committees in both houses labor on preparedness measures, it may be weeks before they are ready to haul bills out on the floors...

Senator White of Maine, anxious to get the reconversion problem licked, says: "If I could write the prescription, I'd clean up reconversion and then let the fellows have a few weeks off before the election." Senator Kilgore of W. Virginia and Representative Celler of New York in a joint statement declare: "The Congress must enact comprehensive reconversion legislation now—or gamble with economic disorganization..."

Here's the problem: When the war ends, jobs will disappear for some 20,000,000; plus 10,000,000 of returning service men. The government will hold $15 billion worth of war plants and equipment, and $60 billion of supplies. Factories will be choked with half-finished products.

Surplus war goods amounting to more than $40,000,000 have already been sold by the government under the plan to channel these holdings into civilian economy. Estimating that the surpluses to be sold will total $15 billion, the OWI says there will be no repetition of the chaos of 1918 "when the entire war machine became surplus overnight..."

But policy is yet to be made, and to be made by Congress. There are three or four committees and subcommittees in both Senate and House, intensely interested in demobilization legislation. Extensive hearings have been held. Now the time has come to blend the ideas of various authors into legislation which can command widespread support.

NEW PLASTIC FOAM "GROWS BY ITSELF"

Technicians have produced a new type of plastic foam which is lighter than rock wool, glass or cork, and lower than any of the three.

"It just grows all by itself," says the director of the laboratory which makes it, "and it will foam into 30 times its own size—that is, a quart can of the mixture will expand sufficiently to fill a 7- to 8-gallon receptacle in about 10 minutes."

The present uses of the foam are secret. But after the war it promises to have many peacetime applications, especially where insulation is required.

Our custom of raising the American flag over school houses was first identified in May, 1812, at a log school house in Colrain, Mass.

20,000TH FLIGHT OF CARGO INTO CHINA

Carrier planes built by American manufacturers are now carrying more supplies into China than ever moved over the Burma road.

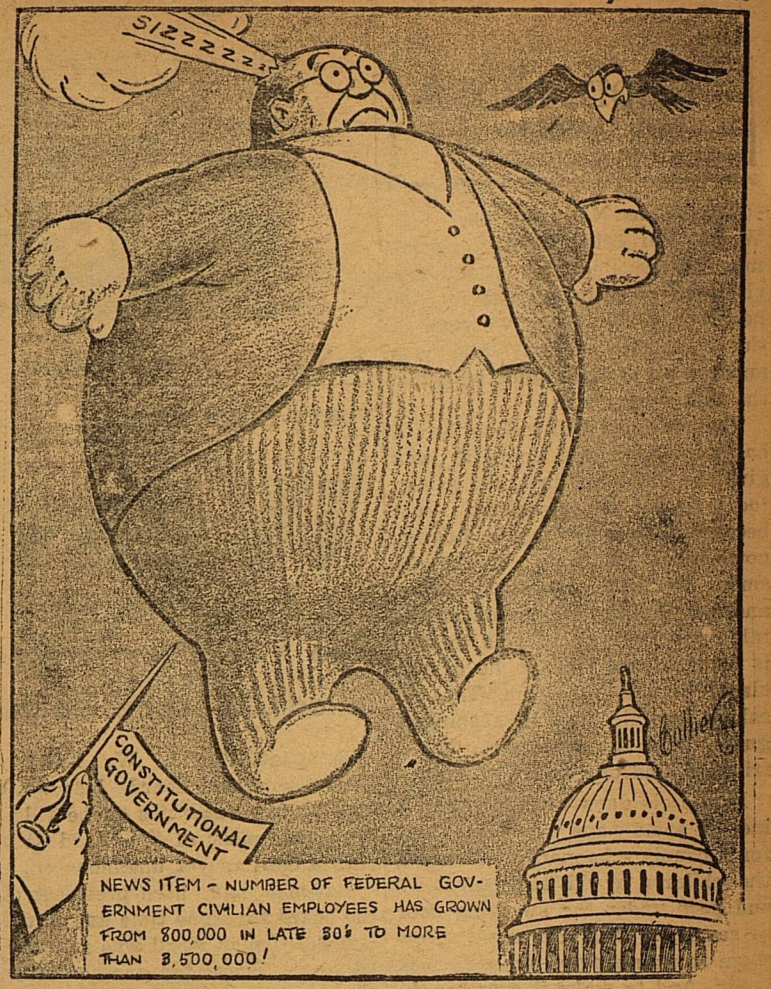

The planes, operated by Pan American Airways in partnership with the Chinese government, recently completed the 20,000th flight over the Himalayas with urgently needed war materials. Each plane is now doing the work formerly accomplished by 90 trucks following the land route.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION

proposing an Amendment to Section 9 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, by changing said Section 9 so as to provide that the Commissioners Court in any county may re-allocate the county tax levies authorized in said section by changing the rates provided for any of the purposes, authorized in said section by either increasing or decreasing the same, but in no event shall the total of such taxes exceed eighty (80) cents on the one hundred dollars valuation for any one year; providing that before such Commissioners Court may make such re-allocations and changes in such levies that the same shall be submitted to the qualified property tax paying voters of such county at general or special election and shall be approved by a majority of the qualified property tax paying voters, voting in such election; providing that if and when such re-allocations and changes in such county tax levies have been approved by the qualified property tax paying voters of any county as herein provided, such re-allocations and changes shall remain in force and effect for a period of six (6) years from the date of the election at which same shall be approved, unless the same again shall have been changed by a majority vote of the qualified property tax paying voters of such county, voting on the proposition, after submission by the Commissioners Court at a general or special election for that purpose; providing that this section shall not be construed as a limitation on powers delegated to counties, cities or towns by any other section or sections of this Constitution; fixing the time for the election for the adoption or rejection of said proposed Constitutional Amendment; making certain provisions for said election and ballots thereof and the method thereof; directing the issuance of proclamation therefor; prescribing certain duties of the Governor of the State of Texas; and making an appropriation to defray the expenses of said election.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Section 9 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be so amended that the same will hereafter read as follows:

Those opposing said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the following words:

"Against the Amendment to Section 9 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, so as to provide that the Commissioners Court in any county may re-allocate the county tax levies authorized in said section by changing the rates provided for any of the foregoing purposes by either increasing or decreasing the same, but in no event shall the total of said foregoing county taxes exceed eighty (80) cents on the one hundred dollars valuation, in any one year; provided further, that before the said Commissioners Court may make such re-allocations and changes in said county taxes that the same shall be submitted to the qualified property tax paying voters of such county at a general or special election, and shall be approved by a majority of the qualified property tax paying voters, voting in such election; and provided further, that if and when such re-allocations and changes in the aforesaid county taxes have been approved by the qualified property tax paying voters of any county, as herein provided, such re-allocations and changes shall remain in force and effect for a period of six (6) years from the date of the election at which the same shall be approved, unless the same again shall have been changed by a majority vote of the qualified property tax paying voters of such county, voting on the proposition, after submission by the Commissioners Court at a general or special election for that purpose; and the Legislature may also authorize an additional annual ad valorem tax to be levied and collected for the further maintenance of the public roads; provided, that a majority of the qualified property tax paying voters of the county voting at an election to be held for that purpose shall vote such tax, not to exceed fifteen (15) cents on the one hundred dollars valuation of the property subject to taxation in such county. And the Legislature may pass local laws for the maintenance of the public roads and highways, without the local notice required for special or local laws. PROCLAMATION

To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come:

Since the passage of the Soil Conservation Districts Law by the Legislature of the State of Texas, more than one hundred soil conservation districts have been established by farmers and ranchmen in Texas. This involves 300,000 farms and ranches, totaling more than 96,000,000 acres of land, wherein programs are being conducted in accordance with the declared policy of the Legislature to provide for the conservation of soil and soil resources of this State and for the control and prevention of soil erosion. An active soil conservation program preserves natural resources, helps control floods, prevents impairment of dams and reservoirs, assists in maintaining the navigability of rivers and harbors, and preserves wildlife. It also protects the tax base, safeguards and promotes the health, safety, and general welfare of the people of Texas.

The people of Texas by participating in the soil conservation program are carrying out the mandate contained in Article XVI, Section 59a, of the Constitution of Texas. Soil Conservation is the foundation for a more rewarding agriculture, a sound economy, and a guarantee of adequate soil resources to provide for the present and future needs of our people.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Coké Stevenson, Governor of the State of Texas, do hereby designate Friday, August 18, 1944, as a day for emphasis and observance. This observance is in recognition of the importance of the soil and water conservation program and furnishes an opportunity to the citizens of Texas to lend encouragement and assistance to ranchmen and farmers in carrying out such programs and plans as are developed throughout the State.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of State to be affixed hereto at Austin, this the thirteenth day of July, A. D., 1944.

of the State of Texas

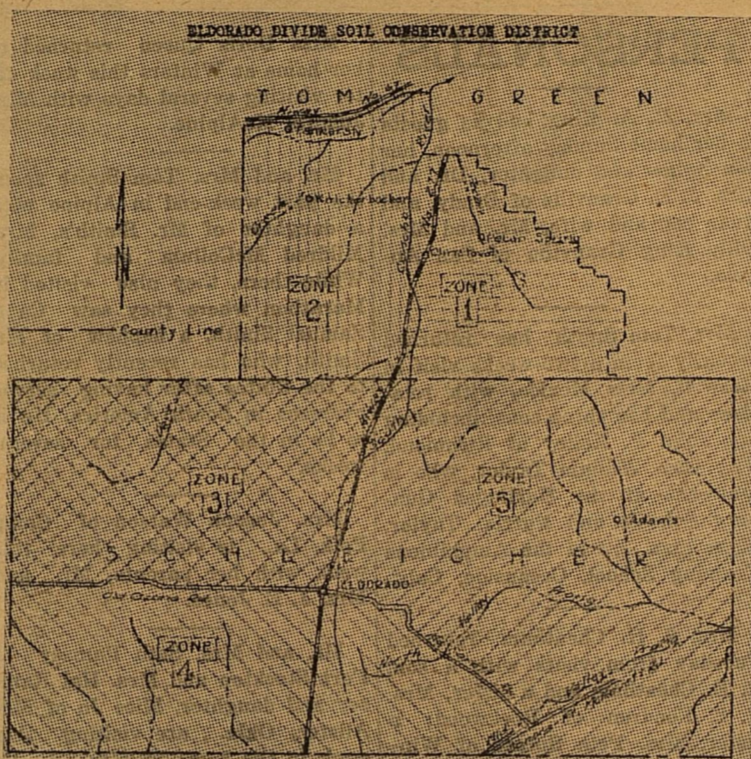

(Signed) COKE R. STEVENSON

Friday, August 18 Proclaimed Soil Conservation Day By Gov. Stevenson

SEE PROCLAMATION

The Eldorado Divide Soil Conservation District (map shown above) was created under the District Law in May 1941 by an affirmative vote of 87 percent of the landowners who voted.

The five elected landowner supervisors, who run the business of the district, are as follows: C. L. Atkins, Zone 1; E. E. Foster, Jr., Zone 2; B. E. Moore, Zone 3; J. E. Spencer, Zone 4; and J. Forrest Runge, Zone 5.

The supervisors are in a position to ask for and receive technical help, grants, machinery, seed, labor, etc., in accordance with the State Law from any State or Federal Agency for use in applying proper conservation measures on land within the district. The Eldorado Divide District is receiving technical aid from the U.S.D.A., Soil Conservation Service, to assist farmers and ranchers to plan and install adequate conservation measures.

Complete conservation plans, based on the desires of the landowner coordinated with the needs of the land, are worked out by Soil Conservation Service representatives with interested owners and operators. If the plan is agreeable in every respect to the farmer or rancher, he enters into a co-operative agreement with his district supervisors, and expresses interest and willingness to attempt to put the recommended practices on the land. The agreement is on a completely voluntary basis.

The technical assistance in working out and installing complete Soil Conservation plans is available to all land owners and operators in Schleicher county, without cost, who desire the assistance by contacting the local Soil Conservation Service Office or the Supervisor of the Zone in which the farm or ranch is located.

Since the Eldorado Divide District was put into operation 123 farm and ranch plans, covering 210,888 acres, have been worked up and most of these plans are being carried out as planned.

The earth is about three million miles nearer the sun in the winter than it is in summer.

Many Families Taking Advantage Of Community Canning Center

During the months of June and July approximately 1800 containers were filled in the canning center which opened June 12 and has been in use from one-half to three days each week since.

Principal products canned are comprised of string beans, squash, corn, peas and pumpkin. One-fifth of this food canned has been left in the center to be used by the local school cafeteria.

The canning project, under the sponsorship of the Lions Club and the commissioners' court, the center has accommodated 15 families who have used it from one to four times.

The project is still being conducted by appointment with Miss Ruth Baker. Those who have produce that needs canning should call her for appointment, stated an official this week.

Your BABY
By Lillian B. Storms

When baby is served his first semi-solid foods — that's an event. With some babies, cereal is the first of these. Whole grain cereals, such as prepared strained oatmeal or cereal food, contain minerals and vitamins, while highly refined cereals have little of either minerals or vitamins. While nutritive substances in whole grains are of value, they contain coarse fiber, which is not suitable for the sensitive digestive tract of a baby, so the problem of preparing cereals for baby is one of using whole grain cereals but putting them in a suitable form.

You can obtain these cereals specially prepared for young infants. They are fine in texture, taste good, and babies like them and thrive on them. For instance, ready-to-serve cereal food — a thoroughly cooked mixture of finely ground whole wheat, farina and corn meal to which wheat germ, malt, dried yeast and calcium, phosphorus and iron salts have been added.

Another is prepared strained oatmeal — wheat-free, a mixture of finely ground oatmeal, dried yeast, plus calcium, phosphorus and iron salts. It is thoroughly cooked, strained, dried and all ready to serve by adding milk or baby's formula.

You may also want to try a two-cereal plan. By alternating oatmeal and cereal food at each feeding, baby will eat better because he likes variety too! Many Doctors think the two-cereal idea so good that they're recommending it to Mothers.
